

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, October 26, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 45

Additional wells to provide tests of campus water

By Paul Noel
Staff Reporter

The K-State Department of Public Safety has been drilling six new wells this week to test water samples at the University's landfill north of campus.

The new wells, which will add to the five existing wells, will allow the department to monitor the water in different locations at the site and determine how far contaminants have traveled, said John Lambert, director of public safety.

The 20-foot wells have been positioned in line of groundwater flow from the inactive waste site.

"Being able to calculate groundwater flow and direction is important so we can tell when and where things are going to happen in the future," said Eric Nold, graduate student in geology.

It will cost about $50,000 to install the new wells, said Steve Galitzer, University industrial hygienist and site safety officer. Each water sample will cost $1,100 to analyze.

The wells are being drilled by Shramrock Environmental Drilling who specialize in groundwater monitoring wells. Each well is being constructed according to strict Environmental Protection Agency guidelines, Galitzer said.

Old chemicals were dumped at the landfill in the 1960s and 1970s, he said. The landfill was closed and capped with eight inches of packed gravel in 1978.

"Laws concerning chemical dumping were a lot different then," Galitzer said. "We know much more about the problem the contaminants cause the environment and people have become more conscious to that."

Wells are tested three times a year, Lambert said. They were last tested in July.

Lambert said the concentrations for contaminants found at the site are quite low. The University tests the water samples for more than 100 different chemicals. Benzene was the only contaminant found in parts per million during last July's analysis.

"We are dealing with very low levels of contaminants, but they are still something that deserves our attention."

—Steve Galitzer

University industrial hygienist and site safety officer

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment requires all universities to test groundwater around their landfills, Galitzer said.

"The highest levels of contaminants are still very low," said Jack Oviatt, associate professor of geology. "Benzene tested at three parts per million — all other contaminants are at 10-20 parts per billion."

Galitzer said any problem with chemicals in the water must be defined in order to properly and efficiently clean them up.

"We are dealing with very low levels of contaminants, but they are still something that deserves our attention," Galitzer said.

Water samples will be sent to Wilson Labs in Salina.

AC/DC tickets to go on sale

By Jerry Sapp
Collegian Reporter

Tickets for AC/DC and opening band Love-Hate, will go on sale 10 a.m. Saturday at Bramlage Coliseum and Bramlage ticket outlets.

Bramlage Coliseum's ticket office is now handing out line numbers to buy the tickets, said Jim Muller, assistant director of Bramlage Coliseum.

"We are giving out line numbers so people don't have to wait in line or camp out overnight," Muller said. "We had a few people who stayed here overnight. But the main thing we wanted to avoid was having a large number of people camping out three days before tickets go on sale."

The Bramlage ticket office began issuing line numbers 10 a.m. Thursday along with a line number procedure sheet. The line number indicates the customer's spot in line when the concert tickets go on sale.

Muller said the line numbers will be issued until 5 p.m. today. He said that after 5 p.m., places in line will be determined on a first-come first-serve basis.

Those with line numbers should be in line no later than 9 a.m. Saturday. A line number check will be taken by Bramlage personnel, and customers without line numbers will be placed behind those with line numbers.

"If a customer with a line number shows up late and misses their spot, then they will have to wait at the end of the line," Muller said.

Customers with line numbers can purchase a maximum of 10 tickets per person. Tickets are priced at $18.50, telephone orders have an additional service charge of 50 cents per ticket.

Tickets for AC/DC can also be bought at the K-State Union Bookstore, McCain Auditorium and the Manhattan Town Center Information Booth, Muller said. Tickets at these outlets will be sold at a first-come, first-serve basis, and no line number is required.

"On Saturday, we want to encourage people to come to Bramlage because the Union Bookstore is having inventory," said Becky Montoya, ticket systems manager. "They don't open until 1 p.m. anyway."

Detective Richard Herrman of the K-State Police said there were no incidents involving campers for AC/DC line numbers reported Wednesday night.

Gary Lyffe/Staff

Highlights

Ulrike Dauer, non-degree graduate student in journalism and mass communications, studies in front of the Union Thursday afternoon.

Senate introduces fund-allocation bill

STUDENT SENATE

By The Collegian Staff

The first reading of bill that would raise college councils' line item fee and lower their student activity fee allocation was heard by Student Senate Thursday.

Finance committee introduced the bill that would allow $18,000 of funding to go directly to college councils rather than require Senate to allocate the funds.

The bill calls for an increase in the line item for college councils of 50 cents for full-time students and 14 cents for part-time students, per semester. In turn, the student activity fee would decrease by the same amount. Senate will vote on the bill next week.

Items passed Thursday included a bill approving the final allocations of the student activity fee.

Legal services received an additional $123 for equipment, memberships, dues and subscriptions.

About $9,500 was returned to the contingencies account. Some of the money came from groups that didn't use all the funds they received from initial allocations last spring.

Wealthy face tax increase

Congress proposes raised cigarette, gasoline, beer tax

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Consumers would pay more for gasoline, cigarettes and beer under the deficit-reduction plan nearing completion in Congress. But the wealthiest Americans would face income-tax increases averaging 6.3 percent as well.

As many as 4 million slightly less well-to-do couples and individuals — including most members of Congress — could get a tax cut because the top rate on their earnings, now 33 percent, would drop to 31 percent.

They also would get the bill's only tax break for capital gains. It is nothing like President Bush's proposed deep cut in taxes on capital gains, which are profits from investments. But it would prevent anyone from paying a capital-gains rate higher than 28 percent.

The 600,000 richest taxpayers would see their top tax rate rise from 28 percent to 31 percent. Even those with incomes just slightly above the $100,000 mark could lose a portion of their itemized deductions and part of the tax saving arising from their personal exemptions.

The bill would raise taxes by about $150 billion over the next five years. But for most people below $50,000 in income, the only increase would be in consumer taxes.

Those with incomes under $20,000 would, on average, get a tax cut because of a higher earned-income credit, which helps poor working families with children.

Most with incomes between $20,000 and $200,000 would face tax increases in the neighborhood of 2 percent although the bite on those between $50,000 and $75,000 would be slightly less — 1.5 percent.

The most striking difference between this bill and those of the last decade is the disproportionately larger burden the new plan would impose on those with higher incomes. The Joint Committee on Taxation estimated the share of federal taxes paid by people with incomes over $200,000 would rise from 15.4 percent to 16.1 percent.

The bill would raise the 9-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax and the 15-cent diesel tax by 5 cents each.

The tax on cigarettes, now 16 cents a pack, would rise to 20 cents on Jan. 1 and to 24 cents two years later. Taxes on snuff, cigars and other tobacco would go up by 25 percent in each of those years.

The levy on a six-pack of beer, now 16 cents, would double. Negotiators are deciding whether to raise the tax on liquor, now $12.50 for a gallon of 100-proof, to $13.70 or $14. Taxes on wines, which vary according to alcohol content, also will go up; the 3-cent levy on a fifth of table wine would rise to 21

BRIEFLY

World

Kazakh declares sovereignty

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kazakh republic declared sovereignty from the Soviet government on Thursday, and factional fighting threatened to break out in Moldavia, accelerating the country's political fragmentation.

As its first act of defiance, the Kazakh legislature banned nuclear explosions anywhere in the republic, including Semipalatinsk, one of the Soviet Union's main sites for testing warheads.

Kazakhstan, a poor, grain-growing republic that stretches from the Caspian Sea to the Chinese border, is the 14th of the 15 Soviet republics to declare sovereignty from Moscow. Now, only the neighboring Central Asian republic of Kirgizia has yet to take the step.

The breaking away of the republics has plunged the Soviet government into a constitutional crisis. The national legislature passed legislation Wednesday saying its laws take precedence over decisions by parliaments in each republic. But the republics showed no intention of complying.

Iraq may be held responsible

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering said Thursday the Security Council is progressing toward passage of a resolution holding Iraq liable for all war damages caused by its invasion of Kuwait.

The resolution also threatens Iraq with new punishment if it doesn't stop murdering, mistreating and oppressing Kuwaitis and release its foreign hostages.

The U.S.-British draft is being merged with another resolution from the nonaligned nations stressing all efforts should be exerted to find a diplomatic solution to the crisis.

"It's my hope that we will be able to get to a vote tomorrow. That certainly is the direction in which everybody is headed at this time," Pickering said after a private council working session Thursday evening.

Nation

Candidate remains in race

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Jon Gruneth, the gubernatorial challenger in trouble over reports he swam nude with teen-age girls in 1981, announced late Thursday he will stay in the race after planning earlier to withdraw.

"I came here tonight to withdraw from this race," Gruneth told about 100 supporters.

"But there has been just an incredible outpouring of love ... and prayer for this family that has overwhelmed both Vicki (his wife) and me. We are going to press forward no matter (what)," he said.

Barry shows little remorse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors, saying that Marion Barry is sorry only that he got caught, urged Thursday that the city's mayor be given the maximum sentence of one year in prison and be fined $100,000 for his misdemeanor cocaine conviction.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson is scheduled to sentence Barry on Friday.

In a memo, U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens said Barry has shown a flagrant disregard for the law and seriously impugned the integrity of his office.

"In short, the defendant is not genuinely remorseful about his criminality," according to the document. "He is sorry only that he got caught."

Vietnam veteran convicted

WOODSTOCK, Vt. (AP) — A Vietnam veteran who said he was a victim of war stress was convicted Thursday for a second time of the 1981 rape-kidnap of a woman who disclosed her identity in frustration over years of delay.

"God, yea!" said victim Sue Kremelberg, her fists raised in the air, after the verdicts were read.

Robert Percy was accused of raping Kremelberg in 1981 while out on bail after raping an Essex attorney, Susan Sweetser, just weeks earlier.

In both cases Percy was convicted of rape. In his appeals of both cases, the Vermont Supreme Court overturned the convictions on procedural errors and sent them back for retrial.

The Sweetser rape led to a second conviction in 1988, and last month the high court upheld the verdict.

Region

1st Infantry may be called

FORT RILEY (AP) — About 750 military reservists and 450 other soldiers at Fort Riley are preparing for possible deployment in the Middle East, a spokesman at the base said Thursday.

Rumors have been circulating that soldiers from the 1st Infantry Division at Fort Riley would replace the 82nd Airborne Division now in the Gulf.

Fort Riley spokesman Mark Meseke said as far as he knows, the 11,500 soldiers in the 1st Infantry have not been called.

"I heard the rumors, but they have not been on alert," Meseke said.

Military personnel now on standby probably would be deployed within a month, Meseke said. They include transportation and medical personnel, military police and engineers, he said.

The 450 Fort Riley soldiers on stand-by are not in the 1st Infantry Division.

So far about 375 Fort Riley soldiers and 35 reservists from the base have been deployed.

Squirrel monkeys stolen

WICHITA (AP) — The thieves who took two tiny squirrel monkeys from the Sedgewick County Zoo might be regretting that decision by now.

"Basically they just have a lot of nasty habits," said Mark Reed, assistant zoo director. "For a monkey, they really smell."

The tiny monkeys, Mowgli and Spock, like to bite. And the thieves will not have any luck housebreaking them either, Reed said.

"They do not make very good pets," he said. "We have high hopes that we'll find out who's got them."

The thieves cut through a perimeter fence Monday night.

They got to the monkey island either by jumping over the 5-foot wide moat or wading through the 1-foot deep water, Reed said.

Police investigate explosion

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — An explosion believed caused by a bomb occurred Thursday morning at the Legs adult entertainment night club, authorities said.

Police bomb squad investigators searched rubble inside the club, and their preliminary assessment was that the damage was caused by some kind of explosive device, police spokesman Bill Edwards said.

No one was injured.

Edwards described damage inside the one-story building as pretty heavy. The only visible damage to the building on the outside was the shattered front glass door.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

26 Friday

■ Campus Faith Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 202.

■ Christian Campus Ministry will present a film series at 8 p.m. in Union 208.

■ Brother Peace/Men and Women Against Rape will present "Sexual Harassment" by Skip Saal at 4 p.m. in Union 206.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Anne Stewart-Butler at 2 p.m. in Bluemont 257. The dissertation topic is "A Content Analysis of Education and Social Science Research Related to Young African American Females K-12."

■ Pi Sigma Epsilon will have an informational meeting and counsel at 5 p.m. in the Union Flint Hills Room.

■ InterVarsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 9:30 p.m. in Union 212.

■ SGA Candidates must turn in expenditure reports by 5 p.m. in the SGS office.

■ Astronomy Club will meet at 8 p.m. in Cardwell 407 for the Tuttle Creek excursion.

27 Saturday

■ Pi Sigma Epsilon will have an officers' meeting at 8 p.m. in the Union Flint Hills Room.

■ Horsemen's Association jackpot roping contest will be at Prairie Downs or Weber Arena at 9 a.m.

28 Sunday

■ Student Dietetic Association will have a Halloween party at 7 p.m. in the Justin Hall Lobby.

■ Collegiate 4-H will meet at the Weber Hall east parking lot at 8:30 p.m. to go to the Sunset Zoo Haunted House.

■ Jonathon Morris Campaign Meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room. All are welcome to voice campus concerns.

■ University Parish of United Methodists will meet at 12:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church Education Building.

■ Bisexual and Gay and Lesbian Organization will have a softball game at 3 p.m. For more information, call 539-6137.

■ New Currents will meet to discuss the jazz festival at 1 p.m. in Union 203.

29 Monday

■ Rural and Small Schools Conference will be all day in the Union. Students and faculty may attend sessions at no charge.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, mostly sunny and warmer. High in the mid-70s. South to southwest winds 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, fair. Low 40 to 45. Saturday, mostly sunny and mild. High around 70.

NEEDED

VOLUNTEER PEER AIDS EDUCATORS

STUDENTS INTERESTED IN JOINING TEAM OF VOLUNTEERS

IN EFFORTS TO TEACH OTHER STUDENTS

ABOUT AIDS.

REQUIREMENTS

SELF MOTIVATING, CREATIVE, ABLE TO TALK TO GROUPS.

INTERESTED STUDENTS MUST ATTEND

TRAINING SESSION

OCTOBER 30

3:30

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

ROOM 3

CALL 532-6595

FOR MORE INFORMATION

LEVI'S

505

Regular Fit
Straight Leg
100% Cotton

$18.99

ICAT/KQLA WILDCAT SENDOFF

12:30-1:30 p.m.
at the Football Complex

KSU Band, Cheerleaders, Door Prizes
Smokey J's lunch stand

Proceeds go to Mike Ahearn's Scholarship Fund.

BAYSTREET AND THE PIT

TONIGHT!!
LADIES FREE!!

$2.50 LONG ISLAND TEAS
SATURDAY

NO COVER WITH STUDENT ID!!

$.25 KAMIS

NO COVER BEFORE 9

Allow your voice to be heard!

JOHN BUCHANAN

VOTE The Students'
OCTOBER 30, 31 Choice for President

Paid for by Students to elect Buchanan president.

Q
u
e s t i o n
s
?

Open
Information Session
Rec
Complex Expansion

Mon., Oct. 29, 1990
4:00 p.m.
Union-Little Theatre

Q
u
e s t
i
o n
s
?

DELTS WANT YOU!

The KSU Blood Drive ends TODAY!

All students, faculty and staff are reminded to donate blood or volunteer time from 9 a.m.-
3 p.m. in the K, S & U rooms on the 2nd floor of the Union.

YOUR HELP SAVES LIVES!

Co-Sponsored by Delta Tau Delta

Ticketers take insults in stride

By Stacey Harblson
Collegian Reporter

Insults are just part of the job for students who work as ticketers for the K-State Police.

Martin Pfannenstiel, senior in criminal justice, said he has been insulted frequently, but that it doesn't bother him.

"It's a good experience because my major is criminal justice," Pfannenstiel said.

He said he expects some derogatory statements, but he tries to keep his temper and not get upset.

Student ticketer Greg Schreiner, junior in agriculture business, said one man threatened to beat him up because he thought he had put a wheel lock on his truck and damaged it.

Schreiner said most of the insults he gets are name-calling incidents uttered under people's breath, so he just ignores them.

"I've never had anyone even call me a bad name," said Rich Vernon, senior in criminal justice and a former ticketer.

Vernon said working as a ticketer was a good learning experience.

"It's going to be part of my daily routine when I become a police officer," Vernon said.

Sgt. Andy Amaro said the department has had only one or two people resign because of insults, and there haven't been any complaints about insults this year from ticketers.

"I like being outside a lot and it gives me exercise while I'm doing (the job)," Schreiner said.

About 15 students enforce parking regulations for the campus police.

Amaro said the students mainly ticket cars, but they are also in charge of the parking meters, directing traffic and handling barricades. The ticketers collect the money from the meters and make sure they are all in working order.

They must also be ready for emergencies and special duties. On Tuesday there was a gas leak east of Durland Hall, and the ticketers made sure no one came into the secured area, Pfannenstiel said.

Each ticketer carries a two-way radio as they patrol all the campuses parking lots. They often call the other ticketers to find out what lots they are patrolling, and they call the dispatcher to find out if they're needed anywhere else.

The average shift length is two hours, but the police department is flexible and will work around the student's classes. Four or five students usually work at one time.

Mike Welchans/Staff

Greg Schreiner, junior in agriculture business, and a K-State Police student employee secures a parking ticket on the windshield of a car illegally parked in the faculty lot south of the K-State Union Thursday. On an average day, Schreiner will write 20 tickets in his two-hour shift.

Milk producers to discuss marketing protein content

By Danette King
Collegian Reporter

When people read labels on milk cartons, they are most likely concerned with the fat, calcium and vitamin content.

But the 1990s may change their concerns, because milk producers are concentrating on protein.

The implications of marketing milk in the 1990s will be discussed at the 1990 Dairy Days, today at Pottorf Hall on the Riley County Fair Grounds at Cico Park.

More than 250 dairymen from across the state are expected to be in attendance to listen to featured speaker Bill Dobson, from the University of Wisconsin, and others discuss topics including how the switch to marketing milk by protein will be handled.

The program is fifth in a series on managing high producing herds that is offered annually by K-State.

"We are bringing in experts who understand such technicalities of making such a change," said Ed Call, professor of animal sciences and industry.

Kansas dairymen, who are at the lowest number since records have been kept, will listen to Dobson speak on milk marketing in the 1990s during the morning session, which begins at 10 a.m. He'll turn his focus to the implications of the 1990 farm bill in the afternoon.

In addition to Dobson, Jim Morrill, University animal nutritionist, will give an update on current heifer research, and a panel discussion will include Kansas milk marketing cooperatives.

Dick Dunham, K-State extension dairyman, said Kansas has two milk cooperatives: Mid-American Dairy Inc. and Associated Milk Producers Inc.

"Basically, they buy milk from dairymen and sell the milk for the dairymen to the processors," he said.

The Quality Milk award will be given to 186 dairymen Friday afternoon, Dunham said.

The awards, sponsored by the Kansas Mastitis Council and West Agro Inc., are based on entries submitted by dairy producers for somatic cell and bacteria counts in the milk they have produced.

■ See MILK, Page 10

Negotiations continue in reorganization plan

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

Rumors are being taken to heart by faculty and students as proposals for reorganization are opened to debate within each college.

Provost James Coffman has discussed several possibilities for reorganization with the college deans, but they are still in the middle of negotiations, said Lane Marshall, dean of the College of Architecture and Design.

"We're probably the same place Congress was a few months ago when President Bush put together a committee to come up with a budget," Marshall said. "We're deep in the middle of negotiations."

Coffman has recently given the college deans permission to discuss specific reorganization proposals with their faculty members, Marshall said. Everything is above board now.

The possibility of combining the College of Architecture and Design with the College of Engineering has caused concern among several faculty members and students.

"It was certainly discussed, but I don't think it will happen," Marshall said. "It is a very remote possibility."

Combining the two colleges is a possibility, but the probability is unlikely, said Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering.

Coffman has opened the door for discussion, and he is beginning to focus on possibilities for the first draft, said Rathbone. The provost wants as much input as possible.

"I've heard 100 rumors, but I don't think most of them will happen," Rathbone said. "I don't know if it's very productive to speculate. I know it's a favorite pastime of faculty, students and administrators, but I don't know how productive it is."

■ See PLAN, Page 12

RICHARD GERE
JULIA ROBERTS

$19.95

GUARANTEED IN STOCK

or you can rent it
FREE
...or purchase for $13.49*

John's ICE CREAM
& VIDEO

*Sugg. Retail $19.99
Details At Store
1123 Westloop Pl.
Manhattan
537-0089

1009 W. 6th St.
Junction City
762-4270

AIM HIGH

Allied Health Professionals & Administrators

Discover a challenging future with opportunities to advance. Serve your country while you serve your career with:

- great pay and benefits
- normal working hours
- complete medical and dental care
- 30 days vacation with pay per year

Find out how to qualify as an Air Force professional. Call

USAF HEALTH PROFESSIONS
COLLECT 913-491-8640

AIR FORCE

JONATHAN MORRIS

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by Students for Morris

IT'S NOT TOO LATE

to get your portrait taken for the Royal Purple.

OCT. 26 IS THE FINAL DAY

If you live off campus or missed the scheduled time for your sorority, fraternity or residence hall, you may still get your picture taken from now until Friday, Oct. 26. Don't wait until it's too late. Make an appointment today!

Call 532-7808

Studio Hours: 8:30 a.m.-noon & 1-5:30 p.m.
Location: K-State Union 209
Sitting Fee: $4
(Receipt must be shown if this was paid at registration.)

1991 ROYAL PURPLE

Pi Sigma Epsilon

National Professional Fraternity in Marketing, Sales Management and Selling announces the

Central Regional Convention

October 26 & 27

Gamma Omega Chapter welcomes

Alpha Beta-Southern Illinois
Gamma Theta-Wichita State
Beta Sigma-Univ. of Missouri
-St. Louis

Sign in at Flint Hills Room 5-6 p.m.

CHARLES MILLER

GENUINE DRAFT

PRESENTS
THE

ROCK N' ROLL N' RHYTHM N' BLUES

FRIDAY & SATURDAY
$ DOLLAR PITCHER $
SATURDAY!

FirstBank Center 776-4111

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Difference between Farrell, Rec Complex

How can we justify building an addition to the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex when Farrell Library needs an addition? How can we light the playing fields for evening use when there are dark areas on campus? Aren't we here to learn? Isn't there anyone in student government concerned about the library?

I know there are some who believe we shouldn't spend money on Recreational Services until we have a library addition. Because I've helped lead the charge for library improvements and I was chairman of the Rec Services Task Force that recommended the referendum, I'll explain the difference between these two.

The theme for the Rec Services referendum is "Continuing the Commitment"—and this theme contains the essence of our K-State tradition. In 1944, students assessed themselves $5 per full-time student to eventually have a student union. It was 15 years before a union was built. With inflation, the $5 in 1944 is equivalent to $28.20 in today's money. This fee expanded to $22.25 over the years, and we've done much more than build the K-State Union. We've helped build the KSU Stadium, built the Rec Complex and put an addition on the Union. We can now "Continue the Commitment," expanding and air conditioning the Rec Complex and improving the recreational areas outside, by simply extending this bond. There would be a $3 per full-time and $1.50 per part-time student increase in the operating budget, much of which is already necessary due to the minimum wage increase.

We all know the library is a big problem for students on this campus. We are upset about the library because it's the central academic unit of any university, and ours is rated last compared to our peers and other Big

Todd Johnson

GUEST COLUMNIST

Eight schools. We should also be outraged, though, that the University of Kansas (which has the top library in the Big 8) and Wichita State University have received huge alumni donations and recently opened large additions to their libraries. Other regents' schools have had these big improvements without student fee contributions.

K-State students rallied for a library addition back in the late 1960s, and an addition was built by 1971. This past year, students have helped place our library back on the fast track for improvements. Knowing the proposals that have been made to certain donors and our University administration's commitment, I am very confident we'll have at least one multi-million dollar library contribution. K-State's administration also recently placed the library addition on the five-year capital improvement plan that is filed with the Board of Regents and, if things go well, we might have an addition much sooner than that.

I can't stress enough how the outlook for the library has improved this past year. This turnaround has been made possible by students bringing awareness to this crisis, not by throwing money at it. When more than 6,500 students signed the library petition this spring, we made it clear that students shouldn't fund this project. I've said that if the state can't afford to fund K-State's academic foundation, then it might as well throw in the towel.

I certainly understand why students might want to start a fee for Farrell Library and other campus academic concerns. Realize, though, that you already pay for about 31 percent of the library's expenses. You pay this through tuition. We'd never expect the state to pay for the Rec Services expansion, and the state shouldn't expect you to pay anymore for the library than you already do. A few years ago, KU students voted to assess themselves $10 a semester to fund their library, and the Board of Regents rejected their proposal. There are some things that students just shouldn't have to fund.

Let's "Continue the Commitment" to Rec Services, and let's continue to push for library improvements. We really can do both.

EDITORIALS

Veto discourages future of minorities, equality

President Bush vetoed a major civil rights bill Monday, and the Senate failed Wednesday to override his veto with a 66-34 vote, one short of the two-thirds needed to overturn the decision.

The bill would have overturned six job discrimination decisions handed down by the Supreme Court in 1989. It would have banned racial discrimination in the workplace and defined punitive damages in extreme discrimination cases.

President Bush said the measure would lead to hiring and promotion quotas.

GOP Leader Bob Dole, Kansas' own Senate representative, agreed with Bush, saying the bill would enable "lawyers to reap huge profits in the name of racial justice" and result in "quotas, quotas, quotas and more employment quotas."

Sponsors of the measure protested that it had nothing to do with quotas. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. the measure's prime sponsor, said after the president's veto, "When the chips are down, the White House is against civil rights."

The president Monday said the temptation to support a bill simply because its title includes the words "civil rights" is very strong.

"But when our efforts, however well-intentioned, result in quotas, equal opportunity is not advanced, but thwarted," he said.

Quotas, however, may be where we have to turn. We may have to go as far as reversing discrimination upon the white majority to make up for the years of unequal opportunities provided to minorities.

We pretty much have to accept that we've made our bed and lie in it.

The 13th, 14th and 15th amendments gave people of all races rights. It took nearly 100 years before many of those rights were realized and it happened because people fought for them. They lost one of the fights this week.

Do we have to live in a society that uses education and information inequalities to suppress the minorities? Are we going to provide minorities a chance to become more educated and informed?

By providing equal access to higher level jobs now, we would be assuring a better future for them as well as everyone else. It would eventually lead us to a more equal society that may not have to propose such measures as the civil rights bill.

LETTERS

Quota excuse weak

Editor,

I was reading in the Oct. 23 Collegian about President Bush's upsetting veto of the 1990 Civil Rights bill. Vetoing a bill is not necessarily bad, but rejecting the 1990 Civil Rights Bill is another story. Although Bush did give quotas as the reason for passing down a veto, it appears he caved in to pressure from top advisers and acted too conservatively.

In the first part of his administration, Bush gave the impression of trying to reactivate the Civil Rights movement. He appointed strong civil rights activists to the Civil Rights Commission. According to Neal Devins, former Civil Rights Commission member, "Bush's record of appointments suggest that his principal civil rights agenda is the appeasement of the civil rights community." (The Wall Street Journal, Oct. 19.)

His past support of civil rights leads to the question: why would he veto a bill which would stop the forward movement of civil rights? The answer he gave about quotas is inadequate. Even the highly conservative Wall Street Journal acknowledges that specific wording of the bill states it should not be interpreted as requiring quotas. George Mitchell, the Senate majority leader, said "The President's characterization of this as a quota bill is wholly inaccurate."

If no danger of quotas exists, why the veto? The only other possibilities include pressure from Bush's top aides or Bush's basic conservative philosophy. Knowing of the uproar a veto would cause, the administration did come up with an alternate plan. Ralph G. Nease, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, summed up Congress's feeling on this new bill. "The President's so-called alternative is dead on arrival."

Only a few points differ between the two bills, but they are major. Congress's bill switches the burden of proving discrimination from employee to employer. Of course the administration backs the employer and requires the employee to prove discrimination has occurred. This makes it extremely difficult for women and minorities to win their suits. Another variance concerns how much can be awarded in damages. Congress provides for unlimited amounts, while the administration caps the amount at $150,000.

Bush does make a good point that most of the outrage felt will simply be because of the title of the bill. Still, I think the outrage goes much deeper when considering just one of the many reasons he vetoed the bill: To place business over the individual and minorities. Because of the consequences of the veto, Bush's administration will always carry a stigma.

I think Bush should have signed the bill and that his excuse about quotas is weak. Sadly, he had to react conventionally and negate any good he had accomplished with the Civil Rights Commission. I think the veto was misguided and resistance misplaced.

Brenda Klingele
freshman in engineering

Speaker denied

Editor,

Do we, as U.S. citizens, have the right to invite visitors to come to our country and speak, even if what they say may be critical of U.S. policy? Not according to our government. In fact, Ana Ventura, a member of a Guatemalan widows organization, was twice denied a visa last week, prohibiting her from accepting the invitations of universities and citizen's groups in the Midwest and South, including one from K-State. Despite her series of speaking engagements, the State Department claimed that she had failed to demonstrate a valid reason to enter the country.

Ventura was to speak about her organizing work among women in the rural highlands of Guatemala who have lost their husbands as a result of military repression. The thousands of women she represents suffer from the violence of a military apparatus highly criticized internationally as one of the worst violators of human rights in the western hemisphere, a military apparatus funded by our government at the tune of $2.88 million this year.

Fortunately, the vice-president of the widows organization, Fermina Lopez, has obtained a visa and will speak at the University in place of Ventura. But other lecture dates have had to be cancelled as the result of replacing Ventura at the last minute and postponing her tour. Perhaps this disruption was the point of the State Department's denial.

According to the June 24th Wichita Eagle Beacon, denying Ventura entry to the United States is consistent with State Department policy, which bars some 40,000 foreigners from our country for political reasons. Such figures as Nobel laureates Gabriel Garcia Marquez and Pablo Neruda, authors Graham Greene, Doris Lessing and Carlos Fuentes, English band New Model Army, French actor Yves Montand and former Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith have been excluded from our country because they were listed in the "National Automated Immigration Look-out System."

In fact, in June of this year, the Manhattan Alliance on Central America was forced to cancel a lecture by Patricia Elvir, a representative of Nicaragua's Sandinista Front, when she too was denied entry. If you are interested in learning what the government finds so threatening to our national security, attend Lopez's lecture, "Guatemalan Widows: Organizing in the Face of Military Repression" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 1 in Union 213. The lecture is co-sponsored by Amnesty International, Department of Anthropology, The Women's Studies Program and MACA.

Angela Hubler
instructor of English

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Reger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venao
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schneider
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Freese, Amy Hadlock, Kim's Hatjithimothedea, Elysa Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Pula, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack, Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer, Gary Lytle, Dave Mayne, Mike Welchhans, J. Kyle Wyatt, Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitton-Lind
COLUMNISTS	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Freese, Eric Henry
REVIEWERS
PHOTOGRAPHERS
STAFF CARTOONISTS
EDITORIAL BOARD

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Frelund
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Putney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Connie Pullerson
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Britt Owen, Deanna Adams, Shanta Bailey, Matt PittGerald, Christi South, Joe Cook, Minda Dowdy, John Pullerson, Norm LeComte, James Seymore
OFFICE STAFF
CARRIERS

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

To charge by VISA or MasterCard, call (913) 532-6555

Send orders and address changes to Student Publications, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

IN FOCUS

ABOVE: Dyann Howell, junior in animal sciences and industry, prompts her horse to a gallop during the Horse Training and Management class at the horse unit north of Manhattan. The class is designed to teach beginning and experienced riders to train and care for horses. ABOVE RIGHT: Randel Raub, class instructor, puts a bridle onto a horse for a class. In addition to teaching the class, Raub works with horses in his free time.

Happy Trails at the K-State Corral

Horse Training and Management is a class for students who like horses.

Randel Raub, assistant professor of animal sciences and industry, teaches the class. He said his love of the animals proved to be the main reason for having the class.

Students who take the class usually have a strong, above-average interest in horses, because they have to provide their own equipment, Raub said.

Raub teaches the students how to train horses.

"We teach them how to break animals and daily management and care of the horse," Raub said. "What we teach the students is a way of doing things."

"There is a different way of working with horses for every different person you talk to," he said.

The main difficulty students have in the class, Raub said, is controlling their tempers and not becoming frustrated.

"It is like you are trying to get another person to do something, and the message doesn't go through," he said. "You have to remain calm and have understanding, because you are not working with a formula."

Horses, like humans, have their good days and bad days, Raub said. Emotions and reactions are not a constant formula.

"To command a horse to do something is a combination of many things," he said. "Each horse is an individual, and in each situation, you have to adapt your training methods to what is going on at that time."

When trying to make a horse do something, Raub said he tries to make it appear to be the horse's idea.

"I don't want to force him to do anything," he said. "I want to suggest and support what I want him to do, and let him make the decision to do it."

"If it is his decision to do it, he does it willingly, and you have better communication," he said.

Working with horses takes perception, Raub said, because there is not a common verbal language. The common language is body position and movement.

"You have to communicate that way, and there is a lot of psychology involved," he said.

Scott Maciag, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, is in the class.

"This class will help me to learn a little bit more about animals," Maciag said. "The horse teaches you as much as you teach him."

"It is a really interesting relationship. Horses are very beautiful animals," he said.

A wide range of students take the class, Raub said.

"There are some kids who had very limited experience, and I also have one girl who competes in rodeo teams and rides horses regularly," he said. "We try to split the kids up to their abilities."

The inexperienced riders are matched with very young horses.

"They have one horse, and they get used to it," Raub said. "After they get to know how to take care of horses, we might give them another horse."

One problem is that because of the one-on-one nature of the instruction, a limited number of students can enroll in the class.

"Last semester, we had 20 and that was a lot," Raub said. "It is a very intense one-by-one class."

Both faculty and students participate in the class, and graduate students assist.

The class takes place at the 50-horse unit of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

"We breed our own horses here, and we also get some donated," Raub said. "We raise and train them and then usually sell the 3- or 4-year-olds."

The class takes place in all weather, good or bad.

"The students have to put on more clothes sometimes," he said. "The horses get along great with weather, even if it snows. The horses don't mind at all — they learn to adapt to the environment."

Heather Simmons, senior in biology, said she never had the chance to work with big, domestic animals like horses.

"I thought that this class would give me the opportunity I always wanted to work with animals."

She said knowing what to do with the horse is not that hard, but getting the horse to respond to commands can be difficult.

"You have to be patient until she gets to do things the right way and teach her how to trust people," Simmons said.

"I love it. It's my favorite class this semester," she said.

Kathy Anderson, class instructor, explains to Melissa Rewerts, senior in elementary education, specific ground exercises to do with the horse. The students are allowed to progress at an individual pace, and they are paired with horses according to each student's level of development.

Photos by David Mayes

Story by
Kimis Hajitimotheadis

Theresa Heibel, junior in pre-veterinary medicine and animal sciences and industry, works a horse on a lead while other members of the class ride.

Give to live
Cora Gilky, Red Cross nurse technician, prepares Lisa Kuntz, senior in pre-physical therapy, for blood donation in the K-State Union Ballroom Thursday. Today is the last day for BloodMobile donations.

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Trip Shakespeare, Picadores to play at Lawrence club

COLLEGIAN
Weekend Pick
"Trip Shakespeare"
8 p.m. Friday
The Bottleneck, Lawrence

By Rod Gillespie
Arts and Entertainment Editor

The Midwest reaffirms its cutting edge tonight when the fourth leg of Trip Shakespeare's national tour comes to Lawrence.

"We're on the fall harvest tour," guitarist/vocalist Dan Wilson said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "We're watching the combines pick up all the corn and shoot it through those scoops they have at the top."

Wilson described the gradual process by which fans come to like Trip Shakespeare's music.

"It always seems to be the same in a way," he said. "The first show is like, 30 people, and they all look really confused."

Wilson said 10 of them get a wild look in their eyes, talk to the band afterwards and come back the next time with all of their friends.

"The next time, there's like a 100 people — including the 10 that liked it the first time," he said. "The other 20 confused people from the first time are long gone. And it just kind of works its way up from there — it's been that way in every city we've ever hit repeatedly."

It seems the rest of the nation is figuring out what Kansas and the Midwest already know.

"They're all catching up to Minneapolis (Minn.) and Lawrence," Wilson said.

"San Francisco is looking the way Chicago was to us about three years ago," Wilson said. "New York City is looking the way Chicago looked two years ago and Chicago is almost looking like Minneapolis."

Wilson said northeast Kansas is a completely different story.

"Kansas City and Lawrence for some reason started to blossom early," he said. "Over the years we could go through all these towns and nobody knows us. We arrive in Kansas and suddenly its pandemonium."

Wilson said Trip Shakespeare fans have eclectic musical tastes.

"They're usually really open to music," he said. "Usually the warm-up band that we play with is treated really well. I think that's a sign of a music-loving audience."

Trip Shakespeare's set should have something for everyone.

"It's gonna be like we usually do — a real mix, somewhat depending on how we feel, right then and there," Wilson said.

"We've got a lot of brand new songs that are all vying and elbowing each other to get on the next record — we're forging them in the fire of audience reaction and scrutiny."

The band will go in the studio to record its next album this winter. Because of the band's chemistry, there shouldn't be any surprises.

"Maybe I'm wrong," he said, "but I have a feeling we're not going to do a Motown record."

Wilson said the band would like to make a lot of records.

"We'd all like to get as much music out to the world as we can," he said.

The band's appeal is worldwide. Recent fan letters arrived from Cairo, Egypt, England and Estonia.

"There may not be millions of records out there in the world but it's pretty wonderful to know they're so far-flung," Wilson said.

Wilson spoke briefly about "Toolmaster of Brainerd," a song that has received heavy airplay on KSDB-FM. The song, an offbeat ballad about cow milking, was written by his brother.

"Matt wrote that song, and I kept thinking — do we have some cousins up in Brainerd (Minn.) that I'd forgot about?"

Another song, "The Crane," has become an anthem of sorts for starving students. The song describes all-too-familiar credit problems.

"Our whole life is one long credit difficulty," he said. "In music, there's definitely a guaranteed low-income situation, so that's where it comes from."

Wilson at one time studied art at Harvard. In fact, he did the album covers for Trip Shakespeare's first two albums. With such talented band members, one has to wonder if Trip Shakespeare is actually some alien musical uber-race.

"Yes, that's true," Wilson said. "We mean no harm to your planet."

Wilson wouldn't say where the name "Trip Shakespeare" came from.

"There's so many possible evasive answers to that question," he said. "I can't begin to choose which one to use."

Decide for yourself. Trip Shakespeare will perform at the Bottleneck, 737 New Hampshire, in Lawrence, tonight. The opening act is the Picadores. The doors will open at 8 p.m.

12-year-old dies from heart failure

By The Associated Press

LINWOOD — A 12-year-old girl who collapsed at school died of apparent heart failure, authorities said Thursday.

Seventh-grader Sara Huffman collapsed in the hallway at Basehor-Linwood Middle School before classes began Wednesday. Teachers revived her twice by performing cardiopulmonary resuscitation, but she was pronounced dead at a Lawrence hospital.

"Sara and her dad were in my office just yesterday afternoon visiting with me, and then this morning I got a call at the conference I was attending in Topeka about Sara," Principal Don Swartz said Wednesday. "It's a tough situation."

Sara was an active child who played volleyball and basketball and had many friends, Swartz said. She was the daughter of Richard and Karen Huffman of rural Bonner Springs.

"It looks like Sara suffered a sudden cardiac death," Dr. Carol Modrell, Douglas County Coroner, said Thursday.

The coroner planned to do a microscopic examination of the heart tissue to determine what might have caused the failure.

The death could have been caused by a congenital defect or something related to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, Modrell said.

"However, there are some cases where we never can find out ■ See HUFFMAN, Page 10 moonlight madness

OPEN SATURDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 27TH, till 12:00 MIDNIGHT!!

ADVERTISED ITEMS AVAILABLE ALL DAY SATURDAY, COUPON BELOW VALID ONLY SATURDAY NIGHT 9:00 PM TO MIDNIGHT!

Ladies Hunt Club® Baseball Style Jacket Suede, Leather Shell Lined, with knit cuff Reg 185 ⁰⁰ Now 79⁹⁹	Ladies Leather Coats & Jackets by Hunt Club® Mixed Blues®, Jacqueline Ferrar® Long & Short Styles Some Skirts 40% Off	Ladies Famous Maker, Brand Name Suits and Dresses 25% to 50% Off
Ladies Casual Shoes Assorted Canvas Styles, Sizes, Colors 33% to 50% Off	Simpson's® Family Apparel and Accessories 30% To 60% Off Boys/Girls Short Sleeve T-Shirts $4⁹⁹ Mens/Womens Short Sleeve T-Shirts $5⁹⁹ Boys/Girls Long Sleeve Fleece 11⁹⁹ Mens/Womens Long Sleeve Fleece 13⁹⁹ Bart Doll — Small 4⁹⁹ Bart Doll — Large 5⁹⁹ Boys Pajamas 8⁹⁹ Ninja Turtles® Apparel and Accessories, 30% Off Entire Stock Great Stocking Stuffers For Xmas!	Fashion Jewelry 30% Off Loree®, Citation®, Alabaster®, Jo-Jac®, Pakula®
Mens & Childrens College & Pro Sports Apparel, Entire Stock 25% Off		Young Mens Fashion Jeans & Slacks Assorted Styles Name Brands 30% to 50% Off
Mens Leather Jackets Hunt Club®, Levi® Some in Tall Sizes 30% Off		Name Brand Luggage Samsonite®, Jordache®, American Tourister® 30% to 50% Off
Mens Towncraft® Socks Value Pack — 3 Pair Package Acrylic/Nylon Blend Plain or Cushion Sole Reg 4 ⁹⁹ & 5 ⁹⁹ Sale 2⁹⁹	Novelty T-Shirts Short Sleeve, Assorted Styles Sayings, Plus New Kids on the Block® Janet Jackson®, More Reg *13-14 Sale 6⁹⁹	Mens Coburne Square® Long Sleeve Dress Shirts 100% Cotton — Solid White or Blue Reg 21 ⁹⁹ Sale 9⁹⁹
Infants/Childrens Plush Toys Large Selection 30% Off Entire stock	Girls and Infants Heavyweight Sleepwear Just in time for those cold nights! 25% Off Entire Stock	Childrens Athletic Shoes — Name Brands LA Gear®, British Knights® 30% to 50% Off

OPEN SATURDAY
10:00 AM To 12:00 Midnight

776-4867

JCPenney
Fashion comes to life

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

OPEN SUNDAY
12:00 Noon to 5:30 PM

776-4867

$

Shopping Certificate*

Certificate Valid Saturday Night October 27th Only, from 9:00 PM To 12:00 Midnight at Manhattan Town Center!

Good only towards any merchandise purchase.

$5 off any $25 purchase, $10 off any $50 or more purchase!

*Certificate applies only to the price of the merchandise, may not be used for catalog orders, but may be used for catalog display merchandise in stock. May not be redeemed for cash, or used for payment on account. As always, charge purchases are subject to credit review. Minimum cash value 1/20 of 1 cent. Not valid in conjunction with any other offer, coupon valid in any one total purchase from 9:00 PM to Midnight, Oct 27th, can only be used one time!

$

London actors Alison Skilbeck, left, Geoffrey Church and Miranda Foster perform stage readings from 20th century Irish theater Thursday evening in McCain auditorium. The Actors from the London Stage will perform "As You Like It" 8 p.m. Saturday in McCain.

Actors give view of Irish theater

By Stacy Lentz
Collegian Reviewer

"Kathleen ni Houlihan's Sons and Daughters," performed by the Actors from the London Stage, offered the audience insight into the language of prominent Irish playwrights as well as a chance to relish some extraordinary acting performances.

The stage reading, performed Thursday night at McCain Auditorium as part of the McCain Performance series, dealt with scenes from 20th century Irish theater.

The first excerpt was a speech by Irish playwright Stewart Parker from his 1968 Malone Memorial lecture in Belfast. The speech centered around what Stewart thought modern drama should be and how characters are created by the wrestling of the playwright's soul.

The next two scenes were excerpts from J.M. Synge. "The Playboy of the Western World" revolved around a character named Christy Mahon, a young man whose tale of patricide makes him a hero. The other scene, taken from Synge's "Riders to the Sea," told the loathsome story of an aging woman who has lost a husband and five sons to the sea. The actors did a wonderful job of expressing the anguish and sense of loss felt by the woman and her fellow town members.

■ See ACTORS, Page 12

Ad It Up! in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HUNAM EXPRESS
1116 MORO
537-0886

This coupon good for
Chunk King Pork $2.50
not good with any other special, promo, delivery.
Free Delivery with min. $9 order
Open 11 a.m.-1 a.m.
Expires 10/31/90

Treat Your Punkin' To A Personal and the COLLEGIAN will treat you to

$1 off
your prepaid personal classified ad

Clip the purple coupon from the 1990-91 KSU CAMPUS DIRECTORY and bring it to Kedzie 103 by noon Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Coupon good for Oct. 31, 1990 issue only.
ID must be shown when placing Personals.

JOHNNY'D BE GOOD FOR...

DIVERSITY
"Our campus lacks communication and collectiveness, which forms distinct barriers. The first step in destroying this wall is effective communication, my greatest asset."

JOHNNY GAFFNEY
Student Body President
VOTE OCT. 30 and 31 in the UNION
Paid for by Johnny Gaffney

Bring Your Fiesta to Amigos Tonight!

Live Band:
Jazz/Rock

Panache
Friday, Oct. 26
9-12 p.m.
Tacos 59¢

Try our New Hot & Spicy
Wings $1.49

Amigos
In Aggieville
Open until 3 a.m.

50¢ Draws
Everyday

776-5577 1800 Claitor Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE
"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

BLUE RIVER PUB
FRI. & SAT., OCT. 26 & 27

MANTIS
SAT., OCT. 27

HALLOWEEN BASH
COSTUME CONTEST AT MIDNIGHT

1ST PLACE- $50 CERTIFICATE AT HIBACHI HUT
2ND PLACE- $25 CERTIFICATE FOR TOWN CENTER MALL
3RD PLACE- MOVIE TICKETS FOR TWO

SPOOKIE DRINK SPECIALS

SNOOKIES
Fri. & Sat.

50¢ Jayhawk shots ... POUND 'EM DOWN!
$1 Tequila shots
Go Cats! Victory party at Snookies!

Sunday, Oct. 28
Live Rock 'n' Roll

THE TWISTERS

12" Pitchers • Doors Open at 7 p.m.
1122 Moro • Upstairs • Aggieville • 776-7726

THE RIDE

KSU STUDENT TRIPS TO ART MUSEUMS

THE K. S. U. ART DEPARTMENT IS OFFERING A DAY TRIP TO KANSAS CITY
NOVEMBER 3.

THE RIDE will take in:

sculpture by Jacques Lipchitz, works by Jim Dine, color prints from Cassatt & Whistler to current artist, South Asian Textiles representing dyed & embroidered techniques, contemporary work at the Leedy-Voulkos and Morgan Galleries

There will be a lunch break in West Port.

Students.....$6.00 Faculty & Friends.....$10.00
The bus will leave the south side of the Union at 8:00 AM, with return planned for 5:30 PM..

For information and reservations call or come to the Art Department, K.S.U., 532-6605, by November 1.

Made Possible Through The FINE ARTS FEE

McCain

As You Like It
Actors from the London Stage
Saturday, October 27, 8 p.m.
Explore the cruel reality of life at court and the idyllic beauty of life in the Forest of Arden. See five top-notch British players who've performed with such troupes as the Royal Shakespeare Company, the Royal National Theatre, and the BBC Shakespeare Series play multiple roles in this splendid comedy of love. Let your imagination set the stage as the actors bring to life Shakespeare's majestic and moving words.

"The Elizabethans would have understood and appreciated such imaginative stage work. How lucky for us to be able to experience it." (The Boston Herald)

TOMORROW

General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10
Students/Children: $6

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 3 p.m. day of performance.

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

PUMPKINS!
All You Can Carry
only $4.99

Bring your strongest friend and get enough for the whole gang!
Hurry out—Limited supplies!

2 mi. east of Manhattan on U.S. 24
Monday-Saturday 9-6 Sunday 12-6
776-5764

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES GARDEN CENTER

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

'Cats, 'Hawks set to renew series

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

LAWRENCE — Katie, bar the door. Batten down the hatches. Hold on to your hats. Strap in, the ride's about to begin.

It's once again time for the college football game of the year ... even if it's only the game of the year in Kansas.

At 1 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium, K-State, 4-3 overall and 1-2 in the Big Eight, will face arch-rival Kansas, 1-5-1 and 0-2-1.

The hostilities are about to be resumed.

"It's a ballgame that is important to a lot of people on both sides of the street," K-State coach Bill Snyder said. "I think it's a great rivalry, good for the state and both universities. I would be hard pressed to understand why somebody couldn't get excited about this ballgame."

The excitement, at least in Manhattan, stems from the Wildcats' 4-3 record. The four wins are the most K-State has had entering a game in Lawrence since 1953. A guy by the name of Dwight David Eisenhower — from Kansas, no less — was president then.

And Kansas has history on its side. The Jayhawks have won the last two meetings between the schools and have increased their edge in the series to a commanding 60-22-5.

Snyder cautioned against letting KU's record in 1990 deceive.

"I think Kansas is an improved football team," he said. "They are playing well. They have a markedly improved defensive football team over a year ago. They're a consistent football team, and I expect it to be a great ballgame."

KU, though 1-5-1, has played the seventh-toughest schedule in the nation this season, according to a computer rating. The Jayhawks have lost to Virginia, Oklahoma, Miami, Louisville and Colorado. Can you say "AP Top 25 who's who?"

Though K-State's four wins have come against teams that don't compare to those that the Jayhawks lost to, Kansas coach Glen Mason sees improvement in the Wildcats as well.

"I think they're very much an improved team," Mason said. "Bill Snyder and his staff have done a fine job. They play an aggressive defense, and they've got the ability to come up with big plays. Their offense has some skilled players who are very talented. It will be a good test for us."

The players who will be testing one another Saturday are among the Big Eight's premier performers.

K-State's offense is led by Carl Straw, who is racing toward the 5,000-yard mark in his career, and Michael Smith, the Big Eight leader in both yards per catch and receptions.

The Jayhawk offense is spearheaded by quarterback Chip Hileary and running back Tony Sands. Sands gained 217 yards and scored two touchdowns in KU's 21-16 win in Manhattan last year.

Defensively, K-State is led by linebacker Brooks Barta, who is, as a sophomore, already less than 100 tackles away from cracking the Wildcat all-time top 20 tackle list.

So who's going to win this thing? Will KU's tougher schedule play to its favor?

"I'll be able to answer that better in the next couple of weeks," Mason said. "I've always believed when you play tough competition, in the long run it probably helps you."

As for the Wildcats?

"For our players — collectively and in a group — every ballgame is important," Snyder said. "Our kids have the best interests of this program at heart, and they understand the recruiting connotations that can result from this ballgame."

"Overall, our kids have been good about making each game important, and this one's no different."

It's no different than any other war. Katie, is the door secure?

Tony Sands, who gained 217 yards and scored two touchdowns in last season's KU win over K-State, will lead the Jayhawks again this Saturday in Lawrence. Sands and his mates will take their 1-5-1 mark against K-State, 4-3. KU has no Big Eight wins and K-State has one.

Mike Vanzo/File

K-STATE WILDCATS

vs. Kansas Jayhawks

Game Time: 1 p.m., Saturday.
Place: Memorial Stadium, Lawrence.
Radio: K-State Radio Network: Mitch Holthus, Stan Weber, Ben Boyle. WIBW-AM 580, flagship.
Season Records: K-State 4-3, 1-2; Kansas 1-5-1, 0-2-1.
Series Record: Kansas leads it, 60-22-5.
Notes: The game will be played for the Governor's Cup, established in 1969 by Gov. Robert Docking ... The contest marks the first time this season K-State has played back-to-back road games and is the second of three times this year the Jayhawks will be at home for a second-straight week ... The last time K-State went to Lawrence with four wins was in 1953, when Bill Meek's team had a 5-2 mark going in. The 'Cats won that game 7-0.

Oklahoma trip awaits

Matches against Hurricane, Sooners ahead for spikers

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

The K-State volleyball squad will travel to Oklahoma to take on the Tulsa Golden Hurricane tonight in its last non-conference match before resuming Big Eight action Saturday night in Norman, with a contest against the Oklahoma Sooners.

K-State, now 8-10, owns a perfect 18-0 record against Tulsa, 9-17, and swept the team in the first match of the year in Ahearn Field House.

The 'Cats can't say the same for Oklahoma, which has compiled a 26-5 advantage over the spikers. In fact, K-State's last win over Oklahoma was during the 1982 season.

That has K-State coach Scott Nelson worried about his team overlooking Tulsa.

"As much as we don't want to look at Oklahoma, it's real hard not to, because someone can sneak up on you, like Tulsa, and bite us on the heel," Nelson said. "We've done a fairly good job, especially recently, of just taking each match as it comes."

"I doubt we have any trouble getting focused and up for Oklahoma when we get to them on Saturday, so we are going to prepare for Tulsa and hopefully play good, solid volleyball."

Sitting at 1-5 in the conference, the 'Cats have good reason to look towards the Sooners, 2-4 in the Big Eight, for a chance to get back a conference win that Oklahoma took earlier in Manhattan, 3-1.

"We traditionally play Oklahoma real tough. We never had quite as many marbles on the line as maybe we do in this match coming up, simply because Oklahoma stands at 2-4 and we stand at 1-5," Nelson said. "Oklahoma has been a team that has taken second and third in this conference for years, and we're a team that wants to be in that top four. This is an important match for the both of us."

"Oklahoma coming up here and taking a four-game match from us obviously put themselves in control, as far as our two teams are

■ See SPIKERS, Page 12

Women favored in Big 8 meet; men hope to push Iowa State

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

A little bit of extra excitement will surround the K-State cross country teams this weekend.

Both the men and women's teams have high hopes and expectations as they will be traveling to Lincoln, Neb., for the annual Big Eight Cross Country Championships on Saturday.

The women are currently ranked 19th in the nation and are picked as the meet favorites. The men received honorable mention status nationally after beating 16th-ranked Kentucky at the Indiana Invitational on Oct. 13 and are picked to finish right behind Iowa State and Kansas.

"The women, I think, have a really good chance to win. It is going to be a real close race, the way I see it," Coach John Capriotti said. "In my opinion, if the men run well, then we are capable of beating (Kansas). If we run like we are capable, and they run like they are capable, I think we are a better team, and they are ranked 18th in the country."

The women are looking to improve on the third-place conference finish of last year and earn their first conference championship since 1982. They have All-American Janet Haskin to lead the challenge. Haskin was seventh at the Big Eight meet last year and has yet to lose a race this season.

"With Haskin, we can be a minute and 10 seconds apart and still win it, but we have to have solid performances," Capriotti said. "We have basically had the same five girls scoring for us at the last couple of meets. We can't afford for any of those five to have an off day."

Following K-State on the pre-meet polls are defending champion Nebraska and Iowa State. Nebraska will have the extra advantage of competing on its home course, and Capriotti said he believes Iowa State is the team to beat.

"The whole conference is a lot deeper. Iowa State has some really good up-front runners. Their fourth and fifth runners are a little weaker, but the three up-front may be enough," Capriotti said. "I think Nebraska has the deepest team on the women's side, and Nebraska being on their home course should give them a little bit of an advantage."

The women are rebounding from a disappointing loss to 17th ranked Baylor at the Arizona State Invitational. The 'Cats' No. 2 runner, Janet Treiber, suffered through the final two miles with side cramps and fell to the No. 3 spot.

"They know they can run better. We were really disappointed to get beat by Baylor," Capriotti said. "Janet Treiber didn't particularly have a good day, but Paulette Staats made a big step forward. The key is, if I get Janet back where she belongs, then we are in business."

The men are posting better results this season and will also be hoping to improve on their fourth-place finish last year. The men, who have been picked to finish third, have their eyes focused on rival Kansas, seeded directly ahead of them.

Iowa State is the men's favorite, the defending champion and the No. 1 ranked team in the nation. The Cyclones have three runners that have scored 1, 2 and 3 in every meet of the season, and Capriotti said they have been some strong runners in the process.

"(Kansas) tells everybody how good they are. They say how their program is doing this and that, and they have never beaten us in the Big Eight since I've been here," Capriotti said. "Iowa State seems to be clearly better than everybody else, but I hope to run them tough with some of our up-front runners. I hate to go into a meet a not even try to give them a run."

Phil Byrne, who has been one of the top four scorers for the men's team, should be back at full speed this weekend. He collapsed during the race at Oklahoma State, but ran under control last weekend in Indiana.

Holyfield knocks out Douglas

By The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — Evander Holyfield knocked Buster Douglas unconscious with a single right hand to the jaw in the third round and became the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world Thursday night.

The stunning ending also ended the reign of Douglas, which began when he shocked the sports world with a 10th-round knockout of Mike Tyson last Feb. 11.

Douglas had just thrown a right uppercut that missed when Holyfield crashed home a right that dropped the 246-pound champion flat on his back, where he was counted out by referee Mills Lane. Douglas remained on the canvas for several seconds before being helped to a stool where he was examined by a ringside physician.

The fight was devoid of any real action for the first two rounds, and the third round was following the same pattern. Suddenly, it ended as a crowd of 16,000 outdoors roared to its feet, as though sensing Douglas wouldn't get up.

The end came at 1:10 of the third.

KU's trip down 'Burma Road' for 1990 now over

Scott Paske

SPORTS REPORTER

During the 1987-88 football seasons, former K-State coach Stan Parrish labeled a pair of three-game stretches in the Wildcat schedules as Burma Road.

The fitting description referred to weeks six, seven and eight of those consecutive winless campaigns. K-State's opponents were Oklahoma, Nebraska and Oklahoma State, each Top 25 teams during the Parrish era. When the collective scoreboards stopped smoking, the 'Cats were 0-6, and outscored 334-74.

Awaiting K-State at the end of each three-part horror series were the Kansas Jayhawks, a team in search of wounded prey to help salvage whatever it could out of its own tough seasons.

The scenario for this year's Sunflower State battle has reversed roles with slight modifications.

This time, it's the Jayhawks that have completed a tour of duty against perennial bowl candidates, while the 'Cats appear to be the ones licking their chops.

But the modifications to Saturday's matchup should give the game a sweeter flavor than it has had in the past few years. Both have wins under their belts heading into the contest, a statement that 'Cat and Jayhawk fans haven't always been able to make.

K-State's 4-3 record shows that Coach Bill Snyder's system is working, although nobody in Wildcatland has called it a complete success. The caliber of schedule has been questioned, there are still noticeable lapses on the field, and respect still has to be earned from many who have kicked dirt on the 'Cats in the past.

Still, four wins for a program that hadn't won four in its previous 47 games justifies the optimism that K-State players and fans have shown this year.

At 1-5-1, the Jayhawks' face value has been damaged, but their performance to this point projects a light at the end of the tunnel for Coach Glen Mason's program. KU has fallen victim to an administrative mistake this season — the nation's seventh toughest schedule.

What's scary for K-State fans is that the 'Hawks have fared relatively well through it all.

The first and last chapters in KU's 1990 season have been the two worst, as Virginia and Colorado throttled the Jayhawks by a combined score of 100-20. In between, Kansas routed Oregon State 38-12, tied Iowa State and escaped the confines of Oklahoma and Miami, Fla., without suffering one of those seventysomething-to-nothing routs.

In a 31-17 loss to the Sooners, KU had the statistical advantage in most offensive categories.

The teams' patterns this season make the outcome of Saturday's game unpredictable, which means it probably won't surprise many either. The 'Hawks are five-point favorites, but it could go either way by any margin. The 1988 game in Lawrence, a matchup of winless teams, had an even betting line. KU went into the locker room with a 24-0 halftime lead and won 30-12.

Despite suffering a 31-10 loss at Missouri last week, this might be the most momentum a K-State team has taken into the intra-state rivalry since 1982. The hope of ending a five-year losing streak on the road should also provide a source of motivation.

The Jayhawks escaped a rugged portion of their schedule without losing many key players to injuries. After last week's loss to Colorado, KU players echoed the frustration of being a victim of their schedule. Some drew contrasts to K-State's situation, and felt they would have a record similar to the 'Cats with a comparable schedule.

For them, it's a chance to show that records aren't everything.

Panel's research supports theory

LOU DOUGLAS
PRE-LECTURE PANEL
Kenneth Boulding "Century 21: An Age of Maturity?"

By Jennifer Scheibler
Collegian Reporter

In-depth research on the theories and beliefs of Kenneth Boulding, an economist and the next Lou Douglas Series lecturer, was presented by members of a pre-lecture panel Thursday in the K-State Union.

Boulding will present a lecture titled "Century 21: An Age of Maturity?" 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Forum Hall.

Members of the panel were Thomas Gilbert, senior in economics; Penny Diebel, assistant professor of agricultural economics; and Wayne Nafziger, professor of economics.

Panel members said they believe topics of the lecture will include Boulding's views on a sustainable society in the coming century, what it will entail and how it can be achieved.

Panel members also stressed the originality and innovation behind Boulding's theories.

Nafziger said Boulding likes to use his beliefs to stimulate people to explore topics that are exciting to them. Boulding wants students to define their own issues and problems and to do their own research.

"That is really Boulding's strongest gift, his ability to throw out ideas that other people may develop in more depth," Nafziger said.

Several events have been planned along with Boulding's visit, such as a luncheon, dinner and supplemental lecture prior to the Lou Douglas Lecture, to allow people to become acquainted with the economist.

"We try to ensure that the speakers who come in interact with the students," Nafziger said.

Gilbert said this interaction is the reason for the involvement of the economics and agricultural economics clubs in helping to sponsor the informal events before the lecture.

"We hope to get students interested in Boulding's body of knowledge," Gilbert said. "And to give them a close-up view of someone distinguished in the economic field."

"The idea behind involving the two clubs was to provoke students to think on issues that they otherwise would not," Nafziger said.

Diebel said she has been alerting her students to the fact that they have a wonderful opportunity before them.

State provides health exams

Kansas employees visit campus to get medical advice

By Angie Schrock
Collegian Reporter

Health screening for state employees in north-central Kansas will be conducted at K-State in October and November as part of the HealthCheck '90 program.

"About 1,300 state employees from Riley, Geary, Pottawatomie, Marshall, Washington, Clay and Wabaunsee counties will be on the K-State campus for the health check," said Sherri Morrison, HealthCheck coordinator.

Stormont-Vail Regional Medical Center technicians will conduct the tests.

All employees will be tested for cholesterol levels, blood fat and glucose. In addition to these blood tests, blood pressure, height, weight and other health factors will be measured. Drinking and smoking, which contribute to poor health, will also be considered, said Joe Younger, manager of staff training and development at K-State.

At the end of each day, the results from tests and measurements will be entered into a computer at Stormont-Vail, which will then produce a health profile. This process will analyze the health of the employee, present a statement of the employee's health status and suggest ways to improve the person's health, Younger said.

Test results will be processed over a period of three weeks.

A team of health professionals will come to campus each day to conduct the testing, he said, and a maximum of 108 people per day can be checked.

As soon as results are tabulated, a follow-up session is scheduled for employees and Stormont-Vail will conduct group consultations to explain the results and make individual suggestions, Younger said.

"We're trying to get an estimate of what the real health position of state employees is, so we can conduct seminars on dieting, controlling cholesterol level and whatever the tests seem to indicate is needed," he said.

The process is paid for from the employees' health-care plan. The state is giving back to the employees through these tests, Younger said.

Hunam Chinese Restaurant
1000 S. 10th St., Suite 100
Lawrence, KS 66044
(785) 842-1111

BUSHWACKERS
THE FUNDRINKERY
1000 S. 10th St., Suite 100
Lawrence, KS 66044
(785) 842-1111

Go Cats! Beat the Hawks!
Friday & Saturday
50¢ Kamis
Comedy Invasion
Mon., Tues., & Wednesday (Halloween)
MARC MCCOLLUM
1987 Star Search Winner

Pizza Hut
DELIVERY
Makin' it great!
CALL THE LOCATION NEAREST YOU.
• AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
• WESTLOOP 539-7447
• 3RD & MORO 776-4334

KANSAS for information on membership call:
JOY C. LOVIN
MEMBERSHIP REPRESENTATIVE
1-800-365-5222
EMERGENCY ROAD SERVICE

Rickel-McMillin
WINE & SPIRITS
2223 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
(right next to Hop-n-Skip #2)
776-5003

12 pk. cases of Keystone $6.99
Spiced Apple California Cooler $3.49
Drink it warm or cold!
Regnier Peppermint Schnapps $4.99 ltr.
We'll Raise Your Spirits and Get You Spooked!

Not just different...
Talk doesn't sell cars. Driving them does. Do the Subaru Legacy™ L Wagon justice. Test drive it today and find out what sets it apart from the competition.

...better

- Generous legroom for rear-seat passengers
- Reliable and powerful 2.2-liter, 16-valve engine with multi-point fuel injection delivers an impressive 130 base horsepower
- Power-assisted front and rear disc brakes for great stopping power

4x4 5-speed air-cruise Discount $3,582
SUBARU
We built our reputation by building a better car.

4th & Leavenworth
Downtown, Manhattan
776-4875

GOETSCH & IRVINE
CHRYSLER PLYMOUTH SUBARU

SUPER COMPUTER SALE!
SAVE ON COMPUTERS, PRINTERS, PERIPHERALS AND ACCESSORIES AND SPECIAL PURCHASE

TANDY 1000 TL/2
PC Compatible System With Hard Drive and Color Monitor
Save $300
Low As $43 Per Month
139985
Reg. Separate Items 1699.85

TANDY 1000 HL With Color Monitor
Easiest-to-Use PC for Home or School
HALF PRICE! 49950
Reg. Separate Items 99.95
Low As $20 Per Month
Includes Personal Diskette 2"

TANDY 1000 RL With Color Monitor
PC Compatible Designed for Today's Busy Family
Save $100
79990
Reg. Separate Items 199.95
Low As $35 Per Month
Includes 24 Home-Oriented Programs

TANDY 1400 HD
Desktop Power With the Advantage of Mobility
Save $1300
1199
Reg. Separate Items 25.95
Low As $10 Per Month
Full-Function IBM PC Compatible
Built-in 20MB Hard Drive

TANDY 1100 FD
Ultimate in Notebook PCs Lets You Work Anywhere
Save $100
699
Reg. Separate Items 79.95
Low As $20 Per Month
Features Word Processing With Built-in Spell Checker
276 x 124 x 9 1/2" w/ 6.4 lbs.

Triple Mode Dot-Matrix Personal Printer
Cut $90
26995
Reg. Separate Items 29.95
Low As $10 Per Month
Perfect for Memos, Reports and Letters
Fast—Up to 160 Characters Per Second

DeskMate Productivity Software Package
Save $219.95. Includes Lotus® Spreadsheet for DeskMate, O&A Writer and a Two-Button Mouse. Reg. Separate Items $419.95.
19995
Reg. Separate Items 1299.95

Special Purchase
Diskette Storage Boxes
488
Reg. 29.95
For 3 1/4" or 5 1/4" Diskettes
Protects and Organizes Data

Pistol Grip Joystick
Save $8
2195
Reg. 29.95
Adds Excitement and Accuracy to All Your Favorite Game Programs

Radio Shack AMERICA'S TECHNOLOGY STORE

OPEN HOUSE
Come see our great new home computer! The Tandy 1000 RL is so easy to use, you can be computing after one brief session—even if you've never used a PC. Learn how every Friday at our special Open House—call any Radio Shack for times or to set up a personal demonstration.
PLAN NOW TO ATTEND!
2603 Anderson in Anderson Square 539-6151
Weekdays 9-6
Saturday 9-5
Closed Sunday

ALCÓ PLANT SALE
9.99 Reg. 14.97
10" Floor Plants
5.99...10" Hanging Baskets
99"...4" House Plants
Add beauty to any room with plants.

HALLOWEEN SPECIALS

5.69 24 PAK HALLOWEEN PARTY SPECIAL
Choose from Coca-Cola Classic, Diet Coke, Caffeine Free Coke or Sprite. Stock up now!

Prices Effective:
Friday, Oct. 26-Sunday, Oct. 28, 1990
Daily 9-9 Sunday 11-6
3007 Anderson Ave.

99¢ ... Spray Glitter Reg. 1.99
99¢ ... Hair Color Spray Reg. 1.99
99¢ ... Technifaces Reg. 1.99
1.99 ... Lizard Skin Reg. 3.36
1.99 ... Moon Glow Reg. 3.99
3.99 ... Make-up Kits Reg. 5.99
7.99 ... Full Length Wigs Reg. 9.99

Huffman

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

what caused the heart to go into arrest," she said.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

Students at the school learned of Sara's death from their advisers. They also could talk to members of the crisis intervention team, which was formed last year to help people deal with crises, said Connie Wright, a member of the team.

By the end of school Wednesday, students were holding up well, "although there are a lot of very sad people here," Wright said.

Milk

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

The number of awards has increased 50 percent from past years, he said.

Other activities at Dairy Days include exhibits from 22 agri-business firms, the announcement of a national dairy scholarship that will go to a K-State student majoring in dairy production and the annual Kansas Mastitis Council meeting.

Call said meetings like Dairy Days are important because even though the number of dairymen is low, they are more efficient than ever before. "We've doubled milk production in the last 30 years," Call said.

15 words
5 days
$5.50

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

ClassADS

Kedzie Hall 103 8 a.m.-5 p.m.
532-6555

JONATHAN
MORRIS
Placing The Student First
Paid for by the Students for Morris

Kedzie 103

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $5.20 per inch; Three consecutive days: $5.00 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.80 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.60 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)
Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex or ancestry.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE GIRL—Private room and meals this semester in exchange for assistance in small family home. Two blocks from campus—Write P.O. Box 652, Manhattan, Kansas 66502.

COLLEGE MONEY: Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Kripp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

LOST 18 lbs. in three weeks! You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call 776-4764.

ROMANCE! ELEGANCE and seduction. Enjoy a special dining experience at The Osage House. Or enjoy Indian Curry for $4 at home. 776-1234. 2605 Stagg Hill Road.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

SENIORS—FRIDAY Oct. 26 is the last day the official Royal Purple portrait photographer will be on campus. Don't miss your chance to have your portrait taken for the yearbook, and to get extras for your family, friends and potential employers. Call 532-7808 for an appointment. Walk-ins will be accepted on Oct. 26 on a first-come, first-served basis. Don't wait until it's too late!

THIS MOTORCYCLE (Honda Shadow 500 1985) was left with us owing rent unpaid. If rent not paid and bike not claimed in three weeks, bike becomes property of renters. Midway USA Auction. 776-5222.

WELCOME TO KSU. Call for complimentary facial. Mary Kay Cosmetics. 539-9469. Janet Milliken.

SUNDAY LUNCH

Pan Fried Chicken and other daily specials.

Specials include free dessert.

ONLY $4.25

Serving Breakfast till 1 p.m.

Open Every Sunday

7 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

10% off with this ad

Don't Forget
FRIDAY
LADIES
IN FREE
SATURDAY
No Cover
with
Student ID
Only At
BAYSTREET

2 Apartments—Furnished

NOW AVAILABLE. One-bedroom furnished apartment for lease. Rent $255. Call 532-6664 from 10 a.m.—8 p.m. 776-0491 after 8 p.m. and Sunday.

RENT FREE country living in exchange for occasional assistance to wheelchair bound landlady. Some lifting. 1-494-8201.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Nice one-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Heat paid. 537-4515.

NICE, CLEAN, first floor, one-bedroom apartment for rent from January—August. Laundry facilities, air conditioning and front door parking. Call John at 539-8143 evenings.

Brittany Ridge Townhomes

—More Than Your Basic Apartment—

•4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, study room

•Wired for cable, phone, computer

•Hot tubs & volleyball court

•Bus service to campus

•Monthly rent as low as $195

2601 Anderson Ave. 776-5599

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Washer/dryer, $125 per month plus utilities. Near campus. Call 539-5727.

5 Automobile for Sale

1977 VOLKSWAGON van. Excellent condition. Rebuilt engine. $1,450. 539-9435 evenings.

1984 CUTLASS Ciera, blue four-door, air, power steering, AM/FM, cassette, $4,000. Call 532-3389.

1985 PLYMOUTH Horizon, four-speed, good condition, $2,300 negotiable. 539-1902.

1986 MITSUBISHI Colt E, four-door, AM/FM, air conditioning, new tires, five-speed, runs great. 776-2174 after 5 p.m.

1986 SE Turbo Coupe Sunbird hatchback, AM/FM seek stereo, manual shift, great condition. 537-2097.

CLASSIC 1971 Monte Carlo. Fully restored. Must see to appreciate. $2,500 Firm. 776-0774.

7 Computers

HP 41CX, extra books, batteries, plus charger, $100. Call 539-3426 after 7 p.m. Ask for Kip.

IBM—COMPUTER, printer, disks and manuals. Price negotiable. 539-3242.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such "employment opportunity" with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ACCOMPANIST WANTED—For dance—either pianist or percussionist. Prefer someone with accompanying or improvisational experience. Must be free Tuesday and Thursday 11:30 a.m.—1 p.m. Call Dina in KSU Dance Program at 532-6887.

ADDRESSERS WANTED immediately! No experience necessary. Excellent pay! Work at home. Call toll-free: 1-800-395-3283.

ATTENTION: AGGRESSIVELY expanding marketing company is looking for high quality individuals who desire excellent part-time income with possible rapid advancement into management. Send resume or letter by Oct. 31st, Box 981, Garden City, KS 67846.

CUT EDUCATION costs—College girl—live in and do duties in family home this semester and second. This in exchange for private room and meals. Write Box 1, Collegian.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-815-473-7440 Ext. B288.

EVENING AND Daytime office and telephone sales help needed. Pleasant working conditions, hourly wage and excellent bonuses. Call 537-6163, 9 a.m.—4 p.m.

FREE SPRING Break trips to students or student organizations promoting our Spring Break Packages. Good Pay and Fun. Call CMI 1-800-423-5264.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for a director of our dietary department. Must be a registered dietitian or registry eligible. Should have menu planning, personnel development, clinical and community education skills. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. EOE.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for part-time employee to help answer telephone and receive visitors at a local funeral home. Hours would include a couple of evenings each week and some weekend hours. Must have excellent communications skills, and get along well with all ages of people. Call 539-7461 for appointment.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

PLEASANT, ENERGETIC, personable. Salesperson for unique ladies apparel store. Send resume to: Spellbinders, P.O. Box 1103 by 10/26/90.

ROOM AND Board for help around home. 539-1656 or call Lavender and Lace 539-8705.

STEP RIGHT Up! I need people who want to earn $500—1,000! month comm. Part-time; unlimited income, full-time. No experience necessary. Health and wellness company. For more information come to University Inn, Board Room, Sunday Oct. 28 3 p.m.

SUMMER JOBS. Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers/ Nannies. We have pre-screened families to suit you. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. We are established since 1984 and have a strong support network. 1-800-222-XTXA.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS: 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

(Continued on page 11)

Elect

DeLoss

Jahnke

Agriculture Senator

"Number Nine on Your Ballot!"

—fair—dependable—flexible—

Paid for by DeLoss Jahnke for Student Senate Comm.

Plum Tree
Restaurant

Homestyle Buffet

All you can eat $5.75, Sunday 5-9 p.m.
Includes soup & salad bar

- Fried Chicken
- Mashed Potatoes & Gravy
- Country Green Beans
- Macaroni & Cheese w/Diced Ham
- Chocolate Mousse

 Holiday Inn*

530 Richards Drive Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 539-5311

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS: 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

COLLEGE HEIGHTS BAPTIST CHURCH

9:15 a.m. Sunday School
10:30 a.m. Worship Service
6 p.m. Training Hour
7 p.m. Worship Service

2221 College Heights Rd. 537-7744

Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan

MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson

Steve Ratliff, Pastor

Worship 9:30 a.m.

Sunday School 11 a.m.

776-2086

Nursery Provided

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Worship at 8:30 & 11 a.m.

Sunday School 9:45 a.m. (for all ages)

10th & Poyntz 537-8532

St. Isidore's University Chapel

Catholic Student Center

Sunday Masses 9:30, 11 a.m., 5 p.m.

Saturday 5 p.m.

Daily Mass-M, Tu, Th, F 4:30 p.m.

Wed. 11 a.m. at St. Mary Hospital

Wed. 10 p.m. evening prayer

Confessions-½ hr. before daily mass.

Rev. Norbert Diebal, Chaplain

Sister Rose Walters, C.S.A.

711 Denison 539-7496

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

Worship 8 and 10:30 a.m.

Sunday School 9:30 a.m.

Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m.

1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays

CARE CELLS (Small Groups)

6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

Christian Science Church

511 Westview Drive 539-5605

10 a.m. morning service-10 a.m. Sunday School

Wednesday Testimony Meeting 7:30 p.m.

Reading room-428 Houston

Peace Lutheran Church

2500 Kimball Ave.

Worship at 8:30 a.m.

& 10:45 a.m.

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

Worship Saturday 6 p.m.

Sunday 8 and 10:45 a.m.

—Bible Class—

Sun. 9:30 a.m.—Thurs. 7-8:30 p.m.

539-2604 330 N. Sunset

Trinity Presbyterian Church

1110 College Ave.

Sunday Worship 10:45 a.m.

Young Adult Class 9:30 a.m.

539-3921

Anglican/Episcopal Community in Manhattan

St. Paul's Episcopal Church

& St. Francis/Canterbury Episcopal Fellowship at KSU

Sixth & Poyntz

776-9427 or 537-0593

—Sunday Services—

8 A.M. Holy Eucharist I

9:30 Christian Education Classes

(for all ages)

10:30 A.M. Choral Eucharist Rite II

(Nursery available at 10:30 service)

Especially for KSU

Students & Faculty

5 P.M. Sunday

Informal Eucharist followed by light supper and fellowship.

7:10 A.M. Tuesday & Thursday

Morning Prayer, Danforth Chapel, KSU

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Church School-9:45 a.m.

Worship-8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Disciples of Christ

5th and Humboldt 776-8790

First Baptist Church

Sunday Worship 11 a.m.

Church School 9:45 a.m.

2121 Blue Hills Rd.

539-8691

FIRST CHURCH of the NAZARENE

College Class 9:30 a.m.

Worship Services 10:50 a.m. & 6 p.m.

Sunday School 9:45 a.m.

1000 Fremont *Nursery Available 539-2851

Valleyview Community Church

Sunday Worship

10:30 a.m.</

(Continued from page 10)

9 Food Specials

Every Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!

- Spaghetti & meat sauce
- Salad Bar
- Texas Toast

$4.95

CHEF
111 S. 4th
Fridays 5-8 p.m.

Hardee's
DELIVERS
537-2526

Bobby T's

Weekends at Bobby T's
Fridays Enjoy Shrimp and Beer
2 doz shrimp & pitcher of beer $4.99
DJ 8-12
Saturday Enjoy Live Entertainment
John Woofers
The Singing Stockbroker

14 Lost and Found

CAROLYN G.—Your license has been rescued from the gutters of Aggieville. Call 776-1497 to claim. Ask for Dan.

FOUND: LARGE black Lab, male, in 1212 Bluemont area. Call 537-0299.

LOST: 18 lbs. in three weeks! You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call 776-4764.

LOST: GOLD Tri-Sigma Lavalier. If found call 776-5449.

LOST: GRAY/white tabby male cat, 6 months old. Last seen 700 block of Bluemont. Call 537-4430, leave message.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

14x70 TWO-BEDROOM, cute kitchen, real cabinets, new bedrooms, wood floor, low utilities, $7,500. 537-4369.

AFFORDABLE LIVING across the street from nice pool, 12x60 mobile home, $4,750. 539-3513 leave message.

19 Music/ Musicians

CRATE CR212 guitar amp in excellent condition. No modifications, $175. Call 776-6485 after 6p.m.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

ACACIA JOHN—Happy one year anniversary! I miss being there with you Love, Sweet Paula Paula.

A DATE'S not a date unless it's with me, meet me at the Town Center Mall for, "Nightmare on the Plaza III." Frightfully yours—The Manhattan Jaycees.

BABY CYNDI, Last clue—I love Sigma, I love you. I love Saturday morning cartoons! Love, Mom.

BABY LILIEDAHL: I'm so proud of you—my baby TKE Alstar! I taught you everything I know. You play defense—I play O. Can't wait until Sunday! —Mommy.

BABY TAMARA, Hugs and kisses to my new baby dot. Can't wait till Sunday! Love ya, momma.

BEWD: HAPPY 24th! Hope it's a good one. Love, your seesters—Linda & Annie.

DAINA BRUNO: Ceen any balistock hooters lately? Jhon, Joolie & Daine. P.S. Ar ewe really a blawnd?

DAVE M.—Got my b-ball tickets—Can you get me some for AC/DC.

(ECONOMIST) SHELLEY, Remember Farrell at 4 last Thursday? We were talking, vator hit 4th, you missed 3rd, we forgot time n place! Sweet! Looked for you since you've left Moore/ Derby, found you, lost you again. Don't know your whereabouts. Please reply. (Mathematician) Trig.

BABY VERONICA—Not as twins we appear, through my eyes I see. Baby—Forever You and Me. Love—Mom.

FRIENDS OF the Hartford House: This isn't in a neat little rhyme, but we're having a party anyway. Saturday night—in costume—Be there!

GOOD LUCK Kevin R. for Arts and Science Senator! Love, M.A.

HAPPY 25th birthday a day late, Honey Bunny. Love, Bunky.

JOYCEY-LOU—CONGRATULATIONS on your AKP initiation. We're sooo very proud of you. —You know who.

M.B.—HAPPY 1st Anniversary! You really are a very special friend to have. L.L.Y. Love, C.K.

PAUL, HAPPY Birthday! Thanks for caring about me. Chris.

SEARCHERS: WHAT time is it now? Time to Pass it On! We love you!

SIGMA ALISON—The time is near, can't hardly wait. I love you, Dot, you really rate. Any guesses? Love, Mom.

SIGMA ALICIA—Have you guessed who your Mom is yet? No. I can bet. On Sunday, you'll see that you belong to a big family. Sigma love, Mom.

SIGMA AMY S.—From the beginning we got along great! So this Mom-Dot team is sure to Rate! Love, Mom.

SIGMA BABY Anna—Surprised? Wait and see. The perfect Mom-Dot team we'll be! Mommy loves You.

SIGMA BABY Becki—I hope you have a forgiving heart, because for string day you'll need a head start. Love, Mom.

SIGMA BABY Ali—You look more like your dad than you do me. But a perfect pair we will soon be. You can look high and you can look low, but not until Sunday will you know. Love, Mom.

SIGMA BABY Marilyn, A wonderful Mom and Dot I know we'll make, because my baby I know you'll be great. Sigma Love, Mom.

SIGMA BABY Sheila, A wonderful baby I know you'll be. We'll be the best Mom-Dot pair at Sigma three. Love, Mom.

SIGMA BABY Robin, So far your clues have been deceiving, but soon enough you'll know who I really am. Love ya Dot! Mom.

SIGMA BABY Karen, One final clue, I'm from the same hometown as you or at least close by. Till Sunday! Love, Momma.

SIGMA BABY Kristen, Here's Mommy Clue No. 4: I'm not a poet and I won't even try, but your Mommy loves you and that ain't no lie. I'm so anxious because you'll soon be the newest link to that legendary "Scarlett" family tree. Love, your proud Mommy.

SIGMA BABY Priscilla, want her next clue? I like Twinkies, I hope you do too. —Mom.

SIGMA BABY Shelly—I can't wait for your arrival! Mama loves you lots.

SIGMA BECKY—Just three more days until I can say, you and me, we're family. Love, Mom.

SIGMA DEBI, Soon I will reveal my true identity. But for now I'll keep it a secret. Your mom I am so happy to be. Don't let the curiosity drive you insane.

SIGMA DINA—Have you discovered your expectant mother? Well soon you shall know what a wonderful mom-dot pair we will make! —Love, Mom.

SIGMA DOT Stephanie, Here is your 4th and final clue. I am from far away. See you Sunday. Sigma love, Mom.

SIGMA TIFFANY and Christine—Sunday is coming so don't be late, as Moms and Dots it's our fate. Sigma Love—Your Moms.

SIGMA TONYA, The day draws near when we will be Mom and Dot, you and me, Love, Mom.

STORYTELLER—ENGAGEMENT is a trial period. You have too much life left to live—wait. I miss you and I know you still want to live. Call me. Your diary.

TALL AND PAUL: Thanks for the body pose! Your Search Family.

THE KEG party is over. I want my grey trash can back!!

TRI SIGMA Dana, Hey Baby, Your Birthday into the family is 10/28/90! I can't wait! CIAO! Love, Mom.

TRI SIGMA Wendy—I'm wild you can tell by the red clothes I wear. I have a short stature and short dark hair.

TRI SIGMA Heather R.—The long awaited moment is drawing near. The identity of your mom will soon be made dear. Sigma love, Mom.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

AKC COCKER Spaniel puppies, black, all shots, eight weeks old. 1-456-7580 after 5p.m.

TROPICAL FISH AND AQUARIUMS

PETS N' STUFF

1105 W. 2nd St. 539-9191
OPEN: Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-8 p.m.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

PROFESSIONAL WRITER, editor will type/ edit your papers. 537-6009.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Ginnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, so it reflects your best. Then we computer typeset and laser print. Call for appointment. 776-1229. Owner, Kathleen Lowman has nine years experience in University Career Center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851, Clatin.

INTERVIEW COMING UP? The Resume Service/ Graphics Plus offers a wide variety of services including: Typing or composition of your resume and cover letter, laser or letter-quality printing. Permanent computer storage and typing of data sheets. Stop by 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294 or 539-6027.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

Typing USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Reasonable rates. Call Judy at 537-7100.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, condo, one-half block west of campus. 776-9028, Nica.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom across from campus. Sublease required. 539-7494.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: $167.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Must be tidy and clean. 776-0774.

FEMALE ROOMMATE for spring semester to share beautiful apartment. Must be neat and responsible. Call 537-4695 for more information.

ONE OR TWO male roommates needed, spring semester. $160/ month, next to campus. Call 537-2368.

ROOMMATE: $131.25/ month, one-sixth utilities, own room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 776-2074.

THREE ROOMMATES wanted for four-bedroom apartment, next to campus. $145 a month, utilities included. For spring semester. Call 539-1720.

TWO FEMALE roommates for spring semester. Nice apartment, close to campus. $136/ month plus utilities. Chiray 539-3387.

26 Stereo Equipment

TECHNICS SA-R921 stereo receiver, 45 watts perich, excellent condition. $200 or offer, 776-2220 ask for Tracy, leave message.

28 Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE for furnished house. Spring semester or now. Lots of privacy. $162.50. Amy 539-3886.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Round-trip ticket to Houston Nov. 21 to Nov. 26. $115. Call after 5p.m. 537-1136.

KU/ K-STATE football tickets: Sec. 10, Row 55, Seats 9-12. Best offer from $12. Call 776-8677.

30 Travel/Car Pool

SPRING BREAK—Cancun! Complete vacations including round-trip air from $269. Call International Tours 776-4756.

LAST CHANCE!

STEAMBOAT BRECKENRIDGE

JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $177

JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $184

VAIL/BEAVER CREEK

JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $247

9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS

TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Maytag dryer, good condition. Call Sherri 776-2495.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 6p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, overcoats, G.I. Boots, field jackets, sleeping bags, much more. Also Carhartt workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Mary's, Kansas 1-437-2734.

WE NEED your quality, used clothing. Exactly Right! Consignment Shop, opening next week in Aggieville, will sell your used clothing. Call 537-6009 for information.

Largest selection of Harley-Davidson T-shirts and Sweatshirts in town!

WHEATLAND MOTOR CYCLE CO.

521 N. 3
539-8500

33 Horses

HORSE BOARDING—Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

34 Wine and Beer Supplies

WINE MAKING cheap and easy. Free recipes and supply list included. Follow the instructions in this book and you too can make fine wine in your own home. Satisfaction guaranteed. Send $5 to: Excess-ave Endeavors, P.O. Box 10075, Columbia, MO 65205.

35 Martial Arts

KEMPO KARATE—Self Defense Kempo Karate is modern and traditional self-defense for men and women of all ages. It blends traditional Karate with modern day self-defense against punches, kicks, grabs and holds. Training takes place in relaxed atmosphere on revolutionary padded spring floor to make injuries virtually non-existent. On-going classes Monday to Friday 7:15 to 8:45p.m., $15 monthly. Contact Gary Piza, 1-944-3691, Ken Schnaper 539-3306, Little Apple Gymnastics 539-3613.

36 Haunted House

MANHATTAN JAYCEES presents, "Nightmare on the Plaza III," on the corner of Third and Poyntz, Manhattan Town Center Mall, 7p.m. to 7

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Blarnbats Mats hates his cats. He sprays oven cleaner at them so they won't touch him.

10-26 ©1990 Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

WE INTERRUPT THIS "STORYLINE" FOR A SPECIAL BULLETIN.

"AND NOW HERE'S A LITTLE MESSAGE FOR ALL MATURE K-STATE FOOTBALL FANS."

10-26

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

WE'VE ALMOST GOT IT FIXED!

UH, GUYS?

I'VE ALMOST GOT EVERYTHING BACK TOGETHER!

GUYS?

THERE! THAT'S IT! WE'RE DONE!

GUYS!

SEE? WE'RE AUTO PROS!

DON'T YOU NEED THIS, PART?

AAAAAUGH!

OH, NO! WHAT'S THAT?

10-25

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Today I did some laundry.

I walked down to the basement where the washing machines are.

In the stairway I passed the guy who lives down the hall from me.

"Doin' some laundry?" he said.

10-26

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

IN THE MIDDLE AGES, lords and vassals lived in a FUTURE SYSTEM.

THAT'S "FEUDAL" SYSTEM.

JUST WHEN I THOUGHT THIS JUNK WAS BEGINNING TO MAKE SENSE.

© 1990 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

I THINK IT ALL DEPENDS ON HOW YOU LOOK AT YOURSELF, MARCIE..

YES, MA'AM? WELL, LET'S SEE... I'LL SAY, "FIFTEEN"

RATS! WRONG AGAIN!

BUT I STILL HAVE SELF-ESTEEM!

10-26 © 1990 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Vegas opener

4 Fans' cousins: abbr.

7 Plant life, maybe

12 At lunch, partner

14 Propelled a pirogue

15 Summer cooler

16 The movie industry

18 Evergreen

19 "The King"...

20 ...and his specialty

22 Wiggly one

23 Infant

27 "Town"

29 Chicken

31 Soft drinks

34 Corn

35 Garland

37 Astronaut

38 Cribbage needs

39 "The Daba"

DOWN

41 Bed size

45 20

47 Past

48 Large, colorful flower

52 Birds do it; bees do it

53 E.T., e.g.

54 Akins or Caldwell

55 Place-kicker's pride

56 Sill

57 Minnesota

58 Ship-to-shore call?

61 Gold-

Solution time: 25 mins.

24 Mr. Baba

25 Dickens' a/k/a

26 She sheep

28 Employment

30 Ostrich's cousin

31 Climax

32 "A Chorus Line"

33 Fall behind

36 High-speed number

37 Waiter

40 Liquor

42 Floats gently

43 Nome dome home

44 Poet Alfred

45 Year-end word

46 Scratches (out)

48 "2001" computer

49 Bullring bravo

50 Top

51 Stocking stuffer?

CRYPTOQUIP

10-26

WYOMREBWAMR TVBOQYQB

OAQRY'E VNNAU EGQ TBVRR

EA TBAU MYOQB GWR LQQE.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IN HUNTING DOWN THE JADED JEWEL THIEVES, WE'LL LEAVE NO STONE UNTURNED.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals T

Actors

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

Sean O'Casey was the next playwright that the acting group focused on. Excerpts were taken from his "The Plough and the Stars," a controversial play that describes the lives of tenement dwellers who rose to heroism during the 1916 Easter uprising. "Red Roses for Me," the other O'Casey play excerpt, was about a young protestant worker who is eventually killed for his fight for freedom.

The last work on the program was Brian Friel's "Faith Healer." "Faith Healer" was done in its entirety and demonstrated the cast's talent and ability to project their characters by voice alone.

The members of the group did a wonderful job creating a mood and feeling in an abstract space. The simplicity of their readings left the audience with only the power of the words of the great playwrights featured in the program.

The residency at K-State of the five Shakespearean actors is part of an educational program developed by the Alliance for Creative Theater, Education and Research. The artists have devoted a large part of their time this past week to lectures, workshops, seminars and informal meetings with students.

Don't miss your last chance to see this group in action when they perform "As You Like It" 8 p.m. Saturday in McCain. Tickets are $12 for the general public, $10 for senior citizens and $6 for students and children.

Spikers

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

concerned. We want to go down there and perform the way we're capable of performing, the way we've performed over the last couple of matches, and just see if that's good enough for a win on the road. Iowa State beat Oklahoma 3-0 just recently, and at Iowa State we lost in five with opportunities to win that match. All indications are that it will be a real close match."

K-State ranks third in the Big Eight in hitting efficiency, led by senior Val Roberts' .302 hitting percentage, while Oklahoma is one of the more dominant teams along the net, averaging 2.65 blocks a game. Freshman Gloria Holcomb has been hot for the Sooners, ranking second in both kills, with 3.55 per game, and blocking, with 1.31 a game.

"The typical struggle will exist again, where Oklahoma is the big, slow, lethargic, we'll-control-the-net-and-beat-you team," Nelson said. "K-State is (a team) that will run its quick offense, beat your slow blockers, hit holes in the block, and play a faster tempo and beat you that way. Oklahoma will be a good test and an important match for us."

Plan

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

The deans are in the second round of talks with Coffman. The proposals are just a beginning, to give the deans something to discuss, Marshall said. If Coffman had asked the deans to come up with the plan, they would have become adversaries.

"We're strong partners in the process," Rathbone said. "We discuss plans and give counter proposals. About 101 different things have been moved around and talked about."

Rathbone said he has discussed certain proposals with some of his key faculty members.

Marshall met with the architecture faculty Thursday and discussed all the proposals concerning the college. He is planning to discuss reorganization with students at an open meeting Nov. 1.

15 words
5 days
$5.50

COLLEGIAN
ClassADS

Bhutto protests vote results

By The Associated Press

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — A right-wing coalition scored a landslide victory over ousted Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto on Thursday and urged her to be a good loser and accept defeat. Bhutto said she'll go to court.

Bhutto, ejected from office Aug. 6 on corruption and mismanagement charges, refused to concede Wednesday's parliamentary election and accused the army-backed caretaker government of massive vote-rigging.

A group of 40 international poll watchers refused to comment on the allegations, but was expected to discuss its preliminary findings Friday in Karachi.

The group's assessment could affect hundreds of millions of dollars in U.S. aid to Pakistan. The United States and other Western countries have threatened to cut off aid if the elections were rigged.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said the United States looks forward to working with any Pakistani government elected in a free and fair election, but it was reserving judgment on the results.

Some poll watchers said privately they were suspicious of some constituencies where they witnessed a low voter turnout yet the final count showed tens of thousands had marked their ballot. But they said large-scale vote fraud will be difficult to prove.

"I can assure you the election has not been rigged," caretaker Prime Minister Ghulam Mustafa Jatoi told a news conference. "The people have given their mandate, their verdict. She should accept the results and prove to the world that she's a democrat."

"The People's Party candidates who lost because of rigged election will challenge the results in court," Bhutto said after returning to her hometown of Karachi on Thursday night.

Most political analysts, foreign diplomats and opinion polls predicted a close race between Bhutto's left-leaning Pakistan People's Party and the right-wing Islamic Democratic Alliance for control of the 217-member National Assembly, the policy-making lower house of Parliament that chooses the prime minister.

But the final vote count, completed almost 24 hours after the polls closed, showed Bhutto's opponents had delivered a stunning upset that surpassed even their expectations.

Bhutto's People's Party and its smaller allies won only 45 seats. The Islamic Democratic Alliance, a loose-knit coalition of 18 diverse parties united by their contempt for Bhutto, emerged with 105 seats.

Voting was delayed in one constituency because of a candidate's death. The rest of the seats went to smaller ethnic and religious parties and independents.

Most seemed at a loss to explain Bhutto's dismal showing. Some blamed poor voter turnout, estimated at about 35 percent.

"There's a growing sense of apathy and cynicism about the whole democratic process in Pakistan," one Western diplomat said on condition of anonymity. "After watching repeated governments swept aside either by the military or by the constitution, people are beginning to ask why bother to vote."

Bhutto alleged she lost because of rigging in at least 80 constituencies. She accused the caretaker government of stuffing and stealing ballot boxes and intimidating and harassing voters to keep them away from polling booths.

Jatoi said, "The country cannot depend on the whims and fantasies of a young lady, as attractive as she may be, especially with the foreign press. The country has to move forward."

Witnesses say Grissom had master keys

By The Associated Press

OLATHE — The man accused of killing three missing women had a master key to most units in the complex where two of them lived, and there was no evidence of forced entry into their apartment, witnesses testified Thursday.

The testimony came at the triple murder trial of Richard Grissom Jr. in Johnson County District Court. Grissom is charged with killing Joan Marie Butler, 24, of Overland Park, and roommates Theresa Brown and Christine Rusch, both 22, of Lenexa.

The three young women disappeared within an eight-day period in June 1989 from the Kansas City suburbs. Their bodies have not been found.

Julie Combs, manager of the Trafalgar Square Apartments when Brown and Rusch disappeared June 26, 1989, said Grissom had a master key that opened about 60 percent of the 151 apartments because he was a contract painter there.

She also testified that one of Grissom's workers, whom she knew only as French or Frenchie, had a master key Grissom had given him. The worker later returned the key to her,

she said.

Bill Chapin of the Johnson County Sheriff's Department Forensics Laboratory went to the Lenexa apartment June 28 to check for evidence. Chapin, who testified earlier when the prosecution was presenting evidence on Butler's disappearance, said he had a feeling there might be a link between the disappearances.

KRAZY KRIS

The Wild, Thrilling, and Scary.

The big sale on masks is on till Oct. 31.

1128 Moro

Aggieville USA

539-4567

HONEY BUNNY — I'd love a COLLEGIAN Personal. One day is only $3 for 15 words.

COME TO PEOPLE'S GROCERY FOR HALLOWEEN TREATS

We have specially packaged yogurt covered pretzels unsweetened carob peanuts tropical trail mix our own Trixer mix Little Slugger Cherry Bats Nellie's Fruit'n Nut Sticks

PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-Op

811 Colorado

10-6:30 Tues-Fri., Sat. 9-5, Closed Sun. & Mon.

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

"One too many" is no excuse.

"Under no circumstances does the use of alcohol or other drugs diminish personal responsibility for aggressive or other socially unacceptable behavior."

KSU policy prohibiting sexual violence.
Call 532-6444 for more information.

BALLARD'S

"Your Quality-Competitive Edge"

Sporting Goods Store

FALL AND WINTER WAREHOUSE SALE

SAT. and SUN., Oct. 27th & 28th

Sale location 500 Fort Riley Blvd.

Manhattan, Kansas

Special Hours

Sat. 8-6 p.m.

Sun. 12-5 p.m.

Russell

Fashion Fleece

reg. $19.95

$8

(inside)

OUTSIDE UNDER CANOPY

Shoes

Shoes

Shoes

Shoes

Shoes

CONVERSE

AVA

NIKE

PUMA

Reebok

3X TIGER

Values to $59.95

ALL $25

UNIQUE POUNDAGE ROOM CLOTHES $6/lb.

Inside

Shoes

Shoes

Shoes

Shoes

WOMEN'S

Nike Wimbledon

Converse GSV

LA Gear Monterey

Avia Cheerleading

Nike Air Protector Plus

Kappa Extra Cross Trainer

Adidas Fitness

LA Gear Shock Hi

LA Gear Shock Lo

Reg. Outlet

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

$9.95 $5.95

SALE

$32

$32

$29

$28

$32

$37

$37

$37

$33

MEN'S

Puma Sure Fire Hi

Mizuno Pro 100 Hi

Adidas ATP 3000

Adidas Fitness

Converse Turt Exters

Converse 5i-11 Mid

Reg. Outlet

$6.95 $3.95

$8.95 $5.95

$6.95 $3.95

$6.95 $3.95

$6.95 $3.95

$6.95 $3.95

$6.95 $3.95

$6.95 $3.95

$6.95 $3.95

SALE

$26

$24

$37

$51

$24

$12

Selection Russell

Sweatshirt

$7

reg. $16.95

Adult x-small to Good for youth

one size fit

(outside)

On your way to the mall stop and shop where the prices are small.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Monday, October 29, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 46

Lane Marshall, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, speaks to students and faculty at Seaton Court about a proposal for reorganization that would eliminate it as a college. Marshall stressed the need for student and alumni support to fight the proposal.

Architecture, design college fights preliminary draft cut

By Elvyn Jones
Staff Reporter

The College of Architecture and Design declared war Friday on a preliminary draft proposal for reorganization that would eliminate it as a college.

Lane Marshall, dean of the college, revealed the proposal to a group of more than 300 students and faculty at Seaton Court.

He said reorganization at K-State is designed to save $3 million a year by eliminating weak or redundant programs and trimming fat. Savings in the architectural program, mostly in faculty salaries, would be $600,000 a year, he said.

Marshall said the proposal would eliminate the College of Architecture and Design and make it a department within the College of Engineering.

Marshall said other details of the first-draft proposal include:

- The elimination of the department of interior architecture.
- Moving the department of regional and community planning to the department of political sciences.

■ The elimination of the master's research program in architecture.

The proposal would reduce the number of students and faculty in the program from 20 to 25 percent, Marshall said.

"None of these are acceptable," he said. "I'm convinced this is not going to happen."

Marshall said he would mobilize alumni, the regional architectural community, friends of the architectural college, students and parents to fight the proposal — which he emphasized is preliminary.

Marshall said the preliminary proposal calls for cutting cost at K-State $5 to 6 million dollars, which is $2 to 3 million a year more than the administration's preliminary goal for reorganization.

"The administration has left themselves $2 to 3 million to bargain with," Marshall said. "That leaves us with the latitude to make changes."

The consequences of the proposal would be the loss of accreditation for the departments eliminated, a reduction in the perceived worth of graduates with degrees in those departments and a general loss of esteem for the architectural program at K-State.

"Word on the street will be there is something seriously wrong," Marshall said. "Practitioners will be leery of K-State graduates."

"The best faculty will flee, and I wouldn't blame them. There isn't a college in the country that isn't desperate for faculty. They'll be snapped up overnight," he said.

The proposal would phase out programs over a four- to five-year period, Marshall said. Students in the affected programs would continue in them until they graduated. Faculty would be reduced by attrition, contract buy-outs of professors near retirement and the release of some non-tenured professors, Marshall said.

Some faculty and students in the architectural college were also critical of the plan.

"I see it as a willful mutilation of the University," said Gary Coates, professor of architecture. "It is a step back to making K-State the College of Agriculture and Applied Sciences again."

The first-draft proposal might eventually lead to the complete elimination of the architectural program at K-State, Coates said.

"Right now, I think our program is stronger than Kansas University's," he said. "If this happens, at some point the Legislature is going to look at the two programs and ask why they are supporting two programs when the one at K-State is so weak."

Eugene Kremer, professor of architecture, agreed.

"It's regressive," he said. "Virtually no architectural program is under an engineering college anymore. The focus of modern architectural schools is on design, not technology."

Students worried about the plan's affect on their degrees.

"I spent a lot of time and money working on my degree," said Lisa Clark, senior in interior architecture. "I would wonder if it was worth it, if 10 years down the road there wouldn't be a department to back me up."

Clark said she would strongly consider transferring if the plan is implemented.

Michael Holmes, senior in interior architecture, said that he has invested too much time and effort at K-State to transfer now but that he would advise freshmen and sophomores to transfer if the plan is approved. He said he is also worried about the future worth of his degree.

"As I go to interviews, there is a good possibility they are going to question my training and background from a program that no longer exists, when in fact, it was one of the top programs in the country," he said.

Clark and Holmes said students were motivated to fight the plan after being informed of the details Friday.

Holmes, a student senator from the architectural college, said he is attempting to get students to join all committees involved in reorganization planning within the College of Architecture and Design.

■ See related story, Page 8A

Political parties wage battle over tax controversy

By The Associated Press

RUNNEMEDE, N.J. — "We have to beat a legend," the candidate lamented. "A legend that lied."

The topic was taxes: the complaint, a broken campaign promise not to increase them. In this case, the promise came from a Democrat who couldn't keep it, and Republicans were making the most of it — ignoring the parallel to President George Bush's own tax reversal.

In the wrapup phase of the off-year election campaign, there's a battle raging for control of the tax issue.

Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle, the high-profile Republican campaigners, are trying to fix blame for the coming tax increases on the Democrats, even though the administration signed on to the budget deal to raise them.

The Democrats contend that the issue was fairness, that they had to fight the administration to make sure the wealthiest Americans would pay the biggest share in deficit-curbing taxes.

Bush's ritual campaign promise of 1988 — "Read my lips, no new taxes" — is long gone, a casualty of his decision last spring to negotiate a deficit deal with the Democratic Congress.

The president said he had to compromise. "Haven't liked that a bit, but I've done it because the president must at certain times put the overall good of the country first," he said, campaigning in Irvine, Calif., on Friday.

He said the tax medicine had to be taken "because the Democratically controlled Congress simply has been on an uncontrolled-spending binge for years."

Quayle pressed the argument in a television interview Sunday, saying "Democrats got taxes, we got spending cuts."

On the NBC program "Meet the Press," Quayle discounted pollsters and analysts who say there's a Democratic surge, saying that ratings always fluctuate in "the political silly season."

He said it's the Democrats who have the problem because "the American people have had it" and they're fed up with incumbents.

At some campaign stops, the Republican rhetoric sounds as though Bush had never uttered his no new taxes promise in the first place.

That heightened the irony the other day when Quayle campaigned for Daniel Mangini, the Republican candidate for Congress in New Jersey Gov. Jim Florio's old district. Mangini promises to vote against any federal tax increases. The Democratic nominee, Robert Andrews, says he would oppose higher taxes for at least two years.

Democrat Florio held the seat for 15 years before he was elected governor in 1989, pledging that he wouldn't raise state taxes. He pushed $2.8 billion in increases through the legislature this year.

So the 250 or so people at the Holiday Inn waved scores of bright red signs that read "Florio Lied" as Quayle urged votes for Mangini.

"The Democrats, they'll raise your taxes whenever they get a chance," the vice president said. "Just look what's going on in Trenton. Your governor's taken a page right out of the book written by Michael Dukakis and Mario Cuomo."

"Your high-taxing governor has had the best training in the world for raising taxes, years and years of loyal and devoted service to the Democrat majority in the Congress," Quayle said.

Long before the budget negotiations, the Republican theme was that Democrats were the party of taxing and spending. Ronald Reagan pushed it, after muscling through the massive federal tax cut of 1981 that was supposed to spur the economy and lead to a balanced budget. It didn't work; the deficit soared despite economic expansion. The government reported Friday that it hit a near-record $220.4 billion during the year ended Sept. 30.

The Republicans argue that is because of excessive spending. The Democrats counter that revenues are out of whack, too, and have been since the big Reagan tax reduction, despite tax increases since.

Quayle said taxes were part of the budget deal only because the Democrats were adamant and insisted that "you've got to put taxes on the table." So the question shifted from no taxes to which taxes.

Vessel boarded; talks renewed

By The Associated Press

The world's response to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait involved confrontation and conciliation on Sunday, with U.S. Marines boarding an Iraqi vessel and Soviet diplomats renewing efforts to find a resolution.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev arrived in Paris for talks with French President Francois Mitterrand on matters including the nearly 3-month-old Persian Gulf crisis. A Gorbachev envoy, meanwhile, held talks in Baghdad with Saddam Hussein.

In Iraq, 301 French nationals were told they had to wait another day for freedom. The Baghdad government said last week that they could return home, but the trip was delayed from Sunday until Monday.

Diplomatic sources said the departure was put off because 26 other French citizens were unaccounted for.

Saddam is holding hundreds of the foreigners as human shields at strategic sites to deter attack by the multinational force in the Persian Gulf.

Iraq's selective release of hostages has drawn criticism.

European Community leaders, holding a summit in Rome, pledged Sunday not to send official representatives to win the freedom of hostages, and to discourage private missions.

In a joint statement, the leaders assailed the unscrupulous use of hostages in the "vain attempt to divide the international community."

In the latest naval confrontation, U.S. Marines boarded an Iraqi tanker after an Australian vessel and a U.S. warship fired warning shots across its bow when it refused to stop, U.S. Navy officials said.

The ship, intercepted in the North Arabian Sea, was allowed to proceed after a search party found no goods banned under the U.N. sanctions.

As of Oct. 26, some 2,738 ships had been intercepted in the gulf region and 282 ships boarded.

Gorbachev arrived in Paris after a visit to Spain, during which he and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze suggested Iraq may have softened its stand in the gulf crisis.

Gorbachev's envoy, Yevgeny Primakov, met Sunday with Hussein in his second trip to Iraq this month. Iraqi officials made no comment afterward.

Primakov met earlier in the day with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz. A Soviet diplomat, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the talks centered on efforts by the Soviet Union to find a diplomatic and peaceful settlement to the crisis.

Primakov was expected to go to Saudi Arabia Monday to brief King Fahd on his talks with Hussein, the diplomat said.

Primakov has emerged as the main shuttling diplomat in the conflict, which began when Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2 and occupied the emirate. Iraq was in turn isolated by U.N. trade sanctions and widespread condemnation.

Human Ecology college faces merger; protest rally planned for Wednesday

By Paul Noel
Staff Reporter

The College of Human Ecology called an emergency meeting Friday afternoon to discuss concerns over the reorganization process.

Some faculty members, protesting the first draft of the reorganization plan that would merge four of the college's departments with other colleges, wore T-shirts that read "Hell no we won't go."

The 150 faculty and students who attended the meeting Friday afternoon in Justin Hall Room 209 voted to have a Wednesday-morning walk-out and to protest reorganization. The protest was planned for in front of McCain Auditorium during Wednesday's Landon Lecture by U.S. Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

Barbara Stowe, dean of the College of Human Ecology, said that according to the first draft of the reorganization plan, four departments in the College of Human Ecology will be merged with other colleges as follows:

■ The Department of Interior Design would merge with the Department of Architecture and Design within the College of Engineering.

■ The Department of Hotel, Restaurant and Institution Management would merge with the Department of Management in the College of Business.

■ The Department of Foods, Nutrition and Dietetics would merge with the College of Agriculture.

■ The Department of Human Services would merge with the College of Education.

"That would put an end to the College of Human Ecology," Stowe said. "How would quality be assured with reorganization?"

Stowe

Stowe said the University could save $3 million with the current plan of reorganization.

"I couldn't help but think how explosive this would be," she said. "It seems like a lot of disruption for that amount."

Stowe said she would rather resign than stand by as reorganization dismantled the college.

“That would put an end to the College of Human Ecology. How would quality be assured with reorganization?”

—Barbara Stowe
dean of human ecology

“I have written that my integrity will not allow me to preside over the dissolution of the college,” she said. If the first draft of the reorganization plan is accepted and goes into effect, it will eliminate or change at least 40 percent of the colleges, said Edgar Chambers, associate professor of foods and nutrition. At Friday's meeting, Chambers said he would call for Provost James Coffman's resignation at Monday's Faculty Senate meeting.

Stowe said the change would cause a loss of identity for the college.

"There needs to be a cost-benefit analysis of the changes reorganization would cause," she said.

On Sunday, Chambers said that a follow-up committee decided there would not be a Wednesday-morning walkout and that he will not call for Coffman's resignation.

"The follow-up committee was concerned that a walk-out would not be legal," Chambers said. "(The committee) decided to hold a seminar and rally in front of Anderson on Wednesday."

BRIEFLY

World

British open Tehran embassy

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Great Britain reopened its embassy in Tehran Sunday after an 18-month break in diplomatic relations over the Salman Rushdie affair, the Islamic Republic News Agency reported.

At a ceremony, Swedish Ambassador Hakan Granqvist lowered the Swedish flag at the embassy and British Charge d'Affaires David Reddaway hoisted the British Union Jack.

Sweden had looked after British interests in Iran during the break in ties, which were restored last month after a meeting between British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and his Iranian counterpart, Ali Akbar Velayati.

Iran is to reopen its embassy in London on Monday.

Relations were cut after the late Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared a death sentence on Rushdie, an Indian-born British novelist, in Feb. 1989 for allegedly blaspheming Islam in his novel "The Satanic Verses."

Rushdie has been in hiding since, protected by British police.

Norway government to resign

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norway's year-old coalition government will resign Monday after failing to resolve a split over trade negotiations with the European Economic Community, news reports said Sunday.

Government sources refused to confirm the reports, but a brief news release from the office of Conservative Prime Minister Jan Syse said a statement would be issued in Parliament on Monday.

There is disagreement in the three-party alliance over Norway's position on talks between the 12-nation EEC and the European Free Trade Association, in which Norway and five other nations are members.

The two trade blocs are discussing possibly opening all 18 nations to unrestricted trade after 1992.

Palestinians return to work

JERUSALEM (AP) — Most Palestinians returned to work in Israel Sunday after a four-day ban, but some found they had lost their jobs to Jews and others were turned back at roadblocks.

Police had new orders barring Arabs with a record of hostile activity against Israel. About 8,000 Palestinians carry green identity cards that ban them from Israel as security risks, according to the daily Haaretz.

"We will increase the list of those not allowed into Israel," Shmuel Goren, government coordinator in the territories, said on Israel radio.

8 die in black faction battles

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rival black factions battled through the night at a gold mine compound outside Johannesburg, and company officials said Sunday that eight men were killed and 37 hurt.

The fighting erupted Saturday evening at a workers hostel on Rand Mines' Harmony Gold Mine in Virginia, 160 miles southwest of Johannesburg, the company said.

Officials said they did not know the cause of the fighting, which went on through the night despite attempts by security officers to halt the battles.

No additional details were immediately available.

About 800 blacks died in factional violence around Johannesburg in August and September.

The fighting between supporters of the African National Congress and the Inkatha movement was mostly an extension of their power struggle in the eastern province of Natal. That battle has claimed about 5,000 lives since 1986.

Nation

KKK marches in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 30 Ku Klux Klan members marched through the nation's capital under tight security Sunday and rallied briefly at the U.S. Capitol while counterdemonstrators unsuccessfully pressed to enter the grounds.

It was the second Klan rally at the Capitol in as many months and occurred after counterdemonstrators had vowed to stop it. There were no immediate reports of arrests, but two police officers were injured in confrontations with counterdemonstrators, officials said.

At the Capitol, a Klan leader exhorted the robed and hooded crowd to remove from office senators and representatives who voted to override President Bush's veto of the Civil Rights Act of 1990.

"They tried to override the veto, but thank God it was kept out of law," the unidentified Klansman said during the 30-minute rally. "Vote the hypocrites out," he added.

Office reports missing letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of letters are missing from the special file of correspondence from members of Congress to savings and loan regulators, according to the Office of Thrift Supervision.

Most of the letters were written by lawmakers on behalf of constituents who complained about problems in their dealings with S&Ls, such as accounts that were transferred from one thrift to another as the result of mergers.

But some letters provide evidence of members of Congress pressing regulators on behalf of S&L operators, some of whom contributed to the lawmakers' political campaigns.

Grunseth reverses decision

AFTON, Minn. (AP) — Republican Jon Grunseth said Sunday he will drop out of the Minnesota governor's race after a woman claimed she had an affair with him while he was married and after reports that he swam nude with teen-age girls.

"There are three things that are extremely important to me — my wife, my family, first and foremost; the Republican Party, the people of Minnesota," Grunseth said from his home 20 miles east of Minneapolis.

"And the events of the last three weeks have put enormous pressure on the family and, I think, on the political process and on the people of Minnesota," he said. "I therefore decided to withdraw as the Republican candidate for governor."

Campus

Delta Sigma wins award again

For the seventh year in a row, the K-State chapter of Delta Sigma, the national history honor society, was named outstanding chapter.

Phi Alpha Theta awarded it $250 and the National Best Chapter Award earlier this semester, said Marsha Frey, chapter adviser and professor of history.

The society used the money to donate history books to Farrell Library, said Anita Specht, chapter president and graduate student in history.

K-State won over other chapters which are part of universities with 19,000 or more students, Frey said.

Receiving the award for the seventh year puts pressure on the chapter to do well, Specht said.

"It's a hard string to keep going. It kind of puts a little pressure on you to keep up the good work. It's a testament to all the hard work past members have put into the club," Specht said.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Campus organizations are encouraged to use the Campus Bulletin. All announcements must be submitted by 11 a.m. one day prior to publication. Announcements for Monday's bulletin must be submitted by 11 a.m. Friday. However, publication is determined by the amount of space available on a first-come, first-served basis and is not guaranteed. Information forms are available on the shelf outside Kedzie 118A. You must have a picture ID to submit a bulletin form. During business hours, IDs will be checked in Kedzie 116 or 118A. Forms should be left in the box outside 118A after being filled out. Questions should be directed to the Collegian's news editor in Kedzie 116.

29 Monday

■ Rural and Small Schools Conference will be all day in the Union. Students and faculty may attend sessions at no charge.

■ French Table will meet from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ Intramural Bowling Tournament will begin at 3 p.m. at the Union Recreation Center.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Steven R. Hanna at 2:30 p.m. in Durland 236. The dissertation topic "The Effects of Cohesion and Structure on Group Creative Performance as Measured by Impartial Judges, Production Data and Participant Perceptions: A Study in Job."

■ Rec Complex Expansion Information Session will be at 4 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

■ Engineering Student Council's "Foundations for Organizational Success" committee meeting will be at 8 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Human Ecology Council will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254.

■ Spanish Club will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

30 Tuesday

■ FENIX Adult Student Program/OWLS will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ SAVE will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Intramural Bowling Tournament will begin at 3 p.m. at the Union Recreation Center.

■ Mortar Board will meet at 9:30 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

■ Rural and Small Schools Conference will be all day in the Union. Students and faculty may attend sessions at no charge.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Rosanne Proite at 1:30 p.m. in Blumont 368. The dissertation topic will be "Gender Differences and the Influence of Sex Role Stereotypes on the Attribution of Responsibility for Date Acquaintance Rape."

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, sunny and mild. High near 75. South wind 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, mostly clear. Low in the low to mid-40s. Tuesday, mostly sunny and mild. High in the mid-70s.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

TIME: WEDNESDAY

PLACE: BAYSTREET

DON'T MISS IT

Trying to hide your beautiful hair?

It's hats off at

HAIR EXPERTS
DESIGN TEAM

1323 Anderson Avenue • Manhattan, KS 66502

Today's perms are formulated to help you achieve the look you want. Call now, for a free consultation.

776-4455

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

ON SALE NOW

AC/DC

RAVENS EDGE

WITH SPECIAL GUEST
LOVE/HATE

SUNDAY • DECEMBER 9 • 8:00 PM

BRAMLAGE COLISEUM

ALL SEATS RESERVED $18.00

Tickets available at Bramlage Coliseum Ticket Office, Manhattan Town Center Information Booth, K-State Union Bookstore, McCain Auditorium Ticket Office, Uptown Entertainment in Topeka, I.T.R. at Ft. Riley, Uptown Tapes & CD's in Junction City, House of Sight & Sound in Salina, Bicentennial Center in Salina or charge by phone (913) 532-7606

Tickets may be subject to a service charge.

A CONTEMPORARY PRESENTATION

FREE PIZZA!

BUY ONE & GET ONE FREE

Specify Original "Golden Braided" or new "Thin Style" Crust

SPECIAL COUPON
PYRAMID PIZZA
MONDAY MANIA
Buy Any PYRAMID PIZZA & Get The Second Pizza (of equal value) FREE!
Good Mondays Only

Delivery—
Fast, Friendly & Free!
539-4888
12th & Moro
Aggieville, USA

We Pile It On!

© 1987 Pyramid Pizza, Inc.

SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE

This coupon is good for any regularly priced product or services.

$5 off

11 22 90

HAIR EXPERTS
DESIGN TEAM
1323 Anderson Ave. • 776-4455

COUPON

SAVE SAVE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Difference exists between self and other

The self and the other. If we truly exist alone as the self, experiencing only our own subjectivity, then how do we experience the other and at the same time allow the other its own experiences?

Our own subjective experience seems to give us enough evidence to believe that the other is having a similar subjective experience. It is similar in the sense that such general concepts as pain, joy and numerous others that fall in between appear to be common to the self and the other.

Yet the experiences and intake of moments in each individual's life are unique. This, too, we understand by the awareness of our own subjective experience. We understand this when attempting to totally disclose the self to the other. We get frustrated when we realize that the words we use to express our subjective experience, at best, offer only an incomplete perspective of our subjective experience. Even in a personal interaction or connection with the other in which an intense exchange of subjective experience occurs, we still realize the incompleteness that results. We still fall short of sharing completely our subjective experience. We then understand that we exist alone.

If we understand that we exist alone, then how do we authentically interact with the other? How do we make connections yet allow the other to exist and experience alone, rather than pretending that the self and the other have totally exchanged subjectivity? How do we allow for an intense mutual exchange of selves and still honor the other's aloneness in subjectivity?

We must allow people to enter in and then out of our subjective experience in order to grant them their right to the fullest subjective experience. Crucial. We must allow. We can acknowledge that the self and the other make intense connections. We must allow intense,

Kevin
Zwink

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

though incomplete, exchanges to take place. Yet when the connection reaches a level of stagnation, we must allow the other an out. The exchange remains a part of our subjective experience yet allows the self and the other room for different connections and experiences.

If we corner the other with the self than we pretend that we do not exist alone and we rob life of its singular experience. If we understand that we exist alone, then we learn that what actually happens in life, if we allow it, is a continuous mutual exchange between the self and the other, the self and another, and so on.

To put it all differently, I have a dog. His name is Oscar. He's a great dog, and I love him. Let us imagine that he represents the other. I assume he has a subjective experience much like mine. Yet I also know that his subjective experience is different than mine. We have interacted with each other, and I have never been able to completely merge with him. Although I sometimes have desires to be completely his subjective experience, to actually become him, I understand the silliness of this inkling.

But anyway, I visit Oscar frequently. He lives out in the country, and I know he loves it. This is what happens. I get out of my car, and Oscar comes charging to greet me. I can always tell he loves me. But right after he greets me, he runs off to patrol his territory.

He is usually gone a long time. I love him, but I don't expect him to remain seated in front of me. I know every moment he is with me, although meaningful, he has less time to experience his life in different realms. I let him go out and explore his reality because I know that he will be living a full life. I don't corner him with myself; I let him make new and different connections. I allow this in myself. Our connection remains a part of my subjectivity while he is gone. He returns, and we connect in new and different ways.

T rue, sometimes his new experiences turn my stomach. He's always catching rabbits. Sometimes the other's new and different connections bother the self, yet we must allow it. The other has every right to exist alone. The self has every right to exist alone. The only thing permanent is impermanence. This temporary quality in life gives it so much meaning. We must let things begin and let things end.

EDITORIALS

Israelis, Palestinians should resolve conflict

The Israeli-Palestinian situation managed to pull the world's attention away from Kuwait for a time and refocus it on one of the world's longest-running conflicts.

After 21 Palestinians were shot by Israeli police Oct. 8 on the Temple Mount, also an Islamic holy site called Haram al-Sharif, in Jerusalem and other acts of violence by members of both groups, the Israelis and the Palestinians once again proved to the world the need to resolve this conflict.

Violence like this is nothing new to Israelis and Palestinians in their 50-year-old quests for one group to maintain its self-determination at the expense of the other group.

The current form of the struggle is the intifada, the Palestinian uprising that will reach the three-year mark in December, with a death toll of about 500.

The Oct. 12th U.N. Security Council resolution that condemned Israel for the massacre of Palestinians on the Temple Mount was significant because one of its main sponsors was the United States. In the 1940s, the United States was the chief supporter of the U.N. resolutions that brought the state of Israel into existence in the same area as Palestine, which is the foundation of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and the more general Israeli-Arab conflict.

One proposal to resolve the conflict is to create two states — Palestine, which would consist of the occupied territories of Gaza and the West Bank, and Israel at its pre-1967 borders (basically, before it occupied Gaza and the West Bank).

Any proposal would require a great deal of negotiations, taking into account resources, population and security interests of both groups.

The recent violence in Jerusalem only reaffirms the need for a resolution between the Israelis and the Palestinians. Although most of the world's attention is focused on Iraq and Kuwait, political leaders in the United States and other countries need to keep in mind that peace in the Middle East will not be achieved until the Israeli-Arab conflict is resolved as well.

Cartoon submitted by Rob Karlin, 5th-year senior in architecture, and Jim Hickman, 5th-year senior in architecture

LETTERS

Rec proposal absurd

Editor,

We strongly support the growing student opposition to the multi-million dollar expansion of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex by continuing a supplemental fee. In fact, as former and current faculty representatives on the Recreational Council, we must speak out with additional perspectives and information all students should know about. If opposed students don't vote their opposition, as few as 17 percent of the student body will be enough to impose a continuation of the fee, which otherwise will be dropped, or the money perhaps used where it is more needed.

The Rec Council passed the resolution for the referendum without genuine opportunity for reflection or even for raising key issues. The dubious "study" of the need conducted by its proponents seemed designed to guarantee support. The pro-fee letter in the Oct. 24 Collegian was filled with falsehoods, particularly that need is "dire," since "all areas are extremely crowded." Anyone who goes there frequently, as we do, finds plenty of times when equipment, courts, even entire gyms are uncrowded if not unused. Also, it's difficult to believe a supporter who claims "you have to reserve racquetball courts days in advance," when the current policy permits reservations only for the following day, and the proposal offers merely to resurface, not to increase, current courts. But apparently facts don't matter, since the University community is given only a few days to raise questions.

Even though we are against this referendum, we have a clear personal interest in successful recreation here, having volunteered to serve on the Rec Council. We are, moreover, frequent users of the facility, and we would personally benefit from many of these luxuries and conveniences, such as less crowding at convenient times and air conditioning in the summer. Our personal convenience and the convenience of a small portion of the student body, however, does not justify these new millions, not to mention costly additional luxuries for the administrative staff. In fact, it strikes us as an absurd and offensive time to propose these millions, given the urgent financial problems students have acknowledged in the Collegian, from student publications to the library to generally deteriorating facilities and possible cuts — all the more embarrassing as they look increasingly bad in comparison to our high-tech recreation facilities.

This situation directly contributes to campus demoralization when we note that academic parts of the University have to wage long battles to justify their existence, to obtain small increases in funding, or even to prevent cuts, while the recreational service has quick access to a few ready million through an instant campaign. Rec Services only needs to get recreational enthusiasts to impose a fee on future students without having to address University priority needs, as if it knows how students would choose if actually given alternatives. Even if one reasonably opposes using fees directly for academic needs normally state-funded, student leaders could still argue, if this fee is allowed to die naturally, that the lowered amount could be replaced by a tuition supplement to solve desperate needs without any total increased cost to any student. The choice should be theirs.

One student letter complained of the distance of the Rec Complex from the main campus. We fear that it is also becoming distant from the University as an academic community, as many students are beginning to see.

Don Hedrick
professor of English
John Johnson
associate professor, library

Support expansion

Editor,

I have been a user of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex for three years now, and each year that I return to school I look forward to getting back into shape at it. Due to the overcrowding, however, I haven't been able to get the workout that I want or need. Aerobic classes are filled to the hilt, the weight room is bursting at the seams, and it takes forever to get on the equipment in the fitness room. On top of it all, with the heat problem and with no air conditioning and so many bodies packed into such small workout areas, breathing becomes a difficult matter.

I realize that there are areas of concern, such as Farrell Library, which need our immediate attention. Farrell, however, has been funded through the state while the Rec Complex has been funded through the students. The students wanted the Rec Complex 10 years ago, and they made a commitment to follow through with support. Surveys show that it was a good investment and that K-State students participate in Recreational Services' programs and facilities. During the 1989-90 academic year, over 22,000 participations were recorded for students and faculty/staff in more than 40 intramural sports. In the same year, over 407,000 participants went through the Rec Complex.

The Rec Complex's role is not only to provide physical fitness but also to provide a stress outlet for students. It is also a great place to be social, meet people and get involved in extra-curricular activities.

What better time than the present to add on to the Rec Complex? There is no question that extra space is needed, and it won't be any cheaper to put it off a few more years. Besides, it will only cost each student $3 extra per semester. Where else could one find a recreational facility as well outfitted with services and equipment as the Rec Complex for a mere $3 a semester?

Sheri Denham
senior in public relations

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR: Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR: Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR: Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN: Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS: Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR: Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR: Mike Venson
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR: Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR: Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR: David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS: Steve Franzsen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR: Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF: Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS: Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER: Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS: Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hatjimotheadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel

COLUMNISTS: Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwink
REVIEWERS: Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzner
STRIP CARTOONISTS: Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt
EDITORIAL BOARD: Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind, David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzsen, David Frese, Eric Henry, Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venson

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER: Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER: Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR SHEET MANAGER: Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES: Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allison Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER: Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR: Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR: Linda Punney
BUSINESS MANAGER: Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE: Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER: Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER: Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT: Connie Pulkinson
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR: Carla Jones
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR: Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS: Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams, Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christa South, Joe Cook, Minda Dowdy, John Pulkinson, Norm LeComte, James Seymore

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 108, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.
POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Crowd trips up during concert

By Rod Gillespie
Arts and Entertainment Editor

Trip Shakespeare guitarist Dave Wilson told the Collegian in a telephone interview last Wednesday that when his band hits Kansas, pandemonium reigns.

His assessment couldn't have been more accurate last Friday night when Trip Shakespeare played the Bottleneck in Lawrence. Give the band an A+ for their performance, the crowd a C- for theirs.

The sold-out house seemed determined to demonstrate its adoration for the band through outright obnoxiousness. After enduring countless shoves from overzealous fans and splashes from their drinks, I felt more like a survivor than a music fan.

At times, the scene took on the flavor of a Who concert. Midway through the show, Wilson had to ask the crowd to step back so that people in front wouldn't be crushed.

Quite frankly, I've come away from many a punk gig with fewer bruises.

But how can I complain, really? Trip Shakespeare put on a show that mirrored the crowd's exuberance.

The band opened with a stirring rendition of "The Slacks," a song that parodies a rivalry between brothers Matt and Dave Wilson and bassist John Munson for the affections of "a one-eyed lady in France." The tune came complete with a synchronized dance routine that the audience clumsily tried to imitate.

In these situations — sandwiched between bodies, moving at the whim of the crowd — you have to relax and go with the flow.

The band's set drew heavily from their latest release, "Across the Universe." The Wilson brothers teamed with Munson for gorgeous vocal harmonies on "Pearle," "Turtle-dove," "Drummer Like Me" and "Gone, Gone, Gone."

Behind the fray, drummer Elaine Harris seemed unmoved. Her stoic expressions belie the solid, in-the-pocket backdrop she provides from her standing position behind the drum kit.

The crowd fervor may have reached its peak when the band exploded into "The Crane," a lament of credit difficulties. The crowd became one with the band, singing the lyrics: "When the dogs of the bank are upon me/And they've come to repossess my car/I'll be found at the base of the canyon/I'll be torn from the wreck of the motor."

In the first of two encores, the crowd's thrashing was replaced by a gentle swaying as the band brought the crowd back down to Earth with the ballad, "Snow Days."

A funky second encore gave Harris a chance to show her stuff. Matt Wilson added his own chops on the bass drum as well. All in all, the final encore was a percussive send-off for some boisterous fans.

"BEST DAMN PIZZA"

Also: Pool Room & Sports Bar

16" Extra Large Pizza ONLY $6.25

Dine In or Carry Out.

"premium pizza for a cardboard pizza price"

Pool Room 523 S. 17th 537-1484

AIM HIGH

Allied Health Professionals & Administrators

Plan a future that soars. Take your science-related degree into the Air Force, and become an officer in the Biomedical Sciences Corps. You'll learn more, you'll grow faster—you'll work with other dedicated professionals in a quality environment where your contributions are needed.

In short, you'll gain more of everything that matters most to you. You and the Air Force. Launch now—call

USAF HEALTH PROFESSIONS
COLLECT 913-491-8640

AIR FORCE

THE LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION.

Announcing the Grilled Chicken Sandwich of participating Dairy Queen® stores. Lightly grilled to perfection, it's a whole new taste. Topped with crisp lettuce, fresh tomato, and creamy reduced calorie mayonnaise on a delicious wheat bun and all of around 30 calories. Try one today and discover chicken the light way.

$2.79 WE TREAT YOU RIGHT. brazier.

1015 N. Third Manhattan 776-4117

Open Information Session

Rec Complex Expansion

Mon., Oct. 29, 1990
4:00 p.m.
Union-Little Theatre

THE RIDE

KSU STUDENT TRIPS TO ART MUSEUMS

THE K. S. U. ART DEPARTMENT IS OFFERING A DAY TRIP TO KANSAS CITY NOVEMBER 3.

THE RIDE will take in:

sculpture by Jacques Lipchitz, works by Jim Dine, color prints from Cassatt & Whistler to current artist, South Asian Textiles representing dyed & embroidered techniques, contemporary work at the Leedy-Voulkos and Morgan Galleries

There will be a lunch break in West Port.

Students.....$6.00 Faculty & Friends.....$10.00

The bus will leave the south side of the Union at 8:00 AM, with return planned for 5:30 PM..

For information and reservations call or come to the Art Department, K.S.U., 532-6605, by November 1.

Made Possible Through The FINE ARTS FEE

A Lady's Fashion Boutique You've Been Awaiting....

Contemporary European and American style

Affordable Chic and Flair

Options which allow you to be you

Quality and Service

Please join us
Pre-Grand Opening Sale
Starting November 1

ELEGANCE
Manhattan Town Center
(near Center Court)
537-8463

Cool Deals on Great Meals

Get your Hardee's Wild Card™ free for the asking - and head down to Hardee's. The Hardee's Wild Card™ is good for weekly "cardholder" specials all year long.

This Week's Wild Card Special
Quarter Lb. Cheeseburger
99¢ Hardee's

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS:
1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

McCain

Coppelia

Royal New Zealand Ballet
Thursday, November 1, 8 p.m.

To celebrate its 150th birthday, New Zealand sends us a company of 40 sprightly dancers in a charming Romantic ballet set to a delightful score. Join the fun as a young man's infatuation with a life-size mechanical doll and a toymaker's attempt to bring the doll to life almost spoil a girl's wedding plans.

"A perfect Coppelia... It was a magical night." (Sunday Mail, Brisbane, Australia)

Students/Children: $9, 8, 6
General Public: $18, 16, 12
Senior Citizens: $16, 14, 10

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency. Additional support by the Jeanne Waller Durkin Memorial Fund.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K State Union, Manhattan Town Center, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

Fitness For Sale!

2 for 1 Membership Sale

Congratulations to the winners of our Open House drawing

Brandon Hill—year winner
Mark Brown—$15 gift cert.

Jessica Habiger—6 mo. winner
Stacy Bertrand—$10 gift cert.

1100 Moro Aggieville 776-1654

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS MONDAY

Both cross country teams take 2nd

Mike Welchans and J. Kyle Wyatt/Staff

ABOVE: The pack of Big Eight women's runners begins the first descent on the course Saturday morning at Pioneer Park in Lincoln, Neb. The K-State women's team placed second. BELOW: Janet Treiber and Janet Haskin have their times called out to them as they approach the 4-kilometer mark. RIGHT: Todd Trask, left, and David Warders cross the 6-kilometer mark in the men's race. Trask finished fifth and Warders seventh.

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

LINCOLN, Neb. — K-State coach John Capriotti saw something interesting at the Big Eight Cross Country Championships.

The men turned in a riveting team performance to record a solid, second-place conference finish, but the women recorded a disappointing, second-place finish.

"It is interesting that I can be disappointed with one second and happy with one second. Competition is very different," Capriotti said. "It shows where our women are. A lot of teams would have been happy with second."

Iowa State came away with the championship trophies in both divisions. Their men put four runners in the Top 10, including the first three spots, and their women were led by a 2, 3, 4 finish en route to the victory.

Jonah Koech from Iowa State was the men's overall champion, covering the 8,000-meter course in a record time of 24:31.4. Susan Bliss of Missouri emerged as the women's champion by running the 5,000-meter course in 17:08.6, which was 14 seconds ahead of second place.

The K-State men's team had been picked to finish third behind Iowa State and Kansas, the No. 1 and No. 18 ranked teams in the nation. When the final tallies were posted, K-State claimed second with 52 points, 26 points behind Iowa State and 32 ahead of third-place Nebraska. Kansas was fourth with 103 points.

"The men did a great job. They only got beat by the unanimous No. 1 team in the country," Capriotti said. "If there is ever a time to be No. 2, then there was satisfaction in it today."

Junior college transfer Todd Trask led the K-State charge for the second meet in a row, finishing fifth. David Warders and Ron Smith also turned in medal performances, finishing seventh and ninth, respectively. Jason Goertzen placed 15th, and Phil Byrne was 16th to round out the K-State scoring.

"I moved in front of the lead pack when I should have stayed in the pack. Then I paid for it the last 2,000 meters," Trask said. "I'm glad that we were able to give Iowa State a run for their money."

In addition to placing in the top two, the men entered the meet wanting to come out on top of the K-State-Kansas rivalry. It was clear in pre-meet stories that the two teams were gunning for each other.

K-State earned the bragging rights by putting three runners in front of Kansas' top runner, and all five in front of their third runner.

"Who would ever feel good about getting beat by their arch rival? It is a great rivalry, and that is what college athletics is all about," Capriotti said. "That rivalry is going to go on forever."

The women's team, the premeet favorite, fell short in its bid to claim the championship. They were 37 points behind Iowa State and only nine ahead of third-place Colorado.

"You can cut it up any way you want, but our women were bad. Paulette Staats and Jennifer Hillier, those are the only two that ran well," Capriotti said. "We can't afford to have our No. 1 and No. 2 runners run like that and expect to be good."

Staats improved on what was her best performance two weeks ago to lead the Wildcats. Staats was the only K-State woman to medal, placing seventh. Janet Haskin, Janet Treiber and Hillier all finished in the Top 20 at 11th, 14th and 18th, respectively. Janet Magner was the final K-State scorer at 35th.

"I felt really good about my race. It was definitely a positive experience for me. I really didn't have a strategy except go out and get a good spot," Staats said. "We all expected to do a lot better, but we can't dwell on this race. We have to think positive and look ahead to the next race."

Spikers break 11-match losing streak to Sooners

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

After posting its first-ever win over Oklahoma in Norman, the K-State volleyball squad took a big step Saturday toward improving its chances for a berth into the Big Eight tournament.

"This keeps alive our chances for postseason (play). It was a win we knew we had to have, and we got it," Coach Scott Nelson said. "Now we're in a position to where we can dictate the tempo a little bit better with other teams."

"We've been playing fairly solid the last several weeks. I think it's a definite confidence booster. Trying not to focus on Oklahoma this weekend was real tough because Oklahoma stood in the road of one of our important goals, and that is to make the Big Eight tournament," Nelson said.

The spikers improved to 10-10 overall and 2-5 in the conference by upsetting the Sooners, 15-6, 15-13, 8-15, 15-6, for the first time in 11 tries.

"I thought we played real well to our strengths, and we really dictated the tempo of the match, which we haven't been able to really do in the past couple of years with Oklahoma," Nelson said. "That was a real important match for us. It was a team that we haven't beaten in a real long time."

The Wildcats fought through a 13-13 tie in the second game to gain

"This keeps alive our chances for postseason (play)."

—Scott Nelson
volleyball coach

control of the match, led by Rhonda Hughes' 14 kills with no errors. Kathy Saxton also registered 14 kills, while Julie James hit 13 with 14 digs. The Sooners dropped to 10-15 on the season, with a 2-5 Big Eight record.

"Again we played to other strengths. We had a lot of serving errors, but the serves that were in were well-placed," Nelson said. "I thought that took them out of their offensive rhythm a little bit and gave them trouble. That allowed our other strength, defense, to pick up a lot of balls and transition for a lot of kills."

On the other hand, a team K-State has found easy to beat, Tulsa, gave the 'Cats a tough time Friday night before losing the match, 15-6, 13-15, 14-16, 15-10, 15-13. K-State has beaten Tulsa in all of the previous 19 matches.

"I felt that Tulsa played us real relaxed and real well," Nelson said. "When we needed to tighten up, we did execute and pulled off the win."

Betsy Berkley led K-State with 15 kills, followed by Valery Roberts' 14, and James' 12. In her first collegiate start, freshman Melissa Berkley led the 'Cats in digs with 14.

"We still haven't totally mastered our ability to play consistently day in and day out, which usually is tied to the youth and maturity of your team," Nelson said. "I'm seeing, more and more, that we are playing steadier and more consistent."

The players representing K-State will be Brett Vuillemin, Richard Laing, Will Siebert, Bill Graham and Chris Thompson.

Bunker said his goals are high. "I would be pleased with a top-three finish," he said. "With our talent, I think our team is capable of that."

Coaches candid, funny

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Billy Tubbs and Roy Williams sang the blues. Johnny Orr cracked jokes. Each was a familiar face doing a familiar thing.

Then, there were Dana Altman, Joe Harrington and Eddie Sutton, defining goals for their respective programs. The trio represented the newcomers to the Big Eight Conference coaching fraternity.

The mix of new and old was featured at Big Eight Basketball Media Day on Sunday as league coaches and players met with media representatives to preview the upcoming season — a season filled with uncertainties.

"This is going to be a great conference race for the fans," said Tubbs, whose Oklahoma Sooners finished atop the final regular season Top 25 poll a year ago and is the media favorite to win the league crown this season. "I think we have a chance to be good."

Williams echoed Tubbs' sentiment by forecasting a wide-open chase for the title.

"The league is so unsettled right now," Williams said. "There's nobody who would bet their home on who will win the league title. But if I had to pick, I'd start with Oklahoma."

The media chose Kansas to finish second, followed by Missouri, Oklahoma State, Iowa State, K-State, Colorado and Nebraska.

Oklahoma will have to overcome the loss of several top players to live up to the billing. During the off-season, Big Eight newcomer-of-the-year Jackie Jones and Smokey McCovery left the program, and Damon Patterson has been declared academically ineligible for the first semester.

"That stuff never seems to matter. Billy always comes up with players," said Iowa State's Orr, who is in his 40th season as a college coach. "I asked my assistant where he gets them, and he knows every player in America. He's never seen any of those guys."

One ingredient Tubbs lacks that most of the other league coaches will have is an imposing inside player. The league's crop will be the best in years, led by Missouri's Doug Smith.

Smith, the returning Big Eight player-of-the-year, chose to stay for his senior year despite an NCAA investigation into recruiting violations by Tiger coaches.

Also returning are Colorado's Shaun Anderson, Oklahoma State's Victor Alexander, Oklahoma State's Byron Houston and Kansas' Mark Randall. All were chosen to the preseason all-Big Eight team.

"It seems like you face a really good big man every night," said Alexander, who was fourth in the league in scoring last year at 19.7 points per game. "I know when I play against them, I'm trying my hardest to outplay them."

Kansas, which outplayed a lot of opponents last season under Williams' team concept, has dealt with early-season injuries to senior Mike Maddox and newcomer Steve Woodberry. Maddox, a three-year letterman who averaged 8.7 points a year ago, has been sidelined with a lower-back problem.

Missouri coach Norm Stewart has to deal with the losses of Travis Ford, who transferred to Kentucky, and all-Big Eight performer Anthony Peeler, who will miss at least the first half of the season with academic problems.

"There's not a whole lot we can do," Stewart said. "We're just trying to live our every-day life, playing hard and practicing hard."

Of the league's new coaches, Sutton at Oklahoma State may have inherited the best situation. Four starters return from last year's 17-14 team. Houston averaged 18.5 points and 10 rebounds to lead the Cowboys.

The other Big Eight newcomers — K-State's Dana Altman and Colorado's Joe Harrington — upheld their off-season promises of replacing conservative styles of play with fast breaks and presses.

"Our players talk like they want to play that style, and they look pretty good doing it against each other," said Harrington, who joined the Buffaloes after three seasons at Long Beach State. "But it's going to be a lot different trying to do it against Missouri and Oklahoma."

Nebraska, picked to finish eighth, will field its most experienced team under Coach Danny Nee. The Cornhuskers will suit up five seniors and five juniors, including Beau Reid, a forward who missed last season.

Golfers to play in Texas

From Staff and Wire Reports

The K-State men's golf team will compete in the Hyatt Bear Creek Fall Classic today and Tuesday at the Bear Creek Golf Course in Dallas.

The course is listed by several publications as one of the top 50 in the country, and 19 teams will traverse it in the 36-hole event.

Among the top teams competing are Lamar, Southern Mississippi, Louisiana Tech, Wichita State, Texas Wesleyan and Grand Canyon.

"Playing down in Texas against some of these schools will be tough," said K-State coach Russ Bunker. "Those teams are playing on their own kinds of courses."

The players representing K-State will be Brett Vuillemin, Richard Laing, Will Siebert, Bill Graham and Chris Thompson.

Bunker said his goals are high. "I would be pleased with a top-three finish," he said. "With our talent, I think our team is capable of that."

Hilleary, 'Hawks hold off 'Cats, 27-24

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

LAWRENCE—Kansas quarterback Chip Hilleary threw for 221 yards and ran for 102 more as Kansas continued its recent dominance of K-State with a 27-24 win Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

Hilleary, a sophomore, burst K-State's comeback balloon with a 40-yard dash on a third-and-three from his own 32 late in the fourth quarter.

It was a painful end to a comeback effort that saw K-State cut a 27-10 deficit to just three points in a mere 9 minutes, 29 seconds of the game's final period.

Each team fumbled twice and lost the ball on both occasions, but it was mental breakdowns coupled with physical ones that told the story this day.

"I think we did things offensively that cost us the opportunity to win, and I think we did things defensively that cost us a chance to win," said K-State coach Bill Snyder.

Linebacker Brooks Barta, who had eight tackles in the losing effort, took it a step further.

"I went into the game saying that the team that made the most mistakes was the team that was going to lose," he said. "We were that team."

And the major miscues came on both sides of the ball.

Offensively, K-State's first fumble may have been the most costly because it resulted in a 14-point swing.

With the Wildcats knocking on the door early in an attempt to score the game's first points, Pat Jackson fumbled at the KU seven, and the 'Hawks proceeded to go 93 yards for the score.

A possible 7-0 K-State lead was an actual 7-0 Jayhawk advantage.

One big play in the touchdown drive was the result of a defensive breakdown in pass coverage—the first of two such breakdowns K-State would have on the day.

Faced with a second-and-four at the K-State 44, Hilleary launched a pass into the 20-mile-per-hour north wind. It came down—fluttering—into the hands of flanker Rob Licursi.

The 30-yard gain was a backbreaker for K-State and a breath of new life for Kansas. The ball was in the end zone four plays later.

The second Wildcat fumble opened the third quarter in much the same way Jackson's miscue had opened the first.

After Chris Patterson had recovered a Jayhawk fumble to give K-State the ball at the KU 33, Wildcat quarterback Carl Straw hit receiver Michael Smith on a pass four plays later.

As Smith lunged for the goal, he fumbled into the end zone and Kansas covered the ball for a touchdown. The Jayhawk lead was safe at 17-7.

"Twice it's a turnover that hurts you," Snyder said. "In the second half, just like the first, we're down there again, and it's a turnover in both cases that costs us."

The second major Wildcat defensive breakdown on a pass play came midway through the third quarter with the deficit cut to 17-10. On a second-and-eight play from the K-State 47, Hilleary again hit Licursi, this time for a 32-yard gain.

Five plays later, the lead was 24-10 for Kansas.

"They had two big plays on passes," Snyder said. "And neither ball should have been caught. We had people right there."

On the defensive end of both passes from Hilleary to Licursi—both into the stiff north wind—was Wildcat free safety C.J. Masters.

Kansas tacked on its final three points when Dan Eichloff hit a school-record 58-yard field goal 11 seconds into the final quarter.

Straw brought the 'Cats back, spearheading two fourth-quarter drives. The first, a 13-play, 80-yard effort, ended with Jackson's 1-yard plunge for the score. The second, a 14-play, 65-yard march, ended with Straw going in from a yard out.

K-State, with 5:20 left, had cut the gap to three.

But Hilleary's long run in the ensuing Kansas possession sealed the Wildcats' fate.

The victory lifted Kansas to 2-5-1 overall and 1-2-1 in the Big Eight. The loss dropped K-State to 4-4 and 1-3.

David Mayes and Brian W. Kratzer/Staff

ABOVE: Junior wide receiver Michael Smith sits dejectedly on the turf following an incomplete pass just outside the end zone in Saturday's 27-24 loss to KU in Lawrence. BELOW LEFT: Kansas quarterback Chip Hilleary outruns K-State's Danny Needham in the fourth quarter. Rogerick Green (right) trails the play. Hilleary passed for 221 yards and rushed for 102 more. BELOW: A tough Kansas defense made life difficult for K-State quarterback Carl Straw, knocking off his helmet on this play. Straw scored a pair of touchdowns for K-State, and threw for 325 yards.

STATISTICS

WILDCAT FOOTBALL

GAME IN FIGURES
STATISTIC	KSU	KU
First Downs	23	23
Rushing Yards	70	243
Passing Yards	325	261
Total Offense	395	504
Return Yards	64	106
Att.-Comp.-Int.	44-24-0	23-15-1
Fumbles-Lost	2-2	2-2
Penalties	7-51	10-77
K-State	0 7 3	14 24
Kansas	7 10 7	3 27
KU — Sands 5-yard run (Eichloff kick)
KU — Sands 2-yard run (Eichloff kick)
KS — Straw 5-yard run (Wright kick)
KU — Eichloff 21-yard FG
KS — Wright 19-yard FG

KU — White 2-yard run (Eichloff kick)
KU — Eichloff 58-yard FG
KS — Jackson 1-yard run (Wright kick)
KS — Straw 1-yard run (Wright kick)

RUSHING — K-State: Jackson 13-22, Schiller 7-10, Straw 8-38, Kansas: Hilleary 12-102, Sands 11-48, White 20-58, Robben 5-16, Douglas 7-19.

PASSING — K-State: Straw 44-24-0-325, Kansas: Hilleary 20-13-1-221, Eichloff 1-1-0-30, Florell 2-1-0-10.

RECEIVING — K-State: Campbell 3-39, Smith 8-123, Schiller 1-(-1), Hernandez 6-62, Coleman 3-42, Jones 3-60, Kansas: Drayton 7-96, Licursi 4-116, Robben 1-10, Fette 2-32, Gay 1-7.

PUNTING — K-State: Cobb 5-37, A. Kansas: Eichloff 3-43-0.

A — 45,000, 9,500 on hill.

Game day in Lawrence something special

David Svoboda

SPORTS EDITOR

LAWRENCE — Nestled snugly into the landscape at the bottom of Campanile Hill is Memorial Stadium, home of the Kansas Jayhawks.

On Saturday, the hill, stadium and surrounding city were alive with the all the pageantry that comprises the very essence of college football.

From the five-mile long line of vehicles outside the West Lawrence exit on I-70 until five minutes after kickoff, to the record-setting 9,500 fans sitting on blankets on the hill south of the stadium, this was a day like no other Kansas has seen in recent memory.

This was a football Saturday in the fall. The leaves on the trees surrounding the stadium radiated in burnt orange, brilliant crimson and a yellow rivaled by only the mustard on a stadium hot dog.

Bands from the two schools doing battle on the field staged a Civil War of their own in the stands, seemingly attempting to fill every moment with music. And the sweet sounds wafted through the crisp, autumn air, calling in those near the stadium to take part in the deliciousness of it all.

Those who failed to arrive early met with a cruel fate. Vehicles went up and down the hills around the stadium like Hot Wheels cars on the banked tracks one might have played with as a child.

A look here, a discouraging glance there. And then, desperation—a fiver pulled from a pocket for the opportunity to park in the front lawn of a fraternity. "You guys won't have me towed since I'm from K-State, will ya?"

The hike to the stadium followed, with expletives deleted. "God, I'm out of shape." Then, as if the man upstairs had heard the breathless complaints, the hill and the stadium came into sight.

And what a beautiful sight it was.

The Campanile—a bell tower—stood at the apex of the hill and served as a gathering point for residents of the Sunflower State young and old. For those from out of state, the experience gave a quick glimpse of what makes this area like no other in the world.

There were folks clad in purple, others in blue. There was fried chicken here, ice cream there. Alcohol—in flasks, bottles, cans—was everywhere.

And yet, with a battle taking place on the field and the time ripe for one outside the stadium, there was a peaceful coexistence. Sure, there was screaming—liquid courage has a way of making one say things normally best reserved for back-alley brawls.

But there was no riot, no childishness—nothing that could detract from what was fast becoming a day of snapshots for the mind.

Then, almost suddenly, the focusing camera turned inward, toward the field of play. There, men in purple, white and silver were preparing to clash with those wearing blue—from helmeted head to cleated toe.

With a swing of a powerful leg, the oblong pigskin moved upward, blown toward those on the hill by a north wind that shot in from atop the enclosed end of the stadium. The hostilities had commenced.

First, the outsiders had emotion on their side. But then, with first joy so tantalizingly close the salivary glands watered in anticipation, the taste turned rapidly from sweet to sour.

That taste, however, differed on the palates of the beneficiaries of this first of many twists of football fate.

Soon, mighty Kansas took the lead.

Before long, the climb for the men in purple, white and silver looked like it would be insurmountable.

But the climb back did begin. And then, apparently now as an afterthought, the warriors in blue sent their strong leg onto the turf for an attempt at carving a niche in the history of Jayhawk football. The leg swung through, the kick was straight and true. It was 27-10, KU.

The men in purple refused to die, gallantly scratching, clawing, closing the seemingly insurmountable gap. And then, in an instant, it was over.

A dash in desperation by a fair-haired boy—from Ohio, no less—had snuffed out the faint glimmer of hope that remained for the men in purple. The warriors in crimson and blue had won.

But had anyone really lost?

When the fray was over, and brother turned to brother, husband to wife and friend to friend, a lone couple was silhouetted on the edge of the parking lot outside the stadium. The young man had his arm lovingly wrapped around the young woman's shoulder, and then he tenderly offered her a kiss.

A parting glance by the passerby revealed that the young man was a warrior—the warrior from Ohio that made a desperation dash that ended the action on the field.

It was only fitting that he be a part of the end of a day of photographs and memories—memories of a gorgeous, Kansas football Saturday. Memories that will last a lifetime.

Brian W. Kratzer/Staff

Approximately 9,500 fans gathered on Campanile Hill outside Memorial Stadium Saturday to watch the game between KU and K-State.

Students, faculty express fear about reorganization

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

While many people view reorganization as an opportunity for change, others anticipate the worst as K-State faces consolidation and elimination of programs.

"There is nothing more devastating than our own imaginations," said Donald Hoyt, assistant provost for planning and evaluation services. "I feel like in this instance, as in life in general, people fear what is unknown."

Even though many faculty members and students are anxious about the possible implications of reorganization, most people agree that the University cannot continue to operate in its present state.

"If we continue to be all things to all people, we'll reduce to mediocrity," said Bob Krause, vice president for institutional advancement.

Reorganization is an extension of the strategic planning process, Krause said. This is a continuation of a process, not a brand new idea.

In his State of the University address Sept. 11, President Jon Wefald listed the critical financial status of the University as a major reason for moving ahead with the reorganization process.

After cuts in the enrollment adjustment and across-the-board budget reductions by the Legislature, the University began fiscal year 1990 with about $5 million less in its base budget than anticipated.

If people examine the demographics, economy, history of the state and the ability of the state of Kansas to support higher education, the need for reorganization is clear, Hoyt said.

"The challenge is in what to do specifically to consolidate programs so savings can be applied to achieve excellence in other areas," Hoyt said. "Everyone wants the excellence, but no one wants the consolidation. It's politically and educationally tricky."

The first draft for reorganization is currently being written by Provost James Coffman. Deans from each of the eight colleges, past, present and future presidents of Faculty Senate, University vice presidents and the student body president will act as representatives for the proposal.

Coffman has asked each of these faculty leaders for their reactions on different reorganization proposals. The idea that there is a specific reorganization committee is a misnomer, Krause said. It is more of a consulting process.

University programs are being evaluated according to five criteria: centrality to mission of the University, centrality to the definition of a university, redundancy, quality and demand.

The deans present the needs of their individual colleges and communicate how their colleges fit into the overall scheme of the University, said Don Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering.

"All the deans want to be treated fairly, that's about all we can ask for as a college," Rathbone said.

Re-evaluating programs isn't an unusual process in most of the colleges.

"We've been doing this a good many years," Rathbone said. "It's a culmination of preliminary planning and actual changes made in the past. We've built an excellent base. We're not starting from scratch."

Rathbone said all programs are being considered for change.

"In terms of change, no one is untouchable," Rathbone said. "We're a strong program, but we must be

See REORGANIZE, Page 10A

Provost, deans to meet

Faculty to have input in campus proposals

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

College deans are opening avenues for faculty input as specific proposals for reorganization are being considered, said Provost James Coffman.

Coffman has scheduled a series of non-confidential meetings with each college dean to discuss reorganization proposals for the individual colleges.

"In effect, we've instituted a consulting process through the deans,"

Coffman said in an interview Friday. "This is an obvious time for faculty input, and it is exactly the meaning for this phase."

Student reactions will play an important role in the process, but plans for the reorganization draft need to be more precisely developed before administrators seek student input, Coffman said. Individual deans, however, are free to discuss various proposals with students if they see fit.

Coffman

"We don't want too many irons in the fire at the same time," Coffman said.

As deans open communication lines, faculty members and students must not assume that every proposal will become part of the final reorganization plan.

See COFFMAN, Page 10A

Kaiser stresses patience

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

Reorganization is more than dumping people and dumping programs, said Marvin Kaiser, interim dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

K-State must first look for ways to operate current programs more effectively and efficiently before program elimination is considered, Kaiser said.

"If you start by saying, 'we're going to cut this or we're going to cut that in the way of a program,' then you are talking about people's lives," he said. "It may be we have to do some things like that, but I don't believe that's where we ought to start."

We aren't playing on a level playing field in comparison to the rest of the University, Kaiser said.

"We all believe we are slowly being led to death in this college," he said. "We have a lot of needs given the responsibilities we have within this college. We don't have the resources or infrastructure to serve all of those needs."

President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman established the College of Arts and Sciences as a priority when they announced plans for reorganization in September.

Kaiser said that even though the college stands to benefit from reorganization, it, along with the rest of

See KAISER, Page 10A

PREGNANT? NEED HELP?

For confidential help call

Birthright

FREE Pregnancy Tests
103 S. Fourth 537-9180
1-800-848-LOVE

MOTORCYCLE

Soft Saddle Bags $69.95
Tank Bag $59.95
Motorcycle Cover $45.00
Full Vetter Helmet $60.00
Cargo Net $4.00
Shoei & Bieffe Face Shields
Winter Gloves

776-6177

OPEN Mon.-Sat. 9:30-6:30 1221 Moro on alley Aggieville

Treat Yourself To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

Clafin Books & Copies

First Bank Center—1814 Clafin

Halloween Special

Orange 20 lb. copies 6¢

Agatha Christie Celebration

Women Mystery Writers

776-3771

PINNACLE

National Honor Society for Non-Traditional Students

MEETING Oct. 30, 1990

Union 205 at 3:30 p.m.

Members and Non-Members Welcome

Treat Your Punkin' To A Personal

and the COLLEGIAN will treat you to

$1 off

your prepaid personal classified ad

Clip the purple coupon from the 1990-91 KSU CAMPUS DIRECTORY and bring it to Kedzie 103 by noon Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Coupon good for Oct. 31, 1990 issue only. ID must be shown when placing Personals.

JCPenney Savings Certificate "Shopping Spectacular"

Was mailed to all our credit customers in mid-October. If we missed you, or you are strictly a cash customer, or if you already used it, here is your chance. Last week to save on this event. Coupon Expires 11/3/90!

25% off (with Coupon Below)

- *•ALL WOMEN'S MERCHANDISE
- *•ALL MEN'S MERCHANDISE
- *•ALL KIDS MERCHANDISE
- *•ALL SHOES & FINE JEWELRY
- *•ALL HOME FURNISHINGS

JCPenney Savings Certificate

Here is your perfect opportunity to take advantage of a whole new world of fashion for yourself, your family and all your fall shopping. Last week to use 10/28 thru 11/3! Oct. 28 thru Nov. 3rd

- Save 25 % on regularly priced* items you purchase on a one day shopping spree.
- Just present this certificate as you purchase each item and turn it in when making your last purchase of the day.

*Discount applies only to regular priced merchandise and is limited to stock on hand. May not be used for the following:

- gift certificates, catalog, cosmetics, smart value items, Everyday Value Women's Outerwear;
- multiple packages of: furniture, home accessories, luggage, or multiple priced women's lingerie items;
- service purchases, including Custom Decorating and Styling Salons, or licensed departments;
- at Catalog Outlet, Thrift Drug Stores, or JCPenney Portfolio Home Furnishings;
- redeemed for cash, used for payment on account, or in combination with any other JCPenney coupon.

Your discount can apply to one or more items providing purchases are made during the same shopping visit at one JCPenney store. As always, credit purchases are subject to credit review. Minimum cash value 1/20th of one cent.

JCPenney

25% OFF
SHOPPING
Spree

Take 25% off every* item in the store, with above coupon!!!

776-4867

LAST WEEK TO USE YOUR SAVINGS CERTIFICATE

776-4867

JCPenney...Manhattan Town Center...Where Fashion Comes To Life!

MON.

$1 Bottles & Cans

$1 Keystone & Old Mill
OPEN 3-12

TUES. & WED.

$2 Pitchers
OPEN 3-12

GO NORTH ON BARNES RD.
1 MILE FROM BRIDGE
537-3133

kinko's
the copy center

KSU Dairy Days attracts 200 dairy producers

By Danette King
Collegian Reporter

Pottoroff Hall at CiCo Park was filled with 200 dairy producers Friday when they met during the 1990 KSU Dairy Days.

"Dairy Days is an annual commodity event. It gives us the opportunity to provide producers with current research on timely topics," said Ed Call, professor of animal sciences and industry and a coordinator of the event. "It really is a way we say thanks to the commodity people for helping out the University."

The program, which focused on high-producing dairy herd management, included speaker Bill Dobson, an agricultural economist from the University of Wisconsin. Attendees also heard a brief research update on the feeding and management of early weaned calves and a panel discussion by the two state dairy cooperatives.

Randy McMahon, Cedar Falls, Iowa, describes Clay Equipment products to participants at the annual KSU Dairy Day Saturday at Pottoroff Hall.

Dobson spoke Friday morning about managing milking operations in the 1990s. He focused on dairy supports, marketing challenges, opportunities for cooperatives and what producers can do to deal with the changes coming in the 1990s.

Dobson said dairy protections, in the form of price supports, are becoming a part of the past.

Dobson said that milk prices are heading down.

He also said the industry needs "early movers" to increase dairy product demand and stress research and development progress.

"We are seeing a massive change in the minds of consumers on the importance of protein as to the value of fat," he said.

Dobson said he believes producers will have to start concentrating on producing milk with higher protein levels. This could involve a shift in breeds because some breeds have a better potential of producing higher protein levels than the traditional holstein breed, he said.

Overall, Dobson said he believes producers have positioned themselves well for the 1990s.

A panel of Dobson, Jack Padley with Mid American Dairymen Inc. and Dwight Haddock with Associated Milk Producers Inc. answered the audience's questions concerning cooperative involvement in the changes that must be made within the industry. Both Padley and Haddock spoke on how the changes were being handled.

Padley explained how Mid American Dairymen is starting an incentive program for quality milk. Haddock said the same kind of program would be started around the first of the year for the Associated Milk Producers.

During the afternoon session, Lyle

Bergman, senior in food science and industry, was awarded a $1,000 scholarship from the National Dairy Board, and 186 dairies received Quality Milk Awards. Dobson also spoke on the implications of the 1990 farm bill.

"Farmers have taken a substantial hit in the farm bill," Dobson said.

He encouraged producers to work toward low-cost production in order to survive the changes that will come with the loss of some support from the farm bill.

Exhibitors from 32 companies and organizations that deal with the dairy industry and other related areas had booths opened to the participants.

Mike Bodenhausen, a dairyman from Muscotah, has attended Dairy

Days for the past several years.

"Dairy Days helps me to keep up on what's going on in the industry," Bodenhausen said. "It also gives me new ideas and lets me visit the commercial booths."

Students interested in dairy science were also in attendance to hear the speakers and panelists.

Matt Jahnke, senior in animal sciences and industry, said he came because he wanted to know more about milk pricing with proteins and the implications of the farm bill.

Rex Hendrickson, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, said he came for the same reasons.

"I wanted to learn about how farms are going to have to adapt to the changes," he said.

A LOT CAN BE SAID ABOUT
A LITTLE BIT OF SPACE:
COLLEGIAN
ClassADS They Work

JONATHAN MORRIS
FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT
Paid for by the Students for Morris

Cool Savings!
Chili Burritos $1.77
(reg. $2.35)
Tacos 3 for $1.25
(reg. 55¢ each)
Good through 11-3-90
TACO HUT
Sun.-Thurs 11 a.m.-10 p.m.
Fri.-Sat. 11 a.m.-Midnight
where food friends get together
Overlooking Westloop
2809 Clafin 539-2091

Dot's Wonderful!
Surprise your pledge daughter with a
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Personal
ClassAD
Kedzie Hall 103
8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday
ID must be shown when placing a Personal ad.

Eric Wisdom, D.D.S.
NEW PATIENT SPECIAL
Cleaning, Exam and 2 X-rays
ONLY $28 reg. $59
24 hr. Emergency Number
1 4 4 5
7 7 6 1 7 1
ANDERSON

DEREK THOMAN
A & S SENATOR
• 1990 SENATE INTERN
• SENATE OPERATIONS COMMITTEE
Questions? — Call 539-2361
Paid for by Students for Thoman

BUSHWACKER'S
THE FUNDRINKERY
Comedy Invasion
Mon., Tues., & Wednesday
(Halloween)
MARC McCULLOM
1987 Star Search Winner
along with Daryl Hammond
Before 5 p.m. 18 to enter, 21 to drink After 5 p.m.
539-4321 Call for Reservation's 539-9727
531 N. Manhattan
Comedy Invasion—Halloween
Costume contest, cash prizes & giveaways

JUST SAY DAVE

If you're looking for a
Student Body President who can offer experienced, dedicated representation,
just say David McIntyre. paid for by students for McIntyre

Straight Talk. Not Campaign Talk.

Take a look at Katha Hurt's record:

LEGISLATORS' PENSIONS

FACT 1 In 1988 Katha Hurt made a commitment to voters that she would do something to stop outrageous legislative pensions. She ran her campaign based on that promise, and she won. But when the actual vote came, she backed off saying she had "a distinct impression that if we wanted to work with these people (other legislators) we better not put them on the spot." Now legislators enjoy a 43% increase in their pensions.

MARGIN OF EXCELLENCE

FACT 2 Katha Hurt's performance was less than excellent concerning Kansas State University's Margin of Excellence. She says the Margin was lost because of expensive highways. But the truth is, the third year of the Margin was lost because the cigarette tax failed in the house. We lost the Margin because Representative Hurt could only get seven of her 57 Democratic colleagues to support the measure, while the majority of Republicans were voting for the bill.

SUPPORT FOR KSU

FACT 3 While Katha Hurt served as our State Representative, Kansas State University lost the third year of the Margin of Excellence, half of its enrollment adjustment and $2 million in last-minute base budget cuts. She even voted for a bill that would have reduced funding for K-State's Center of Excellence.

FOLLOWING THE PARTY

FACT 4 Katha Hurt voted with her party leadership 92% of the time. Do her party bosses represent the thinking of our district? And she still claims to be independent.

DRUG-FREE SCHOOL ZONES

FACT 5 111 legislators voted for drug-free school zones. But Katha Hurt was one of 10 who voted against them. Today, that law is being used to prosecute drug pushers who try to sell drugs to our children. She voted against drug-free school zones because she said "it's wrong." More than 40 states have found it's right!

RESPONSIBLE SPENDING

FACT 6 Katha Hurt was one of four voting for up to a 40% increase in legislators' free postage allowance. A total of 113 legislators said no to the increase. She said yes to personal privilege.

BOARDING SCHOOLS

FACT 7 When asked about consolidation of schools recently, Katha Hurt said, "We may be faced with another consolidation. I think it needs to be done... We're looking perhaps at public high school boarding schools." Do we want to take our children from their homes and communities in the name of consolidation?

Let's get our facts straight. We need leadership that adds up to effective results. We need Kent Glasscock.

Strong leadership.
Shared values. Vote
for Kent Glasscock
November 6.

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative,
Bill Varney, Treasurer.

Coffman

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8A

"If anything was engraved in stone, we wouldn't be talking about it," Coffman said. "(The proposals) should be handled in as objective and analytical manner as possible. That is easy to say and hard to do, depending on how the process affects you."

"Rumors are an intrinsic part of any change process," he said. "We expect people to be concerned, and they should be."

When plans for reorganization were announced in September, Coffman and President Jon Wefald told students changes in programs and majors would be done in phases. Programs needed for graduation would still be made available to students.

That commitment will be kept, Coffman said. Positions for tenured professors will not be eliminated either.

Final plans for reorganization will be implemented July 1, 1990, Coffman said. The plans will be phased in at different rates.

Reorganize

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8A

open to change. It's better to reorganize and have good programs rather than do nothing and have mediocre programs."

Reorganization will affect faculty and students at the University as well as individuals across Kansas.

Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture, said the agriculture college plays a vital role in research and extension services that reach well beyond the lines of K-State.

"I hope people realize in the College of Agriculture we constantly undergo change," Woods said. "We are the most reviewed college on campus due to the grants we receive for research."

The first public reorganization draft is expected to be released in November. Administrators will seek faculty and student input as the plan is presented for approval.

"We'll need responses when the plan comes out from those who live and future will be affected by the plan," Hoyt said.

Kaiser

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8A

the University, must be careful to not divide the campus into winners and losers.

"We can't stand around waiting to win at the expense of others. If we take what some have termed the vulture approach, it won't contribute to a sense of community of faculty and students."

From the onset of reorganization, faculty and students have been concerned about opportunities for input in the program-evaluation process.

Even though faculty members are anxious about the process, they will be more cooperative if they are included from the beginning and are assured there are no hidden agendas, Kaiser said. People are more willing to realize reorganization can be positive if they see their ideas being considered.

"With a lot of the faculty, there is a recognition that we can not go on the way we are," Kaiser said. "If we don't make decisions about how we want to be a better college, someone else will."

Schools

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3A

There is a need for conferences addressing the issues facing rural and small schools because 69 percent of the 304 Kansas school districts enroll less than 1,000 students in grades K-12, Havlicek said.

"A lot of issues we will discuss are applicable to a really wide range of schools," Havlicek said.

Both Havlicek and Lawrence attribute the success of the conference to a commitment made from the University offices and administrations involved with it.

"The neat thing about the conference is that we all have a really strong belief that rural and small-school education is a very valid and good kind of education," Havlicek said. "We want the focus of the conference to be how to enhance it and make it better."

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

1 Announcements

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $5.20 per inch; Three consecutive days: $5.00 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.80 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.60 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex or ancestry.

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Kripp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

DIRECT THE K-State Band at Homecoming! For details, visit the sign-up table in the Union.

LIVE MODEL "Male and Female" at Undercover's Halloween Party, 1224 Moro. Tomorrow, Oct. 30, 3 to 6p.m. Check tomorrow's Collegian for details.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

WELCOME TO KSU. Call for complimentary facial. Mary Kay Cosmetics. 539-9469. Janet Miliken.

(Continued on page 17)

Holiday Open House

Join us

on Sunday, November 4, 1990

from one to five in the afternoon

We look forward to seeing you and your friends

Campbell's
DOWNTOWN

5th & Poyntz

(76-9067)

20% Storewide Discount

on regular priced merchandise purchased during open house

Door Prize

Valid on November 4

Layaways Not Included

TODD GIEFER
Student Body
President

"The future of Kansas State University has inspired me to run for Student Body President. Students have requested things in the past and our previous leaders have refused to deliver. I will respond to their concerns. If elected, the students will always be foremost in my thoughts and actions.

Thanks for the support."

Todd Giefer

Let's Put Student Back Into Student Government!

paid for by the committee to elect Todd Giefer

RE-ELECT YOUR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Sheila
HOCHHAUSER
TOO MANY $$$ FOR HIGHWAYS
TOO LITTLE $$$ FOR KSU

FROM THE 1991 STATE GENERAL FUND:

Governor's Highway Program

+ $25,000,000

Regent's Base Budget

- $21,000,000

A CHOICE HAD TO BE MADE

I voted for a smaller highway program and a larger share for higher education.

HOCHHAUSER FOR REPRESENTATIVE
YOUR REPRESENTATIVE WORKING FOR YOU

Paid for by Hochhauser for Representative; Phil Becker, Treas.

Todd Heitschmidt

for Student Body President

- A.S.K. campus director
- Student Senator-College of Ag (2 years)
- Academic Affairs and University Relations (chairman)
- Parking Council (subcommittee chair)

—Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt—

DB92
KSDB 91.9

Manhattan's First FM

BIG CASH CONTEST!

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF BROADCASTING
(1950 - 1990)

1ST PLACE: $91.90, a set of 92 CDs, records & tapes, and a DB92 T-Shirt

2ND PLACE: $88.10 and a DB92 T-Shirt

3RD PLACE: $40.00 and a DB92 T-Shirt

Register when you hear the DB92 cash register and be the first caller at 532-DB92. Winners will be chosen at 3:30 pm, Friday November 2nd.

K-State Union Bookstore Clock & Battery Sale

20% OFF

All Clocks & Batteries TODAY only!

Were you early for everything yesterday?

Maybe it's time for a new clock or time to change the batteries
in your old one.

K-State Union
Bookstore

12

(Continued from page 16)

NEW MUSIC TONIGHT! $1.50 Wells ONLY AT Baystreet

2 Apartments—Furnished

NOW AVAILABLE. One-bedroom furnished apartment for lease. Rent $255. Call 532-6664 from 10 a.m.—8 p.m. 776-0491 after 8 p.m. and Sunday.

RENT FREE country living in exchange for occasional assistance to wheelchair bound landlady. Some lifting. 1-494-8201.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Nice one-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Heat paid. 537-4515.

NICE, CLEAN, first floor, one-bedroom apartment for rent from January—August. Laundry facilities, air conditioning and front door parking. Call John at 539-8143 evenings.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one and one-half bath available Jan. 1st. Next to campus, one block from Aggieville, $160/ month plus utilities. Call anytime 776-7596.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vatter, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Washer/ dryer, $125 per month plus utilities. Near campus. Call 539-5727.

Brittany Ridge Townhomes

—More Than Your Basic Apartment—

- 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, study room
- Wired for cable, phone, computer
- Hot tubs & volleyball court
- Bus service to campus
- Monthly rent as low as $195

DWC
Dan Weir Co.
2601 Anderson Ave. 776-5599

5 Automobile for Sale

1977 VOLKSWAGON van. Excellent condition. Rebuilt engine. $1,450. 539-9435 evenings.

1985 PLYMOUTH Horizon, four-speed, good condition, $2,300 negotiable, 539-1902.

1986 MITSUBISHI Colt E, four-door, AMFM, air conditioning, new tires, five-speed, runs great. 776-2174 after 5 p.m.

HONDA CRX—HF Model, 50 miles per gallon, excellent condition, good price. Please call. 776-7895.

8 Employment

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ADDRESSERS WANTED immediately! No experience necessary. Excellent pay! Work at home. Call toll-free: 1-800-395-3283.

ATTENTION: AGGRESSIVELY expanding marketing company is looking for high quality individuals who desire excellent part-time income with possible rapid advancement into management. Send resume or letter by Oct. 31st, Box 981, Garden City, KS 67846.

CUT EDUCATION costs—College girls—live in and do duties in family home this semester and second. This in exchange for private room and meals. Write Box 1, Collegian.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

EVENING AND Daytime office and telephone sales help needed. Pleasant working conditions, hourly wage and excellent bonuses. Call 537-6163, 9a.m.—4p.m.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA. U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

IMMEDIATELY: EARN while you learn. Manpower is looking for KSU Students interested in earning great pay—plus commissions. We offer flexible hours and valuable training and business experience. Plus free use of a personal computer. If you're a full-time student, sophomore or above, with at least a B average, and computer familiar, Manpower needs you as a Collegiate Rep to promote the sales of the IBM Personal System/2 on campus. Call Lori at (913)749-2800 for all the existing details.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for a director of our dietary department. Must be a registered dietitian or registry eligible. Should have menu planning, personnel development, clinical and community education skills. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441, EOE.

RESORT HOTELS, Cruiselines, Amusement Parks and Summer Camps. Now accepting applications for Spring, Summer and Career positions. To receive an application and information, please write: National Collegiate Recreation Services, P.O. Box 7832, Hilton Head Island, SC 29928.

ROOM AND Board for help around home. 539-1656 or call Lavender and Lace 539-8705.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers/ Nannies. We have pre-screened families to suit you. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. We are established since 1984 and have a strong support network. 1-800-222-XTRA.

9 Food Specials

Bobby's
Mondays:
Play Monday Night Football
Every TD pays up to 50¢ on food purchases
$1 Draws
Chicken Fried Steak
$2.49
539-1571

Every Monday
½ Price
Nite
Order any dinner or sandwich and receive the 2nd
at ½ price
Evenings 5-8:30 p.m.
The CHEF
111 S. 4th

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: LARGE black Lab, male, in 1212 Bluemont area. Call 537-0299.

LOST: GRAY/ white tabby male cat, 6 months old. Last seen 700 block of Bluemont. Call 537-4430, leave message.

LOST: KEY chain lost last week. Call Steve 776-3499.

LOST: LARGE long-haired, brown tiger-striped cat. Lost west of stadium. Call 537-0635, leave message.

15 Meetings/ Events

PINNACLE NATIONAL Honor Society's first organizational meeting is Oct. 30, at 3:30 p.m. in Union 205. All members presence required.

16 Mobile Homes for Rent

FOR RENT: Nice two-bedroom trailer in country, 10 minutes from town. $250 per month, rent can be partially worked off in exchange for horse related chores. 539-6737.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

14x70 TWO-BEDROOM, cute kitchen, real cabinets, new bedrooms, wood floor, low utilities, $7,500. 537-4369.

AFFORDABLE LIVING across the street from nice pool, 12x60 mobile home, $4,750. 539-3513 leave message.

19 Music/ Musicians

CRATE CR212 guitar amp in excellent condition. No modifications, $175. Call 776-6485 after 6 p.m.

20 Parties-n-more

HALLOWEEN PARTY at Patricia's Undercover Lingerie at 1224 Moro. Join us Oct. 30, Tomorrow! For discount, drawing and treats. Live models male and female 3 to 6 p.m. Check tomorrow's Collegian for details.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

A DATE'S not a date unless it's with me, meet me at the Town Center Mall for, "Nightmare on the Plaza III." Frightfully yours—The Manhattan Jaycees.

AZD CREWS—Happy 21st! One whole week of total partying. Do you think we can do it? Yeah! Love you, Ash & Jen. P.S. I won't tell anyone what you did at K.U. Who???

CYD—HEY buddy. Cheer up, I'm here for you anytime. Your friend forever. —Deb.

DDD—WED. evening dinner was greatly appreciated. We feel privileged to have coached a house which displayed such class and poise. Thank you for an excellent season. —Coaches.

D.T.—RECEIVED your message. Are you sure you're calling the right number? Waiting for your next message or phone call. Tammy—Ford.

(ECONOMIST) SHELLEY, Remember Farrell at 4 last Thursday? We were talking, vator hit 4th, you missed 3rd, we forgot time n place! Sweet! Looked for you since you've left Moore/ Derby, found you, lost you again. Don't know your whereabouts. Please reply. (Mathematician) Trig.

GIRL IN P.E. 101 M-W 12:30 whose lecture prof. is an 8"17? and a 11"7—You Never Told Me Your Name! —Guy with short hair who was in wrong class.

GOOD LUCK Kevin R. for Arts and Science Senator! Love, M.A.

HEY! THREE guys in the blue Datsun 280 ZX on Thursday. We know your car and fraternity. Why don't we know you? —The three girls in red Mustang.

I'VE REALLY enjoyed my time at K-State! Thanks (Big Smile) to Linda, Ann, Margo, Melissa, The RP Staff. And all of you who let me make your individual and group portraits for the Royal Purple! I hope to see you next year! Larry G., Sudlow Photography.

KKG SPOOK Sis, Jill—Eat all the treats, but save the tricks, for homework this week will be the p/s! Spook Sis.

KRISTY IN Ford Hall, maybe the wrong # is the right one. Contact me about giving me some lessons. —Scott.

MELISSA—HERE is the personal you've never received! Has it been two months? Tee Hee.

SOKO—TRY-OUTS may have been so-so, but honey, your bod was numero uno. As for our wrestling match last Friday night, you may have won the battle, but I think I conquered in the war. I Love You. —Vera.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

TROPICAL FISH AND AQUARIUMS
PETS & NATURAL
OPEN: Thu. 10-8 p.m.
AKC COCKER Spaniel puppies, black, all shots, eight weeks old. 1-456-7580 after 5 p.m.

23 Services

RELIEF IS JUST A VERTEBRAE AWAY
At Consigli
Chiropractic
Clinic
1325 Anderson Ave.
Across from campus 776-1850

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

TOO BUSY to do your laundry? Call and for a small fee I can take your dirty duds and turn them into clean suds. Call 539-7349.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10 p.m.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters, $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851, Clallin.

INTERVIEW COMING UP? The Resume Service/ Graphics Plus offers a wide variety of services including: Typing or composition of your resume and cover letter, laser or letter-quality printing. Permanent computer storage and typing of data sheets. Stop by 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294 or 539-6027.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

Typing using word perfect 5.1/laser printer. Reasonable rates. Call Judy at 539-7100.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NON-SMOKER: Share two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. $130, one-fourth utilities. Available immediately. 537-2186.

FEMALE ROOMMATE for spring semester to share beautiful apartment. Must be neat and responsible. Call 537-4595 for more information.

ONE OR two male roommates needed, spring semester, $160/ month, next to campus. Call 537-2368.

ROOMMATE: $131.25/ month, one-sixth utilities, own room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 776-2074.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted at 1500 Harry, $135/ utilities. 776-1252.

TWO FEMALE roommates for spring semester. Nice apartment, close to campus. $136/ month plus utilities. Christy 539-3387.

26 Stereo Equipment

TECHNICS SA-R921 stereo receiver, 45 watts perich, excellent condition. $200 or offer, 776-2220 ask for Tracy, leave message.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Round-trip ticket to Houston Nov. 21 to Nov. 26. $115. Call after 5 p.m. 537-1136.

30 Travel

LAST CHANCE!
STEAMBOAT BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Keadle Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID), $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Keadle 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 6 p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, overcoats, G.I. Boots, field jackets, sleeping bags, much more. Also Carhartt workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Mary's, Kansas 1-437-2734.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels, $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 6 p.m. If no answer, leave message.

WE NEED your quality, used clothing. Exactly Right! Consignment Shop, opening next week in Aggieville, will sell your used clothing. Call 537-6009 for information.

33 Horses

HORSE BOARDING—Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

35 Martial Arts

KEMPO KARATE—Self Defense Kempo Karate is modern and traditional self-defense for men and women of all ages. It blends traditional Karate with modern day self-defense against punches, kicks, grabs and holds. Training takes place in relaxed atmosphere on revolutionary padded spring floor to make injuries virtually non-existent. On-going classes Monday to Friday 7:15 to 8:45 p.m., $15 monthly. Contact Gary Roza 1-944-3691, Kan. Schafer 539-3306, Little Apple Gymnastics 539-3613.

36 Haunted House

MANHATTAN JAYCEES presents, "Nightmare on the Plaza III," on the corner of Third and Poyntz, Manhattan Town Center Mall 7p.m. to 7

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Aries
4 — and bounds
9 Passing craze
12 Spanish queen
13 Son of Lot
14 Nigerian
15 Diamond position
17 Get overly ripe
18 "So that's it!"
19 Ankle
21 Support- ing beam
24 Card game
25 Actress Meyers
26 Word with jump or lift
28 Danube feeder
31 Rail bird
33 RR stop
35 Narrow strip of wood
36 Ravioli or macaroni
38 Harvest goddess
40 One —

DOWN

41 The Pen- tateuch
43 Mom or Dad
45 Chinese boat
47 Rio de —
48 Eggs
49 Oldest child
54 Ignited
55 Moslem ruler
56 Misery
57 Pindar's forte
58 Roast, in a way
59 Lease
DOWN
1 Ump's
Solution time: 27 min.

21 Coarse tile
22 Venezu- ela copper center
23 Rank below ship's captain
27 "Who am — judge?"
29 Harrow's rival
30 Not this 32 Above
34 Places side by side
37 PLO leader
39 Contem- porary of Camus
42 Soft copal
44 Actor Lowe
45 Opera highlight
46 Greedily eager
50 The turmeric
51 Symbol of wisdom
52 Caviar
53 Court barrier

10-29
CMBSQ CYPWUOBTQW. BU
POFJWUBRU KJRSQRUPJR.
CFJTQ JZZ UYQ KMZZ.
Yesterday's Cryptquip: INDUSTRIOUS GARDENER DOESN'T ALLOW THE GRASS TO GROW UNDER HIS FEET.
Today's Cryptquip clue: C equals S

Van Goghs to compete in finals of contest

By Scott Levendofsky
Collegian Reporter

The Moving Van Goghs have come a long way from jamming in abandoned shoe stores and playing through J.C. Penney Co. Inc. amplifiers.

After winning a contest here in Manhattan, the band has reached the finals of the Snickers New Music Search. The band will compete with 15 other unsigned bands across the country.

The Van Goghs entered the music search by sending a cassette of their songs to the campus radio station, KSDB-FM.

"We entered the contest on a total fluke. I just happened to be listening to the radio station at the particular time when they were running the promotion," said Michael Leggs, lead singer and bassist of the Van Goghs and graduate student in English.

KSDB ran an announcement requesting tapes from area and local bands. The local winner was determined by voter call-ins to the station.

"It's basically a promotional contest recognizing local radio stations and spotlighting local talent," KSDB station manager Joe Montgomery said.

Thirsty Ear Communications, a talent scout company funded by Snickers, will distribute an album consisting of one song from each of the finalists to various radio stations. The national winner will be determined by compiling call-in votes from the participating radio stations across the country.

The Van Goghs' winning songs at the local level were "God Bless You Anyway" and "Ellen's Day." Once notified it had made it to the national level, the band submitted two new songs, "Wintermind" and "Summer Near Naples."

Legg's brother Mitchell, Manhattan, is the band's lead guitarist. Other members are K-State alumnus Brian Harris on rhythm guitar and drummer Eric Melin, sophomore in radio/television.

The Leggs brothers formed the band with Harris in 1983 when the three lived in Moore Hall as freshmen. They later rented an abandoned shoe store in Junction City to practice in.

"We would go to school at K-State during the week and then drive to Junction (City) to jam in this empty shoe store," Michael said. "We were just getting started and didn't have much equipment at all. My first amplifier was actually ordered out of J.C. Penney's catalog."

Michael, who draws his musical influences from the Beatles, Led Zeppelin, Husker Du and the Replacements, said all the band members roughly have the same taste in music.

"I consider us a progressive rock band, but we branch out and listen to other types of music as well," he said.

Real men must take "no" for an answer.

"No form of sexual violence will be tolerated or condoned at Kansas State University."

KSU Policy Prohibiting Sexual Violence

Call 532-6444 for more information.

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.
Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams •

Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases. Providing quality health care to women since 1974.

Insurance, VISA & Mastercard accepted.

Comprehensive
Health for Women

4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)
Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400
Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

BRYAN
TRAVEL COLLEGES

"Your Passport To A Career"

Travel Agent • Corporate Travel Mgmt. • Tour Operator
Convention Planner • Hotel & Airline Industry • Car Rental Agent
• Cruise-Line Reservationists • Travel Promotions

24 Credit Hours • Travel Geography • Correspondence Classes
Computer Training • Financial Assistance • Placement Assistance

CALL TOLL FREE

1-800-255-3507

1527 Fairlawn
Topeka, KS
66604

BOSE KNOWS SPEAKERS

and Conde's knows
how to have a sale!

Trade up to revolutionary
Bose AM-5 speaker technology
and get

$100 OFF
for your old speakers
regardless of their condition

Read what the experts have to say:

One of "America's Ten Best Designs" among all products produced in the U.S.A. in 1988!

Fortune Magazine

"Superb sound and virtual invisibility."

"Side by side with speakers costing three to five times as much, the AM-5 consistently produced the more exciting and listenable sound."

Stereo Review
Julian Hirsch

SONY
CDP190

Compact Disc Player

$129

•4x oversampling
•Dual 16 bit D/A converter
•Stereo stabilizer circuit
•Shuffle play
•20 track programming

Highest Dividends Paid by any CD

$177

8 times oversampling 18 Big D/A
Converters 20 Track Programming Time
Edit Functions 3 Repeat modes

ONKYO
DX1400X

$399

RCA Model VR671HF

RCA Hi-Fi Stereo VCR
with 4-Head Video System

•VHS Hi-Fi stereo sound with built-in TV broadcast stereo tuner and SAP (Second Audio Program)
•Double-azimuth 4-head video system
•Field still special effects: slow motion, stop action, frame advance, picture search
•6-program 1-year timer with on-screen display
and remote programming
•Remote also operates many RCA TVs
•155-channel cable-compatible quartz tuner with Auto Programming

MITSUBISHI CS2015R
20" Stereo Monitor/Receiver with Remote

$347

•Black matrix picture tube for high contrast
•181-channel cable ready
•Off-timer
•Full function remote control with on-screen display of volume, bass, treble, balance, stereo/SAP select, color,
tints, brightness, contrast and sharpness.

See Store for all Sale Merchandise

CONDES
QUALITY PLUGGED IN...

AUDIO • VIDEO • STEREO

Quantities Limited to Store Stock OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
Mon-Fri 10 am-8 pm Sat 10 am-5:30 pm Sun 1-5 pm

407 Poyntz 776-4704 Downtown Manhattan

I LIKE THE STATE IN

Blue Key
National Honor Fraternity

Blue Key
National Honor Fraternity

K-STATE HOMECOMING

Wed., Oct. 31

Ambassador Elections, K-State Union
Windows painted by noon

Thurs., Nov. 1

Ambassador Elections, K-State Union,
9 a.m.-4 p.m.
Spirit Banners hung, 8-9 a.m.
Weber Hall Arena:
6:30-8 p.m. Body Building Competition
8:15-10 p.m. Yell Like Hell Competition

Fri., Nov. 2

K-State Union: 9 a.m.-4 p.m.
Ambassador Elections
Final Competition—11 a.m.
Pride of Wildcat Land Band &
K-State Cheerleaders
11:30 Body Building
Noon

vs.

Sat., Nov. 3

Parade 9 a.m.
Participants meet at City Park at 8:20 a.m.
Ends at Manhattan Town Center
Yell Like Hell Winners perform
K-State vs. Iowa State
Halftime Presentation—
Ambassadors Announcement
Spirit Competition Winners
Announcement, Three Divisions
1. Living Groups
2. Residence Halls
3. Organizations

Iowa State
Nov. 3
1:10 p.m.
For tickets call:
532-6920

Introduction of Ambassador Candidates
Coach Bill Snyder
Entertainment
1:30 p.m. Yell Like Hell
Float Judging, 3-6 p.m.
Spirit March, 9 p.m.
Meet at Triangle Park by 8:45 p.m.
Bonfire Pep Rally, Memorial Stadium,
9:30 p.m. Pant the Chant Contest
Body Building & Yell Like Hell
Winners Announcement

Tune in to 94.5

for Homecoming Highlights

We would like to thank the following for their support.

SPONSORS:

Long John Silvers
Kite's Bar & Grill
Kwik Shop
Sirloin Stockade
The Loft

Lowman's
Manpower Temporary Services
Ballard's Sporting Goods
JC Penney's
The Sound Shop

Subway
Manhattan Town Center
Clyde's Restaurant
Kentucky Fried Chicken
Pyramid Pizza

SGA Elections

Student Body President

John Buchanan

John Buchanan, sophomore in pre-medicine, said he has stepped away from politics in the past but is now getting involved because little is being achieved for students at K-State.

He said he does not feel his lack of experience in the Student Senate should count against him in the race for student body president.

"You don't have to have Senate experience to be student body president," he said. "If you look at past Student Senates, you see nothing is being done."

"At present, student leaders in SGA tend to disappear shortly after the election, only to resurface before the next election," he said. "We need a leader who will give full-time effort to the students and turn the image of SGA around."

Buchanan said that the issues of Farrell Library expansion, campus safety and parking have been around for some time but that the lack of effective leadership has impeded the corrective actions everyone agrees on.

Buchanan said he is favor of reorganization.

"Students have to be aware that reorganization is near and is for their benefit," he said. "Reorganization will afford students the best quality of education for the money."

Buchanan also supports a restrictive fee for the College of Engineering.

"Engineering students at K-State need to be working with quality, up-to-date materials," he said.

Buchanan said he would lobby to have 80 percent of the revenue collected from the fee go to the different departments based on enrollment numbers and the remaining 20 percent used for research projects and emergencies.

Buchanan said there is a need to develop programs that improve the communication skills of instructors whose native language is not English.

"They have a lot to offer," he said. "Communication skills will not only broaden their horizons, but allow them to broaden the horizons of K-State students by more effectively sharing their knowledge."

He said he favors finding funding for the financial problems of Student Publications.

"We depend on them to provide us with day-to-day information," he said. "If elected, I would see to the financial stability of the Collegian and Student Publications."

Johnny Gaffney

Concern about the current condition of K-State convinced Johnny Gaffney, senior in pre-law, to run for student body president.

"I was uneasy about reorganization, funding, diversity and the library," he said. "I want to do my part because I feel I can do the best job in this position."

Gaffney said reorganization offers the possibility of dangers for past, present and future K-State students. Gaffney said he fears a degree from some colleges at K-State will not have the prestige they once had.

"K-State is seen as a university that fosters equal opportunity across the board in programs," he said. "Changing your major shouldn't limit your ability to get a job."

"The danger of reorganization is that we will lose some of the status we have," Gaffney said. "The advantage is the elimination of duplication in classes and programs."

Gaffney said students have to be involved at every level to guard against the dangers.

"The first is the individual-college level," he said. "College councils need to initiate their role in the planning, and as it advances upward to the president and the Board of Regents, there needs to be students at the administrative level."

Gaffney said he would be an active voice for the funding of K-State in the Legislature.

"I would like to work with the state on funding," he said. "In the past, student body presidents have been in position to control policy with the regents. I would like to work with the Legislature to secure consistent year-to-year funding for K-State," Gaffney said. "We have to concentrate on the survival of the level of excellence we are at now."

K-State also needs to change its focus in funding, Gaffney said.

"There is a deep-rooted tradition of relying on the state for funding," he said. "We at the University need to become more self-reliant and use our own resources, in addition to those provided by the state, so we can increase programs, classes and research at K-State."

Todd Giefer

Todd Giefer, senior in architectural engineering, said he is running for student body president to ensure that K-State students receive the best education and most opportunities for the money they spend.

"I have ideas on the problems that have plagued K-State in the past," he said. "And I will follow through on them."

Giefer offered a solution for Farrell Library expansion.

"We've lobbied the Legislature in the past for funding for the library, but they haven't seen the need," he said. "If students could show where the funding could come from, maybe we could persuade them."

Giefer said he would propose that funding for the library come from the state lottery.

"The lottery is designated for economic expansion," he said. "Minds that generate that expansion are developed in the library."

Giefer said the student body president is there to make students' concerns heard in Topeka and to make sure Topeka provides an adequate level of funding to keep K-State on at least a level with their peers.

"MOE now stands for Margin of Equality with our peer institutions," he said.

Though it is the inherent responsibility of the student body president to lobby the Legislature for students, the Legislature is more responsive when they have seen a financial commitment from the students on a given issue, Giefer said.

Such a funding request is lighting for campus safety.

"I lobbied extensively for funding of the lighting meter," he said. "It showed we were concerned with campus lighting. Now, the administration and the Legislature need to establish a safe campus."

Giefer said the students in the College of Engineering probably will see a restrictive fee after July 1, 1991.

"There is really no alternative, or we face the loss of accreditation," he said. "If it passes, you will see me in Topeka working to end it (the restrictive fee) as soon as possible."

Giefer said the Legislature should provide revenue for the College of Engineering through the base budget.

When the administration reveals its reorganization plan, students, especially those in the College of Arts and Sciences, have to be active to protect their interests, he said.

"I don't think the administration views arts and sciences as a main college on campus," he said. "Those who choose arts and science majors and student leaders must participate to make sure there is equality between the colleges."

Todd Heitschmidt

In a recent meeting of student body president candidates, Bernard Franklin, vice president of student life, said no new Student Government programs have been added since he was president in the 1970s.

Todd Heitschmidt, graduate student in agricultural economics, said this is the reason he is running.

"We've taken student services out of student government," he said. "We have to focus on providing services we are committed to."

Heitschmidt said he would like to see an academic minors program added. He initiated the proposal to Student Senate, which passed it last spring. The proposal was forwarded to Faculty Senate and is now stalled in committee, he said.

"It needs a push," he said. "I think it is a very viable project that could be done in a year's time, definitely before the next general catalog comes out in 1992."

Heitschmidt said students have to be involved in all levels of reorganization to protect their majors and career goals. He said student involvement will come as students become uneasy about the future of their colleges.

"Scare tactics work the best," he said. "The student body president can't scare. That will come from specific proposals."

Heitschmidt said his involvement on the parking committee has educated him to the limited options available for a solution of the problem.

"I thought I had some great ideas before I had to work within a budget," he said.

Heitschmidt said the committee has been working on a proposal which he would support as president. He wants to start a shuttle system for satellite parking at the Rec Complex.

There has been some interest from the city of Manhattan in joining the shuttle system, he said.

Heitschmidt said the student body president is the most effective lobbyist for students in the Legislature.

"I think I can be very effective," he said. "The legislators know what the needs are. They've heard them over and over, but they need to hear them from the perspective of individual students. The most effective way to do that is to get to know them and talk to them one-on-one."

He said he would lobby for a base budget for the University large enough to eliminate the need for a restrictive fee in the College of Engineering, he said.

David McIntyre

Dave McIntyre, senior in electrical engineering, said he has the enthusiasm and leadership ability to make things happen for the University on the state level.

McIntyre said he is a believer in the power of lobbying to secure funding for K-State in the Legislature.

"The effectiveness of lobbying is in the numbers," he said. "If I am elected student body president, I will have an enthusiastic director of Associated Students of Kansas to motivate people into going to Topeka. If there was a lobby day tomorrow, only five people would show up."

One lobby day is not enough if K-State is to succeed in getting its funding request through the Legislature, McIntyre said.

"Todd Johnson had a good idea with the lobby team," he said. "The lobby teams need to go to Topeka more often and in more numbers. Lobby team members can meet with hometown legislators before the session starts in the morning and inform them of their concerns."

"I learned a lot from going to Topeka, a lot I didn't hear from the administration."

He said he would lobby that revenue from the state lottery be set aside for higher education.

McIntyre said he would like to see the student government community director become more involved with Manhattan and campus issues.

The community director would sit in on city planning commission meetings and advocate for projects affecting K-State students, he said.

McIntyre said two programs he is proposing, one for campus safety and the other for a campus shuttle service, make him unique among the candidates running for student body president.

McIntyre has several ideas to improve campus safety.

"I see a need for a crosswalk and spotlight on College Heights, a 20-mph speed limit on Denison, and to trim trees to make lighting more effective," he said.

McIntyre also said he has a solution for the shuttle at no cost to students.

"The engineering technology department has a grant from the Department of Energy for two electrical vehicles which have to be used 60 miles a day," he said. "I propose they use them for a shuttle system."

Johnathan Morris

Jonathan Morris, junior in mathematics, said his diverse background allows him to understand students as well as Student Government.

He said his campaign is different from those of the other candidates because of his emphasis on issues of conservation and the environment.

Morris, president of Students Acting for a Vulnerable Environment, said he would like to see the University take a more active role in conservation.

"At the University, we have a tremendous money-saving potential by becoming more conservation-orientated," he said.

"We need to implement a University-wide energy audit to determine how much energy we are consuming and the amount and cost of resources and materials used," he said.

He said the evaluation of the audit would help cut energy costs at K-State.

Morris said he would like to see the students in more active role in planning and services on campus.

"We need to look to using students as resources to give them experience in their area of study and alleviate the work-load of understaffed and underfinanced departments," he said. "I would like to see more on-campus internships and work-studies so students can learn skills in the work-place as well as in books."

Morris said he would encourage student participation in reorganization.

"I think students should take an active part in planning and decision-making of reorganization," he said. "We need representatives from each college to present concerns to administration and faculty."

Another area in which student participation would make a difference is campus safety, he said. "We need to get more people involved in our escort services and foot patrols," he said. "The numbers are inadequate now."

Parking problems could be reduced if more students took advantage of the car-pool permit offered by the K-State police department, he said.

Morris said attempts to reach out to minority groups on campus have been mechanical.

"We need to reach out with sincerity and genuineness," he said. "We need to treat multicultural and non-traditional students equally and not uniformly."

Board of Student Publications

Tom Alberg

Off-campus

Jun./Radio and television

Alberg said electing a qualified board to maintain the standards the Student Publications is the main issue of his campaign.

Alberg is the current president of the Society of Collegiate Journalists, was the fall assistant editor of the Royal Purple yearbook and was chosen as the 1989 Most Valuable Staffer at the Royal Purple.

"I have a lot of experience with Student Publications, and I believe that I am qualified to act knowledgeably on the important decisions of Student Publications," he said.

Kim Hafner

Greek

Soph./Journalism and mass communications

Hafner said she thinks the current financial problem is the biggest issue of her campaign. She said the financial problem is not only a problem for Student Publications, but for the whole University.

Hafner cites her three semesters working on the Royal Purple yearbook as her qualifications for the position.

"By working at Student Publications, I have inside information about the financial problem and what needs to be done," she said.

Communication is Hafner's selling point, she said.

Kelly Levi

Greek

Soph./Journalism and mass communications

Levi presently serves on the Board of Student Publications and is in her second year on the staff of the Royal Purple.

"In my experience during the present term, I have become very familiar with (Student Publications') financial crisis," Levi said. "I believe that it should be dealt with by people who know what is going on."

If elected, Levi said she will do her best to get financial help for Student Publications through Senate allocations and other means.

Arts and Sciences

SGA Elections

Mary Ade
Greek
Soph./Electrical engineering

Ade said funding for Student Publications, restructuring of the University and Farrell Library funding are the top issues for her campaign. She said the issues have a great bearing on how students and future students view K-State.

Ade cites her experience as a 1990 Student Senate intern, SGA communications committee member and three years on student council in high school as qualifications for the position.

"Having been a Senate intern, I feel I have a good grasp on issues and concerns of my fellow constituents," she said.

Working for a good cause is Ade's selling point, she said.

"I will be aware of the need for funding in certain programs and will work hard to bring the final say back to the students," Ade said.

Paul Davidson
Off-campus
Jun./Social science

Davidson, international president of Southwind, lists the reorganization of the University as one of his campaign priorities.

"As the leader of an international network, I've had considerable experience working with state legislators and local governments, lobbying for legislation and funding and working together with different people and organizations," Davidson said.

"If I'm elected, I will work to ensure that K-State students have the final say on the reorganization of the University," Davidson said. "The quality of education at K-State depends on funding and reorganization."

Davidson also said diversity in student government and the environment are issues of his campaign.

Lora Gilliland

Greek

Jun./Radio and television

Gilliland said the restructuring of K-State and the Margin of Excellence are the top issues in her campaign. She said restructuring will change all aspects of the University and students must be involved in every step of the process.

Gilliland cites her experience as Panhellenic representative and College Republicans as her qualifications for the position.

"I am interested in devoting myself to the job, and I feel I can represent all of the students of my college equally and fairly," she said.

Keeping an open mind is Gilliland's selling point, she said.

"I will maintain an open mind and an open door and promote only excellence at K-State," she said.

Kellie Lawson-Conway
Off-campus
Jun./Journalism and philosophy

"If elected, I will work hard to look into the issues that face the entire student body and represent my constituents to the best of my ability," Lawson-Conway said.

Lawson-Conway said she feels issues that effect the student body and need to be addressed include underrepresentation of non-traditional students, a need for better parking, a need for increased safety awareness, the reorganization of the University and reinstating the Margin of Excellence.

"I feel that Senate needs a more diverse representation of the entire student body," Lawson-Conway said.

Matt Onofrio
Greek
Soph./Economics

Onofrio said he will represent his constituents accurately and objectively.

He said his top concern is state funding along with other concerns, such as Farrell Library, campus safety and racial/ethnic harmony.

"In the past, we have lost significant funds from the state," Onofrio said. "Reversing this trend is vital to the survival of our University."

"If elected, I pledge to make a genuine effort to discover the feelings of the student body and represent them," Onofrio said. "I will support any bill that benefits the University as a whole and oppose any bill excluding or giving special treatment to small groups."

Kevin Rush
Greek
Soph./Criminal justice

Rush said budget problems is the biggest issue of his campaign. He said funding needs to be spent with an attitude that will benefit the University on a long-term basis.

Rush cites his experience on the Judicial Council and Campus Safety Task Force as his qualifications for the position.

"Through previous experiences, I gained the knowledge of how to take a stand on issues that affect myself and fellow students," he said.

Re-evaluating current programs within each college is Rush's selling point.

"I believe that money should be spent in a manner that will benefit the quality of education that students receive," he said.

Sean Cash
Off-campus
Jun./Political science and pre-law

Cash said the financial crisis causing reorganization is the biggest issue of his campaign. He said by keeping open lines of communication, he will be able to represent the students concerns during reorganization.

Cash cites his experience as arts and science senator and membership to many committees and councils, which has sent him to lobby at a state level for Board of Regent schools, as his qualification for the position.

"I have lobbied at the state level for K-State and assisted other committees and organizations that benefit K-State students," he said.

Experience, dedication and knowledge of current issues is Cash's selling point.

"By focusing of the immediate financial crisis and continuing the progress already achieved, we can offer the they deserve and expect to receive," he said.

Regina Estevez
Off-campus
Jun./Journalism and mass communications

Estevez said she thinks funds for Student Publications and the importance of harmony are the biggest issues of her campaign. She said these issues affect the surrounding community as well as faculty and students.

Estevez cites her experience in the advertising club, K-State Union Activities Board and Multicultural Student Council as her qualifications for the position.

"In hopes of holding a Student Senate position, I want to support and influence others to help me voice the concerns and goals of my college," she said.

Estevez said she is concerned with the funding of higher education in the future.

Kevin Graham
Off-campus
Jun./Political science and pre-law

Graham said he thinks the top issue in his campaign is University reorganization. He said the reorganization affects the lives of all students in the University and may have drastic effects on the College of Arts and Sciences.

Graham cites his experience as a Student Senate intern, non-voting member of the 1990 Senate Finance Committee and 1989-90 Haymaker Judiciary Board member as his qualifications for the position.

"I believe I can make a difference and will push issues important to my constituents," Graham said. Understanding the system is Graham's selling point, he said.

"I will push for the administration to be open and up-front about all reorganization plans," he said.

Susan Lind
Greek
Soph./Journalism and mass communications

Lind said University reorganization, academic minors and multicultural diversity are the top issues of her campaign. She said they are the most important because they affect the greatest number of students and will have the longest-lasting effects on K-State's future.

Lind cites her experience as secretary/treasurer for the advertising club and her involvement in high school student government as her qualifications for the position.

"Due to my experience and willingness to work past issues that are important to my constituents, I feel I could be a valuable student senator," she said.

Maria Prieto
Off-campus
Jun./Human movement

Prieto said reorganization of the University's funds is the top issue of her campaign and will lead into all the other issues.

"Due to the loss of funds, we need to find a system that will support and improve upon itself," she said. "I believe that giving more money would do just that."

She cites her participation on Student Senate Communications Committee as a qualification for the Senate.

She said she will concentrate on making sure that K-State is adequately funded and will work to regain the programs lost in the $2 million cut.

Beth Schwindt
Residence hall
Soph./Pre-law

Schwindt listed campus safety as one of the most important issues of her campaign.

"Campus safety should be a concern for all who use the campus at any time of day, not just women at night," she said.

She said she will continue to push for increased lighting and awareness of campus-safety issues.

Schwindt cites her experience as a Student Senate intern and participation on two different hall governing boards as part of her qualification for the position.

She also cited as a qualification her familiarity with the issues concerning K-State at the state level.

Roy Cessna
Residence hall
Sen./Journalism and mass communications

Cessna said he thinks implementation of a minors program, campus safety, reorganization and funding for Student Publications are important issues in his campaign.

Cessna cites his experience as a student senator and student body president at Dodge City Community College as his qualifications for the position.

"I can put that experience to work in the Student Senate at K-State," he said.

A higher standard of education and safety of the students on campus is Cessna's main concern.

"As a student senator, I would help with the lobbying team to get funding for Student Publications and Farrell Library," Cessna said. "I would insist that the students have a voice at every level of the reorganization process."

Scott Finkeldei
Greek
Soph./Political science and history

Finkeldei said reorganization, qualified admissions and Farrell Library are the top issues of his campaign. He said these issues pertain to the image of the University, to prospective students and to possible benefactors.

Finkeldei cites his experience in College Republicans and high school student government as his qualifications for the position.

"I have a good understanding of the issues that are important in this campaign," he said.

Working well as a leader and team player are what Finkeldei says are his selling points.

Susan Huddleston
Residence hall
Fresh./Political science and pre-law

Huddleston said she thinks that as a freshman she will give new insight to the issues being discussed.

"If elected, I will listen to the opinions of the student body and convey those opinions to my fellow senators," Huddleston said. "If I can, I will take immediate action to solve any problems that students may bring to my attention."

Huddleston lists issues of concern as campus safety, Farrell Library, University reorganization, parking and Student Senate/student body communication.

Huddleston was active in student government in high school, attended a national leadership conference and has worked on a U.S. Senator's campaign.

John Lorimor
Off-campus
Soph./Chemical science

"If elected, I would use my vote to further issues that would benefit the College of Arts and Sciences, such as funding of arts and sciences clubs and groups," Lorimor said.

Other issues Lorimor lists as important are the Rec Complex expansion, campus safety, student parking and racial/ethnic harmony.

Lorimor said these are top issues because they directly relate to all students on campus, regardless of their college.

Lorimor has been a Boys' State delegate and a delegate to Congressional Youth Leadership Council in Washington D.C.

Kiki Riesinger
Greek
Jun./Journalism and mass communications

Riesinger has been active as an International Student Center liaison and has been involved with Student Publications.

Issues concerning Riesinger include Student Publications, the Rec Complex, campus lighting, Farrell Library renovation and the reorganization of the University.

"These issues have been long overlooked and deserve attention because deal with the entire University, not just individuals," Riesinger said.

"I feel that I, as a student, would exercise my willingness and eagerness to become involved with the issues that affect the students on this campus," Riesinger said.

Lori Scott
Greek
Jun./Journalism and mass communications

Scott said an academic minors program, reorganization and the Rec Complex expansion are the top issues of her campaign. She said each issue is vital to the future and growth of the University.

Scott cites her experience in the advertising club and marketing club as her qualification for the position.

"I would be committed to the office and would do a good job of communicating the ideas and needs of my constituents while keeping their best interests in mind," she said.

Close contact with her constituents is Scott's selling point.

Lee Davidson
Residence hall
Soph./Political science

University reorganization and concern for the library are two of Davidson's top concerns in the next year.

"These are issues that not only affect the future of the university," he said, "but also the students here and now."

Davidson said he thinks one of the problems people have had with Student Senate in the past is its lack of different perspectives concerning issues.

"I feel that I'm representative of a broad range of interests," he said.

Davidson said his two years of high school government and his attendance at Boys State in 1988 will help him to do his job if he is elected.

Melissa Garcia
Off-campus
Jun./Advertising

Garcia said reorganization, the Rec Complex, campus safety and multicultural issues are the main focus of her campaign. She said the entire student body will be affected educationally as well as financially by each of these issues.

Garcia cites her experience in the advertising club, Multicultural Student Council and as an officer for the Hispanic American Leadership Organization as her qualifications for the position.

"I offer a new and diverse perspective as well as the willingness to work with my constituents," she said.

Garcia said she plans to communicate and involve constituents in legislation if elected.

Brooke Jones
Greek
Jun./Journalism and mass communications

Jones is running for re-election to Student Senate.

"Because I have served as a student senator, communication committee chair and a member of senate executive committee, I'll use my knowledge and experience to effectively serve the student body," Jones said.

The issues Jones said she considers important are the University reorganization, the Rec Complex expansion, engineering and student fees, campus parking and Farrell Library.

"If re-elected to Student Senate, I will continue to communicate with my constituents so their voices are heard," Jones said.

Rod Olin
Greek
Sen./Journalism and mass communications

Olin said diversity, reorganization and funding for Student Publications are the top issues in his campaign. He said each issue directly affects the students.

Olin cites his experience on the Arts and Sciences Council, Special Events chairman and as a member of the advertising club as qualifications for the position.

"If these issues are truly going to be met head on, it will have to be with the input and involvement of a fair and equal representation of students," he said.

Seeking out students' opinions is what Olin says is his main selling point.

Brian Rodrock
Greek
Sen./Humanities

Rodrock has previously served as a Student Affairs and Social Services committee member.

"Because of my personal skills and experience, I feel I would be an unbiased, effective representative of my constituents," Rodrock said.

He lists issues important to him as increasing state funding, monitoring University reconstruction, lack of cultural diversity, lack of parking spaces and the Rec Complex.

He said these issues are most important because they deal with the academic and social well-being of the students.

Rodrock said he would stop some of the bureaucratic waste and use the students' money in a fiscally responsible manner if elected.

Art Shaffer
Did not respond
Junior/Physics

"I will be a representative of individuals, not an individual representative," Shaffer said.

He said he will work to promote the wants of his constituents.

Shaffer has served as a student senate intern and on the communications committee. He said he believes that it takes experience to prioritize the issues and know how to work within the system.

He said he believes the engineering fee is a top campaign issue because of its effect on the other colleges.

"I feel the administration should support a college if it is in danger of losing its accreditation," Shaffer said.

Other issues he names as important are campus safety and academic minors.

Derek Thoman*Off-campus*Soph./Journalism and mass communications

Thoman said that reorganization, funding of higher education and promotion of the College of Arts and Sciences are the top issues of his campaign.

Thoman cites his experience as a Student Senate intern in 1989, Senate Operations Committee member and three years in student government in high school as his qualifications for the position.

"I believe that I can take students' input and use it constructively for the benefit of the students," he said.

Thoman said by working together with the students, the College of Arts and Sciences could gain the respect and recognition that it deserves.

Laura Vetter*Off-campus*Soph./Philosophy

"We desperately need the additional voice of the student body in making the difficult decisions facing the administration," Vetter said.

Vetter's issues of concern are the reorganization of the University following the state funding cuts, addressing the issues of diversity with an emphasis on common interests and concerns, campus safety, Farrell Library and student involvement in the re-evaluation of core curriculum.

"I will address the needs of my constituency with thoughtful insight," Vetter said. "I will work to bring a balance to the student government that a non-traditional student with my experience can offer."

Tricia Thornton*Off-campus*Jun./Pre-law

Thornton said funding of Farrell Library, a campus shuttle system and reorganization are the focuses of her campaign.

She cites her experience as a current senator and lobbying at the state level for K-State as her qualifications for the position.

"K-State's whole reason for existence is for the students — they should have a say in its reorganization," Student input is Thornton's selling point.

Thornton said she would stress the importance of student input on every level of decision-making concerning the reorganization of K-State.

Kami White*Greek*Soph./Clinical psychology

White said diversity and campus-resource conservation are two of the most important issues of her campaign.

"The entire University is directly affected by these issues, not just a small percentage of the student body," she said, "and how they are handled will determine the success of the school."

White cites her experience in leadership positions in high school and on various committees as her qualifications for the Senate position.

"I will use my previous leadership experience and my open mind to present new issues that affect our University," she said.

Sue Traiger*Greek*Jun./Speech pathology

"After three years at K-State, I understand the current issues and the students' opinions on the topics," Traiger said. "I would like to resolve the issues and address new issues brought before Senate."

Traiger's issues of concern include the University reorganization, parking, campus safety, Farrell Library and becoming more environmentally conscious.

Traiger said because the reorganization of the University will affect both future and current students, it is important that students are represented at all levels of the process.

"If elected, I will research the issues brought before Senate, stay in touch with my constituents and vote to help my fellow students," Traiger said.

Scott Truhlar*Greek*Soph./Pre-medicine, Pre-law, Social science

Truhlar said he thinks increasing state financial support of the University, maintaining a student role in University reorganization and promoting campus diversity are the top issues of his campaign. He said the issues vitally affect the overall quality of education that K-State can continue to provide.

Truhlar cites his experience as a Student Senate intern and on the Putnam Hall Judiciary Board as his qualification for the position.

"Having already spent more than a 100 hours taking part in Student Senate as an intern, I am now ready to use my interest and experience in service of other students," he said.

Did not respond

Rance Ames
Jill Bakken
Curtis Dockett
William Friend
Laura McAdams
Stephanie Norton

Heather Riley
Kurt Roberts
Ed Skoog
Heather Smith
Karlene Stander
Mike Urbanski

Education

Heather Downs*Greek*Sen./English Education

Downs said she recognizes a unified student body and student input in the reorganization plan as the most important issues of her campaign.

Downs said her status as a senior and as a Senate intern qualify her for the position.

She said she thinks Student Senate should focus on issues that directly affect the campus environment.

"As top issues, I have chosen those which I foresee resurfacing as student concerns during the approaching term," Downs said.

Downs said she will stress a positive academic environment.

"As an education major, I am dedicated to a positive academic environment," she said. "Unity, safety and proper funding are vital."

Steve Edwards*Greek*Junior/Secondary Education

Edwards lists the rec complex expansion, student participation in reorganization and campus safety as the biggest issues of his campaign. He said that these issues need to be dealt with before they set a precedent that will hurt students.

Edwards said his experience as the house manager of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and the head of the homecoming committee will help him do his job if elected.

"I will strive to better campus environment along with safety," Edwards said.

"The funding to our college is a big concern and I feel that something needs to be done about this for reorganization," he said. "If elected, I will try my hardest to get the needs of each college done."

Paul Newhouse*Off-campus*Sen./Elementary education

Newhouse said he wants to establish a more effective student government with criteria for the allocation of student funds to clubs and special-interest groups. Newhouse cites his three years with residence hall government and one year as the College of Education Ambassador as his qualifications for the position.

"In light of the lack of student participation in their government, I'd like the opportunity to reverse the trend by becoming involved myself in a senate with a new image," he said.

"In addition to the present responsibilities of a student senator," Newhouse said, "I would like to join my ideas with those of other senators who wish to see improvement on the student-government scene."

Jim Struber*Greek*Sen./Secondary education

Struber said adequate student representation is the biggest issue of his campaign. Struber said he is especially concerned with representation in the colleges of Arts and Sciences, Education and Human Ecology.

Struber is currently a student senator for the College of Education and he cites this among his qualifications for re-election.

"If re-elected, I will continue to work on campus safety issues, Harmony Week funding, and I would like to provide my input and be a part of University reorganization," Struber said.

"University reorganization and its effect on the colleges on campus must have student input."

Struber said that if re-elected he will run for Student Chair.

Engineering

Kurt BarrowGreek*Sen./Mechanical engineering

Barrow said the engineering fee is a top issue on his campaign.

"If the engineering fee is passed, it will have a major impact on the College of Engineering and the University. The threat of the college losing its accreditation must be addressed along with the issue of the proposed fee," he said.

He said he thinks that his experiences in government through the WISE program and campus organizations have given him the skill and initiative to address and work toward solutions to the problems which currently face the University.

He said his plan, if elected, is to look into additional means of financing engineering lab maintenance.

Cameron Epard*Greek*Sen./Chemical engineering

Epard said improving the educational environment at K-State is the biggest issue of his campaign. He said a Farrell Library addition, the engineering fee, and the Margin of Excellence are all important issues because they are directly to improving the education environment for K-State students.

Epard cites his work as special projects' director on the student body president's cabinet as his qualifications for the position.

"Serving on cabinet has given me first-hand experience in dealing with student concerns. This knowledge and my desire to work hard will enable me to effectively represent the students," he said.

Kenton Epard*Greek*Soph./Electrical engineering

Epard said the engineering fee, Farrell Library, University reorganization, diversity and parking have been discussed in considerable depth recently, but they still hold merit in his campaign because they will directly affect the students in engineering.

As a member of the College Republicans and member of the Legislative Affairs Committee, he feels that he has gained experience and that he has a good working knowledge of how student government works.

"I believe cooperation is the key to being a successful in Student Senate," Epard said.

He plans to do his best to voice his constituents' ideas and concerns if elected.

Will Kent*Greek*Jun./Architectural engineering

Kent said his main issue of concern is the engineering fee.

"The engineering fee, if passed, needs to be implemented in a fair manner," Kent said. "Maximum results need to come from a possible fee."

Kent's other issues of concern are continued improvement of campus lighting, campus safety, Farrell Library and funding.

Kent said he will do his best to improve campus lighting and safety efforts, to improve Farrell Library and deal with how the cut in funding affects students.

"If elected, I will vote for what my fellow students want," Kent said. "I will strive to stay in touch with them."

Brad Marshall*Residence hall*Soph./Electrical engineering

Marshall said it is especially important to assure that the fees students pay are used properly and effectively. Two top issues on his campaign are the proposed engineering fee and diversity on campus, he said.

He said he thinks he has gained experience to ensure that the opinions of his constituents are voiced and appropriate actions are taken as an Engineering Ambassador and as a part of the Engineering Honors Program.

"If elected, I will first get a grasp on what concerns engineering students have and see what action can be taken to resolve these issues."

He said he plans to get feedback throughout his term on major issues to ensure his vote will endorse the opinions of those he represents.

Nell Naderhiser*Off-campus*Jun./Mechanical engineering

Naderhiser said he thinks funding the Department of Engineering through the proposed fee brought to Student Senate this term is the biggest issue of his campaign.

He said that in most cases his top issues will affect students monetarily and that they could affect the quality of the campus, educational programs and the ability to recruit new students.

Naderhiser said he believes he is qualified for the position by his being a former Judicial Board member, having two years experience with campus security and experience dealing with state and national-elected officials.

"First, I would like to see the problems with the funding in the engineering department solved in some manner that will be both acceptable to the students and the administration," he said.

Claudia Patron*Off-campus*Soph./Architectural engineering

Patron said her emphasis will be on the engineering fee, Cuder curriculum and a minors program.

"I disagree with having an engineering fee because I feel as an engineering student we have no need for it. As for the Cuder curriculum and a minors program, these issues will definitely help upgrade a student scholastically," Patron said.

She said she would like to help play a role in the decision-making of the present issues. Patron said, "I also certainly want to help voice the opinions of other students throughout the University."

She said one of her main objectives if elected will be to represent and voice students' opinions to the best of her capabilities.

Tim Rice*Off-campus*Jun./Mechanical engineering

Rice has previously served as an engineering senator and on the legislative affairs and student and social sciences committees.

"I'm experienced in the procedures of Senate and can work effectively as a senator," Rice said. "I consider my constituents' views, and they can always count on a conservative decision when a general consensus is not known."

Rice's issues of concern include the engineering equipment fee, restricted fees, Rec Complex expansion and the effectiveness of current lobbying practices at the state level.

Rice said the success of the engineering equipment fee would bring more college-specific fees to other colleges.

Mike Ricke*Greek*Soph./Mechanical engineering

Ricke said the decrease in enrollment this year and the increase in tuition are his top campaign issues.

He said in order for K-State to continue its excellence in all fields, these issues must be discussed and resolved.

Ricke cited his experience in high school student council as his qualification for the position.

He said, "I know I will represent the students and reflect their feelings at the Senate meetings to the best of my abilities."

"If elected to engineering student senate, I would attend the meeting and become actively involved in discussions that would take place," he said.

Camille Rohleder*Greek*Soph./Mechanical Engineering

Rohleder said the Rec Complex is on the top of her campaign agenda. She said she is also interested in finding a way to recycle campus resources.

She said she thinks these issues, as well as others, need to be dealt with individually and effectively. Rohleders said that she believes her current position as Senate intern and that her being a member of the Academic Affairs Committee will provide a good base to represent the best interests of the students.

"I feel I have the knowledge, dedication and experience necessary to be an effective member of Student Senate," she said.

Mark Williams*Greek*Jun./Civil Engineering

Williams said he thinks the proposed engineering fee is a big issue of his campaign.

"The engineering fee is big because it can set a precedent that will affect students of all colleges," he said.

Williams said he thinks his work as an engineering ambassador and as the vice president of his fraternity have taught him to work well with people.

"I know what students want, and I feel I can represent them well," he said.

Williams said, "If elected, I will try to stop the engineering fee. I don't think it is right."

He also said he is interested in Student Publication funding and student participation in reorganization.

Did not respond

Mike Campbell

Business Administration

Jason Black
Greek
Jun./Marketing

Black said issues affecting every student on campus include increasing tuition to solve funding problems, establishing a minors program, Rec Complex expansion, more diversity on campus and changing the way Senate distributes funds.

"I feel that I do a good job in deciding on the issues that affect the whole student body, and I will remain dedicated to Senate for the whole term."

Black has had committee positions and offices in his fraternity.

"If elected, I will push for a minors program here for all colleges on campus."

Tom Hufford
Off-campus
Sen./Accounting and information systems

State funding, campus recycling, reorganization, handicap accessibility and diversity within the student government are the main concerns of Hufford.

"The future of the world depends on the environment and education of its inhabitants. The quality of education provided at K-State depends on reorganization and state funding," he said.

Hufford is a returning student and a disabled veteran, he said. Because of his status, he hopes to provide a voice of experience to the Senate.

"I will make an effort to determine the wants and desires of the business college and initiate and vote on issues accordingly," Hufford said.

Derek Nelson
Greek
Soph./Business administration

Nelson cites student involvement in the University reorganization, Rec Complex expansion, parking, college fees and Farrell Library funds as his major issues.

"I am currently serving as a Student Senate intern and as a member of the Senate Operations Standing Committee. I also served as a student member of the Recreation Services Council and a student member of Intercollegiate Athletic Council.

"Student Senate is the voice of the students. I will do all I can to insure that the students' views are properly represented and that they are properly informed on the issues."

Nelson said he is easily accessible, approachable and willing to work for the benefit of all students.

Bart Spachek
Residence hall
Soph./Business administration

Reorganization, state funding and Farrell library are three of Spachek's concerns.

"These issues are the most important because they affect all students regardless of their major," he said.

Spachek said his involvement in various campus activities has been beneficial to him. Working with others, communicating ideas and taking charge when necessary are the skills he could use as a student senator, he said.

"I want to ensure that the University reorganization will not only maintain the high academic standards that already exist, but also increase the educational opportunities available at K-State," Spachek said.

College of Agriculture

Russell Brewer
Residence hall
Soph./Animal sciences and industry

Brewer said the engineering fee and other possible fees are the most important issues of his campaign.

He said he also recognizes state funding and University reorganization as important issues because they affect the future outcome of the University, he said.

Brewer cites his experience as president of his floor and a member of the Hall Governing Board as qualifications for the position.

Student input is Brewer's selling point.

"I want to help put the student back in Student Government," he said. "To obtain (student) input, I will strive to relate the issues at hand to the College of Agriculture as a whole."

DeLoss Jahnke
Greek
Fresh./Agriculture journalism

As a freshman, Jahnke said he thinks he can benefit Student Senate by offering input from open-minded, responsible freshmen to complement the experience of the upperclassmen.

The issues are important to K-State, he said, are parking improvements, Farrell Library renovation, curriculum change, expansion of the Rec Complex and allowing more students to attend K-State.

"Each of these issues will affect every student at K-State in one form or another. Student Senate needs to address these issues and make decisions that will improve K-State," Jahnke said.

"I will work hard to represent the College of Agriculture with their concerns, while being flexible and fair in working with senators from other colleges," he said.

Mike Farmer
Greek
Jun./Business

Farmer said he would represent the student body with an open mind and present the views with a strong voice.

His campaign issues are funding for K-State, Rec Complex expansion, renovation of Farrell Library, recognition of activities taking place in the College of Business and Student Publications funding.

"These issues are important because, first, they affect every student at KSU. Secondly, these issues are all relevant and have been issues that need to be met head-on with action by the students," he said.

Farmer said he would support the expansion project of the Rec Complex and Farrell Library if elected.

Chris Huston
Greek
Soph./Finance

Involved in Future Business Leaders of America, money-making committee and College Republicans, Huston said he prioritizes reorganization of colleges, qualified admissions, Farrell Library, Rec Complex additions and campus safety.

Huston said he would strive to understand the feelings of the student body on an issue and then pursue those interests.

"I feel that the concern for the issues at hand will allow me to pursue goals that will be advantageous to the student body as a whole," Huston said.

Steve Patton
Greek
Jun./Accounting

Patton said he feels the top issues affecting the most students include Farrell Library, expansion of the Rec Complex, parking, diversity at K-State and reorganization.

If elected, Patton said he would listen closely to student opinions and convey them to other Senate members.

"Student Senate is organized in order to serve the student body and so these issues should be at the forefront of consideration," Patton said. "I feel I am an excellent communicator and would express the concerns of my constituents in a positive and effective manner."

Patton's leadership experience includes being vice president of a fraternity and on the executive committees Chimes and Phi Eta Sigma honoraries.

Brent Gardner
Greek
Jun./Finance

Improving relations between the student body and Student Senate, increasing communication between students and senators, the process of allocating student fee money, minor programs and improved minority involvement are Gardner's campaign issues.

"Many students do not know what the Student Senate does except what they read in the Collegian (which often is negative). There have been problems with the current allocation process, and many students have expressed the need for minor programs and increased minority involvement," he said.

The students' wants and needs are Kemp's concern.

Steve Ingram
Greek
Jun./Accounting

Ingram said state funding, campus safety, Rec Complex, Farrell Library and campus parking are his main concerns.

"These issues are the most important to the students of K-State," he said. "Changes made in these areas could benefit students greatly."

Ingram's experience in Business Council, Kansas Boys State, Beta Alpha Psi Accounting Fraternity and as an officer of a fraternity will help him represent the students, one of his main commitments. His goal is to actively seek out the opinions, needs and desires of the students at K-State.

Jeff Payne
Greek
Soph./Business

Payne's campaign issues consist of campus safety, a collective effort for racial/ethnic harmony, Farrell Library, Rec Complex expansion and a possible controversial replacement of Old Stadium with an art gallery.

He said he would concentrate on the larger issues concerning K-State and not the small-interest groups because there are too many.

"The issues I see as most pressing are campus safety and racial and ethnic harmony. Racial and ethnic harmony needs to be a collective effort by all students. I came to K-State because of its reputation as a 'friendly' campus. We need to work on being more friendly," Payne said.

Katrina Goering
Did not respond
Jun./Finance, International studies

Goering said University restructuring, effective lobbying efforts to win increased state funding and increased ethnic/minority understanding are three of her campaign issues.

"Many of these issues, such as increased funding and University restructuring, will have a direct effect on the quality of education at K-State and should have top priority in 1991," Goering said.

She said her involvement in student government as a Senate intern and an at-large member of a standing committee would benefit her as a student senator.

Greg Kemp
Greek
Soph./Business administration

Kemp's five campaign issues are alternative methods of University funding, expansion of the Rec Complex, better campus safety, improvements for Farrell Library and improved relations with K-State graduates.

"These issues effect the majority of the student body, and improving these areas will help make K-State a better University," he said.

Kemp said he is familiar with the five issues and will help improve the University with his ideas.

"If elected, I will represent the students to my best ability," he said.

Kim Rathbun
Greek
Sen./Marketing

Rathbun said her involvement in business organizations, such as Business Council and Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity, will provide her with a good opportunity to be informed on the issues concerning business students.

"I have been a business student at K-State for four years. I have an idea of how business students want to be represented and what issues need to be debated."

Rathbun said her main issues include better funding for Student Publications, state aid to avoid University budget cuts, academic reorganization to provide minor degrees, better representation among senators on student concerns and recycling efforts on campus.

Graduate School

Linda Wilkinson
Off-campus
Grad./Nuclear Engineering

Wilkinson said one of the issues on her campaign is to improve University-wide student involvement in Student Government Association.

As a currently appointed graduate senator, Wilkinson said she thinks she will bring fresh ideas and different experiences to Senate this year.

"I will continue to consider student input my number one priority by soliciting their concerns and opinions," she said.

Joel Gruenke
David Rogers
Greg Weisenborn

Did not respond

SCA Elections

Jason Heneke
Greek
Soph./Animal science and industry

Parking and equity in distribution of funds towards various activities rank among his campaign's most important issues, Heneke said.

"These issues will affect the students both monetarily and educationally," he said. "These issues affect the every-day lives of students on and off campus."

Heneke cites his attendance at leadership seminars and membership of KAYS as qualifications for the position.

"I feel I could better represent the constituents in the College of Agriculture that helped get me in office," Heneke said. "If elected, I would address the issues that have been brought to my attention however I see fit."

Jon Hixson
Greek
Soph./Milling science

State funding and the allocation of these funds are the most important issues of his campaign, Hixson said.

"The recent actions by the state concerning the funding of higher education raise the importance of working to fully receive these funds and making sure the funds are responsibly allocated," Hixson said.

Hixson said his agricultural background and his involvement in his living group will help him do his job if elected.

"I will work to have Senate allocations better represent the desires of the students," he said.

Julie Martin
Greek
Soph./Pre-veterinary medicine

Issues that affect everyone on campus are important in Martin's campaign, she said.

"Getting the students excited about student government, finding out what the students want and representing them in student government are top issues," Martin said.

She cites her experience as a College of Agriculture Ambassador and as an Ag REPS adviser qualifies her for the position.

"Staying active in the College of Agriculture would be one of my goals so that I could stay in contact with constituents," Martin said. "I would set up office hours so that my constituents could come and talk to me and let their opinions be heard and better represented in student government."

Jackie McClaskey
Off-campus
Jun./Ag economics

Focusing student government on issues such as parking, Farrell Library funding, reorganization and a Rec Complex addition are the main issues of McClaskey's campaign, she said.

"These issues will affect, either directly or indirectly, every student at K-State," McClaskey said. "Therefore, they are the issues which Student Government must focus on to serve the students."

McClaskey said her current position as Ag senator qualifies her for re-election.

"I feel I have the past experience to be a strong influence on the Senate floor for the College of Agriculture," she said. "We must make sure that not only is that voice (of the students) heard, but also that it expresses the wishes of the majority of K-State students."

Brian Ochsner
Off-campus
Sen./Agricultural economics

Ochsner said serving the students' needs should be the primary goal of Student Senate.

Reorganization, Farrell Library expansion, Rec Complex expansion, academic minors and the parking problem are the five main concerns of Ochsner's campaign.

He said his experience as Agriculture Council representative for the Agriculture Economics Club will be beneficial to him if elected as student senator.

"If elected, I'll work to make the reorganization process as feasible as possible, lobby for funding to improve and expand Farrell, push for getting academic minors back at K-State, work to provide relief for the parking problem and lobby for expansion of the Rec Complex," Ochsner said.

Matthew Vajnar
Off-campus
Jun./Agricultural economics

Reorganization, budget allocations and re-evaluating the reliance on state funding are some concerns Vajnar said he has for K-State. He said these issues involve trust between students and administration and Student Senate is the link between the two.

"Student Senate must be worthy of that trust by keeping the lines of communication open," he said.

Vajnar said he could benefit the Senate due to his student government experience as treasurer of the Arts and Sciences College Council.

Vajnar said he believes the Senate has an obligation to spend money as prudently as individual students do.

"I would work to control spending instead of complaining about lack of revenue," he said.

Jeff Peterson
Residence hall
Fresh./Animal sciences

Peterson said the most important issue of his campaign is reorganization.

"With K-State's deficit, reorganization with student input is a big issue," he said.

Peterson said he would also favor the merit-pay system for figuring professors' salaries. "This would benefit the best teachers," he said.

Filling a vacated seat on Senate this fall qualifies Peterson for the position, he said. "I have become familiar with the issues and the legislative process," Peterson said.

"If elected, I will make sure the College of Agriculture is looked at first," he said. "Agriculture has made K-State what it is today, and I want to keep it strong."

Heather Rogers
Off-campus
Sen./Animal science and industry

Rogers lists Farrell Library, campus safety and Student Publications' financial problems as important issues in her campaign.

"Farrell Library is still substandard, the campus is no longer safe—especially at night—trying to find parking is a nightmare, and Student Publications is having financial difficulties due to equipment breakdowns," Rogers said.

She cites membership in the Ag Student Council, the Pre-vet Club and the Poultry Science Club as qualifications for the position.

Scott Schneider
Greek
Jun./Animal and food science

Expansion of the Rec Complex, Throckmorton and campus parking are the primary issues of Schneider's campaign, he said. Schneider said he also wishes to focus on appropriations for agriculture competition teams.

Schneider cites his experience as an Ambassador of the College of Agriculture as well as his involvement with Alpha Zeta as his qualifications for the position.

"The issues involving University-wide consequences will have a great impact on the future of K-State," Schneider said. "The other issue is simply a matter of educational equity."

Human Ecology

Britton Harshaw
Greek
Soph./Hotel and restaurant management

Harshaw said her assertiveness would benefit her as a senator by finding out student concerns and opinions on current issues.

"If elected, I will express the students' concerns about campus issues to the best of my ability. I will research topics that directly affect the current and future students here at Kansas State," she said.

Her campaign issues include reorganization, parking, academic minor programs and the effect of increased fees.

"These issues directly effect the students in one way or another, whether it be tuition increases from the engineering fee or safety because of badly lit parking areas," she said.

Did not respond

Rob Ames
Matthew Kelley

Did not respond

Diane Pratt
Jeff Forkenbrock
Pete Marsh

Architecture and Design

Lane Allison
Greek
Soph./Architecture and design

Reorganization, funding of Farrell Library, review of the Rec Services fee and making SGA more responsive to needs of the students are Allison's campaign concerns.

"These issues each deserve special attention as well as truthful representation of the desires of the student at K-State. It is in the area of student wants that SGA has been lacking in the recent past," he said.

Allison said he would keep the students' needs foremost in his mind and represent the students in ways that will better the condition of the University community if he is elected.

Stacy Purvis
Off-campus
Soph./Environmental design

Purvis said she chose campus safety and the Margin of Excellence as two important issues after talking with students from various colleges to gauge their feelings.

"I feel that these are the issues that they are most concerned with and the ones with the most impact on them," she said.

Purvis said that she is open-minded and that that may enable her to look at the issues objectively and base her opinions on factual evidence and not a biased point of view.

Her goals if elected would be to try to bring a better understanding of the issues to the students in architecture and design, she said.

"Being an architecture student tends to distance one from the rest of campus, and I feel that this could be eliminated with the right representation in the Senate," Purvis said.

Ad It Up!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

WOW — FOR $3, you can run
15 words for one day in the COLLEGIAN ClassAds.

ELECT
SCOTT SCHNEIDER
AG SENATOR
QUESTIONS? 539-2365
Paid for by Committee to Elect Scott Schneider

GET THE EDGE

and get your portrait taken for the yearbook.
532-7808

1991 ROYAL PURPLE

VOTE
Arts & Sciences SENATOR
MARY ADE
Paid for by Students to Elect Ade

Vote MARIA PRIETO
for Arts and Sciences Senator Commitment, Enthusiasm & Dedication
Paid for by Students for Prieto

Elect DeLoss Jahnke
Agriculture Senator

"Number Nine on Your Ballot!"
—fair—dependable—flexible—
Paid for by DeLoss Jahnke for Student Senate Comm.

JOHNNY'D BE GOOD FOR...

UNIVERSITY REORGANIZATION

"It is imperative that students are in a position to answer the questions of impact and effect on our education."

JOHNNY GAFFNEY

Student Body President
VOTE OCT. 30 and 31 in the UNION
Paid for by Johnny Gaffney

HEATHER A. SMITH

ARTS & SCIENCE
STUDENT SENATE

Paid for by Heather A. Smith for Student Senate

Elect Todd D. Johnson
Agriculture Senator
"I will address the needs of My Constituents."
Questions? 539-2365
Paid for by Todd D. Johnson for Student Senator

Mark Williams

"Willy"
for Engineering Senator
'A vote of Confidence'

Paid for by Committee to Elect Willy

"We like MIKE!"

Mike Farmer
for Business Senator

- Dependable
- Qualified
- Open-minded

Paid for by Students for Mike

IT'S TIME FOR ACTION!

Don't let Student Government pass you by!

IT'S TIME FOR BUCHANAN

VOTE JOHN BUCHANAN
STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by Students to elect Buchanan president.

Vote
Brad Marshall
for Engineering
Senator

Paid for by the committee to elect Brad Marshall

JONATHAN MORRIS

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by the Students For Morris

LORA GILLILAND

ARTS and SCIENCES

STUDENT SENATE

paid for by Students
for Gilliland

Candidates seek ambassador positions

Mindy Loughman
Sophomore
Pre-Nursing

Loughman, a Wichita native, said she offers what an ambassador must have — experience with recruiting. "You have to have a great pride for K-State," she said. "And I think that is what you will need to be an ambassador."

Loughman is Panhellenic Council's executive secretary and a two-year member of the Student Alumni Board, whose members travel across the region and recruit future K-Staters. She was an accompanist on piano for the K-State Choir, and she has been a member of the the sophomore honorary, Spurs, and the freshman honorary, Delta Epsilon Sigma.

She said she believes the ambassadors should have leadership abilities, communication skills and an interest in people, but that she possesses one of the most important characteristics necessary: her excitement for K-State.

dents and tell them about all the positive things about K-State," she said. Briggs is a senator for the College of Arts and Sciences and a member of the Associated Students of Kansas.

She said topics that may need to be addressed in the next year are enrollment figures and the Rec Center's expansion, but that the two main issues are racial and ethnic diversity and the reorganization effort.

"I hope to give them (high school students) an overall outlook," she said. "They don't realize all the experiences that they will have when they first step away from home."

Davis said that K-State has much to offer to students and that she offers some of the same qualities such as an optimistic outlook and genuine interest in people.

"One of my main priorities is higher education," she said. "We need to consistently remind the Legislature that we are here and that we need things. ... We are going to fight for what we deserve."

John Niemann
Sophomore
Agriculture Business and Marketing

Niemann, from Nortonville, said the main thing he could offer the ambassadorship is human qualities.

"It takes an open mind, a willingness to work with people and a lot of emotion to let them know that we are a place that cares," he said. "I think I can convey to alumni and students that K-State is a place to enhance oneself."

Niemann is a member of the Student Alumni Board, a representative for the College of Agriculture and a group facilitator for a human development course.

"K-State is a large university with a small-town atmosphere," he said. "It provides an opportunity for everyone to be successful."

An enrollment cap and the quality of the students are two of Niemann's concerns for the next year.

"This would mean an opportunity for me to share with people what K-State has to offer," Niemann said. "I would be learning myself as well as sharing with others."

Denny Clock
Sophomore
Business Administration

Clock, from Winfield, said ambassadors must remember that they have dual tasks to complete.

"I would like to assist the University in the recruitment of students and in the retention of alumni."

He said that both facets are vital to keeping K-State as one of Kansas' major institutions of higher education.

"Recruitment improves the quality of education here, and retention of alumni helps maintain the facilities at K-State," he said.

Clock is a College of Business ambassador, the president of the sophomore honorary, Spurs, and a member of the Student Alumni Board.

"I feel I'm right for the job because I have the desire to help represent the University in the best possible light," he said.

He said, however, that ambassadors have moral obligations not to present the University in a false light to prospective students.

"You have to be honest with them," he said. "But you also have to show them how the University is addressing its problems."

Crystal Davis
Junior
Journalism / Mass
Communications

Davis, originally from Junction City, said one main issue for the next year could be time management.

"From my past experiences, academics is always the question," Davis said. "But the main thing you have to learn is time management."

Some of Davis' campus involvements include membership in the Black Student Union and the German Club. She is also the president of the Black Panhellenic Council.

Davis, who followed the trail of eight aunts and uncles and her twin sister to K-State, said she would like the position as ambassador because she knows the University. As a freshman, she was a campus-tour guide and applied to become a K-State Ambassador.

"I think there should be a visible person to represent the University," she said. "They need to bring up all the positive aspects of K-State."

Davis said she hopes the ambassadors chosen will learn from the experience.

"You learn a whole new world of things. It opens your mind to more diversity," she said. "And it makes it easier to talk to them and recruit them to KSU."

Amy Hiatt
Junior
Psychology

Hiatt, a native of Colby, said she sees the ambassadorship as a way to give back what the University has given her.

"I really gained a lot from K-State, and this is a chance to give back to the school, but more so, to represent the students," she said.

Hiatt's activities include being the vice president of Chimes, the junior honorary, a Student Senate intern and a member of the K-State General Scholarship Committee. She has also worked as a student employee of the Student Financial Assistance Office, a position which she said she believes will help her.

"My experience with working with people is valuable to this position," she said. "I've worked with so many prospective students and their parents."

Hiatt said that besides racial and ethnic harmony, funding for the University should be the key issue for the next year.

"We need to rally the alumni support, and the Legislature side of it must be done as well," she said.

Besides helping prospective K-Staters, Hiatt said she believes that becoming an ambassador would strengthen herself.

Cindy Briggs
Junior
Journalism / Mass
Communications

Briggs, a native of Minneapolis, Kan., said she sees the ambassadorship as chance rather than an award. "It would be an excellent opportunity to reach out to prospective stu-

David Shepard
Junior
Pre-Law and History

Shepard, originally from Kansas City, said the main reason he applied to be an ambassador was because he is excited about K-State and what it represents.

"K-State stands for a total commitment for a student's education," he said. "They are not just concerned with just getting you here. They are concerned about quality students and helping them out."

Shepard has been a member of each class' academic honorary organization, Delta Epsilon Sigma, Spurs and Chimes. He is also a member of Golden Key National Honorary and the Pre-Law Club.

"I'm excited where I am at college, and I think I could do a great job in letting everyone know the excitement going on at K-State through me," he said.

But he also cautions ambassadors from presenting only the good aspects about the University.

"I want to let people know exactly

Student voting begins Wednesday

By The Collegian Staff

Voting for the 1990-91 K-State Ambassadors will begin Wednesday in the K-State Union and continue through Friday.

The ambassadors, the University's student link to prospective K-Staters and alumni, will be announced during the halftime ceremonies at the K-State-Iowa State football game on Saturday. President Jon Wehald will make the presentation of the $1,000 scholarships to the male and female ambassadors selected.

"They travel throughout Kansas and go on recruiting trips to Chicago and St. Louis," said Jenny Barenberg, coordinator of ambassador selections for Blue Key Senior Honorary.

Students will be able to vote at a table in the Union's main concourse Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Friday 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Voters will also be able to cast their ballot in Weber Arena from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday in conjunction with Homecoming's bodybuilding competition.

To vote, students must present a valid student ID or a fee payment receipt.

The K-State Ambassadors' selection process and program is a joint effort of Blue Key Senior Honorary and the Alumni Association. Barenberg and Tresa Weaver, Alumni Association coordinator, have monitored the selection process.

"This is the 14th year for the ambassadors," said Barenberg, senior in education and biological science. "They replaced the traditional Homecoming royalty, but they are a lot more than just a homecoming queen and king."

Blue Key organizes and coordinates Homecoming Week activities.

The interview process this year narrowed 18 applicants to the current seven.

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

STUDENT BODY Today! PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE DEBATE

Noon in the Union Courtyard
Be informed before you vote.
Come and listen to the candidates express their opinions about the issues that affect YOU!

k-state union
upc issues & ideas

KANSAS CITY

Saturday, December 1 $10.00

Come and join us for a fun filled day Christmas shopping in beautiful Kansas City. We will begin by stopping off at the Oak Park Mall in Overland Park, and then travel downtown to the Country Club Plaza.

Information Meeting:
Tuesday, November 6 7 p.m. Union 204
Sign up begins:
Wednesday, November 7 8 a.m.—UPC office

k-state union
upc travel

Resistant An invited show

Let the Kansas Architectural Club open your eyes and mind to the world of interpretive art. Works on display until Nov. 2 in the Union Art Gallery (open 8 a.m.- 5 p.m. weekdays)

Wildlife Paintings and Drawings by Jonny Bill Wilkens October 29-November 9 in the Second Floor Showcase

Missouri Caving November 10 Cost: $33

Hide out in the Devil's Ice Box Cave in Columbia, MO.

Trip includes:
camping and caving permits

—use of canoes
—caving leader
—meals

SIGN-UP NOW! UPC office (3rd floor Union) from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

A wealthy, death-obsessed 20 year-old falls in love with a lively octogenarian in one of the most heartwarming and hilarious films ever made. A tender love story, an outrageous black comedy and a social satire, Harold and Maude is a joyful celebration of life, love, hope and freedom.
WEDNESDAY— 7 p.m. in Forum Hall
THURSDAY— 3:30 p.m. in Little Theatre 7 p.m. in Forum Hall

PLUS: Tom Goes to the Bar

A 10-minute short about a confused man "hanging out" in an eccentric bar. Shown with Harold and Maude. $1.75 and KSU ID.

k-state union
upc kaleidoscope

5/15/91
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
120 W 10th
Topeka KS 66612

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tuesday, October 30, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 47

Robert Hower, associate professor in art, creates photographic collages using electronic imaging programs and assembles the work on a computer screen. Hower has works displayed in shows in Czechoslovakia as well as in Salina and Kansas City.

Professor displays art work

Hower sights computer as inspiration, tool for creativity

By Angie Schrock
Staff Reporter

The Society for Contemporary Photography in Kansas City has selected four prints by a K-State professor for its international exhibit.

Robert Hower, associate professor of art, has four ink jet prints from his "Window Sequence" on display in the Current Works 1990 show. The show consists of 100 works which were selected from about 1,500 entries.

An ink jet print is a way to generate an image from a computer screen onto paper which can then be displayed in the traditional way of displaying art, Hower said.

"What I do is digital or electronic imaging. I'm utilizing the computer in a specific way to create photographic collages. I can create the environment I want on the computer screen," he said.

The possibilities of what can be done are endless in this type of art, Hower said. Hooking up a video camera and videocassette recorder to the computer allow the images to be put into the computer memory which can then be used as still photographs to work with or they can be used in motion.

"Old film from home movies can be transferred to videotape and then to the computer if I want to get a definite aspect of my past to inject into my work," Hower said.

The computer system is like a special electronic studio that allows the artist to store and select images, and cut and paste images together. There is a paint brush function that allows capabilities similar to having an actual paint brush and canvas and countless other options, he said.

Hower's titled his works the "Window Sequence" from the form in which it is generated.

"Any time you have a two-dimensional object and frame it, you give the illusion of depth. And with the glass of the computer screen in front of you, it really looks like a window," he said.

Work done in this manner is not what most people think of as art, Hower said.

"I may have pieces of six or seven objects in one frame, and it may not be logical. All I do is organize space and bits of reality in a space, and I pull work together within a framework," he said.

Hower currently has work being displayed at shows in Czechoslovakia and Salina as well as in Kansas City.

"He has a one-man show consisting of 30 pieces at the Kansas Wesleyan College where I teach part-time," said Brad Anderson, graduate student in ceramics.

Hower has spent the last ten years working with computers for Cox Communications in Atlanta and Chase Manhattan Bank in New York City. He has also developed computer services such as shopping and banking at home.

Candidates focus on lobbying efforts at state capitol

STUDENT SENATE '90 ELECTIONS

By Gregory A. Branson
Government/City Editor

Lobbying efforts in Topeka was one focus of the last student body president candidate debates before elections today and Wednesday.

The debate at Haymaker Hall allowed each candidate five minutes for opening comments before they fielded questions from the audience.

Five of the six candidates took part in the debate. Candidate David McIntyre, engineering senator, did not attend the debate.

The candidates agreed that a better educated lobby team should be sent to Topeka to voice the concerns of the University.

Candidate Todd Giefer, senior in architectural engineering, said, "I see it like going to battle. You don't take a bunch of people and go off to battle. First, you train them."

Giefer said he wants to establish a core of well-educated lobbyists to work with the legislators in Topeka.

Candidate Jonathan Morris, junior in mathematics, said although he wants a stronger lobbying team, he does not advocate expanding the number of lobbyists.

"We need good, educated lobbyists," he said, "not a bunch of college kids blowing steam in the big capitol building."

Candidate Todd Heitschmidt, graduate student in agricultural economics, said relations between the Legislature and K-State will have to be mended after last year's lobbying effort at the end of the session.

About 200 K-State students went to Topeka to convince the Legislature to provide full funding in this fiscal year's budget. Some legislators said they thought the students handled themselves the wrong way and bad feelings may linger.

"Our intentions were good," said Johnny Gaffney, junior in pre-law. "We did have an impact. But a day when there are 300 to 500 students there is useless."

Gaffney said the University depends on the Legislature for its funding, but the higher education system in Kansas is being sacrificed because the attention of the state campaigns is focusing on highways and tax reappraisal.

Heitschmidt said since the student body president represented the University students, it would be up to the new president to start over with legislators and regain their support.

"We over-jumped the gun with our last lobby day," he said. "We need to restart at the grassroots level again."

John Buchanan, sophomore pre-medicine, said he has the background and connections to be an effective lobbyist in Topeka.

Buchanan said his uncle is in his second term as a Kansas legislator. Buchanan said that he also knows Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan.

"I will use my inside track with the Legislature to help K-State," he said. The candidates also discussed their personal views about the Educational Amendment that will on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

This amendment, if Kansas voters approve it, will give the Legislature

■ See DEBATE, Page 10

Panel questions per pupil funding

Legislators debate rural education funding methods

By Jenifer Scheibler
Collegian Reporter

An issue facing the Kansas Legislature was the topic of discussion during a special issues panel held Monday in the K-State Union Forum Hall as part of the 12th Annual Rural and Small Schools Conference.

"School Finance: Does Anyone Care About Rural and Small Schools?" featured panel members presenting views on school district wealth determination.

Panel members were state Sen. Joseph Harder; Paul Adams, State Board of Education member; Jim Harris, Kansas Association of School Board's research director; and Jim Hays, superintendent of Baxter Springs School District. David Thompson, assistant professor of educational administration and director of the UCA Center for Education and Finance, acted as the moderator for the discussion.

Funding for Kansas school districts is a complex one, he said.

"The issue of financing rural schools is an issue that is growing enormously from a rural and urban split perspective," Thompson said.

Apparently problems emerged this year when school district wealth was figured on a per pupil basis rather than following the Kansas School Board Equalization Act formula used since 1973.

The formula allowed district wealth to be based mostly on assessed property value rather than on income rebates as the per pupil method was.

This change was because the reappraisal of property evaluations had shifted and tax bills went up, which affected the current formula.

After the shift, following through with the formula would have resulted in more emphasis on income than on assessed property value when figuring the formula, which is not what the formula intended.

Therefore the legislature was forced to determine a different way to measure district wealth, Thompson said.

Proponents of increased funding for rural and small schools argue that this change has benefited the wealthier school districts and hurt the less wealthy school districts.

"This is very disequalizing when you do it on a per pupil basis," Harris said.

Funding from income tax rebates can cover the cost of the budget increases planned for wealthy districts because the amount of rebate money they get is larger.

School districts with more students or wealthier families will get higher income tax rebates.

■ See PANEL, Page 10

Non-Communist parties achieve victory in Georgian elections

By The Associated Press

TBILISI, U.S.S.R. — Non-Communist parties won elections in Georgia on a platform calling for independence from the Soviet Union, private ownership of land and a capitalist economy, officials said Monday.

"We are certainly going to have a majority in parliament," said Zviad Gamsakhurdia, leader of the victorious Round Table-Free Georgia bloc of political parties.

With about 90 percent of the regions reporting, Gamsakhurdia claimed victory in about 70 percent.

He protested what he called "gross violations" of the election law and said Communist authorities "terrorized the non-Georgian population" along the borders of the mountainous southern republic, which is dotted with pockets of Azerbaijani and other ethnic groups.

A member of the central election commission, Alexander Kobalia, said that preliminary results showed a slightly less sweeping victory for Gamsakhurdia's Round Table, with the bloc winning about 60 percent of the vote vs. 30 percent for the Communist Party.

The final results will be ready on Wednesday, and a run-off will be held for close races on Nov. 11, he said.

No date has been set yet for convening the Georgian Supreme Soviet legislature, which is expected to declare independence from the Soviet Union.

Among the 15 Soviet republics, all but Kirgizia have declared some form of sovereignty or independence.

Gamsakhurdia said he was unable to specify what his first proposal would be in parliament. "I can't decide that alone," said Gamsakhurdia, an imposing 51-year-old with a history of arrests and opposition to Communist rule dating back to the 1950s.

Another Round Table spokesman, Georgi Makaridze, said the victory would translate into about 120 seats in the 250-member Supreme Soviet. "Along with other non-Communist parties, we will have a working majority in parliament," Makaridze said.

In a weekend interview, Gamsakhurdia predicted that Georgia's transition to independence would take about two years, and the republic would maintain extensive economic relations with the Soviet Union. It also seemed likely that Georgia would rely on the Soviet Union in national security matters.

About 35 parties, most grouped by coalition, took part in Sunday's election, the first, true multiparty vote in Soviet history.

Non-Communists have won elections in several cities and republics elsewhere in the Soviet Union, but the Georgian balloting was the first in which formal parties, created under new Soviet laws, were listed on the ballot.

Some politicians boycotted the election, claiming it was not democratic. One of them, the leader of the National Democratic Party, Gia Chanturia, was shot in the arm Friday as he left a political meeting.

Two National Democratic Party members, Gia Kobakhedze and Irakli Tsereteli, spoke on Georgian television and accused Gamsakhurdia of organizing the shooting on orders from Soviet authorities.

Gamsakhurdia denied responsibility for the shooting and accused authorities in an interview Sunday of trying to sabotage the election by not telling people where to vote.

anybody for anything. I'm as determined as I've ever been that this aggression will not stand."

Bush spoke at an airport news conference in San Francisco after campaigning for Re-

History is replete with examples where the president has had to take action.

—President Bush

publican Sen. Pete Wilson in his race for governor. Later, he flew to Oklahoma City to appear at the Cowboy Hall of Fame with Bill Price, the GOP candidate for governor in Oklahoma.

Shrugging off his slump in the polls, he accused Democrats of trying to win elections through "tax the rich, class warfare kind of garbage."

"I think people know that this Congress is controlled by the taxers, by the liberal Democrats," Bush said in a sharply political attack eight days before Election Day.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State James A. Baker III was echoing Bush's tough gulf statements in a speech in Los Angeles. "We are exhausting every diplomatic avenue to achieve (a peaceful) solution without further bloodshed," Baker said. But he added, "Let no one doubt: We will not rule out a possible use of force if Iraq continues to occupy Kuwait."

The White House policy in the Persian

Gulf has won strong bipartisan support in Congress, although there is a growing feeling that Bush should consult lawmakers before sending troops into any combat. More than 200,000 American forces have been deployed to the gulf after Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said last week that as many as 100,000 more troops may be dispatched.

The gulf crisis will be at the top of the agenda when Bush meets with congressional leaders at the White House today. The president also is to consult with Cheney and Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who just returned from the Middle East.

Bush will attack if Iraq persists

BRIEFLY

World

AIDS tests on babies halted

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The Health Ministry has halted controversial experiments being conducted on 83 babies infected with the AIDS virus, hospital officials said Monday.

The decision followed an investigation by a commission from the World Health Organization, which visited last week to look into the research conducted by a five-man British team.

The team, led by David Hughes, had been administering periodic injections of an experimental AIDS drug called FLV23-a to the patients at Bucharest's Colentina Hospital since September, with Health Ministry approval.

Although the WHO commission's conclusions were not made public, they were presented to the Health Ministry at the end of last week and the ministry decided to halt the experiments, the officials said. They asked not to be named.

Norway government resigns

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The center-right government resigned Monday after the junior member of the year-old coalition refused to support increased ties to the European Economic Community.

"I think it is deeply regrettable for the country," Conservative Prime Minister Jan Syse told national television moments after the small Center Party quit his three-party alliance.

Syse had hoped to form a minority government after his coalition split over Norway's position in talks between the community and the six-nation European Free Trade Association, of which Norway is a member. The talks are to center on the creation of a joint economic region.

U.S. ship rescues 36 Filipinos

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A U.S. merchant ship rescued 36 Filipinos who were aboard two fishing vessels that capsized in the South China Sea, American officials said Monday.

Up to 24 others were believed missing after the two outriggers capsized Saturday about 300 miles west of Manila.

Lt. Cmdr. Kevin Mukri, spokesman of the U.S. Subic Naval Base, west of Manila, said a U.S. Navy P-3 Orion aircraft spotted about 30 people in the water Sunday near one overturned vessel.

The Navy later said the U.S. merchant ship Ponchotola was steaming toward Subic with 36 survivors. A Philippine coast guard spokesman, Lt. Danilo Corpus, quoted relatives of the fishermen as saying there were 60 people aboard the two boats, which left the town of Santa Cruz on Wednesday.

Nation

Brewery company loses case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The widow of a brewery worker who became an alcoholic taking advantage of free beer at work is entitled to workers' compensation benefits, an appeals court said in a ruling issued Monday.

Ruling on the case of Casimer Gacloch, who worked at the Stroh Brewery Co., the state Court of Appeals said alcoholism is like any disease and workers are entitled to compensation if the work environment aggravates their condition.

While Gacloch was predisposed to alcoholism before the brewery hired him, he was not an alcoholic when he got the job, the court said.

The circumstances of the job shaped the course of Gacloch's disease, the court said, "aggravating and accelerating the underlying alcoholic predisposition to the point of uncontrolled addiction, thus constituting a personal injury" under worker's compensation laws.

Poor, elderly get federal aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of additional poor children and elderly people will get federal help paying doctors' bills under one of several social programs being expanded alongside the spending cuts in the deficit-reduction bill.

Advocates for the poor lauded the initiatives Monday, saying they will direct needed federal money to low-income families not receiving welfare.

"That's the new theme here," said Robert Greenstein, executive director of the Center for Budget and Policy Priorities, a Washington-based advocacy group. "There's an increased recognition by the Congress of the problems faced by the children of families that work but are still poor."

Region

Hayden outspends challenger

TOPEKA — Republican Gov. Mike Hayden has spent nearly $2 million this year on his re-election effort, six times as much as Democratic challenger Joan Finney, campaign finance records showed Monday.

Hayden's campaign reported spending almost $1.3 million between July 27 and Thursday. The campaign previously had reported spending $676,168 between Jan. 1 and July 26.

Finney's campaign reported spending only $274,032 between July 27 and Thursday, and only $43,769 between Jan. 1 and July 26. She is the state treasurer.

Monday was the deadline for candidates for statewide and legislative offices to file campaign finance reports with the secretary of state's office. Those reports listed contributions and spending between July 27 and Thursday. Previous reports listed spending between Jan. 1 and July 26.

Finney reports poor coverage

PITTSBURG (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Joan Finney said Monday that two of the region's biggest daily newspapers have been unfair and had interfered in her campaign.

Finney, speaking to students at Pittsburg State University, said the Kansas City Star and the Wichita Eagle have published skewed reports about her.

Both newspapers said Finney's claims are groundless. "They have twisted and distorted almost everything I've said," Finney said, adding that she blames the large corporations outside Kansas that own the newspapers.

Campus

McIntyre impeachment begins

Impeachment proceedings against Engineering Senator David McIntyre from the Athletic Ticket Sales Committee were initiated by the Senate Operations Standing Committee Monday.

The committee heard testimonies concerning charges that McIntyre used his position on the ticket committee to advance his position in line to purchase 50 general admission basketball tickets.

McIntyre bypassed the verification table and proceeded directly to the ticket line, said Bill Nelson, chairman of the Athletic Ticket Sales committee. McIntyre also consented to purchase seven additional tickets without verification while standing in line.

McIntyre said the verification process is not official policy of the committee and he did not break the rules by verifying his own tickets earlier in the day.

Members of the operations committee found grounds for impeachment and voted to present legislation to Student Senate.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

30 Tuesday

■ Environmental Design Student Association will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Seaton Court 107.

■ Omicron Nu will have an initiation meeting at 6:15 p.m. in the Derby Food Center Gold Room. James Boyce will speak on multicultural diversity. The public is welcome.

■ Wheat State Agronomy Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

■ Pinnacle National Honor Society will have a meeting at 3:30 p.m. in Union 205.

■ SADD will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 203.

■ Apparel and Textile Marketing Interest Group will have officer elections at 6:30 in Justin 245. Becki Smith will speak at 7 p.m.

■ Circle K International will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 207.

■ HALO will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 205.

CORRECTIONS

Two candidates who returned the forms before the deadline were inadvertently left out of Monday's SGA Election section.

Karlene Stander is a junior in journalism and mass communications. She said her major concerns on campus include improving the library, solving the parking problem and increasing multi-ethnic awareness.

Stander said she has been a Student Senate intern for one year and that will help her do her job if elected.

Jim Spencer, sophomore in business, lists campus safety and qualified admissions as two of his concerns on campus. Spencer plans to set up times when students can come in and inform him on how they want him to vote.

Spencer has attended Boys State and Model United Nations and he said the experience will help him in his job.

Because of a reporting error, the Collegian incorrectly stated Monday that Camille Rohleder is currently a Student Senate intern. Rohleder was an intern but is not now.

Because of a reporting error, the Collegian incorrectly stated Monday that Mary Ade is a sophomore in electrical engineering. Ade is actually a sophomore in journalism and mass communications.

The Collegian incorrectly spelled Jonathan Morris's name in Monday's paper. The Collegian regrets the error.

The Collegian accidentally switched the photos of Derek Thoman and Derek Nelson in Monday's candidate section. The Collegian regrets the error.

Because of a processing problem, the photo's of Kurt Barrow and Lora Gilliland were left out of Monday's candidate section. The Collegian regret the inconvenience.

Tom Alberg, candidate for Board of Student Publications, was incorrectly identified as the president of Society of Collegiate Journalists. Alberg is the vice-president. The Collegian regrets the error.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, sunny and warm. High around 80. Southwest winds 15 to 25 mph. Tonight, clear. Low around 50. Wednesday, sunny and warm again. High around 80.

The Amazing MICRO DIET

Developed & endorsed by international physicians & nutritionists, The Amazing Micro Diet is a proven common sense, full-spectrum approach dedicated "to improve the health and quality of life of all the peoples of this planet."

We have tried the Micro Diet personally - It works.

Sponsored by
Horst Pharmacy

Call 1-800-325-4489
511 N. Main Newton, Kans.
for your Manhattan advisor or 537-3840.

NORTHWEST DISCOUNT COMPUTER SUPPLY

Laramie, Wyoming
Mail Order Prices
with Hometown Service
Sales & Service
now available in Manhattan.

Complete AT286 & 386 Systems	$649 & up
9 Pin Star	$179
24 Pin Star	$299
Color Printers	$235
44 meg IDE drives with/H/F cont.	$319
82 meg SCSI drives w/H/F cont.	$499
BGA Paper White Monitor	$139.95

Pick up a flier at King Clone/Motorcycle Supply
Call 776-6177 or (307) 742-7218
1221 Moro (Behind Hardee's)

JONATHAN MORRIS

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by Students for Morris

Remember ...
Vote

Arts & Sciences
Council Election
tomorrow in the Union

Need money for college?

ASK ABOUT STUDENT LOANS

CITIZENS BANK & TRUST CO.
Sixth & Humboldt
Manhattan, KS 66502
776-9400
Member FDIC

Re-elect

Jim Struber
Education Senator

"Experienced Leadership..."

Senate Operations Standing Committee Chair
Senate Executive Committee Member
Campus Safety Task Force Member
Racial/Ethnic Harmony Week Committee Member

Elect Todd D. Johnson
Agriculture Senator

"I will address the needs of My Constituents."

Questions? 539-2365

Paid for by Todd D. Johnson for Student Senator

DOCKETT

Dedication/Determination

Arts and Science Senate

Paid for by Students for Dockett.

At Your Convenience
We Again DELIVER
539-3830
Also: Dine in & Carryout

2-10 in. Pizzas
2 Pepsi
$8.00

2-12 in. Pizzas
2 Pepsi
2 Toppings
$9.99

1127 Moro

Offer expires 10-30-90

Treat Your Punkin' To A Personal

and the COLLEGIAN will treat you to

$1 off

your prepaid personal classified ad

Clip the purple coupon from the 1990-91 KSU CAMPUS DIRECTORY and bring it to Kedzie 103 by noon Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Coupon good for Oct. 31, 1990 issue only.
ID must be shown when placing Personals.

College opposes possible reorganization

Human Ecology school plans seminar, rally to demonstrate

By Paul Noel
Staff Reporter

The College of Human Ecology announced its position on the proposed reorganization plan at a special meeting Monday morning in Justin Hall.

Barbara Stowe, dean of the college, said the proposal calling for the dissolution of the college would reduce the quality of education for K-State students. Four departments in the College of Human Ecology would be merged with other colleges if the proposal is adopted, she said.

Faculty and students have scheduled a seminar, rally and march Wednesday, Stowe said. People who meet at 10 a.m. in front of Justin Hall will receive a free T-shirt that reads, "Hell no, we won't go," and free balloons.

She encouraged all faculty and students to wear their T-shirts to the Landon Lecture after the rally.

Letters to the college's 12,000 alumni will also be sent explaining its position and the actions students, faculty and staff will be taking to show their discontent with the proposal.

Stowe said the student council in human ecology is accepting donations for the Students Supporting Human Ecology fund to pay for the activities.

Edgar Chambers, associate professor of foods and nutrition, said the seminar should not be mistaken for a walk out or demonstration.

"It is a positive show of support for our college," Chambers said. "It is also, first and foremost, a seminar on who we are."

"We do not want to take any chance of diverting any attention from what we are actually doing, which is showing people that we are not for departmentalization. We are a college that needs to be maintained intact," he said.

The seminar will supersede all human ecology classes from 10:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Wednesday, Chambers said.

Stowe said she hoped to have enough people at the rally to form a circle from McCain Auditorium to the Union to Anderson Hall.

At least 1,000 people are expected to attend the rally, Chambers said.

"We will also have a permit to rally at the football game on Saturday," he said.

Stowe said afternoon classes may be canceled at the faculty's discretion for the Landon Lecture. She told students not to skip other classes in order to attend the rally.

"Please do not jeopardize your education for this," Stowe said. "Your education comes first."

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Faculty and students prepare letters to be sent to college alumni informing them of the proposed elimination of the College of Human Ecology on Monday morning. A rally and march is scheduled for 10 a.m. beginning in front of Justin Hall Wednesday.

Singer displays writing abilities

COLLEGIAN
Report Card
"RUNNING SACRED"
B+

By Stacy Lentz
Collegian Reviewer

Former punk goddess Exene Cervenka, of the band X, proves she is a solo force to be reckoned with in her second album, "Running Sacred."

Cervenka sings with a furious passion and writes some of the most elegantly turned lyrics you're likely to hear this year. She is not a great singer in the conventional sense, but she has a distinctive, memorable voice.

Cervenka's main strength is her songwriting. She spills out her heart in tales of disillusionment, domestic messes and environmental issues. She exhorts her listeners to fight the powers that be.

Exene's solo debut, "Old Wives Tales," received rave reviews, but the mellow album was a far cry from what the critics expected. "Running Sacred," full of rocking energy, is closer to the sound she produced with X. There is an increased warmth and confidence in her haunting vocals.

The tracks on the album cover just about every type of music, ranging from the hummable "Slave Labor" to the ferocious "Just Another Perfect Day" to the intense "Red Dirt."

Musicians on the album are Cervenka's new touring band. Former X guitarist Tony Gilkyson produced the album and plays guitar, placing hot leads all over the place. He also does the male vocal leads on the album.

The album has tinges of country, folk, and the punk which Cervenka is most known for. It's as diverse as an album can be. The quality of the songs also varies as much of the styles of the songs. Some of the songs cause chills as her snarling voice cranks out tunes of self-disillusionment and

See CERVENKA, Page 8

Interviews top GPA requirement

Placement center coaches students in employment searches

By Liz Anne McElhane
Collegian Reporter

An unwillingness to talk is a downfall for students in an interview, said Pete Borehs, Phillips Petroleum recruiter and administrative manager for Phillips' Borger Refinery.

"Interviewers are there to gather information and so is the student. Interviewers put in a great deal of effort. You would like to think students do the same and research the company they are interested in," Borehs said.

Borehs, who visits about 50 college campuses coast to coast, said he does not just look for the best grade point averages, but rather students who fit into the job culture.

"We don't have a checkbox. Academics play only a part of it. I want to hear from the student what meant the most to them in college," he said.

Phillips Petroleum has no GPA requirement for an interview but looks for some evidence of academic achievement, work experience and other aspects. Borehs said one strong aspect does not exclude the other.

Graduate and undergraduate students are interviewed on equal footing, he said, unless the job requires a particular degree.

"The recession will have a bigger effect next year vs. this year. We are actively recruiting to fill positions now," Borehs said.

Frank Crawford, director of recruitment for Wichita Public Schools, said he looks for good communication skills, a high degree of enthusiasm, good classroom management skills and technique, leadership potential, dependability and flexibility.

"We ask questions that get to the root of those qualities," Crawford said.

Tracey Fraser, assistant director of the Career Planning and Placement Center, said students should be prepared to spend time preparing for the interview and be creative in the job search.

"The job-search process takes nine to 12 months to adequately research a corporation or organization and to see if their needs match a student's interests and skills," Fraser said.

"I perceive my role as a coach to educate students. It's a lengthy process, and there are possibilities out there," Fraser said.

Fraser said students need to focus their interests, skills and accomplishments and market themselves.

"One of our responsibilities is to notify companies of different degrees we have at K-state and skills that come from different academic programs," Fraser said.

James Akin, associate director of the Career Planning and Placement Center, said the Big Eight is well received by employers. Akin said employers want K-State students well-prepared in education and work ethic.

"The degree is a foundation degree, and the student has to sell their own skills," he said.

Akin said that as the placement center reorganizes, it is trying to educate students to seek jobs on their own and not rely entirely on on-campus interviews. He said students can find out about available positions through personal contacts, job bulletins, employee lists and directories offered through the placement center.

"We're trying to market comprehensive job search strategies rather than just on-campus interviews," Akin said.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT
COLLEGIAN

FLOUR SALES
SPONSORED BY
KSU GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB
Flour Sales Every Wednesday
Noon until 4 p.m.
SHELLENBERGER HALL 220 KSU

VOTE TODAY IN THE UNION
DAVID

McINTYRE for

Student Body President

Experienced, Dedicated Representation Working For You!

JUST SAY DAVE!

VOTE TODAY!
ELECT
JOHN BUCHANAN

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for students to elect Buchanan president

Smith Corona
Series H
Correctable ribbons

Dual pak $6⁹⁵

We keep all Smith Corona ribbons in stock! Stop in and check our low prices!

Hull Business Machines 715 N. 12th
539-1413

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION (SGA)
Coordinator of Finances

Chair the Finance Committee which:

1. recommends the allocation of @ $240,000 in student activity fees to student organizations, services and departments.
2. reviews and makes recommendations on other student fees.

Applications available in the SGS Office, K-State Union and are due Friday, Nov. 2, 5 p.m.

$7⁰⁰ Haircuts

This Tuesday only 4:30-8 p.m.
(10-30-90)

With Debbie & Carole

Ray's Hair Maxim
622 N. Manhattan
(Aggieville)
537-8620

Walk-ins welcome!

TODD
Heitschmidt
For STUDENT Body President
—Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt—

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

K-State ghost stories retain popularity

Light your jack-o'-lanterns and gather round the witch's brew; 'tis the hour for tall tales of horror that will make your hair stand on end. Halloween approaches and it is my job to see that we all have our share of ghastly, ghoulish ghost stories to tell when we walk by the graveyard on our trick-or-treat trail.

Yes, I'd like to present true (or semi-true) K-State ghost stories as told to me by my closest friends and acquaintances, who were probably lying. For maximum shiver value, I suggest you turn down the lights and read this in a deserted room in Memorial Stadium.

Speaking of the old stadium, it happens to be the sight of one of K-State's most well-known ghost stories. It goes something like this:

Once upon a time and a long time ago, sometime in the 1940's according to one source, there was a football game in the old stadium, which was probably not called "old" at the time. During the game, a young player took a hit that knocked the breath right out of him. "I'll be all right, Coach," he gasped. "Don't take me out of the game. My parents are coming. They'll be here any minute. It's the first time they've come to see me play." The coach and another player picked him up. "You'll be fine, son," the coach said. "We'll just leave you to rest and you'll be back in the game in no time."

So, they left the player in the locker room to recover. The game went on and the coach didn't think about the player again until just before the half. He went to check on the boy and came back with a grey face. "He's dead," he said. "There was nothing wrong with him, but now he's dead. His eyes are open and he looks like ... something startled him and killed him." At that moment, a policeman walked up to the coach. "I need to speak to ..." and he named the player who had died. "His parents were killed in a car accident a few miles outside of town."

As far as the doctors could tell, the player had died of mysterious causes at the same moment that his parents' car had struck the tree. Strange things began to happen in the stadium. Players refused to stay in the locker room alone. People heard noises, and the young player's locker was found open during games. Fans reported eerie feelings when sitting in the seats reserved for his parents.

As we all know, the old stadium is no longer used for football. But people who use the place after dark report hearing noises and mysterious footsteps coming from empty corridors. They look out their doors and see nothing. But late at night on Halloween, if the moon is shining just right, they say you can see a young man in a 1940's football uniform, waving to his parents in the stands.

That's my favorite K-State ghost story and the one with the most gruesome details. But there are others. A new one that I've just heard takes place in a fraternity house.

Karin Dell'Antonia
COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity used to be blessed with a little old lady who lived next door and came over to play the piano for formal dinners and special occasions. This was back in the 1960s, and, like most little old ladies, she eventually died. Under normal circumstances, that would be the end of the story. But not here.

Pi Kaps living in the semi-deserted house during the summer report hearing the piano playing late at night. One brave soul went down to check it out. As he approached the living room, the music stopped. He went in and walked up to the piano. The lid over the keys was down. When he got back to his room, the music started again. This time, one of his roommates was home, so they went to the living room together. This time, the lid on the piano keys was up, and there were faint wisps of smoke coming from the candles that sat on the piano, as if they had just been blown out. There was no one else in the house.

Since then, others have heard the faint sounds of the piano and felt cold chills when sitting down to play. No doubt, on Halloween she will appear at midnight and serenade anyone who is listening with one of her mysterious concerts.

That story was told to me by a Pi Kappa Alpha. The Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity also has a ghost that they call "Polly Pi Phi" because their house used to belong to that sorority, and rumor has it that one of the members died there. No one seems to have heard from Polly lately, though.

The Delta Sigma Phis have a marvelous ghost named George that you can read about in last year's yearbook. George apparently watched "Star Trek" during an ice storm in the 1970's in his old hospital room (the house is a former hospital) while the rest of the block was without power. The power went back out in the Delta Sig house after the program was over.

This last one is a personal favorite. About thirty years ago, after a K-State victory over KU in the old stadium, a daring KU fan stole the scoreboard (they were much smaller back then) and took off running, followed by a pack of angry K-State fans. He reached the house where he was staying, a few blocks away from the stadium on the site of what is now my apartment building. Just ahead of the K-Staters, he ran in and shut the door. The K-State fans surrounded the house. The KU fan waved the scoreboard at them through the window and the fans prepared to rush the house. As they headed towards the window, the KU fan, clutching the scoreboard, backed into the lantern that he had been carrying at the game and caught himself on fire. K-State fans watched in horror, but they could not get inside the house. Soon, the house, fan and scoreboard burned to the ground.

Years later, in my apartment building, students on the ground floor began to hear noises. One saw a flaming figure reflected behind him in the mirror, but when he looked, it was gone. The people that used to live in our apartment say they couldn't get out of the door to join the riot the last time we won. Someone was holding it shut. When they looked out the window, there was no one there, but they thought they smelled smoke. Last Saturday, I left the room with the radio on the KU-K-State game. Whenever K-State scored, the radio went off. The second time it happened, I smelled smoke. The third time, I left it off. The radio came back on to tell me the final score. I was the only one home.

That last story wasn't true. I made the whole thing up to scare my roommates. I think the portable scoreboard should have clued you in. Happy Halloween, guys!

EDITORIALS

Recycling bins should be more accessible

The recent preliminary draft proposals for University reorganization have made everyone aware that money must be saved somewhere — and everywhere possible.

No money-saving project is too small to be implemented, because every little bit helps. Some projects already in place could be improved upon; and now is the time to do it.

Recycling aluminum cans is a worthy project that not only saves money but also saves the environment. One way to bolster participation is to make recycling a little easier.

Recycling bins are available on campus at Ackert, Dykstra, Denison, Bushnell, Nichols and Umberger halls and the power plant. Students who save cans at home and take them to recycling centers are to be commended.

However, this is not convenient for the student who drinks a can of soda in class everyday and then wants to immediately dispose of it after class or after studying in the Union. The hike across campus to one of the recycling centers to deposit one can just isn't worth it. And no one wants to put a sticky, drippy can in a backpack to drop off later.

All of those cans could add up if canisters for aluminum cans only were in the places students normally dispose of trash. All that is needed is trash cans with lids that only soda cans will fit in.

Purchasing or constructing such trash cans would be relatively inexpensive if a student group would take it on as a project. High schools have done this successfully and K-State could do the same.

Putting the cans in normally trafficked areas would ensure that students have every reason to and no excuse not to recycle.

LETTERS

Expand education

Editor,

As I was working on my computer Sunday night, the phone rang. It was a good friend. I was hoping to discuss the weather, movies, cooking, and the terrible result of the K-State-KU football game. My friend had something else on her mind — something terrible, very unfair and something of a nightmare to students, faculty and the future of K-State. She asked me if I subscribed to the Manhattan Mercury. Like many other students, I do not receive the Mercury nor do I wish to start. She told me of a situation that would inevitably change my life, my husband's life and the lives of many students and faculty. She said that, according to the Mercury, the proposals on the table as of Sunday evening were to eliminate the College of Human Ecology, eliminate the interior architecture department and restructure the architecture and landscape architecture departments in the College of Engineering.

Boom! I felt like a 4,000-lb. anvil had dropped on me. My husband, a third-year interior architecture student, would quite possibly have no curriculum whatsoever. Where would we go? What would we do? How would he finish his degree? I was outraged and scared. I was sad and confused. I also realized that my future wasn't all that was at stake here. What about all the students in human ecology? What about all the other students in architecture departments? What about all the faculty and their families?

What is happening here? I realize that with the budget cuts there needs to be some reorganizing, but to eliminate jobs, degrees, or futures, here at K-State or even in Kansas for that matter, is completely unethical and demands everyone's attention. I urge everyone, students, faculty members and citizens to fight for what education stands for — to support what education means to you, Kansas and the United States — to support expansion of education in all areas of study and not deprivation of it.

Teresa Hastings
senior in accounting

Rec sees more use

Editor,

This is it. We, as students must decide whether or not to support the expansion of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. As a user of the Rec Complex for almost 4 years, I have seen the problem of overcrowding only get worse. This expansion will not help me, personally, but I see it as necessary for providing adequate facilities for future K-Staters.

I grant that Farrell Library is in need of improvement and agree that our immediate attention is needed, but the simple fact is that the majority of students at K-State use the Rec Complex more in one month than they use Farrell in a whole year. I admit that when I am looking for research, I often get frustrated and run to the Manhattan Public Library for help, but it is much easier for me to stand for the constant delays I am forced to endure at the Rec Complex.

I urge students at K-State to find out exactly how much of their tuition goes to Farrell Library and ask their trustees just how much more of the state's responsibilities they should have to pay for. Then, go to the Rec Complex and see why the expansion is needed, and vote accordingly.

Think not only of yourself, but also of future K-Staters.

When all the facts are presented, I am confident that we will see the Rec Complex expansion approved, that is, if everyone will take the time to vote. Vote "yes" on the Rec Complex expansion.

Vernon Golladay
senior in English

Suggestion poor

Editor,

After reading Tim Hubin's letter to the editor in the Oct. 25 Collegian, I was somewhat shocked at the childish arguments he put forward, and more so, humored by the lack of serious thought he put into his suggestions.

I would first ask Hubin to consider the tremendous load on the University computers at fee payment, which is directly before the next semester starts. This would pose a serious problem if they, as Hubin suggested, also tried to carry out enrollment at the same time. Maybe Hubin would suggest that the University purchase a larger, faster computer system to remedy this. Good luck.

Next, Hubin, think about the fact that the semester is about 75 percent complete at early enrollment. If you do not know the material by this time, I don't believe you're going to salvage a respectable grade in the class. Maybe you should just swallow hard and take a "W" in the class. Also, Hubin, the time period in which you have suggested to hold early enrollment would fall right before, if not during, final examinations. Imagine the fun of trying to study for and take finals, while worrying about the lines in Willard Hall.

Hubin, I think your suggestions discriminate against responsible students by depriving them of the added convenience that early enrollment offers. Please think about both sides next time before crying wolf.

In closing, Hubin, a few, related topics for future letters: Maybe we should ask the bookstore to forego charging us for textbooks until the end of the semester when we know whether we passed a class. How about having the University waive tuition and fees until we know if we will pass enough of the right classes to receive a degree, and, of course, if not, no charge? Great ideas, don't you think?

Keith McNickle
senior in agronomy

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Toman Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venno
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzon, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Toman Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimis Hatjtimothiadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Pula, Alan Wilde, Paul Noel, Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leap, Dwayne Linby, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zivnik
COLUMNISTS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Steve Lentz, Rebecca Sack
REVIEWERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Krutzer
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchman, J. Kyle Wyatt
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
EDITORIAL BOARD	David Svoboda, Tom Franzon, Steve Franzon, David Frese, Eric Henry, Toman Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venno

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR-SHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jeyne Wall, Allison Schiff, Amy Salt, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Pustney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hodgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Conie Fullerton
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Carla Jones
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Tammi La-die, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
OFFICE STAFF	Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christi South
CARRIERS	Joe Cook, Minda Dowdy, John Fullerton, Norm LeComte, James Seymour

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

Candidates opposed to property tax increase

CAMPAIGN 1990

Kansas House

By Elvyn Jones
Staff Reporter

Area candidates running for the Kansas House of Representatives opposed higher taxes on rental residential property or sales taxes on rent. Representatives Sheila Hochhauser, D-Manhattan; Katha Hurt,

D-Manhattan; and Hochhauser's opponent, Stan Hoerman, responded to questions asked by the Manhattan Landlords' Association Monday. Kent Glasscock, Hurt's opponent, canceled his scheduled appearance. Hurt took the opportunity to attack Glasscock's advocacy of new rental inspection codes that could have greatly increased rents in Manhattan while he was mayor. The City Commission eventually decided to enforce codes already on the books, she said.

"Glasscock needs to do his homework," she said.

Hochhauser said she voted against a proposal to raise the 12-percent appraisal rate on residential commercial property on the grounds the tax would ultimately be passed along to low- or middle-income tenants. She said she would vote against a sales tax of rental payments on the same grounds.

Though she said she voted for a higher rate on residential commercial property in the last Legislative session, Hurt said she did so only in support of a last-ditch bill that attempted to provide property-tax relief. She voted against the bill after it came out of a joint House-Senate conference committee because of the higher residential commercial tax provision, she said.

Hurt and Hoerman both said they would oppose a sales tax on rent.

The candidates were asked a series of questions concerning the rights of landlords. The candidates agreed statutes need to be tightened up so landlords can recover court cost, prosecute bad checks, prosecute willful damage to property and recover unpaid rent from the sale of abandoned property.

Hurt and Hochhauser took the opportunity to clarify the education amendment on next month's ballot. Hurt said the amendment would allow for the appointment of the State Board of Education, change the way the state's community colleges are governed and take all references of educational institutions out of the state constitution.

Hochhauser said she supports the amendment because, unless it passes, the Legislature has no ability to change the structure and reduce the number of the state's 19 community colleges.

Ad It Up!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

HUNAM Restaurant & Lounge

Mini-Lunch Buffet
$4.50

Open 7 Days We Deliver
11:30-2 M-F
1304 Westloop
539-8888 or 539-0888

American Classics.

Enjoy the look and style of classic canvas Tretorn. Available in assorted color trims, and leather too.

$35.99

Standing Room Only
1222 Moro - Aggieville - Manhattan
TRETORN

VOTE
HEATHER A. SMITH
ARTS & SCIENCE
STUDENT SENATE

Paid for by Heather A. Smith for Student Senate

Kathy's Back and working at Aggie Hair Shapers
(Next Door to Ballards)
776-3600 1220 Moro
Call now for appointment

PINNACLE
National Honor Society for Non-Traditional Students
MEETING Oct. 30, 1990
Union 205 at 3:30 p.m.
Members and Non-Members Welcome

JONATHAN MORRIS
FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by the Students For Morris

Todd
Heitschmidt
for Student Body President

- A.S.K. campus director
- Student Senator-College of Ag (2 years)
- Academic Affairs and University Relations (chairman)
- Parking Council (subcommittee chair)

—Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt—

TODD GIEFER
Student Body President

"The future of Kansas State University has inspired me to run for Student Body President. Students have requested things in the past and our previous leaders have refused to deliver. I will respond to their concerns. If elected, the students will always be foremost in my thoughts and actions.
Thanks for the support."

Todd Giefer

Let's Put Student Back Into Student Government!
paid for by the committee to elect Todd Giefer

VOTE
CAMERON EPARD
FOR ENGINEERING SENATOR

PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT CAMERON EPARD

JOHNNY'D BE GOOD FOR...

REPRESENTATION

"We must strive so that all aspects of student life, especially student government, are accessible and equitable to every student."

JOHNNY GAFFNEY
Student Body President

VOTE TODAY AND TOMORROW IN THE UNION
Paid for by Johnny Gaffney

RIDE TO THE UNION . . .
VOTE!!

In conjunction with the National Interfraternity Conference VOTE AMERICA campaign, Greek Affairs is sponsoring a shuttle to the K-State Union to encourage participation in the University elections.

The shuttle will leave the Union approximately every 30 minutes, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 30-31, following the route below.

VOTE
KENTON EPARD
FOR ENGINEERING SENATOR

PAID FOR BY COMMITTEE TO ELECT KENTON EPARD

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Conference to implement rule changes

Measures address fighting, proper player/coach decorum

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The NCAA and the Big Eight Conference will be instituting several rule changes and modifications for the upcoming men's basketball season.

In a meeting with members of the media Sunday morning at the KCI Airport Marriott, John Erickson, Big Eight director of basketball operations, reviewed the changes and answered a variety of questions.

Erickson spoke in detail about the steps taken to ensure proper coach/player decorum and discourage fighting.

"We've put a big emphasis on coach/player decorum," Erickson said. "We tell our officials to be players' officials. We want our guys to give the player a chance to play the best game he can possibly play. But he needs to do it cleanly."

As a result, the NCAA strengthened disciplinary measures for players involved in fights and cut the number of technical fouls required for ejection.

The new fighting rule states that the first time any squad member or bench personnel participates in a fight during the season, he will be suspended for the team's next game. Last season, the first fight resulted in only a probation.

Further, if the individual participates in a second fight, he will be suspended for the remainder of the season, including postseason competition. The rules apply to bench personnel who come off the bench to participate in a fight.

Erickson said Big Eight officials have been given specific instructions as to how to deal with fights.

"The first official three steps between (those fighting), the second official comes to the aid of the first, and third is responsible for checking the benches," he said.

The new technical foul rule states that the second technical foul for "unsportsmanlike" conduct that is charged directly to a coach, squad member or any bench personnel is to be considered a flagrant foul. Two such technical fouls result in immediate ejection from the game.

In addition, the head coach will be ejected after an accumulation of three technicals on the bench personnel, team attendants or followers. The coach need not have a technical for this rule to apply.

Two specific rule changes regarding fouls committed also will be instituted.

The first involves the bonus situation. According to the new rule, beginning with the team's 10th personal foul in a half, two free throws will be awarded for each common foul, except player-control fouls. The change addressed the concerns of those who thought that the last few minutes of the game were taking too long to play. The one-and-one will still be in effect for the seventh, eighth and ninth fouls in each half.

The other foul-related change involves the three-point shot. Beginning with this season, three free throws will be awarded for a foul against a player attempting an unsuccessful three-point shot.

An intentional foul against a trifecta shooter whose try is unsuccessful results in three foul shots and possession.

Other minor rule changes involve blocked shots, players shooting at the wrong basket, timeouts and palming the basketball.

Veteran Big Eight official Rick Wulkow of Boone, Iowa, makes a point with former Nebraska player Carl Hayes during a conference game last season. Wulkow is one of 33 Big Eight officials who will enforce several rule changes implemented during the off-season.

The new blocked shot rule involves the shot clock. The rule states that the shot clock will not be reset if a blocked shot is deflected out of bounds by the defender. Following the block, the offensive team will have the unexpired time on the shot clock or five seconds, whichever is greater, to attempt the shot after the inbounds play.

In addition, if a shot is blocked and remains inbounds, the clock is reset and started only when a team gains control, not after the actual block, as in past seasons. The timing device is to continue running during a loose-ball situation if the offense retains possession.

The wrong basket shooting rule involves an error by officials.

If the official(s) erroneously permit a team to go in the wrong direction, when the error is discovered, all points scored, fouls committed and time consumed shall count as though each team had gone in the proper direction.

The changes in the timeout rule are twofold. First, timeouts have been expanded in length from 60 seconds to 75. The first of two horns will be sounded when 60 seconds have expired, the second at 75.

Secondly, in all games involving electronic media, each team's timeouts have been reduced to three.

With regard to palming the basketball, the spirit and intent of the rule has been brought into question as offensive players abuse the rule to a distinct advantage.

When the hand is turned clockwise so that any part of the palm is facing upward or has gone beyond the perpendicular plane, the ball has come to rest. If the dribble continues after the ball has been palmed or carried, a double-dribble violation has been committed.

Miami off to hot start

Dolphins 6-1 in early going in AFC East Division race

By The Associated Press

MIAMI — The last time the Miami Dolphins had a decent defense was the last time they made the playoffs.

Now, five years later, they've given up the fewest yards in the NFL and — voila — they're again a first-place team.

Miami allowed 356 yards per game a year ago, fifth worst in the league, but the average is 230 this season. Indianapolis managed just 132 yards, the lowest net against the Dolphins since 1979, in Miami's 27-7 victory Sunday.

"We've pretty much stayed with the same defensive philosophy," coach Don Shula said Monday. "It was just a question of guys making the push upfield and getting rid of the blocker and staying in their lanes and pursuing."

With five new starters on defense this season, Miami has allowed a league-low 90 points. That's an average of 13 a game, compared with 23 a year ago.

It's no coincidence the Dolphins are off to a 6-1 start, their best since 1984. Miami is tied with Buffalo for the lead in the AFC East.

Shula said it's too early to know whether his defense deserves to be ranked with the league's best. But he's confident the Dolphins will continue to improve.

"You get people out there you're satisfied with as far as physical abilities. Then you give them the time to grow together," Shula said. "That's how you get good defense, and that's what we're going through right now."

"We've got a lot of new faces that are mixed together, and we feel the longer they can play together, the better we can get."

This year's new faces were mostly unheralded when they arrived in Miami. Shawn Lee, a free agent, and Alfred Oglesby, a rookie, have divided time at nose tackle. Linebackers David Griggs and Cliff Odom were free agents, and Tim McKeyer, acquired in a trade, and 12th-round 1989 draft choice J.B. Brown won the cornerback assignments.

Another welcome addition is a respectable running attack that has allowed Miami to control the ball in several games. Against Indianapolis, the Dolphins ran for 206 yards, their best since 1984, and had a 22-minute possession advantage.

The Dolphins forced four turnovers against Indianapolis and allowed just 31 yards rushing, the lowest opponent total since 1980. Eric Dickerson, who had topped 100 yards in each of his six previous games against Miami, managed just 27 in 10 carries.

A soft schedule has made the Dolphins' task easier: five of the six victories were against teams with a losing record.

Coming up next are two more games against losing teams. Phoenix (2-5) visits Miami on Sunday, and the Dolphins then play the Jets (3-5) at New York. A home game against the Los Angeles Raiders (6-1) on Nov. 19 looms as a much stiffer test.

Louisville moves into Top 25; Cornhuskers now solid at No. 3

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Louisville may be the bottom team in the Top 25, but Coach Howard Schnellenberger is feeling on top of the world.

"Hallelujah! That's like being knighted by the Queen of England," Schnellenberger said Monday after the Cardinals gained a ranking in The Associated Press college football poll for the first time in 18 years.

Louisville (7-1-1) moved up to 25th after beating Western Kentucky 41-7 Saturday. It is the Cardinals' first ranking since the final poll of the 1972 season, when they finished 18th with a 9-1 record.

Louisville went 2-9, 3-8 and 3-7-1 in Schnellenberger's first three seasons before turning it around. Since the start of the 1988 season, the Cardinals are 21-9-1.

The Cardinals were snubbed by the bowls after going 8-3 in 1988, but that might change this year. They haven't made a postseason appearance since the 1977 Independence Bowl, a 24-14 loss to Louisiana Tech.

Virginia, which did not play Saturday, remained No. 1 for the third straight week while unbeaten but unimpressive Auburn fell from second

ISU extends Walden's pact

By The Associated Press

AMES, Iowa — Iowa State has extended football coach Jim Walden's contract for seven more years, the university announced Monday.

Walden, who is in his fourth season at Iowa State, signed an extension that will keep him under contract as the Cyclones' coach through Dec. 31, 1997. His original contract would have expired after the 1991 season.

The extension does not increase Walden's salary, which is $100,800.

"This agreement reflects our belief that Jim Walden is the best football coach in the United States and belongs at Iowa State," Athletic Director Max Urlick said.

"More important than his football creativity, Jim represents the very highest level of integrity and complete dedication to the well-being of the young men on the team."

Iowa State has a 17-23-1 record under Walden, including a 3-4-1 mark this season. After a 3-8 record in 1987, Walden's teams went 5-6 and 6-5.

to fourth in the poll.

The Cavaliers (7-0), who met Georgia Tech in an Atlantic Coast Conference showdown Saturday, received 44 first-place votes and 1,462 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Notre Dame (6-1) climbed one to second after beating Pittsburgh 31-22, and Nebraska (8-0) rose a notch to third after downing Iowa State 45-13. The Irish received six first-place votes and 1,380 points, while Nebraska got five first-place votes and 1,350 points.

Auburn (6-0-1) lost support after edging Mississippi State 17-16 on a blocked extra point with 2½ minutes left. The Tigers got two first-place votes and 1,284 points.

Big 8 coaches personable, knowledgeable

Scott Paske

SPORTS REPORTER

"Sit down, Coach, sit down!"

If you're a K-State basketball fan, chances are you've probably yelled those five words at an opposing Big Eight Conference coach while he rants and raves at an official. Whether it's Tubbs, Stewart, Williams, Orr or Nee, it doesn't matter. A Wildcat game wouldn't be the same without the verbal jabs.

And while it's fun to try the latest cheers on those guys, Big Eight fans should feel fortunate to have them around.

Despite the losses of K-State's Lon Kruger, Oklahoma State's Leonard Hamilton and Colorado's Tom Miller, the 1990-91 crop of league coaches could put together a heckuva resume. The group has compiled 2,049 major college wins in 114 seasons.

Missouri's Norm Stewart has the most impressive numbers with 552 wins in 29 seasons. K-State coach Dana Altman, after completing his first season as major college head coach at Marshall, has 15.

Considering a 20-win season usually puts a team in the NCAA Tournament, it's impressive that the Big Eight mentors are averaging just under 18 victories each winter.

The league's braintrust met in Kansas City, Mo., Sunday for the annual Big Eight Conference Media Day. Each coach had the spotlight for 20 minutes, discussing everything from their respective teams to struggling golf games.

If diversity in coaches' personalities produced NCAA Tournament berths for conferences, the Big Eight would send every team to the Big Dance in March.

Iowa State's Johnny Orr addressed writers in a style tailor-made for a back porch discussion with a dirty old grandpa. His expletives would have exhausted censors, but his stories rivaled the best a stand-up comic could produce.

Orr talked about star player Victor Alexander's weight problems, as well as coaching the Big Eight Select Team in Europe during the summer. A highlight for the Cyclone coach was calling the international officials SOB's and not having a technical foul called.

He also discussed Iowa State's non-conference schedule that features home games with Big Ten powers Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. All the regular seasons games at Hilton Coliseum are already sold out.

"We could bring five of you guys in and fill the place up," Orr told writers. "They're beating the doors down."

New Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton said the time was right for a return to his alma mater. Sutton, the league's second winningest coach with 430 victories, spent last season traveling to 80 college games a shoe company representative.

"I'm here to tell you, the Big Eight is as good a basketball league as there is in America," Sutton said.

Strong words from a man that had 11 seasons with more than 20 wins at tradition-rich programs like Arkansas and Kentucky.

First-year Colorado coach Joe Harrington has developed a way of reminding opponents that the Buffs'

Sutton

Harrington

run-and-gun style will produce side effects. Boulder's mountainous elevation has been painted on the CU Events Center floor.

"It's just a little mind game," Harrington said. "But it's like Tark (UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian) tells his players, 'You guys are inside the building. The altitude's outside.'"

Oklahoma coach Billy Tubbs said the losses of academic casualties Jackie Jones, Smokey McCovery and Damon Patterson haven't caused the rest of his players to press the panic button.

"Those other guys are delighted because they think they should be playing anyway," Tubbs said. "They were probably telling those guys' teachers not to give them any breaks in the classroom.

"As for those guys who left our program, the others were probably telling them to get their asses out of here. It means more shots for them," he said.

Who would you love to hate if Billy wasn't around?

Nebraska coach Danny Nee, whose team was picked to finish eighth, said any pressure to win games this season will come from himself.

"Someone has to be picked eighth I guess," Nee said. "We feel that our team has more experience and more depth than we've ever had before."

"We've got good basketball players, and we have to start winning."

Stewart, who returned from a battle with cancer last season to lead the Tigers to the Big Eight title, has different obstacles this year. All-Big Eight performer Anthony Peeler is academically ineligible the first semester, and the Tigers are in the middle of an NCAA investigation into alleged recruiting violations.

"That has taken up most of my time," Stewart said. "My assistants have been out recruiting, and I've only had the chance to make four home visits to recruits since the summer."

Kansas coach Roy Williams and K-State's Altman were conservative in addressing the media. Williams said early Jayhawk practices haven't produced the results he was expecting. Recalling KU's near-perfect execution at times last year, don't count on Williams being pleased anytime soon.

Altman said his up-tempo style has been challenging to K-State's big men in early workouts. He said a big plus is that many of the players he recruited as a "Cat assistant came to K-State with a running philosophy in mind."

The promised style of play by the new coaches pleased Orr.

"I think these coaches are good guys," Orr said. "There will be more runners in the league, and I think that's good."

You're a good guy, too, Johnny. So are you, Norm. Even you are, Billy. And in a year when the Big Eight has many question marks, the braintrust will probably have the answers.

Oukrop shows other side to receiving accreditation

By Stacey Harbison
Collegian Reporter

The person who organized the drive to get the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications reaccredited sees the other side as an accreditation review team member.

Carol Oukrop is a member of the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism Mass Communications on-site review team which will visit Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, Nov. 11-14.

Oukrop said she first became an accreditation reviewer about eight to ten years ago. She was also on a review team while K-State's journalism school attempted to regain its own accreditation.

"I'm always flattered to be asked because there's a built-in assumption that I have a feel for what journalism education ought to be," Oukrop said.

Paul Parsons, associate journalism professor, said Oukrop's being part of a review team while K-State's own program was not accredited means the University has a highly respected program.

"She did something exceedingly rare," Parsons said. "She took a program that lost accreditation, rebuilt it and got it accredited two years later, and that doesn't happen very often."

Oukrop said that being on the team is time-consuming and demanding but that it is also worthwhile.

"I always feel like I'm making a real contribution when I do it," Oukrop said.

Because she has been on several accreditation review teams, Oukrop is able to investigate possible measures to be implemented at K-State. She is able to research documents, thesis proposals and curriculum guides of other universities, she said. "The whole point of accreditation is to keep the administration aware of what is required," she said.

Before a visit, the school sends the accrediting team a previsit notebook. The accrediting team looks at 12 standards when reviewing a school, the notebook talks about those 12 standards in relation to that school.

Parsons said all the schools follow the same format.

"She would be an ideal accreditation reviewer because she has been through accreditation here several times and is very thorough in her work," Parsons said.

The AEJMC national headquarters selects the review team members who will go to the school being reviewed. The school under consideration then has a chance to object to the appointment of any of the selected members.

"She is extremely qualified because she has seen accreditation as a faculty member, as a faculty head and as an on-site observer at other universities," Parsons said.

Teams usually have four or five members. Each member should represent a different scholastic area to be reviewed within the school. For example, there will be a member in advertising, a member in radio/television and a member in public relations.

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

VOTE
for Business
Senator
Kim
Rathbun

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

Halloween's Coming—are you ready?

We are ready for Halloween

Candy	Stickers	Decorations
Treat Sacks	Balloons	Partyware
Costume Accessories	T-Shirts	And more

704 N. MANHATTAN • IN AGGIEVILLE • 539-7654
MON-THURS. 8:30-8:30 • FRI-SAT. 8:30-5:30 • SUN. 12:00-5:00

BUSHWACKERS
THE FUNDRIKERY

Comedy Invasion
Tuesday & Wednesday
Marc McCollom

1987 Star Search Winner
along w/ Daryl Hammond

HALLOWEEN NIGHT

2 Shows, Costume Contest,
Cash Prizes, Giveaways and Drink Specials

18 to enter, 21 to drink
Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

PREGNANCY
TESTING CENTER
539-3338

- Free Pregnancy Testing
- Totally Confidential Services
- Same Day Results
- Call For Appointment
- Walk-ins Welcome
- Located across from Campus in Anderson Village

Monday-Friday
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
or by appointment

Joyce's Hair Tamers

WARM & GENTLE PERM....$43
regular $48
QUANTUM PERM.....$35
regular $38
BIO-LAGE.....$40
regular $50
MEN'S PERMS.....$30
All perms include cut & style
Haircuts
Gals $12 Guys $8.50 Kids $6.50
All cuts include shampoo & style
2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Call: 539-TAME

Snookies
Halloween
Party

Cash Giveaways
for Best Costumers
Other Free Prizes from
Coors LIGHT KMF 101.5 K-ROCK

$1.25 Coors light bottles

1122 Moro • Upstairs • 776-7726

Levi's
505
Regular Fit
Straight Leg
100% Cotton
$18.99
LEE'S WESTERN WEAR

Laura
VETTER

Student Senate
college of arts and sciences

The best representative for balanced representation

Paid for by the Committee to elect Laura Vetter

BAYSTREET
AND THE PIT

Wednesday
Halloween
Costume
PARTY!

$1 Longnecks
25¢ ? Shots

No Cover with Costume
Contest - PRIZES

Overall Best Costume - $125
Best Male Costume - $75
Best Female Costume - $75
Worst Costume - $25
Plus - Giveaways

Halloween Savings

Kitchens Plus
Manhattan's "Fun" Place To Shop

COUPON

50% OFF
Halloween Merchandise

Cash or Check Only

Supplies Limited

Kitchens Plus
Manhattan's "Fun" Place To Shop

COUPON

2 DAYS ONLY!!
20% OFF
All Regular Priced Merchandise
Except Christmas Items

Cash or Check Only

Expires 10/31/90

1110 Westloop Shopping Center
537-4046

Coppelia

Royal New Zealand Ballet
Thursday, November 1, 8 p.m.
To celebrate its 150th birthday, New Zealand sends us a company of 40 sprightly dancers in a charming Romantic ballet set to a delightful score. Join the fun as a young man's infatuation with a life-size mechanical doll and a toymaker's attempt to bring the doll to life almost spoil a girl's wedding plans.

"A perfect Coppelia... It was a magical night." (Sunday Mail, Brisbane, Australia)

MCCAIN

TOMORROW

Students/Children: $9, 8, 6
General Public: $18, 16, 12
Senior Citizens: $16, 14, 10

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency. Additional support by the Jeanne Welles Duxane Memorial Fund.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union, Manhattan Town Center, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

532-6555

Cervenka

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
a sense of loss. Other songs make you want to skip to the next cut.

After being out of X for the past two years, Cervenka still stays on the cutting edge. This isn't too surprising — that's what X was known for. This album appears to be a turning point for Cervenka as she goes back to her songwriting roots.

"Running Sacred" is an album of serious ideas and more importantly, gut feeling. It has its shortcomings, but these are easily made up for.

Cervenka proves that she is just as good if not better on her own and that she has a brilliant solo career ahead of her.

Kedzie 103

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

1 Announcements

WOW — FOR $3, you can run 15 words for one day in the COLLEGIAN ClassAds.

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs — skincare — glamor — gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

SPORTS • SPORTS

99¢ Margaritas
50¢ Tacos

BoWinkle's
A Sports Bar

776-1022
3043 Anderson

SPORTS • SPORTS

A&S STUDENTS—For a hardworking, conscientious Senator with over 100 hours of intern experience, vote Scott Truhlar for your Student Senator.

Great Vanity Coat Cover-Up!
Layaway your favorite coat today
Thru Nov. 4
Manhattan Town Center

DIRECT THE K-State Band at Homecoming!! For details, visit the sign-up table in the Union.

TONIGHT!
$1.25
32 oz. Draws
only at
BAYSTREET

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locators, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

BEST FUNDRAISER on campus! Looking for a fraternity, sorority or student organization that would like to earn $500 to $1,000 dollars for a one week on-campus marketing project. Must be organized and hard working. Call Jeanie or Ashley, 1-800-592-2121.

(Continued on page 9)

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

JONATHAN MORRIS

Placing The Student First

Paid for by Students for Morris

PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET

WARNS YOU....
IF YOU ARE PAYING MORE THAN
$2495* COMPLETE SINGLE VISION - OR - $3495 COMPLETE BIFOCAL

FOR YOUR EYEGLASSES, INCLUDING FRAME — YOU ARE OVERPAYING!

- AT PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET YOU GET....
- UNLIMITED SELECTION - YOUR CHOICE OF OVER 1,000 FRAMES ON DISPLAY!
 - NO CHARGE FOR SUN OR FASHION TINTED LENSES!
 - NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR OVERSIZED OR PLASTIC LENSES!
 - HIGHEST QUALITY FRAMES AND LENSES!
 - HIGHEST PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS!
 - SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

* All normal prescriptions - distance, reading, or flat to 25 and 28mm, round or executive bifocals, in Rx's no higher than (+) or (-) 8.00 diopter sphere, with up to -2.00 cylinder. Adds no higher than (+)3.00.

Photogrey Extra, Scratch and Ultra-Violet Coat - each $10 additional.

1210 MORO
MANHATTAN, KANSAS
537-1574

NEVER A SALE, ALWAYS THE LOWEST PRICE!

SUPER COMPUTER SALE!

SAVE ON COMPUTERS, PRINTERS, PERIPHERALS AND ACCESSORIES AND SPECIAL PURCHASE

TANDY 1000 TL/2

PC Compatible System With Hard Drive and Color Monitor

Save $300
Low As $43 Per Month*

139985
Reg. Separate Items 1699.85

8 MHz Intel® 80286 Microprocessor
840K RAM • 3 1/2" 720K Disk Drive
DeskMate 2.1 Productivity Software
20MB SmartDrive™ Hard Drive

25-1042 25-1045 25-1043

Tandy 1000 TL/2 With CM-5 Color Monitor and 40MB Hard Drive
Save $200. Reg. Separate Items $1799.85. #25-1602/1043/1046

Tandy 1000 TL/2 With CM-5 Color Monitor
Save $200. Reg. Separate Items $1299.90. #25-1602/1043

19995
Save $219.90. Includes Lotus® Spreadsheet for DeskMate, USA Write and a Two-Button Mouse. Reg. Separate Items $419.85.

149985
109990

19995
Save $219.90. Includes Lotus® Spreadsheet for DeskMate, USA Write and a Two-Button Mouse. Reg. Separate Items $419.85.

26995
Cut $90
Low As $10 Per Month*

Perfect for Memos, Reports and Letters
Fast—Up to 180 Characters Per Second

26995
Cut $90
Low As $10 Per Month*

OPEN HOUSE
Come see our great new home computers! The Tandy 1000 RL is so easy to use, you can be computing 1000 RL is so easy to use, you can be computing after one brief session—even if you've never used a PC. Learn how every Friday at our special Open House—call any Radio Shack for times or to set up a personal demonstration.

PLAN NOW TO ATTEND!

2609 Anderson in Anderson Square 578-6151

Weekdays 9-6 Saturday 9-5 Closed Sunday

TANDY 1000 HL With Color Monitor

Easiest-to-Use PC for Home or School

HALF PRICE! 49950
Reg. Separate 75-093 Home 688.91 25-1043

Low As $29 Per Month*

79990
Save $100
Low As $29 Per Month*

Includes Personal DeskMate 2.1
Save $20 - 1200 bps PLUS Modem. Reg. $79.95. #25-1048 Sale $48.95

1400 HD

1100 FD

1199
Save $1300
Reg. 2499.00 25-1045

Low As $49 Per Month*

Full-Function IBM PC Compatible • Built-In 20MB Hard Drive

488
26-087 26-085

For 3 1/2" or 5 1/4" Diskettes • Protects and Organizes Data

2195
26-303 26-303

Add Excitement and Accuracy to All Your Favorite Game Programs

Radio Shack AMERICA'S TECHNOLOGY STORE

Not just different...

Talk doesn't sell cars. Driving them does. Do the Subaru Legacy™ L Wagon justice. Test drive it today and find out what sets it apart from the competition.

...better

- Generous legroom for rear-seat passengers
- Reliable and powerful 2.2-liter, 16-valve engine with multi-point fuel injection delivers an impressive 130 base horsepower
- Power-assisted front and rear disc brakes for great stopping power

4x4 5-speed air-cruise
Discount
$3,582

SUBARU
We built our reputation by building a better car.

4th & Leavenworth
Downtown, Manhattan
776-4875

GOETSCH & IRVINE
CHRYSLER PLYMOUTH SUBARU

(Continued from page 8)

HOLIDAY GIFT Expo. Crafts, food, toys, jewelry, door prizes, soup, snacks. Manhattan City Auditorium, Nov. 3, 9a.m.—3p.m. Don't miss this!

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SAM TRIP to Dallas Nov. 8-11—sign up by Wednesday Oct. 31 in Calvin 101. All majors welcome!

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

WELCOME TO KSU. Call for complimentary facial, Mary Kay Cosmetics, 539-9469, Janet Milliken.

2 Apartments—Furnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY— One-bedroom apartment close to campus, front door parking, air conditioning $340. 537-0998.

GREAT APARTMENT, great location, great price! One-bedroom, partially furnished, one block from campus! Aggieville—Only $295/ month plus electric. Call (913)537-3342 today!

NOW AVAILABLE— One-bedroom furnished apartment for lease. Rent $255. Call 532-6664 from 10a.m.—8p.m. 776-0491 after 8p.m. and Sunday.

RENT FREE country living in exchange for occasional assistance to wheelchair bound landlady. Some lifting. 1-494-8201.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY— Nice one-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Heat paid. 537-4515.

NICE, CLEAN, first floor, one-bedroom apartment for rent from January—August. Laundry facilities, air conditioning and front door parking. Call John at 539-8143 evenings.

ONE-BEDROOM in Wildcat Inn, near campus. $340. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Available November. No pets. 776-3804.

STUDIO in lower level of house. Available now. New carpet. $190 utilities included. No pets. 776-3804.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one and one-half bath available Jan. 1st. Next to campus, one block from Aggieville. $175/ month plus utilities. Call anytime 776-7596.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/ dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. Available November. $300. No pets. 776-7894.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vatter, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1986 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original. $800 or best offer. 1-485-7760.

1984 CUTLASS Ciera, blue, power steering, AM/FM, cassette. Call 532-3389.

1985 PLYMOUTH Horizon, four-speed, good condition, $2,300 negotiable. 539-1902.

1986 MITSUBISHI Colt E, four-door, AM/FM, air conditioning, new tires, five-speed, runs great. 776-2174 after 5p.m.

HONDA CRX—HF Model, 50 miles per gallon, excellent condition, good price. Please call. 776-7895.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such 'employment opportunity' with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Making 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ADDRESSERS WANTED immediately! No experience necessary. Excellent pay! Work at home. Call toll-free: 1-800-395-3283.

ATTENTION: AGGRESSIVELY expanding marketing company is looking for high quality individuals who desire excellent part-time income with possible rapid advancement into management. Send resume or letter by Oct. 31st, Box 981, Garden City, KS 67846.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

EVENING AND daytime office and telephone sales help needed. Pleasant working conditions, hourly wage and excellent bonuses. Call 537-6163, 9a.m.—4p.m.

Cruise Ship Jobs
HIRING Men - Women. Summer/ Year Round. PHOTOGRAPHERS, TOUR GUIDES, RECREATION PERSONNEL. Excellent pay plus FREE travel. Caribbean, Hawaii, Bahamas, South Pacific, Mexico. CALL NOW! Call refundable. 1-206-736-0775, Ext. C348

FREE SPRING Break trips to students or student organizations promoting our Spring Break Packages. Good Pay and Fun. Call CMI 1-800-423-5264.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

IMMEDIATELY: EARN while you learn. Manpower is looking for KSU Students interested in earning great pay—plus commissions. We offer flexible hours and valuable training and business experience. Plus free use of a personal computer. If you're a full-time student, sophomore or above, with at least a B average, and computer familiar. Manpower needs you as a Collegiate Rep to promote the sales of the IBM Personal Systems/2 on campus. Call Lori at (913)749-2800 for all the existing details.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for a director of our dietary department. Must be a registered dietitian or registry eligible. Should have menu planning, personnel development, clinical and community education skills. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. EOE.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

ROOM AND Board for help around home. 539-1656 or call Lavender and Lace 539-8705.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

WANTED: ASSISTANT counter sales in warehouse, day hours. Apply in person. Kansas Electric Supply Company, 312 Fremont Street.

9 Food Specials

Bobby's
Tuesdays:
TACO NACHO NIGHT
39¢ Tacos
Homemade flour chicken or beef tacos
$1.25 margaritas
539-1571

Tuesday Special
RIB-IT NIGHT
All the BBQ Ribs, Fries and Salad Bar you can eat!
$4.95
Every Tuesday 5-8 p.m.
The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th Downtown

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: LARGE black Lab, male, in 1212 Blumont area. Call 537-0299.

LOST: GRAY/ white tabby male cat, 6 months old. Last seen 700 block of Blumont. Call 537-4430, leave message.

LOST: KEY chain lost last week. Call Steve 776-3499.

LOST: LARGE long-haired, brown tiger-striped cat. Lost west of stadium. Call 537-0635, leave message.

15 Meetings/ Events

PINNACLE NATIONAL Honor Society's first organizational meeting is Oct. 30, at 3:30p.m. in Union 205. All members presence required.

16 Mobile Homes for Rent

FOR RENT: Nice two-bedroom trailer in country, 10 minutes from town. $250 per month, rent can be partially worked off in exchange for horse related chores. 539-6737.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

14x70 TWO-BEDROOM, cute kitchen, real cabinets, new bedrooms, wood floor, low utilities, $7,500. 537-4369.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

10-SPEED BIKE for sale, $60 or best offer. Call 776-7126.

19 Music/ Musicians

CRATE CR212 guitar amp in excellent condition. No modifications, $175. Call 776-6485 after 6p.m.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

BART S.— Good Luck in the race for Business Senator. —Stephanie, P.S. You're always #1 with me.

DEREK N.— You're the only experienced candidate for Business Senator.

D.T.— RECEIVED your message. Are you sure you're calling the right number? Waiting for your next message or phone call. Tammy— Ford.

GIRL IN Management Concepts— I'm Very glad we met. I'll try to be patient. You can "play" on my waterbed anytime! —The long-haired boy.

GOOD LUCK, DeLoss J., for College of Agriculture Senator. Jim S.

GOOD LUCK, Kevin R., for Arts and Sciences Senator! Love, M.A.

GOOD LUCK, Scott S., for College of Agriculture Senator. Jim S.

GOOD LUCK, Jason H., for your bid for College of Agriculture Senator. You have our support. Jason H's friends.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, Brian! This is just one of many birthdays we'll be spending together. I love you, Sweetie, Shelly.

HEY K.A.: Hope all your friends vote for you for Arts and Sciences Senator. Good Luck and Stay Hard! Graham.

HEY! THREE guys in the blue Datsun 280 ZX on Thursday. We know your car and fraternity. Why don't we know you? —The three girls in red Mustang.

I'VE REALLY enjoyed my time at K-State! Thanks (Big Smile) to Linda, Ann, Margo, Melissa, The RP Staff, and all of you who let me make your individual and group portraits for the Royal Purple! I hope to see you next year! Larry G., Sudlow Photography.

JONATHAN M.— Good Luck on Student Body President! We can't believe all the hard work you've done! You're amazing! You're the best— Thanks— The gang.

K2 HAPPY 22nd, I hope you have many, many more. Maybe I'll even be around for a few. T. Bear.

KSU WOMENHATERS— Roses are red, Violets are blue, We are content without you! You think we walk by hoping you'll stare— When in reality we really don't care. So, don't bother us with your bitter views— It's a waste of $ and you look stupid, too! —women of KSU.

LAP— WE'VE been through thick and thin, but I would do it all over again. I'm grateful for the good and sorry for the bad. And all we've been through it doesn't take much to say I Love You. P.S. How about some checkers. Yours forever— L'roy.

SCOTT S.: Good luck in Ag elections. You deserve it!! —Your roommates.

TODD J.: Hope you do well in Ag elections today. I'll vote for you. D.J.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

AKC COCKER Spaniel puppies, black, all shots, eight weeks old. 1-456-7580 after 5p.m.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

TOO BUSY to do your laundry? Call and for a small fee I can take your dirty duds and turn them into clean suds. Call 539-7349.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

AKC COCKER Spaniel puppies, black, all shots, eight weeks old. 1-456-7580 after 5p.m.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

TOO BUSY to do your laundry? Call and for a small fee I can take your dirty duds and turn them into clean suds. Call 539-7349.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA— RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services— More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters, $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and prompt. Betty 539-6851, Clafin.

INTERVIEW COMING UP? The Resume Service/ Graphics Plus offers a wide variety of services including: Typing or composition of your resume and cover letter, laser or letter-quality printing. Permanent computer storage and typing of data sheets. Stop by 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294 or 539-6027.

RELIEF IS JUST A VERTEBRAE AWAY

At Consigli Chiropractic Clinic
1325 Anderson Ave.
Across from campus 776-1850

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA— RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services— More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters, $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and prompt. Betty 539-6851, Clafin.

INTERVIEW COMING UP? The Resume Service/ Graphics Plus offers a wide variety of services including: Typing or composition of your resume and cover letter, laser or letter-quality printing. Permanent computer storage and typing of data sheets. Stop by 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294 or 539-6027.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

TYPING USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Reasonable rates. Call Judy at 539-7100.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NON-SMOKER: Share two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. $130. one-fourth utilities. Available immediately. 537-2186.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

ONE OR TWO male roommates needed, spring semester. $160/ month, next to campus. Call 537-2368.

ROOMMATE: $131.25/ month, one-sixth utilities, own room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 776-2074.

ROOMMATE WANTED— Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted at 1500 Harry. $135/ utilities. 776-1252.

TWO FEMALE roommates for spring semester. Nice apartment, close to campus. $136/ month plus utilities. Christy 539-3387.

TWO ROOMMATES wanted. Four-bedroom house one block from campus. $150/ month plus one-fourth bills. 776-3199.

26 Stereo Equipment

TECHNICS SA-H821 stereo receiver, 45 watts perich, excellent condition. $200 or offer, 776-2220 ask for Tracy, leave message.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Round-trip ticket to Houston Nov. 21 to Nov. 26. $115. Call after 5p.m. 537-1136.

30 Travel

FOR SALE: Round-trip ticket to Houston Nov. 21 to Nov. 26. $115. Call after 5p.m. 537-1136.

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID), $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity— Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FOR SALE: H78-14 Bias-ply tires. Like new. Pair—$20. 539-5456 after 5p.m. ask for Brian.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS— Camouflage clothing, overcoats, G.I. Boots, flar jackets, sleeping bags, much more. Also Carhartt workwear. Open Monday— Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Mary's, Kansas 1-437-2734.

33 Horses

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

HORSE BOARDING— Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-2

Debate

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
the power to absolve the Kansas Board of Education and the Board of Regents.

Gieffer said he is in favor of the amendment because the Board of Education and the Board of Regents compete for the same money. If the Board of Education was eliminated and their duties given directly to the Legislature, then the regents would have better control of the finances.

Although Morris said he is against the amendment, he said there should be a reorganization of the education system in Kansas at the state level.

Buchanan also said he is against the amendment because it could disband the regents and each university would have to fight for their own funding.

"We need a unified voice in the Legislature," he said. "Otherwise I see KU running us over."

Gaffney said the regents are important because they present a unified force to lobby the Legislature for money.

Heitschmidt was in favor of the amendment because it would allow the Board of Education to be eliminated. He said there needs to be some reorganization in primary and secondary education in the state and that is the intent of the legislation.

Panel

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Generally this is the case with urban school districts because the incomes are often higher and the number of students in the districts is higher, Thompson said.

Thompson also said the fact that fewer numbers in some smaller school districts adds to the problem.

All panel members said they recognized a need to better define district wealth.

"The things we are going to have to decide are going to be very controversial," Harder said. "The biggest problem facing us at the moment is that we've got to come up with a measurement for district wealth."

Wheatland School District Superintendent Larry Lysell said funding was the biggest issue facing school superintendents. Most rural and small district superintendents were not in favor of a per pupil method in determining school district wealth.

"Most little districts lost funding this year because district wealth was figured on head count instead of by the formula," Lysell said. "Using the formula is generally better for small schools."

Harder, chairman of the current legislative committee on school finance, indicated the desire of legislators to solve the issue fairly without having to leave it to the court system.

Election concentrating on candidates not issues, says senate incumbent

Williams presents U.S. foreign policy as top concern of Democratic campaign

By Alan Wilds
Staff Reporter

Dick Williams, democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, said he plans to run a serious race against incumbent Nancy Kassebaum, but regardless of the outcome he wants to make a difference.

"I am looking to win," Williams said. "However, what I am really trying to do is restore democracy and change the way politics are handled in this country."

Williams spoke to the Manhattan Alliance on Central America at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Ecumenical Christian Ministry.

He said elections have become too people-oriented and voters should concentrate on the issues and not the candidates themselves. Claiming to represent middle-class America, Williams told MACA it must build strong political platforms and support whatever candidate supports them.

"One hundred years ago, the populist party would discuss issues, take a stand and pick candidates who would stick to them," he said. "Whether I win or lose, I plan on sticking to that type of coalition."

Williams accused Kassebaum of deviating from this standard by voting against the minimum wage bill, nuclear waste disposal restrictions and the civil rights bill. All of which had an effect on the people of Kansas.

"Her record is almost as good as flipping a coin," Williams said.

If elected, Williams said he would strongly support peace and justice at home and abroad. He said he is concerned about U.S. policy in the Middle East and Central America and its affect on the U.S. government.

"The military threat in Eastern Europe is now close to zero," he said. "Why can't we reduce our military by about $150 million instead of the military searching for a new enemy to replace Eastern Europe?"

Williams used this to reinforce his strong opposition to U.S. intervention in foreign countries. Although he praised President Bush for seeking international cooperation in the Persian Gulf crisis, he questioned his motives.

John Exdell, coordinator of MACA, said the forum was not intended to be an official endorsement of Williams. However, several members of the organization support him.

"We are mainly concerned with Central America and we feel a certain kinship with him since he has been involved there," Exdell said.

J. Kyle Wyatt/Staff
Dick Williams speaks on election issues at a Rice and Beans Dinner sponsored by the Manhattan Alliance on Central America Monday night at the Ecumenical Christian Ministry. Williams is running for the U.S. Senate against Republican incumbent Nancy Landon Kassebaum.

J. Kyle Wyatt/Staff
A 17-year-old male was taken to the St. Mary Hospital after being injured in a one-vehicle accident late Monday night.

Male injured in accident

By The Collegian Staff

A 17-year-old male was injured in a one-vehicle accident late Monday night on Tuttle Creek Boulevard.

The driver apparently lost control of a 1983 white Toyota pickup while traveling north on Tuttle Creek Boulevard at about 9:50 p.m. He was the sole occupant in the truck. The vehicle rolled numerous times before coming to rest upside down in a wheat field.

Sgt. Larry Freeby of the Riley County Police Department said the driver was thrown clear of the vehicle and was unconscious at the scene. The injured male was transported by ambulance to the St. Mary Hospital. He was listed in unstable condition at press time.

COME TO PEOPLE'S GROCERY FOR HALLOWEEN TREATS

We have specially packaged yogurt covered pretzels unsweetened carob peanuts tropical trail mix our own Trixter mix Little Slugger Cherry Bats Nellie's Fruit'n Nut Sticks

PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-Op
811 Colorado
10-6:30 Tues.-Fri., Sat. 9-5, Closed Sun. & Mon.

Hunam Chinese Restaurant
For catering, parties, & events call 776-8886 or 776-8888

UNITED ARTISTS Theatres

*$3.50 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6:00 P.M.
SETH CHILDS 6 776-9886
Seth Childs at Farm Bureau Rd.
Tuesday Bargain Day
All Seats All Day
All Movies $3.00 Admission

Sibling Rivalry (PG-13)
7:05 & 9:20
Quigley Down Under (PG-13)
7:00 & 9:30
Memphis Bell (PG-13)
7:15 & 9:20
Marked for Death (R)
7:10 & 9:25
Goodfellas (R)
6:40 & 9:30
Ghost (PG-13)
6:50 & 9:25

ELECT
SCOTT SCHNEIDER
AG SENATOR
-QUESTIONS? 539-2365
Paid for by Committee to Elect Scott Schneider

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE
"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Elect DeLoss Jahnke ☒
Agriculture Senator

"Number Nine on Your Ballot!"
—fair—dependable—flexible—
Paid for by DeLoss Jahnke for Student Senate Comm.

HALLOWEEN PARTY Today
3-6 p.m.
LIVE MODELS (male & female)

- * Draw for blood-thrilling discounts and prizes
- * Wear a costume & have your picture taken with a model
- * Treats & fun

Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie

GIFTS WRAPPED FREE Layaway
1224 Moro Aggieville

FOR YOUR GOOD HEALTH

What services are available at Lafene?

- *Outpatient Medical Clinic
- *Allergy/Immunization Clinic
- *Health Education and Promotion
- *Laboratory Services
- *Nutritional/Dietary Services
- *Pharmacy Services
- *Physical Therapy Services
- *Radiology Services
- *Sports Medicine Clinic
- *University Counseling Service
- *Urgent Care After Hours
- *Women's Clinic

For Appointment Call 532-6544
Lafene Health Center
Kansas State University

VOTE
Arts & Sciences SENATOR
MARY ADE
Paid for by students to elect Ade.

Lose 25-30 pounds before Christmas Break!
Guaranteed "Complete" Nutritional Program w/ earning potential
Call Cathy 776-0629 after 6:30 & weekends

All eyes are on Hardee's for Spooktacular Halloween Specials

Quarter Lb. Cheeseburger $1.99

Hardee's
Aggieville
All Kinds of Good Stuff

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.
DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7
INTERVIEWS: 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wednesday, October 31, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 48

Sign interpreter aids deaf student, education process

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

Physical limitations may be the only thing stopping some students from getting a degree, but Nancy Banks, junior in elementary education, is working to stop that.

Banks is a sign interpreter for Services for Students with Physical Limitations. She attends classes and signs for a student with a hearing impairment.

"It's just awesome to bridge the gap and make it possible for people who are deaf to get an education," Banks said. "Their hearing is the only thing stopping them from getting an education like everyone else."

Gretchen Holden, director of Services for Students with Physical Limitations, said the University has been making every effort to provide services to students with physical and learning disabilities.

"A law was passed in 1973 requiring all federally-funded programs to provide access to the handicapped," Holden said. "We do as much as we can with the money we can get from the University."

One of the many services they offer is sign interpreters and note takers for the hearing impaired.

"I interpret for one student. There are three of us who split his class schedule," Banks said. "I interpret for business calculus and psychology."

Banks said she was nervous when she first began signing in front of such large audiences.

"I have to interpret in front of the whole class. The first day of psychology, which is in Cardwell 101, hundreds of people were just staring at me. It made me uncomfortable, but now I'm used to it," Banks said.

This is not the first time Banks has interpreted in public. She grew up in a home with deaf parents and learned to sign as she learned to talk.

Banks' mother lost her hearing when she had scarlet fever as a small child, and her father has always had a hearing impairment.

"Having deaf parents was great," Banks said. "It was normal to me, but I knew I had a unique family. I wouldn't have wanted it any other way."

Sign interpreting became natural for Banks, who said she loves to interpret as much as she can.

"I enjoy interpreting because it's so much a part of me," Banks said. "I mean, this is my native language."

"I remember when we would go to a restaurant and sign to each other. People would always watch us, and I used to think it was fun that they didn't know what we were saying," said Banks.

"And when I was a little girl, my mom would sit me on her lap and wrap her arms through mine. She would sign, 'I love you,' and when she did the sign for 'love' across my chest it was like a hug. That is one of my fondest memories," she said.

Not only does Banks have memories somewhat different than most people, but her home was also adapted for a different lifestyle.

"Our doorbell is actually a door light that goes off inside the house, and the phone rings and also lights up. The television has subtitles across the bottom," Banks said.

Because she grew up in the environment she did, Banks said she has become very aware of the need for sign interpreters to include the deaf in society.

"I've seen with my parents that deaf people are deprived of so many things because they can't hear and interpreters aren't available," Banks said. "Deaf people can't use the drive-through at a fast food restaurant, and there aren't any interpreters at church ... just so many things."

Banks plans to use her background to help provide services for the deaf in the future.

"I'd like to teach at a school for the deaf, and get a master's in deaf education," Banks said.

Holden said the interpreters make a big difference for students.

"Deaf students can be very isolated and lonely," Holden said. "Their interpreter becomes their friend because they can communicate."

Holden said the University is facing a shortage of interpreters. Her office currently has four people who interpret for hearing impaired students.

"We don't have very many people who sign for us. The speech department canceled all of their sign language classes due to budget cuts, and that hurt us," Holden said. "I had to tell a student this fall that he couldn't come here because we didn't have enough interpreters, and that is very sad."

Mike Venso/Staff

Paint job

Larry Wohler, painter for University facilities, removes spray paint from atop the south entrance of Seaton Hall Tuesday morning. Unknown vandals painted "College of Architecture" over the stone Engineering sign above the doorway sometime late Monday night.

Proposal to cut 2 colleges dropped in wake of uproar

By Steve Franzen
Campus Editor

The proposed plan to eliminate two of K-State's colleges has been eliminated.

The University's reorganization proposal, calling for the dismantling of both the human ecology and architecture and design colleges, was scrapped Monday following five days of uproar by faculty and students. Both President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman met with the deans of the respective colleges Monday to explain some of the changes.

Official proposal changes will be announced this morning at 9:30 in Anderson Hall.

"Keep in mind that this has been a developing draft all along," Coffman said. "It has been a discussion to get reaction and input, and that input has been dynamic to say the least."

Coffman praised the efforts of the concerned parties over the past five days.

"It says a lot for the students and faculty to get involved and go after something they believe in," he said.

He also said today's proposals are also just proposals, not the final plans.

Barbara Stowe, dean of the College of Human Ecology, met with Wefald and Coffman at 2 p.m. in the provost's office. Lane Marshall, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, later met with the administrators at 3:30 p.m.

Virginia Moxley, associate dean of human ecology, spoke for Stowe who was not available for comment. She said Stowe felt better, but was not yet relieved.

"I think she obviously felt some gain over previous plans," Moxley said. "But she still believes the central administration does not have a clear understanding of what human ecology is all about."

Although the change in proposals will not eliminate the colleges, it will still merge and cut some of the programs and departments in each.

But that does not mean the struggle is over for the two colleges.

Moxley said the student walkout and protest is still scheduled for this morning.

She said she believes the changes from the first proposal will be to retain textiles and human development and family studies, but eliminate apparel and interior design. The college will also transfer foods to the College of Agriculture and add social work from the College of Arts and Sciences to its curriculum. She also said she does not know what will become of hotel, restaurant and institution management.

"We are cutting out an essential part of the college," she said, "and I don't see the logic in that decision."

In the College of Architecture and Design, Marshall said he is relieved the administration has taken some of the emotional edge away from the discussions.

"Obviously it removes one very emotional and very important part of the question," he said. "At least now we can (discuss) in a calmer, rational and sane way."

Despite the changes, he said the real issues and how they will affect the students still remain. He also said the provost made it very clear the specifics were still on the table.

"How I will be affected, and how other faculty will be affected is beside the point," he said. "The kids are the ultimate losers in all of this."

Marshall said the dean of the School of Architecture and Urban Design at the University of Kansas called Tuesday to inform him that 40 K-State architecture students had contacted him about transferring. ■ See PROPOSAL, Page 11

Lecturer: Maturity needed within upcoming century

By Scott Levendofsky
Collegian Reporter

Kenneth Boulding said when people reach the age of 21, their growth only comes in the form of fat. As the world heads into the 21st Century, Boulding said he hopes civilization matures without becoming a fat population.

Boulding delivered the last Lou Douglas lecture of the semester Tuesday in K-State Union Forum Hall. Boulding's topic was "Century 21: An Age of Maturity?"

Boulding is currently a distinguished professor of economics at the University of Colorado. He is also a research associate and project director for a program researching political and economic change at the Colorado's Institute of Behavioral Science.

He said there is a difference between maturing and just getting fatter.

"You can't grow forever," Boulding said. "At some point you have to come to grips with maturation. We are at five million now. Nobody can predict the carrying capacity of the world nor can we predict the future."

Boulding said it is amazing the world has had the same genetics and culture for 40,000 years. The world became civilized about 500 years ago in Europe. He said he believes printing the first bible was a contributor to modern civilization.

"Christianity was the first working class religion. It made it to the top because it had a bible. If you have a bible, then occasionally somebody will read it," he said.

Religions without a written Bible couldn't grow beyond their immediate circle of influence, he said.

In discussing natural resources, Boulding said the world will have to revert to solar energy after the fossil fuels are gone.

"All the oil will probably be gone in 100 years. All the coal will be gone in 300 years. Then we will be forced to go back to solar energy," he said.

Boulding said the problem with solar energy is the panels use a lot of space in order to produce a small amount of energy relative to world needs.

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Kenneth Boulding, professor emeritus at the University of Colorado, delivers a Lou Douglas lecture titled "Century 21 — An Age of Maturity" Tuesday evening in K-State Union Forum Hall.

Iraq expecting attack

Senator says Bush's patience wearing thin

By The Associated Press

Saddam Hussein said Tuesday that Iraq was making final preparations for war and expected an attack within days by the United States and its allies. A U.S. senator said President Bush's patience is wearing thin.

In the Persian Gulf, 10 American sailors died when a steam pipe ruptured in the boiler room of the USS Iwo Jima. And in Saudi Arabia, a Marine was killed in an accident while driving in the desert.

Bush discussed possible military action against Iraq in a meeting with congressional leaders on the gulf crisis, but he told them he could not guarantee he would consult them before embarking on hostilities. He refused to comment publicly on a report the United States plans to discuss a timetable with U.S. allies for a military offensive.

Secretary of State James Baker III on Saturday will begin a weeklong visit to Arab and European countries to consult on future steps in the gulf, officials said. The visit will include a meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

Asked about the potential for a U.S. military strike, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said: "As these things unfold, of course, there are always scenarios for action that have to be considered ... but there is no timetable for action."

Fitzwater sought to dampen fears that fighting was imminent. "The attitude at the meeting was play it down — be calm," he said.

The United States has more than 200,000 troops in the gulf region and has announced plans to send at least 100,000 more.

Saddam summoned his military commanders to a meeting in Baghdad to complete "preparations for urban warfare and necessary measures to be taken in the event of combat in (Kuwait)," the Iraqi News Agency reported.

"We must be prepared with all that God has given us of potential to thwart perfidious intentions by the United States and its allies to launch an attack in the next few days," the report quoted Saddam as saying.

While he talked of possible hostilities, his foreign minister, Tariq Aziz, struck a more cautious note. Aziz told the Iraqi News Agency that Iraq is prepared to talk with any Arab or international party provided it is not prompted by premeditated hostile designs.

Diplomats in the Middle East, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Saddam was reacting to statements Monday by Baker.

Baker told a gathering in Los Angeles: "Let no one doubt: We will not rule out a possible use of force if Iraq continues to occupy Kuwait."

"His patience is wearing thin," said Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, one of several lawmakers who met for an hour at the White House with the president. But Cohen added: "For the time being, he's going to continue to pursue the course that we're currently on."

Before the meeting, Bush declined to comment on a newspaper report that administration officials would discuss a timetable with U.S. allies for a possible military offensive.

The Los Angeles Times, quoting an unidentified senior government official, said he considers war almost inevitable and considers a strike most likely in December or January. The report said the United States now believes sanctions will not force Iraq to pull out of the emirate it invaded Aug. 2.

The accident aboard the Iwo Jima came as it was sailing out of Bahrain to take part in military exercises. Cmdr. Mark Neuhart of the U.S. Naval Forces Central Command said the cause of the leak aboard the amphibious assault ship was under investigation.

Two injured sailors who had been in critical condition died later Tuesday, the Pentagon in Washington said. The ship returned to Bahrain for repairs, Neuhart said.

The Iwo Jima was to be part of a 10-day exercise that began Tuesday. A Pentagon source said it would feature a landing of more than 10,000 Marines on a beach in Oman.

Bob Hall, a Pentagon spokesman, called the maneuver a "routine amphibious training exercise." He declined to provide specifics on the number of Marines and ships involved.

In a separate accident, one Marine was killed and three others were injured when the vehicle they were traveling in overturned in the Saudi desert.

Announcements

Region

Hayden takes lead in pools

Nation

Gray given special authority

Salcido convicted of murder

The 29-year-old former winery worker could be sentenced to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison when the jury returns for the trial's penalty phase.

Write-in votes will not count

Stephan investigation goes on

Campus

Forensics team places third

In extemporaneous speaking, Burns received fourth place and Mark Esfeld, sophomore in milling science and management, won first place.

31 Wednesday

1 Thursday

■ KSU Horticultural Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Waters 244. The speaker will be Dr. Gus VanDerhoeven.

■ Women and Men Against Rape will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 203. The topic will be "Post-Brother Peace — Where to Now?"

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, sunny and very warm, high in the lower 80s. South winds 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, clear and mild, low in the mid-50s. Thursday, mostly sunny and very warm, high around 80.

RIDE TO THE UNION . . . VOTE!!

In conjunction with the National Interfraternity Conference VOTE AMERICA campaign, Greek Affairs is sponsoring a shuttle to the K-State Union to encourage participation in the University elections.

The shuttle will leave the Union approximately every 30 minutes, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 30-31, following the route below.

PLEASE JOIN K-STATE
HUMAN ECOLOGY
STUDENTS, FACULTY, STAFF,
ALUMNI AND FRIENDS
RALLY
10:30-1:00
ANDERSON HALL
WEDNESDAY 10/31
(EAST FRONT - OUTSIDE)

Participants may join the rally at any time
Those planning to march to Anderson Hall should meet at Justin Hall at 10 a.m.

Jardine provides home

On-campus apartments available to families

By Christy Gritton
Collegian Reporter

Jardine Terrace Apartments provide housing for 5,000 full-time K-State students and 250 of their children.

Jardine, built in three phases in 1957, 1959 and 1963, is being renovated at the rate of one building per semester. One-half of the buildings have been renovated so far.

The apartments are available for rental by families, couples and single parents who are enrolled in 12 undergraduate hours or six graduate hours. One- and two-bedroom apartments are available and cost between $172 and $230 per month, said Susanne Tunstall, family housing coordinator.

Kristin Henning, sophomore in art therapy, said single parents or married couples are eligible for one-bedroom apartments. Henning, her husband and their child have been living in Jardine since they moved into a one-bedroom apartment two years ago. They are currently living in a two-bedroom apartment, which they applied for and received one and a half semesters later.

"(Both apartments) are both really nice, and they're clean," Henning said. "It's the cheapest two-bedroom apartment housing in Manhattan that's clean and livable for a child." Richard Carter, junior in horticulture therapy, said he and his wife moved into Jardine because the apartments are cheap and close to campus. The Carters have lived in a one-bedroom apartment for two months.

Henning said basketball courts, the KSU Child Development Center, swing sets, car cleaning facilities and laundry facilities are available to Jardine residents.

"They do more and more stuff as a community," Henning said.

A community center is currently under construction and will provide space for dances, carnivals and other events.

Henning said her family applied for an apartment in May and were informed at the end of July of an open apartment that they could move into at the end of August.

"I know there's a really long waiting list every semester for apartments," Henning said.

Tunstall said 99 percent of the apartments are currently occupied.

"Housing seems a little disorganized," Carter said. "They were supposed to move us into an apartment that hadn't been painted."

The Carters said they were then assigned to another apartment, which also hadn't been painted, but they moved in anyway because other housing wasn't available.

"They kind of said they would make an attempt (to paint), but then we never heard anything more from them," Carter said.

Jardine residents have other problems with the housing conditions.

Each building's thermometer, located in the center of the building, is supposed to read 75 degrees at all times. The apartments on the ends of the building are often colder than 75 degrees because some of their walls are exposed to the outdoors.

"You can't control the heat, and that is hard," Henning said.

She said the windows in the unrenovated apartments are too small for normal-size window air conditioners. The renovated apartments have windows large enough to accommodate a normal-size air conditioner, which is needed to keep the entire apartment cool.

After weighing both the advantages and disadvantages, both Henning and Carter said they would recommend Jardine to other students.

"For the price, it's worth the money," Carter said.

World-class story ballet tells boy-meets-girl tale

Royal company debuting in U.S.

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

McCain Auditorium has spanned the globe to bring quality entertainment to K-State.

The Royal New Zealand Ballet company will cross the ocean to present "Coppelia" at 8 p.m. Thursday in McCain Auditorium.

"This is the company's debut tour in the United States," McCain director Richard Martin said. "They are a world-class company — one of only four 'Royal' ballet companies in the English-speaking world."

"This is a boy-meets-girl story," Martin said. "It has high entertainment value because of the story line and because of the world-class performers."

Martin said he wanted to have a story ballet like "Coppelia" rather than repertoire program because a story ballet would attract more students.

"Many students like story ballets because most students haven't seen much dance," he said.

"Coppelia" is the story of Dr. Coppélius, a mysterious newcomer to the village of Galicia, Poland. The doctor is obsessed with constructing lifelike dolls, one of which, Coppelia, he displays on the balcony of his house.

Believing the doll to be a real person, a young village girl named Swanilda invites Coppelia down to the village square. She is annoyed when Coppelia does not respond.

A little later when the square is deserted, Swanilda's lover, Franz, flirts with the beautiful doll. Dr. Coppélius activates the mechanism that makes the doll move, and she appears to blow her suitor a kiss.

Swanilda observes this interchange and becomes furious with Franz for his infidelity, refusing to have anything further to do with him.

Jon Trimmer, head of the ballet company, will perform as Coppélius. Trimmer is a well-known ballet and television star in New Zealand and was named television performer of the year in 1972. In 1980, he received the New Zealand entertainment industry's merit award.

He was awarded the Member of the Order of the British Empire, an honor bestowed by Queen Elizabeth II for his services to ballet.

The title role of Coppelia, the dollmaker's favorite creation, is played by Natalie Gee. Richard Bowman, who also has appeared with Britain's Royal Ballet and the Wiener Staatsoper Ballet, will dance the role of Franz, the young man in love with Swanilda. Lee Patrice portrays Swanilda.

The Royal New Zealand Ballet company was established in 1953. Its first performance of "Coppelia" was in 1983.

Tickets are $6 to $9 for students, $12 to $18 for the general public and $10 to $16 for senior citizens. They can be purchased at the McCain box office.

Ad It Up! in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

FALSETTO'S
PIZZA

At Your Convenience
We Again DELIVER
539-3830
Also: Dine in & Carryout

2-10 in. Pizzas 2 Pepsi $8.00	2-12 in. Pizzas 2 Pepsi 2 Toppings $9.99
---	---

1127 Moro Offer expires 10-30-90

HAVE A DEVILISH EXPERIENCE
THIS HALLOWEEN

Goblin Just $2
Grog

or

Lucifer Just $2.50
Lemonade

(our usual Wednesday Margarita Special)

Carlos O'Kelly's
MEXICAN CAFE

Opening early for Homecoming Weekend
Saturday Hrs. 10:30 a.m.-Midnight
Sunday Hrs. 10:30 a.m.-10 p.m.

BAYSTREET
AND THE PIT

TONIGHT!!
HALLOWEEN
PARTY!!

Costume Contest

Best Overall:	$125
Best Male:	$75
Best Female:	$75
Worst:	$25

$1 LONGNECKS

KSU STUDENT SPECIAL!
$1 OFF COUPON

World's Greatest Haircut
Reg. $7 BUT WITH COUPON
ONLY $6

Also on SALE
HIS or HER
PERM $23

snip n' clip
MIDWEST'S FAVORITE HAIRCUTTERS

3035 ANDERSON
V.P. - 539-4043
431 POYNTZ - BY K-MART
776-6410
Expires 12-31-90

OPEN NIGHTS & SUNDAYS, JUST DROP IN

Students!—Wed. and Thurs.
performances $1 off if purchased by November 6

AMADEUS
By Peter Shaffer

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17

Tickets: McCain
Box Office
532-6428

TODD
Heitschmidt
For STUDENT Body President
—Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt—

NEW TICKET OUTLET

The K-State Union Bookstore is now a Ticket Outlet for Bramlage Coliseum, McCain
Auditorium, Nichols Theatre and Athletic Events!

Tickets available
Monday thru Thursday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Friday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
and Sunday noon to 5 p.m.

K-State Union
Bookstore

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

From HAYNES
Come See Us Halloween and Receive

- 10% OFF All Products
- 15% OFF if in a costume

HAYNES STYLE SHOP

718½ N. MANHATTAN
AGGIEVILLE

539-5512
8 a.m.-6 p.m.

(No Bonus Cards Will Be Marked)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

Administrators need to be more ethical

"The truth is that schools don't really teach anything except how to obey orders. This is a great mystery to me because thousands of humane, caring people work in schools as teachers and aides and administrators, but the abstract logic of the institution overwhelms their individual contributions. Although teachers do care and do work very, very hard, the institution is psychopathic; it has no conscience." — John Gatto, who was recently named New York City's Teacher of the Year.

This clean-skinned, dim-eyed young hippie woman told us that the store would be closing exactly at 5:30 p.m. and no later, that she would not be willing to stay because she was stressed and overworked, and we would just have to come back some other time to be fit for Birkenstocks.

What? A woman with Birkenstocks, who even sold Birkenstocks, who knew the history, the fit, the pure comfort of Birkenstocks, was freaked out because as she admitted later, she just had "too much going on." She "had to get out of this place" ... she "was so embedded in the work ethic of the college environment."

This persuaded me not to buy Birkenstocks until I could wear them and fully represent the values that seem to be attached to the wearing of Birkenstocks. (I realize the shoes can be primarily worn for comfort. But this is just another opportunity to force myself to work on myself.) I was disappointed. Not that I didn't understand the young woman's dilemma, but that I understood it too well. How often do we all sacrifice the enhancing aspects of our lives for the more "reasonable" pursuits? How often do we, as individuals, not act upon beliefs and attitudes that we hold to be most important, vital to the survival and enhancement of others' lives, our lives? How often is it that what we say and do contradict? Too often.

And considering the politics that are stirring on this campus, has the administration acted according to a conscience when making decisions that affect the University's reorganization? Have actions been implemented according to "reasonable" terms or according to the enhancement of the entire University?

The treatment of Thomas Isenhour, former dean of arts and sciences, should have

Jana Leep

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

warned us that the administration intended to remove, to strike away with a clean, swift, psychopathic blow, anyone or any department or any college that it found either irritatingly verbal or irritatingly expensive or expansive, except of course the mainstays of the colleges of agriculture and engineering.

Essentially what is occurring is a contradiction in terms. Education is not to occur here anymore. Instead, the University will have an expanded Rec Complex for engineering and agriculture students.

Do the administrators making these decisions not realize the fundamental differences between architecture and engineering? The difference between technique and the technical? The difference between constructing and designing according to sentiments embedded in social, historical, even philosophical grounding and constructing only as a means to an end?

And as Virginia Moxley, associate dean of human ecology, said, as taken from the Wichita Eagle, Tuesday, Oct. 30, the College of Human Ecology "brings a community approach to ideas traditionally associated with home economics ... the underlying principle that people's everyday lives are important and deserve scholarly attention would be lost if this college doesn't exist."

As Joseph Nocera, writer for the Washington Monthly, points out, "one of the most compelling arguments about the Vietnam War is that it lasted as long as it did because of its 'classist' nature. The central thesis is that because neither the decision-makers in the government nor anyone they knew had children fighting and dying in Vietnam, they had no personal incentive to bring the war to halt."

The University reorganization process, while of course, not comparable to the Vietnam War itself, has been handled according to that same thesis. It seems the decision-makers in our own college bureaucracy have an agenda that places certain objectives as much more profitable than others. And while this must happen, there must be an agenda. And in this circumstance, the agenda should be flexible, malleable, forgiving, reconsidering, approachable and interested in bettering and not deterring education.

The administrative agenda, I'm afraid, is bound to enhance only aspects of this University that will provide short-term, technological, tangible results. And while the various departments that provide much to human betterment in the social, historical, artistic, philosophical sense, these are going to be asked to roll over and die.

Or we could go to war. And isn't that what the demonstrations of the architecture and human ecology students and faculty are all about, going to war, fighting, not rolling over? But isn't it too bad that this war could not have been prevented by an ethical, humane, conscientious administrative approach to the reorganization on this campus?

EDITORIALS

Politicians play games at taxpayer's expense

Congress, in its infinite wisdom, has refused to provide more money for savings and loan bailouts.

Now, the closing of the failed institutions will be delayed for months, which will add projected billions of dollars to the taxpayers' costs.

The Resolution Trust Corp., created by Congress last year to bail out these agencies, is left without the funds to close the more than 300 insolvent or near-insolvent thrift associations, enabling institutions to continue to run losses while funding themselves with high-interest deposits.

This raises possibilities of additional failures as other, healthy competitors are forced to raise their deposit rates.

And we'll be stuck paying the big bucks to bail out these companies.

It is estimated that the cost of a three-month delay could be anywhere from $250 million to $2.5 billion. The refusal was not a smart move for Congress, which will be struggling to meet the $500 billion deficit-reduction goal in the five-year program it adopted over the weekend.

What was in the mind of Congress to make it delay funding that would offset a cost of millions, even billions, to Americans?

Apparently, politicians were playing chicken.

Congress wanted Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady to testify in support of the administration's request, but he refused.

His office said the need for action and the consequences for failing to act were spelled out in great detail over a period of months and testifying should have been unnecessary.

Neither gave in, and we came up with a delay that will cost us more money than funding the bailout right now.

It is unfortunate that the games the politicians are playing in Washington are at the expense of American taxpayers. They need to be accountable for their game-playing tactics and forced to take real action.

The savings and loan crisis has already bled money out of our pockets. If something isn't done soon, Congress will eventually be forced to bail us out.

LETTERS

Truth cures rumors

Editor,

As a faculty member, I am tired of the constant flow of rumors abounding about the reorganization plan. Since mid-summer, it seems that almost everyone has heard that his organization was being considered for significant cuts in some way or other. I am concerned that the administration's current attitude of secrecy is a major factor in encouraging this situation. In my Army Reserve experience, officers are trained to deal with rumors forthrightly and explain matters to their subordinates. In other words, truth is the best cure for rumors.

However, some of the rumors need to be addressed for the long-term survival of this University.

■ The Board of Regents and its director in particular are biased in favor of the University of Kansas relative to K-State. Several members of the board have resigned in the past in reaction to their perception of such bias.

If this is true, K-State has a real public relations problem. Until this bias is removed, we will be kidding ourselves that internal reorganization is a truly permanent "fix"—if this bias exists.

■ In some circles at KU, the vision is of Cinderella and the Seven Dwarfs when it comes to KU vs. the other regents' institutions, including K-State. In other words, certain elements are eager to place K-State in a definite subordinate position with respect to KU, rather than a position of equals when it comes to equivalent resourcing.

If such is the case, we need the governor to address this problem and support K-State as an equal institution. If the governor won't do this, K-State needs a new governor for the state of Kansas.

■ The K-State administration has given up trying to retain K-State's equal status to KU. It feels that the best approach is to accept "dwarf" status, but attempt to be a quality "dwarf" in focused areas. It has given up attempting to seek additional resources from the state.

If this is true, perhaps we need new administrators who have a higher vision for this University, people like Winston Churchill who said, "Never, never give up."

■ While Gov. Mike Hayden supports the content and process of K-State reorganization, he didn't want the plan made public before the election, fearing a backlash. His staff members are concerned that the premature exposure of the plan will hurt his chances and are upset that their advice to delay its release was not carried out.

My concern is whether the administration is working for the University and the public or for the governor and his political ambitions. I am worried about the obvious political issues involved if there was an attempt (albeit it flopped, if there was) to delay release of the plan for political purposes. As soon as my wife heard about it, she went out and got a Finney sign. However, I said we better hold off putting it up until the governor has a chance to address the K-State reorganization proposal. If he says its fine as is, up goes the sign. If he disputes its content or process, then hold off.

Without some truth in these matters, I question how far or how well reorganization will go. Otherwise, faculty who lose jobs and students who lose programs will perceive themselves to be political scapegoats for higher level officials who don't have the courage to stand up for K-State as an equal of KU.

Walter Schumm
professor of human development and family studies

Colleges vital

Editor,

Have you ever been punished, and had no idea what you did? Maybe when you were a kid you got your hand slapped, and all you were doing was looking. Or maybe a policeman has just pulled you over, and you're sure you weren't speeding, and there hasn't been a stop sign for miles. That is how the College of Architecture and Design and the College of Human Ecology feel today. We have been told that due to the University reorganization plan, our colleges will be dissolved, and the left-over pieces will be absorbed into various other colleges. But what did we do? Everyone in both colleges has been following reorganization, but nobody expected this.

No one will argue the fact that we need to reorganize. We can no longer trust the state legislature to support higher education in Kansas. The proposed plan, however, is like cutting off your right and left hands in order to fix a heart problem. The plan as it stands will only save about $3 million. With an annual budget of $140 million, that equates to a 2-percent savings. There must be a better way.

There are five criteria against which all programs on campus were evaluated:

- Centrality to the mission of the University
- Centrality to the definition of the University
- Redundancy
- Quality
- Demand

Nobody in either college, not students, not faculty, not even the deans of the colleges understand what part of the criteria we failed. Both colleges have created programs whose graduates are sought after. Both colleges attract graduate students from all over the world. Both colleges are living, vital parts of this campus. We do not understand why we were chosen for elimination. To correct this situation we, the students of both targeted colleges, have organized a question-and-answer period scheduled for noon Thursday. We will be assembled on the plaza between the K-State Union and Seaton Hall. President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman have been invited to answer questions put to them by the faculty and students of both colleges. This letter is a formal invitation to the rest of the University and the general public to attend. Come and find out if your program will be the next to be randomly eliminated.

Lyle Hornbaker
junior in architecture

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Vento
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Jackie Harmon
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hatjithimotheadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilda, Paul Noel, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwink
COLUMNISTS	Karin DelfAntonia, Jana Leep, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
REVIEWERS	Richard Jones, Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR SHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allyson Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Putney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Linda Weatherly
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
OFFICE MANAGER	Connie Fulkerson
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Carla Jones
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Britt Owen, Deanna Adams, Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christa South, Joe Cook, Minda Dowdy, John Fulkerson, Norm LeComte, James Seymore
OFFICE STAFF
CARRIERS

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

Technology may save state's rural schools

Electronic linkage of resources could allow small districts to remain competitive in future

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

A decline in the number of students attending small rural schools in Kansas has caused much concern in the education community.

This problem was addressed at the 12th Annual Rural and Small School Conference Monday and Tuesday in the K-State Union.

G. Kent Stewart, professor of education administration, has been studying this decline in Kansas, and said small schools must take advantage of current technology to be successful in the future.

"We've got too many rural schools that are too far apart. We can't close them," Stewart said. "We have to take advantage of electronic developments and link the schools together."

One possible way to link the schools together would be the Educational Resources Information Center.

Gary Huang, assistant director of ERIC/CRESS (Clearinghouse on Rural Education and Small Schools), presented a session Monday encouraging small, rural schools to invest in ERIC.

"ERIC can be used to network to other schools, colleges and universities," Huang said. "You can share the information with each other and be very cost-effective."

Huang said ERIC was a very inexpensive way for small schools with limited budgets to expand their resources.

Linking schools together has become very important as the educational community must consider consolidating school districts.

"We currently have 305 school districts in the state," Stewart said. "Some argue that by the year 2000, we'll only have 200 school districts. This consolidation would combine the administration and school boards, but allow the school buildings to remain open."

Stewart said if consolidation of this magnitude does occur in Kansas, it would be vital to use technology like ERIC in the schools.

Education across the state is threatened as population decreases. By implementing available technology, Stewart said small rural schools can continue to be successful and compete with larger schools.

K-State cheerleaders lead peers towards responsible behavior with commercials

By Carl Richert
Collegian Reporter

The K-State Cheerleaders build 15-foot pyramids and do back hand springs for the Wildcats until they get dizzy, but this year, they are leading a new cheer — against drunk driving.

The group released four public service announcements about "Drinking and Driving" to local radio stations on Oct. 1.

Scott Johnson, cheerleading coach, said the cheerleaders decided to initiate the campaign to create awareness among their peers about drunk driving.

"We want to use the visibility that we have in a positive way," Johnson said.

The idea to do PSA's for the community originated this summer when the cheerleaders were on their way to a cheerleading camp.

"We wanted to set goals that were different this year," said Mary Kunkel, cheerleader and senior in elementary education. "So we decided to do a type of community service project."

Van Zander, technical assistant for the cheerleaders and senior in electrical engineering, worked with Beth Hughes, program coordinator for the Northeast Kansas Regional Prevention Center, to write skits that would illustrate an appropriate and effective message.

"We want to use the visibility that we have in a positive way."

—Scott Johnson
cheerleading coach

The message, directed at other students, advocates the calling of a cab or designating a driver when going out with friends, Zander said.

So far just the Manhattan stations have played them, Zander said. Those stations include KHCA-FM, KQLA-FM and KMKF-FM. The recordings were also released to more than 20 other radio stations in Kansas City, Wichita, Salina and other various cities throughout Kansas.

Zander said the tapes should be played for about a month, depending on the radio station.

He also explained that the radio stations must play a certain number of PSA's, so stations are always looking for good recordings with a good message.

The cost was minimal, Zander said, as the cheerleaders paid for the tapes out of their budget, and the cost of mailing packets was paid for by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Both Johnson and Zander have goals for announcements beyond this semester. Johnson said they are looking into producing television PSA's in the near future. Zander said he is hoping to record more PSA's for the basketball season.

"The community sponsors us in so much, and this was just one way for us to give something back," said Jill Washington, cheerleader and junior in business administration.

Midwest focus of poetry reading

By Rob Batchman
Collegian Reporter

Poetry with the flavor of the Midwest will be on tap when William Kloefkorn, Poet Laureate of Nebraska, presents a poetry reading at 4 p.m. Thursday in Union 212.

Kloefkorn, a professor of English at Nebraska Wesleyan College in Lincoln, will be reading poetry from his latest two books. His poetry focuses on life in rural community settings.

"I'll be reading poetry which has its roots in the Midwest," Kloefkorn said. "My poetry focuses most frequently on people, with an overlapping view of places and events."

Kloefkorn, who has been writing poetry for the last 20 years, has written 17 books. Growing up in Attica, a small town southeast of Wichita, he developed a unique sense of the smalltown rural experience.

"Most of my poetry is related to past experiences," he said. "My poems come from little experiences that I have wherever I am. They nearly always involve the places and people that I've seen. I write a great deal of narrative poems."

Kloefkorn said he began writing poetry to help himself hold on to memorable experiences.

"I want to get down on paper things I don't want to forget," he said. "Poetry helps me to remember my experiences. It also helps me to sort things out."

Jonathan Holden, professor of English, said Kloefkorn is one of the best poets in the Midwest.

"He is the best writer about rural life in America that I see," he said. "See POET, Page 11"

Education focus of amendment

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A proposed education amendment on Tuesday's ballot would remove all references to the Board of Regents and the State Board of Education from the state constitution.

The stiffest opposition to the constitutional amendment has come from the two boards. The nine Regents members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The 10 Board of Education members are elected for four-year terms.

The biggest problem supporters of change have with the present system is the self-executing powers of the Board of Education, which some say could put the Legislature and the board at loggerheads.

Under the present system, the Board of Education sets policy for the state's public schools, community colleges and vocational schools, and the Legislature appropriates money for them.

The Board of Regents also sets policy for the six state universities, but many of its decisions must be ratified by lawmakers. State university budgets also are set by the Legislature.

Senate Minority Leader Michael Johnston, D-Parsons, sponsor of the amendment, said a disagreement between the Legislature and the Board of Education could result in programs mandated by the board being left unfunded by the Legislature. That could put the state in court, he added.

"That type of conflict has not occurred, but eventually it will," the senator said. The amendment would make the Legislature more accountable for education policy in the state, he said.

"This change clearly lets the people know who ought to be held accountable for education in the state," he added.

Johnston lamented what he said is misinformation circulated about the proposal, particularly the suggestion that it will do away with both the Board of Education and the Board of Regents.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth," Johnston said.

He emphasized that by law the two boards will continue in their present form even if the amendment passes, and the Legislature will not administer education programs.

He added he has no quarrel with the members of either board but thinks the current system does not provide enough flexibility.

"If the amendment is passed, the Legislature has the power to abolish the State Board of Education, make it appointive, or do with education as they so choose," responded Connie Hubbell, the board's chairwoman.

Hubbell also said the Legislature has enough on its hands with property tax, welfare, highways, overcrowded prisons and governmental ethics during its 90-day annual session without dealing with education policy.

However, Johnston argued that people look to the Legislature for leadership, anyway.

"I doubt if one in 100 people know who their board representative is," he said.

Hubbell also said stability will be lost if the Legislature controls education.

"The way education is operated in Kansas could change each time the Legislature chooses," she said.

She also said appointing members of the education board, rather than electing them, would make them responsible only to one person — the governor. Such a change is possible under the amendment and has been proposed in the past.

Republican Gov. Mike Hayden and his Democratic challenger Joan Finney, the state treasurer, oppose the amendment. Hayden initially supported it but later said discussions with education officials changed his mind.

Stanley Koplik, the regents' executive director, criticized the way in which the 1990 Legislature put the proposal on the ballot. There were no legislative committee hearings and no public testimony, he said.

"The Legislature has not demonstrated to the board's satisfaction that a need exists to dissolve the constitutional integrity of the Board of Regents and instead, place its continued existence in the hands of legislative discretion," Koplik said.

MEDICINE...

THE TRICK COULD BE ON YOU!

DON'T LET THE TRICK BE ON YOU

On October 31, sweep out your old medicine and bring it to The Saint Mary Hospital between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. for proper disposal.

THE GREAT MANHATTAN SWEEP OUT, OCTOBER 31

the saint mary hospital
1823 College Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502 • (913) 776-5322

KMKF 101.7

KMAN 1350 am

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN SPORTS

Hartman gets 2nd Hall nod

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

Jack Hartman, the winningest coach in the history of K-State men's basketball, has earned a second nomination for election into the basketball Hall of Fame. It was announced late Tuesday night.

Hartman joined former NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien, who died last month, and controversial Indiana coach Bobby Knight as the elite members of the 12-candidate class announced by Hall of Fame president Bob Kurland.

"This is very fulfilling," Hartman said. "The guy who nominated me was my college coach (at Oklahoma State) — Henry Iba. That's deeply special, especially when you consider the fact that he was a man I idolized growing up, and that he was my role model when I moved into coaching."

Hartman missed election after his first nomination by a single vote. For a nominated candidate to be elected, he or she must receive 18 of 24 possible votes from the Hall's honors committee.

Balloting will be next spring, with enshrinement ceremonies scheduled for May 13 in Springfield, Mass.

Hartman, who was the K-State coach from 1971 to 1986, said the idea of induction is one that leaves him all but at a loss for words.

"It would be a tremendous, tremendous honor to be elected," Hartman said. "I think it's something not very many people achieve. It's special."

"And when you think about an honor like this one, you also think about the kids who played for you. In sense, it's honoring them as well."

Hartman said the idea that he is considered in many circles to be a legend of the game makes him a tad bit uncomfortable.

"I always looked upon myself as being just another guy going through life doing what he always wanted to do," he said.

Besides Hartman, O'Brien and Knight, others nominated included Jack Ramsay, one of the most successful coaches in NBA history, who, like Hartman, was nominated for a second time.

The other eight nominees were players Nate Archibald, Dave Cowens, Bob Lanier, John Kerr and Calvin Murphy; former women's star Nera White; women's national tournament founder Carol Eckman; and the late Larry Fleisher, who founded the NBA players association in 1962.

Kurland said Hall of Fame trustees voted Tuesday to require that a minimum of three people be selected by the honors committee each year.

Tennis players head to Utah

By Todd Fertig
Sports Reporter

For their final test of the fall season, four members of the tennis team begin regional play in the Rolex Intercollegiate Tennis Championships at the University of Utah today.

Featuring 64 players selected for their fall season record and past rankings, the tournament will be a test of the team's improvement during the fall, Coach Steve Bietau said.

Michele Riniker, Thresa Burcham, Angie Gover and Neili Wilcox were chosen to represent K-State in the four-day tournament. Burcham and Wilcox will compete for the first time as doubles partners in the doubles competition. Riniker and Gover will take the court together for the second time.

Opening round play begins in Salt Lake City today and runs through the weekend. A tournament committee selected the top eight players and then randomly placed the other players in the bracket, announcing the first-round matches several days in advance. Although the four players were notified of their opening round opponents, preparation for the tournament has not differed from other matches.

"We didn't prepare for this meet any differently than if we didn't know who we'd play," Bietau said. "I think each one of our players knows what they must do to improve and to be successful."

Bietau said the two weeks of rest the team has had prior to the meet may have a positive effect on the players. The high altitude and other conditions for the tournament will take some adjustment, he said. The team arrived in Salt Lake City early Tuesday afternoon in order to practice in the mountains and on the indoor surface.

"This is a very tough tournament, but we're still looking for the same basic things we've been emphasizing all season," Bietau said. "I look at the tourney as an opportunity to see some pretty good players and gauge our improvement. We'll stay for the finals of the tournament, even if we don't have anyone playing. I think it's valuable for our players to see the people who play on a higher level."

None of the players from K-State received a top-eight ranking, and the team's No. 1 singles player, Riniker, is slated to take on the No. 1 seed of the tournament in the opening round. Riniker will play Monika Wanick of Oklahoma State, the No. 37 rated player in the country.

"That's a real tough draw to open with, but if you're going to

J. Kyle Wyatt/Photo

Suzanne Sim serves during a doubles match at KU Oct. 12. Sim and Neili Wilcox defeated Bowers and Goins of KU in No. 2 doubles 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. Sim and Wilcox posted the only victory for K-State in doubles play and only the second win of the tournament.

win the tournament, you'll have to beat that player eventually," Bietau said. "I think it'll be a great test for Michele and will be a very interesting match."

Riniker enters the tournament coming off an opening-round loss in an all-American tournament last week. Riniker's record stands at 5-4, including a first-place finish in K-State's home tournament. In spite of the tough first-round match, Bietau liked Riniker's chances going into the tournament.

"I think Michele is potentially a seedable player in the tournament, though she hasn't established a record that would justify that yet," Bietau said. "From what I've seen so far, I think Michele can be competitive with any of these people."

Burcham, who played No. 2 singles this season, will take on Giancarla DiLaura of Wichita State, a player Burcham lost to in the opening meet of the season in a three-set match.

Gover takes on Wendi Kaplan of Colorado in her opening round match. Entering the tournament undefeated, Gover will have to contend with injuries that have slowed her this season. Gover placed first in No. 4 singles at the Nebraska meet, then returned from a shoulder injury to claim the Wildcat's only singles victory in the dual at KU.

"Angie's play this season has to be recognized. She's played great when she's been healthy," Bietau said.

Wilcox is slated against Leann Wilson of Montana State in the opening round. She placed third at No. 5 singles in the first meet of the season at Nebraska.

Revenue plan could help ease athletic deficit

NCAA announces monetary split

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

A recently announced NCAA revenue-distribution plan will help the K-State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics pay off its accumulated debt, Athletic Director Steve Miller said last week.

On Oct. 22, the NCAA announced an equitable but not equal formula to distribute the money from the rich contract it got for television rights to the annual postseason basketball tournament.

Miller said the equitable but not equal title given the plan by NCAA officials was a bit of a misnomer.

"It is equitable, and it is equal," he said. "You will now get a share of money for a share of commitment and a share of money for a share of success."

The new formula was designed to spend the first $69.9 million of the seven-year, $1-billion contract with a major network and will reward schools with broad-based programs.

Schools that sponsor many sports and award many scholarships will be the major beneficiaries, with smaller schools likely to receive about a 180 percent increase over the way money is currently shared. Larger schools likely will see an increase of 65 percent.

Simply put, K-State will probably get a bigger share of the postseason pie than ever before, Miller said.

"It will almost double what we'd normally get in a great year," Miller said. "It will make a significant difference."

And as K-State takes in the additional revenue, it will be initially applied in one area alone — toward erasing the department's deficit.

"We'll apply it, definitely, toward the deficit," Miller said. "We'll continue the consolidation of our programs we're currently undertaking and use this money to pay off a portion of the deficit. (The money) is a windfall to accelerate the payments to erase the debt."

Last week's announcement was of the second part of the overall spending plan. The first part involved the distribution of $31.25 million to conferences based on the success their member teams had in the basketball tournament.

The second part had to do with a sharing of another $31.25 million among all member institutions depending upon sponsorship and scholarship levels.

The third part of the plan is a direct $25,000 payment to schools that is to be used for programs that aid athletes academically.

Part two of the plan — distribution for sponsorship and scholarship levels — will be weighted one-third toward number of sports and two-thirds toward scholarships.

For example, a school that gives 50 scholarships will be paid $87 for each scholarship, while a school will be paid $3,480 for each scholarship above 250.

NCAA officials declined to say what payments individual schools would get.

The time schedule for making the payments, assuming the plan is given final approval by the NCAA Executive Committee in December, calls for the basketball pool to be made in April, the $25,000 academic enhancement payment in June and the broad-based payment in August, said NCAA executive director Dick Schultz.

The plan, which was developed by a special advisory committee, was designed to eliminate the "$30,000 free throw" — rewarding schools for their advances in the basketball tournament rather than for their overall athletic and academic programs.

"There are going to be some schools that are happy and some schools that are unhappy," Schultz said. "It's easy to say 'let's distribute the money broad-based.' But how do you determine that? They had a lot of ideas. But when you start to put it together, it might be $2 billion instead of $1 billion."

The basketball tournament portion of the pool — the first part of the plan — will be distributed to conferences, and each will initially determine how to distribute money to members. The broad-based portion of the pool — part two of the plan — will be distributed directly to individual schools.

The Big Eight Conference is projected to receive $4.2 million, the fourth-largest estimate among the conferences nationwide.

Schultz said the formula would remove some of the pressure to win at all costs, particularly in the basketball tourney. March Madness won't be quite as maddening.

"It's probably as close as we'll get to playing (only) for the trophy, at least for the next several years," he said.

Miller agreed.

"There has been far too much emphasis lately on winning in the tournament," he said. "This should help alleviate some of that."

SPORTS BRIEFLY

Golfers finish 15th

The K-State men's golf team finished 15th in the 19-team Hyatt Bear Creek Fall Classic Monday and Tuesday in Dallas. Lamar won the 36-hole event with a team score of 607. K-State finished with a team mark of 634, after rounds of 320 and 314.

Richard Laing led the K-State individual finishers, posting rounds of 77 and 78 for a 155 total, good for 15th place overall.

Brett Vuillemin was next at 79-77 for a 156 total, good for 26th. Other K-State competitors and their scores were: Bill Graham 80-80 160, Chris Thompson 84-79 163 and Will Siebert 85-82 167.

Wildcat coach Russ Bunker had hoped for a top-three finish for the team entering the tournament, but the 27-shot deficit prevented K-State from making a dent in the field's upper echelon.

Torborg selected as AL Manager of Year

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Jeff Torborg, who transformed the Chicago White Sox into baseball's biggest surprise team of the season, on Tuesday was selected the American League manager of the year.

Torborg took the youngest club in the majors and helped guide it to the best turnaround in the big leagues. The White Sox, picked to finish far back in the AL West after finishing last at 69-92 in 1989, improved by 24½ games to 94-68 and challenged Oakland through the final month.

Only Oakland and Pittsburgh had better records than the White Sox.

Chicago also was the only team to hold an edge over the Athletics, going 8-5 against the pennant winners.

Torborg got 23 of 28 first-place votes and finished with 128 points. Oakland's Tony La Russa got four first-place votes and had 72 points and Boston's Joe Morgan got the other first-place vote and was third with 28.

Torborg was the only manager to be named on every ballot. Two members of the Baseball Writers Association of America from each AL city voted.

Eight of the 14 AL managers received votes. Detroit's Sparky Anderson was fourth with 12, followed by Toronto's Cito Gaston (6), Texas' Bobby Valentine (4) and Seattle's Jim Lefebvre and California's Doug Rader with one each.

The National League manager of the year will be announced Wednesday.

Torborg is the second White Sox manager to win the honor. La Russa got it with Chicago in 1983, the first year the award was given.

Until last year, no AL manager had won the award without winning a division championship. But Frank Robinson won last season after turning the Baltimore Orioles from a last-place team into a contender, and Torborg, who inspired his club this year with comparisons to the Orioles, did nearly the same thing.

The White Sox stuck close to the Athletics from the start and, a day before the All-Star break, were seven percentage points ahead of Oakland. Torborg juggled a young pitching staff, bringing up Scott Radinsky from Class A and Wayne Edwards from Class AA, and relied heavily on reliever Bobby Thigpen, who set a major league record with 57 saves, and catcher Carlton Fisk.

After the All-Star break, the Athletics began to break away.

What in world is going on in Big 8 race?

Dan Wicker

SPORTS REPORTER

What in the world is going on? Is there actually an entire Big Eight Conference this year in football instead of the usual huge separation?

For the first time in God only knows how many years, the bottom teams — ones that usually do not even have a prayer in challenging the top teams — have found the heavens.

Nebraska and Colorado sit atop the conference with four Big Eight wins apiece. Following the supposedly new big two of the conference, Oklahoma has only two conference wins, and Iowa State, Kansas, K-State, Oklahoma State and Missouri have one win under their belts.

The sudden improvement has not only showed on the field, but also in the teams' support. Crowds have come out in their largest swarms since the 1984 season, averaging just under 50,000, at 49,209. This figure shows that 86.6 percent of all available Big Eight seats have been filled during the 1990 season.

The season outcome remains up in the air, and it appears that a third-place finish in the conference is up for the taking.

Nebraska, the second-half team, looks to be the Big Eight team to beat this season. Through eight games Nebraska has only been challenged in the first half and has retired opponents in a drastic fashion, outscoring them 350-66. The Nebraska scoring routs are led by the No. 1 rushing offense in the nation.

Nebraska, however, still has Colorado this Saturday at Lincoln, a game that will probably decide which team is Orange Bowl bound, and Oklahoma in Norman Nov. 23.

Colorado, which was picked by most of the media to repeat as Big Eight champ, has been a disappointment in ways to many Buff fans. Colorado escaped the preseason with three narrow victories, and a few scars than it should have had.

The team's woes continued with the media blather at Missouri, which leads many to wonder if Colorado should even be sitting atop the conference with Nebraska. Obviously, Coach Bill McCartney thinks so, since he did not do the honorable thing and forfeit the win to Missouri.

Oklahoma is the Big Eight team with the most speculation surrounding its program. Besides being hit by probation, the Sooners have lost three straight, including a 33-31 loss to Iowa State. It was the Cyclones first victory against Oklahoma since 1961.

Oklahoma faces a possible fourth loss, traveling to Columbia to face the Tigers. Missouri has been a hot team at home, and leads the Big Eight with its strong passing offense. If all goes well, the Sooners could have four conference losses for the first time since 1972.

Iowa State is possibly making one of the largest climbs in the Big Eight, but still remains a very inconsistent team. The inconsistency relates to a home field tie to Kansas and a road victory against Oklahoma.

Iowa State, though, may have the most cushion heading into the final conference games to help it claim a third-place finish. The team's last three games of the season include traveling to K-State and a two-game home stretch with Missouri and Oklahoma State.

Kansas has been the team with the most consistency throughout the season, even with the tie ballgame against Iowa State. The 'Hawks' big story — and how they fit into the Big Eight football mess — will begin to unfold this weekend with a trip to Oklahoma State and a home contest with Missouri in two weeks.

K-State, which has been voted the fourth-most-improved team in the nation, got its first conference victory in three years against Oklahoma State. The road has been the enemy for the 'Cats, where they have yet to seal a victory. Games they hoped to win turned into a thrashing from Missouri and a tough loss to rival Kansas.

They need to produce a home field win against Iowa State this weekend before two more road trips to Oklahoma and Colorado. This might give them a possibility of climbing out of the conference cellar for the first time since 1984.

Oklahoma State and Missouri fit hand-in-hand to add another notch in the parity of the Big Eight season. Oklahoma State's lone win was recorded in a 48-28 whipping of Missouri after two losses to K-State and Nebraska. Missouri's lone win came in a 31-10 victory over K-State.

The Cowboys and Tigers will have their conference outcomes determined in much the same way. Both teams still have Kansas and Iowa State on their schedule.

To recap one of the most even conference seasons through four weeks and confuse all you fans on what the final outcome may be, I'll rephrase it short and sweet.

Nebraska has clobbered everybody. Colorado has skated through with three wins — make that four. Kansas and Iowa State tied, while Oklahoma beat Kansas and lost to Iowa State. K-State beat Oklahoma State. Missouri whipped K-State, and Oklahoma State whipped Missouri. Who would have known?

Stay tuned in the final three weeks for the continuation of the wild and crazy Big Eight football season.

Students learn, manage hotels

By Stacey Harbison
Collegian Reporter

Making beds and cleaning rooms is a requirement for graduation for some K-State students.

Hotel and restaurant management majors must complete the Hotel Operations class before graduation, said Pat Pesci, director of hotel and restaurant management, institutional management and dietetics.

"They get practical experience through different positions at the hotel," Pesci said.

Brett Horton, senior in hotel and restaurant management, said the four-credit hour class gives the students an opportunity to hear firsthand from managers what their job entails.

Students enrolled in the class go to the Manhattan Holiday Inn and Holidome twice a week, where they are given presentations on hotel operations in sales, catering, housekeeping, food and beverage and accounting systems, said John Peterson, general manager of the Holiday Inn and Holidome.

"Students will get the opportunity to observe the operation of every aspect in the hotel," Peterson said.

Students work shifts at the front desk, where they observe check-in procedures, make reservations and talk to guests. They work in Burdundy's, the hotel's restaurant and bar, and in the Plum Tree, a diner, where they seat people and take orders.

Students also make beds and clean rooms to experience the housekeeping roles at hotels.

Peterson said the class is important to the students because it shows them the difference between what is learned in the classroom and what happens in a real situation.

"They get to see a real hotel and see real operations," Peterson said.

The hotel gets a chance to see the students that are entering hotel and restaurant management, he said. After graduation, students may be hired by Holiday Inn for employment in the Manhattan hotel or in other hotels in the Holiday Inn chain.

The students also spend three hours a week in lecture, learning about current market trends.

"We had the opportunity to view several hotels in Kansas City," Horton said.

The program gives the students a better understanding of hotel operations, Pesci said.

In the past, the University Inn, now the Ramada Inn, also participated in the class. But recently the hotel has not participated in the program, Pesci said.

Pesci said he hopes to work with the Ramada Inn in the future, but there have been no proposals yet.

The Ramada Inn has just been renovated, said Craig Chapman, general manager. He said he hopes the Ramada Inn will participate in the program.

Todd Heitschmidt

for Student Body President

- A.S.K. campus director
- Student Senator-College of Ag (2 years)
- Academic Affairs and University Relations (chairman)
- Parking Council (subcommittee chair)

—Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt—

Old Textbook Sale

ALL YOU CAN CARRY
of sale priced old textbooks for only

$15.00

Wednesday, October 31

9-9
Mon.-Sat.

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

Noon-5
Sun.

JONATHAN MORRIS

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by Students for Morris

RUSHWACKERS
THE LUNDRY
COMEDY INVASION
5TH ANNIVERSARY
THANK YOU FOR 5 YEARS OF SUPPORT
NOW ENTERING OUR 6TH YEAR

9:00 & 10:45
MARK MCCOLLUM
1987 STAR SEARCH WINNER
ALONG W/ DARYL HAMMOND

1ST ANNUAL JAGERMONSTER PARTY
ALL JAGERMEISTER SHOTS $1.50

18 TO ENTER. 21 TO DRINK
CALL FOR RESERVATIONS
531 N. MANHATTAN
BEFORE 5 P.M. 539-4321
AFTER 5 P.M. 539-9727

WELCOME

DB92
KSDB 91.9

Manhattan's First FM

BIG CASH CONTEST!

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF BROADCASTING
(1950 - 1990)

1ST PLACE: $91.90, a set of 92 CDs, records & tapes, and a DB92 T-Shirt

2ND PLACE: $88.10 and a DB92 T-Shirt

3RD PLACE: $40.00 and a DB92 T-Shirt

Register when you hear the DB92 cash register and be the first caller at 532-DB92. Winners will be chosen at 3:30 pm, Friday November 2nd.

Re-Elect

Wilton Thomas

County Commissioner
First District
Riley County

Wilton Thomas has a Widely Based Interest in Manhattan and Riley County

WILTON THOMAS is interested in Manhattan and Riley County.

Wilton and Nada Jo have owned their home and lived in Manhattan since 1960.

WILTON THOMAS is concerned with Agriculture.

He was a Riley County farmer and cattleman from 1974 to 1988. He retired to spend his time in county government.

WILTON THOMAS has served in the Military.

He served over five years in the U.S. Army in World War II, with combat duty in New Guinea and the Philippine Islands with the 716th Tank Battalion.

WILTON THOMAS is a K-Stater.

He graduated from K-State. He was a Kansas County Agent from 1946 to 1960 and a K-State Extension Specialist in Farm Business Management from 1960 to 1974.

Paid for by Thomas for Commissioner Committee, Luann Maupin-Cramer, Chairperson, B.L.(Lee) Ruggles, Treasurer.

WANT PIZZA P.D.Q.? SOUND THE CALL!

Call: 539-5303
1118 Laramie

We have a platoon of cars on alert to deliver your choice of our rich, luscious pies P.D.Q.. WE'LL MARCH RIGHT OVER.

USE THE MONEY-SAVING COUPONS BELOW FOR YOUR NEXT MESS.

2 Medium Family Pack
One Combo and One Single-Topping

$10.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 11/11/90 KSU

Medium All Meat Combo
Beef • Sausage • Pepperoni • Ham • Bacon

$7.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 11/11/90 KSU

2 Medium One-Toppers
Cheese plus one topping on each

$8.99
or 2 Large $11.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 11/11/90 KSU

$4 OFF
Any Large Pizza

$3 OFF
Any Medium

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 11/11/90 KSU

Rival accuses Kassebaum of smearing his campaign

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Democratic senatorial candidate Dick Williams Tuesday accused incumbent Sen. Nancy Kassebaum of attempting to smear him by suggesting during a television debate that Williams advocates a centralized, planned U.S. economy.

Kassebaum said she didn't mean to offend Williams, and was only quoting from one of 25 position papers the Democratic challenger has issued during their election campaign.

In one of those position papers, addressing the issue of welfare reform, Williams wrote, "Society has a responsibility to make abundant employment available to each person willing and able to work."

"As a nation, we need everyone's best effort. As citizens, we all need a decent job at a decent wage. Where other incentives for private sector job creation fail, the government should act as the employer of last resort."

Kassebaum picked up on that statement when she was asked what she feared most if Williams were to be elected. Her response came during a debate taped in the studios of Topeka television station KTKA, which will air the program at 1 p.m. Sunday.

"The fundamental difference between us is Dick Williams does, from all I've read in the position papers, support a planned, central economy," said Kassebaum, a Republican seeking election to a third six-year term in Tuesday's election.

Williams interrupted her, saying, "That is not right. Come on."

Allowed to continue, Kassebaum said, "Well, I guess when you support a constitutional amendment where the federal government could ultimately become the employer of last resort, where ... the free market isn't working in agriculture, we clearly differ on how the federal government ought to be involved. I think the government should be constantly challenged."

Williams responded, "I really don't appreciate being smeared with the idea that I am for a centralized, planned economy. I have spent 13 years of my life in business, and I have an MBA degree. This is the way I make my living, through the free enterprise system."

"So I am simply advocating a system very like those of our competitors in western Europe and Japan, who are competing very nicely against us."

"We need to really talk sense about some of our problems, and not just smear everything with a broad brush."

Williams said only the United States and South Africa do not have some type of government-managed economy.

"I certainly didn't intend to smear," Kassebaum told Williams. "I was just pointing to a position paper with which I would disagree. I don't know how one gives a payment for all those below a certain income."

"I believe the federal government (should play) a more direct role from your standpoint than it does from my standpoint."

Gravesite discovered

Death squad victims buried in unused well

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — An abandoned well where death squads dumped their victims was discovered in a slum called Shangri-la, a police official said Tuesday.

An official with a special commission that investigates death squad activities said the grave was found Saturday, after police arrested six suspected killers. The official asked not to be named for security reasons.

He said no bodies had yet been retrieved from the site on the outskirts of Nova Iguaçu, a city about 20 miles outside of Rio. It isn't clear how many victims were left there, the official said.

Press reports said there were about 100 bodies buried in the grave. Eduardo Gomes, a church worker in the region, confirmed the press account.

"Most are almost certainly teenagers, killed by death squads," he said in a phone interview, in which he said that clothing and shoes uncovered from the grave indicated most of the corpses were those of youngsters.

But the special commission official denied any of the victims had been exhumed, and suggested the reports were exaggerated.

"It's all speculation," he said. The death squads consist largely of active and off-duty police officers who make extra money by killing petty thieves at the behest of shopkeepers and others. Many of the victims are poor minors involved in the drug trade and small-scale theft.

Death squads operate in many areas of Rio but are notorious for their activities in Nova Iguaçu and Most are almost certainly teenagers, killed by death squads.

—Eduardo Gomes church worker other cities of the Baixada Fluminense, a sprawling lowlands area west of Rio.

The Associated Press late Tuesday visited Rio's 54th precinct, which normally handles investigations in the area where the grave was found. Police Chief Celso Bezerra said the case was being handled by the special commission and he could not provide details.

Bezerra did confirm the area where the grave is located had been used as a dump by death squads. But he expressed skepticism that large numbers of bodies would be uncovered.

The AP also went to the Shangri-La neighborhood, an impoverished area criss-crossed by dirt roads dotted with small bare brick homes. No one could be found who was eager to talk about clandestine graveyards.

Homicide investigator Walter Codong dos Reis said the grave was in an extremely dangerous area. He said he would only send detectives there if they were armed with machine guns.

Residents of areas where death squads operate rarely speak to police, or outsiders, for fear of retribution, Codong dos Reis said.

Announcements-Apartments-Automobiles-Child Care
Camp
Sales-
Recycling-
Rec-Rent
Equipment
COLLEGIAN
ClassADS
Let them work for you.
Tickets-Travel-Volunteers-Needed-Wanted-to Buy or Sell

VOTE

FOR AMBASSADORS

AMBASSADOR ELECTIONS
9 am-4pm
K-State Union
TODAY!!

Aggieville, behind EeGee's

A dance hall, flexible enough to meet your individual requirements.

We also provide party DJs.
To reserve The Plaza, or a Lunar Tunes DJ, call Dan Schirer, 776-9140.

INTRODUCING THE SUNGLASSES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

JT THREDS
A NEW CONCEPT IN EYEWEAR

- LIGHTWEIGHT
- LIFETIME WARRANTY
- AFFORDABLE

Drs. Price, Young, & Odle, P.A. and Associates, Optometrists
3012 Anderson,
Manhattan, KS
913-537-1118

THE BEST IN SIGHT

Snookies
Halloween Party
Cash Giveaways
for Best Costumes
Other Free Prizes from
Coors LIGHT KMKF 101.5
$1.25 Coors light bottles
1122 Moro • Upstairs • 776-7726

GRASSROOTS GUATEMALA TOUR

Fermina Lopez Coordinating Committee of Guatemalan widows

Thursday, Nov. 1

Room 213, K-State Union
7:30 p.m.

Co-sponsored by:

The Women's Studies Program, Amnesty International, Sociology and The Manhattan Alliance on Central America

We kept our ears open.

And we heard you loud and clear. You asked for a computer that's real college material. Our IBM Personal System/2s® can handle your college needs—and they're affordable!

THE PS/2s MADE FOR YOU

IBM PS/2® Model 30 286 (T31)

- 1MB memory
- 80286 (10 MHz) processor
- 30MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8512 Color Display
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft® Windows™ 3.0
- $1,649

IBM PS/2 Model 30 286 (U31)

- 1MB memory
- 80286 (10 MHz) processor
- 30MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8513 Color Display
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft Windows 3.0
- Microsoft Word for Windows™
- hDC Windows Utilities™
- ZSoft SoftType™
- $1,799

IBM PS/2 Model 55 SX (U31)

- 2MB memory
- 80386SX™ (16 MHz) processor
- 30MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8513 Color Display
- Micro Channel™ architecture
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft Windows 3.0
- Microsoft Word for Windows™
- hDC Windows Utilities™
- ZSoft SoftType™
- $2,349

IBM PS/2 Model 55 SX (T61)

- 2MB memory
- 80386SX (16 MHz) processor
- 60MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8515 Color Display
- Micro Channel architecture
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft Windows 3.0
- $2,699

IBM PS/2 Model 55 SX (W61)

- 2MB memory
- 80386SX (16 MHz) processor
- 60MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8515 Color Display
- Micro Channel architecture
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft Windows 3.0
- Microsoft Word for Windows™
- Microsoft Excel™
- hDC Windows Utilities™
- ZSoft SoftType™
- $2,799

IBM PS/2 Model 70 (T61)

- 4MB memory
- 80386™ (16 MHz) processor
- 60MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8515 Color Display
- Micro Channel architecture
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft Windows 3.0
- $4,399

IBM PS/2 Model 70 (W61)

- 4MB memory
- 80386 (16 MHz) processor
- 60MB fixed disk drive
- One 3.5-inch diskette drive (1.44MB)
- 8515 Color Display
- Micro Channel architecture
- IBM Mouse
- DOS 4.0
- Microsoft Windows 3.0
- Microsoft Word for Windows™
- Microsoft Excel™
- hDC Windows Utilities™
- ZSoft SoftType™
- $4,499

Special bonus package!

- When you purchase your PS/2 before December 31, 1990, you receive:
- TWA® Certificate good for round-trip ticket for $149 off-peak and $249 peak season*
- Free TWA Getaway® Student Discount Card
- A special deal on PRODIGY®—for only $99, you get a three-month subscription to the PRODIGY service, the PRODIGY Service Start-up Kit, a 2400 bps Hayes® modem and a software connection package.

Check out our printers

- IBM Proprinter™ III w/cable (4201 Model 3) $349
- IBM Proprinter X24E w/cable (4207 Model 2) $499
- IBM Proprinter XL24E w/cable (4208 Model 2) $679
- IBM LaserPrinter E w/cable (4019 Model E01) $1,039
- Hewlett-Packard PaintJet® color graphics printer w/cable (Model HP 3630-A) $799

Stop by Computerland or Connecting Point for details.

Or contact your
IBM Collegiate Reps.
Scott Sherpard
539-7135
Bryan Schiefen
537-7297

IBM.

*This offer is available only to qualified students, faculty, staff, and institutions that purchase IBM Selected Academic Solutions through participating campus locations. Prices quoted do not include sales tax, handling and/or processing charges. Check with your institution regarding these charges. Orders are subject to availability. Prices are subject to change, and IBM may withdraw this offer at any time without notice. *Microsoft Word for Windows, hDC Windows Utilities and Microsoft Excel are the Academic Editions. ZSoft SoftType is the Academic Version. *Valid for any TWA destination in the continental U.S. or Puerto Rico for travel September 18, 1990, through December 18, 1990, at the following round-trip fares: $149 round-trip for travel from September 18, 1990, through June 14, 1991, and September 18, 1991, through December 18, 1991. $249 round-trip for travel June 15, 1991, through September 17, 1991. Seats are limited. Fare is non-refundable. Fourteen-day advance purchase required. Blackout dates and certain other restrictions apply. Applicable to TWA Gateway Student Discount Card must be full-time students between the ages of 18 and 26. Complete details will be shown on certificate. *IBM Personal System/2, PS/2 and Micro Channel are registered trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. Microsoft is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation. TWA is a registered trademark of Trans World Airlines, Inc. PRODIGY is a trademark of International Business Machines Corporation. Windows and Word for Windows are trademarks of Microsoft Corporation. hDC Windows Utilities and ZSoft SoftType are trademarks of ZSoft Corporation. 80386SX and 80386 are trademarks of Intel Corporation. © IBM Corporation 1990.

Smuggled letters reveal hostages' desperation

By The Associated Press

Letters, mostly brief and bitter, have slipped out of Kuwait and Iraq. The pleas have reached the United States circuitously: smuggled out by freed hostages then dropped in mail slots from Maryland to England to Bangladesh.

Addressed to loved ones, the letters are touched with black humor, daily trivia and tales of atrocity. They also carry the hostages' provisional attempts at proper goodbyes.

"The situation here is entirely out of control," wrote a Midwestern dentist whose letters from Kuwait were provided on the condition he not be identified. "I am in a 'safe' house with a good friend. We are surrounded by Iraqi troops...and there is a great deal of shooting in the area at night."

Some letters are hastily scrawled on notepaper; others are typed. All offer stark, urgent views of the Persian Gulf crisis through the eyes of those trapped by it.

"This may be the last communication you get from me...since almost everyone (who can) has departed," the dentist wrote in a letter dated Sept. 28.

"(The Iraqis) have destroyed all forms of normalcy here. Looting, rape and sodomy and wanton destruction...Food stocks are almost gone and the garbage and rodent problems are increasing...things here get worse by the day."

The estimated 1,000 Americans stuck in Kuwait and Iraq are from varied backgrounds. They were in the Middle East as teachers, diplomats, oil workers, engineers and consultants.

But in their letters are common themes: calls for quick and decisive American intervention, complaints about boredom and fatigue. For many hostages, time is measured by what they may be missing at home.

"Darling, the days and nights are long and boring," Fred F. Harrington, a Redmond, Wash., businessman held as one of Saddam Hussein's "human shields," wrote to his wife.

"I do lots of reading, American and British novels. There is TV and VCR in the lounge. Breakfast is at 9 a.m., lunch at 1 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. Food is lousy...my back hurts," Harrington wrote in a letter dated Sept. 4.

"People here are terrified," a 26-year-old Kuwaiti wrote to H. Norman Angell, an old friend in Bainbridge Island, Wash. "One of my relatives was shot in front of his family after he was tortured for two months. He was 23 years old."

"Two of my cousins were taken away...and nobody knows where they are now," wrote Angell's friend, whose cousin escaped and mailed the letter after reaching Germany.

"Tensions run high," wrote Mike Nickman, whose work on an irrigation project in northern Iraq was interrupted by Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

"They have security police sitting outside our door, waiting for one of us to leave," he wrote in a Sept. 4 letter smuggled out of the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad by a British woman who forwarded it to Nickman's parents in Pleaston, Neb.

"My patience is in short supply. It is easy for my temper to rise up and of course in this situation that's not very wise," wrote Guy Seago, a 49-year-old oil worker captured by Iraqi troops while trying to escape Kuwait.

In their letters, many of the hostages mention their tempers. They are tired of listening to the Voice of America and waiting for the United States, which has deployed 220,000 troops, to strike.

"It has become a pretty tedious existence, but preferable to being in Baghdad or at some military installation," wrote the dentist, whose attorney provided copies of several letters. "Those poor people will be killed when the shooting starts, as the Iraqis have nothing to lose."

But for American hostages and their families, the loss could be enormous.

"You have given me great joy," Joseph Murphy, a 63-year-old teacher from Fremont, Calif., wrote to his daughter in a letter smuggled out of the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait.

"Be smart and strong and brave, my darling. You have a great life ahead of you," he wrote. "I love you."

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Placing The Student First Placing The Student First
The Student First Placing The Student First Placing
MORRIS
Placing The Student First Placing The Student First
The Student First Placing The Student First Placing
FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT
Paid for by the Students For Morris

VOTE

DAVID

paid by students for McIntyre

M^CINTYRE

for

Student

Body

President

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special

3-10 in. Pizzas

1-Topping

4-Cokes

$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers

2-10 in. Pizzas

2-Toppings

2-Cokes

$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

STUDENT GOVERNING ASSOCIATION

SGA

Coordinator of Finances

Chair the Finance Committee which:

1. recommends the allocation of @ $240,000 in student activity fees to student organizations, services and departments.
2. reviews and makes recommendations on other student fees.

Applications available in the SGS Office,
K-State Union
and are due Friday, Nov. 2, 5 p.m.

Laura
VETTER

for

Student Senate
college of arts and sciences

The best representative for balanced representation

Paid for by the Committee to elect Laura Vetter

K-States Choice for Wrecker Services

Manhattan

Wrecker Service

"No Job Too Large
or Too Small!"

Unlocks, Jump Starts, Towing, Anytime, Anywhere

24

Hour

Service

115 Colorado

776-7953

AAA

Allstate

CAN YOU DUNK?

Alpha Kappa Psi & United Way
Present

1st Annual Slam Dunk Contest
Ahearn Fieldhouse
Sun., Nov. 11, starting at 11 a.m.

Sign up in Union is 9:30-4:30,
Thurs., Nov. 1 & Fri., Nov. 2

$10 entry fee includes a T-shirt

Open to all KSU students, faculty and staff (men & women).

4 different height groups and goal heights for men.

3 different height groups and goal heights for women.

FISHWATERS
THE FUNDRAISER
Holiday Message of Grave Importance
Halloween is for fun and for candy and treats
And ghosts trying to scare with a Boo!
Just remember to drink with good common sense so we won't have to use this for you!

CHARLIE'S AND Coors
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1990

HALLOWEEN

DOLLAR RITCHERS

BE HERE NOW!

COSTUME PARTY & CONTEST

PRIZES FOR BEST COSTUMES

IT'S A DEAD MAN'S PARTY

GOLD RING SALE

SAVE UP TO $100!

Order your college ring NOW.

JOSTENS

Wednesday, October 31 to Friday, November 2
9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day
Lower level of the K-State Union Bookstore
$20 Deposit required

The staff of Lafene Health Center
wants to wish you a
SAFE & Happy
Halloween
and remember . . .
we are open until 12 midnight.

Homecoming Dance to feature alumni, 4 decades of music

By Candace Plett
Collegian Reporter

When Matt Betton and 18 alumni musicians from around the country play at the Alumni Homecoming Dance Friday night, they'll perform together only once — without practice.

"We outgrew practice. We just walk in and start on the book," said Betton, a Manhattan resident. "And it comes off pretty good. We have a lot of fun doing it."

For the last 10 or 12 years, the homecoming dance has been on Friday night before the football game, said Grace Prusik, KSU Alumni Association dance coordinator.

"It's really great music for anyone who's interested in music of the '30s, '40s, '50s and '60s — primarily those four decades," Prusik said. "It's a social event for those who enjoy good music and dancing to good music."

Prusik expects about 250 to 300 alumni to attend the dance. She said anyone is welcome, and a cross-section of different age groups is always represented.

"The purpose is to bring alumni home and invite them to come to a dance where they can see old friends and hear music that brings back memories," Betton said. "No matter what your age, you should hear music you can relate to."

The band traditionally starts off with an early song called "In the Mood," he said.

"When you get older, and you hear a familiar tune, it has an immediate positive effect," he said.

From 1933 to 1963, the Matt Betton Orchestra played locally, helping 150 young men put themselves through college.

"We were voted the number one college band in the country by Billboard Magazine. We met a lot of kids," he said.

The band will play music of the Big Band Era and jazz — two of his favorites — along with a whole spectrum of music from the 20s to the 70s.

The dance will be from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Houston Street Ballroom at 5th and Houston streets in Manhattan. Refreshments will be available. Tickets are $9 in advance or $11 at the door.

Theme marked by change

Blue Key stresses community, pride in Homecoming

By Jenifer Scheibler
Collegian Reporter

"I Like the State in U," the 1990 K-State Homecoming theme represents an effort to make Homecoming not only a University event, but a community event as well.

"We kicked around a lot of different themes," said Gail Edson, senior in life span human development and president of Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity. "We believe this theme encompasses the way we feel about the University and all the accomplishments K-State has had in the past years."

Shannon Seely, senior in animal sciences and industry and publicity chairman for Blue Key, said instead of representing growth and change, as Homecoming themes have in the past, members wanted to celebrate being proud of what K-State is and what it has to offer.

"We like what we are," Seely said.

The 16 members of Blue Key are responsible for planning and executing Homecoming events.

"Our main goal is to increase involvement both campus-wide and in the community," Edson said.

When planning the 1990 Homecoming events, Blue Key members tried to incorporate new events and encourage more campus-wide participation.

"We've tried to do a lot of new things," Edson said. "People have been really responsive to the changes that we've been trying to make."

One change involved forming a division for campus organizations, in addition to the residence hall and greek house divisions, to compete in events. This was done as an effort to get more students involved in Homecoming, Edson said.

"We want to get everyone involved," Edson said. "And make Homecoming a University-wide event, not just a living group event," Edson said.

Events planned for Homecoming Week include window painting, a banner contest, a float contest, body building, a dance and stunt competition, yell-like-hell, a skit competition, a spirit march, pant-the-chant contest, a parade and K-State Ambassador elections.

"We encourage students to get involved in any way they can," Edson said. "The variety of events allows them to pick and choose what they really want to do for Homecoming."

Seely said she was excited that campus organizations are being encouraged to get involved in Homecoming events.

Clyde's

HOMECOMING BUFFET

Beat the rush and eliminate the waiting with these delicious buffet dinners.

Prime Rib
Cordon Bleu
Baked Ham

Plus MORE! MORE! MORE!
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$12.95

Don't forget to make your reservations now for Christmas parties. It's not too late-bookings available.

2304 Stagg Hill Rd.

537-8440

A Lady's Fashion Boutique You've Been Awaiting....

Contemporary European and American style

Affordable
Chic and Flair

Options which allow you to be you

Quality and Service

Please join us
Pre-Grand Opening Sale
Starting November 1

ELEGANCE
Manhattan Town Center
(near Center Court)
537-8463

Tonight:

A Rockin' Halloween

Your Hosts:

The Barnburners
&
Roach Factory

Here Thursday: 2ND Nature

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, U.S.A.

"CONTINUE THE COMMITMENT"

REC COMPLEX EXPANSION & OUTDOOR IMPROVEMENTS

INFORMATION SHEET

Rec Complex Expansion & Outdoor Improvements

PROJECT PLANS:

BUILDING EXPANSION

- Add 4 additional basketball courts
- More than double size of weight/fitness areas
- Large multi-purpose room for fitness sessions, meetings, etc.
- Longer running track (approximately 6 laps to mile)
- Air condition the building
- Wellness center/resource library
- Spectator seating in large gym for intramural events
- Re-surface handball/racquetball court floors and gyms
- Renovate combatives area and lounge
- Additional administrative offices

OUTDOORS

- Re-surface tennis courts and upgrade lighting
- Light playfields
- Underground irrigation for playfields
- Portable spectator seating for playfields
- Add sand volleyball courts

FUNDING PROPOSAL:

Currently students pay $22.25 listed as "Refunding Bonds" which cover bonds on the Rec Complex, Union, and Stadium. These will expire in 1992. THIS PROJECT WOULD BE FUNDED BY RE-COMMITTING THE $22.25 FOR A PERIOD OF 20 YEARS.

THE ADDITION OF A $3.00 OPERATIONAL FEE BEGINNING IN THE FALL OF 1991 WOULD HIRE THE ARCHITECT AND THEN BE USED FOR EQUIPMENT AND STAFFING COSTS BY REC SERVICES.

Part time students would pay half these amounts as they do currently.

CONTROL:

The building will continue to be operated by Rec Services and governed by the Rec Services Council. It will continue to serve the intramural/recreational sports and fitness needs of the campus with no athletic or academic use.

DESIGN:

The final design is yet to be determined and will be done by an architect appointed by the State.

TENTATIVE TIME TABLE:

Oct. 30-31	Successful referendum
Fall '91	$3.00 operational fee begins and is used to hire architect
Summer '92	Bids let and construction begins with current building still being used during the construction with some adjustments
Fall '93	Building opens

YOUR VOTE IS IMPORTANT

The commitment started in 1976 when a record number of students voted in favor of the Rec Complex. It is now time to "Continue the Commitment."

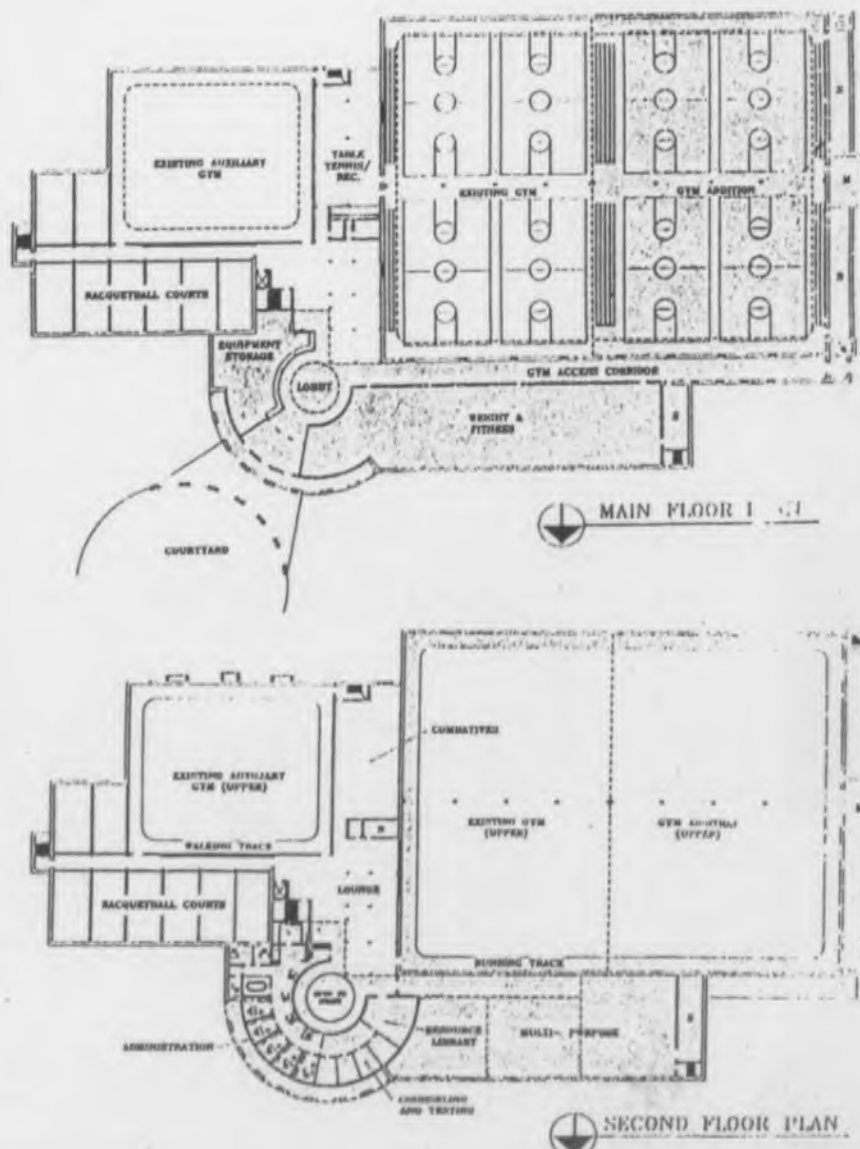

PLEASE:

- Be informed
- Inform others
- Encourage students to vote

YOUR VOTE COUNTS
... GET OTHERS TO
VOTE

We need over one-third of the student body to vote and a majority of this one-third voting in favor to pass the referendum.

IT IS UP TO YOU!!
VOTE—OCT. 30-31, 1990

Paid Advertisement

March commemorates deaths, Soviet monument to be unveiled

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Thousands of Soviets, many holding photographs of relatives who died in labor camps, marched to KGB headquarters Tuesday for the unveiling of a monument to victims of repression.

They held candles against a bitter wind, exchanged stories of loved ones who disappeared, and left piles of red and white carnations on the monument outside the Lubyanka, the security police headquarters and notorious former prison.

"This building is a symbol — a symbol of lawlessness, inhumanity and illegality," historian Yuri Afanasyev told the crowd, estimated at 3,000 to 6,000 people.

The monument is simple but eloquent: a rough piece of rock, about 3 feet wide and 8 feet long, hewn from the harsh Solovetsky Islands in the freezing White Sea.

Those islands were the site of one of the first and most famous labor camps for political prisoners, established in the early 1920s. Until President Mikhail Gorbachev came to power in 1985 and began releasing political prisoners, dozens of such camps dotted northern Russia, forming what author Alexander Solzhenitsyn called the "Gulag Archipelago."

More than 10 million people are believed to have been shot or died from hunger, cold and hard labor in the camps between 1918 and the mid-1980s.

In all of Moscow, a city with scores of monuments to wars, poets and politicians, the monument outside the Lubyanka is the only one to victims of repression.

Memorial, a 3-year-old organization devoted to preserving the memory of those who perished in the camps, received permission from Moscow's City Council to erect the monument.

Vyacheslav Igrunov, one of Memorial's founders, said the group initially had trouble persuading authorities that the monument should be outside the KGB headquarters on Dzerzhinsky Square — named for Feliks Dzerzhinsky, who founded the Cheka, the forerunner of the KGB, shortly after the 1917 Revolution.

But Memorial insisted on the location because "so many political prisoners began their trip to the camps here," under interrogation in the basement cells of the yellow stone building, said Igrunov, a former dissident who was himself imprisoned in the mid-1970s.

The Soviet Union claims it no longer holds any political prisoners, but Memorial and some human rights groups claim there are still about 20, including pro-independence activists imprisoned in the Ukraine and other republics.

Among the thousands who marched through central Moscow were several Russian Orthodox priests carrying icons, or holy paintings. In addition to political prisoners, many priests and religious activists were sent to camps.

Other marchers carried banners condemning the Communist Party and KGB, and demanding public access to secret police archives.

Afanasyev, the historian, urged the crowd to try to forgive the persecutors.

"We must leave the unveiling of this monument with more kindness in our hearts and with a refreshed memory," he said. "We need to go through a national repentance ... we should think about forgiving those who went before us."

Proposal

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Marshall said he could not blame the students, although he said he thought they were hasty in their actions.

"I can't do for this University what the University wants me to do without that competitive edge," he said.

Marshall said accreditation would be lost if the University's previous plans were implemented. This is only if departments within the college lost departmental status or fell below five faculty members. Both were provisions of the first proposals. Losing the accreditation would hurt the students' chances when interviewing for jobs in the future, he said.

"I am very pleased," he said. "This is a major step in the right direction, and I want to be part of the solution."

HONEY BUNNY — I'd love a COLLEGIAN Personal. One day is only $3 for 15 words.

Poet

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

know of," he said. "He is a very hearty man with a distinguishing sense of humor."

Holden explained that Kloefkorn's poetry reaches out to illustrate life in rural America.

"He writes about rural life with a particular authenticity, because he himself comes from a rural background," he said.

Kloefkorn said two-thirds of the poems from his readings will be from his latest two collections, "Where the Visible Sun Is" and "Drinking the Tin Cup Dry."

"Where the Visible Sun Is" is one of my favorite poems and is characteristic of all my stuff," he said.

The reading is sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences, the Department of English and the Manhattan Arts Council. There is no admission charge.

Treat Yourself To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

A LOT CAN BE SAID ABOUT A LITTLE BIT OF SPACE:

COLLEGIAN ClassADS They Work

LORA GILLILAND
for ARTS & SCIENCES
STUDENT SENATE

Paid for by students for Gilliland

Remember to Vote

JOHNNY'D BE GOOD FOR...

Kansas State

JOHNNY GAFFNEY

Student Body President

VOTE IN THE UNION TODAY

PAID FOR BY JOHNNY GAFFNEY

Strong Leadership. Shared Values.

Kent Glasscock will give us both

Strong leadership and shared values. It's not just a slogan for Kent Glasscock. It's a way of life. Strong leadership. Shared values. Kent Glasscock has given us both.

At a time when we're facing an over-reliance on property taxes and a lack of funding for Kansas State's Margin of Excellence, we need a representative who has the strength, who will do the right thing. With strong leadership and shared values. Like Kent Glasscock.

The truth is, our district hasn't been heard in Topeka. A legislator needs to build a consensus to get things done. Kent Glasscock knows how.

His commitment to the district is evident in what he has already done for us — from the Quality of Life Bond Issue to the upcoming improvement of Seth Childs Road.

We need strong leadership and shared values. We need Kent Glasscock. Vote for Kent Glasscock November 6.

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative, Bill Varney, Treasurer.

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

TODD GIEFER
Student Body President

"The future of Kansas State University has inspired me to run for Student Body President. Students have requested things in the past and our previous leaders have refused to deliver. I will respond to their concerns. If elected, the students will always be foremost in my thoughts and actions. Thanks for the support."

Todd Giefer

Let's Put Student Back Into Student Government!

paid for by the committee to elect Todd Giefer

I LIKE THE STATE IN

K-STATE HOMECOMING 1990

UNION DAY SPECIALS

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 2 AT THE K-STATE UNION

Bookstore
50% Off 1990/91 K-State Programmers
20% Off all K-State Imprinted Merchandise
From Pens and Pencils to Sweatshirts and Jackets
(Excluding Willie Mugs and Squeeze Bottle Willies)
30% Off Picture, Wall, Engagement and Box Calendars
1990 Homecoming Sweatshirts and T-Shirts on sale!

Copy Center
$.04 Front/Back Photocopies
on xerox white, buff, blue, green, yellow or goldenrod. Good only on 8 1/2 x 11 regular copies.
$.035 if ordering over 100 copies.
Does not include handfed copies, enlargements, reductions or on file class handouts.
Blackline/Blue-line Specials
18 x 24 $.50, regularly $.75
24 x 36 $1.25, regularly $1.50

Food Service
Hot Spiced Cider, 8 oz. $.65
Belgian Waffle
With Blueberry and Whipped Topping 50% Off
Spaghetti and Meat Sauce with garlic toast $1.60
Chicken Sandwich
At the grill, 11:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m. $1.95
Blueberry Frozen Yogurt, small $.80
Blueberry Cheese Cake at the Dessert Counter $.90
KSU Frosted Cookies at the Dessert Counter $.60
Caramel Apples $.75 each

Information Counter
Large Box of Popcorn for the price of a small box.
Limit one per person

Union Program Council
$.50 Off Movie, "Days of Thunder" starring Tom Cruise,
Friday, November 2 only, 7 p.m. & 9:30 p.m. in the K-State Union Forum Hall.

Recreation
Bowling $.95
Per game, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Get a strike with a purple head pin and win a free game!
Billiards $1.50
Per hour per table
Lunch Special at the Snack Bar
$.50 Hamburgers
$.60 Cheeseburgers

K-State Union
Host to the Campus

We Take Tips!
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
532-6556

Kedzie 103

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

532-6555

Pizza Hut®
DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION
NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4234

CLASSIFIED RATES
One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates
One day: $5.00 per inch; Three consecutive days: $5.00 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.00 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.00 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)
Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex or ancestry.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs—skincare—glamor—nails—gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID), $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
532-6556

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locators, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

DIRECT THE K-State Band at Homecoming!! For details, visit the sign-up table in the Union.

HOLIDAY GIFT Expo. Crafts, food, toys, jewelry, door prizes, soup, snacks. Manhattan City Auditorium, Nov. 3, 9a.m.—3p.m. Don't miss this!

LAMB CURRY Special for Indian night at The Osage House, 776-1234, 2605 Stagg Hill Road.

LITTLE APPLE Gymnastics is offering tumbling and partner stunt classes for those interested in trying out for cheerleading at KSU. Call 539-3613.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SAM TRIP to Dallas Nov. 8-11—sign up by Wednesday Oct. 31 in Calvin 101. All majors welcome!

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

What candidate for governor proposes using a highly unstable source of funding (which is already being used by other departments at the University) to pay for the 3rd year of the Margin of Excellence? Answer: NOT Governor Mike Hayden. Pd. Pol. Ad by ...Mike Hayden, Republican for Governor Central Committee.

Great Vanity Coat Cover-Up!
Layaway your favorite coat today
Thru Nov. 4
Manhattan Town Center

Tonight!
Halloween
Party
$1 Longnecks
Baystreet

Lose 25-30 pounds
before Christmas Break!

Guaranteed "Complete"
Nutritional Program
w/ earning potential
Call Cathy 776-0629
after 6:30 & weekends

WELCOME TO KSU. Call for complimentary facial, Mary Kay Cosmetics. 539-9469, Janet Miliken.
WHY NOT celebrate Homecoming with wine and dinner at The Osage House? 776-1234, 2605 Stagg Hill Road.

2 Apartments—Furnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY!—One-bedroom apartment close to campus, front door parking, air conditioning. $340, 537-0998.

GREAT APARTMENT, great location, great price! One-bedroom, partially furnished, one block from campus/ Aggieville—Only $295/ month plus electric. Call (913)537-3342 today!

NOW AVAILABLE. One-bedroom furnished apartment for lease. Rent $255. Call 532-6664 from 10a.m.—8p.m. 776-0491 after 8p.m. and Sunday.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY!—Nice one-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Heat paid. 537-4515.

NICE. CLEAN. first floor, one-bedroom apartment for rent from January—August. Laundry facilities, air conditioning and front door parking. Call John at 539-8143 evenings.

ONE-BEDROOM IN Wildcat Inn, near campus. $340. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Available November. No pets. 776-3804.

STUDIO IN lower level of house. Available now. New carpet. $190 utilities included. No pets. 776-3804.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one and one-half bath available Jan. 1st. Next to campus, one block from Aggieville. $175/ month plus utilities. Call anytime 776-7566.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/ dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. Available November. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original, $800 or best offer. 1-485-7760.

1984 CUTLASS Ciera, blue, power steering, AM/FM, cassette. Call 532-3389.

1985 PLYMOUTH Horizon, four-speed, good condition, $2,300 negotiable. 539-1902.

1986 FORD Tempo G.L., two-door, five-speed, white with gray interior, excellent condition! $4,000. 532-3080.

FOR SALE: 1977 Mazda Rotary pickup, runs, as is, a rare beast. $300. 776-3757.

HONDA CRX—HF Model, 50 miles per gallon, excellent condition, good price. Please call. 776-7895.

(Continued on page 13)

VOTE
CAMERON & KENTON EPARD
FOR ENGINEERING SENATORS

PAID FOR BY THE COMMITTEE TO ELECT THE EPARDS

Smokey J's BBQ
Restaurant
Spare Rib Dinner Special
only $4.99 thru Nov. 4th
Bud Light on tap Daily Lunch Specials
Relaxed, Affordable dining
Dine in/Carry out/Catering
2615 Anderson 776-9222 Open Daily 11-9

FLOUR SALES
SPONSORED BY
KSU GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB
Flour Sales Every Wednesday
Noon until 4 p.m.
SHELLENBERGER HALL 220 KSU

JONATHAN MORRIS
Placing The Student First
Paid for by the Students for Morris

HALLOWEEN • HALLOWEEN
HALLOWEEN
$2.25 Pitchers $1.25 Longnecks
$1.50 House Drinks
Slimeball Shot Specials
Best Costume
1st, 2nd & 3rd place prizes
Everyone in costume will receive prizes
Bo Winkle's
A Sports Bar
776-1022
3043 Anderson
HALLOWEEN • HALLOWEEN

CELEBRATES ALL SAINTS' DAY
MASSSES SCHEDULED:
NOVEMBER 1
12 Noon
4:30 p.m.
10 p.m.
St. Isidore's Campus Center
711 Denison
Also Wednesday evening-10 p.m. Mass of the Eve of All Saints

Holiday Fashion Open House
Sunday, November 4, 1990
1:00 to 5:00 p.m.
BALLARD'S
BRENTWOOD
THE LOFT
LOWMAN'S
UNDERCOVER
WOODY'S
20% Storewide Discount
Regular Priced Merchandise
Valid Only On November 4th

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

MISSOURI CAVING
NOVEMBER 10th $33
Join Outdoor Recreation Committee in traveling to Devil's Ice Box Cave at Rock Bridge Memorial State Park in Columbia, Missouri. Trip includes camping and caving permits, use of canoes, caving instructor and meals. DRIVERS' MEETING: TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, UNION ROOM 205, 7 p.m. SIGN UP IN K-STATE UNION UPC OFFICE 3rd FLOOR, MONDAY-FRIDAY, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

k-state union
upc outdoor rec.

GET A LOAD OF THIS!

"IT IS A JOY!"
Paramount Pictures Presents
HAROLD and MAUDE
Color by Technicolor
A Paramount Picture
K-state union upc kaleidoscope

WITH SPECIAL FEATURE
"TOM GOES TO THE BAR!"

A wealthy, death-obsessed teenager who stages phony suicides falls in love with a free-spirited, lively octogenarian in one of the most hilarious films ever made. Cat Stevens' music perfectly captures the film's tone. WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31 and NOVEMBER 1, 7 p.m. FORUM HALL and 3:30 THURSDAY, LITTLE THEATRE. $1.75 with KSU I.D.

TOM CRUISE
DAYS OF Thunder
PG 13
K-state union upc feature film
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Tom Cruise and Tony Scott, who sent pulses racing with the heart-pounding thrills of Top Gun, come down to earth for this furiously fast-paced drama. Set in the competitive world of the racing circuit, Days of Thunder stars Cruise as an ambitious young driver determined to become the best in the business. Co-starring Robert Duvall and Nicole Kidman, Days of Thunder shifts into high gear with incredibly photographed action that captures the nerve-shattering excitement of one of America's most popular sports. FRIDAY and SATURDAY, 7 & 9:30 p.m. and SUNDAY, 7 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75 with KSU I.D.

Now Showing
K-STATE UNION
ART GALLERY

Resistant
An Invited Show
October 15-November 2
Hours: Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

(Continued from page 12)

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ATTENTION: AGGRESSIVELY expanding marketing company is looking for high quality individuals who desire excellent part-time income with possible rapid advancement into management. Send resume or letter by Oct. 31st, Box 981, Garden City, KS 67846.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

EVENING AND Daytime office and telephone sales help needed. Pleasant working conditions, hourly wage and excellent bonuses. Call 537-6163, 9a.m.—4p.m.

GYMNASTICS INSTRUCTORS needed. Boys and girls coaches. Can train interested applicants. $4.50/hour. Little Apple Gymnastics. 539-3613.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

IMMEDIATELY: EARN while you learn. Manpower is looking for KSU Students interested in earning great pay—plus commissions. We offer flexible hours and valuable training and business experience. Plus free use of a personal computer. If you're a full-time student, sophomore or above, with at least a B average, and computer familiar, Manpower needs you as a Collegiate Rep to promote the sales of the IBM Personal Systems/2 on campus. Call Lori at (913)749-2800 for all the existing details.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for a director of our dietary department. Must be a registered dietician or registry eligible. Should have menu planning, personnel development, clinical and community education skills. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. EOE.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

LABORERS NEEDED for local construction project, full-time or part-time available. $4.50/hour (316)524-5647 or respond to Collegian Box 2.

ROOM AND Board for help around home. 539-1656 or call Lavender and Lane 539-8705.

STUDENT WORKER: Accounting major. Duties: accounting, typing and general office. Apply to Coleen, Extension Business and Finance, Umberger Hall, Room 121.

SUMMER JOBS: Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS: 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

TIRE OF school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Temptation Nanny Agency. (913)842-4443.

WANTED: ASSISTANT counter sales in warehouse, day hours. Apply in person, Kansas Electric Supply Company, 312 Fremont Street.

9 Food Specials

Bobby O's
WEDNESDAYS:
STEAK NIGHT
$3.99 Filet Mignon
$4.99 K.C. Strip
$5.49 T-Bone
with baked potato and salad
539-1571

14 Lost and Found

LOST: KEY chain lost last week. Call Steve 776-3499.
LOST: LARGE long-haired, brown tiger-striped cat. Last west of stadium. Call 537-0635, leave message.

16 Mobile Homes for Rent

FOR RENT: Nice two-bedroom trailer in country, 10 minutes from town. $250 per month, rent can be partially worked off in exchange for horse related chores. 539-6737.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

14x70 TWO-BEDROOM, cute kitchen, real cabinets, new bedrooms, wood floor, low utilities, $7,500. 537-4369.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

10-SPEED BIKE for sale, $60 or best offer. Call 776-7126.
MOUNTAIN BIKE—Jazz—Made by Trek—Brand new! Asking $300 or best offer! Call 539-2009.

19 Music/ Musicians

CRATE CR122 guitar amp in excellent condition. No modifications, $175. Call 776-6485 after 6p.m.

KUSTOM 250-WATT bass amp and matching cabinet. Great amp, great price. Call Scott at 776-1184 or 776-3754.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

AZD DEBBIE: So much in common we share, together we make the best pair. Like mom, like dot—We laugh a lot. How special you are. Our unique friendship will go far! Love, Jill.

AZD PUP—Hooray, you're my dot 'cause I love ya a lot! Mom (Big Dog).

AZD SUSAN: Surprise! We're finally mom and dot, hope you like it a lot. We'll be the greatest friends, till the very end! Love, Lyn.

BART S.—Good Luck in the race for Business Senator. —Stephanie. P.S. You're always #1 with me.

BILLIAM—(AKA Geek) Happy Halloween! Don't let the goblins get ya. Watch yourself. —Attitude P.S. Trying to smile, but can't.

BOOG, STEP by step... I'll win back your love. Love Always, Panky.

C.P.—HEY! A first date would be Great! How 'bout Friday? P.S. Happy Halloween, M.K.

D.C. FH Little Brothers are great. The Halloween party was an unforgettable date! The message you left was oh so sweet, stop by the house for trick or treat! Happy Halloween! Love—your big sister.

DEAR DRAFT Age Skipper, European fuel has cost twice what American fuel has for years. Will you go to Arabia knowing that? —Binky.

DEREK N.—You're the only experienced candidate for Business Senator.

D.T.—RECEIVED your message. Are you sure you're calling the right number? Waiting for your next message or phone call. Tammy—Ford.

ERIN—ONE year later and the barn is still burning. I Love you. Pat.

GIRL IN Management Concepts—I'm Very glad we met. I'll try to be patient. You can "play" on my waterbed anytime! —The long-haired boy.

GIRLS OF 5th floor Moore—Here's the personal so many of you wanted. Happy Halloween! —Your R.A.

GOOD LUCK, DeLoess J. for College of Agriculture Senator, Jim S.

GOOD LUCK, Kevin R. for Arts and Sciences Senator! Love, M.A.

GOOD LUCK, Scott S. for College of Agriculture Senator, Jim S.

GOOD LUCK, Jason H. for your bid for College of Agriculture Senator. You have our support. Jason H's friends.

GRAHAM—GOOD luck with the election, but remember no matter how it turns out, you're always a winner with me! Keep Smiling. Kneecap.

HEY K.A.—Hope all your friends vote for you for Arts and Sciences Senator. Good Luck and Stay Hard! Graham.

JAN, I love you and want to marry you! Smile and have a Happy Halloween! —K.L.

JOHN—HEY, Baby! Sorry things haven't been great. Can we please work something out this weekend? We can do something really scary! Happy Halloween! I'm forever your girl, Steph.

JONATHAN M.—It's been a lot of fun and hard work! You have been incredible! Good Luck on Student Body President! —Thanks —The Gang.

KEV—HEY, Sweets, get lots of treats and have a Happy Halloween. Luv—me!

KKG SPOOK Sis Jill—Watch out for ghosts and goblins tonight. Be sure to wear your button bright! Spook Sis.

LEIGH W.—Did you check your muffler bearings yet? Say hi to Thunderbolt.

LITTLE "B"—Happy B-day, I wish I could be there to celebrate it with you! Love, Steve.

MY DEAREST Pauline, of all the punks in the patch, you are the only one for me. Love always, James.

PHI DELTS—For Homecoming it seems we've been waiting forever. It must be late that brought us together—We'll work real hard and have a ball—The G-Phis and Phi-Delts will win it all! Love, The G-Phis.

PHILIP—TRICK or treat? I say that you are a treat to be around. Happy Halloween! Love—Darling.

SCOTT S.—Good luck in Ag elections. You deserve it! —Your roommates.

SIGMA KAPPA Marcia, Happy Halloween to my Heart Sister! Thanks for being you. Love, Karen.

SIGMA KAPPA Michelle A., Are you ready for homecoming? Thanks for your love. Love, Karen.

SMACK—HERE'S to little gray hairs, cozy rabbits, games with the number 3 in them, going to the dogs, "picking" and girls from small towns. I love you. Happy Anniversary. BFE.

SPOOK—CRW: Happy Halloween and Happy Birthday a day early, I Love You! —Jon.

TODD J., Hope you do well in Ag elections today. I'll vote for you. D.J.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

AKC COCKER Spaniel puppies, back, all shots, eight weeks old. 1-456-7580 after 5p.m.

TROPICAL FISH AND AQUARIUMS
PETSEN'S STUFF
1118 W. 12th St. 539-9393
OPEN Thurs. 10-8 p.m.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

TOO BUSY to do your laundry? Call and for a small fee I can take your dirty dudds and turn them into clean suits. Call 539-7349.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty. 539-6851, Clatin.

INTERVIEW COMING UP? The Resume Service/ Graphics Plus offers a wide variety of services including: Typing or composition of your resume and cover letter, laser or letter-quality printing. Permanent computer storage and typing of data sheets. Stop by 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294 or 539-6027.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

Typing USING word perfect 5.1/laser printer. Reasonable rates. Call Judy at 539-7100.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NON-SMOKER: Share two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. $130, one-fourth utilities. Available immediately. 537-2186.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE to share two-bedroom across from campus. Available immediately. 539-7494.

MALE NON-SMOKER to share three-bedroom. $120 plus utilities. 539-3690 after 5p.m.

MALE ROOMMATE for spring, January rent free, close to campus. Call 537-4165 after 6p.m.

NEEDED—ROOMMATE for spring semester to fill large main floor of house. One and one-half blocks from campus, own bedroom, $150 month plus one-fourth of house bills. Call 537-3696.

ROOMMATE: $131.25/ month, one-sixth utilities, own room, one and one-half blocks from campus. 776-2074.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Sunset and Anderson, rent $190. If no answer leave message. 776-2032.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted at 1500 Harry. $135/ utilities. 776-1252.

TWO FEMALE roommates for spring semester. Nice apartment, close to campus. $136/ month plus utilities. Christy 539-3387.

TWO MALE Christians to share five-bedroom, three-bath townhouse. Each room wired for cable, phone, computer. Washer and dryer. 537-0472. $195 plus utilities.

TWO ROOMMATES wanted. Four-bedroom house one block from campus. $150/ month plus one-fourth bills. 776-3199.

26 Stereo Equipment

TECHNICS SA-R821 stereo receiver, 45 watts perich, excellent condition. $200 or offer, 776-2220 ask for Tracy, leave message.

30 Travel

Traveler's Limousine Service
Call 539-2284

OK! JANUARY LAST CHANCE! ON BREAK
STEAMBOAT
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
VALE/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FOR SALE: H78-14 Bias-ply tires. Like new. Pair—$20. 539-5456 after 5p.m. ask for Brian.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

Start your Christmas Shopping at Tussy Mussy—•Dried Flowers
•Jewelry
•Vintage Linens
10% off to college students in November
Tussy Mussy
4th & Osage • 539-6759

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, overcoats, G.I. Boots, field jackets, sleeping bags, much more. Also Carhartt workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Mary's, Kansas 1-437-2734.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Mary's Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

REFRIGERATOR $30. 10-speed lady's bike $20. Suitcase (Samsonite) $10 and a lot of miscellaneous. Call 776-9293.

33 Horses

HORSE BOARDING—Lots of TLC, hay, grain, plenty of room. $75/ month. 532-6946, 1-293-5684.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS	1 Fling	5 Hawaiian garland	8 Pet of Nick and Nora	12 Wild ox	13 Antique	14 Flourish, as business	15 Company picnic diversion, often	17 Kind of hairdo	18 Growing out	19 Spring holiday	21 Spartan queen	24 Stitch	25 Alpine wind	28 Popular author	30 Legal org.	33 Commotion	34 Gaze fixedly	35 Seek office	36 Ump's cousin	37 Novice
DOWN	1 Perry Mason's concern	2 Presently	3 Chesterfield	4 Spill the beans	5 Mauna	6 Earth-bound wing?	7 Worthless	8 Degrade	9 Computer programs	10 Ripped	11 God of love	16 Hive or line lead-in	20 South	21 ERA	22 Siamese coins	44 Sneaker	45 Russian despot	47 Not this	48 Tiny bit	49 For fear that	52 pro	53 Dieter's bete noire?

Solution time: 21 mins.

Yesterday's answer 10-31

CRYPTOQUIP

10-31

AUDY TGC IRN IY AITC
XC NUD WXZZSD IY UXH
HRAAINGHU. UD HGXZ. "AGC
FIR SDCZ WD GC DGT?"
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: MIGHT HE ENTER THE PARACHUTING CONTEST THIS JUNE? HE'LL JUMP AT THE CHANCE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals C

THE COLLEGE OF HUMAN ECOLOGY

at

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

Committed to the betterment of people's daily lives

A proposed reorganization plan calls for dissolution of a college which has been part of KSU for 117 years—today has 12,000 alumni, 1,300 undergraduates and 150 graduate students. As a total college it is committed to the understanding and enhancement of human beings in the human environment.

Why dissolve a college that is:

- Central to a Land Grant university—from the Morrill Act of 1862 to the 1990 Farm Bill—improving life for youth and families is mandated.
- Unique in Kansas—internationally recognized B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degree programs about food, shelter, clothing and nurturance of people.
- High quality—employers compete for our graduates; internationally renowned faculty; governments from China to Paraguay to Kansas seek faculty consultants on human and family issues.
- In demand—the college that prepares professionals to lead the growth industries of '90s—hospitality and tourism, apparel and textiles, consumer product development, child care, nutrition and health, housing for the elderly, marriage and family therapy, education, and more—

Did you know that:

- *Student enrollment in the college increased 35% since 1986—hotel and restaurant management up 400% in that time! KSU enrollment increased 21% in the same period.
- *Clothing, textiles and interior design—fifth largest department at KSU slated for elimination in this plan—that is 500 students and their careers wasted!
- *Proposed plan has no provision for textiles, home economics extension, general human ecology, home economics education or human ecology Ph.D. programs.
- *The College of Human Ecology has one of only two constituent alumni associations at KSU—its elected board represents 12,000 CHE alums in support of the college.
- Private support is at an all-time high—over $1.4 million in 1989-90.
- *Extramural research and extension funding is over $3 million—including a $1 million rural development grant to bring Human Ecology to Paraguay.
- *College has the record at KSU for promotion talented women faculty—almost 30% of all female professors are in the College of Human Ecology.
- Promotes student leadership—18 active professional and scholastic organizations.
- Only KSU college with dean and associate dean who are WOMEN.

Human Ecology is bettering the lives of people.
Let's keep it that way!

Supported by Students Supporting Human Ecology.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thursday, November 1, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 49

Reorganization draft reveals proposed cuts

By Steve Franzen
Campus Editor

K-State issued its first written draft of the reorganization plan to the public Wednesday morning at a 9:30 press conference in Anderson Hall.

The meeting began quietly as Provost James Coffman gave a brief description of the events leading up to the first draft of the plan. But the conference ended on a much louder note as hundreds of student protesters marched through and around Anderson.

The students, mostly from the colleges of human ecology and architecture and design that were rumored to be the most severely affected, pounded on walls and chanted. The chants ranged from "Hell no, we won't go," to "Wefald goes." The protesters also carried signs, balloons and T-squares.

"We are listening," President Jon Wefald said of the protesters.

Wefald and Coffman issued the written proposal that included reduction, consolidation and reorganization proposals for academic programs. The proposals also offered rationales and fiscal implications.

The proposed changes include reducing the magnitude of the architecture and design programs in the College of Architecture and Design, such as merging the departments of interior design and interior architecture and reducing the program to an "Interior Architecture option."

Additional cuts were proposed in the colleges of agriculture, arts and sciences, engineering, and human ecology. No cuts were proposed for the colleges of business and education.

In addition to the proposed cuts in academic programs, substantial cuts and reallocations were proposed for administrative areas, including discontinuing supplements to off-campus, community-education pro-

Key Points Of Reorganization Proposal

College of Agriculture

- Eliminate the bachelor's and master's degree programs in Agriculture Technology Management.
- Discontinue instructional programs in the Department of Forestry.
- Incorporate the Department of Foods and Nutrition and its programs into the College of Agriculture.

College of Architecture and Design

- Reduce the magnitude of architecture and design programs.
- Combine regional and community planning with Public Administration and administer both through the Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences.
- Downsize and combine interior design from the College of Human Ecology with interior architecture and merge the combined department with a downsized Department of Architecture, replacing the undergraduate degrees in interior design and interior architecture with "interior architecture options."
- Reduce the size of the undergraduate program in architecture and discontinue its graduate-degree program.
- Reduce the size of the staff assigned to the dean's office.

College of Arts and Sciences

- Discontinue all degree programs in Speech Pathology and Audiology.
- Merge social work with other programs into a School of Human Services within the College of Human Ecology.
- Narrow the focus of the Department of Physical Education and Leisure Studies. Transfer responsibility for certification of physical education teachers to the College of Education.
- Merge the Department of Computing and Information Sciences and Department of Computer Engineering into a new department in the College of Engineering.

- Exchange administrative authority between the Arts and Science Dean's Office and the Provost's Office for the following programs:
McCain Auditorium (to Vice Provost for Academic Services).

Women's Studies and American Ethnic Studies (to Dean, Arts and Science).

College of Business Administration

No changes are proposed for this College.

College of Education

- Add responsibility for certification of physical education teachers.
- College of Engineering
- Discontinue programs in engineering technology.
- Separate computer engineering from electrical engineering and merge the former with computer and information sciences from arts and sciences.
- Merge nuclear engineering with electrical engineering.
- Limit enrollments in architectural engineering/construction science to about 90 percent of the current size.

College of Human Ecology

- Reconfigure programs offered through the College of Human Ecology in ways which preserve or enhance high-priority degree programs.
- Create a School of Human Services consisting of faculty responsible for degree programs in social work, marriage and family therapy, preschool education and gerontology. Begin to phase out programs from family-life education.
- Phase out degree programs in clinical dietetics.
- Transfer foods and nutrition to the College of Agriculture.
- Curtailed programs in clothing and textiles, but preserve a focused emphasis on textile research.

Source: Reorganization Discussion Draft rams and centralizing some support services.

Coffman said the draft, which was sent to all deans and department heads on campus Wednesday morning, addresses a real and erosive fiscal situation at the University.

"We cannot allow the present situation to exist," Coffman said. "We need these measures to sustain a credible level of quality over the long haul."

He said he believes the proposal will place and reorganize programs to be optimally effective, releasing resources for redistribution to critical areas and move Farrell Library up on the capital-improvements agenda.

"This is not about freeing money up for the short term," he said of the plan that would allow the University to reallocate $3 million.

Out of that $3 million, the College

■ See DRAFT, Page 8A

Reorganization rally

Kansas State University students, faculty and alumni from the Colleges of Human Ecology and Architecture and Design march along Mid-Campus Drive in front of Anderson Hall Wednesday morning.

Gary Lytle/Staff

Elizabeth Dole receives ovation for Landon Lecture

By Liz Anne McElhaney
Collegian Reporter

Secretary of Labor Elizabeth Dole, the highest-ranking woman under President George Bush, received a standing ovation for her Landon Lecture given to a full house of alumni, K-State students and architecture and human ecology protesters in McCain Auditorium Wednesday.

Dole recently announced she will be stepping down as Secretary of Labor to become president of the American Red Cross.

Her speech focused on her goals of protecting America's social contract that ensures that everyone has the chance to a good education, a decent job and a secure retirement.

Dole said it became evident to her after traveling the United States and meeting with merchants, factory workers, mothers on welfare and children working illegally that there are those who haven't been given the chance for these opportunities.

"I set three goals — skills, safety and security — to guide our policies. Through the help of the labor department, we could help in seeing that everybody counts," Dole said.

Under the goal of skill, Dole spoke in depth of educational needs among America's young people. Dole explained that many of America's youth do not connect doing well in school with doing well in work.

Dole said that she asked America's businesses to allow 10 percent of their workforce to act as mentors to students. Dole said this responsibility is not in teaching students skills but rather in advising and supporting them.

Dole said the only acceptable compliance with the requirements of her second goal, safety, was full compliance.

She said she was the happiest about her accomplishments with Rule

208, which required that every new car be equipped with an air bag or automatic safety belt.

Dole's third goal, security, has been one of her most rewarding.

Dole said the percentage of coal companies contributing to the retirement fund had dropped from 80 percent to 30 percent when she entered office as Secretary of Labor.

A blue-ribbon commission was appointed by Dole and is responsible for reviewing pension and health-care issues. Dole said the issue must be addressed now because it is big, contentious and fundamental.

"Wherever you go after leaving Kansas State, I sincerely hope you will consider public service at some time in your lives," Dole said.

She said in a press conference that she hopes as president of the American Red Cross to increase the amount of charitable contributions. Dole said corporations and individuals give

■ See DOLE, Page 8A

Mike Welch/Staff

U.S. Secretary of Labor Elizabeth Dole speaks about, among other issues, the importance of minorities in the job force at Wednesday's 85th annual Landon Lecture on Public Issues in McCain Auditorium.

Election results delayed 1 day

By Charlie Gatschet
Collegian Reporter

Mischievous Halloween spirits in the form of smoke and power surges put student elections results on hold until later this morning.

But the votes for the proposed expansion to the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex were counted by hand. The Rec Complex proposal did not pass.

While a majority of voters favored the Rec Complex expansion, neither of the two criteria for passing the referendum were met. Senate by-laws require a majority of one-third of the student body, or a two-thirds majority of less than one-third of the student body to pass a referendum.

Voters cast 4,825 ballots; 2,570 in favor of and 2,095 opposed to the expansion. This was about 1,600 votes short of the one-third needed to pass with a simple majority, and 540 yes votes shy of meeting the two-thirds majority.

Raydon Robel, director of recreational services, said the Rec Complex will continue to provide the best possible service in spite of the results.

"People will have to understand that until a new plan can come about, we'll have to work with the facilities we have," Robel said. "We are still going to offer the best we can because the students deserve the best we have to offer. We're not going to give the students less."

Students from the College of Architecture and Design voted more than two to one against the expansion while students from the College of Business voted in the opposite manner.

Reorganization may have played a part in the voting outcome.

"I'm sure the happenings of the last day or two helped change some peoples' minds and diverted their attention to other things," Robel said.

"I'm sorry we didn't get the necessary number of votes," he said. "Ultimately those interested in Rec Services lose. We'll have to go back and huddle up and see if we can make this be realized in the future."

An electrical fire at the Veterinary Medicine Complex caused a power surge that cut power to several buildings on campus. One of the buildings was Farrell Library where staff members from the University computing and telecommunications department were entering election results into the computer system.

■ See DELAY, Page 8A

Rec Complex Referendum

The referendum failed because it did not receive the required two-thirds majority needed to pass.

SCHOOL	Invalid &			Total
	Yes	No	Non-votes
Engineering	507	313	25	845
Agriculture	225	150	17	392
Arts & Sciences	772	647	63	1482
Graduate	67	177	9	253
Arch. & Design	112	260	3	375
Human Ecology	170	140	12	322
Vet. Medicine	19	12	0	31
Business	507	244	22	773
Education	191	152	9	352
TOTALS	2570	2095	160	4825

Source: Student Governing Association

BRIEFLY

World

Reform package hits Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Romanians waited in long lines at stores Wednesday, hoping to stock up the day before a tough economic-reform package frees prices on basic goods. But the wait was in vain.

Bucharest stores were nearly empty, and shoppers who joined snaking lines for the few available items were angry and confused by the planned changes.

Most grumbled about lack of information on the reforms, and few believed they would yield quick results.

Car owners waited up to 10 hours at gas stations, despite guarantees that gasoline and other energy prices would not increase.

Foreigners lose German vote

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — Germany's highest court on Wednesday struck down state laws that would have let foreigners vote at the municipal and community level.

Many among the nearly 5 million foreigners in Germany have claimed that they should be allowed to vote, after establishing long-term residency.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl's conservative Christian Democratic Union party disagrees, saying the country's constitution limits voting to German citizens.

Germany's Federal Constitutional Court struck down foreigners' local voting rights enacted in the state of Schleswig-Holstein and the city-state of Hamburg. Legal challenges had already prevented foreigners from voting.

The leftist Social Democratic Party is the dominant political force in Hamburg and Schleswig-Holstein.

There has been widespread speculation that the Christian Democrats also oppose foreigners' voting rights because of the belief that most non-Germans would vote for the opposition party.

Six other members of the 12-nation European Community have granted non-citizens voting rights in local elections.

Nation

Religious group ends boycott

NEW YORK (AP) — A religious group called off its boycott of Burger King restaurants Wednesday, and the fast-food chain scrambled to buy newspaper ad space to trumpet its support for family values in television programming.

The moves are the latest developments in efforts by activists to clean up what they see as indecency in television shows. Others say the activists want to censor television to suit their sense of morality.

The religious group, Christian Leaders for Responsible Television, said it called off the yearlong boycott of Burger King restaurants launched Sept. 1 after reaching a mutual understanding with company officials.

Florida hit with encephalitis

MIAMI — (AP) Florida's worst outbreak of mosquito-borne encephalitis in 13 years has the tourism industry dismissing the chances of people catching the virus but still worried that visitors might change their travel plans.

The outbreak of the disease has thrown a scare into the $26-billion-a-year industry already feeling sluggish from declines in the national economy and rising gasoline prices.

"The majority of calls are from people saying 'How bad is this, really?'" said Jennifer Clark, spokeswoman for the Palm Beach County Convention and Visitors Bureau.

So far this year, 76 cases of St. Louis encephalitis and three deaths have been confirmed in 23 counties stretching from Tampa to Miami. Orange County, with tourist-rich Orlando as the county seat, accounts for the greatest number of cases with 14.

Region

Morgan receives endorsement

TOPEKA (AP) — Scott Morgan Wednesday said the endorsement he received from a pro-choice organization is evidence that his opponent, Rep. Jim Slattery, a Democrat, does not fully support a woman's right to abortion.

He also said Slattery recently accepted a $100 contribution from a group called Christians for Life. Morgan is seeking the 2nd District congressional seat. Slattery, the Democratic incumbent, returned to Kansas from Washington on Tuesday to campaign for re-election.

ProChoice Action League endorsed Morgan Wednesday.

"The opponent in this race has given lip service to choice in an effort to appease everyone," said Peggy Jarman of Wichita, representing ProChoice Action League. She said the group has about 11,000 members statewide.

Campus

Carter to give Landon Lecture

Former President Jimmy Carter will deliver a Landon Lecture next spring.

Charles Reagan, chairman of the lecture series, said Wednesday that Carter's appearance on April 26 will be the fifth by a president.

"The lecture series is known all over the country. Alf Landon personally called and asked people to speak the first five years," Reagan said.

Reagan said that the lecture sells itself because of the caliber of people who have spoken at it.

The earlier presidential appearances were made by Richard Nixon in 1970, Gerald Ford in 1978, Ronald Reagan in 1982 and 1987 as California's governor and George Bush in 1985. Carter's vice president, Walter Mondale, delivered a Landon Lecture in 1979.

CAMPUS BULLETIN
Announcements

■ Education Mock Interview Sign-ups will be before 5 p.m. until Nov. 5 in Blumont 13.

■ Center for Basic Cancer Research deadline for research award applications is Dec. 10. Applications are available in Ackert 234.

■ Touchstone, KSU's small literary magazine, will release its fall 1990 issue soon in Denison 114 or 116.

1 Thursday

■ Kansas State Engineering Technologists will meet at 6 p.m. in Seaton 161.

■ Pre-Vet Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Trotter 201.

■ Horsemen's Association will meet at 6 p.m. in Weber 146.

■ Anthropology Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. at 401 Denison Ave. Janet Benson will lecture on India.

■ Women and Men Against Rape will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 203.

■ English Department will sponsor a poetry reading by William Kloefer at 4 p.m. in Union 212.

■ ICTHUS will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 212.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Glennis Ann Kaufman at 4 p.m. in Ackert 221. The dissertation topic is "Population Ecology, Social Organization and Mating Systems in the Deer Mouse (Peromyscus maniculatus bairdii) in Mixed-Grass Prairie in Kansas."

■ Ag Education Club will meet at 7 p.m. on the third floor of Blumont Hall.

■ K-State Table Tennis Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Ecumenical Christian Ministries Building on Denison Avenue.

■ KSU Horticultural Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Waters 244.

■ Talking Hands will meet at 4 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3. Anyone interested in sign-language interpretation is welcome.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, increasing cloudiness, windy and warm. High 80 to 85. Southerly winds 15 to 30 mph and gusty. Tonight, becoming mostly cloudy. Low 50 to 55. Friday, mostly cloudy and turning colder. A 40-percent chance for light rain or drizzle in the afternoon. High 60 to 65 with falling temperatures during the afternoon.

Cool Savings!

TACOS 3 for $1.25 (reg. 55¢ each)

CHILI BURRITOS $1.77 (reg. $2.35)

Good thru 11/3/90

TACO HUT

"Where Good Friends Get Together"

2809 Clafin

On the hill overlooking Westloop, 539 2091

Open Sun. Thur.
11 am-10 pm
Fri. & Sat.
11 am-12 midnight

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams •

Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases. Providing quality health care to women since 1974.

Insurance, VISA & Mastercard accepted.

Comprehensive Health for Women

4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)

Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

CPI photo finish

one hour photo

Save 50%

on color processing & 4x6 prints

Each picture is the best it can be or we reprint it free... now!

4x6 Color Prints

50% off

regular one-hour price

No limit on number of rolls discounted with this coupon. Print length varies with film size. C41 in lab process only, not combinable with other processing and print offers.

Coupon good through Nov. 10, 1990

CPI photo finish

11x14 Color Enlargements

$9.95 each

(reg. $13.49)

Free Custom Cropping! 11x14 enlargements from 35mm and 126 negatives only. No limit, not combinable with other enlargement offers.

Coupon good through Nov. 10, 1990

CPI photo finish

Manhattan Town Center
main entrance by food court

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR FALL
LUBE, OIL (UP TO 5 QTS.), FILTER
MOST POPULAR BRANDS

$15.95

by appointment only

537-1201

1026 Poyntz

Parkside

CONOCO

& U-Haul

College of Human Ecology—
Alumni Do
CARE!

Paid for by Nancy Saroff—

A Concerned K-State Alumni.

Sat. Nov. 3

PRE HOMECOMING GAME
Scrimmage

Doors open: 10:15 a.m.*
Southeast Entrance Only

Football game day parking policy will be in effect.

Admission: Free

Live tonight:

2ND Nature

from Emporia

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, USA

VS.

IOWA STATE

Nov. 3

1:10 p.m.

HOMECOMING

Tickets available: 532-6920

sponsored by:
Cereal Foods Processors, Inc.

Vet Med Center damaged in fire

By Kelly Berg
Staff Reporter

A transformer malfunction caused a fire in the south end of the Veterinary Medicine Complex Wednesday night. All electricity was lost at the complex as a result.

The malfunction also caused temporary power outage in Throckmorton, Umberger, Ackert and Cardwell halls.

Power was restored to all the buildings except the complex Wednesday night by rerouting it.

Steve Burnett, Manhattan Fire Department battalion chief, said he estimates the damage to be about $4,000 to the complex's electrical wiring.

The fire department received a call from the K-State Police at 7:16 p.m., who reported smoke coming from the building. By 7:18 p.m., two fire engines arrived on the scene.

"It's automatic procedure to send two engines to anything on campus," said John Green, freshman in nuclear engineering and student firefighter.

Damage to the complex interior is not yet known.

"I can't say how bad it is at this point," said Jack Watson, assistant director of facilities building maintenance. "We'll have to wait about three to four hours for the smoke to clear so I can get in there and find where the problem is."

Burnett said there was a fire in the main breaker switch that leads into the building in a line carrying about 12,500 volts.

He said the fire fighters shut down the main breaker and put out the fire with a fire extinguisher.

The fire was contained within the metal housing that encases the switch but the burning of plastic insulation on wires caused a lot of smoke, Burnett said.

Watson said there was not a threat of further damage to the building as a result of the transformer malfunction.

"All the damage that's going to happen has already happened," he said.

Burnett said the switch and wiring would have to be replaced, and the complex will be without power until at least Thursday night.

Until then, the complex, consisting of Trotter, Veterinary Clinical Sciences and Veterinary Medical Sciences buildings, will use back-up generators and emergency power systems in the operating rooms.

Irish Prime Minister fires top aide

Parliament gives Haughey vote of confidence after dismissal

By The Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ireland — Prime Minister Charles Haughey won a vote of confidence in Parliament on Wednesday after bowing to pressure and dismissing a top aide.

The aide, Brian Lenihan, is running for president, but his campaign has suffered because of a scandal arising from reports that Lenihan lied about his role in a political crisis eight years.

"What I have to do, I do with great sadness and great sorrow," said

Haughey. After he stripped Lenihan of his titles of deputy prime minister and defense minister, Parliament gave Haughey's government an 83-80 vote of confidence.

Haughey's Fianna Fail party has 77 seats in the 165-seat Parliament and governs with the support of the Progressive Democrats, who hold six seats. The Progressive Democrats reportedly had insisted Lenihan leave the government.

The main opposition parties, Fine Gael and the Labor Party, voted against the confidence motion. Two opposition lawmakers did not vote.

In an act of political loyalty, Lenihan and his sister, Education Minister Mary O'Rourke, who are also members of Parliament, both voted to support Haughey despite his dismissal of Lenihan.

Labor Party leader Dick Spring had earlier called Haughey a liar and Lenihan "an Irish version of Richard Nixon."

"This is a debate about greed for office, disregard for truth and about contempt for political standards," Spring said Wednesday.

Lenihan, 59, the early frontrunner for next Wednesday's presidential election, has fallen far behind Mary Robinson, the candidate backed by Labor.

A poll published Wednesday by the Irish Independent newspaper showed Robinson favored by 52 percent, Lenihan by 31 percent and Fine Gael's Austin Currie with 17 percent.

Thornburgh says right to fair trial more important than right to know

By The Associated Press

DALLAS — U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh told newspaper editors Wednesday that a defendant's right to a fair trial is greater than the media's ill-defined right to know.

Thornburgh said he supports, and as attorney general must defend, the media's right to publish without censorship. However, that right is not a prosecutor's first concern, he told about 400 editors attending the 56th annual Associated Press Managing Editors convention in Dallas.

The meeting of the APME, which comprises managing editors and other news executives of AP-member newspapers, concludes Friday.

Thornburgh said the tension between prosecutors and reporters often stems from each side's different agenda.

A prosecutor's first duty, he said, is to ensure a fair trial.

"His duties do not encompass the exposure of suspected criminal activities for exposure's sake," the attorney general said.

That stance, Thornburgh said, often means facing what he called false accusations of censorship or a cover up from the public or the press about pending investigations.

"As much as the defendant has the right to remain silent before the court, the prosecutor has the obligation to remain silent outside the court," said Thornburgh, who has headed the U.S. Department of Justice since 1988.

By leaking or releasing information on pending criminal cases, a prosecutor not only jeopardizes a basic civil right, he or she places the integrity of the judicial system at risk, Thornburgh said.

"Wrongdoing that does not rise above the threshold of provable violations of specific laws is not the prosecutor's to expose," Thornburgh said. "Regardless of the pressures exerted in the name of some dubious, ill-defined right to know."

The public's right to a free press is also important, he said.

"I share with you an abiding interest in the freedom of the press, no matter how uncomfortable your copy makes us," Thornburgh told the editors.

Menstrual problems may lead to bone loss

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — Women who have outwardly normal menstrual periods may lose bone rapidly if they do not ovulate during every monthly cycle, a study concludes.

Lack of menstruation, such as occurs in women who exercise strenuously or don't eat enough, has long been associated with weakened bones. But until now, experts assumed that women who menstruated regularly also produced hormones that kept their bones healthy.

The new research concludes that women who do not ovulate, or release an egg, every cycle lose 4 percent of the bone in their spines annually, even though they menstruate as usual.

The work also suggests that the hormone progesterone, as well as estrogen, is necessary for keeping women's bones strong.

"There is far more variability in the normal menstrual cycle than anyone has realized, largely because it has not been looked for," said Dr. Jeryllyn C. Prior, who directed the study.

She said stress and being too thin may cause disrupted ovulation, and women who regularly miss ovulation may need to take progesterone supplements to preserve their bones.

"It shows that some premenopausal women who have normal periods have ovulatory disturbances that are associated with bone loss. I don't think people are aware of that," commented Dr. Deborah Riester of New England Medical Center in Boston.

The work, conducted at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, was published in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine.

Women can have menstrual cycles that are regular in length and flow but still not ovulate. In such cycles, women produce normal amounts of estrogen but less than usual progesterone.

Some premenstrual symptoms may accompany ovulation. Prior said women can keep track of their ovulation by checking themselves for mild breast tenderness, a regular sign of the egg's release.

In the study, doctors monitored the menstrual periods of 66 women who ranged from ages 21 to 42. One-third were runners preparing for a marathon, one-third were recreational runners and the rest were normally active non-runners.

The doctors expected to see more menstrual disruptions in the marathoners. Instead, they found that all the women had normal cycles 97 percent of the time, and ovulation disturbances occurred in 29 percent of their cycles.

'Avalon' makes winning picture

COLLEGIAN
Report Card
"AVALON"

A+

By Stacy Lentz
Collegian Reviewer

The third time is definitely a charm for three-time nominated and one-time academy award winner Barry Levinson.

Levinson's latest release, "Avalon," will be a top contender in the Oscar race this year.

Levinson, who also created "Rain Man" and "Good Morning Vietnam," brings us the tale of the forces that influence one immigrant family over a 50-year period that extends into the 1960s.

The plot first focuses on five brothers in the Kirchinsky clan which came to America in the early 1900s and decided to go into the wallpaper-hanging business. The tale then moves to the family's second generation, telling the story of two cousins and their family traditions, joys and triumphs in the department-store business.

"Avalon" is about the periods in the Kirchinskys' lives that were full of emotion and how the family was affected by the times. It is a realistic look into the past — Levinson deftly demonstrates his ability to depict reality.

"Avalon" contains all the ingredients needed to make it one of this year's best films. Levinson combines a talented cast with wonderfully witty dialogue and an award-winning production staff.

Levinson has gathered some of the best crew in the business for the film, putting himself in the running for a best-picture nomination. Allen Daviau, who has earned academy award nominations for "E.T.," "The Color Purple" and "Empire of the Sun" is the director of photography. Grammy and Oscar winner Randy Newman composed the musical score.

The cast of "Avalon," led by East German film star Armin Mueller-Stahl, is also phenomenal. Mueller-Stahl puts in a brilliant performance as Sam, the stubborn, set-in-his-ways family patriarch.

Other great performances are put in by Aidan Quinn and Elizabeth Perkins, who play the second-generation husband and wife struggling to deal with intransigent parents.

The film is about a family, its reaction to change and its progress in the promised land. It addresses how young people adapt more quickly to a changing world. It is a journey through succeeding generations and their traditions, but most of all "Avalon" is about family experience. We can all see a little of our own families in the Kirchinskys — Levinson makes us grow throughout this film.

This is a realistic look at family life that everyone should experience.

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

CRAFT SHOW EXTRAVAGANZA

Limited Time Engagement November 1-4

Come enjoy the folks from Silver Dollar City of Branson, Missouri this Thursday through Sunday. Costumed craftsmen and artisans will present a variety of arts and crafts made just like yesteryear's. Booths will be located throughout the mall. It's paint, whittle and patch at The Silver Dollar City Arts & Crafts Festival. Don't miss the experience!

DILLARD'S JCPENNEY SEARS SPECIALTY SHOPS PICNIC PLACE
Monday through Saturday, 10-9, Sunday 12-5:30

539-9207

3RD AND POYNTZ

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Enter the First Annual Reorganization Open

Now that the draft proposal for reorganization has been released, it's time for the students, faculty members and classified employees of K-State to respond, react and, best of all, come up with their own proposals.

It's time for all those armchair administrators out there to formulate potential plans for University reorganization. Whoever can save at least $3 million without starting a riot wins. The winner gets to be provost, president and all-around grand poobah. After Wednesday's protest, the administrators who currently occupy these positions would probably be more than happy to let someone else have their jobs until all this blows over.

Of course, there will be some ground rules for the "First Annual Reorganization Open":

1. Only those colleges which are among the top five in the nation for any or all of their programs are up for cuts.
2. Everything else is fair game. As Provost James Coffman said, "Don't just come up with 'no.' Come up with alternatives that get at the problem, which is not enough money."
3. Give all colleges and departments a chance to protest at one time or another during reorganization. Express your creativity with this one, points will be awarded. For those keeping score at home, it's going to be tough to top the College of Architecture and Design in this category. Not everyone has neat equipment like a T-square, although the College of Agriculture can probably come up with some great displays incorporating livestock and hay bales.

4. There will be an administrative footrace from Anderson Hall to 100 Wilson Court. The winner picks the next college to receive cuts. Mobs of angry students may be included on the obstacle course.

5. You can't read any of the reorganization articles in the Collegian, because then you might know what's going on. This assumes the Collegian knows anything about the University and has the funds to publish this information at least four out of every five school days.

6. The $3 million cannot be raised by holding Ruth Ann, Skipp, Andy, Popcorn or Toughy Wefald for ransom, or by arranging the demise of one or more faculty members.

Ellen Dayton

SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR

Be more original. Consider a dunk the (insert scapegoat) fundraiser or a find-the-roller-skater-on-campus scavenger hunt.

7. The $3 million cannot be raised by an increase in tuition as this would go too far towards solving the problem once and for all.

8. Same goes for selective admissions. Let's keep packing in the warm bodies, no matter how many students have to cram into a single section of Composition I.

9. Spread a few rumors. Here's an example: this is all a political power play by Gov. Mike Hayden, who was pretty ticked about having to take the fall for the University-wide budget cuts and class cuts in the College of Arts and Sciences last spring semester. Rumors that make it into print, radio or television, confirmed or denied, will be awarded extra points.

10. Contestants shall refrain from soliciting donations in the KSU Stadium this weekend at the Homecoming game or any other forms of begging for money from alumni.

11. Points will be deducted for plans that ruin the future of any particular group of students. Penalties will be assessed by determining how far students will have to relocate to find another program. For example, interior architecture students will probably have to transfer to a university in Oregon to find an equivalent program. A plan incorporating this proposal would be penalized more than, say, relocating accounting students to the University of Kansas.

12. Entries from freshmen, sophomores, faculty and staff members will be automatically ranked higher than proposals by students who graduate before reorganization is put into effect.

13. Members of the current administration and their immediate families are ineligible.

14. Offer void where prohibited. These are the guidelines, now get to work. The University has put off reorganization for a few years, so there's no time to waste. Remember not to count on the Legislature for any extra funding, but adjust all plans accordingly after the elections next week.

Reorganization is one of the most important things to happen to academics at the University. It will change the face of K-State. It's time students, faculty and staff members got involved in the process and came up with concrete proposals. Heck, we can't do any worse.

One last thing, keep in mind that proposal should be submitted in the following manner. Verbal proposals should be bounced around first. Written proposals come in at least four consecutive forms: a discussion draft, a working draft, a preliminary draft and a "we think this might work" draft. Submit as many proposals as possible at press conferences.

EDITORIALS

Students should learn facts of reorganization

Reorganization is coming to a head.

University administrators publicly issued the first written reorganization draft proposal at a press conference Wednesday amidst protests and demonstrations. The draft outlined possible University-wide eliminations and mergers.

Wednesday's protests proved how much a quality education at K-State means to many students and faculty. The emotional show of support could not have gone unnoticed by administrators.

This is a crucial time for K-State. Reorganization is not a question of if, it is a question of who, what, when, where and how. As such, we must all go beyond protests and demonstrations — which have their role and place — and become informed about reorganization.

Rumors about possible mergers and eliminations will not only continue, they will multiply.

It is imperative that students and faculty educate themselves about reorganization. Even though reorganization has been a secretive process until very recently, we must use the avenues of information available to us to understand the processes involved and to lobby to protect the viability of our University. Contact your administrators, new student representatives, deans and respective college student councils.

If, as students and faculty, we want to have a voice in reorganization we must use the current framework available to us. There is a time and place for demonstrations and protests — Wednesday was one such time. However, it will take an informed, organized voice to be heard above the din of reorganization.

It is imperative that solutions accompany complaints.

LETTERS

Irony in crisis

Editor,

Anyone at K-State who thinks the mission of a university is to educate and inspire young people is bound to be seriously disillusioned by now.

The mission of a modern university such as K-State adds up to administrators protecting their pet budgets and student government leaders pushing their pet projects at all costs, while axing "redundant programs" (whole colleges?) into non-existence. As the old saying goes, the strong do what they will, the weak suffer what they must.

The budget problem is serious, don't get us wrong. The problem of waste exists — here and there — all over the University. The blunt eradication of two colleges is a cowardly "solution." The cure for a disease is found through solving the causes. Where is the courage to demand equitable sacrifices at every level of the University, starting at the top? What is next? Curbing book vandalism by banning books?

The irony is tremendous. Thousands of dollars are being spent for retreats, memorandums and many fine-sounding phrases about diversity, but the salary funds are lacking for faculty positions mostly staffed by women. Now a whole college mostly staffed by women is on the chopping block.

We are regular users of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex and think it is a tremendous facility. In fact, we may use it more than the average student. The expansion of the Rec Complex, considered by itself, is a fine idea. But when looking at the whole picture, the proposal must be considered more carefully. Should the Rec Complex be expanded at the same time two colleges are being phased out of existence?

The University should continue its commitment to the physical health and fitness of students, but what about the commitment to scholarship and learning? The old Farrell Library is somebody else's problem, something somebody else should pay for. Cowabunga, dude. Nobody uses the library anyway, right?

This University was founded in 1863 by the Morrill Act during the administration of Abraham Lincoln. Launching a system of land-grant colleges was one of Lincoln's many causes.

Lincoln was someone who valued physical fitness and strength. More than that, he valued the reading of good books. Even more than that, he valued the quality of leadership — by example — that inspired others to test their own limits and preconceived ideas. Most of all, he valued justice and having the courage of his convictions. What do you think he would be thinking if he saw the goings on at K-State this week?

Steve Huenneke
graduate student in economics
Tony Barilla
graduate student in economics

Alternatives needed

Editor,

As an advocate of protest and civil disobedience, I find myself impressed with the actions taken by the students and faculties of the colleges of Human Ecology and of Architecture and Design. They organized quickly and presented persuasive and effective campaigns. As a K-State student, however, I find myself somewhat bothered by the precedent they are setting.

K-State has been invaded by the ever-growing NIMBY forces. They are the people who call for social reforms such as drug rehabilitation centers and new prisons — "But Not In My Backyard." Helping the world is an excellent cause as long as it does not affect them.

Only a few weeks ago, Faculty Senate agreed with K-State President Jon Wefald about the need for University reorganization. Now as proposals for this emerge, however, so do the NIMBYs with reasons why they should be left alone. The question becomes, then, who should be affected?

Each college and department at K-State can point to examples to validate and reinforce their existence. No area of study here is inherently bad. Therefore, we need to recognize and accept that any reorganization effort will hurt in some way. To apply a cliché, "Nobody ever said it was going to be easy."

I am not condemning the acts of the students involved in the protest. It is nice to see that they are willing to stand up for their beliefs. And perhaps they are correct in feeling that other alternatives should be explored. I do not know enough about their colleges to pass judgment in this respect. However, considering the fact that the proposal was dropped before the protest took place, dropped because of the threat of the protest, I wonder if we will ever be able to complete the reorganization process. The speech department could threaten to debate Wefald until he drops, anthropology could charge Anderson Hall armed with spears carved from bone, and all that would result in the long run would be paralysis of the University.

"Hell no, we won't go!" chanted the protesters. "Hell no, we won't go!" chant business and education next. Hell, nobody wants to go. The fact is, though, something must be done. Someone has to go. It will hurt, but to apply a cliché once again, grin and bear it.

Jason Brown
senior in speech and political science

Acts not condoned

Editor,

On behalf of the College of Architecture and Design, I wish to apologize to the University for the childish activities of a select few. The defacing of University property is not supported nor encouraged by the majority of this college. While we do feel the University needs to be aware of the threat to our college, which is among the top 5 schools of architecture and design in the nation, we do not feel these are appropriate or acceptable measures. This should not reflect upon a college of this magnitude.

Vanya Lambert
senior in architecture

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schneider
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Freese, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hatjimotheidis, Elvyn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilda, Paul Noel, Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seabourn, Kevin Zwink
COLUMNISTS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
REVIEWERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayne, Mike Welchman, J. Kyle Wyatt
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
EDITORIAL BOARD	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Freese, Eric Henry, Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venso

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR-SHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allyson Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Postney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Connie Fullerson
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Carla Jones
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
OFFICE STAFF	Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christi South
CARRIERS	Joe Cook, Minda Dowdy, John Fullerson, Norm LaCombe, James Seymour

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, K-State Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

To charge by VISA or MasterCard, call (913) 532-6555

Send orders and address changes to Student Publications, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Student protest criticized by administrator

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

Wednesday's demonstration confirms there is no complacency among students and faculty members when it comes to defending something they believe to be of substantial importance, said Provost James Coffman.

The protest by students and faculty members of the College of Architecture and Design and the College of Human Ecology concerning proposals for reorganization also indicates the presence of misinformation, he said.

"We let too much discussion get started without enough information," Coffman said. "The central administration needs to take responsibility for that in large measure. We clearly made a mistake, and that's unfortunate, and we just need to acknowledge it."

The first public draft for reorganization was released about two weeks ahead of schedule at a press conference Wednesday.

Coffman said administrators decided to release the plan, even though it had rough edges, when they realized the public had gone too long without formal information.

The next step in the reorganization process is to allow for input and criticism from students, faculty and alumni, he said.

"It is important for the students to devise methodologies for organized input," Coffman said. "A demonstration is fine, and it serves a purpose, but you can't really exchange views and information at a demonstration. I think if we all keep our feet on the ground and debate this in an orderly way, we can really help the University."

Coffman said discussions must be approached from the logical, rational standpoint of weighing pros, cons and alternatives.

"Don't just come up with 'no,' come up with alternatives that get at the problem, which is not enough money," Coffman said.

Programs were selected for reorganization based on which ones were the most critical for K-State to be competitive among land grant universities during the next 25 years, Coffman said.

"We have a number of nationally known programs," he said. "It becomes a matter of very hard choices.

You make those choices, in part, based on what programs must be strong over the long pull in terms of being a university and more specifically a land grant university.

"Recognizing every program we have enriches us, and every time we diminish a program we lose something of value. When you're forced into asking those hard questions, you then have to make choices," Coffman said.

Many students are concerned about the quality and reputation of degrees received in majors slated for reorganization.

While this is a valid concern, it can not become the focus of reorganization, Coffman said. Under this argument, change at the University would never take place.

"If I was a student in one of these programs under discussion, I would have the exact same concerns, and I would want someone to make legitimate and effective efforts to attend to that," Coffman said.

Programs to be phased out will be looked at on an individual basis and temporary faculty will be added as needed, Coffman said.

K-State enters the reorganization process $30 million behind in funding compared to university peers.

"This crystallizes a marginal situation into a crisis," Coffman said. "First thing you know, the quality of education will be severely impacted."

Departments are finding it more

See COFFMAN, Page 8A

ALCO

$5⁶⁹

ENJOY THE GREAT TASTE OF COCA-COLA CLASSIC
Choose from Coca-Cola Classic, Diet Coke, Caffeine Free Diet Coke and Sprite. Stock up now and save.
Daily 9-9 3007 Anderson Ave. Sunday 11-6

SCHLIEBE WORKOUT CENTERS

PRESENT

THE ULTIMATE CHALLENGE

COME AND WATCH OR PARTICIPATE IN A ONE HOUR WORKOUT AT BUSHWACKER'S LED BY A SCHLIEBE INSTRUCTOR

PRELIMINARIES:

THURSDAY, NOV 1 8:00
FRIDAY, NOV 2 8:00
THURSDAY, NOV 8 8:00
FRIDAY, NOV 9 8:00

FINALS: NOVEMBER 15, 8:00

1ST PLACE:

$300 CASH AND ONE YEAR MEMBERSHIP TO SCHLIEBE, PLUS A TRIP TO LAS VEGAS FOR TWO.

2ND PLACE:

$200 CASH AND 6 MONTHS MEMBERSHIP TO SCHLIEBE

3RD PLACE:

$100 CASH AND 3 MONTHS MEMBERSHIP TO SCHLIEBE

OTHER AWARDS WILL BE PRESENTED PLUS DRAWING FOR FREE MERCHANDISE FOR THE AUDIENCE.

$6 ENTRY FEE

(Includes a one month membership to Schliebe and a T-Shirt!)

CALL TODAY!!! 776-1750

Travel Unlimited, Inc.

STUDIO32

AGGIE
SKI &
SPORT

Lose 25-30 pounds
before Christmas Break!

Guaranteed "Complete"
Nutritional Program
w/ earning potential
Call Cathy 776-0629
after 6:30 & weekends

On the Wild Side
New Shipment
Mexican & Southwestern Beads

Bahja shirts Available
1128 Moro
Mon-Fri 11-7 Sat. 11-6 Sun 12-4

Thursday

99¢ Pitchers
99¢ Wells

Body by Schliebe
"Survival of the Fittest"
Contest
8 p.m.

LOWMAN'S

IN - AGGIEVILLE

Manhattan's Quality
Men's Store.

20% off

fall suits • sweaters • coats sportcoats • jackets
Thursday-Sunday

Holiday Open House

this Sunday 1-5 p.m.

free refreshments

... where quality never goes out of style.

1215 Moro

776-7304

MON-SAT. 10-6 • THURS. 'til 8 • SUN. 1-5

Clyde's

HOMEcoming BUFFET

Beat the rush and eliminate the waiting with these delicious buffet dinners.

Prime Rib
Cordon Bleu
Baked Ham

Plus MORE! MORE! MORE!
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$12.95

Don't forget to make your reservations now for Christmas parties. It's not too late-bookings available.

2304 Stagg Hill Rd.

537-8440

GOLD RING SALE

SAVE UP TO $100!

Order your college ring NOW. JOSTENS

Wednesday, October 31 to Friday, November 2
9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day
Lower level of the K-State Union Bookstore

$20 Deposit required

K-State Union
Bookstore

Trying to hide your beautiful hair?

It's hats off at

HAIR EXPERTS

1323 Anderson Avenue • Manhattan, KS 66502

Today's perms are formulated to help you achieve the look you want. Call now, for a free consultation.

776-4455

SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE

This coupon is good for any regularly priced product or services.

HAIR EXPERTS
DESIGN TEAM
1323 Anderson Ave. • 776-4455

$5 off

This coupon cannot be used in connection with any other discount or offer. This coupon must be used before 11 22 90

COUPON

SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE

PROTEST

Edgar Chambers, associate professor of foods and nutrition, speaks to a crowd of more than 2,000 gathered to protest reorganization in front of Anderson Hall Wednesday.

Students rally against reorganization

"Hell no, we won't go."

This phrase was the theme and battle cry of more than 2,000 people at the reorganization protest Wednesday.

The rally was sponsored by the colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology.

Events got underway about 9 a.m. Wednesday when students and faculty members prevented custodial workers from washing anti-reorganization chalk drawings and slogans off the pavement near Seaton Hall.

Police were called to the scene shortly before 9 a.m. when the 60 protesters refused to move. By 9:30 a.m., there were about 300 people on the plaza between the K-State Union and Seaton protesting reorganization.

The crowd started moving toward Justin Hall at 9:45 a.m. to meet with the protesters from the College of Human Ecology.

Edgar Chambers, associate professor of foods and nutrition, was the first to speak.

"Clearly, we have not won, but the devil blinked," Chambers said.

No one still has a college, just a college name, he said.

More than 2,000 people then marched from Justin to Anderson Hall. They circled Anderson and chanted "Hell no, we won't go," and "Hell yes, Wefald goes."

Barbara Stowe, dean of the College of Human Ecology, called the turnout a wonderful show of support.

"This kind of outpouring tells us that the state of Kansas needs a College of Human Ecology," Stowe said. "This tells us that the people in this state want graduates with educational skills they gain from programs in this college."

Stowe said the College of Human Ecology may appear to be an odd collection of specializations from the outside. But the concerns and interests of people do not occur along academic lines, they are complex issues that require interdisciplinary study and understanding, she said.

Students and faculty members in both colleges said plans by administrators to leave the colleges intact but cut programs would still hurt students as well as the colleges.

"It's not right to give us a college with threats of destroyed or dissolved departments," said Jeff Mahaney, senior in architecture. "Not one department can be destroyed that it won't hurt the whole."

Groups of demonstrators broke off to confront President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman when they were spotted by members in the crowd.

Coffman was approached while he getting into his car. Students shouted questions to him, but Coffman said he was unable to stay to answer the questions. He told the students he had cancelled plans to leave town so that he could attend the forum at noon today in front of the Union.

"The purpose of a rough draft proposal is to allow students and faculty to find other solutions or offer alternatives," Coffman said.

Coffman told students they were right to be concerned and upset. However, this was a rough draft proposal.

"The upside of this is the large number of people who come to K-State that care what they are doing," he said.

Other demonstrators followed President Jon Wefald from Anderson to All Faiths Chapel, where he briefly answered questions from two protesting students. He then briskly walked to his house, followed by several students who gathered on his front lawn.

Others marched to Wefald's backyard after the seminar. The crowd called for Wefald to speak, but he did not come out.

The crowd then marched to McCain Auditorium and circled the building in single file until the Landon Lecture began.

President Wefald and Provost James Coffman walked to McCain from the President's house where they briefly talked to the crowd.

"We do hear you, and we are listening," Wefald said.

Coffman said he would like to see representatives from each college in order to communicate their needs more efficiently.

"We want to listen," he said, "nothing is set in concrete."

ABOVE: University Provost James Coffman and President Jon Wefald try to convince students that their colleges will not be cut as part of the University's reorganization plan Wednesday afternoon outside McCain Auditorium. RIGHT: President Wefald, center, walks to his home to attend a luncheon with guests from Japan as about 700 students follow him there Wednesday. BELOW: Patricia Villasi, graduate in interior design, asks President Wefald why he wants to cut human ecology and architecture and design programs.

Photos By Mike Venso and Gary Lytle

Story By Paul Noel and Shannon Meyers

BALLOON BOUTIQUE

Let us custom make the perfect balloon creation for any occasion.

Choose from baskets and mugs with candy, stuffed animals, potpourri, popcorn, Classy Wrap gift in a balloon, and much, much more!

And don't forget the game this weekend. Remember Homecoming with K-State balloons from Balloon Boutique.

401 N. 3rd
We Deliver

539-0106
M-F 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m.
Sat. 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Project 90's

Business For All

Dress for Success

Date: Sunday, Nov. 4, 1990
Time: 2-4 p.m.

Place: Union Little Theatre
Admission: $1

Workshops Following

PIZZA

2-10 in. Pizzas
2 Pepsi
$8.00

1127 Moro

At Your Convenience
We Again DELIVER

539-3830

Also: Dine in & Carryout

2-12 in. Pizzas
2 Pepsi
2 Toppings
$9.99

Deans' response to reorganization plan mostly negative, some say cuts harmful

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

Most of the college deans said Provost James Coffman's draft proposal for reorganization would have negative effects on their colleges.

Lane Marshall, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, said he was not asked for input before the proposal was drafted and released Wednesday morning.

The college is in danger of losing its accreditation under the proposal, he said, and at least two departments would definitely lose their accreditation.

Marshall said the departments of Architecture, Interior Architecture, Landscape Architecture and Regional and Community Planning risked losing accreditation.

Under the plan, 15 to 20 faculty positions would also be eliminated, he said.

"There's no question that our best faculty are going to go," he said.

"We're doing what we can to let people know we're in jeopardy."

In response, students and faculty will participate in a rally at noon today between the K-State Union and Seaton Hall to discuss the proposal with Coffman.

The college plans to ask a number of professional architects who typically hire K-State graduates to write letters supporting the college's efforts to retain its programs, he said. The college is also asking parents and alumni for support.

In contrast, the College of Education is not facing any significant changes under Coffman's proposal.

"It's on line with where it ought to be. I think the University recognized that," interim dean Michael Holen said. "We'll continue to be involved in discussions. This is still a draft. We feel satisfied with the basic proposal."

Virginia Moxley, associate dean for academic affairs for the College of Human Ecology, said students and faculty of the college met Wednesday night to discuss what questions will be asked of Coffman at the rally today.

One of the major concerns, she said, is that the college and many of its curriculums would lose accreditation with the American Home Economics Association.

She said that she questions the proposals that call for the elimination or transfer of programs because the College of Human Ecology would not be comprehensive without these programs.

The College of Arts and Sciences will also be affected negatively, said interim dean Marvin Kaiser.

"The College of Arts and Sciences must be the central college of this University if it is to be a liberal arts-based university," he said.

Kaiser said the college has no intention of allowing the elimination of the speech pathology and audiology programs.

"Our plan is not to eliminate that program, but to look at it carefully and see if there are ways to decrease costs and increase revenue for the program while maintaining its quality."

"Our intention is to maintain all of the college's quality programs," he said.

Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture, said he is concerned about the proposed cut of the park-resource management program and the about 100 students enrolled in it. There is a great demand for graduates in this discipline, he said.

"I expect a response from the students," he said.

Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering, and David Donnelly, interim dean of the College of Business Administration, could not be reached for comment.

Minnesota GOP gets governor candidate

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Less than a week before the election, Minnesota Republicans have a new gubernatorial candidate, but the lieutenant governor spot on the GOP ticket remained in doubt Wednesday.

The secretary of state delayed the printing of supplemental ballots to reflect John Gruneth's withdrawal from the gubernatorial race until after his running mate makes her case in court for staying on the ballot.

"There's no precedent for any of the decisions I've made," Secretary of State Joan Groves said.

Gruneth, the GOP nominee, dropped out of the race Sunday amid allegations he tried to get teen-age girls to swim nude with him nine years ago and had a mistress during both of his marriages.

Arne Carlson, the runner up in the GOP primary who later mounted a write-in campaign, was chosen by the state Republican Party's executive committee to take Gruneth's place on the ballot.

The 14-member committee later decided the party wasn't empowered to fill the vacancy, but Groves said state law required Carlson, as the GOP primary runner-up, to become the nominee. He faces the Democratic incumbent, Rudy Perpich.

Because the governor and lieutenant governor run as a team in Minnesota, Groves also decided that Joannell Dyrstad, Carlson's write-in running mate, should replace Gruneth's running mate, Sharon Clark, on the ballot, even though Clark didn't withdraw.

McCall's Shoes

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS Sale

3400 + PAIRS STILL TO BE LIQUIDATED!

PRICES WILL BE CUT UNTIL ALL ARE GONE!

McCall's Shoes

313 POYNTZ DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

Wendy's

SUPER VALUE MENU

Jr. Bacon Cheeseburger
Biggie Fries
Biggie Drink
16 oz. Frosty Dairy Dessert
8 oz. Chili
Garden Salad
Baked Potato w/sour cream

99¢ EACH

The best hamburgers and a whole lot more.

Both Manhattan locations:
3006 Anderson 421 North Third

WE CAN MAKE YOUR JOB EASIER!
IT'S A PROVEN FACT!

Taking notes is one thing. Pulling a mental coup, now that takes something extra. You've got to lay the groundwork. Do the legwork. Follow through. Piece of cake, right? Assuming you've got the tools. A PC from Zenith Data Systems, of course! Our full line of PCs are available at the lowest price ever, which makes it more affordable than ever to own your own computer!

Come see what Zenith Data Systems has to offer you at the price that fits your budget! For more information, stop by the computer area on the upper level of the K-STATE UNION BOOKSTORE, or call 532-6583.

We also offer local installation and service through our authorized service center:

K-State Union Bookstore

MIDWEST APPLIANCE
624 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
776-6650

ZENITH data systems
Group Bull

KSU Faculty and Staff

are invited to attend one of two

Planned Gift/Estate Planning Seminars

2 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 13
and repeated at
2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 14
K-State Union Little Theater

Through the fascinating use of planned gifts, individuals are able to minimize taxes, increase their estates and, in some circumstances, actually increase their current income.

This seminar will describe the many financial instruments available for gifts to K-State such as charitable lead trusts, unitrusts, and gift annuities.

Presented by Robert Sandberg, Gift Planning Consultant and former Vice President for the University of Nebraska Foundation and Mark Moore, Vice President for Capital Campaigns/Planned Gifts at the KSU Foundation

KSU Student Foundation

All KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend.
Admission is free.

Sponsored by the KSU Foundation and KSU Student Foundation

Friend and Effective Advocate for K-State

Katha Hurt is a true friend of K-State. Katha has a 100% voting record for Kansas State University at the legislature.

Katha worked for increases in faculty salaries and operating expenses for K-State, and they passed.

Katha voted against Mike Hayden's highway plan because it took too much money away from higher education in this state.

Let's re-elect a friend and effective advocate for K-State.

Re-elect Katha Hurt.

RE-ELECT

Katha Hurt
KANSAS HOUSE

Paid by Katha Hurt Campaign, Dave Vruwink, Treasurer.

Dole

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A
less than 2 percent of their income to charitable organizations. Dole also said that she has no political plans for the future but that she has learned in her work to never say never.

After Dole's speech, some students from the College of Human Ecology rolled out a banner that read, "Hell no, we won't go."

A student asked Dole what the colleges of human ecology and architecture can do about college funds in Kansas being cut.

Dole responded that the present situation's solution is not just a matter of funding but also one of innovative methods of solution. Only 6 percent of funding for education comes from the federal government, Dole said.

Charles Reagan, chairman of the lecture series, said Dole made no comments regarding the students' actions after the lecture. He said he felt there was a better way for students to make their point.

"Elizabeth Dole had nothing to do with it. It was no big deal," Reagan said.

Draft

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A
of Arts and Sciences stands to gain $1.4 million. The College of Engineering is slated to receive $400,000. Also proposed is an allocation of $100,000 to the College of Business Administration. Another $100,000 each will be allocated to the library and computing services.

Of the proposed $749,000 reallocated from central administration budgets, it is recommended that $428,000 be reassigned to improve services provided through the two vice-presidential areas. The remaining $286,000 is scheduled to support specific strategic-planning areas.

Wefald stressed that this draft is only a proposal, one which will include feedback from students and faculty.

"I want to underscore that this is only a rough draft," he said. "The entire problem is not going to be overcome by some proposal we come up with here."

Wefald said faculty and student feedback and meetings must and will be a part of the proposal process. He also said 100 out of 105 faculty senators voted in support of reorganization in a meeting earlier this year.

Coffman

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5A
difficult to operate with current resources, the library situation could get worse and general maintenance is in danger, he said.

Before a final plan for reorganization is approved, the majority of the academic community must agree it makes sense, Coffman said.

Coffman and President Jon Wefald will meet with students at noon today in front of Seaton Hall to discuss the reorganization process.

Delay

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A
"It's the sort of thing you don't know how long it will be down," said Jay Alloway, operating systems specialist for the University computing and telecommunications department. "I thought it would be up by now. It just keeps puzzling us."

The system went down at 7:20 p.m. and was not back up at press-time. At 11:30 p.m., Alloway said a repairman was traveling to Topeka to pick up a part for the ailing system, and he said he hoped it would take care of the problem.

CAN YOU DUNK?

Alpha Kappa Psi & United Way
Present

1st Annual Slam Dunk Contest
Ahearn Fieldhouse
Sun., Nov. 11, starting at 11 a.m.

Sign up in Union is 9:30-4:30,
Thurs., Nov. 1 & Fri., Nov. 2

$10 entry fee includes a T-shirt
Open to all KSU students, faculty and staff (men & women).
4 different height groups and goal heights for men.
3 different height groups and goal heights for women.

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS:

1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

INTRODUCING THE SUNGLASSES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

JT THREDS

A NEW CONCEPT IN EYEWEAR

- LIGHTWEIGHT
- LIFETIME WARRANTY
- AFFORDABLE

Drs. Price, Young, & Odle, P.A.
and Associates, Optometrists
3012 Anderson,
Manhattan, KS
913-537-1118

THE BEST IN SIGHT

We've got Party Subs!

4 ft. Sub (serves 12-16)	$23
4 ft. Kitchen Sub (12-16)	$29.50
6 ft. Sub (18-24)	$36
6 ft. Kitchen Sub (18-24)	$45
Party Sub (4-6)	$7.79
Party Sink (4-6)	$9.79

We also have meat & cheese trays and fresh donuts daily at 1443 Anderson.

Anderson Shop
M-Sat. 7 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
Sun. 7 a.m.-8 p.m.
Anderson 1443
537-2426

Seth Childs Shop
M-Sat. 11 a.m.-8 p.m.
Closed Sunday
211 S. Seth Childs
537-2411

BLUE RIVER PUB

THURS.

$2 pitchers

FRI. & SAT.

Submytion

Rock-n-roll

$1 Kamis

BAY STREET
AND
THE PIT

TONIGHT!

.99
PITCHERS

.75
LONGNECKS

.50
WELLS

.25
KAMIS

Men's Haircut & Style reg. $12 now $9
Women's Haircut & Style

reg. $15 now $12
1/2 off Perms

(excluding designer perms.)

1/2 off Color

Ask for:
Rita
April
Jennifer

KMS
Redken
Nu Skin

Offer expires
11/16/90

LORDS 'N LADYS
Hair Design & Skin Care Studio
218 S. 4th • 776-5651

K-STATE DAY SCHEDULE

K-State Union:

- Spirit Banners Hung 8-9a.m.
- Ambassador Elections 9-4p.m.

(You need your Student I.D. or fee card to vote)

Weber Hall Arena:

- Body Building Competition 6:30-8p.m.
- Yell like Hell Competition 8:15-10p.m.

Blue Key would like to extend an invitation to the entire student body to come and enjoy the festivities.

I LIKE THE STATE
IN

Blue Key
National Home Activities

Tune in to 94.5fm
for Homecoming
Highlights.

Brittnay Ridge Estates Open House

Come this weekend! You may win two FREE tickets to New Orleans!
courtesy of Travel Unlimited, 776-3131

- Sat. & Sun., Nov. 3 & 4, 11 a.m.-5 p.m.
- Showcasing Units Available for Second Semester.
- FREE Rib Dinners at Smokey J's BBQ will be given away.
- Drawing for New Orleans tickets Sunday at 5 p.m.

4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, all appliances (including washer, dryer & microwave), 2 gazebos with hot tub, recreation area, transportation to campus, pre-wired for computer, phone, cable, monthly rent as low as $195.

776-5599

Located in northwest Manhattan
Candlewood Drive

DAN KEE COMPANY
DWC REAL ESTATE
2601 Anderson Manhattan, KS 66507
913/776-5599 Fax 913/776-5805

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Berkley sisters making dual impact

Volleyball players seeing each other grow on floor

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

For sisters Betsy and Melissa Berkley, sharing the college experience has left no room for sibling rivalry, on or off the volleyball court.

Betsy, co-captain of the Wildcat squad this season, says the opportunity to play with little sister Melissa has turned out for the best.

"There's not many pairs of sisters or brothers that get share the same thing, especially at the college level," Betsy said. "We live in the same place and get to do everything together. I think that's really unique."

"My first thoughts about Melissa coming up was that it was her decision, she can do whatever she wants. Then she came up here, and it has been so much fun. If she would have went to a different school, it would have completely torn us apart. She would have become just an acquaintance almost."

Freshman outside hitter Melissa has followed in her sister's footsteps since high school. Both were three-time all-league choices and played on the same Junior Olympic squad, but Melissa sees her sister as a role model rather than a rival.

"It was more of a learning process (playing with Betsy), and she's helped me a lot," Melissa said. "It's a lot better than playing across the net from each other."

Betsy, an honorable mention all-Big Eight player as a sophomore last year, decided on K-State after being looked at by several conference schools and preparing to attend Kansas.

"I had been planning on going to KU, and all of a sudden K-State offered," Betsy said. "My dad was for K-State, and the other half of the family was for KU. Melissa was all KU, and I had always liked K-State."

For freshman Melissa, the choice of college was practically predetermined.

"I kind of wanted to go out of state, but the first thing (I was told) was I wasn't going out of state, and the second was 'I really don't want you at KU,'" Melissa said. "When I went on my recruiting trips, there was hardly a crowd and almost no crowd participation at all (at the matches). But here, the stands are full and everybody is usually cheering."

K-State volleyball players — and sisters — Betsy and Melissa Berkley are enjoying life together on the floor for Coach Scott Nelson's team.

Having the two at K-State has been especially enjoyable for their parents, Mark and Jane.

"They love it," Betsy said. "Our family wanted us together, and they come up for every home game."

They're planning on going to all of them except for the Oklahoma matches."

"Even if they don't go, they're like, 'Call when you get home,'" Melissa said.

Apart from their volleyball ties, the pair also are members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority.

"It's good to have somebody always with you. We're in the same

■ See SISTERS, Page 2B

Williams removed from basketball team

By The Collegian Staff

Keary Williams, one of five newcomers expected to fill K-State's front-line vacancies, was dismissed from the Wildcat basketball team Wednesday.

Coach Dana Altman said Williams, a transfer from Cloud County Community College, will not play for the 'Cats because of failure to meet the program's academic standards.

"We monitor all our players very closely, and Keary just did not meet the standards that we have set," Altman said. "It is unfortunate because his experience at the junior-college level could have really helped us."

Williams, a 6-foot-9 forward, averaged 11 points and 10 rebounds last season at Cloud County, helping the team to a 26-6 record. He reportedly missed K-State's Midnight Madness practice Oct. 15 to serve an academic suspension.

■ More sports, Page 2A

"Keary was someone who could have helped, just how much we won't know," Altman said. "It was hard to tell what role he would have played."

"As far as our basketball team is concerned, this is a permanent situation."

Altman said Williams is still enrolled in classes.

Women rugby players enjoy sport

By Candace Plett
Collegian Reporter

Although rugby players say it is hard to get community support, that doesn't dim their enthusiasm for the game.

"It's very challenging. You never completely master the sport," said LaDonna Grenz, graduate student in microbiology and president of the women's rugby club.

The K-State women's team was started in the late 1970s, but it died after a successful season. The team came back to life a year and a half ago. Currently, the roster has 25 players.

A men's team has existed for more than 20 years and has about 60 members.

"Rugby is not growing in popularity as fast as soccer," Grenz said. "It is more popular on the coasts than it is in the Midwest. Kansas was about the last state to get into rugby. On this team, we're really pioneers."

Grenz describes rugby as a cross between soccer and football.

"You can't pass the ball forward, but you can kick it forward," she said. "You can pass it backwards while rushing forward, or you can run with it. I'm sure it's very funny to watch."

She added that soccer and rugby have common roots — both were developed in England.

"American football was taken from rugby," Grenz said.

Uniforms consist of jerseys, shorts and cleats — no padded football-type gear. Grenz said the most frequent injuries are to the ankles and knees, injuries also common to other running and contact sports.

She described rugby as a dynamic game that features almost continuous play. Standard games have 20- to 40-minute halves, depending on the tournament schedule, with a 5-minute halftime.

The team travels almost every weekend — primarily to games out-of-state — and practices three times a week.

"Intercollegiate sports take so much time. I was looking for a sport that an individual can fit into where you don't have to belong to something like with intramurals," said Coquette Collins, senior in information systems.

Collins learned about the opportunity to play when the team was doing Valentine's Day balloon sales as a fund-raiser. She has been playing for two semesters.

"I'd seen it maybe twice. I know some people in England who play it," she said. "It's a good way to keep in shape, meet people and travel. The team members do a lot of stuff together."

She said the team is always recruiting more members.

"On the team, there are all kinds of athletes. There's a position for anyone," she said.

Betsy Greene, graduate student in equine exercise physiology, is a team rookie, but she has experience in sports that require strength and endurance.

"I played field hockey in high school and college, and that gets pretty violent. At least this way the players don't have sticks," she said.

She said that physical build shouldn't be a consideration in joining the team because some of the smallest players also are the best.

The K-State women sponsor a tournament Saturday at Gorman Park. Teams from Iowa State, Grinnell College, Nebraska and Kansas City will attend. The games will be free to the public, starting at about 10 a.m.

Weather won't be a factor.

Holiday Fashion Open House
Sunday, November 4, 1990
1:00 to 5:00 p.m.

BALLARD'S
BRENTWOOD
THE LOFT

LOWMAN'S
UNDERCOVER WOODY'S

AGGIEVILLE
SINCE 1888

20% Storewide Discount
Regular Priced Merchandise
Valid Only On November 4th

Hunam Restaurant & Lounge
We Deliver • We Deliver • We Deliver •
1304 Westloop 539-8888 or 539-0888

Home Game Buffet
All-You-Can-Eat
$7.45
11 a.m.-9 p.m.

Joyce's Hair Tamers
WARM & GENTLE PERM....$43
regular $48
QUANTUM PERM.....$35
regular $38
BIO-LAGE.....$40
regular $50
MEN'S PERMS.....$30
All perms include cut & style
Haircuts
Gals $12 Guys $8.50 Kids $6.50
All cuts include shampoo & style
2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Call: 539-TAME

JUNGLE TALK
You'll get better results from sunscreen if you apply it half an hour before going out in the sun.
Some new hairdryers are lighter, high in wattage, and have built-in devices to protect against electric shock.
You'll like the easy-care hair fashions our stylists create.

OUR SPECIALTY CHEESES ARE BACK IN STOCK!

Medium Aged Yellow Cheddar
by the full or half block
$2.47/lb.—N.D.

And . . .
Swedish Fontina—$4.65/lb.
14 oz. mini Brie w/herbs—$5.60
Costswald—$5.06/lb.
English Cheshire—$4.33/lb.
Cracked Pepper Brie—$8.72/lb. or $15.44/ 2 lb. wheel
English Derby Sage—$7.19/lb.

And check out our many other varieties in stock
811 Colorado People's Grocery Co-Op 539-4811

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND
THRIFTY THURSDAY
PYRAMID PIZZA rolls back the prices
Only $3.49 for a small pizza (one topping)
(additional toppings are 75¢ each)

COUPON
"THRIFTY THURSDAY"
$3.49 for a Small One-topping Pizza
Good Every Thursday
"We Pile It On!"

Carryout/Dine In Only
539-4888
12th & Moro
Aggieville, USA

PYRAMID PIZZA

the BARNBURNERS

HOMECOMING AT OPERA WAREHOUSE
410 Poyntz
537-8646

ADMISSION $3
Doors open at 8 p.m.

Saturday, November 3rd

Buc skipper NL's best

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Jim Leyland, who turned the Pittsburgh Pirates into contenders and guided them through the pressure of a pennant race, was selected the National League manager of the year on Wednesday.

Leyland took a team that went 74-88 and was fifth in the NL East in 1989 and molded it into a division champion at 95-67. The Pirates overcame the New York Mets and all the odds in the stretch to finish with the second-best record in baseball.

The Pirates had Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla for offense, but did not have a set starting rotation or a relief ace. Leyland juggled his staff and wound up with 18 different pitchers getting victories.

Leyland got 17 of the 24 first-place votes and finished with 99 points. Lou Piniella, who led Cincinnati to the World Series championship in his first season with the Reds, got three first-place votes and was second with 49 points.

Montreal's Buck Rodgers also got three first-place votes and was tied for third with 32 points with Los Angeles' Tom Lasorda, who got the other first-place vote. San Francisco's Roger Craig and New York's Bud Harrelson tied for fourth with two points each.

No manager was named on all 24 ballots. Two members of the Baseball Writers Association of America in each NL city vote. Voting was completed before the start of the playoffs.

Jeff Torborg of the Chicago White Sox was selected the American League manager of the year on Tuesday.

Leyland, 45, won in his fifth season with Pittsburgh. He was a career minor-league man before that, playing seven seasons as a catcher in the Detroit organization.

Sisters

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1B

sorority. We do everything together," Betsy said. "I was the only one in my sorority (playing volleyball), and you miss out on a lot, but it's better to miss out with someone else than it is by yourself. Volleyball is still first, grades are second, social life is third, so sorority life is last in line."

Both sisters stood out in the Tulsa match, with Betsy's 15 kills and Melissa's 14 digs after getting her first start.

"Rhonda (Hughes) had mono, so that's how I got my start. I felt bad that she was sick, but at the same time I was glad I got the chance," Melissa said. "I still think I could have played better. I was really nervous until the last couple of games."

After getting her first college start the same way, Betsy was glad to see her sister get the chance to prove herself.

"That's good, in a way, that it happened, because that's when you really get to show your stuff," Betsy said. "I got to play nine games before I broke my hand. The reason I got to play was one of the other middle hitters broke her leg. When you get those times, you have to prove yourself because you may not get another."

For That Successful Interview

Borck Brothers has opened doors for many men by providing them with excellent and tasteful clothing to meet the business world today. The Borck Brothers' standard of excellence is an unbendable tradition to be maintained. Get the interview suit you'll be proud to wear next year even after you get the job.

BORCK Brothers
Fine Menswear
1100 Westloop Place (913) 537-8636
Westloop Shopping Center
9:30-5:30 Mon.—Sat. til 8:30 Thurs.

KC says goodbye to Wilson

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Willie Wilson's career with the Kansas City Royals came to a close Wednesday, ending 13 years of headline-making highs and lows that included a World Series championship, a batting title and a drug conviction.

The Royals, as expected, announced that they are not offering the 35-year-old outfielder a contract for next season.

"He has been a tremendous asset to this ballclub for 13 years," said general manager Herk Robinson. "He helped us into two World Series and provided tremendous excitement for the fans of Kansas City. We'll miss him, and we wish him well. He was a great ballplayer."

Wilson, a .290 lifetime hitter who hit .332 to win the 1982 batting title, could not be reached immediately for comment.

The Royals have at least four centerfielder candidates for next year, including Bo Jackson and Brian McRae, who played well when brought up from the minor leagues in August.

"I don't know that he was greatly surprised by our decision," Robinson said. "But Willie took our notification, if you will, as a true professional."

Wilson, who filed for free agency last week, is the third veteran to be cut from the roster recently. The club notified longtime Royals second baseman Frank White, 40, and catcher Bob Boone, 42, earlier that they would not be offered 1991 contracts.

Wilson was supplanted as the every-day centerfielder last season but played in 115 games and hit

.290. He led the Royals in stolen bases with 24.

Wilson said after the season that he did not expect to return to the Royals.

When the Royals called him up as a rookie in 1978, Wilson was widely acknowledged as the fastest man in the major leagues. As the No. 1 running back prospect in the nation, he was heavily recruited out of high school in Summit, N.J., and signed a letter-of-intent with Maryland.

The next season he led the league with 83 stolen bases, then hit his full stride in 1980 and helped thrust the Royals into their first World Series.

He finishes his Royals career with 1,968 hits and 612 stolen bases.

KSU WOMEN'S RUGBY CLUB

You Want Excitement? This Saturday
First Annual
Tiny Tumbleweed Tournament at Gorman Park
(Griffith & Casement Rd.)
Games from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Budweiser

I LIKE THE
STATE
IN

K-STATE HOMECOMING
1990

UNION DAY
SPECIALS

FRIDAY
NOVEMBER 2
AT THE
K-STATE UNION

Bookstore

50% Off 1990/91 K-State Programmers
20% Off all K-State Imprinted Merchandise
From Pens and Pencils to Sweatshirts and Jackets
(Excluding Willie Mugs and Squeeze Bottle Willies)
30% Off Picture, Wall, Engagement and Box Calendars
1990 Homecoming Sweatshirts and T-Shirts on sale!

Copy Center

$.04 Front/Back Photocopies on xerox white, buff, blue, green, yellow or goldenrod. Good only on 8 1/2 x 11 regular copies.
$.035 if ordering over 100 copies.
Does not include handfed copies, enlargements, reductions or on file class handouts.

Blackline/Blue-line Specials

18 x 24 $.50, regularly $.75
24 x 36 $1.25, regularly $1.50

Food Service

Hot Spiced Cider, 8 oz. $.65
Belgian Waffle
With Blueberry and Whipped Topping 50% Off
Spaghetti and Meat Sauce with garlic toast $1.60
Chicken Sandwich
At the grill, 11:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m. $1.95
Blueberry Frozen Yogurt, small $.80
Blueberry Cheese Cake at the Dessert Counter $.90
KSU Frosted Cookies at the Dessert Counter $.60
Caramel Apples $.75 each

Information Counter

Large Box of Popcorn for the price of a small box.
Limit one per person

Union Program Council

$.50 Off Movie, "Days of Thunder" starring Tom Cruise, Friday, November 2 only, 7 p.m. & 9:30 p.m. in the K-State Union Forum Hall.

Recreation

Bowling $.95
Per game, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Get a strike with a purple head pin and win a free game!
Billiards $1.50
Per hour per table
Lunch Special at the Snack Bar
$.50 Hamburgers
$.60 Cheeseburgers

K-State Union
Host to the Campus

RE-ELECT YOUR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Sheila
HOCHHAUSER
REMEMBER WHO YOUR FRIENDS ARE

My opponent says he would support the Governor

- The Governor who eliminated the third year of the Margin of Excellence
- The Governor who refused to give us the enrollment adjustment we deserved and needed
- The Governor who cut an extra $11 million from an already gutted Regents Budget

I SUPPORT THE MARGIN, ENROLLMENT ADJUSTMENTS, AND FULL FUNDING FOR THE REGENTS BUDGET

HOCHHAUSER FOR REPRESENTATIVE
YOUR REPRESENTATIVE WORKING FOR YOU

Paid for by Hochhauser for Representative, Phil Becker, treasurer.

Hostages, diplomats defended by Bush

By The Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — President George Bush declared today "I have had it" with Iraq's treatment of U.S. diplomats and hostages in Kuwait, but said he has no timetable for deciding on a possible military strike.

Later, when asked if the nation was moving closer to war, he said, "I don't think so" and that he still has hopes for a peaceful solution.

But, Bush said, "You don't use pretext when you have force deployed. You just do what's right."

The president, under pressure from Congress to allow more time for economic sanctions against Iraq to work, said the United Nations-led embargo has not been as effective as he had hoped.

The president escalated the administration's anti-Iraq rhetoric but said the harsh comments of the past few days from senior officials should not be interpreted as a sign that he had decided force was the only way to resolve the gulf crisis.

Today, he seemed eager to elaborate on his feelings. He took questions from reporters as he arrived for a campaign stop in suburban Virginia for Republican Rep. Stan Parris, and again as his helicopter landed back on the White House grounds.

"The embassy is being starved," Bush said of the U.S. embassy in Kuwait where a handful of staff members are confined during the Iraqi occupation. "The people out there are not being resupplied. The American flag is flying over the Kuwait embassy and our people inside are being starved by a brutal dictator."

"Do you think I'm concerned about it? You're darn right I am. And what I'm going to do about it — let's just wait and see, because I have had it with that kind of treatment of Americans," Bush said.

He referred to reports from other foreign hostages who had been held with Americans in Kuwait describing grim conditions. "That worries me," the president said.

Bush said he was deeply offended by the suggestion that his heightened rhetoric against Hussein was politically motivated to help Republicans in next Tuesday's elections.

"I don't think that even the most cynical would ever suggest that a president would play politics with the lives of American kids halfway around the world," he said.

He called such suggestions "the ultimate of cynicism and indecency."

The Dancing Bear, played by John Nicholson, celebrates being given a few more hours to live during a rehearsal of "The Arkansaw Bear" Tuesday evening in the Purple Masque Theatre.

Theater play teaches children how to deal with facts of death

By Charlie Gatschet
Collegian Reporter

A dancing bear and a confused child learn how to deal with death at the Purple Masque Theatre this weekend.

The Arkansaw Bear is a children's play directed and produced by Theresa Simpson, a graduate student in speech and theater, as part of her graduate studies.

The play brings together two characters who are looking for the reasons why loved ones die — a little girl whose grandfather is dying and a dancing bear. They learn about the realities of death and discover the answers to a riddled life, Simpson said.

Showtimes are tonight and Friday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Admission for the shows is $2 for adults and $1 for students, children and senior citizens. Tickets are on sale at the McCain Auditorium box office.

Lewis Shelton, associate professor of speech and one of Simpson's advisers, said he is not usually a big fan of children's plays. He sees the Arkansaw Bear, however, as a different type of children's production.

"It's a very theatrical piece," Shelton said. "It's a play that people other than children will understand. It's not a realistic play. It's very fantastic."

Simpson, who received a bachelor's degree from Marymount College in Salina, said she likes doing children's plays.

"When I was an actress, I liked acting in children's shows," Simpson said. "There wasn't much of it here at K-State, so I thought it would be a nice spark for the theater department."

Simpson calls the play's writer, Aurand Harris, one of the foremost playwrights for younger audiences.

While the show is about children, no children are in the cast. Instead, members of the K-State Players and several students giving their first performances at K-State will portray the characters.

"A children's drama doesn't have to mean it has to be done with children," Shelton said.

Graduate students in speech and theater have the choice of doing a project, such as the Arkansaw Bear, or writing a report to get a master's degree. Simpson said she is the only student producing a play this semester.

Homecoming vs. Iowa State

Accessories  Park
ON THE

Cheryl Lewis

708 N. Manhattan Ave., Manhattan, Ks. 66502 tel. (913) 537-0707

2223 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Canadian Club (right next to Hop-n-Skip #2)

Liters 11⁹⁹

Molson Light

12 pk- 4⁹⁹

Coors & Coors Light

Suitcases 9⁹⁹

776-5003

Think Cappuccino

CAPPUCCINO ROYALES

$1.12

(Limit one per customer order, please.

Not valid w/any other discounts.)

Exp. 11-12-90

618 N. Manhattan, Aggieville

7am-Midnight

ESPRESSO
ROYALE
CAFFE

CLASSIC CAFE, CLASSIC COFFEE

PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET

WARNS YOU....
IF YOU ARE PAYING MORE THAN

$2495^{COMPLETE} - OR - $3495^{COMPLETE}
SINGLE VISION BIFOCAL

FOR YOUR EYEGLASSES, INCLUDING FRAME —
YOU ARE OVERPAYING!

- AT PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET YOU GET....
- UNLIMITED SELECTION - YOUR CHOICE OF OVER 1,000 FRAMES ON DISPLAY!
- NO CHARGE FOR SUN OR FASHION TINTED LENSES!
- NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR OVERSIZED OR PLASTIC LENSES!
- HIGHEST QUALITY FRAMES AND LENSES!
- HIGHEST PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS!
- SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

* All normal prescriptions - distance, reading, or flat to 25 and 28mm, round or executive bifocals, in Rx's no higher than (+) or (-) 8.00 diopter sphere, with up to -2.00 cylinder. Adds no higher than (+) $3.00.
Photogrey Extra, Scratch and Ultra-Violet Coat - each $10 additional.

1210 MORO
MANHATTAN, KANSAS
537-1574

NEVER A SALE, ALWAYS THE LOWEST PRICE!

WE HAVE WHAT YOU NEED FOR YOUR

GAME DAY PARTY

Party Balls—$18

Coors Longneck Bottles—$9.99/case

Midori Melon

Liquor was $5.99 now $3.99

1129 Bluemont 537-8219

Political parties watch close races

Republicans, Democrats claim majority

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Somebody will be wrong. That appears to be the only sure thing about Tuesday's state House races.

Both Republicans and Democrats predict their party will have more seats in the 125-member House after the election. And their statements don't appear to be part of the normal biennial election ritual because both sides are confident and specific about numbers.

Republicans now hold 69 seats, having gained two in the past year because of Democratic defections. House Majority Leader Robert Miller, R-Wellington, said he thinks the GOP will retain the majority it has held for all but four years in this century.

"I think we're going to have 72 or 73 seats," Miller said. "No matter how I've cut it, I've been coming up with those figures consistently in the past two weeks."

Democrats now hold 56 seats. In 1988, they gained seven seats, cutting the Republican advantage by half. Democrats have won control of the House only twice since 1900, in 1912 and 1976.

House Minority Leader Marvin Barkis, D-Louisburg, said his party could have 60 seats or more after the election. Sixty-three are needed for a majority.

"I would think our range would be somewhere between 57 and 65,"

Barkis said. "I think we're going to gain enough seats to be right at the door of a majority if it's not there."

All 125 House seats will be filled in the election, but nearly one-fifth of the incumbents — 14 Democrats and 10 Republicans — have no general election challengers.

In addition, Republican Gary Hayzlett of Lakin is unopposed in his bid to succeed retiring Rep. Harold Guldner, R-Syracuse, in the 122nd District in western Kansas.

There are 22 open seats, six of them in districts created when the 1989 Legislature reapportioned the House. Also, Reps. Arlie Lucas, R-Highland, and Jim Long, D-Kansas City, lost their Aug. 7 primary elections.

Both Miller and Barkis said their parties have especially strong candidates.

Barkis said he thinks Democrats will be helped by dissatisfaction with Republican Gov. Mike Hayden and with congressional Republicans and President Bush.

"I've talked to a lot of candidates who feel the mood is pro-Democrat," he said.

A race to watch is the 62nd, where Rep. Katha Hurt, D-Manhattan, faces Republican Kent Glasscock, former mayor of Manhattan. Hurt has been a target for Republicans because of her 1988 victory over veteran Rep. Ivan Sand, R-Riley.

Margaret Clark/Staff

Rambo's back

Todd Allen, freshman in business administration, and Casey Sparks, sophomore in sociology, both student security officers, catch two men dressed in military fatigues near McCain Auditorium Wednesday night. The two men were found with 12-gauge and 20-gauge shot guns. The guns were confiscated and the two men were released. K-State Police refused to comment on the incident.

Go Cats, kill the Cyclones!

ONE HOUR MOTOPHOTO

Photo Processing At Its Best

40% off Processing

(35 mm, 110, 126, Disc, C-41)
Expires Nov. 30, 1990

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Not valid with any other promotion

1134 Garden Way
Across from Westloop

C-28
776-9030

ONE HOUR MOTOPHOTO

Photo Processing At Its Best

Reprint Special 29¢ each

(35 mm, 110, 126, Disc, C-41)
Expires Nov. 30, 1990

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Not valid with any other promotion

1134 Garden Way
Across from Westloop

C-28
776-9030

Tonight $1 Wells

No COVER for 21 and up

Open at 4
702 North 11th

776-0077
Aggieville, USA

ADVANCED BUSINESS SYSTEMS

Locally Owned—Locally Operated

- TEC-Cash Registers/POS Systems
- Sharp—TA Royal Copies
- Smith Corona-Typewriters
- Olympus-Transcribers
- Silver Reed-Typewriters/Word Processors
- Murata-AT&T—TA Royal Fax
- IBM-Typewriters
- TA Royal-Typewriters/Word Processors

•SALES

•SERVICE

•RENTALS

•LEASING

713 N. 12th

Aggieville

539-7931

GO WILDCATS! GO WILDCATS!

SOUTHERN SUN

Tropical Tan

LIKE THE STATE IN YOU!

Homecoming Special!

Buy 10 Sessions Get 1 FREE!

Southern Sun
519 N. 12th
776-8060

Tropical Tan
1814 Claflin
(above Charlie's)
537-0744

GO WILDCATS! GO WILDCATS!

Holiday Open House

Join us
on Sunday, November 4, 1990
from one to five in the afternoon

We look forward to seeing you and your friends

Campbell's
DOWNTOWN

5th & Poyntz

776-9067

20% Storewide Discount
on regular priced merchandise purchased during open house

Door Prize

Valid on November 4

Layaways Not Included

WHEN YOU'RE THE BEST, PEOPLE TALK ...COME SEE WHY!

- High & Low Impact Classes Available
- Free Nursery
- Shower facilities
- David Equipment
- Free Weights
- Tanning Beds and New Tanning Bulbs
- Stairmaster 4000 pt on its way

CLIP THIS COUPON

3 FREE VISITS

SCHLIEBE
WORKOUT CENTER

SCHLIEBE WORKOUT CENTER
3236 KIMBALL AVENUE

776-1750

Hindus in India attempt to storm ancient shrine; 19 die in dispute

By The Associated Press

AYODHYA, India — Thousands of Hindu fundamentalists failed in a new attempt Wednesday to storm an ancient shrine claimed by Moslems, and at least 19 more people died in violence sparked by the dispute.

A government minister resigned to protest Prime Minister V.P. Singh's attempts to block construction of a Hindu temple on the disputed site, deepening the crisis in his beleaguered coalition.

Armed paramilitary troops blocked about 5,000 Hindus from attempting to re-enter the mosque in Ayodhya, which has been the center of a decades-old dispute between India's Hindu majority and Moslem minority.

Hindu fundamentalists broke through police cordons on Tuesday and chipped away bricks and bits of plaster from the one-story mosque, which they want to replace with a temple.

At least five Hindus were killed and 20 injured when police opened fire to throw back the rioters. One of the injured died of his wounds on Wednesday, doctors said.

Press Trust of India said at least 18 other people were killed in street battles between Hindus and Moslems in four widely separated cities.

The dispute has killed at least 170 people in the past eight days and pushed Singh's 11-month-old government to the verge of collapse. The Hindu fundamentalist Bharatiya Janata Party withdrew support from the governing coalition last month to protest government policy on the temple project.

The desertion left Singh without a majority in Parliament, but he has said he will win a vote of confidence scheduled for Nov. 7.

Singh's attempts to ride the religious and political crisis received another setback Wednesday, when the deputy minister for sports, Bhakta Charan Das, resigned to protest the police action at Ayodhya.

Das, a Hindu, accused Singh in his resignation letter of "lack of foresightedness" in tackling the crisis.

The dispute also triggered violence in neighboring Bangladesh, an Islamic nation, where Moslem mobs attacked temples and Hindu shops and homes after hearing of the situation in Ayodhya. Authorities clamped curfews in the capital Dhaka and the port city of Chittagong to curb rioting.

In Ayodhya, volunteers of the fundamentalist World Hindu Council said they would make another attempt to storm the mosque on Thursday. Officials said they had information that hundreds of Hindus would try to enter the town at night.

Wealthy Americans could avoid taxes

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Despite repeated government efforts to close loopholes, some wealthy Americans are still able to scrape together enough deductions to avoid paying any U.S. income tax, the Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday.

Of 557,848 couples and individuals who reported income of $200,000 or more on returns filed in 1988, 472 with total income of $211 million paid no income tax. Two of them, both unidentified, even reported receiving unemployment compensation.

Of the high-income people who paid taxes, about 9,300 paid less than 5 percent. Another 17,082 reduced their liability to less than 10 percent, which is about the same as paid by the average $35,000-a-year family.

In its annual report on the tax liabilities of high-income people, the IRS said 58 percent of those with income of $200,000 and up reported capital gains — profits from the sale of investments — that averaged $384,476. By comparison, salaries averaged $291,646.

Good luck Cats!

MAURICES

Men's

All Sweaters 20% off
Selected Leathers 20% off

Women's

Selected sweaters 20% off
Selected leathers $20 off
Columbia & wool coats
20% off

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HUNAM EXPRESS

1118 MORO
537-0886

This coupon good for
Hunam Beef $2.50

not good with any other special, promo, delivery.

Free Delivery with min. $9 order

Open 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Expires 11/7/90

Snookies

25¢ Draws
75¢ Wells

Homecoming Week!
Come celebrate with us!

1122 Moro • Upstairs • 776-7726

KRYSTALLOS

JEWELRY

STERLING SILVER, ETHNIC RINGS, EARRINGS, CLOTHING, CORAL, STONES, CRYSTALS & GIFTS

1124 MORO
539-0360

AGGIEVILLE
11-6 MON-SAT

NEW!

STAIRMASTER
HACK SQUAT
LEG PRESS
SEATED CALF

FREE WEIGHTS UNIVERSAL LIFE CYCLE
HOT TUB

1125 Laramie
Basement of Laramie Plaza

539-7095

techline.

the perfect blend of beauty and function

entertainment center

CONTEMPORARY INTERIORS

332 Poyntz

537-2099

What Can Make ACUVUE®
Disposable Contact Lenses
Even Better?

A Free Trial Pair!

We want to open your eyes to the convenience and comfort of ACUVUE®
Disposable Contact Lenses.

Come in for an eye exam.

If ACUVUE is right for you, we'll give you a free trial pair.

ACUVUE® The First Disposable Contact Lens Johnson & Johnson

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Optometrist

See your eyecare professional annually

New Location: 555 Poyntz Suite 151 Colony Square

776-9461 Toll Free 1-800-432-0035

Financing Available

*Examination and other professional service fees are not included in this free trial pair offer.

Kistner's Flowers and Greenhouses

one mile south of the mall on Highway 177 South

Weekly Cash and Carry Specials

Roses 6 for $7.50

with greenery and baby's breath

Mixed Flower Bundle $5

776-7989 Mon - Sat 8-6 776-7044

Teleflora

1/3 Off
All Services

facials perms coloring sculptured nails
haircuts
highlighting
"The Wrapp"
manicures

613 N. Manhattan • 539-7621

Expires 11-15-90 w/this ad

relaxers pedicures hair removal carefree curl

10th Anniversary Show

featuring fine arts of the Midwest

Come in and see our wide selection of posters & original art

STRECKER GALLERY

332 Poyntz Tues.-Sat. 10-5 539-2139

Kitchens Plus

HOME OF

The "K.P." Card Factory and The Croissant Cafe

COUPON

SAVE $5.00

On A Purchase Of
$20.00 or More!

Good On Regular Priced Merchandise
Cash or Check Only

No Free Giftwrap With Coupon
Limit One Coupon Per Person

Expires 11/10/90

1110 Westloop Shopping Center—537-4046

Campus Safety Task Force reports to Student Senate

By Paul Noel
Staff Reporter

The Campus Safety Task Force released its final report Wednesday. The report covers topics the task force says need to be addressed on campus.

The task force will present the report to Student Senate today.

The report cites five main topics and issues, said Rob Dieringer, task force chairman and senior in construction science.

A safe, well-lit and maintained campus is probably most important, Dieringer said.

"While campus lighting has improved significantly in the last two years, initial light measurements taken at many areas of campus have concluded that campus lighting is still insufficient to meet (Facilities Planning's design goal of one foot-candle," he said.

A foot-candle is a measurement of illumination equal to the amount of direct light thrown by one candle on a square foot of surface.

Dieringer said the task force found the need for a coordinated effort between the departments of Public Safety and Facilities Planning to provide K-State with campus both safe and beautiful.

The task force recommended that the K-State Police receive an additional budget increase to hire more officers. The increase would implement a foot-patrol program on campus with the possibility of using mountain bikes in the evening to cover more ground.

"The K-State Police is our best source for crime prevention," Dieringer said. "We find that strong public relations with the K-State Police as well as additional funding for the department would be an excellent first step in making K-State a safer campus."

The need for traffic-control devices at the intersection of College Heights Road and Denison Avenue and at Manhattan Avenue on the east side of campus was stressed in the report. The task force suggested that the administration seize the offer made by the city of Manhattan to split the cost of installing a traffic signal at College Heights and Denison.

According to the report, safety phones on campus are necessities which are rarely used. Careful consideration of cost and usage needs to be given regarding the installation of additional emergency phones.

"A common complaint among students and faculty is not knowing where the current safety telephones are located on campus," Dieringer said.

The task force recommended developing and distributing a safety brochure pinpointing phones, clearly marking well-lit routes through campus and discussing campus safety in general.

K-State and the city of Manhattan entered into an Interlocal Agreement in 1984 to provide fire suppression services for the University, said Bill Smith, Manhattan fire chief and Campus Safety Task Force member.

The report states that the major concerns of fire safety on campus are the quantity and locations of fire hydrants and the amount of water available from the hydrants.

Hydrants on campus should be able to supply a minimum of 1,000 gallons of water per minute to effectively combat a major fire, Smith said.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —rales —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarship! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

What candidate for governor doesn't think Kansas farmers are paying enough taxes and proposes increasing their taxes by $300 million? NOT Governor Mike Hayden. Pd. Pol. Ad by Mike Hayden, Republican for Governor Central Committee

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

532-6555

18 to ENTER
21 to DRINK

$1.25

WELLS
FALSETTO'S

Pizza Slices

50¢
(5-7 p.m.)

Great Vanity Coat Cover-Up!
Layaway your favorite coat today
Thru Nov. 4
Manhattan Town Center

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

DIRECT THE K-State Band at Homecoming! For details, visit the sign-up table in the Union.

HOLIDAY GIFT Expo. Crafts, food, toys, jewelry, door prizes, soup, snacks. Manhattan City Auditorium, Nov. 3. 9a.m.—3p.m. Don't miss this!

HUMAN ECOLOGY Supporters. Thank You! We do it better and with your support we will continue to do so.

LITTLE APPLE Gymnastics is offering tumbling and partner stunts classes for those interested in trying out for cheerleading at KSU. Call 539-3613.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

WHY NOT celebrate Homecoming with wine and dinner at The Osage House? 776-1234. 2605 Stagg Hill Road.

2 Apartments—Furnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY!—One-bedroom apartment close to campus, front door parking, air conditioning. $340. 537-0998.

GREAT APARTMENT, great location, great price! One-bedroom, partially furnished, one block from campus/ Aggieville—Only $295/ month plus electric. Call (913)537-3342 today!
(Continued on page 7B)

Go Cats, kill the Cyclones!

NESPOR
RETAIL LIQUOR

- Specializing in domestic & imported wines
- Large selection of cordials, beer & liquors
- Special orders welcomed for parties & weddings
- Case discounts

539-9441

Westloop Shopping Center
1338 Westloop Place

•YOGURT

•ICE CREAM

The Cat's score is your percent discount tonight!

Plaza Shopping Center, next to Home Cinema
Mon.-Sat. 11-11
Sun. Noon-11

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

Great Gifts!
Terrific Cards!
Convenient Hours!

Support the Cats!
T-shirts Candy
Sweatshirts Stickers
Hats Buttons
Windsocks License plates

704 N. Manhattan Ave. in Aggieville-539-7854
Mon.-Thurs. 8:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.-Fri.-Sat. 8:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m.-Sun. 12:00-5:00 p.m.

Alan Clark BODY SHOP INC.

COMPLETE BODY REPAIR SINCE 1967
ESTIMATES 776-5333
INSURANCE CLAIMS
WELCOME 2160 Pillsbury Dr. • S. Hwy. 177

TAKE THIS PARTY ANIMAL HOME

THE TAIL GATOR

To make your next bash a smash, call SUBWAY and order the TAIL GATOR. We'll fill a foot and half long white or honey-wheat bread full of your favorite meats and fixin's, and three individual bags of chips and a 2 liter Pepsi or Diet Pepsi, and you get this for one low price of

$8.99

48 hours notice required

537-8700

In Aggieville — 620 N. Manhattan
Sandwich only: $7.49

BAYSTREET
AND THE PIT

TONIGHT!

99¢ Pitchers
75¢ Longnecks
75¢ Wells
25¢ Kamis

NO COVER BEFORE 8 p.m.

Experience A Touch of Fifth Avenue and Rodeo Drive georgia

The Ultimate Apparel
and Accessories

110 S. 4th St.
Downtown

Tues.-Fri.
10:30-5:30

Saturdays
11:00-4:00

DRIVE A BARGAIN
WITHOUT SKIPPING
A BEAT.

FACTORY AUTHORIZED CD
SALE $399⁰⁰

ALPINE
Car Audio Systems

Alpine 7904
FM/AM Compact Disc Player with 16 Bit, 8x Oversampling Digital Filter, Dual Digital/Analog Converters, Alpine's proprietary T-10 II Tuner with 18 Station Presets, Digital Clock and other technical and convenience features for sonic excellence and exceptional performance.

AUDIO
JUNCTION, INC.

HI FI-Car Stereo-Video
Car Stereo Installation
Stereo and Video Repair
1-762-4447
Mon.-Fri. 10-7, Sat. 10-5

(Continued from page 6B)

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—Nice one-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Heat paid. 537-4515.

HUGE CLEAN one-bedroom apartment. Close to KSU. Available now! $275. Karen 539-6945, 776-4834.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. Available November. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original, $800 or best offer. 1-485-2760.

1978 SUNBIRD—Excellent body, upholstery. 57,000 actual. Good gas mileage. Steal it for $1,995. 776-7588.

1984 CUTLASS Ciera, blue, power steering, AMFM, cassette. Call 532-3389.

1984 TOYOTA Tercel, new brakes, clutch and tires, 87K, $2,000. 1978 Dodge Aspen, $400. After 5p.m. 539-8307.

1985 PLYMOUTH Horizon, four-speed, good condition, $2,300 negotiable, 539-1902.

1986 CAMARO, hot red with T-top, only 47K, Mini 1-485-2576 after 6p.m.

1986 FORD Tempo G.L., two-door, five-speed, white with gray interior, excellent condition! $4,000. 532-3080.

FOR SALE: 1977 Mazda Rotary pickup, runs, as is, a rare beast. $300. 776-3757.

HONDA CRX—HF Model, 50 miles per gallon, excellent condition, good price. Please call. 776-7895.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such "employment opportunity" with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

EVENING AND Daytime office and telephone sales help needed. Pleasant working conditions, hourly wage and excellent bonuses. Call 537-6163, 9a.m.—4p.m.

GYMNASTICS INSTRUCTORS needed. Boys and girls coaches. Can train interested applicants. $4.50/hour. Little Apple Gymnastics. 539-3613.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

IMMEDIATE EARN while you learn. Manpower is looking for KSU Students interested in earning great pay—plus commissions. We offer flexible hours and valuable training and business experience. Plus free use of a personal computer. If you're a full-time student, sophomore or above, with at least a B average, and computer familiar. Manpower needs you as a Collegiate Rep to promote the sales of the IBM Personal Systems/2 on campus. Call Lori at (913)749-2800 for all the existing details.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for a director of our dietary department. Must be a registered dietitian or registry eligible. Should have menu planning, personnel development, clinical and community education skills. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. EOE.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

LABORERS NEEDED for local construction project, full-time or part-time available. $4.50/hour (316)524-5647 or respond to Collegian Box 2.

STUDENT WORKER: Accounting major. Duties: accounting, typing and general office. Apply to Coleman, Extension Business and Finance, Umlinger Hall, Room 121.

TUTORS for university tutoring program for spring semester, 1991. Majors with an emphasis in math, science and business are encouraged to apply. KSU students, minimum GPA 3.0. Flexible work hours. Ability to work with diverse groups. $5/hour. Application deadline: Nov. 12, 1990. Applications available: Educational Supportive Services, 201 Holton Hall, 532-5642. KSU is AAEE employer.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

TIRED OF school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Temptation Nanny Agency. (913)842-4443.

WANTED: ASSISTANT counter sales in warehouse, day hours. Apply in person. Kansas Electric Supply Company, 312 Fremont Street.

9 Food Specials

The Elbow

50¢ Tacos
99¢ Margaritas
105 N. 3rd • 776-9879

Bobby J's

Thursdays
Booga Booga Night
Any Burger and Fries Only
$1.99 + drink specials for the ladies
16 oz. Mason Jar of draft $1.25
539-1571

10 Furniture to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Sofa—$50, tables (2) $10 each, floor lamp—$5. Call 1-784-3031.

WOHLER'S USED furniture, 615 N. Third, 539-3119. Hours 1 to 5p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 6 to 9p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, antique furniture, modern furniture, appliances, bicycles, misc.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: STRAY ferret. Describe to claim. 539-8399.

LOST: KEY chain lost last week. Call Steve 776-3499.

LOST: LARGE long-haired, brown tiger-striped cat. Lost west of stadium. Call 537-0635, leave message.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

14x70 TWO-BEDROOM, cute kitchen, real cabinets, new bedrooms, wood floor, low utilities. $7,500. 537-4369.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

10-SPEED BIKE for sale. $60 or best offer. Call 776-7126.

MOUNTAIN BIKE—Jazz—Made by Trek—Brand new! Asking $300 firm. Call 539-2009, leave message.

19 Music/Musicians

CRATE CR212 guitar amp in excellent condition. No modifications. $175. Call 776-6485 after 6p.m.

KUSTOM 250-WATT bass amp and matching cabinet. Great amp, great price. Call Scott at 776-1184 or 776-3754.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or others) when placing a personal.

14TH STREET Carina: Here's to immaturity, gullibility, "whores," South Africans and trampolines. Happy 20th! Blondie.

ADPIS—FROM Comedy invasion to pumping station, we splashed our way into Homecoming celebration. Now our duo is set to go. "Ice Ice Baby." Bring the trophy to ADPI and ATO. —Men of ATO.

FLJIS, DELTIS and Thetas too. We're number one in what we do. We've worked, we've played and now it's time. This Friday we will be at our prime. To beat us, the rest may try. But we've set our sights too high. We're the Best it's plain to see. We put the State in this University.

This goes out to the Girls of KSU—Especially those of * 2.

We don't like to stare at you.

Because we know what is true.

We know you are stuck up one & all.

And one day you will take a great fall.

You think you are great & full of charm.

But you smell like you come from a farm.

—A rebuttal from the Men of KSU

KSU Womenhater's:
We have heard what you have to say.
We thank you all for brightening our day.
Admitted, snots there are a few,
But there are several men that act this way, too.
You shouldn't concern yourselves with our thighs,
Perhaps you should try and notice our eyes—
Something more than physical looks,
And maybe how well we do with our books.
You say you prefer the girls from KU—
That's fine with us, 'cause they deserve you!
—KSU Women

BEST OF Luck—Sigma Kappa, Farmhouse and Asacia—Let's do it! Love—K-Dees!

GEKCHERLEIN—I love being with you. Give me just twelve minutes of your time.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, my darling. Love, Zhini.

R.A.—HAPPY 21st Birthday! See you later tonight. Love you—Kel.

TO THE Men of Alpha Tau Omega—We hope you liked your wake up call, Today's the day, let's do our all. Bodybuilding is jammie and cool. Our "excellent" yell like Hell will rule. You guys impressed us so much. ADPI—ATO, "you just can't touch." Love—the women of Alpha Delta Pi.

VJ—HAPPY 21st B-day! Don't worry, you're not old yet. Love, BJ.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

AKC COCKER Spaniel puppies, black, all shots, eight weeks old. 1-456-7560 after 5p.m.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

24 Resume/Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—your satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851, Clafin.

INTERVIEW COMING UP? The Resume Service/ Graphics Plus offers a wide variety of services including: Typing or composition of your resume and cover letter, laser or letter-quality printing. Permanent computer storage and typing of data sheets. Stop by 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294 or 539-6027.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson. 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

Typing USING word perfect 5.1/laser printer. Reasonable rates. Call Judy at 539-7100.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Tri-level furnished apartment, one-half block from campus. $157.50/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Take over lease now, December or January. 537-9568.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE to share two-bedroom across from campus. Available immediately. 539-7494.

MALE NON-SMOKER to share three-bedroom. $120 plus utilities. 539-3690 after 5p.m.

MALE ROOMMATE for spring, January rent free, close to campus. Call 537-4165 after 8p.m.

NEEDED—ROOMMATE for spring semester to fill large main floor of house. One and one-half blocks from campus, own bedroom, $180 month plus one-fourth of house bills. Call 537-3696.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Sunset and Anderson, rent $190. If no answer leave message. 776-2032.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted at 1500 Harry. $135/ utilities. 776-1252.

TWO MALE Christians to share five-bedroom, three-bath townhouse. Each room wired for cable, phone, computer. Washer and dryer. 537-0472. $195 plus utilities.

TWO ROOMMATES wanted. Four-bedroom house one block from campus. $150/ month plus one-fourth bills. 776-3199.

30 Travel

SKI

Winter Park
Thanksgiving
Nov. 21-25

$199 (deadline Nov. 7)

includes
*3 nights lodging at Sunblaze condos
*3 days lift tickets
*3 days ski rental
*all taxes

Classic
Travel & Tours
1212 Moro • 537-7546

CHIEFS
vs.
SEATTLE
Nov. 11

$25

includes game ticket, bus transportation,
and refreshments.

Classic
Travel & Tours
1212 Moro • 537-7546

UKI

JANUARY LAST CHANCE! on BREAK

STEAMBOAT
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $177

BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $184

VALE/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $247

9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS

TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $55,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 60% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies. 776-1222.

FOR SALE: H78-14 Bias-ply tires. Like new. Pair—$20. 539-5456 after 5p.m. ask for Brian.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhart Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

PROTECT YOURSELF against an unwanted attacker. purchase mace. Easy to use, small enough for your pocket, attach to your key chain. Security for $5. Call 539-7349, leave message.

REFRIGERATOR $30. 10-speed lady's bike $20. Suitcase (Samsonite) $10 and a lot of miscellaneous. Call 776-9293.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels. $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case. $50. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m. If no answer, leave message.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

In 480BC, King Bwownt III wanted to extend the Persian empire by annexing Kramer Food Center and Denison Hall. His officials wouldn't let him because he wanted to name both of them 'Plornst.'

11-1 ©1990 Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

C MON KID, YOU'VE GOT TO TALK TO ME. OTHERWISE HOW ARE YOU GOING TO TUTOR ME?

AND IF I DON'T GET TUTORED HOW CAN I PASS THIS CLASS? SO YOU'VE GOT TO TALK—

ALRIGHT, WHAT DO YOU WANT?

A LARGE PEPPERONI PIZZA AND A SIXPACK OF PEPSI EVERYTIME I MEET.

I KNEW I SHOULDN'T HAVE TAKEN THIS TUTORING CLASS. AND BRING SOMETHING FOR YOURSELF WHILE YOU'RE AT IT.

11-1

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

ATTENTION, ALL UNITS! WE HAVE A REPORT OF STUDENTS DRINKING IN THE STADIUM PARKING LOT BEFORE THE GAME.

AWAY THEY DO THAT EVERY WEEKEND.

ATTENTION! WE HAVE A REPORT OF A LOUD PARTY ON FIRST ROW.

TELL THE NEIGHBORS TO SHUT THEIR WINDOWS!

ATTENTION! WE HAVE A REPORT OF A ROBBERY TAKING PLACE AT DAVE'S DONUTS.

HIT THE LIGHTS, BUD!!

11-1

Jim's Journal

By Jim

I went to the grocery store with Tony today and he showed me a test for buying frozen pizzas.

Drop it from five feet up," he said. "If it bounces a little, it's a good one."

Then he said, "There's another test: can you throw it like a frisbee?"

He laughed, and when he saw that I wasn't laughing, he said, "You gotta get a sense of humor, Jim, I swear."

11-1

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

ON THE ONE HAND, IT'S A GOOD SIGN FOR US ARTISTS THAT, IN THIS AGE OF VISUAL BOMBARDMENT FROM ALL MEDIA, A SIMPLE DRAWING CAN PROVOKE AND SHOCK VIEWERS. IT CONFIRMS THAT IMAGES STILL HAVE POWER.

ON THE OTHER HAND, MY TEACHER'S REACTIONARY GRADING SHOWS THAT OUR SOCIETY IS CULTURALLY ILLITERATE AND THAT MANY PEOPLE CAN'T TELL GOOD ART FROM A HOLE IN THE GROUND.

THIS DRAWING I DID OBVIOUSLY CHALLENGES THE KNOW-NOTHING COMPLACENCY OF THOSE WHO PREFER SAFE, PREDIGESTED, BUCOLIC GENRE SCENES.

MY "C-" FIRMLY ESTABLISHES ME ON THE CUTTING EDGE OF THE AVANT-GARDE.

DON'T YOU HAVE TO WEAR SILLY CLOTHES THEN?

11-1

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

GOING SOUTH FOR THE WINTER, HUH?

SEND ME A POSTCARD

KLUNK!

BUT ONLY IF IT ISN'T TOO MUCH TROUBLE.

11-1

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS	39 Witnessed	XXX	times
1 Soft-drink flavor	40 Montana, e.g.	2 Swear-word	24 "Great Expectations" hero
5 Winter woe	42 It does the hole job	3 Jon Lovitz persona	25 "Born in the —"
8 Rover's pal	45 Rhododendron's cousin	4 Speaks off the cuff	26 Disregard
12 Charles of "Hill Street Blues"	49 Stromboli spilt	5 Insect collector?	28 Priestly vestment
13 Say it's OK	50 Child's song starter	6 Appomattox VIP	29 Commanders a 747
14 "Music — charms..."	52 Dud on Broadway	7 Beehive State	30 Kanga's kid
15 Stressful type?; abbr.	53 Oast	8 Trail closely	31 It waters the lawn
16 Verily	54 Annoy	9 Border need	36 Learned one
17 Nick and Nora's pooch	55 Maleficence	10 Sgt. Snorkel's dog	37 Lamb's dam
18 Cocktail ingredient	57 " — Kapital"	11 Compared to	38 Navy builder
20 New York river	58 Slithery DOWN	19 " — Better Blues"	41 Wizard's land
22 Feathery accessory	1 Greek	21 High	42 Oscar Madison, e.g.
23 1 Across, e.g.		Solution time: 23 mins.	43 Possess
24 Litter members			44 "The best — schemes..."
27 Long-popular TV game			46 Navratilova's nil
32 "This — recording"			47 Pianist Gilels
33 Wapiti			48 With competence
34 Potential caviar			51 Front suspension?
35 Onlooker
38 Pack away

Yesterday's answer 11-1

Today's Cryptiquip clue: Y equals D

Russian parliament initiates transition

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — The Russian parliament voted Wednesday to start a 500-day transition to a market economy on Thursday, putting it on a collision course with President Mikhail S. Gorbachev and the national legislature.

Gorbachev and the Supreme Soviet legislature agreed Oct. 19 on a compromise economic-rescue plan that is slower and less radical than the 500-day plan.

Russia, the largest of the 15 Soviet republics, has declared sovereignty from the central Soviet government. It claims the right to put its own economic reform plan into effect on its territory, which covers two-thirds of the Soviet land mass.

It is unclear who will be obeyed if the Russian government, led by Gorbachev's leading political rival, Boris N. Yeltsin, gives economic orders that contradict the national government.

Already, the central government has warned bank officials they will be fired if they carry out a new Russian republic law creating independent banks, according to Deputy Russian Premier Gennady Filshin.

The Russian parliament also challenged the Kremlin by claiming control over the republic's natural resources and other assets, including state institutions and construction projects, Tass reported.

It said the legislation was intended to lay the foundations for the republic's economic sovereignty. The bill says the Russian government has the right to accredit foreign firms and control imports and exports from its territory.

The parliament voted 155 to nine with two abstentions to begin implementing the 500-day plan on Thursday, but it did not approve any specific steps. It had previously approved the plan on Sept. 11.

Ivan Silaev, the republic's prime minister, told parliament that a series of proposed laws would be drafted within the next three weeks.

"Really, all this means is they have started the clock ticking and underlined their determination to go ahead" with the 500-day plan, said Shod Muladzhanov, a political commentator for the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda.

WOW — FOR $3, you can run 15 words for one day in the COLLEGIAN ClassAds.

Finding a Pro-Choice candidate is hard. Catching Mike Hayden lying is easy.

Joan Finney

Position on abortion:

- ☐ Some restrictions in third trimester.
- ☐ Has pledged not to introduce abortion restrictive legislation as governor.

Mike Hayden

Position on abortion:

- ☐ Some restrictions in third trimester.
- ☐ Has introduced abortion restrictive legislation as governor.
- ☐ Pushed for abortion restrictive legislation during last legislative session.

Mike Hayden thinks he can bury his record under a mountain of lies.

After the Supreme Court's decision in Webster vs. Reproductive Services, the majority of American voters have been speaking out for their right to choose.

Now, many lifelong anti-choice politicians like Mike Hayden want you to believe that they are pro-choice, in order to get your vote. Mike Hayden was pushing for abortion restrictions as recently as last spring. He has never supported a woman's right to choose and he still doesn't.

Nice try, Mike, but Kansas voters know better.

ADVERTISEMENT
PAID FOR BY KANSAS YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Getting Ready for the Holidays ...a Practical Approach

"MATERNITY FAIR"

Marsha Ward, MSW
November 8, 1990 • 7 p.m.
At Saint Mary Hospital

This practical Maternity Fair will focus on the holiday stresses and changes (encountered during pregnancy and early parenthood) as well as building family traditions during a period of limited resources. Displays include: Healthy food choices, clothing ideas, baby items, and resources available to new parents.

For Reservations Call: 776-2822

Displays by:

- J C Penney's
- Manhattan Public Library

- Riley County Health Department

the saint mary hospital

Member CSJ Health System of Wichita

1823 College Ave, Manhattan, KS 66502

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

"IT'S A WINNER!"

—Joel Siegel, WABC-TV New York
Tom Cruise and director Tony Scott, who sent pulses racing with the high-flying thrills of Top Gun, come down to earth for this furiously fast-paced drama. Set in the gritty, competitive world of the NASCAR racing circuit, Days of Thunder stars Cruise as an ambitious young driver with dreams of becoming the best in the business. Robert Duvall costars as a legendary crew chief who is lured out of retirement to lend his expertise to the rookie racer; Nicole Kidman is a beautiful young doctor who recognizes Cruise as more than just a career-obsessed loner. Days of Thunder shifts into high gear with incredibly photographed racing action that captures the nerve-shattering excitement of one of America's most popular sports. Friday and Saturday, 7 & 9:30 p.m. & Sunday, 7 p.m., Forum Hall $1.75 with KSU ID

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF DEBATE

MONDAY, NOV. 5th
NOON
UNION COURTYARD

OCTOBER 29-NOVEMBER 9
"Wildlife Paintings and Drawings by Jonny Bill Wilkens"

WITH SPECIAL FEATURE:

TOM GOES TO THE BAR

The short that was the hit of the Telluride Film Festival, "Tom Goes To The Bar" is a celebration of confusion presented as a slice of a very different... but strangely familiar... form of life. Pete's Bar & Grill is an urban wasteland, a haven for lost souls. Nothing ever happens there on purpose... life at Pete's is a heads-up game, unpredictable and bizarre for outsiders, yet comfortable for the eccentric misfits who call it home. Unrated (9 min.)

A wealthy, death obsessed teenager who stages phony suicides falls in love with a free-spirited, lively octogenarian in one of the most hilarious films ever made. Cat Stevens' music perfectly captures the film's tone. Rated PG. Today at 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre and 7 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75 with KSU ID.

MISSOURI CAVING COST: $33 November 10

Imagine paddling several hundred meters into a cave, getting out of your canoe and discovering that the adventure is just beginning. Join Outdoor Recreation Committee in traveling to Devil's Ice Box Cave at Rock Bridge Memorial State Park in Columbia, Missouri. Trip includes camping and caving permits, use of canoes, caving instructor, and meals.

DRIVER'S MEETING: Tuesday, November 6, Union Room 205, 7 p.m.

*SIGN UP TODAY:

8 a.m.-4 p.m., K-State Union UPC Office, 3rd floor, Monday through Friday.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, November 2, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 50

Administrators answer questions at student forum

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

A crowd of about 2,000 students and faculty members packed Union Plaza to address questions concerning reorganization to Provost James Coffman and President Jon Wefald at noon Thursday.

Wefald opened the forum with apologies to the colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology for earlier considering the elimination of the two colleges.

"That was a very dumb idea, a very, very dumb idea," Wefald said. "It was a big mistake, and I apologize."

Architecture and human ecology students questioned the lack of student input in drafting the first proposal for reorganization.

"If the administration continues to ignore students when planning the reorganization of our University, K-State will be the loser," said Robb Karlin, senior in architecture. "We also understand cuts must be made, but the methods that have been used have left us feeling betrayed and distrustful."

Karlin quoted Wefald's State of the University address and argued the president had broken his promise to not make students the victims of the reorganization process.

Karlin also pointed out architecture and human ecology are included in the mission of the University as defined by the Kansas Board of Regents.

"Question authority, question your president, question your provost, get involved and be creative," Karlin said. "They need our help. It's obvious."

The main question of the students in architecture and human ecology was why their colleges had been singled out in the proposal.

"If you think through the criteria — centrality to mission and centrality to university and redundancy, in the state and at K-State, you begin to ask yourself what areas are critical to the University," Coffman said. "You begin to ask yourself what you absolutely have to have over the next 25 years to be competitive."

Next, students inquired about the integrity and reputation of programs slated for consolidation or elimination. Some programs stand to lose accreditation under the reorganization proposal.

"We are quite aware accreditation would be impacted in some cases," Coffman said. "I think we have to account for what programs are going to be at the core of this operation and ensure that these programs are properly accredited."

A student representative from architecture asked for a freeze on all administrative hiring during the reorganization process and called for administrators to take cuts in proportion to the most severely hit colleges.

Many students and faculty members held picket signs throughout the meeting. Random crowd members called for the withdrawal of the reorganization proposal as Wefald and Coffman discussed the rationale behind it.

Amy Schwartz, senior in hotel restaurant management, called the reorganization proposal unethical and immoral. She argued that the College of Human Ecology, under the current proposal, is not a true college.

Karlin brought the forum to a close by reading a formal resolution to withdraw the current reorganization proposal from consideration. He called for the University to enter a one-year cooling off period before considering reorganization any further.

Coffman encouraged students to suggest alternatives to the proposed programmatic changes.

On a tour of Seaton Hall after the forum, Wefald told students the administration would consider the resolution to withdraw the reorganization proposal.

"Well, why don't you give us a little time to think about it? It's a good petition," Wefald said. "I'm not saying we will. I think we ought to take a goddamn, good, hard look at it."

Students said the forum was a positive event, but questions about reorganization remained.

"I think he (Wefald) evaded the questions," said David Crutchfield, senior in architecture.

Collegian Reporter Shannon Heim contributed to this report.

Robb Karlin, senior in architecture, leads a forum on the Union Plaza Thursday afternoon. Questions and concerns were voiced to the K-State administration by representatives of the colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology and the speech pathology program.

Oliver Kaubisch/Collegian

Candidates to face off Heitschmidt, Morris celebrate election results

By Alan Wilds
Staff Reporter

After a 10-hour delay, Jonathan Morris, junior in mathematics, and Todd Heitschmidt, graduate in agricultural economics, were told Thursday morning they will face each other in the student body presidential run-off election Nov. 7.

"I'm very excited," said Morris, who received 1,335 votes. "I really didn't know what to expect. I know I have a lot of support, but it's all in who goes out and votes."

Morris praised his campaign staff and his networking efforts for his victory. In the time left before the run-off, he said, he plans to continue meeting people in all living groups. "It really paid off," he said. "You can never do enough. I have always thought that getting out and meeting people is more important than giving speeches."

Heitschmidt said he was pleasantly surprised, but also a bit apprehensive before he received the results.

"I felt great yesterday, but I really didn't know how it was going to turn out," he said.

Heitschmidt received 1,041 votes. Both candidates said this will be an important year for the student body president because of reorganization, and communication is the key.

Morris said he believes the administration has not addressed certain concerns of students as they have made plans for reorganization. He said that if elected, he wants to have communication lines open at all times.

"I want to maintain the accessibility ity of the student body and the faculty," he said. "We need direct communication to be able to ask questions of faculty and administration."

Heitschmidt said the student body president will need to be involved in all top administration meetings. Lack of information, he said, can be extremely harmful.

"Without input, reorganization has caused a great panic," Heitschmidt said. "It is important students get in there and understand so they don't overreact."

Heitschmidt said he also has plans to reorganize the student government offices to emphasize student services. Focusing his efforts externally instead of internally is one way he plans to change the perspective of the president's job, he said.

"I think student government has focused too much on its internal workings," he said. "We need to take a look at what the government is really there for, which is to serve the students."

Heitschmidt said he also plans to separate his job from that of Student Senate and concentrate more on lobbying and other outside efforts.

Morris said his selling point to students is his diverse background and his ability not to lose track of issues, despite government bureaucracy.

"I don't consider myself to be a big-time politician because in the politics, we have lost sight of the issues which is detrimental to the government process," he said. "I have a better understanding of all students. I think I have what it takes."

Morris said he plans to look at other issues, such as the environment and how the University can save money by cutting energy costs. These, he said, are issues past presidents have ignored.

Heitschmidt said it is Morris' lack of political experience that makes him unable to handle the student body president's job.

"My advantage is my experience and my knowledge of the political process at all levels," he said, citing his job with Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan. "My opponent claims he doesn't like to play the political game. In this job as student body president, you have to."

Voting for the Nov. 7 run-off election will be from 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. in the Union and 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Veterinary Medicine building.

Sally Routson, coordinator of student activities, said this year's run-off voter turnout may exceed the 2,102 who voted in 1989.

"We think Todd and Jonathan are different than a lot of the other candidates because they have opposing views on a lot of things," she said. "It may mean some different issues being brought up and more people taking sides and voting."

Heitschmidt

Morris

Manhattan residents hit by speech therapy cuts

By Jerry Sapp
Collegian Reporter

A proposal to discontinue the speech pathology and audiology programs will eliminate the quality and affordability of services to Manhattan residents who have speech and hearing disabilities.

"Five years ago, I would never have guessed my son, Andy, would be in the position he is in today," said Becky Arnett, Manhattan. "He has an inoperable brain tumor. Because of the tumor, he can not speak and, now, has lost his hearing."

She said this unexpected blow could happen to anyone's family, and the departments have helped. "He has been working with the K-State speech pathology and audiology department for five to six years, and it would be too precious of a thing to lose now," Arnett said.

The proposal to discontinue the speech pathology and audiology programs is part of the reorganization plan that was released by University administration Wednesday morning.

The speech pathology and audiology department offers undergraduate and graduate programs to students interested in speech and hearing techniques, said Mary Wade, instructor of audiology.

"We provide services to individuals who have hearing handicaps and to people who have closed head injuries, such as damage to the speech area of the brain and stroke victims," Wade said. "We just don't work with children on how to pronounce their R's and S's. It goes much deeper than that."

The department works with the mentally handicapped and does diagnostic testing for hearing loss, she said.

"We also help with rehabilitation, work with amplification devices like hearing aids, and we help correct stuttering and language difficulties," Wade said.

■ See SPEECH, Page 12

Cleanup of fire damage finished at Veterinary Medical Complex

By Kelly Berg
Staff Reporter

University Facilities assigned a crew to work all night cleaning up the mess and repairing the damage caused by a fire at the Veterinary Medical Complex, said Mike Lorenz, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

But because workers weren't able to get the necessary parts to do the repairs, the crew was only able to finish the cleanup.

The fire was apparently caused by an arc of electricity in the main power line Wednesday evening,

Lorenz said.

"Visually, with the naked eye, we can't see a fault in the transformer," said Jack Watson, assistant director of facilities building maintenance. "But there could still be a problem internally."

Watson said the crew will electronically test the transformer to see if there has been any damage to it.

If there is damage, the transformer will have to be removed, sent to the factory and rebuilt. He said a temporary service will have to be run into the building to satisfy the power needs of the complex until the transformer is returned.

Not only would this mean the complex could be without power until as late as Saturday morning, but also the University would have to hire someone to remove the transformer because the University Facilities staff cannot do it, Watson said.

If the transformer is not damaged, repairs will be made where needed and the power could be restored as early as today.

In either situation, the most time-consuming task was cleaning up the damage done by the fire and smoke, Watson said.

"We were able to restore power to ■ See FIRE, Page 12

BRIEFLY

World

Sharif named prime minister

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The leader of a right-wing coalition that defeated former Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto's party at the polls was chosen today to head Pakistan's fifth civilian government in 43 years.

Nawaz Sharif, whose backers shared in a landslide victory in the Oct. 24 parliamentary elections, was assured the prime minister's post after receiving the nomination from 18 parties comprising the Islamic Democratic Alliance.

The next prime minister will be elected by secret ballot in the 217-seat National Assembly, the law-making lower house of the parliament. Voting could take place as early as Sunday.

Exchange rate sparks chaos

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's decree creating a new commercial exchange rate for the ruble created confusion and chaos Thursday in Moscow's hard-currency shops.

"Closed for inventory," read a sign at the Swiss-Soviet joint venture shop Sadko.

"Sorry, I am taking stock," said a counterwoman at the Kodak film shop at the Mezhdunarodnaya Hotel in central Moscow. A cashier at the hotel studied a chart listing the different exchange rates.

Gorbachev introduced the new rate with the publication on Oct. 26 of a presidential decree setting the value of the currency at 1.8 rubles to the dollar in commercial transactions, nearly 70 percent lower than the official rate.

Drivers stuck on autobahn

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Thousands of drivers spent the night stuck in a 120-mile-long traffic jam on the autobahn between Nuremberg and Berlin. Police said Thursday they could not remember a bigger traffic tie-up.

The two-lane stretch of the highway has been dubbed the "Trabant Racetrack," named after the slow, two-stroke cars made in what was East Germany. They are used by most Germans from that part of the country.

The backup developed late Wednesday as drivers from eastern Germany returned home after a one-day holiday. A series of minor accidents, rain, fog and construction delays brought traffic to a halt.

Authorities also reported a 30-mile jam on the highway between Hanover and Berlin.

Nation

Treaty affected by crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Snags have surfaced in a landmark arms control treaty, and Secretary of State James A. Baker III will take the problems up next week with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

The treaty is the projected centerpiece of a 34-nation summit meeting President Bush plans to attend in Paris Nov. 19-21.

Baker also will consult with Shevardnadze on developments in the Persian Gulf. The session, tentatively set for Thursday but with the location still not picked, coincides with rising U.S. warnings that force may be used to get Iraq out of Kuwait.

The Conventional Forces in Europe treaty, the most sweeping arms control accord in history, would set limits on the tanks, antiaircraft artillery and various other categories of non-nuclear weapons from the Atlantic Ocean to the Ural Mountains of the Soviet Union.

The White House announced Thursday that Bush would attend the Paris summit.

GM closes Leeds plant

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The General Motors Corp. has officially closed the 61-year-old Leeds plant in Kansas City and three others that had been idled.

GM's announcement came more than a month after the United Auto Workers disclosed that the four idled assembly plants would be permanently closed as part of a new labor agreement reached in late September.

GM and the UAW signed a three-year contract that set aside $340 million for benefits to be paid in various ways to laid-off autoworkers at Leeds and plants in Framingham, Mass.; Pontiac, Mich.; and Lakewood, Ga.

Leeds, which employed almost 5,000 people in the early 1980s, had been indefinitely idled since April 1988. Now, the 70 people who stayed on as guardians of the plant while they searched for a new vehicle line will soon lose their jobs.

Region

Dogs seized from Paola kennel

TOPEKA (AP) — More than 100 dogs were confiscated from an unlicensed kennel in eastern Kansas Thursday, according to Attorney General Robert Stephan.

The dogs were seized Wednesday from Dee's Toy Kennel, which is about 15 miles north of Paola in Miami County. The kennel is owned by Darrell Dee Johnston.

"An inspection by the Animal Health Department revealed that conditions at Dee's Toy Kennel were as bad, if not worse, as conditions we have found in Topeka and Centropolis," Stephan said. Kennels in each of those cities have been closed because conditions violated state law.

Dogs at the Miami County kennel were thin and in poor condition, without food and water, said Animal Health Department Inspector Shon Koenig.

Cantwell denies charges

TOPEKA — The campaign of Bert Cantwell, the Democratic candidate for attorney general, said incumbent Bob Stephan is running advertisements that are lies.

Peggy Gatewood, spokesperson for the Cantwell campaign said: "Bob Stephan's radio and television ads charge that Bert Cantwell falsified state travel vouchers. This is an absolutely false and despicable charge, and Stephan knows it."

Nancy Lindberg, Stephan's campaign manager, was not available for comment.

Stephan's campaign has accused Cantwell of double-billing the state for travel expenses as a member of the state racing commission. Cantwell resigned from the commission in May.

Candidate denies charges

EMPORIA (AP) — A 30-year-old Emporia woman says state Rep. Jeff Freeman is the father of her 3-year-old son.

But Freeman, R-Burlington, denies the allegation, saying it smacks of last-minute dirty politics.

The woman would give only her name at the time of the child's birth — Donna Minidis, in an interview with the Emporia Gazette published Thursday. She has since remarried and says she doesn't want to harm her new husband or family by making her name public.

Minidis said she was approached by the newspaper and has not sought publicity. Freeman, 30, faces Democrat Ruth Boden of Lebo for the District 17 seat on Tuesday.

Minidis told the Associated Press she decided to talk to the newspaper because she wants voters to know the circumstances surrounding the child's birth. She said the situation might affect Freeman's voting on child care and welfare issues.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Campus organizations are encouraged to use the Campus Bulletin. All announcements must be submitted by 11 a.m. one day prior to publication. Announcements for Monday's bulletin must be submitted by 11 a.m. Friday. However, publication is determined by the amount of space available on a first-come, first-served basis and is not guaranteed. Information forms are available on the shelf outside Kedzie 118A. You must have a picture ID to submit a bulletin form. During business hours, IDs will be checked in Kedzie 116 or 118A. Forms should be left in the box outside 118A after being filled out. Questions should be directed to the Collegian's news editor in Kedzie 116.

2 Friday

■ InterVarsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. at the south doors of the Union for rides to the barn party.

■ Intramural Bowling Tournament will be at 5 p.m. in the Union recreation center.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

■ Campus Faith Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 202.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kulvinder Singh Gill at 9 a.m. in Throckmorton 117. The dissertation topic is "Construction of a Molecular Markers-Based Genetic Linkage Map of Triticum Tauschii, the D Genome Progenitor of Wheat; and its Utilization to Tag Phi, A Chromosome Pairing Regulator Gene."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Patrick Brent Kenney at 2 p.m. in Weber 146. The dissertation topic is "Alternative Processing Schemes for Manufacture of Pre-Cooked, Restructured Beef."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Oran Lee Roberts at 2:30 p.m. in Blumont 364. The dissertation topic is "Facets of Job Satisfaction as Predictors of Overseas Agricultural Mission Volunteer Retention."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kwan-Myung Lee at 8:30 a.m. in Cardwell 119. The dissertation topic is "Magnetic Properties and Critical Phenomena of Rare-Earth Transition Metal Glasses."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Colleen McDermott at 10:30 a.m. in the Veterinary Medical Library, Room A. The dissertation topic is "Biological Characteristics of Bovine Acyl-CoA:Cholesterol Acyltransferase During Inflammation."

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, mostly cloudy. A slight chance for showers and thunderstorms. High in the middle 70s. Gusts southwest winds 15 to 25 mph. Chances of rain, 20 percent. Tonight, a 50 percent chance for showers and thunderstorms. Cloudy with low around 50. Saturday, cloudy. Cooler with rain likely. High 55 to 60. Chances for rain, 60 percent.

UNITED ARTISTS
Theatres

SETH CHILDS 6 776-9886
Seth Childs at Farm Bureau Rd.

Quigley Down Under (PG-13)
Sat. & Sun. 2:40, 7:30
Daily 7 & 9:30

Marked For Death (R)
Sat. & Sun. 2:15, 4:25, 7:15, 9:25
Daily 7:15 & 9:25

Ghost (PG-13)
Sat. & Sun. 1:30, 4:25, 6:50, 9:25
Daily 6:50 & 9:25

Jacob's Ladder (R)
Sat. & Sun. 2:05, 4:30, 7:05, 9:30
Daily 7:05 & 9:30

Memphis Belle (PG-13)
Sat. & Sun. 2:10, 4:20, 7:10, 9:20
Daily 7:10 & 9:20

Sibling Rivalry (PG-13)
Sat. & Sun. 2:15, 4:20, 7:15, 9:20
Daily 7:15 & 9:20

Justin Ropers and cowhides.
One pair leads to another.

Between the Original Ropers and Justin cowhides, you've got a pair of boots for every occasion. And each pair is hand-crafted from the finest materials for comfort, quality and durability. Justin. The boots for all walks of life.

Great boots with personal service at Regularly 139⁸⁸

LEE'S
PRICE 84⁸⁸

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR
913-776-6715

8426 E. Hwy. 24 Mon-Sat 9:00-5:30
Manhattan, Kansas 66502

OPEN HOUSE

Bring your Holiday Gift List and shop at

Accessories Park
ON THE

708 N. Manhattan
Sunday
November 4
1-5 p.m.

Storewide Savings

•jewelry
•scarves
•barrettes
•purses •knitwear by Just Jersey

Pizza
Hut®

DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION
NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4334

Prepare To Be BLOWN AWAY
PERFORMING LIVE & IN PERSON
Michael Lee Firkins

Tomorrow Sat., Nov. 3, 2 p.m.
S.M. HANSON MUSIC—Salina

FREE (Arrive Early As Seating
Will Be On A Limited Basis)

Play any new Yamaha electric guitar at HANSON MUSIC and Yamaha will send absolutely free, MICHAEL LEE FIRKINS' blazing self-titled debut C.D. Simply fill in the free CD form available at S.M. HANSON MUSIC (Salina-Manhattan). You'll find out what happens when the hottest player on the block meets the coolest guitar on the street.

•WIN A $1700 GIBSON LES PAUL GUITAR!

(stop in once a day to register for the Les Paul Guitar (drawing Dec. 1)

•WIN one of 6—$50 gift certificates (drawings Nov. 3, 10, 17)

(stop in once a day to register for all prizes (must be 16 or older)

—MORE REASONS TO SHOP HANSON MUSIC EARLY—

ACOUSTIC GUITARS

	SAVE	SALE
•Beginner Guitar—full sizes, 5 yr. warr.	$60	$99
•Alvarez Guitar—w/case, stg, strap, polish	$100	$189
•All Ovation Guitars on sale—Save 10-25%

ELECTRIC GUITARS

•SAVE UP TO 50%—choose from . . .
Yamaha—Gibson—Epiphone—Jackson—Charvel—Steinberger

AMPLIFIERS—PA—MICS—EFFECTS

•SAVE UP TO 62%—Choose from Crate Peavey, Ampeg, EV, Yamaha, DOD, Boss

SHOP EARLY WHILE OUR SELECTIONS ARE GREAT!

ELECTRONIC KEYBOARDS

Choose from largest selection in the area—All On Sale!
Yamaha—Clavinova—Ensoniq—Roland
Starting at $24.95

PERCUSSION

•Choose fro Yamaha, Pearl, Latin Percussion
•30% off all Zildjian cymbals
•All standard drum sticks—5 bucks

Manhattan Store
316 Poyntz
Weekdays 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Mon. & Thurs. til 8 p.m.
Sat. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
913/776-3000

S.M. HANSON
Music since 1972

Salina Store
335 So. Clark
Weekdays 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Tues. & Thurs. til 9 p.m.
Sat. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
913/825-6273

About 2,000 students, faculty, staff and alumni gather in front of Seaton Hall for a forum Thursday to hear President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman address questions about reorganization.

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Halloween night calm; less vandalism this year

By Paul Noel
Staff Reporter

Riley County and K-State police said vandalism was kept to a minimum Halloween night.

Damaged mail boxes, stolen street signs and a broken car windshield were the only reported Halloween-related damages, said Lt. Scott Campbell of the RCPD.

"For an average Wednesday night, it was very busy," Campbell said. "But it was slower than usual for Halloween."

Charles Beckom, K-State police chief, said there was only one report of vandalism Wednesday night and that it was not attributed to Halloween, but probably to someone walking home from Aggieville.

The only Halloween-related incident on campus Wednesday night involved two students dressed in military fatigues and carrying shotguns, Beckom said. Police officers confiscated the guns after chasing the two men across the lawn in front of Anderson Hall to McCain Auditorium.

Campus police would not release the names of the two men in

"For an average Wednesday night, it was very busy. But it was slower than usual for Halloween."

—Lt. Scott Campbell
Riley County Police Department

question, but Casey Sparks, sophomore in sociology and student security officer who was at the scene, said the men were not members of the ROTC program.

"The two men will be dealt with appropriately by the dean of student life and their respective schools," Beckom said.

When the students were stopped, they said they didn't think they were doing anything wrong, Beckom said.

Campus police were also kept busy with the fire at the Veterinary Medicine Complex, he said. Officers had to investigate the cause of the fire, alert people with research projects of the loss of electricity and provide security for the building while the doors remained open to allow proper ventilation.

Overall, there were fewer incidents on campus Halloween night than were expected, Beckom said.

"There were a lot more people out enjoying themselves and not getting out of line," he said.

Visit of Lawrence artist 'timely'

Presentation will focus on images generated by computers

By Danette King
Collegian Reporter

When most people think of art, they think of drawings, paintings and maybe even sculptures. Colette Bangert, an artist from Lawrence, thinks of the computer.

K-State will have a chance to hear from this unique artist when she speaks at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union Little Theatre.

Bangert will be focusing on the work she has done by generating computer images.

Margo Kren, associate professor in art, said she feels Bangert's visit is timely.

"The art department voted in a (masters in fine arts) in graphic design, which includes computers," Kren said.

Because of this new addition, Kren said she thinks students can learn from Bangert, who is internationally known for her computer art.

Bangert said she believes people should think of her pictures as a visual record of traveling through the Midwestern landscape.

Kren said Bangert and her husband Charles often work as a team.

"She is the artist and he is the one with computer knowledge," Kren said. "They both work together."

In addition to the art, the Bangerts presented a paper on algorithms used in the process of creating generative computer art to the National Computer Graphics Association in 1984.

Bangert's latest work includes "Casparian's Rings," a computer-generated ink drawing for the cover of the University of Kansas Computation Center's annual report.

Another recent work is a computer-plotted, colored ink drawing "Grass (series V)" for a computer art calendar.

Bangert's solo exhibitions have included galleries in New York City, Chicago and San Francisco. Her work has also been exhibited in many galleries across Kansas.

In 1977, Bangert's paintings and drawings were on exhibit in the K-State Union gallery.

Bangert is also involved in various arts organizations. She currently serves on the Emily Taylor Women's Resource Center Advisory Board at the University of Kansas and has also been involved with the Kansas City Artist's Coalition.

Bangert has received wide recognition for her talents. She was named to "Who's Who in American Art" lists in 1966, 1986 and 1989. In 1981, she was named to the "World Who's Who of Women." In 1984, she was listed in the "Who's Who Biographical Directory" of the Computer Graphics Industry.

Bangert's visit is sponsored by the K-State art department and student fees.

Ad It Up!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Display Advertising

532-6560

WE'RE MOVING

We will be closed this Saturday while we move to the Old Town Mall near the corner of 17th and Fort Riley Blvd.

We will continue to provide free pregnancy tests and our many other services.

Birthright
537-9180
1-800-848-LOVE

GRAND OPENING!

- "Deja New" Clothing
- Antiques
- Quilts
- Ceramics
- Wood-carvings

Exactly Right!

A CONSIGNMENT SHOP
Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Thurs. 10-8, Sat. 9-5, Sun. 11-5
(913) 537-6009 • 1122 Laramie • Manhattan

The Alpha Epsilon Chapter

ΦΚΤ

of announces its

65th year at Kansas State University

NEW!

- 50/50 LAYAWAY
- GIFT REGISTRY (for all occasions)

IMAGINATIVE, WELL
DESIGNED GIFTS

1128 Laramie - Aggieville
Mon. - Fri. 11-6 Sat. 10-4

Brittnay Ridge Estates Open House

Come this weekend! You may win two FREE tickets to New Orleans! courtesy of Travel Unlimited, 776-3131

- Sat. & Sun., Nov. 3 & 4, 11 a.m.-5 p.m.
- Showcasing Units Available for Second Semester.
- FREE Rib Dinners at Smokey J's BBQ will be given away.
- Drawing for New Orleans tickets Sunday at 5 p.m.

4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, all appliances (including washer, dryer & microwave), 2 gazebos with hot tub, recreation area, transportation to campus, pre-wired for computer, phone, cable, monthly rent as low as $195.

776-5599

Located in northwest Manhattan
Candlewood Drive

DAN WEIR COMPANY DWC REAL ESTATE
2601 Anderson Manhattan, KS 66502
913/776-5599 • Fax 913/776-3805

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Administrative trash proves revealing

With the oath of silence taken by members of the Reorganization Cabal, information on the actual process they went through and options they considered before they decided on the plan they eventually decided on has been difficult to come by.

However, hours and hours of careful investigative journalism (i.e. digging through the garbage outside the headquarters of the Cabal and days of reassembling the torn and shredded documents) have produced the following scraps of notes, which I think are very enlightening: (I apologize for any holes in the text. The job of shredding they did was very impressive. Also, it was impossible to determine any semblance of order for the notes, so they are presented here in a random order.)

■ --ggest these ideas for-----anization: 1. Move College of Architecture into-----lege of Engineering. 2. Move merged super-college to-----in Salina. 3. Move English department and College of Arts and Sciences into Seaton Hall. 4. Move Farrell Library into Denison Hall. (The small amount of books should leave plenty of room for expansion.) 5. Have students in Human Ecology fix me a steak dinner (That's what they do there, right?) and then kick them off campus. 6. Move my office into Farrell stack level 2A. 7. Get suit from dry clean-

■ Notes: open with joke — "Gentlemen, I feel w-----combine all of K-State's colleges into three categories: the College of Biz, the College of No Biz and the College of Show Biz." (Pause for laugh-----Say following — "But seriously fol--

■ --riously consider-----s recommendation of College of Show Biz. --d way to work pay raise resolution into final reorganization plan.

■ ----did he have to take an oath of silence? Sure wish he'd use it right ---

■ --ortant things to consid-----illegal offices will be moved to the D-----ent of Traffic Citations, since accidents are all they-----be interested in reporting anyway.

■ Nost Nots Note on regurgitation---reorganization: 1. Student Senate-----romper room by its close friends, will be reward-----ignoring reorganization plan until late. SGA will be moved to newly expanded Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. If fails, have Senate rearrange bill and pass expansion themselves (worked once). Offer Senate new meeting room in Rec Complex. Voting records and allocations suggest they will go for this.

Dwayne Lively

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

■ IMPORTANT NOTE—Suggest columnists, whose cynical abilities to trivialize important issues truly remarkable, be executed without dela--

■ When your turn to speak, ask about pizza delivery.

■ Boring, boring, boring ... Architects are boring ... How can they be so boring, R-ah-whide! Kick 'em out. Drive 'em off-----

■ I wonder how the students will take all this?

■ Suggest tuition increase. Forget it — could solve problem too--

■ Ask-----about where he got new suit. Remember to watch Doogie Howser.

■ How much wood could a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood?

■ Administration = God. Anything else = trivia. There is no greater power above administration. Recommend two colleges: College of Trivia and College of Administrivia.

■ Ask about raise.

■ What did they do with the animals?

■ --ay that students protest in Topeka instead of front lawn.

■ --tingency Plan One: Threaten to cut faculty salaries. Bad examp--

■ Ask: Who needs students anyway? Money comes from research grants?

■ Suggest: College of Students with Majors that Will Get Them Jobs When They Graduate.

Graduate (College of SMAWTJOG?) and College of Students with Majors that Will Not Get Them Jobs When They Graduate. (College of NOTSMAWTJOG?) Will save money on Telefund. Why waste time on lower class alums?

■ Perhaps we can make some noise with this. Ca-----count on students to overreact?

Be passive? -----dangerous?

■ -----safe for me to have a house on campus?

■ Try out new j-----"How many University administrators does it take to screw in a light bulb? Seven to appoint a committee to hire a consulting firm to explore the possibility of considering the problem as urgent."

IMPORTANT NOTE: Don't say joke again in this group. Get suit cleaned.

■ How many minds ARE better than one?

■ Is this a dumb idea — a very, very dumb idea?

I guess well have to reach our own conclusions on that. This, however, does remind me of a joke I heard during the large forum/lynch mob Thursday:

"How many administrators does it take to give a straight answer to a straight question? None, they haven't quite figured that out yet."

EDITORIALS

Lower income citizens remain hardest hit

Congress has bombarded Americans the past few weeks with enough budget rhetoric to confuse almost any tax-paying citizen.

It has been said the Reagan years were good for wealthy Americans and that budget proposals favoring them should be axed. A deficit-reduction bill last week in Congress had a provision raising tax burdens for the rich by increasing the 21 percent maximum-tax rate to 24 percent.

But such proposals will not fully work until Congress takes more steps toward plugging up loopholes that allow the rich to escape any income taxes at all.

An Internal Revenue Service report released this week — concerning returns from 1988 — showed that 472 couples and individuals who made more than $200,000 paid no income tax. The total income earned by the 472 was $211 million. More shocking, however, is that two of them received unemployment compensation.

The figures also showed that, of these high-income people, about 9,300 paid less than 5 percent income tax. Of the almost 558,000 returns in the report, 149 claimed itemized deductions that exceeded total income. In addition, 2,700 who earned more than $200,000 and paid some tax received unemployment compensation.

It is disheartening to see efforts by Congress to make the wealthy pay their dues thwarted by tax-dodging schemes. It is more disheartening to think that lower-income taxpayers are feeling the effects of the fat cats' money-grubbing plans.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Haddock, Kim Hattimothheadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Pula, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lantz, Rebecca Sack
COLUMNISTS	Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leap, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwick
REVIEWERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Krutzer
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyratt
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Bob Berry, Jeff Cabel, James Smith, David White, Linda
EDITORIAL BOARD	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Frese, Eric Henry, Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venso

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	John Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR-SHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allison Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Putney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Connie Fullerton
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Carla Jones
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
OFFICE STAFF	Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christa South
CARRIERS	Joe Cook, Minida Dowdy, John Fullerton, Norm LeComte, James Seymore

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167. News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

To charge by VISA or MasterCard, call (913) 532-6555

Send orders and address changes to Student Publications, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

LETTERS

Blame legislators

Editor,

In my advanced industrial management course this week, we discussed "managing organizational decline," and I couldn't help but see the errors we at K-State are making with the current furor over reorganization.

The main points to effectively manage decline are for managers (administrators) to be active and assertive to change the environment positively and to develop something new.

To change the environment means we should focus on the main cause of our plight of lack of funds: the Legislature in Topeka. To develop something new would require us to develop, say, even more nationally-renowned colleges of Human Ecology and Architecture and Design — programs to bring the University to the forefront we deserve at the head of academia.

Had I been a legislator in Topeka Wednesday and seen 3,000 voters marching on my office, I believe I would have asked the governor to call an immediate special session before next Tuesday's elections to reinstate the money to which K-State was entitled to.

I would suggest the student body president lead a caravan to bring those 3,000 or more voters to Topeka. For if we do not tell our elected officials what we believe, they will try to bring Washburn University into the regents system. While I respect the quality of education Washburn has to offer, if there is not enough money to go around for the six schools already in the system, how can we expect enough money with a seventh?

So let's take the initiative and work this to a positive solution. Let's not fire President Jon Wefald just yet. Let's fire the legislators who won't vote K-State its entitled allocation of funds.

Timothy Pottorff

graduate student in industrial engineering

Alumni also at risk

Editor,

Just when we thought all the madmen had been identified in the Gulf and budget crises, one apparently missed the train.

As a practicing professional landscape architect with the nation's second largest architectural firm, I am extremely angered that the new skipper of my former University, Jon Wefald, is endangering the livelihood of the College of Architecture and Design. The programs within this college are all nationally regarded and from my experience the Department of Landscape Architecture continues to be among the leaders in providing highly competitive landscape architects to the industry.

I strongly believe that my educational credibility would be at risk if the College is relocated or dismantled. Loss of accreditation would absolutely damage my standing as well as the many other alumni who have earned degrees since the inception of the college.

The very idea that Wefald's preliminary actions disregard the national attention that the college continues to receive or the implications implied by the dissolution of it, leads me to a most startling conclusion.

This man is indeed two sandwiches short of a picnic. And by the way, don't even bother with the mayo.

Darren K. Varner
Kansas City resident

Criteria questioned

Editor,

Here are some questions that I have for the provost and the president regarding reorganization:

■ Is the administration willing to allow itself to be evaluated using the same criteria it used to determine the viability of academic programs? Would it be willing to eliminate those programs, departments and positions that failed to meet the criteria?

■ Would University administrators be willing to honor a moratorium on redecorating and remodeling their offices in order to set an appropriate tone?

■ Would the administration be willing to allow the finances of the University and of the KSU Foundation to be openly scrutinized to assure those who will lose their jobs that there really isn't any waste to cut?

■ When Wichita State University did what was suggested (in the third point above), one of the things that was found was that the WSU endowment association was paying President Armstrong's daughter $1,700 a month to attend a special boarding school. How many similar "sweetheart deals" exist here at K-State for University administrators?

■ Why has the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics not been included in any reorganization plans?

■ The administration appears to be more willing to spend money on sprinkler systems, landscaping, signs and gates and Intercollegiate Athletics rather than on academic programs. Some see this as an attempt to create the illusion of a viable academic institution rather than the reality. Is this an accurate perception of University policy?

■ Despite having to cut programs because of a lack of financial resources here at K-State, Gov. Mike Hayden supports bringing Washburn University into the regents system. Why is it that we don't have the resources to maintain programs when the regents apparently have the resources to support an additional school?

John Bish
graduate student in electrical engineering

Answers needed

Editor,

After Thursday afternoon's rally on the steps of Seaton Hall, I have one question that remains unanswered. I would like to direct my question to President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman:

To continue with the aeronautical analogy already established by Coffman at the beginning of his presentation, my question is this: Where do you, as pilot and copilot of this craft, see yourselves in the next few years — as we begin our flat spin?

Will you still be here at the controls of our university to pull us out and up, or will you be hitting the "eject" button before impact?

Roger Reed
junior in architecture and design

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN IN FOCUS

Paxico

A jewel on the highway

The sign along Interstate 70 advertises "Antiques."

As visitors take the exit and drive into town, the dirt and gravel main street might make them think the sign was referring to the town itself — Paxico.

The town has 187 people, a service station, a bar and seven antique stores. It's the antique stores that draw people off the highway.

"We have people from places like Indiana that run across our cute little town and pull out their cameras, saying things like 'I had no idea this place was here,'" said Kathy Hund, antique store owner. "They feel like they found a jewel in the middle of Kansas. It's fun to watch our town be discovered."

Paxico was once a small farming town with general stores, liquor stores, bars, banks, a post office, doctor's office and much more lining Main and Newbury streets. Now, although the buildings are more or less the same, what's in them has changed significantly.

Judy Adams now sells antiques out of the building that was once the liquor store. Steve and Kathy Hund sell restored woodburning stoves and other antiques out of the building that was once the general store.

Sally and Wayne Stratton and Karen Kelly also sell antiques from buildings that once were a part of the general store. And there is a small restaurant and art gallery in what was once the seed and grain store.

Rick Hecker is selling antiques out of the building on Main that used to be a gas station and Diette Walters sells antiques in the building next door.

"There has been no significant modernization to any of the buildings," Steve Hund said. "We restored them the best we could to their original condition."

The old dance hall building being restored right now will eventually be an addition to Adams' antique store. She actually found the building on Snokomo Road, several miles away, and had it moved into town.

Adams said Steve Hund, who is also called Bud, thought of moving the building to Paxico's main street. "Steve is pretty much behind most of what happens here," she said.

Wayne Stratton agreed. "Bud and Kathy are the real pioneers," said Stratton. "They opened their store in 1973."

"Then I started to get lonely and started asking people I knew to come and open a store here," Steve Hund said, laughing.

"Actually, I just help people realize the potential for our little town," he said. "The proximity to the highway and cheap rent are two definite selling points."

Steve Hund said about two years ago he talked a friend into moving to Paxico and opening a store. Since then, five other antique stores have opened.

Sally and Wayne were already in the antique business in Topeka when Hund approached them about opening a store in Paxico.

Adams, a resident of Maple Hill and long-time customer of the Hunds, was also approached with the idea of opening an antique store there.

"Steve was the one that planted the idea in my head to open an antique store here," she said. "The idea became reality when I actually opened my store the first of September."

Steve Hund said, "All these people are fun, and we share the same interests — mainly antiques."

"Everyone works together," he said. "We don't treat each other as competing businesses."

Judy Adams agreed.

"We work for each other, not against each other," Adams said. "It just doesn't work to run things 'every man for himself.' We just couldn't last that way. We'd end up killing ourselves off."

She attributes the success of the string of stores to the fact that each store owner has a different interest or focus in what he collects and sells.

"There's something here for every antique collector, and if we don't have what you want in our store, we direct you to one of the other stores here that might," Adams said.

Adams explained that each store has an "antique" flag flying in front of their store during the hours they are open.

"So all we have to do is step outside and look for the flag to know whether someone's there or not," she said.

If Hecker's flag is flying, a customer can go in and find items like Dr. Gerky's quack cosmo light device, dated in the 1930s, that was used to con people into thinking it could cure anything from infertility to baldness.

If that isn't quite what the customer is looking for, he can cross the street to Mill Creek Antiques, owned by the Hunds, to purchase a restored woodburning stove. Or, perhaps, an old Raggedy Ann and Andy doll set for $65 at Remember When, owned by the Strattons.

But, even if they aren't interested in buying anything, people can take a trip into the past while they shop in Paxico.

Wayne Stratton, part-owner of Sally's Remember When Antiques, visits with Joel Hund, 8, during an afternoon meal in Miller Creek Antiques, a diner and antique shop owned by Hund's parents.

TOP LEFT: Kurt Mielenz, Topeka, was hired by the owners of Paxico Antiques as a carpenter. He is helping expand their business into a larger building. LEFT: An old rocking chair encourages passers-by to come into Miller Creek Antiques and take a look. ABOVE: Irving, a Collie owned by Tom Leopold, owner of High Class Photographs, walks on the roofs of the string of antique stores in Paxico. Leopold lives and operates his business out of a second-story studio above one of the shops.

Photos by Margaret Clarkin
Story by Kelly Berg

Rick Hecker owns a small antique shop on Main Street. There isn't a lot of room to move around inside, but the shop can be a gold mine to some.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN SPORTS

'Cats prepare to face Bryant, Cyclones

K-STATE WILDCATS

vs. Iowa State
Cyclones

Game Time: 1:10 p.m., Saturday.

Place: KSU Stadium

Radio: K-State Radio Network: Mitch Holthus, Stan Weber, Ben Boyle. WIBW-AM 580, flagship.

Season Records: K-State 4-4, 1-3; Iowa State 3-4-1, 1-2-1.

Series Record: Iowa State leads it, 45-24-4.

Notes: The game will be the 42nd Homecoming contest for K-State. The Wildcats are an unimpressive 5-34-2 in previous Homecoming tilts. Cat wide receiver Michael Smith is attempting to become the eighth player since 1937 to lead the conference in receiving in back-to-back seasons. That year was the first year of the Big Six. Iowa State has a current five-game win streak and a seven-game unbeaten string against K-State. The teams battled to a 7-7 tie in Ames in 1984. The last K-State win was a 9-3 decision in 1982.

By Todd Fertig
Sports Reporter

Stop Blaise Bryant. That's not an easy order to fill, as evidenced by the numbers the Iowa State tailback has produced this season, despite being slowed by injuries. But that may be the key for K-State this weekend.

The returning all-Big Eight tailback, who rushed for 1,516 yards and 19 touchdowns last season, is the caliber of player that can determine the outcome of a game, said Wildcat coach Bill Snyder.

Snyder and the Wildcats learned this the hard way last season, watching Bryant scamper for 142 yards and three touchdowns on 19 carries.

Though slowed by injuries this season, Bryant leads the 3-4-1 Cyclones into the Wildcat Homecoming game averaging 85 yards rushing per contest. Bryant sat out the Cyclones' loss to Nebraska last weekend to ensure his status for the rest of the season.

"Blaise, though he's been injured, is an exceptionally fine back, and he'll be ready to go this week when the gun sounds," Snyder said. "He had something like 140 yards against us last year, and he only put in a token appearance, about half the game."

Though there is no mystery to whose hands the ball will be in Saturday, the Wildcats have not devised a unique defensive strategy to contain Bryant, defensive coordinator Bob Cope said.

"Obviously, you don't have a hard time keying on him because he's got the ball in his hands most of the time anyway," Cope said. "But basically we have a defensive philosophy that we believe in, which concentrates on putting our kids in the best possible positions and defenses to give them the best chance to succeed. Then it becomes a matter of us executing better than they execute."

The Wildcat defense, ranked sixth in the Big Eight against the run, has given up an average of 204 yards on the ground per game and has had breakdowns at times. The squad showed its potential to contain the run by limiting New Mexico to 96 yards rushing, and the following week holding Nebraska, the No. 1 rushing team in the nation, to 77 yards on 25 carries in the first half.

Snyder pointed out that while the threat Bryant poses deserves attention, the Cyclone offense possesses a variety of weapons. Two weeks ago the Cyclones pulled off the Big Eight's biggest upset of the season, beating Oklahoma 33-31, with the limited services of the injured Bryant.

Quarterback Chris Pederson was named Big Eight offensive player-of-the-week for his performance against the Sooners.

"I think they're an excellent offensive football team. They proved that against an awfully fine Oklahoma football team," Snyder said. "They can do so many things and can hurt you so very quickly, you can't make a mistake against a team like that, because they have so much at their disposal and spread you so thin."

Bryant runs behind a big, physical offensive line Snyder called one of the best in the conference. Offen-

Senior defensive back Danny Needham pulls down a Kansas receiver in the loss last weekend at Lawrence. Needham will play his final home game Saturday, as Iowa State and tailback Blaise Bryant come to Manhattan for a 1:10 p.m. contest in KSU Stadium.

sively, the line isolates defenders and reduces the pursuit and help of gang tacklers, Cope said.

Pederson's success has come as a surprise to most of the Big Eight, according to Cope. In his first season leading the Cyclones' offense, Pederson ranks second in the conference in total offense, and is a dangerous threat to run or pass. Against the Sooners, Pederson ran for 148 yards and two touchdowns, and threw for 105 yards and another score.

Snyder expressed dissatisfaction with the generosity of the K-State defense against KU last week. Losing 27-24, the Wildcats surrendered 504 yards in the game.

"We can't give up over 500 yards, regardless of who we're playing, and expect to win," Snyder said. Snyder did not think the Wildcats have been too unnerved by their back-to-back losses. He noted that though the game against KU was one the team felt it would win, the defeat hasn't distracted the team from its ultimate goals.

"I don't think we've taken a step back, I just don't think we've made any step forward," Snyder said. "We've reached a certain plateau and haven't continued to climb. Sometimes a team reaches a point where improvement ceases to take place, and we can't afford that to happen."

Snyder pointed to turnovers as keys to the loss to KU, and added that the team's ability to run the ball must improve.

"I'd like to see us get more physical up front and we can't turn the ball over," Snyder said. "It wasn't that we

■ See ISU, Page 12

Raiders downplay meeting with Chiefs

By The Associated Press

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. — Coach Art Shell says the Los Angeles Raiders' visit to Kansas City on Sunday is just another game on his team's schedule. The AFC West standings say something else.

"Every game we play is important, that's the way we approach it," Shell said Wednesday. "The Kansas City game is no more important than the San Diego game, the Pittsburgh game, the Seattle game, the Denver game."

"Division and conference games are very important. Our players understand that. You can take the records and throw them out the window. They're going to try and ambush us. We'll show up."

Should the Raiders (6-1) beat the Chiefs (4-3), they'll have a three-game lead in the AFC West at the halfway point of the season as they attempt to make the playoffs for the first time since 1985. The division crown would be theirs to lose.

Should the Chiefs win, they'd be one game out of first place and the division title would be up for grabs.

"They're a pretty good football team," Shell said. "They're really pushing the ball at people. The quarterback (Steve DeBerg) is doing an excellent job with the play action; of course, they've got the Nightmare (Christian Okoye) back there and (Barry) Word is creating a lot of cane."

"Defensively, they've got 25 sacks and one of the better secondaries we'll see. You just have to trust your people up front to do a good job of protection."

Netters see early finish to play in Utah tourney

From Staff and Wire Reports

Despite some success in the first round of consolation play, the K-State women's tennis team saw its weekend come to an early end at the Rolex Intercollegiate Tennis Championships at the University of Utah, which began Wednesday.

"This was a tough tournament for us," said K-State coach Steve Bietau. "We had some things not go our way — whether it was the draw or not playing real well."

The Wildcats' No. 1 singles player, Michele Riniker, faced the No. 1 seed of the tournament in her first match, losing to Monika Wanick of Oklahoma State, the 37th rated player in the country, 6-3, 6-4. Though she lost, Bietau was pleased with Riniker's showing.

"Michele actually played awfully well," Bietau said. "She should probably be ranked in this tournament, but because she is new and has no record, she got the toughest draw possible."

Riniker moved to the consolation bracket for her next match, taking on Jennifer Rosza of Brigham Young. Riniker downed Rosza 6-2, 6-1, before falling in the second round of consolation play to Abby Woods of Kansas 7-6 (8-6), 2-6, 7-6 (9-7).

Angie Gover, undefeated entering the tournament, reinjured her foot that was operated on last summer in her loss to Wendi Kaplan of Colorado 6-1, 6-1. Gover did not compete in the consolation singles bracket.

Slated to play in the doubles bracket together, Riniker and Gover won their opening match by default. In the second round, Riniker and the

COACHES POLL

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

- | | |
|------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Iowa State | 11. Washington |
| 2. Arkansas | 12. Kentucky |
| 3. Wisconsin | 13. Texas |
| 4. Tennessee | 14. Providence |
| 5. Oregon | 15. William & Mary |
| 6. Arizona | 16. Weber State |
| 7. Michigan | 17. K-State |
| 8. Wake Forest | 18. Dartmouth |
| 9. Brigham Young | 19. Florida |
| 10. Notre Dame | 20. Michigan State |

COACHES POLL

WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

- | | |
|------------------|----------------|
| 1. Villanova | 11. Arkansas |
| 2. Brigham Young | 12. Iowa State |
| 3. Indiana | 13. Michigan |
| 4. Providence | 14. Clemson |
| 5. UC-Irvine | 15. Washington |
| 6. Tennessee | 16. N. Arizona |
| 7. Oregon | 17. Virginia |
| 8. Georgetown | 18. Penn |
| 9. N.C. State | 19. K-State |
| 10. Wisconsin | 20. Baylor |

Gary Lytle/File

Julie James sets the ball during a home contest with Wichita State. James and her teammates will attempt to avenge a five-game loss to Iowa State when they face the Cyclones tonight.

Spikers to face Iowa State

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

The K-State volleyball squad will look to avenge its five-game loss to Iowa State when the Wildcats face the Cyclones at 7:30 tonight in Ahearn Field House.

K-State, 2-5 in the Big Eight, has built a head of steam. After defeating Oklahoma to post a four-match win streak, the 'Cats have kept the door to the Big Eight postseason tournament open.

"This team has responded to big matches, and this is a big match for us. I think we're looking forward to the rematch," Coach Scott Nelson said. "That's how we're going to approach the match."

Second-ranked Iowa State, 6-2 in the conference, will work to run its Big Eight win streak to three games after beating Colorado and Missouri last week.

"We're not looking at the match as we have to win. We're just not real happy with the way we let the match get away from us in Iowa,"

Nelson said. "We feel we're a much better team than we showed, and that's where our motivation is coming from."

K-State middle hitter Betsy Berkley has led the 'Cats during their current run with 51 kills, 33 digs, five blocks and a .380 attack percentage, while the Cyclones have received big performances out of senior co-captain Janice Ninemire last week. The outside hitter hit 53 kills, 45 digs and hit

■ See SPIKERS, Page 12

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Members of the Royal New Zealand Ballet company perform the ballet "Coppelia" Thursday night in McCain Auditorium. The ballet tells the story of the life of Dr. Coppelius, a dollmaker. The performance was part of the company's American debut tour.

'Coppelia': characters made 'real'

By Rebecca Sack
Collegian Reviewer

The Royal New Zealand Ballet doubly confused reality and make believe last night in "Coppelia." Not only did the audience willingly suspend its disbelief, so did the dancers, confusing dolls with people.

"Coppelia" is a fine work of the Romantic Period. The dancers' task is to communicate the story of the dollmaker and the lovers, rather than interpreting the music. The libretto is taken from "The Sandman," and its happy ending is as indicative of the time period as are the costumes.

The set immediately took us to someplace in Poland, and the costuming left nothing to the imagination except the legs of the female dancers. Only at brief moments during occasional twirls were we awarded a glance at the female dancers' legs. I kept wishing the skirts would be sheer or short so I could better appreciate the fine movements of the women as well as the movements of the men.

Lee Patrice played Swanilda, a village girl. Her every movement was quick and light, displaying the complete control she maintained over her tiny doll body.

Richard Bowman played Franz, who was in love with Swanilda. The strength of his dancing could be felt vibrating the auditorium. At one point in the third act, he performs a solo dance with difficult leaps and what seem like thousands of dizzying turns.

The dancers achieved some spectacular motions and exhibited impressive endurance. During her solos, Patrice floated through moves that would otherwise have been jarring. It seemed her toe shoes would collapse before her legs would.

Dr. Coppelius, the dollmaker, was played by Jon Trimmer, who is the head of the company and also a Member of the Order of the British Empire for his services to ballet. His performance assured us of a laugh every time he appeared on stage and found some reason to oddly shake his belly and snicker.

Natalie Gee played the doll Coppelia with intriguing stiffness and believability. At the end of Act II and again at the end of Act III, she appeared broken and stripped of her beautiful costume and hair. Her performance evoked a sympathy unlike any for the "real" characters.

Act I and II revealed the story with a multitude of solo dances mixed with appropriate folk dancing. This same folk tradition returned strongly in Act III when the entire village celebrated the Festival of the Bell and several other symbolic dances. At the end, Franz, with Swanilda on his shoulder, was encircled by a frenzied crowd of people dancing around and around them, with the sunset exploding across the background.

The motion did not stop as the final curtain lowered. It only faded to imagination.

AIDS educator plans 15-day trip to China

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

Education about AIDS is the reason a K-State professor will be leaving for a 15-day trip to China Sunday.

Betsy Bergen, professor of human development and family studies, is one of 50 American educators and physicians invited to China by the Chinese Medical Association.

Bergen said she is a nationally certified sex educator and sex therapist. She has been teaching courses about sexuality at K-State for 20 years.

She has also been involved in the National Speakers Bureau for AIDS and the Kansas Speakers Bureau for AIDS, she said.

Bergen said her award from the National Council of Family Relations for her video, "From the Heartland: AIDS," was probably the reason she was chosen.

"It's probably because of that the CMA asked her to share her knowledge on AIDS," said John Murray, head of the Department of Human Development and Family Studies.

Bergen said the Chinese government has not reported any cases of acquired immune deficiency syndrome to the World Health Organization.

"They probably indeed have cases, but perhaps they have not reported them. I may know more when I come back," she said.

She said she will give presentations and seminars at hospitals, schools and public health institutions.

She said she plans to inform the Chinese about how Americans are educated about AIDS at the national and state levels.

Of particular interest in China, she said, will be the mandatory human sexuality education policy Kansas adopted in September 1988.

"I'm going to show what we're doing here in Kansas," she said.

K-States Choice for Wrecker Services

Manhattan Wrecker Service

"No Job Too Large
or Too Small!"

Unlocks, Jump Starts, Towing, Anytime, Anywhere

24
Hour
Service

115 Colorado
776-7953

Clyde's

HOMEcoming BUFFET

Beat the rush and eliminate the waiting with these delicious
buffet dinners.

Prime Rib
Cordon Bleu
Baked Ham

Plus MORE! MORE! MORE!
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$12.95

Don't forget to make your reservations now for Christmas parties. It's not too late-bookings available.

2304 Stagg Hill Rd.

537-8440

Religious Directory

COLLEGE HEIGHTS BAPTIST CHURCH

9:15 a.m. Sunday School
10:30 a.m. Worship Service
6 p.m. Training Hour
7 p.m. Worship Service

2221 College Heights Rd. 537-7744

Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan

MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson
Steve Ratliff, Pastor
Worship 9:30 a.m.
Sunday School 11 a.m.
776-2086
Nursery Provided

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Worship at 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School 9:45 a.m. (for all ages)
10th & Poyntz 537-8532

St. Isidore's University Chapel

Catholic Student Center
Sunday Masses 9:30, 11 a.m., 5 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Daily Mass-M, Tu, Th, F 4:30 p.m.
Wed. 11 a.m. at St. Mary Hospital
Wed. 10 p.m. evening prayer
Confessions-1/2 hr.
before daily mass.
Rev. Norbert Diabai, Chaplain
Sister Rose Walters, C.S.A.

711 Denison 539-7496

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

Worship 8 and 10:30 a.m.
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m.
1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays
CARE CELLS (Small Groups)
6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

Christian Science Church

511 Westview Drive 539-5605
10 a.m. morning service-10 a.m. Sunday School
Wednesday Testimony Meeting 7:30 p.m.
Reading room-428 Houston

Peace Lutheran Church

2500 Kimball Ave.
Worship at 8:30 a.m.
& 10:45 a.m.

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

Worship Saturday 6 p.m.
Sunday 8 and 10:45 a.m.
-Bible Class-
Sun. 9:30 a.m.-Thurs. 7-8:30 p.m.

539-2604 330 N. Sunset

Trinity Presbyterian Church

1110 College Ave.
Sunday Worship 10:45 a.m.
Young Adult Class 9:30 a.m.
539-3921

Anglican/Episcopal Community in Manhattan

St. Paul's Episcopal Church
& St. Francis/Canterbury Episcopal
Fellowship at KSU

Sixth & Poyntz
776-9427 or 537-0593

- Sunday Services -
8 A.M. Holy Eucharist I
9:30 Christian Education Classes
(for all ages)

10:30 A.M. Choral Eucharist Rite II
(Nursery available at 10:30 service)

Especially for KSU
Students & Faculty
5 P.M. Sunday,
Informal Eucharist followed by light supper and fellowship.

7:10 A.M. Tuesday & Thursday,
Morning Prayer, Danforth Chapel,
KSU

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Church School-9:45 a.m.
Worship-8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.
Disciples of Christ
5th and Humboldt 776-8790

First Baptist Church

Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691

FIRST CHURCH of the NAZARENE

College Class 9:30 a.m.
Worship Services 10:50 a.m. & 6 p.m.
Sunday School 9:45 a.m.
1000 Fremont *Nursery Available 539-2851

539-2851

Valleyview Community Church

Sunday Worship
10:30 a.m.
Ramada Inn, lower level
17th and Anderson

For more information call
Dan Walter 776-0112

GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH

2901 Dickens Ave.
Don Pahl, Pastor
Mike Tuley, Pastor
776-0424

Worship 8:30 & 10:45 a.m.
Collegiate & International
Bible Studies Sun. 9:30 a.m.
Fellowship Hour Sun. 6 p.m.
Family Night Wed. 7 p.m.
STUDENTS WELCOME

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST FELLOWSHIP OF MANHATTAN

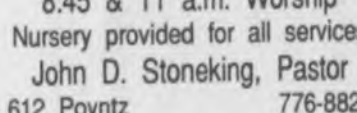

10:45 a.m. Service & Sunday School
Nursery provided, everyone welcome
481 Zeandale Rd.
On K-18, 1/2 mile east of K-177

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Christian Campus Ministry
Sunday School-9:30 a.m.
College Class-Money, Sex & Power: A Biblical Perspective
Sunday Worship-10:30 a.m. & 6 p.m.
2510 Dickens Ave. 539-6581

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

8:45 a.m. Communion
(first Sunday of the month)
9:45 College Church School
8:45 & 11 a.m. Worship
Nursery provided for all services
John D. Stoneking, Pastor
612 Poyntz 776-8821

776-8821

CRESTVIEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Worship 10:30 a.m. & 6:30 p.m.
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
4761 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-3798
(2 miles north of Marlatt and Tuttle Creek Blvd.)

The End of Your Search For a Friendly Church

First Congregational Church
Juliette & Poyntz
Sunday Worship 10:45 a.m.
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
Rev. Robert Carlson
537-7006

LIVING WORD CHURCH

Services
Sunday 10 a.m.
Wednesday 7 p.m.

•Dynamic Praise & Worship
•Life Changing
•Preaching & Teaching
•Powerful Ministry
241 Johnson Road
1 mile south on Highway 177
776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

776-0940

J. Kyle Wyatt/Staff
William Kloefkorn, English professor at Nebraska Wesleyan University, reads his poetry Thursday afternoon in the K-State Union. Kloefkorn has been named poet laureate of Nebraska.

Nebraskan poet paints pictures of laughter, love

By Angie Schrock
Collegian Reporter

While reading his poems to an audience of about 60 people Thursday in the K-State Union, William Kloefkorn, poet laureate of Nebraska, told anecdotes to supplement the readings and make the listeners laugh.

Starting the reading with a poem written while his students at Nebraska Wesleyan University were taking a final seemed appropriate for the university setting, he said.

"It's a great feeling to love your students at the end of the semester, and this prompted me to write a poem about the love I feel for my students," he said.

The poem painted a picture of a class full of individuals, each with a character of his own, and the love and life filling the room.

Many of Kloefkorn's poems dealt with his childhood years and family life in Kansas.

"I recognized all the people he talks about, even though he changed the names," said Bernadine Baker, Kloefkorn's sister. "This is the first time I have seen him give a reading and it relates so much to our family and hometown area."

Poems dealing with serious, humorous and universal topics dominated his reading.

One poem started out describing a paper route from Kloefkorn's childhood and a day when his girlfriend went with him. It recalled the headline on the paper that day, which was about World War II. This brought to mind the fact that the bomb was dropped on Hiroshima one week later.

The poem ended by dealing with passion and destruction, which so often go together, Kloefkorn said.

Such phrases as "victory with sickening undertones," "A-Bomb," "fallout," and "ground zero" appeared in the poem.

The reading was informal, and Kloefkorn made the audience feel comfortable.

"He wrote really Midwestern, and he had a story behind every poem," said Braden Nelson, junior in psychology.

Poems about country western music, family, Christmas, country churches and his grandfather's grave portrayed his thoughts.

"My granddaughter was in the car with us driving through Kansas on the way to a wedding. She was learning Kansas vocabulary, which prompted me to write a poem," Kloefkorn said.

Student voter turnout increases

SGA Elections Committee credits rec complex expansion

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

Almost one-fourth of the student body voted in the Student Governing Association elections Tuesday and Wednesday.

This year, 4,775 students voted — a significant jump from last year's turnout of 3,143.

Members of the Student Government Association Elections Committee attributed the 7 percent increase to the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex expansion referendum on the ballot.

In fact, 70 students voted on the referendum and nothing else, said Doug McIver, freshman in electrical engineering and chairman of the elections committee.

"A lot of people had strong feelings about the referendum and wanted to get their say in on whether they were going to pay for the recreation center expansion," said Jayme Wall, junior in journalism and mass communications and elections committee member.

Also contributing to the increased number of voters were the recent developments in reorganization, committee members said.

"Reorganization brought a lot more people in to vote, especially in the College of Architecture and Design and the College of Human Ecology," said Heather Coleman, sophomore in psychology and committee member.

"Reorganization had a lot of effect on the election," McIver said. "I think it was mainly because of the referendum, though."

Student Governing Association Election Results

Student Body President
Jonathan Morris	1,335	Lori Scott	357
Todd Heitschmidt	1,041	Brooke Jones	355
Johnny Gaffney	878	Susan Lind	353
Todd Giefer	765	Mary Ade	349
John Buchanan	430	Kiki Riesinger	321
David McIntyre	202	Kami White	320
*Because none of the candidates received a two-thirds majority, a run-off election between the top two is scheduled for Wednesday Nov. 7.
Board of Student Publications
Kelly Levi	2,305	Tricia Thornton	312
Kim Hafner	2,159	Scott Truhlar	297
Tom Alberg	1,916	Melissa Garcia	288
David Svoboda	57	Heather Smith	288
Agriculture Senators		Derek Thoman	287
Todd Johnson	187	Kevin Rush	284
Jeff Peterson	148	Laura Vetter	266
Jackie McCaskey	137	Lara Gilliland	261
Julie Martin	116	Business Administration Senators
Architecture and Design Senators		Kim Rathbun	300
Stacy Purvis	263	Steven Ingram	287
Lane Allison	227	Katrina Goering	266
Wes Ray	123	Bart Spachek	255
Arts and Sciences Senators		Greg Kemp	235
Heather Riley	427	Chris Huston	223
Regina Estevez	381	Mike Farmer	214
Rod Olin	372	Margie Meyers	200
		Ann Woodbury	198
		Education Senators
		Heather Downs	250
		Paul Newhouse	200
		Engineering Senators
		Steve Edwards	192
		Jim Struber	187
		Laura Murphy	24
		Graduate School Senators
		Linda Wilkerson	115
		Joel Gruenke	100
		Greg Weisenborn	81
		David Rogers	79
		Henry Rolka	14
		Eric Gibson	13
		Human Ecology Senators
		Pete Marsh	224
		Diane Pratt	193
		Britton Harshaw	178
		Jeff Forkenbrack	161
		Veterinary Medicine Senator
		Marianne Gallagher	2

Source: Student Governing Association

The largest percentage of voters came from the College of Architecture and Design. Of the 870 architecture students, 40 percent, 347, turned out to vote.

The second highest percentage was the College of Engineering with 883 out of 2,647 voting.

Increased publicity may have been another factor in the larger voter turnout.

"I think it had a lot to do with the referendum, but I also think the elections were a lot more publicized this year," Coleman said.

"The candidates have done more advertising this year than in the past," Wall said.

The number of students who voted in the 1990 general election from each college are as follows:

- Agriculture — 390.
- Architecture and Design — 347.
- Arts and Sciences — 1,465.
- Business Administration — 768.
- Education — 348.
- Engineering — 883.
- Graduate School — 229.
- Human Ecology — 320.
- Veterinary Medicine — 40.

Slattery speaks to rotary members about stand on local, national issues

By Alan Wilds
Staff Reporter

U.S. Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., said he believes facing up to the country's problems and being honest with each other is the key to solving difficult problems.

Slattery commented on several local and national issues affecting northeast Kansas in a speech to the Manhattan Rotary Club at a noon luncheon Thursday at the University Ramada Inn.

The budget crisis took center stage in Slattery's speech. He said the process was difficult and admitted that the credibility of Congress was brought into question.

"I recognize Congress has not looked good during the last 30 days, even though we have done a few good things," he said.

Among those good things, he said, are budget restrictions and spending caps on the military, domestic spending and international affairs; all of which were supported by the entire Kansas congressional delegation.

"We fought for what was important to Kansas," he said.

The downside of the budget agreement, Slattery said, is coming to terms with the massive support in Congress for government spending.

"At the end of the budget session, I took to the floor and pointed out that two-thirds of all members of Congress voted for every appropriations bill that passed this year," he said. "The problem is not solved."

Locally, Slattery said the community must show its support for K-State and Fort Riley.

"I think K-State has important things going on right now that will affect the future of this community," he said, mentioning the reorganization plan and Wednesday's protest.

Although expansion of Fort Riley has not received much attention lately, Slattery promised support for land expansion if the alternative means losing the 1st Infantry Division.

"We have a moral obligation to adequately train the young men and

■ See SLATTERY, Page 12

The men of Phi Gamma Delta and the Leukemia Society of America

would like to thank the following organizations and businesses for their generous contributions which allowed us to exceed our goal of $10,500 for the 17th Annual FIJI Run for Leukemia.

Businesses:

Aggie Ski & Sport
Aggieville Barber Shop
Bushwacker's
C&M Auto Supply
Chiropractic Family Health Center
Heirloom Portraits
Days Inn, Junction City
Dick Edward's Auto Plaza, Inc.
Impressions
Janis Reich Artistic Hair
Johnson Bros. Furniture Co., Inc.
McCall Patterns, Inc.
Modern Woodmen of America
R-W Milling Co.
Sam Saroff and Co., Inc.
Sink, Gillmore, and Gordon Public Accountants
Skin Care Essentials
Valentino's
Walter P. Robertson, Chartered
Wamego Farm Center, Inc.
Wamego Telephone Company
West Indies Development Institute

Greek organizations:

Alpha Chi Omega
Alpha Delta Pi
Alpha Gamma Rho
Alpha Tau Omega
Alpha Xi Delta
Chi Omega
Delta Delta Delta
Delta Upsilon
Kappa Delta
Lambda Chi Alpha
Phi Delta Theta
Phi Kappa Tau
Pi Beta Phi
Sigma Chi
Sigma Phi Epsilon
Tau Kappa Epsilon

Friend and Effective Advocate for K-State

Katha Hurt is a true friend of K-State. Katha has a 100% voting record for Kansas State University at the legislature.

Katha worked for increases in faculty salaries and operating expenses for K-State, and they passed.

Katha voted against Mike Hayden's highway plan because it took too much money away from higher education in this state.

Let's re-elect a friend and effective advocate for K-State.

Re-elect Katha Hurt.

RE-ELECT

Katha Hurt
KANSAS HOUSE

Paid by Katha Hurt Campaign, Dave Vruwink, Treasurer.

Public to participate in re-enactment of 1800s

By Candace Plett
Collegian Reporter

With hand-sewn linen shirts and dresses, moccasins, primitive cooking utensils and canvas tents, over 100 people are preparing for a weekend of living history.

They'll be participating in the Historic Re-enactors' Rendezvous and Primitive Blackpowder Shoot, free to the public, Saturday and Sunday at Fort Riley's First Territorial Capitol.

"People coming out here are portraying a particular time period, up to about 1880," said Tim Rues, curator of the First Territorial Capitol. "The bulk will be mountain men and civil war re-enactors with authentic clothing and tepees or lodges. Some even adopt special mannerisms and are portraying a certain individual."

Rues said there will be a black-powder shooting contest with muzzle-loaded guns, the forerunners of the modern rifle.

"Usually paper targets are used, but we want this competition to be more visual," he said. "We are using novelty items for targets, such as sacks of flour, lumps of coal, clay pigeons, balloons and raw eggs."

Michele Boone, senior in animal sciences and industry, won the women's division of last year's black-powder shoot.

"My stepfather introduced me to blackpowder shooting," she said. "It turned out to be something we could do as a family. He bought some rifles from a friend and we went out competing."

Boone's mother has also won prizes as a sharpshooter.

Boone said she likes re-enacting Indian cultures. The costumes are difficult to assemble, however, because of the intermixing of ideas among tribes during that time period. "It's a dress-up thing," she said.

"Usually Saturday night, everyone gets together around a campfire for singing and telling stories."

The re-enactment is a family event and a chance for history buffs to meet the past one-on-one.

"It's the chance to meet a lot of interesting characters," Rues said.

Rues said traders will sell a variety of unique historical items at the re-enactment.

"It will be a weekend of camping out, fishing and canoeing," said

Manhattan resident Jefferson Brown, owner of a 26-foot replica of a birchbark canoe.

He will be re-enacting the early French Canadian trappers called voyageurs.

"French Canadians were the first Europeans in Kansas," he said.

"Mountain men were horsemen involved in the fur trade. It was a risky occupation. The voyageurs were similar, but they were more diplomatic. They got along better with the Indians and didn't always carry guns.

"This is the kind of thing that would have been a trade good," Brown said as he displayed a vividly striped wool blanket that had been made into a long coat. He said blankets like those from the 1800s are still being made from the same high grade wool.

"A canoe might carry a couple hundred pounds of blankets at a time," he said.

As a small business, he provides rides in his canoe. He also is part of a newly-formed re-enactors group. He said he sees re-enactments as a different way to explore history and experience what went on before.

Brown said he travels frequently to participate in similar events. The farthest he and his wife Cathy have gone was a trip 900 miles northwest to Wyoming.

SUBWAY

Homecoming '90 Special

Buy any Footlong Sub and get another of equal or lesser value for only 99¢ with the purchase of a medium drink.

Offer good: Fri., Sat., & Sun. Nov. 2, 3 & 4

In Aggieville

620 N. Manhattan Ave.

Call ahead @ 537-8700

Not good in combination with any other offer or coupon

SNOOKIES

Fri. & Sat.

50¢ Kamis

Go Cats! Beat Iowa State!

Sun. Nov. 4

$2.50 pitchers
Live Rock n' Roll
"2ND Nature"

Doors Open at 7 p.m.

1122 Moro • Upstairs • Aggieville • 776-7726

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS:

1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
539-3338

- Free Pregnancy Testing
- Totally Confidential Services
- Same Day Results
- Call For Appointment
- Walk-ins Welcome
- Located across from Campus in Anderson Village

Monday-Friday
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
or by appointment

CHARLES
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
ESTABLISHED 1988

The Wild Ones

ROCK N' ROLL

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY WITH

$ DOLLAR PITCHER $

SATURDAY

HAVE A BEER BEFORE THE

CATS GAME

AND WATCH THE

Huskers vs. [Logo]

the
BARNBURNERS

HOMECOMING AT

OPERA WAREHAM HOUSE

410 Poyntz
537-8646

ADMISSION $3

Doors open at 8 p.m.

Saturday, November 3rd

Plum Tree
Homestyle Buffet

All you can eat $5.75, Sunday 5-9 p.m.
Includes soup & salad bar

•Spaghetti with Meat Sauce	•Corn on the Cob
•Swiss Steak	•Rolls & Butter
•Mashed Potatoes & Gravy	•Chocolate Mousse

 Holiday Inn ***

530 Richards Drive Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 539-5311

A HOMECOMING WELCOME

★ 17 flavors of
ICE CREAM

plus

★ Malt-Shakes

★ Sandwiches

KREEM KUP

17th & Yuma-1 mile south of campus

I LIKE THE STATE
IN

Fri., Nov. 2

K-State Union: 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Ambassador Elections
Final Competition—11 a.m.
Pride of Wildcat Land Band & K-State Cheerleaders
11:30 Body Building
Introduction of Ambassador Candidates
Coach Bill Snyder
Entertainment
1:30 p.m. Yell Like Hell
Float Judging, 3-6 p.m.
Spirit March, 9 p.m.
Meet at Triangle Park by 8:45 p.m. Bonfire Pep Rally,
Memorial Stadium,
9:30 p.m. Pant the Chant Contest
Body Building & Yell Like Hell Winners Announcement

Sat., Nov. 3

Parade 9 a.m.
Participants meet at City Park at 8:20 a.m.
Ends at Manhattan Town Center
Yell Like Hell Winners perform
K-State vs. Iowa State
Halftime Presentation—Ambassadors Announcemtn
Spirit Competition Winners

1. Living Groups 2. Residence Halls 3. Organizations

Blue Key thanks , official Homecoming Radio Station

BAYSTREET

AND THE PIT

TONIGHT!

Ladies Free!

SAT.

No Cover with
STUDENT I.D.!

10¢ Kamis all weekend!

Check out Women's Rugby this weekend at Gorham Park!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

CLASSIFIED RATES
One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15

1 Announcements

Bobby T's

Weekends at Bobby T's

Fridays Enjoy Shrimp and Beer
2 doz shrimp & pitcher of beer $4.99
DJ 8-12

Saturday Enjoy Live Entertainment
John Woofert
The Singing Stockbroker

A LOT CAN BE SAID ABOUT
A LITTLE BIT OF SPACE:

COLLEGIAN
ClassADS

They Work

The Osage House welcomes the CATS for dining and cocktails.

*Seafood
*Steaks
*Chicken

Also: Indian cuisine
available.

2506 Stagg Hill Rd. 776-1234

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

Don't Forget
FRIDAY
LADIES
IN FREE
SATURDAY
No Cover
with Student ID
Only At
BAYSTREET

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locators. P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

DIRECT THE K-State Band at Homecoming!! For details, visit the sign-up table in the Union.

HOLIDAY GIFT Expo. Crafts, food, toys, jewelry, door prizes, soup, snacks. Manhattan City Auditorium, Nov. 3, 9a.m.—3p.m. Don't miss this!

LITTLE APPLE Gymnastics is offering tumbling and partner stunt classes for those interested in trying out for cheerleading at KSU. Call 539-3613.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

WHY NOT celebrate Homecoming with wine and dinner at The Osage House? 776-1234. 2605 Stagg Hill Road.

What candidate for governor wants to outlaw abortions, even in the case of rape and incest? Answer: NOT Governor Mike Hayden. Pd. Pol. Ad by...Mike Hayden, Republican for Governor Central Committee

Great Vanity Coat Cover-Up!

Layaway your favorite coat today
Thru Nov. 4
Manhattan Town Center

2 Apartments—Furnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY!— One-bedroom apartment close to campus, front door parking, air conditioning. $340. 537-0998.

GREAT APARTMENT, great location, great price! One-bedroom, partially furnished, one block from campus/ Aggieville— Only $295/ month plus electric. Call (913)537-3342 today!

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

STUDIO AVAILABLE Now. Sunset/ College Heights location. $195. Water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

HUGE CLEAN one-bedroom apartment. Close to KSU. Available now! $275. Karen 539-6945, 776-4834.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid. $260. 776-7320.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/ dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. Available November. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original, $800 or best offer. 1-485-2769.

1978 SUNBIRD— Excellent body, upholstery. 57,000 actual. Good gas mileage. Steal it for $1,995. 776-7588.

1984 CUTLASS Ciera. blue, power steering, AMFM, cassette. Call 532-3369.

1984 TOYOTA Tercel, new brakes, clutch and tires, 87K, $2,000. 1979 Dodge Aspen, $400. After 5p.m. 539-8307.

1986 CAMARO, hot red with T-top, only 47K, Mint! 1-485-2576 after 6p.m.

1986 FORD Tempo G.L., two-door, five-speed, white with gray interior, excellent condition! $4,000. 532-3080.

FOR SALE: 1977 Mazda Rotary pickup, runs, as is, a rare beast. $300. 776-3757.

HONDA CRX— HF Model, 50 miles per gallon, excellent condition, good price. Please call. 776-7895.

(Continued on page 11)

Sat. Nov. 3

PRE HOMECOMING GAME Scrimmage

Doors open: 10:15 a.m.
Southeast Entrance Only

Football game day parking policy will be in effect.

Admission: Free

Straight Talk. Not Campaign Talk.

Take a look at Katha Hurt's record:

LEGISLATORS' PENSIONS

FACT 1 In 1988 Katha Hurt made a commitment to voters that she would do something to stop outrageous legislative pensions. She ran her campaign based on that promise, and she won. But when the actual vote came, she backed off saying she had "a distinct impression that if we wanted to work with these people (other legislators) we better not put them on the spot." Now legislators enjoy a 43% increase in their pensions.

MARGIN OF EXCELLENCE

FACT 2 Katha Hurt's performance was less than excellent concerning Kansas State University's Margin of Excellence. She says the Margin was lost because of expensive highways. But the truth is, the third year of the Margin was lost because the cigarette tax failed in the house. We lost the Margin because Representative Hurt could only get seven of her 57 Democratic colleagues to support the measure, while the majority of Republicans were voting for the bill.

SUPPORT FOR KSU

FACT 3 While Katha Hurt served as our State Representative, Kansas State University lost the third year of the Margin of Excellence, half of its enrollment adjustment and $2 million in last-minute base budget cuts. She even voted for a bill that would have reduced funding for K-State's Center of Excellence.

FOLLOWING THE PARTY

FACT 4 Katha Hurt voted with her party leadership 92% of the time. Do her party bosses represent the thinking of our district? And she still claims to be independent.

DRUG-FREE SCHOOL ZONES

FACT 5 111 legislators voted for drug-free school zones. But Katha Hurt was one of 10 who voted against them. Today, that law is being used to prosecute drug pushers who try to sell drugs to our children. She voted against drug-free school zones because she said "it's wrong." More than 40 states have found it's right!

RESPONSIBLE SPENDING

FACT 6 Katha Hurt was one of four voting for up to a 40% increase in legislators' free postage allowance. A total of 113 legislators said no to the increase. She said yes to personal privilege.

BOARDING SCHOOLS

FACT 7 When asked about consolidation of schools recently, Katha Hurt said, "We may be faced with another consolidation. I think it needs to be done... We're looking perhaps at public high school boarding schools." Do we want to take our children from their homes and communities in the name of consolidation?

Let's get our facts straight. We need leadership that adds up to effective results. We need Kent Glasscock.

Strong leadership.
Shared values. Vote
for Kent Glasscock
November 6.

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative,
Bill Varney, Treasurer.

Have a 'Gem' of a
Week-end!

Specialists

REED & ELLIOTT
Jewelers

CERTIFIED GEMOLOGIST
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

402 Poyntz
776-4000

Daily: 10:00-6:00
Thurs: 10:00-8:00
Closed Sunday

GUARANTEED IN STOCK

or you can rent it

FREE

John's ICE CREAM
& VIDEO

Details At Store
1123 Westloop Pl.
Manhattan
537-0089

1009 W. 6th St.
Junction City
762-4270

(Continued from page 10)

6 Child Care

NANNIES: Come experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

8 Employment

IMMEDIATELY: EARN while you learn. Manpower is looking for KSU Students interested in earning great pay—plus commissions. We offer flexible hours and valuable training and business experience. Plus free use of a personal computer. If you're a full-time student, sophomore or above, with at least a B average, and computer familiar, Manpower needs you as a Collegiate Rep to promote the sales of the IBM Personal Systems/2 on campus. Call Lori at (913)749-2800 for all the existing details.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

CLEAN, COOK, childcare, few hours every day. Apply in person, 2024 Browning.

IMMEDIATE OPENING for a director of our dietary department. Must be a registered dietitian or registry eligible. Should have menu planning, personnel development, clinical and community education skills. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. EOE.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS: CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

STUDENT WORKER: Accounting major. Duties: accounting, typing and general office. Apply to Coleman, Extension Business and Finance, Umberger Hall, Room 121.

SUMMER JOBS: Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

TELEMARKETING POSITION open with major insurance company. Insurance license helpful but not required. Serious inquiries only. Call 776-3882 or 537-4661 between 3-5 p.m. M-F.

TIRED OF school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Temptation Nanny Agency. (913)642-4443.

TUTORS for university tutoring program for spring semester, 1991. Majors with an emphasis in math, science and business are encouraged to apply. KSU students, minimum GPA 3.0. Flexible work hours. Ability to work with diverse groups. $5/ hour. Application deadline: Nov. 12, 1990. Applications available: Educational Supportive Services, 201 Holton Hall, 532-5642. KSU is AA/EEO employer.

WANTED: ASSISTANT counter sales in warehouse, day hours. Apply in person, Kansas Electric Supply Company, 312 Fremont Street.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

GYMNASTICS INSTRUCTORS needed. Boys and girls coaches. Can train interested applicants. $450/ hour. Little Apple Gymnastics. 539-3613.

HOME TYPISTS: PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits. 15-80K+.

Call
Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

9 Food Specials

Every Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!

- Spaghetti & meat sauce
- Salad Bar
- Texas Toast

$4.95

CHEF
111 S. 4th
Fridays 5-8 p.m.

SUNDAY LUNCH
Pan Fried Chicken and other daily specials. Specials include free dessert.
ONLY $4.25
Serving Breakfast till 1 p.m.
Open Every Sunday 7 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

CHEF
111 S. 4th
10% off with this ad

KITE'S
BAR AND GRILLE

SUNDAY
CHIEFS VS. RAIDERS
All You Can EAT
SPAGHETTI $2.99 (all day)
BIG SCREEN TV Plus 7 others!
619 N. 12 • Aggieville

10 Furniture to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Sofa—$50, tables (2) $10 each, floor lamp—$5. Call 1-784-3031.

WOHLER'S USED furniture, 615 N. Third, 539-3119. Hours 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, antique furniture, modern furniture, appliances, bicycles, misc.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: MEN'S Red 10-speed bike. Call 537-9370 to identify.

FOUND: STRAY ferret. Describe to claim. 539-8399.

LOST: KEY chain lost last week. Call Steve 776-3499.

LOST: LARGE long-haired, brown tiger-striped cat. Lost west of stadium. Call 537-0635, leave message.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

MOUNTAIN BIKE—Jazz—Made by Trek—Brand new! Asking $300 firm. Call 539-2009, leave message.

19 Music/ Musicians

BACK BY popular demand at The Ranch Saloon—This weekend—Don't miss the, "Flint Hills Express." Band.

KUSTOM 250-WATT bass amp and matching cabinet. Great amp, great price. Call Scott at 776-1184 or 776-3754.

20 Parties-n-more

HOMECOMING PARTY at Amigo's. Live band, fraternity taco eating contest. Super specials on drinks. 8 p.m.—midnight.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

ALPHA TAU Omega is proud to celebrate our 70th year at Kansas State. We welcome alumni and friends.

ATO WILD Stallions—Hey Righteous Homecoming Dude! The week's almost over, but the groovin' fun has just begun. We're a bodacious team—all others are bogus! Be excellent to each other—Your ADPI Homecoming Babes.

AX KRISTI—Saturday you're 21. So tonight we're off to K.C. to wine and dine when the clock strikes 12 the lun begins. Happy B-day, Kurt.

DERB MAN—Happy 1 month, honey.

FLOORBURN—HAPPY 20th tomorrow! Keep your shirt on this year. Love, your short tease.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, Linda (Booger). Your car will be commissioned soon in the Navy. We all love you. K, C, J, L, R.

HEY, BFE—Picking G. crossover paid big bucks, but personally I feel it was all quite Luck! Happy Anniversary—Smack.

HEY, MILLER. Why don't you just take off your shirt, and put a sign on your back that says—Birthday Boy! Twofyouuu! (Course I'm just a dumb d... girl.)

HOMER, PURPLE pride, 6,800 miles, laughs and late nights, we accomplished the best year ever! Traveling with you, Edith, Frog and the candy drawer has made many memories for me to always treasure. Hopefully our time together won't end and our love for K-State we'll always send. Work that body! 1-4-3 Marge.

J.L.—WHERE the hell were you? We could have been killed! Happy Birthday! Love—KLHL.

KIM—NINE months ago we had our first date. You make me so happy. Happy Anniversary. Love, Craig.

KRISTIN O., I can't believe it's been a full year already. I've loved every minute we spent together. I love you, more, Mike A.

SANDRA ROSINE (a.k.a. Alex). Yes, this is for you. Are you surprised? Give it your best shot this week in Kansas City. You have everything going for you, so knock 'em dead. I'm with you all the way. I'll miss you! With love, your Tri-Boyd sister.

SANDY, JOHN & Sara. Reach high. Reach far. Your dream the sky. Your goal the stars. Good luck in K.C., guys—We're behind you all the way! —Carrie, Melanie, John & Christine.

SIG EPS—(Sing to the tune of Beverly Hillsbillies.) Let me tell ya a story about Sig Ep and Alpha Xi. They worked all week for a thing called Homecoming. They lost all study habits to work to be the best. Sig Ep and Alpha Xi, better than the rest! Let's keep up the good work! Love—The Alpha Xi!

THERESA D.—Sorry you had to leave Saturday. Let's party sometime. —Apt. C Woodway.

TO THE blonde girl Thursday morning wearing blue sweatshirt. We walked together, but never said a word until you said, "see ya," and went in [faded]. Would like to say more next time. Interested? Reply personals. Guy in white shorts.

TO THE friends of DOA, 100 & 100 we shall play, then cheer for the Cats the rest of the day. To the home base we shall return and watch the night Rock, Roll and Burn, Dred, Stix & Chaw.

TO THE men and womenhater of KSU—We have heard both sides and we know what is true. We have a few students who belong at KU! It's getting boring. Anyway, we wouldn't want KU to find out about our women. I hear they dig that sort of thing. —Kingsley.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: Hearts Restored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 143 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS: resumes, letters, $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Clafin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th, 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

Typing USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Reasonable rates. Call Judy at 539-7100.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Tri-level furnished apartment, one-half block from campus. $157.50/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Take over lease now, December or January. 537-9568.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE TO share two-bedroom across from campus. Available immediately. 539-7494.

MALE NON-SMOKER to share three-bedroom. $120 plus utilities. 539-3690 after 5p.m.

MALE ROOMMATE for spring, January rent free, close to campus. Call 537-4165 after 8p.m.

NEEDED—ROOMMATE for spring semester to fill large main floor of house. One and one-half blocks from campus, own bedroom, $150 month plus one-fourth of house bills. Call 537-3696.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Sunset and Anderson, rent $190. If no answer leave message. 776-2032.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted at 1500 Harry, $135/ utilities. 776-1252.

TWO MALE Christians to share five-bedroom, three-bath townhouse. Each room wired for cable, phone, computer. Washer and dryer. 537-0472. $195 plus utilities.

TWO ROOMMATES wanted. Four-bedroom house one block from campus. $150/ month plus one-fourth bills. 776-3199.

30 Travel

LAST CHANCE!
JANUARY BREAK
STEAMBOAT
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $177
BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $184
VALE/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $247

9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FOR SALE: H78-14 Bias-ply tires. Like new. Pair—$20. 539-5456 after 5p.m. ask for Brian.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhart Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

PROTECT YOURSELF against an unwanted attacker, purchase mace. Easy to use, small enough for your pocket, attach to your key chain. Security for $5. Call 539-7349, leave message.

REFRIGERATOR $30. 10-speed lady's bike $20. Suitcase (Samsonite) $10 and a lot of miscellaneous. Call 776-9293.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

In 1968, Gurr Mranst wanted to be the first guy to stand on the moon. His car wouldn't go that high, so he decided to stand in Vermont for awhile. ©1990 Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

... AND THEN THIS KID TELLS ME THAT EVERY TIME WE MEET I HAVE TO BRING HIM A LARGE PIZZA AND A SIXPACK OF PERSI.

THAT'S WHEN I GOT MAD. I TOLD HIM I WAS GONNA SPEAK TO HIS PARENTS ABOUT THIS LITTLE BLACKMAIL SCHEME OF HIS. THAT HAD HIM SCARED.

THEN I TOLD HIM THAT IF I BRING ANY PIZZA IT'LL BE A MEDIUM AND WE WERE SPLITTING THE SIXPACK.

SO YOU STUCK TO YOUR GUNS. DAMN STRAIGHT.

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

DAVE'S DONUTS

SHUT UP, YOU FILTHY GRAVY-SUCKING PISSES! I'VE GOT HOSTAGES!

WE'LL GIVE YOU UNTIL THE COUNT OF 3! 1... 2...

NO WAY!! ONE MOVE AND THE DONUTS GET IT!!

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Ruth wanted to go bowling with me and Steve, so we went last night.

It was a lot of fun, even though we weren't any good.

The funniest thing that happened was when Steve let go of his ball wrong.

It rolled straight into the gutter without even touching the lane.

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

THE HARD PART FOR US AVANT-GARDE POST-MODERN ARTISTS IS DECIDING WHETHER OR NOT TO EMBRACE COMMERCIALISM.

DO WE ALLOW OUR WORK TO BE HYPED AND EXPLOITED BY A MARKET THAT'S SIMPLY HUNGRY FOR THE NEXT NEW THING? DO WE PARTICIPATE IN A SYSTEM THAT TURNS HIGH ART INTO LOW ART SO IT'S BETTER SUITED FOR MASS CONSUMPTION?

OF COURSE, WHEN AN ARTIST GOES COMMERCIAL, HE MAKES A MOCKERY OF HIS STATUS AS AN OUTSIDER AND FREE THINKER. HE BUYS INTO THE CRASS AND SHALLOW VALUES ART SHOULD TRANSCEND. HE TRADES THE INTEGRITY OF HIS ART FOR RICHES AND FAME.

OH, WHAT THE HECK. I'LL DO IT.

THAT WASN'T SO HARD.

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

YOU KNOW, YOU DON'T HAVE TO FLY SOUTH FOR THE WINTER IF YOU DON'T WANT TO...

JUST BECAUSE EVERYONE ELSE IS DOING IT, DOESN'T MEAN YOU HAVE TO...

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Koran creator

6 Part of a min.

9 Adage

12 Flat paper?

13 "But — on forever"

14 Acapulco auntie

15 Places in the heart

16 Tennis spectators

18 M1 rifle

20 Kiln

21 Vigoda or Fortas

23 Airline initials

24 Garbo or Borg

25 Negri of silents

27 "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" playwright...

29 ... and star

31 Supply oxygen

35 Fourth estate

37 Apt to be late

38 Shankar's instrument

41 Up to, poetically

43 Michele or Harper

44 Leib's father

45 Vaudeville's dream gig

47 As Her Majesty might

49 Corday's victim

52 Article in "Le Monde?"

53 A foot wide?

54 Viewpoint

55 Cousteau's milieu

56 June honoree

Editor's concern

57 DOWN

1 Ga. neighbor

2 Permit

3 In the main

4 Land, lots of land

5 "Damn Yankee" song

6 Flashing light, for one

7 "Holy cow!"

8 Army rank: abbr.

9 Allen or Martin

10 Broadcast

11 "The Duke"

17 Drops

19 Cognizant

21 Suitable

22 Feathery wrap

24 Understand

26 Woolly Peruvian

28 Mr. Rathbone

30 Stick figure?

32 It's not a good reaction

33 Ballerina's pivot

34 Ram's m'am

36 Hung around

38 Antitoxin

39 Castile or Cara

40 Detroit athlete

42 Lorenzo of "Falcon Crest"

45 "Not guilty," e.g.

46 Lack the ability

48 Played the first card

50 "Glad — Over"

51 Golf-bag gizmo

11-2

J X E K Y F J N M E P W M E X P Q Y R

K W R Y Y E M X T F B W T F E P W R

X J F B X N K B F

Yesterday's Cryptquip: IN MY SUPERB CARPENTRY CLASS, I DID MY LEVEL BEST.

Today's Cryptquip clue: E equals R

Speech

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

The speech pathology and audiology department has 31 people who come in two to three times a week on a regular basis for therapy, and 180 to 200 people visit the department each year for one-time evaluations, Wade said.

The quality of the program has never been in question, said Ann Smit, assistant professor of speech pathology. She said the proposal came as a blow because student scores are high and the department had received a good accreditation review.

"Our students are placed 100 percent in the job market," Smit said. "There are 60 openings for speech pathology and audiology jobs in Kansas — there is a demand that can't be filled."

There is a waiting list for people in the community to get into the sign language class at the University, Arnett said, and some people have waited more than two years for classes.

Manhattan residents who depend on the speech pathology and audiology department for help are faced with tough decisions on where they will seek assistance if the program is cut.

"The closest place I could send Andy would be to Olathe at the (Kansas) School for the Deaf. But they will not accept him because of other medical problems," Arnett said. "There is a federal mandate for state schools to provide speech pathologists and audiologists to children who need them. However, Andy only sees his once a week because they are in such high demand."

If K-State's program is eliminated, Arnett said, she will have to sue her son's school in order to get a speech pathologist to see him four times a week.

There are private speech pathologists in Manhattan, Wade said. But many people are not able to afford them.

Those with disabilities who receive treatment are classified into brackets according to their income and what they are able to pay, this enables them to afford treatment, Wade said. The system operates on as a sliding scale.

The speech pathology and audiology department has about 60 undergraduates and 16 graduates, Smit said.

"My understanding is that we will be phased out in three to five years," Wade said. "We have an obligation to students who are coming in as freshman and to our graduates who are currently studying. Those people have a right to an education."

Slattery

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8

women we enlist in our armed services," he said.

Slattery assured Kansans they will benefit from the clean-air bill, which was 10 years in the making. Kansas, along with other Midwest states, was asked to help pay for nationwide clean-up.

"There will be no cost sharing," Slattery said, explaining his long battle against it in Congress. "Our utility rates would have gone up if we lost on this bill. Instead, the ethanol demand may go up by as much as 50 percent, which would be very good for Kansas."

Slattery mentioned the farm bill and new developments at K-State, such as the NASA center, before a brief question and answer session.

Slattery has an extensive campaign schedule until the election. The schedule includes stops in Topeka, Atchison and Seneca and three television debates with Republican challenger Scott Morgan.

Slattery spokesperson Nancy Malir said he will return to Manhattan Saturday to speak to members of the Blue Key National Honor Society and the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority before attending the homecoming game against Iowa State.

Spikers

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

.382 to help Iowa State go 3-0 in last week's matches.

"They run a fairly potent offense. They have a couple of physically strong outside hitters that hit the ball real hard, and they have an experienced setter," Nelson said. "They get a lot out of their outside hitters in performance, as well as their setting knowledge. Iowa State, along with Nebraska, is in the most solid position (within the conference) with six wins."

Iowa State took the previous match 15-4, 13-15, 15-6, 15-17, 15-7 in Ames, and Nelson looks for this match to be a similar battle.

"I thought in our first meeting the match was quite a sway of momentum. It was a kind of roller coaster ride for both of us," Nelson said. "I think both teams have smoothed out and gained a little confidence and have become more consistent. I suspect it's going to be a real close match. Iowa State is going to come in here real confident, I'm sure of that."

ISU

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

were not functional against Kansas, we were just not good at not beating ourselves."

The Cyclones have suffered on the defensive side of the football. Ranking last in the Big Eight against the run and the pass, they lack size up front and have lost key defenders to injuries.

The Wildcats hope to regain the balance in their offense. After rushing for over 100 yards in six of their first seven games, the Wildcats have conceded early leads in their past two contests and have had to rely upon their passing offense to bring them back from behind.

Fire

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

a portion of the south building of the complex," Watson said. "We had to do some quick maneuvering to get power up in the critical areas of the veterinary medical science building. It's only temporary power in an isolated area, but we had it going before lunch today (Thursday)."

Workers, however, were unable to restore enough power to make it possible to have classes in the Vet Med Complex.

Lorenz said classes Thursday and today had to be cancelled.

"We can't hold classes because we don't have lighting or ventilation," he said. "But the lack of power has had many other really negative affects."

He said a top concern has been the lack of lighting to maintain security. A crew of faculty members and facilities workers have volunteered to provide security.

"We're probably also going to lose culture work that was being kept in incubators," Lorenz said. "We just couldn't keep all the incubators going."

He said diagnostic samples to isolate bacterias and viruses were kept in the incubators.

Lorenz said animal holding areas are being ventilated with fans powered by portable generators.

"We have a generator that powers both surgery areas and a natural gas generator — that automatically kicks in when we lose power — that have been holding up pretty well so far," he said.

"We feel good about the freezer situation, though," Lorenz said, referring to the ultra-low freezers used to store research specimens and materials. "We have been able to maintain the right temperature, so far, by using liquid nitrogen and dry ice."

He said some materials in the animal science and biology departments were transferred to the freezers.

Roger Fingland, small-animals surgeon and assistant professor of clinical sciences, and Rick DeBowes, equine surgeon and associate professor of clinical sciences, flew a small aircraft to Denver, Colo., to pick up the parts needed to repair the damage to the electrical system. Lorenz said they left about noon Thursday and were expected to return about 6 p.m. Thursday evening.

The two men decided to fly to Denver because they thought it would be faster to get the parts themselves than to have them mailed by air freight, he said.

The plane, however, was grounded in Denver because of mechanical problems late Thursday night, and they were unable to return with the parts.

Because of the delay, Watson said, repair work wouldn't begin until today.

HIGH NOON

is the deadline for
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
ClassADS
Kedzie Hall 103 8 a.m.-5 p.m.
532-6555

We Take Tips!
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
532-6556

Treat Yourself
To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE
"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special

3-10 in. Pizzas
1-Topping
4-Cokes
$10.00

Everyday
Two-Fers

2-10 in. Pizzas
2-Toppings
2-Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Smokey J's BBQ
Restaurant

Spare Rib Dinner Special
only $4.99 thru Nov. 4th

Bud Light on tap Daily Lunch Specials

Relaxed, Affordable dining

Dine in/Carry out/Catering

2615 Anderson 776-9222 Open Daily 11-9

WANT PIZZA P.D.Q.?
SOUND THE CALL!

Call: 539-5303
1118 Laramie

We have a platoon of cars on alert to deliver your choice of our rich, luscious pies P.D.Q.. WE'LL MARCH RIGHT OVER.

2 Medium
Family Pack

One Combo and
One Single-Topping

$10.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES 12/29/90 KSU

Medium
All Meat Combo

Beef • Sausage
Pepperoni • Ham
Bacon

$7.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES 12/29/90 KSU

2 Medium
One-Toppers

Cheese plus one topping on each

$8.99
or 2 Large $11.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES 12/29/90 KSU

$4 OFF

Any Large Pizza
or

$3 OFF

Any Medium

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES 12/29/90 KSU

Re-Elect
Wilton Thomas
County Commissioner
First District
Riley County

Wilton Thomas is accustomed to Assuming RESPONSIBILITY

Past President Kansas Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers

Elder First Presbyterian Church

Director Manhattan Kiwanis Club

Director Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity House Corporation Board

While at KSU, was a member of Faculty Senate and Athletic Council

Wilton Thomas has the energy to get the jobs done.

He will commit the time to do them right.

Paid for by Thomas for Commissioner Committee
Luann Maupin-Cramer, Chairperson
B. L. (Lee) Ruggles, Treasurer.

Students!—Wed. and Thurs.
performances $1 off if purchased by November 6

AMADEUS
by Peter Shaffer

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17

Tickets: McCain
Box Office
532-6428

15 words—5 days—$5.50 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN ClassADS

Project 90's

Business For All

Dress for Success

Date: Sunday, Nov. 4, 1990 Place: Union Little Theatre
Time: 2-4 p.m. Admission: $1

Workshops Following

At Your Convenience
We Again DELIVER

539-3830

Also: Dine in & Carryout

FALSETTO'S

PIZZA

2-10 in. Pizzas
2 Pepsi
$8.00

2-12 in. Pizzas
2 Pepsi
2 Toppings
$9.99

1127 Moro

Ad It Up! in the COLLEGIAN

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Monday, November 5, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 51

Grissom convicted on murder charges

By The Associated Press

OLATHE — Richard Grissom Jr. was found guilty Sunday of killing three suburban Kansas City women whose bodies have never been found.

A jury of nine women and three men deliberated 12 hours before convicting Grissom of first-degree murder in the disappearances of Joan Marie Butler, 24, of Overland Park, and roommates Christine Rusch and Theresa Brown, both 22, of Lenexa.

Jurors also found the 29-year-old painting contractor guilty of eight related charges. He was found innocent on a burglary charge in the theft of jewelry from another apartment in Butler's complex.

"I am very pleased with the verdict, obviously," said Johnson County District Attorney Paul Morrison, who built a case on circumstantial evidence without any eyewitnesses linking Grissom to the deaths.

Defense attorney Kevin Moriarty said, "Richard Grissom maintains his innocence, and we are very disappointed in the verdict."

Tom Erker, another attorney for Grissom, said the conviction will be appealed "on multiple issues."

Family members of the women were happy about the verdict, but said it did not erase their sorrow.

"Nothing can bring back their lives, so there is a hollowness to this victory that will go on forever," said Dave Rusch, Christine Rusch's father. "But we're thrilled that this is a complete victory except for one charge."

Theresa Brown's mother, Bobby Brown, said she was "elated" by the verdict.

"My main concern now is to know we have Richard Grissom where he belongs. I'm disappointed we haven't had a chance to hear him speak," she said. "We just have to imagine what he's thinking."

Ralph Butler, Joan Marie Butler's father, said, "I hate Richard Grissom."

But he said he's thankful for the guilty verdict "that we waited all these months for."

"The worst part was the months leading up to the trial. As the trial progressed, we felt very good about it," Butler said.

Jurors spent about five hours deliberating Saturday before breaking for the night. They resumed deliberations Sunday morning and returned a verdict about 5 p.m.

Grissom also was found guilty of one count of aggravated kidnapping, four counts of robbery, one count of aggravated burglary and two counts of theft.

Sunday afternoon the jury reviewed testimony by Kathy Arenal, a girlfriend of Grissom, who had testified about his whereabouts the morning Butler was last seen. She also had seen Grissom driving Butler's rental car.

About 50 people crowded into a narrow hallway on the third floor of the courthouse as word spread that the jury had reached a verdict.

The victims' family members were the first allowed through metal detectors and into the courtroom, where 12 plainclothes police officers filled a front row.

One juror smiled upon entering the courtroom, but most appeared grim.

Grissom was stoic when the verdict was read. The women's family members wept. Grissom faces three possible life sentences on the murder convictions. A hearing on post-trial motions was set for Nov. 20.

Defense attorneys rested Friday without presenting any evidence. They had asked Judge William Gray to dismiss the charges, saying prosecutors hadn't proved Grissom committed any crimes or that the women were dead.

But Morrison had said the evidence, though largely circumstantial, was enough for a conviction. Defense attorney Moriarty called it "garbage" and a "house of cards."

The trial lasted 10 days. Because of the large number of exhibits, the judge allowed the jury to deliberate in the courtroom.

In closing arguments, Morrison urged jurors to consider whether three stable, working women would disappear and have no contact with anyone. Butler disappeared on June 18, 1989. Rusch and Brown were last seen eight days later.

"The seasons have changed. There have been amazing world events, and in all that time, the families have not seen these girls," Morrison said. "That's because they are dead."

The prosecution contended the motive for the killings was $3,600 withdrawn from the women's bank accounts shortly after they disappeared. Other valuables also were taken from their apartments.

Evidence against Grissom included master keys to the women's apartments that he had because he was working at the complex. Police also found blood stains in Butler's rental car that Grissom was seen driving after she disappeared.

Officers also found personal belongings of Rusch and Brown in Grissom's car.

Morrison had reminded jurors of Grissom's statements to police when he was arrested at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport within weeks of the women's disappearances.

Negative campaigns opposed by voters

By Kelly Berg
Staff Reporter

Some voters have expressed dissatisfaction with the negative campaigns of candidates in the governor, attorney general, insurance commissioner and state treasurer races.

Though the campaigns have been negative, however, experts say others have been worse in the past.

"I'm not so sure this year has been much more negative than past years," said Franz Samelson, retired psychology professor. "We just tend to forget what happened last year."

Homer Socolofsky, author of "Kansas Governors," agreed.

"It's the nature of people to forget that campaigns half a dozen years ago were even dirtier than the ones that are going on now," Socolofsky said.

He said charges candidates have leveled at their opponents in this year's races have been mild compared to ones in the past.

"Now, campaigning is done mostly by television," he said. "Before, the candidates relied more heavily on newspaper campaigning. And when the newspapers were involved, there were a lot harsher attacks on candidates."

Voters have also voiced a concern that this year's races have been focusing on the candidates rather than the issues.

"This would certainly not be the first year of a no-issue, candidate-personality-based campaign," Socolofsky said.

Merlin Gustafson, political science professor, said he agrees that the candidates' campaigns have focused on personality instead of the issues.

"But whenever you are dealing with personalities, things are more emotional," Gustafson said. "If people are emotional, they might even be more likely to vote."

One battle that has gotten personal is the struggle between Republican Gov. Mike Hayden and his Democratic opponent, Joan Finney.

Hayden has questioned Finney's competency and referred to her anti-abortion view as extreme. Finney has accused Hayden of being inconsistent in his stance on abortion and holds him personally responsible for the current, unpopular property-tax system.

Democratic candidate Bert Cantwell has raised questions about Republican incumbent Bob Stephan's legal and financial problems resulting from a sexual harassment lawsuit filed by one of his former employees. In response, Stephan has accused Cantwell of financial misconduct in his position as superintendent of the Kansas Highway Patrol.

"There will be some that won't vote because of the nature of the campaigns," Socolofsky said. "But the number of voters will probably be more affected by the fact that it's an off-presidential-election year."

"I'm turned off (by the nature of the campaigns)," he said. "But I'm going to vote."

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Derby Food Center is the polling place on campus.

Gary Lytle/Staff

Conflict with God

With the works of Mozart at his feet, Sailer, played by Michael Solomonson, lashes out at God during a scene, while rehearsing Sunday night in Nichols Theatre. See related story, page 9.

Employees concerned Reorganization could affect classified workers

By Lajeane Rau
Collegian Reporter

In addition to academic and administrative changes, reorganization will affect K-State's classified employees.

There are more than 2,000 classified employees at the University, including custodial, clerical, secretarial and food-service workers.

"We like to think of ourselves as the people who make this campus go," said Carol Eichman, secretary in the Department of Environmental Design and chief representative of the Kansas Association of Public Employees at the University. "It makes us wonder how well it will go after the proposed changes are made.

"I have seen a copy of the draft, and it makes reference to reductions of staff affecting the different departments," Eichman said. "It is very unclear as to what this reduction means or how it is going to happen."

Donald Hoyt, director of Planning and Evaluation Services, said a careful analysis of how reorganization will affect classified employees has not yet been done. Hoyt said he expects to know more in the next few days.

The Classified Affairs Committee, which represents classified employees on campus, has not yet taken an official position on the proposal, said

Mary Sutton, accountant in the University controller's office and chairwoman of the committee. The proposal, however, is being reviewed by individual classified employees.

"I know classified employees are very concerned about the impact of the proposed changes, just from phone calls I have received and people I have talked to," Sutton said. "Everyone's main concern is how this is going to affect their jobs. We simply haven't met to form a consensus opinion yet."

As an employee of the College of Architecture and Design, Eichman

■ See EMPLOYEE, Page 10

Reorganization to be discussed at special meeting

By Amy Hadlock
Staff Reporter

A special Faculty Senate meeting will focus on reorganization at 9 a.m. in McCain Auditorium today.

Administrators, Faculty Senate and general faculty will attend the meeting.

"The Faculty Senate received a letter from five faculty members asking the next Senate meeting to focus on reorganization," said Wayne Nafziger, president of Faculty Senate and professor of economics.

"During the meeting, President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman will answer questions about reorganization presented by the faculty," Nafziger said.

"The meeting is a time to see where all the faculty stand," he said. "There will be many varied reactions and opinions. Some will be in favor of discontinuing the reorganization plan, some will want to delay it and some will be in favor and want to continue."

Although the meeting will hear various comments about reorganization, no business will be conducted.

"The meeting is a time where the administration will explain what all has happened so far, and then the general faculty will be able to provide some input," said Ken Klabunde, president-elect of Faculty Senate and chemistry professor.

Richard McGhee, English professor and one of the five writers of the letter to the Faculty Senate, said the letter was to show support for those colleges and departments in the University proposed to be cut.

"We wish to emphasize and support Faculty Senate as a meaningful body of independent and diverse teachers, scholars and researchers who can review with the president his administration of the University," McGhee said. "We don't want to look as if we are reviewing the president. We are sharing with him a review of his administration."

The comments and opinions given at today's meeting will be presented at the Faculty Senate meeting Wednesday.

Wednesday's meeting will be for the Senate and faculty only, not administration, Klabunde said.

On-line catalog system dedicated Lynx database to replace card catalogs

By Alan Wilds
Staff Reporter

Calling it the end of an era, Farrell Library Dean Brice Hobrock dedicated the new Lynx, an on-line catalog system, at a ceremony Friday in Farrell Library.

Willie the Wildcat, Provost James Coffman and library officials were present to cut purple ribbons and see the power-up of the newest wildcat. Lynx, a computerized bibliographic database, contains entries for 65 percent of Farrell's serial and periodical holdings.

Hobrock said Lynx will slowly replace the card catalogs which have been the standard system in the K-State libraries for the past 100 years.

"This is one of the university's most visible outcomes of strategic planning," Hobrock said. "It is also the beginning of the end for the card catalog."

Hobrock said he praises the administration for its 83 percent funding of Lynx through the first year of the Margin of Excellence and the University for making up the remaining 17 percent.

Students and faculty will be able to access the catalog from all floors of Farrell, and, in the future, from remote terminals tied in with the University's mainframe computer.

Dave Allen, chairman of library automation development, said Lynx ties together catalogs, serials lists and accounting.

"Through the terminal, you have access to one catalog," he said. "In the future, it will represent a gateway."

Searchers have access to not only all K-State libraries, but also libraries at all regents universities and, in the future, libraries throughout the country and the world.

"We are constantly in a state of development," Allen said as he demonstrated how to locate books in the Farrell stacks. "We will have more features in about one year where you will be able to refine your search."

The Lynx system costs about $270,000. The price includes software licenses, terminals, printers, other library hardware and yearly maintenance.

Allen said the system was initially set up on an experimental basis in November 1988.

"After that, it was a matter of determining the University's needs with the new mainframe being installed," he said.

Lynx was tied to the mainframe about nine months ago and has undergone a series of tests before being brought on-line. Allen said there are still a few local modifications to be done.

The Lynx software system was developed at Northwestern University and marketed under the name of Notis.

Farrell plans to retain its card catalogs until the remaining 35 percent of the library's entries are moved to the Lynx system.

Allen said he encourages all students to become familiar with the system. He also said all books received by Farrell since 1988 will not appear in the card catalog and are only accessible through the on-line computer.

BRIEFLY

World

Judge orders removal of sub

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A judge ordered a U.S. submarine out of Brazilian waters, saying it poses an environmental danger because it is nuclear-powered, news reports said Sunday.

The judge in the northeastern coastal city of Recife ruled that the USS Greelings must withdraw to 200 miles from the Brazilian coast, outside territorial waters.

The submarine is part of a naval task force docked in Recife, 1,500 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro. The vessels are for joint-training maneuvers between the American and Brazilian navies.

A Marine guard at the American consulate in Rio said no one was available to comment on the reports. The judge could not be reached for comment either.

The judge's ruling was in response to a petition from an environmental group, the Rio newspaper Jornal do Brasil said. The judge reportedly ordered a $100,000 daily fine if the order is disobeyed.

Soccer fans riot in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — City officials in Leipzig on Sunday demanded better security at soccer games after rampaging fans smashed cars, looted stores and fought street battles. An 18-year-old man was killed by police, authorities said.

Nine youths were seriously injured in the violence Saturday, 80 people were arrested and a police officer was hospitalized, police said.

Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars. It was one of the worst soccer riots ever in the former East German territory.

The rioting broke out following Berlin's 4-1 victory over Saxony Leipzig. Fans fought pitched battles outside the stadium, then hundreds stormed through the city.

About 500 youths squared off with police at a subway station. Police officials said officers fired warning shots, and a young man was gunned down in what was only described as an emergency situation. The 18-year-old was not identified.

One large truck was set afire and at least 12 cars and four police wagons were demolished. The ground floor of a department store was gutted by looting and vandalism, authorities said.

A police official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said most of the rioters were from Berlin.

City Council President Dieter Gaasenbeek demanded Sunday that police bolster security precautions for soccer games.

21 killed in bus collision

SEOUL (AP) — A chartered bus carrying more than 40 people home from a visit to former President Chun Doo-hwan collided with a truck and plunged into a mountain lake Sunday, killing at least 21 people, police said.

They said two people were missing and another 21 were hospitalized in the crash near Inje, 65 miles east of Seoul. The dead included the truck driver, police said.

The bus apparently tried to pass another vehicle, hit the truck head-on and plunged into Lake Soyang, police and news reports said.

Yonhap, the national news agency, said the bus was carrying a group of people who had attended the same high school as the president, and their spouses. They had visited Chun at the Paek Tan-sa Buddhist temple, where he has been in exile since November 1988.

Nation

Marijuana magazine folds

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Sinsemilla Tips, the magazine for marijuana growers, is going out of business after 10 years because of the nation's anti-drug climate, its publisher says.

"Drug hysteria and paranoia" in the United States led to circulation declines for the quarterly magazine, publisher Tom Alexander of Corvallis said recently. The last issue of the periodical named for a potent strain of pot will be released this month.

"Ten months ago, our circulation was 20,000," he said of the quarterly printed in Portland. "Now, it's 4,000."

Alexander's store in Corvallis, Full Moon, also was hit during a nationwide series of raids on stores alleged to be selling equipment used for marijuana cultivation.

First published in May 1980, Sinsemilla Tips was printed in Eugene until about 1986, then was printed in Portland. Labeling itself as a "domestic marijuana journal," the magazine featured a variety of marijuana-related news, features and advice columns, as well as analysis of drug issues.

The publication's circulation reached its peak of 20,000 in 1987 and maintained that level until last year, when the stepped-up government action against marijuana cultivation began to cut its magazine sales, Alexander said.

Campus

Jazz ensemble to perform

Trumpets, trombones, saxophones and cymbals will ring out the music of the Big Band Era during the K-State Concert Jazz Ensemble's fall concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the K-State Union.

The ensemble will perform eight selections in a program that features a variety of styles. The concert is free to the public.

"The concert will present many differing styles," said Ben Rohrer, ensemble director and instructor of music. "We will be playing mostly swing, but we are also doing a ballad and other styles like samba, bossa and funk."

"The big-band setting is a style that really started getting popular in the late 30's and early 40's," he said. "It used to be considered pop music."

Ambassadors introduced

Amy Hiatt, junior in psychology and David Shepard, junior in pre-law and history, were introduced Saturday as the 1990-91 student ambassadors.

"The ambassadors serve as the student liaison between the university and the alumni. They will do some recruiting and also will travel to high school college days and various alumni events," said Jenny Barenberg, coordinator of ambassador selections for Blue Key Senior Honorary and senior in education.

Ambassador candidates underwent student and faculty interviews in which each candidate gave a presentation on the 1990 Homecoming theme, "I Like the State in U," Barenberg said.

The final six candidates were voted on by the student body last Wednesday through Friday.

Hiatt and Shepard were each awarded $1,500 scholarships by President Jon Wefald.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Campus organizations are encouraged to use the Campus Bulletin. All announcements must be submitted by 11 a.m. one day prior to publication. Announcements for Monday's bulletin must be submitted by 11 a.m. Friday. However, publication is determined by the amount of space available on a first-come, first-served basis and is not guaranteed. Information forms are available on the shelf outside Kedzie 118A. You must have a picture ID to submit a bulletin form. During business hours, IDs will be checked in Kedzie 116 or 118A. Forms should be left in the box outside 118A after being filled out. Questions should be directed to the Collegian's news editor in Kedzie 116.

Announcements

■ Center for Basic Cancer Research deadline for research award applications is Dec. 10. Applications are available in Ackert 234.

■ Touchstone, KSU's small literary magazine will release its fall 1990 issue soon in Denison 114 or 116.

5 Monday

■ Ag Communicators of Tomorrow will meet at 6 p.m. in Waters 137 for a portfolio development workshop.

■ Students Helping Students will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Lafene conference room on the first floor.

■ Spanish Club will have a round table from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ French Table will meet from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ Pi Sigma Epsilon will have meetings for new members at 6 p.m. and actives at 6:30 p.m. in Calvin 211.

■ Phi Upsilon Omicron will have meetings at 6:15 for current members and 6:30 for prospective members in Justin 149.

■ Chimes Junior Honorary will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 207.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kevin L. Barber at 1:30 p.m. in Throckmorton 124. The dissertation topic is "Influence of Ammonium/Nitrate Ratio on Two Corn and Grain Sorghum Hybrids and Radiation Use Efficiency of Corn."

■ KSU Marketing Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 212.

■ Society for Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

■ Alpha Zeta officers will meet at 7 p.m. in the Weber Hall Block and Bridle Lounge.

■ KSU Horticultural Club will not have a pecan sale this year due to high prices.

■ Business Council will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 209.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, partly cloudy and warmer. Highs 50 to 55. Variable winds 5 to 15 mph. Tonight, partly cloudy. Lows 30 to 35. Tuesday, mostly cloudy. Highs 45 to 50.

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes

$10.00

Everyday
Two-Fers2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes

$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

KSU Marketing Club
presents

MARION MERRELL DOW INC.

Monday, Nov. 5, 7 p.m.

Union Rm. 212

All majors welcome

POLI STYLE
SALON

$10 HAIRCUT

between 8-10 a.m. & 4-6 p.m.

call now for an appointment/walk-ins welcome

1106 Laramie

(expires 11-30-90)
Valid with coupon

539-1177

KSU Faculty and Staff

are invited to attend one of two

Planned Gift/Estate Planning Seminars

2 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 13

and repeated at

2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 14

K-State Union Little Theater

Through the fascinating use of planned gifts, individuals are able to minimize taxes, increase their estates and, in some circumstances, actually increase their current income.

This seminar will describe the many financial instruments available for gifts to K-State such as charitable lead trusts, unitrusts, and gift annuities.

Presented by Robert Sandberg, Gift Planning Consultant and former Vice President for the University of Nebraska Foundation and Mark Moore, Vice President for Capital Campaigns/Planned Gifts at the KSU Foundation

All KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend.
Admission is free.

Sponsored by the KSU Foundation and KSU Student Foundation

Re-Elect Wilton Thomas County Commissioner First District Riley County

Wilton Thomas is accustomed to Assuming RESPONSIBILITY

Past President Kansas Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers

Elder First Presbyterian Church

Director Manhattan Kiwanis Club

Director Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity House Corporation Board

While at KSU, was a member of Faculty Senate and Athletic Council

Wilton Thomas has the energy to get the jobs done.

He will commit the time to do them right.

Paid for by Thomas for Commissioner Committee
Luann Maupin-Cramer, Chairperson
B. L. (Lee) Ruggles, Treasurer.

Computerized ticket outlets provide convenience, best seats

By Jerry Sapp
Collegian Reporter

Purchasing tickets for K-State sporting and entertainment events has become more convenient for students, faculty and Manhattan residents.

"Three campus ticket outlets have been connected by computer to give the best possible seating available," said Becky Montoya, ticket systems manager for Bramlage Coliseum. "The outlets are located at Bramlage, McCain Auditorium and the K-State Union Bookstore. A fourth outlet will be finished sometime next week at the Manhattan Town Center Mall."

The new computerized system can show the buyer every seat in the house, something beyond the capabilities of the old system, Montoya said. Outlets are no longer allotted a certain amount of preprinted tickets. Instead, a buyer at any outlet has an equal chance at the best tickets, she said.

"If you walk up to buy a ticket right now and say, 'Give me the best seats available,' we don't even have to look for them," Montoya said. "The computer will automatically tell you what the best seats available are, and the tickets will then be printed for you, right after they're paid for."

"Our goal is to make it easier for people to get tickets," said Richard Martin, director of McCain.

"An addition of computerized outlets in the community will make ticket purchases more convenient for what I feel are good shows," Martin said.

Campus ticket outlets sell tickets for K-State attractions only, Montoya said. Tickets can be bought for K-State athletics, such as basketball and football, events in Nichols Theatre and McCain, and special events at Bramlage, she said.

Individual basketball tickets are not available yet because of continued season-ticket sales, Montoya said. "But we will probably offer tickets for the first few games in a couple of weeks. The closer you get to the games, the more tickets will be released."

The computers at the three locations are connected to a central ticket processor at Bramlage Coliseum by telephone lines, Montoya said.

"We are the custodians of the system," said Charlie Thomas, director of Bramlage Coliseum. "The other outlets have their own events, but we are still working together to make the system work."

Candidates close campaign with joint TV appearance

Hayden, Finney score no knockouts, commit no gaffes

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — State Treasurer Joan Finney and incumbent Gov. Mike Hayden made their final joint appearance of the gubernatorial campaign Sunday night, with neither scoring any knockdown punches nor committing any gaffes.

Finney, the Democratic challenger, had the newest wrinkle in their rhetorical battle of the past three months, suggesting voters check with their county treasurers before Tuesday's election to learn whether their property taxes are going up again — and how much.

She said people have called her campaign office suggesting that someone in the Republican governor's office has asked local officials not to mail property tax statements, which are due out this month, until after the election.

Hayden denied her allegation, noting that between 20 and 25 counties will have mailed tax statements before Tuesday and that the law does not require that they be mailed this early. In some counties, issues on the ballot will determine the final mill levies.

Otherwise, Finney and Hayden rehearsed most of the issues they have emphasized throughout the campaign — who's responsible for high property taxes, whether the state has a financial crisis, abortion and the death penalty.

Hayden is pro-choice and strongly favors reinstatement of capital punishment, while Finney holds opposite views on the two issues.

The two candidates were questioned live for 30 minutes on WIBW-TV in Topeka, which fed the program to other stations either by delayed telecast or for newscast excerpts.

It was the third televised Hayden-Finney joint appearance of the general election campaign, a limit dictated by Finney's decision not to accept more. They appeared earlier on Kansas City and Wichita stations.

Hayden will appear on statewide public television Monday night, but will be talking to an empty chair. Finney decided early on to accept only three television appearances, and said she would not show up for the public TV program Monday night, which will originate in Wichita.

Sunday's debate came on the day a final media poll showed Hayden with a modest lead, 41 percent to 36 percent when those who were leaning to one candidate or the other were included.

That poll, for the Topeka Capital Journal, was encouraging, Hayden said, because it put him farther ahead two days before the election than the same poll did over Democrat Tom Docking four years ago. The final poll margin was 3 percentage points in 1986.

"All in all, I'd say we're in excellent position," Hayden said. "It showed us ahead in our strength areas, the 1st and 5th Districts, and put us ahead in the 3rd and 4th Districts, where we trailed four years ago."

Finney, as she has done all through the campaign, dismissed the poll results, saying the only one she's paying any attention to is Tuesday. She says the polls do not measure her true strength. They had her trailing former Gov. John Carlin substantially in the August primary and she beat him.

When they had the opportunity

■ See DEBATE, Page 10

Regents supervise state educational institutions

Members enjoy challenges

By Shannon Helm
Collegian Reporter

Nine Kansas citizens control the fate of K-State.

The Board of Regents is a nine-member board established by the Kansas Constitution to supervise, manage and control the operation of the six state universities and the state technical institute.

"All the members have a broad range of experience, a love of education, a love of the state and are not afraid to make decisions," said Rick Harman, board member and K-State graduate.

The members are appointed to staggered four-year terms by the governor. Five of the members must be from one political party and four from the other, and all appointments must be confirmed by the Senate. Although each congressional district must be represented, no two regents can be from the same county.

"It's a very diverse board," Harman said. "I think the governor tries to choose people who demonstrate interest in education and who are not afraid of making decisions."

Harman said he has been an admirer of the board since he was an industrial chemistry student at K-State and an All-American basketball player in 1950.

He now owns restaurants and catering and vending businesses in the Kansas City metropolitan area. He was appointed to the board in December 1990 by Gov. Mike Hayden.

"Maybe 25 years ago, I would have broken an arm to get on the board," Harman said. "It's the most challenging appointed position in the state. I would be impacting the future of the state more than any other person."

When he was first asked to join the board last January, however, he was not so eager.

"Gov. Hayden called me and asked if I would accept an invitation to be a board member," Harman said. "I said I'd have to think about it."

"I told him, 'I don't know if I have the fire in my belly left for that much effort — I'll have to sleep on it,'" he said. "Then I thought, 'What have I got to think about?' It's an unbelievable challenge."

Harman said he told Hayden that he was a free and individual thinker and said he would make his own decisions on issues.

"He said, 'That's why I picked you,'" Harman said.

Harman said he thinks the members of the board are diverse and independent. Of the nine board members, there is one woman and one black male. The members are graduates of numerous different state universities.

The regents meet once a month, but Harman said the members put in countless hours in addition to the monthly meetings.

"I spend 15-20 hours a week reading materials that are sent to me or that provoke my curiosity," he said. "It seems like every time I look up, I'm attending a conference or meeting that relates to issues the board deals with."

Harman said he thinks it is important to be out in the community to be a good representative.

"We're active in the community at both the local and state levels," he said. "We get something like $35 a month. It's a labor of love."

Another regents' member agreed with Harman.

"I enjoy being on it," said Charles Hostetler, board member and K-State graduate.

Hostetler graduated from K-State in 1960 and received his law degree from the University of Kansas. He taught in K-State's College of Business until he was appointed by Hayden in 1989.

"The first year on the board, you're invited to the various universities and spend a day at each one," he said. "We also have two meetings per year on the college campuses."

Issues Being Considered By Kansas Regents

- Margin of Excellence
- Qualified Admissions
- Governance Issue
- Tenure policy
- Tuition policy
- Telecommunication use
- Educational amendment
- Research and graduate programs
- Campus capital improvements and maintenance
- Appeals by professors who have been fired
- Fellowships
- Honorary degrees
- Requirement of 150 school days
- Merging of K-State's engineering technology programs with the Kansas College of Technology in Salina (K-State-Kansas College of Technology)

Kansas Board of Regents

Hostetler said he thinks the board is important to the universities in numerous ways.

"We're in charge of picking the presidents and chancellors and working with the Legislature to make budgets."

Hostetler said an important issue the board has dealt with recently is attempting to obtain funding for the third year of the Margin of Excellence program.

The MOE is the regents' three-year plan to revitalize higher education by improving faculty salaries and overall state support for the system's seven institutions. Provisions of the program call for a 5-percent increase in the base salary of unclassified faculty.

■ See REGENTS, Page 10

RUSHWACKERS
THE FUNDRINKERY

Comedy Invasion
Mon., Tues. & Wednesday
9 p.m.

Gary DeLena

along with Tim Rowlands

18 to enter, 21 to drink

Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

Strong Leadership. Shared Values.

Kent Glasscock will give us both

Strong leadership and shared values. It's not just a slogan for Kent Glasscock. It's a way of life. Strong leadership. Shared values. Kent Glasscock has given us both.

At a time when we're facing an over-reliance on property taxes and a lack of funding for Kansas State's Margin of Excellence, we need a representative who has the strength, who will do the right thing. With strong leadership and shared values. Like Kent Glasscock.

The truth is, our district hasn't been heard in Topeka. A legislator needs to build a consensus to get things done. Kent Glasscock knows how.

His commitment to the district is evident in what he has already done for us — from the Quality of Life Bond Issue to the upcoming improvement of Seth Childs Road.

We need strong leadership and shared values. We need Kent Glasscock. Vote for Kent Glasscock November 6.

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative, Bill Varney, Treasurer.

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

HERE'S WHY THE SMART MONEY AT KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY IS GOING WITH TIAA-CREF AS IF THE FUTURE DEPENDED ON IT.

Because it does. Smart investors know that your future depends on how well your retirement system performs. TIAA-CREF has been the premier retirement system for people in education and research for over 70 years. We have enabled over 200,000 people like you to enjoy a comfortable retirement. And over 1,000,000 more are now planning for the future with TIAA-CREF.

SMART MONEY LOOKS FOR SECURITY, GROWTH AND DIVERSITY FOR RETIREMENT SAVINGS.

Security—so the resources are there when it is time to retire. Growth—so you'll have enough income for the kind of retirement you want. And diversity—to help protect you against market volatility and to let you benefit from several types of investments.

THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT YOU GET WITH TIAA-CREF.

TIAA offers you the safety of a traditional annuity that guarantees your principal plus a specified rate of interest, and provides for additional growth through dividends. CREF's variable annuity offers opportunities for growth through four different investment accounts, each managed with the long-term perspective essential to sound retirement planning:

- The CREF Stock Account
- The CREF Money Market Account
- The CREF Bond Market Account
- The CREF Social Choice Account

CALL 1-800-842-2776
TO FIND OUT MORE

Our experienced retirement counselors will be happy to answer your questions and tell you more about retirement annuities from TIAA-CREF.

Experience. Performance. Strength. Your future is protected by the largest private retirement system in the world. We have done so well, for so many, for so long, that we currently manage some $85 billion in assets.

Ensuring the future
for those who shape it.™

For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1 800 842-2733, ext 5509 for a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Liberal education needs to be examined

The administration's move to reorganize the University, if I understand correctly, is grounded in the idea of improving the University. The results of reorganization are supposed to raise the quality of liberal education at K-State. I'm not sure some of these decision-makers have a true understanding of what a liberal education is. Or maybe they merely use their understanding as a smoke screen. Allow me to flip some spoonfuls of information at them.

The five criteria they used to evaluate existing programs, when unapplied, seem perfectly sound. When applied, we understand that they do not have a clear notion of "the mission of the University" or "the definition of the University." I'm sure if we used their criteria, in an honest way, and applied it to the structure of administration at K-State, we could eliminate a great deal of excess. I wonder how the structure of administration contributes to the "centrality" of the University. A University, by definition, is an institution that provides a liberal education. The mission of the University is to ensure that the environment of liberal learning is at its qualitative peak.

But what is a liberal education? John Henry Newman discusses this in "The Idea of a University." Let us use his line of thinking, yet with minor, modern variations. A liberal education is achieved by "the cultivation of the intellect" and the creating of a "philosophical habit of mind" in individuals. We receive certain attributes that will last us a lifetime and that will benefit us when involved in the world community.

Individually, the student develops the abilities to think for him or herself. An "enlargement of the mind" takes place. Because of this enlargement, individuals are capable of confronting and understanding new ideas. They become capable of evaluating these new ideas and deciding what, if any part, of these new ideas they should incorporate into their lives.

Kevin
Zwink

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

K-State has obviously provided this liberal education to some, gauging by the confrontation over recent ideas on reorganization.

What environment in the University is most conducive to a liberal education? How is a liberal education best served?

The most obvious benefit comes from the wide range of studies offered at the University. Similar to what Newman says, even though a student could in no way enter into every field of study, just by being surrounded and interacting with other fields a benefit is received. An atmosphere with a varied exchange of ideas is created. A student becomes comfortable with approaching new and different ideas. The diversity enables the student to learn to react with self-assurance to new ideas.

I know that we are in a financial crisis and something must be done. To reorganize with intentions to improve the quality of liberal education by cutting any program within the University is contradictory. Reducing the range of studies at a university only lowers the quality of liberal education available. So now, let us apply the five criteria to the structure of administration here at this school.

Let us evaluate the administration: The quality or state of being central (centrality) to the University. Well ... ummm.

The tendency to remain in or at the center (centrality) of the definition of the University. Well ... ummmmm.

Redundancy. Yes. I think this would apply to many facets of the administration. In fact, redundancy would seem to apply to a great many areas of the administration. I understand how this would apply to the different branches of the administration.

Quality?
Demand?
There you have it. Millions saved. One big cut.

I understand that this isn't a simple matter. I understand also that I have not offered any great proposals that would please everyone or that would solve our problem. Just one suggestion. I think that when considering any restructuring of the University, closer attention should be paid to what a quality liberal education is. It certainly seems possible to regain stability without eliminating schools within the University. Even if this isn't possible, the question of a quality liberal education should be considered a little more when making these decisions.

EDITORIALS

Voting still important for undecided citizens

A candidate walks through a field with a silent spouse and a cute-as-a-button child. The candidate shows opponent attacking defenseless candidate with mud. The candidate says, "Hi, my name's (insert name here). I would appreciate your vote on November 6."

Welcome to Election 1990. This is the week. On Tuesday, citizens across the nation will carry their American rights to city halls, churches, banks and other places of worship to preserve their dignity, freedoms and monies by voting.

Or not. We're a day away from state elections, and a large, unwieldy group of voters remains undecided. These voters could turn on candidates at the slightest provocation.

And the candidates know and fear this. One can tell by simply watching the "paid for by the committee to elect so-and-so" TV ads.

Conventional wisdom says campaigning seems to be hitting some all-time lows. Many experts disagree on that point — some have said campaigning has always been this way. Perhaps campaign ads may be bad because television is inherently bad. But the closer and closer we get to the election booths, the more it seems candidates will do just about anything to get your vote.

Undecided almost seems like a nice place to be. Should you not vote for someone you don't like, or should you not vote for someone whose policies you don't like? Some decisions these are.

Our state politics and their various sideshows are beginning to look less down-home and more like something we'd expect from our presidential candidates, or at least Richard Nixon.

Nonetheless, we would be remiss if we did not say to "be sure and vote." People are dodging gunfire, risking death squads, fighting oppression and putting their lives on the line to vote in other less civilized countries.

Voting is important. It is American. Many other countries think it is a good thing.

Campaigning may be negative, but only votes will determine the winner.

Perhaps the adage should be changed from "may the best candidate win" to "may the worst candidate lose."

LETTERS

Negotiations needed

Editor,

I've recently been hearing a number of my colleagues on the faculty say that what we need to have here is an apology, an admission that mistakes were made, and then we can "get on with the process." I do not believe apologies and admissions of error are either needed or appropriate. There is more than enough of a mess here for us all to take a piece of the blame.

More importantly, however, I also do not believe we should just "get on with the process."

In any major change in University structure and/or basic policy, administrators ought to engage in discussion with their faculty and students in the following ways:

■ They should engage in candid discussion of both the positive and negative effects of any proposal.

■ They should present and be willing to negotiate precise details of the implementation of any proposal.

■ They should be willing to present and discuss in detail what is meant by the principles/criteria to be used to guide both policy and its implementation.

■ They should present, discuss, and justify the rationale, the need, and the general feasibility of any change in structure and/or basic policy.

To say there have been "mistakes" in carrying out these tasks is, as many will agree, true. But it is also a bit misleading.

The fact is, the first step was never carried out. Of course, we all are aware of the history of budget cuts and rescissions, and nobody at K-State, least of all President Jon Wefald, can be blamed for the fact that we were encouraged to recruit a larger student population only to have the formula for funding abruptly changed in Topeka.

And it is a moral given, I believe, that we must accommodate the additional students we have recruited up to now. Beyond those positions, however, is an array of possibilities, far short of reducing, disorganizing, and/or eliminating programs of quality, national reputation and historical importance in a land-grant institution.

The last step mentioned must be the first and the major item on the agenda of our discussions. It must be done dispassionately, carefully, with an appropriate level of involvement of administration, faculty, students and staff. But it must be done before we "get on with the process."

James R. Hamilton
associate professor of philosophy

Justify proposals

Editor,

With last Thursday's revelation that the instructional programs in the Department of Forestry are to be discontinued as a result of the infamous reorganization proposal, we realize that yet another group of students must now defend themselves. They must defend themselves against seemingly hasty and uninformed decisions made by those responsible for the delegation of our University's funds.

As with the colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology, the park-resource management program within the College of Agriculture's Department of Forestry has had its fate determined based on certain criteria:

■ Centrality to the definition and mission of the University — What could be more central to a land-grant university than the protection and maintenance of our resources? The authors of the plan feel that "Forestry is not primarily a teaching department ... and in phasing out instructional positions, it is important that research and extension capabilities be preserved." This notion lacks logic, for if we have no forestry program at K-State, what exactly are we going to extend from?

■ Redundancy — The park-resource management program is unique not only within the University, but also within the state. Perhaps the lines between the park-resource management program and others, such as leisure studies or horticulture, have been blurred. Students enrolled in any of these programs can tell you that they are individually vital to the University.

■ Quality — although we are unsure what factors were used in determining the quality of the program, we would like to call two things to attention. Foremost, the Department of Forestry does receive federal research funds. Also, the University of Missouri-Columbia makes a special effort to recruit our preforestry students.

■ Demand — The preliminary reorganization draft states that "student demand appears to be minimal." Minimal compared to what? Enrollment in the park-resource management program has increased 63 percent in the last four years, making the Department of Forestry the fourth-largest of eight departments in the College of Agriculture. It hardly seems justifiable, in this time of heightened environmental awareness, to discontinue a program that provides trained professionals to handle crucial resource-management situations.

The reorganization proposal states that "Kansas is not a state with major opportunities for those interested in park-resource management." Although Kansas does not have a national park or monument, it does have boundless employment opportunities for students of the Department of Forestry through state agencies and private industry. This proposal also explains that "sound programs in park-resource management are provided in states with major national parks." Unfortunately, the authors neglected to include the follow-up statement designating money saved by dissolving our department for use as down payments on our high-dollar out-of-state tuitions.

Kate Davidson
sophomore in parks
and resource management

Marcie Hemphill
sophomore in parks
and resource management

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tommy Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Vanzo
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tommy Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schriener
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Walte
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Freese, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hattijoththeadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Karin Dell'Antonio, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwink
COLUMNISTS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
REVIEWERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarke, Brian Krutner
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchhans, J. Kyle Wyatt
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
EDITORIAL BOARD	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Freese, Eric Henry

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Pusney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Connie Fullerton
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
OFFICE STAFF	Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christa South
CARRIERS	Joe Cook, Miranda Dowdy, John Fullerton, Norm LeCompte, James Seymore

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6856, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

To charge by VISA or MasterCard, call (913) 532-6555.

Send orders and address changes to Student Publications, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Rumors of satanic cult activity spread through Nebraska, Kansas

By The Associated Press

Rumors of satanic cult activity, which authorities say are unfounded, are spreading fear among parents and children in southeast Nebraska and northeast Kansas.

A year ago, similar rumors swept through the Nebraska communities of Plymouth, DeWitt and Crete. Officials said they found no basis in fact for the rumors.

"This is something that gets people's attention," said Steve Holthaus, a deputy sheriff in Nemaha County.

Notes discounting the rumors were sent home with Falls City, Neb., elementary students after several parents called the school.

"I was surprised it got blown so out of proportion," said Falls City Superintendent Jerry Mullins.

Area residents likely are more sensitive to such rumors because of the 1985 survivalist cult murders in nearby Rulo, Neb., he said.

The latest rumors reportedly started in northeast Kansas.

A man named Tiny, driving a black limousine, was said to be recruiting children in the Nemaha and Brown counties, as well as adjacent counties in Nebraska. A steer near Seneca was found dead of unexplained causes. The rumors said four children were to be sacrificed on Halloween night, Holthaus said.

Kids were afraid to walk to school alone, and women feared being alone at night, he said. Calls poured into the sheriff's office.

"We had all kinds of rumors, some of them just really bizarre," Holthaus said. "There just was no proof or evidence to substantiate anything like that."

On Oct. 19, satanic symbols were spray-painted inside the Nemaha, Neb., Christian Church during a break-in, fueling rumors there. Three local teen-agers were arrested later for vandalism, and they were motivated more by rowdiness than satanism, said church board director Wyman Pryor.

They misspelled Satan as Satin, he said.

Nemaha County, Neb., Deputy Sheriff Ron Caples said rumors of cross burnings in cemeteries and kidnappings of children were rampant in the Peru, Neb., and Nebraska City, Neb., areas. The rumors were unfounded, and Caples said he tried to stop the recent stories quickly.

Halloween passed without any incidents or sacrifices and the rumors have died down, Kansas and Nebraska authorities said.

A LOT CAN BE SAID ABOUT
A LITTLE BIT OF SPACE:

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
ClassADS

They Work

Van Zile design praised at dedication ceremonies

By Shannon Meyers
Collegian Reporter

Van Zile Hall was hailed during rededication ceremonies Friday afternoon as an example of what a residence hall should be.

"Today is a celebration of events that began many years ago," said Robert Krause, vice president for institutional advancement. "This complex reflects on the changes and transitions in housing that have occurred over the years."

Van Zile originally opened for 130 women in September 1926. The building was designed by faculty in the Department of Architecture under the direction of the state architect.

The hall was closed in 1984. After a $6.9 million renovation, the hall opened its doors this fall with the capacity to house 68 residents.

President Jon Wefald paid tribute to the planners of the renovation.

"People pulled together and achieved a spectacular, almost monumental, restoration," he said.

"Van Zile Hall has captured the freedom lacking in other residence halls. It is a premier residence hall, not just at K-State, but for the entire nation."

The hall has private and semiprivate rooms and a new dining area, featuring a food court. The dining service is available for the entire Strong Complex, which includes Boyd and Putnam halls.

"This is the safest building on campus. It has very up-to-date fire and security systems," said Gene Wiley, maintenance supervisor. "Each room has sprinklers, in case of fire."

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
532-6556

Eric Wisdom, D.D.S.
NEW PATIENT SPECIAL

Cleaning, Exam and 2 X-rays
ONLY $28 reg. $59
24 hr. Emergency Number

1 4 4 5
A N D E R S O N
7 6 1 7 7 1

WE'VE MOVED

We are now open in our new location in the Old Town mall near the corner of 17th and Fort Riley Blvd.

We understand the pressures you are under and are available to help you with an unplanned pregnancy.

Birthright

FREE Pregnancy Tests
523 S. 17th St. 537-9180
1-800-848-LOVE

Polli STYLE SALON
$7 OFF
Artificial Nails
Offer good with Jennifer or Angie
(expires 11-30-90) Valid with coupon
1106 Laramie Aggieville 539-1177

Life from Manhattan, Collegetown, U.S.A., Heartbreak City ... it's ...

Late Night
Campus Crusade

Everyone is welcome to hear

NFL Quarterback, Ken Karcher.

Ken has played 3 year with Broncos, 1 year with the Saints and most recently with the K.C. Chiefs.

He will be speaking on

RUNNING TO WIN

Tuesday Nov. 6 9:00 P.M.

Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority

1517 McCain Ln.

Sponsored by: Campus Crusade for Christ

Wendy's SUPER VALUE MENU

Jr. Bacon Cheeseburger

Biggie Fries

Biggie Drink

16 oz. Frosty Dairy Dessert

8 oz. Chili

Garden Salad

Baked Potato w/sour cream

NOW

99¢

EACH

The best hamburgers
and a whole lot more.

Both Manhattan locations:
3006 Anderson 421 North Third

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT EXPERIENCE FOR EDUCATORS

November 13, 1990

Personal Interviews & Resume Building Workshop conducted by top administrators

Sing-up in Bluemont 013, Before Noon, Nov. 7

Completed DATA SHEETS must accompany signup
(Pick these up in Bluemont 103 or Holtz Hall)

Interviews open to Juniors & Seniors
Resume Building Workshop open to all Education Majors

SPONSORED BY: Ed Council & K-SNEA

RE-ELECT YOUR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Sheila
HOCHHAUSER

I AM COMMITTED TO WORK FOR KANSAS STATE ON:

THE BASE BUDGET. I will work hard to restore Regents funding. The Margin of Excellence is meaning less without an adequate base budget.

FUNDING AFTER REORGANIZATION. I will oppose attempts to penalize K-State for its response to budget cuts. The University should keep all money freed by reorganization.

MARGIN OF EXCELLENCE. I supported 100% funding for the Margin. I will support continued funding to make our state Universities competitive.

HOCHHAUSER FOR REPRESENTATIVE
YOUR REPRESENTATIVE WORKING FOR YOU

Paid for by Hochhauser for Representative; Phil Becker, Treasurer.

Friend and Effective Advocate for K-State

Katha Hurt is a true friend of K-State. Katha has a 100% voting record for Kansas State University at the legislature.

Katha worked for increases in faculty salaries and operating expenses for K-State, and they passed.

Katha voted against Mike Hayden's highway plan because it took too much money away from higher education in this state.

Let's re-elect a friend and effective advocate for K-State.

Re-elect Katha Hurt.

RE-ELECT

Katha Hurt
KANSAS HOUSE

Paid by Katha Hurt Campaign, Dave Vruwink, Treasurer.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS MONDAY

'Cats beat elements, Cyclones

Turnovers help 'Cats

By Todd Fertig
Sports Reporter

Coach Bill Snyder may have been the only person in KSU Stadium enjoying the cold wind and rain that plagued the Homecoming contest Saturday, but the elements seemed to favor the Wildcats all day long in a 28-14 victory.

While the Wildcats came out throwing and only fumbled the rain-soaked ball once, the Iowa State Cyclones seemed to have trouble on nearly every exchange. Mishandled punt snaps and fumbled pitches cost the Cyclones in several key situations.

"I thought turnovers were going to play a big part in the game, but I was surprised that Iowa State made so many," Snyder said.

The Iowa State offense gave up two fumbles and two interceptions in the game. Cyclone coach Jim Walden felt the weather conditions were to the Wildcats' advantage.

"Maybe the weather did play a little bit to our advantage, but they had to play under the same conditions we did," Snyder said.

"I have always liked playing in the rain, and I really like to throw in the rain. I think the offense has a great advantage passing in the rain."

K-State threw aggressively in spite of the weather. The strategy failed at first as quarterback Carl Straw overthrew an open receiver on a fly pattern on the Wildcats' first play from scrimmage, then was picked off on the ensuing play by Cyclone defensive back Mark DouBrava.

But Straw continued to fire and was not intercepted again, completing 10-of-17 for 159 yards and two touchdowns before being shaken up in the fourth quarter.

"You've just got to go out there and act a little crazy because it is a crazy game in this kind of weather," Straw said. "You've just got to do the best that you can do under the circumstances."

Straw's ability to throw despite the conditions proved the difference between the two offenses. Cyclone quarterback Chris Pedersen completed five of 19 passes and was picked off twice.

Iowa State running back Blaise Bryant tries to reach a ball that he fumbled before K-State nose tackle Evan Simpson beats him to it. The fumble, one of four for Iowa State, took place during the second quarter of Saturday's win over the Cyclones, and ended in a five-yard loss.

David Mayes/Staff

Snyder was pleased by the big plays turned in by the defense. He praised the Wildcat defenders for limiting Pedersen to 94 yards passing with two interceptions and for containing all-Big Eight tailback Blaise Bryant.

"They kept hanging in there and the field position wasn't always in our favor," Snyder said of the defensive squad. "They've been disappointed the last couple of weeks, giving up nearly 1,000 yards in two games, and this was a nice little reprieve for them."

Bryant earned 149 yards on 40 carries, but he bobbled several pitches and committed a costly fumble diving into the end zone in the first quarter.

Trying to capitalize on Michael Smith's fumbled punt return and take the lead in the opening period, the Cyclones drove 20 yards to the Wildcat one. Skirting the left end, however, Bryant went airborne to avoid Jaime Mendez at the goal line. Mendez knocked the ball loose and recovered at the 9-yard line.

"He's got to carry the ball for them to win, and we didn't give him any big plays," Snyder said of Bryant. "I don't mind giving him 140 yards if we get those turnovers."

The Wildcats dominated the third quarter. Cyclone turnovers and excellent field position allowed the Wildcats, with the wind at their backs, to score on three quick strikes to bounce back from a 14-7 halftime deficit.

On just the second play of the half, defensive back Rogerick Green came down with a pass that was tipped by a receiver at the Cyclone 30. Pat Jackson took the ball five of the next six plays and covered 25 yards, bounding in from the one to tie the score.

Midway through the quarter, a Chris Cobb punt pinned Iowa State to its four-yard line. The Wildcats recovered a fumble by Patterson on the one, where senior running back Richard Boyd, playing in his final home game, bulled into the end zone for the first touchdown of his career.

Having been victimized by botched punts in the first half, the Cyclones lined in punt formation, snapped the ball to the upback who threw to the punter rolling out of the backfield. William Price forced the punter out of bounds to give the Wildcats the ball.

Straw needed just one play to put the game out of reach. Tight end Al Jones beat the Iowa State coverage and turned upfield running to the five-yard line, where he broke a tackle and tip-toed down the sideline into the end zone.

The pass play, which covered 47 yards, broke the Cyclones' backs, according to Snyder.

"Coming back from being down by two is a lot more difficult than being down by one," Snyder said. "They weren't able to depend on the run after that, and we didn't give

See GAME, Page 7

ISU watches hopes of bowl game fade

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

Iowa State coach Jim Walden may have had second thoughts about getting out of bed Saturday.

"It was an ugly, ugly day," Walden said. "We just didn't handle the adversity as well as we should have."

By not doing so in a 28-14 loss to K-State, the Cyclones left KSU Stadium with freezing fingers, numbed bodies and shattered postseason bowl hopes. Despite entering the game with a 3-4-1 record, Iowa State

"We ... had hopes of going to a bowl, and now we're fighting for our lives just to have a winning season."

—Jim Walden
Cyclone coach

had the Wildcats, Missouri and Oklahoma State remaining on its schedule. The Big Eight Conference's top guns were out of the way.

"This is a big step backward for us," Walden said. "Not because we lost to Kansas State, because that sounds detrimental to them, and that's not what I mean."

"It's because we wanted to win our last three games, and hopefully, finish third in the conference. We also had hopes of going to a bowl, and now we're fighting for our lives just to have a winning season."

A series of follies was responsible for Iowa State's downward spiral Saturday. The Cyclones fumbled four times, losing two, and quarterback Chris Pedersen had two passes intercepted.

All-America running back Blaise Bryant, who had 40 carries for 149 yards and one touchdown, fumbled three times, including one while diving into the end zone in the first quarter.

"My hands were numb all game," Bryant said. "It was hard to know when to grab the ball and squeeze it. Later in the game, I tried to catch it with my body, and that didn't work either."

Because of Pedersen's ineffectiveness throwing the ball, Bryant was Iowa State's main source of offense. Pedersen, who directed a last-minute drive to lead the Cyclones to a 33-31 upset over Oklahoma two weeks ago, completed 5-of-19 attempts for 81 yards.

"Obviously, the conditions affected me, but both teams had to play in it," Pedersen said. "There's really no excuse for it."

K-State coach Bill Snyder said Iowa State's reliance on Bryant played to the 'Cats' advantage.

"Bryant had to carry the ball an awful lot of times, and I think you can equate a number of turnovers that went with that," Snyder said. "I don't mind giving him 140 yards if we can get that many turnovers."

The conditions also wreaked havoc on Iowa State's punting game, as special teams center Dan Milner and punter Jon Schnoor misconnected on two snaps. The second bad snap resulted in K-State's first touchdown, a 19-yard pass from Carl Straw to Frank Hernandez.

"My hands were numb, I couldn't feel the ball, and the wind was blowing," Milner said. "I think all of those factors contributed to the problems."

A strong north wind forced the Cyclones to attempt a fake punt in the third quarter. Iowa State tried an option to the short side, but 'Cat cornerback William Price knocked Schnoor out of bounds for a six-yard loss.

On the next play, Straw hit tight end Al Jones on a 47-yard touchdown to give K-State a 28-14 lead.

"The fake was on the whole game," Schnoor said. "We decided to run it because kicking the ball into the wind wasn't doing either team any good."

The botched attempts resulted in 21 third-quarter points by the 'Cats.

"No matter how many ways you play a game, the outcome will come down to things like 1-yard drives and 30-yard drives," Walden said. "We might have been hoping for a win instead of playing for one."

David Svoboda
SPORTS EDITOR

Emotion key in big win

Emotion can manifest itself in a complex variety of both physical and mental actions and reactions.

The emotions shown by those involved with the K-State football program Saturday ran the gamut. There were valleys, but there were a great number of peaks as well. There was joy, but momentary pain was present at times.

In the end, it made for an exciting day in KSU Stadium, one that those soggy 15,000-or-so on the field and in the stands won't soon forget.

After back-to-back losses, Coach Bill Snyder's team teetered on the brink of seeing a return of the mental state the Wildcat coach has tried so hard to banish during his brief tenure. Losing, it has been said in these parts, is contagious.

Saturday's win over Iowa State was big. Make that enormous.

"This one came at a time when we needed it," Snyder said of the triumph. "These kids were accustomed to losing eight, nine, 30 in a row. We had lost two in a row, and it had an emotional impact, which tells me the program has come a long way."

Indeed it has, and there were several telling signs of that movement on display against the Cyclones.

First, after allowing Iowa State to march the ball right down their throats and score to end the first half, the 'Cats failed to pull the second-half el fold that has been so common around these parts in the past several seasons.

Instead, the team came out for the third quarter and played with emotion like none witnessed to date in 1990.

That was all a part of Snyder's plan.

"We had to try to build a crescendo of emotion," he said. "At this time of year, there's the tendency to drag. We needed an emotional ballgame, and we expressed how important that it would be to play excited on every snap of the game."

The halftime reminder with the team down 14-7 and the weather horrible?

"We just reminded them to play each snap with great emotion, and not to forget it after the second, fourth, 20th or 30th snap," Snyder said.

The game — from beginning to end — was filled with emotional moments. None, however, may have been any bigger than that after Al Jones scored his second collegiate touchdown — and first of 1990 — on a 47-yard reception in the third quarter.

After working his way into the end zone, Jones took a few steps toward the K-State sideline, and then quickly dropped to one knee.

The reason for the momentary pause in Jones' celebration was unknown to most of those in attendance. The junior from Overland Park had stopped to think about his mother, Martha, who passed away during the week prior to the Wildcat win over New Mexico.

Those who had an inkling of what Jones might have been thinking at the time he paused to reflect — myself included — had a lump in our throats as big as the heart of the guy who took the ball into the end zone.

And as big as Jones' heart was and is, it's certainly no bigger than the heart of any of the 13 seniors who took the field for their last home action.

There was Richard Boyd, scoring his first college touchdown to cap the Wildcat drive that gave K-State the lead for good. Boyd, in triumph, spiked the ball.

There was Pat Jackson, reaching the end zone early in the period, knotting the score at 14. His second-half bursts gave new life to an entire offense.

There were James Enin-Okut, Jon Krull and Chris Cobb, seeing

See SVOBODA, Page 7

Brad Camp/Staff

K-State fullback Rod Schiller (30) gets pulled down in the first half of football action against the Iowa State Cyclones Saturday. The Wildcats beat the Cyclones 28-14 in the Homecoming game.

Outside hitter Kathy Saxton dives for a ball in the back court during Friday's match against Iowa State in Ahearn Field House. The Wildcats lost the match in three straight games to the visiting Cyclones.

Iowa State routs spikers 3-0

Defeat in consecutive games hurts Big 8 playoff chances

Valery Roberts makes a dig during K-State's loss to Iowa State. The team's next match is Wednesday in Lawrence against KU.

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's hopes of making it to the Big Eight postseason volleyball tournament were dimmed after Friday night's loss to Iowa State in Ahearn Field House.

The Cyclones, 7-2 in the conference, swept the match, 15-10, 16-14, 15-12, strengthening their position behind Nebraska in the Big Eight. The Wildcats, 2-6, had their four-match win streak ended after showing signs of a conference comeback.

"I felt that we were the team of about a month ago, and that was disappointing," Coach Scott Nelson said. "Typically, this was what we were doing against teams in the first third of our season — battling tough and then having a couple of unforced errors."

The match went back and forth in all three games, with both Iowa State and K-State failing to maintain momentum. The 'Cats made a late surge in the second game, tying the Cyclones at 14, but could not hold off ISU. Again, in the third game, the 'Cats fought back to tie the Cyclones at 12 before running out of steam, a bad habit which Nelson thought the team had broken.

"Over the last several weeks, we've been doing a good job of finishing off games, so in that respect (the match) was disappointing," Nelson said. "Not so much in the loss, just in the quality of our play."

Both teams struggled offensively through the first two games before heating up in the final game. Iowa State hit .163, while K-State hit .157 for the match. The Cyclones were led by middle blocker Vicki Seliger's .333 hitting percentage and outside hitter Janice Ninemire's 14 kills.

Middle hitter Betsy Berkley paced K-State's offense, hitting .267 with 12 kills, while middle hitter Valery Roberts hit .261 with 10 kills.

"The whole match we appeared to be a step off," Nelson said. "Our bread-and-butter plays were semi-successful for us, and our regular plays were mediocre."

K-State will travel to Lawrence Wednesday night to face the Kansas Jayhawks in an 8 p.m. match.

Chiefs handle LA in classic battle of tough defenses

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The game that put the Kansas City Chiefs back in the AFC West race was something out of the leather-helmet era.

At least one of the scripts was something out of Grimm's Fairy Tales.

The Chiefs moved to 5-3, beating the Los Angeles Raiders 9-7 Sunday on Nick Lowery's three field goals. In a game played in rain, sleet and gusty wind, three of the four scores came after turnovers and the longest sustained drive was 42 yards — the drive that set up Lowery's field goal with 11:58 left that turned out to be the game-winner.

But the most dramatic circumstance came late in the first period, with Kansas City leading 3-0 after Lowery's 36-yard field goal set up by Kevin Porter's blocked punt, the Chiefs' fifth of the season.

Onto the field came two players — Bo Jackson, the Kansas City Royals' outfielder who spends his "off-season" as a running back for the Raiders and Deron Cherry, the Chiefs' four-time all-Pro safety who was making his first appearance since injuring his knee last Dec. 17.

On the first play, Jackson burst through the Chiefs line for seven yards, and Cherry burst into Jackson, knocking the ball loose at the Los Angeles 23. Three plays later, Lowery kicked a 48-yarder and it was 6-0.

"Could there have been any more fitting circumstance than what he did?" Chiefs coach Marty Schottenheimer said. "When you get a player back from an injury, you wait for the first hit. What a hit that was."

"I was surprised on the first play to get a hole like that," said Jackson, who gained 40 yards in 10 carries. "He put his helmet right on the ball. There's no way for a person to get hold of the ball when you get hit like that."

All that, however, was the most dramatic thing about the game.

The Chiefs totaled minus-8 yards in offense on the possessions preceding Lowery's first two field goals. The Chiefs had minus-1 yard in the first quarter, 32 in the half and 67 in the first three quarters before finishing with 169.

The Raiders totaled 234 yards. Steve DeBerg was 10 of 21 for 59 yards, the Raiders' Jay Schroeder 10 of 31 for 139 yards and each overthrew wide-open receivers for what would have been touchdowns.

"The weather conditions were such that we dropped some passes that we normally would have caught," Raiders coach Art Shell said. "Nobody could open up the offense."

"There were some balls that I threw that I had no idea where they were going," Schroeder said.

The 6-0 Kansas City lead held until the Raiders got their turnover — a fumbled punt by Naz Worthen recovered at the 26 by Elvis Patterson late in the third quarter.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, following a 17-yard pass to Willie Gault, Steve Smith went in from the 2 to give the Raiders a 7-6 lead.

But the Chiefs came back for their only drive — 42 yards in six plays — to set up Lowery's final field goal, a 41-yarder. One of those plays was a 14-yard run by Barry Word, who came on for Christian Okoye and rushed 15 times for 85 yards.

That made it likely that the division title will be settled when the teams meet again Nov. 25 in Los Angeles.

And it was all due to a little eerie foresight by Porter.

"Kevin told me before the game that I would hit Bo and that he would fumble," Cherry said. "As we came off the field after the play, he said, 'Didn't I tell you? Didn't I tell you?'"

LEFT: K-State had to fight a driving rain and 44 degree gametime temperature Saturday. ABOVE: Despite poor conditions, Wildcat coach Bill Snyder directed his team to a win.

STATISTICS

WILDCAT FOOTBALL

STATISTIC	KSU	ISU
First Downs	14	18
Rushing Yards	124	194
Passing Yards	147	94
Total Offense	271	288
Return Yards	0	29
Att.-Comp.-Int.	18-11-1	19-5-2
Fumbles-Lost	1-1	4-2
Penalties	6-35	2-20
K-State	0	7
Iowa State	0	14
ISU — Bryant 8-yard run (Shudak kick)
KS — Hernandez 19-yard pass from Straw (Wright kick)
ISU — Patterson 2-yard run (Shudak kick)
KS — Jackson 1-yard run (Wright kick)
KS — Boyd 1-yard run (Wright kick)
KS — Jones 47-yard pass from Straw (Wright kick)
RUSHING — K-State: Jackson 17-56, Straw 5-23, Schiller 9-18, Watson 4-14, Coleman 1-10, Madden 1-2, Boyd 1-1. Iowa State: Bryant 40-149, Pedersen 12-56, Patterson 5-14, Jordan 1-3, Williams 1-2, Schnoor 1-(-6), TEAM 2-(-24).
PASSING — K-State: Straw 17-10-1-159, Watson 1-1-0-(-12). Iowa State: Pedersen 19-5-2-94.
RECEIVING — K-State: Hernandez 5-73, Jones 2-60, Jackson 2-(-9), Schiller 1-15, Boyd 1-8, Iowa State: Spencer 3-48, Mahoney 1-42, Bryant 1-4.
PUNTING — K-State: Cobb 4-33.0, Iowa State: Schnoor 3-28.3.
A — 15.246.

Svoboda

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6
their careers in home purple, which began in 1987, end in victory. Victory wasn't something the trio was too familiar with prior to 1990 — at least not collegiate victory.

And, finally, there were heart — Carl Straw — and soul — Danny Needham — ending home careers in ways that neither one could have better scripted.

Straw, simply put, played with the kind of emotion that has made him the charismatic leader of the most-improved college football program in America.

The Jersey kid with the swagger to his step got his just desserts Saturday, and they tasted pretty damn good.

"I told our kids before the game that the team with the toughest quarterback was going to win the game," Snyder said. "Carl Straw is a tough, tough guy. When it came down to making the plays, Carl made them. He was able to hang in there with the wind blowing in his face and with fingertips that were freezing."

While Jaime Mendez and Rogerick Green were stealing the show in the defensive backfield with their fifth interceptions of the season, Needham was quietly going about his business. He recorded nine tackles, running his secondary-leading total to 67.

More importantly, however, he was doing what Needham has done so well during his time on the field as a Wildcat — being at the right place at the right time.

For a guy who was a member of a state-championship team in the high school ranks in Texas, winning six games thus far in his college career hasn't been easy to swallow. But don't look for Needham to start complaining any time soon.

Don't look for any of the actors in the Saturday's drama to complain any time soon — unless they fail to perform in the final two games with the emotion they displayed Saturday.

Peaks and valleys remain in the future of the K-State football program, but the valleys are greener and the peaks cut through a greater volume of rarified air.

Guys like Snyder, Jones, Boyd, Straw and Needham can be thanked for that.

Game

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6
them the big play they needed to come back.

Bryant was no longer a factor as Iowa State took to the air in the fourth quarter, but Pedersen continued misfiring and the Cyclones failed on two fatal fourth-down conversions. Mendez again came up with the big play to spoil Iowa State's hopes, picking off Pedersen's desperation pass to end the game. Mendez and Green both have five interceptions on the seasons and need one to tie the team record.

With the game still scoreless in the second quarter, Snyder elected to go for it on fourth and four at the Cyclone 34 rather than punt into the wind. But finding his receivers covered, Straw was dropped for a 10-yard loss.

A Pedersen scramble and a face-mask penalty helped move Iowa State into scoring position, where Bryant took the ball on a sweep and cut eight yards into the end zone for the first score of the game.

One of Iowa State's several botched punts allowed K-State to tie the score. The Iowa State punter attempted to run with an errant snap, but was chased down by Mendez deep in Cyclone territory.

Andre Coleman gained 10 on a reverse, moving the ball to the 19-yard line. Straw then found Frank Hernandez racing down the right sideline on a quick hitter. Hernandez stopped to sidestep a tackler inside the two and walked the ball across the goal line to tie the score at 7-7.

The drive required three plays and 41 seconds.

Iowa State took the ball with two minutes left in the half, and on the first play, Pedersen threw to tight end Craig Mahoney, who found a seam in the defense and ran 42 yards to the K-State 16. Three plays later, fullback Sundiata Patterson carried the ball into the end zone to give the Cyclones a 14-7 halftime lead.

Changes keep taking place in crazy Big 8 football season

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The times they are a changing in the Big Eight.

No. 9 Colorado stunned No. 3 Nebraska in the fourth quarter Saturday and now has the inside track to the conference championship and the Orange Bowl.

That's right. There's a good chance that the Buffaloes will take the league title for the second straight year and deny those traditional football powers in Oklahoma and Nebraska.

And don't forget traditional loser K-State. The Wildcats have won five games for the first time in 17 years. K-State won its homecoming game Saturday and now is 6-34-2 in homecoming games.

In Big Eight play, Colorado beat Nebraska 27-12, K-State downed Iowa State 28-14, Kansas rallied past Oklahoma State 31-30 and Oklahoma broke its worst losing streak in 25 years by crushing Missouri 55-10.

By beating Oklahoma State and K-State at home in its final two games, Colorado would become the first team other than Nebraska and Oklahoma to win back-to-back Big Eight titles since the '40s.

Missouri won the conference in 1940 and 1941.

Eric Bienenmy fumbled four times and lost three, but then scored on 1, 2, 3 and 5-yard runs to rally Colorado (8-1-1 overall and 5-0 in the Big Eight) from a 12-0 deficit in Lincoln.

"I was frustrated, disgusted, you name it," Bienenmy said. "It was just basically a lack of concentration." Nebraska is 8-1 and 4-1 with games left on the road at Kansas and Oklahoma.

The Huskers went into the game with a defense that led the nation in yielding the fewest points and the fewest yards.

"At the end I thought we would be the stronger team," Huskers coach Tom Osborne said. "But they got their running game going and we didn't get untracked. Up until the fourth quarter, when they got some things going, we outplayed them."

Kansas clearly was the better team Saturday, but almost did not get a victory to show for it.

Chip Hilleary threw a 3-yard touchdown pass to Rob Licursi and then completed a two-point conversion pass to Kenny Drayton to give Kansas (3-5-1 and 2-2-1) its first win over the Cowboys in 14 years.

"We had heard a lot about the jinx that we hadn't won since 1972," Licursi said. "A lot of that we had nothing to do with, but this was a huge win and it felt really good."

Gerald Hudson ran for 178 yards and scored three times for the Cow-boys (3-6, 1-4). But Kansas out-gained Oklahoma State 455 yards to 295 yards.

"I never did think that we offensively ever really got in sync," Cow-boys coach Pat Jones said after the game in Stillwater.

Oklahoma lost to Colorado last week and took out its frustration on Missouri. The Sooners (6-3, 3-2) gained 590 yards, 461 on the ground.

"It was a big emotional lift," quarterback Cale Gundy said. "Our plan was to come to Missouri and win big, and that's what we did."

Missouri quarterbacks were sacked six times.

STANDINGS

BIG EIGHT CONFERENCE

	FOOTBALL
	Big 8	Pct.	Total	Pct.
Colorado	5-0	1.000	8-1-1	.850
Nebraska	4-1	.800	8-1	.889
Oklahoma	3-2	.600	6-3	.667
Kansas	2-2-1	.500	3-5-1	.389
K-State	2-3	.400	5-4	.500
Iowa St.	1-3-1	.300	3-5-1	.389
Okla. St.	1-4	.200	3-6	.333
Missouri	1-4	.200	3-6	.333
Saturday's Games
K-State 28, Iowa State 14
Kansas 31, Oklahoma State 30
Colorado 27, Nebraska 12
Oklahoma 55, Missouri 10

Iraqis release hostages, soldiers

By The Associated Press

AMMAN, Jordan — Four American hostages, including one who was held as a human shield at an Iraqi strategic installation, flew to freedom Saturday. The flight to Jordan also carried three French soldiers who had been captured by Iraq.

French and U.S. Embassy officials who met the flight in Amman said the ex-hostages and the soldiers would return home Sunday. The commercial Iraqi Airways flight from Baghdad carried 77 other evacuces, mostly Arabs.

The French soldiers, who were turned over to the French Embassy in Baghdad after Iraqi troops captured them Monday, walked into the arrival lounge followed by the four American hostages.

French diplomats hustled the three soldiers to a VIP lounge, while U.S. Embassy officials rushed the freed Americans into a glassed-in arrival lounge.

A French Embassy spokeswoman expressed appreciation for Iraq's good gesture in freeing the three soldiers, but she added that they were allowed to depart freely because all French citizens are now able to leave Baghdad at any time.

More than 250 French citizens were released by the Iraqis last week, but thousands of other foreigners are still banned from leaving.

A U.S. Embassy official said the four Americans were released for humanitarian reasons.

Iraq said Thursday they were being freed because they were sick and elderly, although three of them were listed as being 50 or under.

The American diplomat refused to disclose their identities, citing privacy restrictions.

In Baghdad, the group was identified as: Dr. Abdul Kanji, 50, an Indian-born American from Glen-coe, Ill.; Raymond Gales, a diplomat from the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait, whose hometown was not immediately available; Michael Barner, 49, of Woodsworth, La.; and Randall Trinh, 49, of Hacienda Heights, Calif.

Trinh had been held at an undisclosed strategic site in Iraq. U.S. Embassy sources in Baghdad said he suffered an acute stomach ulcer. They said Barner suffered from a neurological disorder. If the other two were ill, their ailments were not disclosed.

Kanji, a cancer specialist, was vacationing in Baghdad in July, officials said.

The four were accompanied by two members of an American group called the Fellowship for Reconciliation, who had been in Baghdad for more than two weeks seeking the release of Americans.

They are Tarek Mohammed Al-Heneidy, a businessman from Rockport, Mass., and a Roman

■ See FREEDOM, Page 10

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams •

Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

Providing quality health care to women since 1974.

Insurance, VISA & Mastercard accepted.

Comprehensive Health for Women

4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)

Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

GRAND OPENING!

• "Deja New" Clothing

• Antiques

• Quilts

• Ceramics

• Wood-carvings

Exactly Right!

A CONSIGNMENT SHOP

Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Thurs. 10-8, Sat. 9-5, Sun. 11-5

(913) 537-6009 • 1122 Laramie • Manhattan

Universal Financial Services

A KANSAS COMPANY FOR KANSAS PEOPLE SINCE 1921

PERSONAL LOANS

108 NORTH 4th STREET

MANHATTAN, KANSAS (913) 776-1454

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
539-3338

Free Pregnancy Testing
Totally Confidential Services
Same Day Results
Call For Appointment
Walk-ins Welcome
Located across from Campus in Anderson Village

Summer Hours
Monday-Friday
10 a.m.-3 p.m.
or by appointment

Students!—Wed. and Thurs. performances $1 off if purchased by November 6

AMADEUS
by Peter Shaffer

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17

Tickets: McCain Box Office
532-6428

A Lady's Fashion Boutique You've Been Awaiting....

Contemporary European and American style

Affordable Chic and Flair

Options which allow you to be you

Quality and Service

Please join us
Pre-Grand Opening Sale
Starting November 1

ELEGANCE
Manhattan Town Center
(near Center Court)
537-8463

Trying to hide your beautiful hair?

It's hats off at

HAIR EXPERTS

1323 Anderson Avenue • Manhattan, KS 66502

Today's perms are formulated to help you achieve the look you want. Call now, for a free consultation.

776-4455

SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE

This coupon is good for any regularly priced product or services.

$5 off

HAIR EXPERTS DESIGN TEAM
1323 Anderson Ave. • 776-4455

COUPON

SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE SAVE

Right Now, The Savings Are As Big As The Servings.

Only $4.39 Chicken Fried Steak Dinner With FREE Freshastiks® Food Bar and Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes entree, potato, hot breads and all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas	Only $4.99 12 Piece Shrimp Dinner With FREE Freshastiks® Food Bar and Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes entree, potato, hot breads and all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas
Only $4.99 12 Piece Shrimp Dinner With FREE Freshastiks® Food Bar and Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes entree, potato, hot breads and all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas	Only $4.89 Chopped Steak Dinner With FREE Freshastiks® Food Bar and Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes entree, potato, hot breads and all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas
2 for $6.99 Freshastiks Food Bar And Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Freshastiks for one $3.49 each with coupon. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas	Only $4.39 Chicken Fried Steak Dinner With FREE Freshastiks® Food Bar and Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes entree, potato, hot breads and all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas
2 for $9.29 Ranch Steak Dinner With FREE Freshastiks® Food Bar and Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes entree, potato, hot breads and all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Ranch Steak for one $4.69 each with coupon. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas	2 for $6.99 Freshastiks Food Bar And Soft Serve Dessert Offer includes all you can eat from our fabulous Freshastiks Food Bar. Not valid with any other coupon or discount. Coupon good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants. Freshastiks for one $3.49 each with coupon. Good all day, 7 days a week Offer expires December 15, 1990 BONANZA Steak • Chicken • Seafood • Salsas

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS:

1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

WICHITA
1210 W. Pawnee
2140 W. 21st Street

EMPORIA
Hwy. 50 & Industrial

SALINA
527 S. Broadway

MANHATTAN
622 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

JUNCTION CITY
426 Golden Belt Drive

HUTCHINSON
1528 E. 17th

'Amadeus' to focus on adversary of Mozart

By Dan Scott
Collegian Reporter

When "Amadeus" opens Wednesday in Nichols Theatre, don't expect to see the big-screen version of Peter Shaffer's play.

"It is not the movie," said Charlotte MacFarland, professor of speech and director of the play. "There are a few scenes that people will recognize."

"Amadeus" runs Nov. 7-10 and 14-17. Admission is $4 for students, $6 for non-students.

MacFarland said the main difference is the focus of the play.

The Oscar-winning movie centers on virtuoso composer Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, played by Tom Hulce, and the jealousy of Mozart's long-time music rival Antonio Salieri, played by F. Murray Abraham.

"The play is Salieri," MacFarland said. "It's Salieri taking on God, and Mozart is the battleground."

Michael Solomonson, graduate student in speech, will play Salieri in the play. Solomonson said it is essential to the play that the actors be able to make a spiritual connection. Without it, the play loses some of its power.

"The conflict is between Salieri and Mozart," he said. "But ultimately it's between Salieri and God. The problem for us is how do we get to that level and get the audience there with us."

Some literary and dramatic critics have panned the play because it is not completely correct historically. MacFarland tried to minimize this by thoroughly researching for several months the play's historical figures.

"The movie is so historically inaccurate," MacFarland said. "The play is actually much closer to the historical facts."

It is a fine line between making a play historically accurate and maintaining the playwright's intended message, MacFarland said.

"I feel I have a real responsibility to the playwright," MacFarland said. "I worry that we haven't done the play justice."

This also worries Solomonson and Fred Darkow, who will play Mozart. The pair have used several unusual methods to try to reach deep into their characters.

"We did a lot of improvisation," said Darkow, graduate student in speech. "It has brought a lot of emotion into the scenes."

MacFarland had the actors use pillows to hit each other to show emotion as they said their lines. Then she asked them to keep the same emotion but without the pillows.

"It really helped because at first you're playing, and then you're serious — but you're still playing," Darkow said.

The actors also sifted through the mounds of MacFarland's research and wrote personal histories for their characters. They also talked about their characters with MacFarland as an informal part of rehearsals.

One of the more humorous methods the actors used was going out to eat at Country Kitchen — in character.

"Our waitress didn't know what to think of us," Darkow said. "We did get a stern, disapproving look from the manager."

Solomonson has the difficult job of portraying Salieri at two different ages.

"I have to play a man at 70, then switch back to a man at 31," Solomonson said. "It's tricky at times."

The tricky part is making a discernable difference between Salieri at age 70 and Salieri at age 31. Salieri at 31 does not know things that Salieri knows at 70, so he has to be careful to show this, he said.

Solomonson does not get the luxury of going backstage to make his transformation, MacFarland said.

"He has to change age right in front of the audience," MacFarland said. "It's very demanding."

We Take Tips!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

532-6556

Check
the
Collegian
Classifieds
532-6555

Lose 25-30 pounds
before Christmas Break!

Guaranteed "Complete"
Nutritional Program
w/ earning potential
Call Cathy 776-0629
after 6:30 & weekends

IMPRESSIONS
Hair Design and Body Toning
Thanksgiving Special
$5 off Haircut with Style or Perm with cut
Ask for Frank
Expires Nov. 30, 1990 1129 Moro • Aggieville • 537-1332

Claflin Books & Copies
FirstBank Center 1814 Claflin
• 5¢ copies
• 3 self-service copy machines
• Resume & Typing Service Available
Open: M-F 8 a.m.-9 p.m.
Sat. 9-6 Sun 12-9 776-3771

FREE PIZZA!
BUY ONE & GET ONE FREE
Specify Original "Golden Braided" or new "Thin Style" Crust

SPECIAL COUPON
PYRAMID PIZZA
MONDAY MANIA
Buy Any PYRAMID PIZZA & Get
The Second Pizza (of equal value)
FREE!
Good Mondays Only

Delivery—
Fast, Friendly & Free!
539-4888
12th & Moro
Aggieville, USA

PYRAMID PIZZA
We Pile It On!

ON SALE NOW

ALDO
RAPERS EDGE
WITH SPECIAL GUEST
LOVE/HATE

SUNDAY • DECEMBER 9 • 8:00 PM
BRAMLAGE COLISEUM
ALL SEATS RESERVED $18.00

Tickets available at Bramlage Coliseum Ticket Office,
Manhattan Town Center Information Booth, K-State Union Bookstore,
McCain Auditorium Ticket Office, Uptown Entertainment in Topeka,
I.T.R. at Ft. Riley, Uptown Tapes & CD's in Junction City, House of Sight & Sound in Salina, Bicentennial Center in Salina or charge by phone (913) 532-7606
Tickets may be subject to a service charge.

A CONTEMPORARY PRESENTATION

BOSE KNOWS SPEAKERS
and Conde's knows
how to have a sale!

FREE AC/DC TICKETS!
Come in and register to win 2 13th row
concert tickets. No purchase necessary.

Trade up to revolutionary
Bose AM-5 speaker technology
and get
$100 OFF
for your old speakers
regardless of their condition

Read what the experts have to say:
One of "America's Ten Best Designs" among all products produced in the U.S.A. in 1988!
Fortune Magazine
"Superb sound and virtual invisibility."
"Side by side with speakers costing three to five times as much, the AM-5 consistently produced the more exciting and listenable sound..."
Stereo Review
Julian Hirsch

MCCAIN

Chicago City Limits
Friday, November 9, 8 p.m.
These over-the-top comedians won't subject you to squinting daisies,
Groucho glasses, or hand buzzers.
Instead they'll gather your suggestions and weave them into hilarious skits.
"Are they good?" you ask. Well, they've extended Chicago's city limits to New York, where they're the longest-running improv group in town.

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

Presented in part by the Friends of McCain with additional support from the Fine Arts Fee.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also on sale (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center
Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

STUDENT HAIRCARE SAVINGS!
— COUPON SAVINGS —
$1 OFF STUDENT CUT
Reg. $8 MasterCuts
family haircutters
$1 OFF STUDENT CUT
Reg. $8 MasterCuts
family haircutters
$5 OFF ANY PERM
MasterCuts
family haircutters

MasterCuts
family haircutters
MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER 776-0606

SONY CDP190 Compact Disc Player
$129
4x oversampling
Dual 16 bit D/A converter
Stereo stabilizer circuit
Shuffle play
20 track programming

Highest Dividends Paid by any CD
$177
8 times oversampling 18 Big D/A
Converters 20 Track Programming Time
Edit Functions 3 Repeat modes ONKYO DX1400X

$399
RCA Hi-Fi Stereo VCR with 4-Head Video System
• VHS Hi-Fi stereo sound with built-in TV
broadcast stereo tuner and SAP (Second Audio Program)
• Double-scan 4-head video system
• Field still special effects: slow motion, stop
action, frame advance, picture search
• 8-program 1-year timer with on-screen display
and remote programming
• Remote also operates many RCA TVs
• 155-channel cable-compatible quartz tuner with
Auto Programming

MITSUBISHI CS2015R $347
20" Stereo Monitor/Receiver with Remote
• Black matrix picture tube for high contrast
• 181-channel cable ready
• Off-timer
• Full function remote control with on-screen display of volume, bass, treble, balance, stereo/SAP select, color,
tints, brightness, contrast and sharpness.
See Store for all Sale Merchandise

CONDES
QUALITY PLUGGED IN...
AUDIO • VIDEO • STEREO
Quantities Limited to Store Stock OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
Mon-Fri 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Sat 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Sun 1-5 p.m.
407 Poyntz 776-4704 Downtown Manhattan

Employee

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

said she is particularly concerned about the current reorganization proposal. Although the college will not be dissolved, it is still one of the areas that would be hardest-hit if the proposed cuts are enacted.

"It's really hard to tell exactly what's going to happen by reading the proposal," she said. "One of the specifics is cutting $50,000 from the classified staff of our dean's office. What does that mean? I don't think any of us are making $50,000, so does it come from two people or three or what?"

Eichman said a petition is being sent around the University to gather support from classified staff and students.

"Essentially what we are saying is that we want a voice in the matter," she said. "If you are talking about our jobs and our lives, we want to have a say."

Debate

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Sunday night to question each other, Finney asked Hayden if he had requested that county treasurers delay sending out property tax statements.

"Absolutely not," the governor replied. "In some of the counties voters will, in fact, receive their statements before the election. I think in 20 or 25 counties they will go out before the election."

Hayden also stressed that starting in January property taxes on motor vehicles will go down significantly, which is a by-product of classification and reappraisal.

"I think voters ought to be aware of that, too," he said.

"Tax statements going out after the election won't give people time to assess the impact for their vote," Finney said. "I urge voters to go to their courthouse and find out what happened to their taxes before the election. We are told there are some dramatic increases in some counties."

She said she thinks people will take her advice.

"They should, because they can't delay their vote past Tuesday, and they need to know before they vote," Finney said.

For his question, Hayden asked Finney to compare the unencumbered balance in the state treasury when he was running for governor in 1986 and now.

She said the state had an inactive account balance of $307 million four years ago.

But Hayden said the balance actually was only $16 million because the state had $77 million in certificates of indebtedness outstanding. As of Nov. 1 this year, the governor added, the balance is $160 million.

"The state actually is 10 times better off today than it was four years ago," he said.

Regents

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

fied faculty and staff, a 16-percent increase for students' wages, and a two-and-a-half adjustment in classified employee pay plans.

"We asked for $57 million more than last year — about $16 to $17 million for the Margin," Hostetler said. "We can only recommend — the Legislature implements."

"The board was the driving force behind the Margin," Hostetler said. "I think the first two years were effective."

Implementing qualified admissions at the state universities is another issue being dealt with by the board.

Hostetler and Harman said they both feel the qualified-admissions proposal is necessary to bring the universities up to the standards of peer institutions because it will make students more qualified before they enter college.

Freed

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8

Catholic priest, the Rev. Michael Kenny of Juneau, Alaska.

Prospects for freedom improved for some of the other captive foreigners on Saturday. Iraq's National Assembly voted 225-25 to allow the 700 Bulgarians remaining in Iraq and Kuwait to leave.

Those who voted against the request said that Bulgaria was not neutral but was allied with the multinational efforts to dislodge Iraq from Kuwait.

The assembly earlier approved a similar request by President Saddam Hussein to allow French citizens to go home. More than 250 French nationals left on Monday.

Iraq's National Council speaker, Sadi Mehdi Saleh, told Irish and Italian parliamentarians that Baghdad would soon announce an offer to free all the captive foreigners in exchange for a guarantee that Iraq would not be attacked.

Iraq was said to be seeking promises from the U.N. Security Council or by any two of the following countries: France, Soviet Union, China, Japan or Germany.

The Soviet Union, China and France are three of the permanent members of the Security Council. The United States and Britain are the others.

Former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt was going to Iraq on Monday at the invitation of Hussein.

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

WE PROVIDE SERVICES TO KEEP YOU
WELL —

YOU ARE WELL WORTH IT.

Lafene
Health Center

HOMESTYLE
DOUBLE
BURGER
NOW 99¢

Reg. $1.65

HERE'S A HEFTY
HUNK OF A DEAL.

Nov. Mon. 5th to Fri. 16th

1015 N. 3rd, Manhattan

Dairy
Queen

brazier

WE TREAT YOU RIGHT™

776-4117

Reorganized International Club Election Meeting

Today, Monday, Nov. 5
12:30 p.m.

International Student Center

Bring your lunch

K-States Choice for Wrecker Services

Manhattan Wrecker Service

"No Job Too Large
or Too Small!"

Unlocks, Jump Starts, Towing, Anytime, Anywhere

24
Hour
Service

115 Colorado
776-7953

"BEST DAMN PIZZA"

Also:
Pool
Room
&
Sports Bar

16" Extra Large Pizza
ONLY $6.25

Dine In or Carry Out.
"premium pizza for a cardboard pizza price"

Pool Room 523 S. 17th 537-1484

CONOCO DISTINGUISHED GRADUATE FACULTY MEMBER A W A R D

Students, Faculty, and Staff are invited to an Honor Lecture

The Cahokia Archeological Site and its Significance in American Indian Culture
by Patricia J. O'Brien
Department of Sociology,
Anthropology and Social Work

Recipient of the 1989-90
Distinguished Graduate Faculty Member Award

Little Theater, K-State Union
3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 7, 1990

Here's a cheap roommate you'll actually like.

15 - Day Notice

WESTERN TELEPHONE

Page 1 of 22

this is due tomorrow!

Ita	Date	Time	Min	Place	Charge
1	Jul27	301P	4	REDWOOD CITY CA	408 974 3.05
2	Jul27	306P	3	NICASTO CA	613 726 6551 1.08
3	Jul27	328P	8	BENKELEY CA	567 6679 5.05
4	Jul28	856P	10	SAN JOSE CA	408 974 3522 8.02
5	Jul29	700A	24	CUPERTINO CA	408 974 3122 3.04
6	Jul29	707A	12	PALO ALTO CA	477 5800 1.05
7	Jul29	907A	5	EDMONTON OR	403 425 5225 3.05
8	Jul30	709P	14	DOVAL WA	514 685 4210 1.00
9	Aug1	806A	6	SAN FRANCISCO CA	415 490 6345 48.00
10	Aug1	1009P	50	SACRAMENTO WA	506 248 9400 2.03
11	Aug1	1108P	109	SEATTLE CA	613 726 6551 3.05
12	Aug2	805P	23	DANVILLE CA	567 6679 1.09
13	Aug2	1200P	9	SAN FRANCISCO CA	418 523 1082 2.03
14	Aug2	306P	3	PALO ALTO CA	408 996 1010 2.03
15	Aug2	523P	12	SAN JOSE CA
16	Aug3	700A	12	SAN JOSE CA

Trying to stretch dollars when you're computer shopping doesn't mean you're willing to make sacrifices.

That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh® Classic® computer.

It has everything you need—including a monitor, keyboard, mouse, 2 megabytes of RAM, and a 40-megabyte hard disk. Just plug everything in and the Macintosh Classic is ready to run, because the system software is already installed. And, thanks to the Macintosh computer's legendary ease of use, you'll be up and running in no time.

Like every Macintosh, the Classic can run thousands of available applications that all work in the same, consistent way—so once you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. And this is one cheap roommate that doesn't have trouble sharing. The Apple® SuperDrive™—standard equipment with every Macintosh—reads from and writes to Macintosh, Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic.

MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple II floppy disks, which means you can share information with someone who uses a different type of computer.

See the Macintosh Classic for yourself. It'll change your mind about cheap roommates.

Available in the computer area, upper level of the
K-State Union Bookstore
or call 532-6583.

K-State Union
Bookstore

Support the K-State Union. Your dollars help the K-State Union sponsor student activities, programs and services.

Authorized Dealer
MacSource
The Best Support Team for the Apple Macintosh, Anywhere.

The power to be your best.™

* Macintosh Classic computers purchased before January 1991 include system software on floppy disks; software is not installed.
©1990 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. SuperDrive and "The power to be your best" are trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. Classic is a registered trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. MS-DOS is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation. OS/2 is a registered trademark of International Business Machines Corporation.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103 532-6555

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs—skincare—glamor—nails—gills for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locators, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Krupp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

FED UP with health insurance premiums that continually increase? If so, I have a policy for you. If you're interested call... Billie Gallaher, 539-5676.

I LOST 18 lbs. in three weeks. You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call Vanessa, at 776-4764.

INTERDISCIPLINARY SOCIAL Science Club will sponsor a speaker from University Counseling, tonight, at 7:30p.m. in Eisenhower Room 12.

LITTLE APPLE Gymnastics is offering tumbling and partner stunt classes for those interested in trying out for cheerleading at KSU. Call 539-3613.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

What candidate for governor wants to tax K-State entertainment tickets, utility bills, text books and computers purchase by KSU? Answer: NOT Governor Mike Hayden. Pd. Pol. Ad by... Mike Hayden, Republican for Governor Central Committee

TONIGHT
NEW MUSIC
$1.50 Wells
BAYSTREET

NFL Quarterback
Ken Karcher
"Running to Win"
Tues., Nov. 6 9 p.m.
KAG Sorority 1517 McCain Ln.
Late Night
Campus Crusade

2 Apartments—Furnished

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY—One-bedroom apartment close to campus, front door parking, air conditioning. $340. 537-0998.

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Blumont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

STUDIO AVAILABLE Now. Sunset/ College Heights location. $195. Water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

HUGE CLEAN one-bedroom apartment. Close to KSU. Available now! $275. Karen 539-6945, 776-4834.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid. $260. 776-7320.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3904.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/ dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. Available November. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

VERY NICE one-bedroom apartment, attractive location, no pets. $275 plus electricity. 776-0406.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original, $900 or best offer. 1-485-2760.

1978 SUNBIRD—Excellent body, upholstery, 57,000 actual. Good gas mileage. Steal it for $1,995. 776-7586.

1981 PLYMOUTH Horizon, mileage 55,400, good condition, $1,650 negotiable. Melville 532-7212 after 10:30a.m. or 537-4420.

1984 CUTLASS Ciera, blue, power steering, AM/FM, cassette. Call 532-3389.

1986 CAMARO, hot red with T-top, only 47K, Mint! 1-485-2576 after 6p.m.

1987 CHEVY Custom van, loaded, 50,000 miles, 350CID, auto, power windows, power steering, air, cruise, tilt, like new. 1-468-3689, keep trying.

FOR SALE: 1977 Mazda Rotary pickup, runs, as is, a rare beast. $300. 776-3757.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies, Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such 'employment opportunity' with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

4-H YOUTH Extension Assistant (Temporary and Part-time) to support 4-H Club organization and 4-H parents committees, plant and mechanical science projects. Available Dec. 1. Required: Master's Degree in Curriculum Design, Counseling/ Guidance, Education, Physical Education, Human Development/ Family Studies, or related. Salary commensurate. Resume, transcripts, and three reference letters by Nov. 15 to CR Salmon, Umberger Hall, KSU, 913-532-5800. KSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT income for home assembly work. 504-646-1700. Dept. P6438.

CLEAN, COOK, childcare, few hours every day. Apply in person. 2024 Browning.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

FREE SPRING Break trips to students or student organizations promoting our Spring Break Packages. Good Pay and Fun. Call CMI 1-800-423-5264.

GYMNASTICS INSTRUCTORS needed. Boys and girls coaches. Can train interested applicants. $4.50/ hour. Little Apple Gymnastics. 539-3613.

HOME TYPISTS. PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

NANNIES NEEDED. Wonderful Massachusetts families. Great agency provides guidance and networking. One year commitment. One on One, Inc., 93 Main St., Andover, MA 01810. 1-800-888-NANNY.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits. 15-80K+.

Call
Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

PART-TIME WEEKEND staff for Manhattan Emergency Shelter, Inc. Ability to work with low income and/or disadvantaged individuals. Apply at 631 Leavenworth. 537-3113.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

TELEMARKETING POSITION open with major insurance company. Insurance license helpful but not required. Serious inquiries only. Call 776-3882 or 537-4661 between 3-5p.m. M-F.

TIRED OF school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Templeton Nanny Agency. (913)842-4443.

WANTED: ASSISTANT counter sales in warehouse, day hours. Apply in person, Kansas Electric Supply Company, 312 Fremont Street.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS: 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

9 Food Specials

Every Monday
1/2 Price Nite
Order any dinner or sandwich and receive the 2nd at 1/2 price
Evenings 5-8:30 p.m.
CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th

10 Furniture to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Sofa—$50, tables (2) $10 each, floor lamp—$5. Call 1-784-3031.

WOHLER'S USED furniture, 615 N. Third, 539-3119. Hours 1 to 5p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 6 to 9p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, antique furniture, modern furniture, appliances, bicycles, misc.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: MEN'S Red 10-speed bike. Call 537-9370 to identify.

FOUND: STRAY terrier. Describe to claim. 539-8399.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

MOUNTAIN BIKE—Jazz—Made by Trek—Brand new! Asking $300 firm. Call 539-2009, leave message.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

DAVE M.—Despite the vote totals, you're still number one with us. The Mac Attack.

DEAR DRAFT Age Shippy. Saudi sheiks want you to fight for their wealth. How 'bout it? —Birky.

J.T.C.—NOV. 4th is here. Now you're legal to buy beer. Too bad it fell on Sunday. But just party more on Monday. Happy 21st one day late, from SATs.

K-STATE MUDSLINGERS—(aka those of you who wrote letters, submitted personals and spread unfounded gossip). Thanks for helping ruin the chance of two of the most dedicated K-Staters I've ever known—David M. and Johnny C. For K-State's sake, keep your dirty politics out of the run-off. Cha Cha.

SEX KITTEN: Kitchen sink to your studio you certainly deserve the name! Thanks for a fabulous year. How about stacks. Honey Bunny.

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9160, 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10p.m.

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 943 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double. $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Clatin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

25 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Tri-level furnished apartment, one-half block from campus. $157.50/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Take over lease now, December or January. 537-9568.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, available immediately. Own room, good size apartment. Washer and dryer. $150 a month plus one-fifth utilities. Two blocks from campus. 776-4022 ask for Suzanne.

FEMALE ROOMMATE immediately, first month's rent free. Phone, bedroom and bath. Call 539-0437.

FEMALE TO share two-bedroom across from campus. Available immediately. 539-7494.

MALE ROOMMATE for spring, January rent free, close to campus. Call 537-4165 after 8p.m.

NEEDED—ROOMMATE for spring semester to fill large main floor of house. One and one-half blocks from campus, own bedroom, $150 month plus one-fourth of house bills. Call 537-3696.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Sunset and Anderson, rent $190. If no answer leave message. 776-2032.

ROOMMATE NEEDED immediately: female, Christian, non-smoking. $175. 539-3459.

TWO MALE Christians to share five-bedroom, three-bath townhouse. Each room wired for cable, phone, computer. Washer and dryer. 537-0472. $195 plus utilities.

TWO ROOMMATES wanted. Four-bedroom house one block from campus. $150 month plus one-fourth bills. 776-3199.

28 Sublease

ONE—THREE female roommates, furnished house, spring semester (or up to two now). Private bath, living, entrance, backyard. Washer/ dryer. $162.50/ month, negotiable. Lease ends in May. Amy 539-3886.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

AC/DC TICKET, 4th row floor. 537-2288.

30 Travel

CHIEFS VS. SEATTLE
Nov. 11
$25
includes game ticket, bus transportation, and refreshments.
Classic
Travel & Tours
1212 Moro • 537-7546

CHANCE! LAST CHANCE! IN BREAK
STEAMBOAT BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
VALE/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

SKI
Winter Park
Thanksgiving
Nov. 21-25
$199 (deadline Nov. 7)
includes
*3 nights lodging at Sunblaze condos
*3 days lift tickets
*3 days ski rental
*all taxes
Classic
Travel & Tours
1212 Moro • 537-7546

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FISHER MONTARE mountain bike, Shimano Deore components. $450. 776-1638 leave message.

FOR SALE: H78-14 Bias-ply tires. Like new. Pair—$20. 539-5456 after 5p.m. ask for Brian.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

PROTECT YOURSELF against an unwanted attacker, purchase mace. Easy to use, small enough for your pocket, attach to your key chain. Security for $5. Call 539-7348, leave message.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels, $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $59. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m. If no answer, leave message.

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

LAST FRIDAY AT THE RALLY

HEY NIKKI!

HEY LAM, ANYTHING HAPPEN YET?

NOT REALLY. THEY'RE ABOUT TO ASK SOME QUESTIONS.

JOE SAID HE WAS COMING. HAVE YOU SEEN HIM?

NO.

I HAVE A QUESTION FOR PRONOST COFFMAN.

OH NO.

I'VE NOTICED THAT PRESIDENT WEAFF SEEMS PRETTY CLUELESS THRU ALL OF THIS. I WAS WONDERING IF HE'S SMASHED?

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

GREAT MOMENTS IN CAMPUS COP HISTORY

HELP!

STOP NOW! I CAN IDENTIFY EACH ONE OF YOU!

NO! STAY OFF THE COURT! I'M NOT AFRAID TO USE FORCE!

STOP! DISPERSE! YOU'RE BOTHERING THE PRESIDENT!

WE DON'T WANT YOU!

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Steve and I were walking by a copy store today.

There was a 'help wanted' sign in the window, and Steve said he should apply.

We went in to get an application and I decided to fill one out, too.

I wrote down my experience at McDonald's and the book store, but couldn't remember the exact dates I worked there.

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

ANOTHER GORGEOUS, BRISK FALL DAY.

WHAT A WASTE TO BE GOING TO SCHOOL ON A MORNING LIKE THIS.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU COULD STAY HOME THIS MORNING?

SLEEP RIGHT THROUGH IT.

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Shoot the breeze

4 Min. division

7 Actor Dexter

11 Neglect

13 Harlem room

14 Debussy's "Clair de lune"

15 Overgrown, in a way

16 Pen point

17 Anagram for name

18 Liberates

20 Soft mineral

22 Swamp

24 Los Angeles team

28 Place of refuge

32 Word with gang or lingo

33 Luzon native

34 Atlas page

36 Italian noble house

37 Pert

DOWN

1 Palmer's sport

2 River in Asia

3 Cold Alpine wind

4 Dad's pride

5 Redact

6 Plot

7 Wicked

8 Pirate's drink

9 Actress Sue—Langdon

10 Cozy retreat

12 Calcutta dungeon

19 Skid Row denizen

21 Varnish ingredient

23 Kind of mullin

25 Bridge position

26 Ceremony

27 Dirk

28 Impudent talk

29 Large pile

30 Needle case

31 Aries

35 Actress Dawber

38 One vote

40 Serbian city

42 Quench

45 Water pitcher

47 Gen. Bradley

48 It's over your head

49 Special times

50 Near the stern

51 Caviar

52 Parcel of land

54 Linger

Solution time: 24 min.

ALLAH SEC SAW
LEASE IGO TIA
ATRIA GALLERY
GARANO OVEN
ABE TWA SWED
POLA ALBEE
TAYLOR AERATE
PRESS SLOW
SITAR TIL LEE
ERIC PALACE
REGALLY MARAT
UNE EEE ANGLE
MER DAD STYLE

Yesterday's answer 11-5

CRYPTOQUIP

11-5

EVHBIZV UV AWC JBGF

EM CUV JBAV HWX

JIQZGTV PWTVQGGZC XBFV

B ZUWLC ZCWLM QWPA

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: FORGETFUL RAILROAD ENGINEER LOST HIS TRAIN OF THOUGHT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Q equals L

Honest.

Hard-Working.

Dedicated to Kansas.

Jim Slattery.
U.S. CONGRESS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

5/15/91
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
120 W 10th
Topeka KS 66612

Tuesday, November 6, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 51

Mike Venso/Staff

Beating the chill

Brandon White, senior in accounting, avoids the cold fall temperatures by playing racquetball in the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex Monday evening. White and his racquetball partner, Steve Jess, senior in finance, play at the Rec Complex two or three times a week to keep in shape and to stay warm.

Faculty meet to discuss proposal

By Elvyn Jones
Staff Reporter

Suggestions at a special Faculty Senate session Monday morning helped lead to the withdrawal of the administration's draft proposal for reorganization.

Charles Reagan, executive assistant to the president, said President Jon Wefald withdrew the proposal after numerous requests for action were made during a special session of the Faculty Senate.

"We went there this morning to listen," Reagan said. "Virtually every speaker said the proposal should be withdrawn, and we should start the process again through normal processes."

Wayne Nafzinger, president of the Senate, said Wefald was invited to the meeting last week to address the faculty and answer questions about reorganization.

At the meeting, Wefald apologized for the process with which reorganization has been handled.

"We agree mistakes were made," he said. "The process is flawed."

To correct this flaw, Wefald proposed the formation of a blue-ribbon committee representing faculty and students from all eight colleges, along with alumni and interested citizens. The committee would spend the next year considering the options and alternatives available to reach the goals stated in discussion draft, he said.

"(This suggestion) would take the heat down and open up discussion," he said.

This would push back the administration's previously stated timetable for reorganization. At the press conference in which the draft proposal was introduced Wednesday, Wefald said parts of reorganization would be in place at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1, 1991.

The first faculty member to recommend that the draft proposal be withdrawn, Gary Coates, professor

■ See FACULTY, Page 7

Wefald, Coffman drop draft proposal

By Jan Puls
Staff Reporter

Heated debate over the proposed University reorganization came to an end Monday as President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman withdrew the discussion draft from consideration.

Discussions with faculty members and college deans will continue as administrators try to devise a new strategy for handling the University's financial crisis and reallocating its resources, Coffman said.

"The atmosphere was so emotional that it wasn't feasible to have a rational discussion," he said.

Last week, Coffman and Wefald released the first public reorganization draft that proposed substantial cuts to the Colleges of Human Ecology and Architecture and Design and the elimination of the speech pathology and audiology program.

More than 2,000 students and faculty members participated in a protest Wednesday and a forum Thursday.

"The same issues still exist as yesterday, and we have the same objective as yesterday," Coffman said. "These things just don't go away."

Moving forward with reorganization in the present climate would be counterproductive, but faculty salaries, equipment budgets and Farrell Library will continue to be underfunded, Wefald said in a press release.

"We need to spend the next year working to illuminate and validate the financial needs of the University and its colleges and to utilize the college-planning processes, which have been in place since 1987, to identify resources to address those needs," Wefald said in the release.

The faculty members and students in the College of Human Ecology are extremely pleased the proposal has been withdrawn, said Barbara Stowe, dean of the college.

"There was an effective outpouring of concern of faculty and students over a week, and now we have the plan withdrawn," she said. "Alumni and citizens sent a clear message, and it must have been heard."

Plans for addressing the University's financial crisis should originate within individual colleges,

Stowe said. The College of Human Ecology reallocated resources internally in 1987 and cut several departments on its own, she said, and the same process should be applied now.

The student protest and rally along with negative comments from Charles Hostetter, Kansas Board of Regents member, played a role in the decision to withdraw the plan, Coffman said.

"Personally, I am pleased that the reorganization proposal has been taken off the table," Hostetter said.

"President Wefald has been here for four and a half years, and in my

■ See PROPOSAL, Page 7

Officials predict record turnout for non-presidential polling year

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Kansas voters will put an end Tuesday to one of the most negative election campaigns in state history.

They will go to the polls to pick six state officers, a U.S. senator, five U.S. House members, all 125 members of the state House of Representatives and six members of the state Board of Education. They also will decide whether to approve a constitutional amendment on who should control educational policy.

Voting will conclude an often raucous gubernatorial campaign between incumbent Republican Gov. Mike Hayden and his Democratic challenger, State Treasurer Joan Finney, who battled over property taxes, abortion, death penalty and competence for three months.

A third, independent candidate for governor, Christina Campbell-Cline, a Wichita certified public accountant, is expected to draw seven to 10 percent of the vote. Since she ran an almost invisible campaign because of lack of money, her vote will attest to the dissatisfaction many voters have with the Hayden-Finney choice.

The election also winds up equally nasty races between Republican Bob Stephan and Democrat Bert Cantwell for attorney general, Republican Ron Todd and Democrat Paul Feleciano for insurance commissioner and Republican Eric Rucker and Democrat Sally Thompson to succeed Finney as treasurer.

Polls open at 7 a.m. in all but two counties. Sedgwick County's polls open at 6 a.m., and Butler County's voting places open at 6:30 a.m. They close at 7 p.m. in all 105 counties. Five Colorado border counties are on mountain standard time, so polls there close an hour later than in other counties.

Hayden was to fly to his home town of Atwood in far northwest Kansas to vote at noon at the Rawlins County Courthouse, then return to Topeka to watch election returns at his campaign headquarters.

Finney was scheduled to be in Wichita Tuesday, shaking hands at a downtown street corner, then returning to Topeka to vote in late afternoon and then watch returns at her home during the evening.

Both Hayden and Finney were scheduled to make appearances at party election-watch parties in Topeka late Tuesday night.

Secretary of State Bill Graves Monday predicted Kansas would set a state record for voter turnout in a non-presidential election.

Graves told a Statehouse news conference he believes 850,000 people will go to the polls, which would eclipse the record non-presidential year turnout of 840,605 in 1986. Four years ago, Hayden defeated Tom Docking for the governorship.

Record turnout in Kansas came in 1984 when 1.02 million people voted in the presidential race between President Ronald Reagan and challenger Walter Mondale.

If 850,000 do cast ballots Tuesday, Graves said, it would represent 72.5 percent of Kansas' 1,204,574 registered voters and 51.1 percent of the estimated 1.663 million people over the age of 18 and eligible to vote.

Graves listed five factors as his reasons for predicting the record non-presidential turnout:

■ Heightened voter awareness because of the visibility of statewide races, the federal budget negotiations and the abortion issue.

■ Local issues, special questions, some hot legislative races, the battle for an open congressional seat in southeast Kansas and two statewide races without incumbents.

■ Negative campaigning in several races, which has prompted voters' ire and more likely will stir them to vote rather than stay home. "These people are going to vote anyway," Graves said.

■ The highest primary election turnout in history, which should carry over to the general election. "I don't expect that to change," he said.

■ Excellent weather — "crisp and clear" — being the forecast.

Graves reported that the number of registered voters had risen by 38,541 since the primary election, the result he said of reducing the registration

■ See RACE, Page 7

Kansas Gubernatorial Race Issues

Mike Hayden

Property Tax Relief

Hayden proposes a 1-percent sales tax increase for immediate relief and later introducing a new amendment for the Kansas Constitution to correct the problem. Critics say individual cities' mill levies may increase because of lost revenue.

Margin of Excellence

Hayden says he wants to tax cigarettes 10 cents per pack and use the revenue from the tax to fund the third year of the Margin of Excellence.

Abortion

Hayden is running as a pro-choice candidate. In the last election, he ran as an anti-abortion candidate. Hayden says that although he doesn't personally condone abortions, it should be up to the mother to make the decision. He still says he will sign a parental-notification bill requiring minors to notify their parents before having an abortion.

Death Penalty

Hayden was a staunch death-penalty advocate when running for his first term in 1986. He still has the same stance, but he has been criticized because he was unable to pass any legislation while in office.

Joan Finney

Property Tax Relief

Finney proposes returning some of the 54 items now excluded from the income tax back on the tax rolls. She has not been specific on which items will be taxed. Farm equipment, fuel, seed, individual machinery parts and out-of-state telephone calls could be some of the items included in order to raise the proposed $460 million. Critics say farmers would be hurt by the proposals and jobs could be forced out-of-state.

Margin of Excellence

Finney says she will divert money collected from the Kansas Lottery to fund the third year of the Margin of Excellence.

Abortion

Finney is running as an anti-abortion candidate, but she says she will not introduce any legislation in the Legislature. She says she will sign anti-abortion laws if the bills do make it to her desk. Finney has been criticized because of comments made in September when she said she does not approve of abortion even in the case of rape or incest.

Death Penalty

Finney does not approve of the death penalty. She said an issue like capital punishment should be up to voters and should be a referendum.

Source: Staff and Wire Reports

Former leader breaks ranks to free hostages

By The Associated Press

A former West German chancellor broke ranks and flew to Iraq on Monday to seek freedom for foreigners held hostage by Saddam Hussein, and the European Community convened a special session in hopes of keeping members in line.

Secretary of State James Baker III met with the exiled emir of Kuwait and volunteered that military action to recover the oil-rich emirate from Iraqi invaders was under consideration.

And the USS Midway, one of four American aircraft carriers deployed as part of Operation Desert Shield, entered the Persian Gulf. Like the USS Independence, which left the gulf last month after a few days, the Midway apparently was sent in as a show of force.

Iraq, meanwhile, said that in the event of war over Kuwait, it would attack Arab countries participating in the U.S.-led multinational force.

The latest mission to Baghdad was mounted by former Chancellor Willy Brandt, who arrived in the Iraqi capital late Monday aboard a chartered Lufthansa Airbus that can carry about 250 people. Brandt, who was seen off by Iraq's ambassador to Germany, carried letters and a bouquet of flowers from relatives of the estimated 400 German hostages.

Brandt's mission has the backing of the German government despite the EC's stand against negotiating for the release of the hundreds of foreigners in Iraq and Kuwait. Hussein has tried to use the hostages — whom he calls "guests" — to splinter the alliance against him.

Also Monday, a delegation of Irish legislators left Baghdad after talks with Iraqi officials aimed at winning freedom for an estimated 220 Irish citizens.

"We are given to believe that the Iraqi government will soon resolve the issue of Iraqi guests," said Irish lawmaker Michael Higgins.

Former Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone of Japan also was meeting with Iraqi officials in hopes of winning the release of more than 300 Japanese hostages.

Diplomatic sources in Baghdad said David Lange, a former prime minister of New Zealand, and Anker Jorgensen, a former prime minister of Denmark, plan to come to Iraq.

Ireland, Germany and Denmark are EC members. A special meeting of EC foreign ministers was scheduled in Rome for Monday night to discuss departures from the EC policy.

During the weekend, about 50 British and American hostages in Iraq were allowed to call relatives at home.

State Department deputy spokesman Richard Boucher quoted many of the hostages as saying they had lost weight, the food was poor and they were often cold.

BRIEFLY

World

India's governing party splits

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's governing party split Monday under pressure from three months of class and religious riots, stripping Prime Minister V.P. Singh of his chances to stay in office.

The split in Singh's Janata Dal party put former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi in the role of kingmaker — and conceivably of king — one year after leading his long-ruling Congress Party to defeat.

But with the nation in disarray and his own party still weak, Gandhi was unlikely to seek the prime minister's post. Gandhi has indicated he will support Chandra Shekhar, leader of the faction breaking with Janata Dal.

The Hindu-Muslim tensions that helped precipitate the political crisis continued Monday. News agencies said 15 people died in three states, raising the two-week toll to more than 345 in clashes over Hindu efforts to seize a Moslem mosque and replace it with a temple.

Turkey builds military force

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Whenever the military option is debated as a solution to the Persian Gulf crisis, eyes turn to Turkey's military force of 800,000 troops, the second-largest standing army in the Western alliance.

Under the scenario of a second front, Turkish soldiers, supported by U.S. aircraft, could push from the north into Iraq, while the allied war machine in Saudi Arabia attacked from the south.

But President Turgut Ozal, speaking to reporters last week, said any such scenario is a figment of the imagination.

Secretary of State James Baker III, who visits Turkey this week, is said to be trying to pin down allies about their willingness to fight Saddam Hussein, if it comes to that.

Berri signs peace agreement

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Nabi Berri, leader of the Syrian-backed Amal militia, and a top official of the pro-Iranian group Hezbollah late Monday signed a peace accord that will allow Lebanon's army to assume control of Shiite Moslem areas of Lebanon.

The peace agreement, which becomes effective Saturday, was signed at the end of a 10-hour meeting with Syrian and Iranian officials by Berri and Hezbollah Secretary-General Sheik Subhi al-Tufaili.

Amal, which means Hope in Arabic, and Hezbollah, or Party of God, have fought intermittently since June 1987 vying for control of Lebanon's 1.2 million Shiite Moslems. By police count, 1,100 people have been killed and 3,222 wounded in the fighting.

Nation

UPI to liquidate in 2 weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Press International said Monday it will be forced into liquidation in less than two weeks unless union employees of the news service accept a 90-day pay cut of 35 percent.

A spokesman for the Wire Service Guild, which represents the employees, said the union is recommending rejection of the proposal.

Pieter Vanbennekorn, UPI executive vice president, told employees, "A 'no' vote to the company's request will simply mean that after Nov. 16 ... we cannot ensure that we will have enough cash on hand to meet the payroll and other life-or-death obligations for the next two weeks."

Cult member pleads guilty

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A cult member pleaded guilty Monday to the murders and kidnapping of a northeastern Ohio family of five, the judge's office said.

Daniel Kraft earlier had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to five counts each of aggravated murder and aggravated kidnapping.

He is scheduled to be sentenced Tuesday in Lake County Common Pleas Court.

Kraft was one of 13 cult members arrested in January in the April 1989 slayings of Dennis and Cheryl Avery and their three children. The Averys were formerly of Independence, Mo.

The Averys were shot to death and their bodies buried on the farm where the sect lived in Kirtland, about 30 miles east of Cleveland.

Kraft allegedly helped gag, bind and blindfold the Averys before they were killed.

Army to re-enlist gay soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court carved out a one-man exception to the military services' ban on homosexuals Monday, letting stand a ruling that forces the Army to re-enlist a gay soldier.

The justices, without comment, rejected the Bush administration's challenge to the ordered reinstatement of Perry Watkins of Tacoma, Wash., a 16-year veteran with an excellent service record.

Monday's action is not expected to affect in any sweeping way the military's ban on homosexuals. The appeals court ruling in Watkins' case did not address the validity of that ban, but instead noted the Army repeatedly had re-enlisted Watkins while knowing he is gay.

Region

Man charged in son's murder

WICHITA (AP) — A Wichita man was charged with first-degree murder Monday in the weekend shooting death of his 11-year-old son.

Howard Wertz made an initial appearance in Sedgwick County District Court and was ordered held in lieu of $150,000 bail.

"It's tragic when a child dies. What we have here is devastating," District Attorney Nola Foulston said.

Andrew Wertz died of a gunshot wound to the head, said Detective Maj. Leo Willey of the Sedgwick County Sheriff's office.

Dole gets special line in crisis

PITTSBURG (AP) — Sen. Bob Dole said Monday that he and other key congressional leaders have been given secure telephones so the White House can keep them informed of developments in the Persian Gulf.

Dole, a Kansas Republican and Senate minority leader, said that he and at least four other lawmakers have had the phones for about a week.

He said he carries his with him at all times, and that it allows almost instantaneous consultation with Bush or other White House officials. Dole said the phones show Bush is making a sincere effort to consult Congress on the Middle East crisis.

"The only time he would not consult Congress is if a mission or American lives are threatened," Dole said. "In that case, consulting with the congressional leadership can wait."

Dole said he hopes he doesn't get a phone call because "that would mean an escalation of the crisis in the Middle East."

CAMPUS BULLETIN
Announcements

■ Center for Basic Cancer Research deadline for research award applications is Dec. 10. Applications are available in Ackert 234.

■ Touchstone, KSU's small literary magazine will release its fall 1990 issue soon in Denison 114 or 116.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kevin L. Barber at 1:30 p.m. in Throckmorton 124. The dissertation topic is "Influence of Ammonium/Nitrate Ratio on Two Corn and Grain Sorghum Hybrids and Radiation Use Efficiency of Corn."

6 Tuesday

■ Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 8:30 p.m. in the Ford Hall Lobby. Money is due for sweatshirts and T-shirts.

■ Bisexual and Gay and Lesbian Organization will meet at 7:30 p.m. For more information, call 539-6137.

■ SAVE will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 209.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Chanyaleu Demese at 2 p.m. in Waters 329. The dissertation topic is "Industry Structure in Rural America: The Effect of Change in Industry Structure on Job Loss in the Rural Counties of the North Central Region."

■ Finance Club/FMA will meet at 7 p.m. in Calvin 209.

■ Astronomy Club will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Cardwell 407.

■ Society of Automotive Engineering will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 129.

■ German Club will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 206. Speakers will discuss German reunification. German Club tutoring will be from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Eisenhower 123.

■ Mortar Board will meet at 9:30 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Society for Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Farrell 502E.

■ Hospitality Management Society will meet at 8 p.m. in the Justin Hall Lobby.

■ Foods, Nutrition and Exercise Interest Group will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Justin 146.

■ Department of Geology will present "Paleocologic Responses to Storm Disturbance" by Keith Miller at 4 p.m. in Thompson 101.

■ Career Planning and Placement Center will sponsor a resume workshop at 2:30 p.m. in Union 212. Another session will be at 7 p.m. in Denison 124.

■ FENIX Adult and Student Program/OWLS will have an informal lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, mostly cloudy, windy and colder. High 45 to 50. Northeast winds increasing to 15 to 25 mph by afternoon. Tonight, cloudy with 20 percent chance for snow. Low around 30. Wednesday, mostly cloudy. High 40 to 45.

Joyce's Hair Tamers

WARM & GENTLE PERM....$43

regular $48

QUANTUM PERM.....$35

regular $38

BIO-LAGE.....$40

regular $50

MEN'S PERMS.....$30

All perms include cut & style

Haircuts

Gals $12 Guys $8.50 Kids $6.50

All cuts include shampoo & style

2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Call: 539-TAME

JUNGLE TALK

You'll get better results from sunscreen if you apply it half an hour before going out in the sun.

Some new hairdryers are lighter, high in wattage, and have built-in devices to protect against electric shock.

You'll like the easy-care hair fashions our stylists create.

Aggieville, behind EeGee's

A dance hall, flexible enough to meet your individual requirements.

We also provide party DJs. To reserve The Plaza, or a Lunar Tunes DJ, call Dan Schirer, 776-9140.

Comedy Invasion

Mon., Tues. & Wednesday 9 p.m.

Gary DeLena

along with Tim Rowlands

18 to enter, 21 to drink

Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m. 539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

K-State's Choice for Wrecker Services

Manhattan

Wrecker Service

"No Job Too Large or Too Small!"

Unlocks, Jump Starts, Towing, Anytime, Anywhere

24

Hour Service

115 Colorado

776-7953

A Lady's Fashion Boutique
You've Been Awaiting....

Contemporary European and American style

Affordable Chic and Flair

Options which allow you to be you

Quality and Service

Please join us Pre-Grand Opening Sale Starting November 1

ELEGANCE Manhattan Town Center (near Center Court) 537-8463

Are you lacking Time?
Are you lacking Money?
Are you lacking Love?
Did you know that:

Divine Truth Frees You From Limitation

A Christian Science Lecture to be given by

Jack Hubbel, C.S.B.

A Member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship from Palo Alto, California

Wednesday, November 7, 1990 at 5 p.m.

in

Danforth Chapel

on the Kansas State University Campus

ALL ARE WELCOME

to come and learn out more about Christian Science, and how it is universally applicable in daily life.

This event is sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at Kansas State University.

Life from Manhattan, Collegetown, U.S.A., Heartbreak City ... It's ...

Everyone is welcome to hear

NFL Quarterback, Ken Karcher.

Ken has played 3 year with Broncos, 1 year with the Saints and most recently with the K.C. Chiefs.

He will be speaking on

RUNNING TO WIN

TONIGHT 9 p.m.

Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority

1517 McCain Ln.

Sponsored by: Campus Crusade for Christ

International center bridges foreign-speaking students with free English tutors

By Cindy Jeffrey
Collegian Reporter

A wooden bridge leads to the entrance of the International Student Center. It is called the Friendship Bridge. But the real bridge of friendship is the one formed by the people involved in the Conversational English Program.

Most foreign students applying to be a tutor at the center wish to improve their speaking and listening skills, said Cosima Dabbas, coordinator of the program.

Teaching skills are not required. "Establishing friendship between American and foreign students and American students learning about a foreign culture is just as important as learning English," Dabbas said.

Most foreign students need to hear English spoken and to practice speaking it, she said.

"Marvin had English in school from the lower grades up, but he had no chance to use it. To him, we speak too fast and use too much slang," said Melissa Young, junior in pre-veterinary medicine and a third-time tutor.

Young's study partner, Marvin Liaw, said he agreed. The program is a good chance to practice English without paying and to make friends, he said.

"When we first met, he gave me a small Buddha — it's a custom in Taiwan to give a small gift," Young said. "It's like a miniglobe here, and you can travel for free."

The tutors also benefit from their interaction with foreign students.

"I've always wanted to meet people and learn about the outside world that I've never seen," said Keturah Allen, freshman in art therapy and a new tutor.

There are students from 95 countries at K-State, Dabbas said. The largest group involved in the tutoring program is from Southeast Asia, with students from Europe, Africa and the Soviet Union also participating.

"Each semester, we get about 60 new tutors, and about 10 to 15 tutors continue from past semesters," Dabbas said. After Dabbas reads the applications of the foreign and American students and meets with each, she then matches partners.

"(My partner and I) were really well-matched," Allen said. "We both ride bikes, wear Birkenstocks, like to cook — I didn't realize the ovens in Europe wouldn't be in Fahrenheit."

Rita Haurenherm, graduate student in foods and nutrition, said her husband is in Germany. Allen, her tutor, has a fiancé in the military, which gives them additional things in common.

Young said she and Liaw try to meet a couple of times a week, but call each other when they can't. She said she wishes she could spend more time with Liaw.

"I plan to travel someday, and if I get to Taiwan, I will have a friend and his family there," she said.

Vincent Pruitt, sophomore in computer engineering, has already visited the homeland of his partner, who requested his name not be used. Pruitt was stationed in Korea.

"I speak rudimentary Korean. He helps me with Korean and I help him with English," Pruitt said. "He is a friend, someone to talk to."

Pruitt said the tutorial program is also important because the tutor can help the foreign student with things they are not familiar with, like the phone company.

"All the things that frustrate us are even worse for a foreign student unfamiliar with the system," he said.

Sometimes the foreign student is the one familiar with the system.

"A friend of mine's son left for Taiwan, and she didn't hear from him and couldn't get through, so Marvin called and located her son," Young said.

There is a misconception that foreign students are wealthy and superintelligent, she said.

"First they're homesick and tend to find others from their country which doesn't help their English skills," Young said. "They must pass an English proficiency test and, if they fail after so many tries, they have to go home."

"They only go home once a year or so or not until they are finished. I feel for them. It was their choice to come here, but if we can, we help them," she said.

A tutor can help the foreign student with American customs while at the same time learning the customs of another country.

"I'm always surprised when people answer the phone with 'Hello' and not their name," Haurenherm said. "In Germany, we answer with our name. We also shake hands when we greet someone."

Answering questions about the United States is a learning experience in itself, Young said. "He asks me questions I can't always answer. I have to go look them up, so I'm not only learning about Chinese culture, but also about my own," Young said.

Dabbas said hearing first-hand information is a better way to learn about other cultures than reading a book. Little intricacies and glimpses of the culture are impossible to put into written words, she said.

UFM efforts recognized by group in helping low-income families

By Dana Thomson
Collegian Reporter

A couple of acres, willing people, a little water and a few tools have made it possible to help feed 300 low-income or elderly Manhattan-area families last year.

The UFM's Community Garden provided that possibility and, because of its success, it was nationally recognized this year by the America the Beautiful Fund. The fund selects 100 service organizations for recognition each year.

Each of the community garden's two acres at Ninth Street and Riley Lane is divided into plots about 400 square-feet, said Evelyn Campbell, coordinator of the Community Garden.

Campbell said rent for the plots is based on income and the average rent is usually between $10 and $20.

The tenants are also required to place a $10 deposit fee on the lot. This fee will be returned if the plot is weeded and taken care of properly. If the plot is not weeded, the money helps UFM pay someone to weed the garden, Campbell said.

To care for the gardens, UFM provides tools and water free to the tenants. Mulch is also provided. The seed is provided by the America the Beautiful Fund.

"There is usually a small mailing fee for the seeds to the tenants, about 10 cents," Campbell said.

The city of Manhattan owns the garden's land. UFM is allowed to use the land for the community garden rent-free, said Ray Wauthier, UFM president.

Last year, most of the two-acre gardening space was used by Manhattan families.

"We only lacked three or four of

■ See GARDEN, Page 7

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Gary Knight, Manhattan, works on clean-up at the Manhattan Community Garden following this year's gardening season. The UFM-sponsored garden at Ninth Street and Riley Lane has recently received recognition from the America the Beautiful Fund.

Director, mayor juggles time

By Christy Gritton
Collegian Reporter

Everyday is a constant challenge for the director of engineering extension and the mayor of Manhattan, Richard Hayter.

"I didn't have a plan or even thought that I was interested in an elected position," Hayter said.

But in January 1987, some city commissioners convinced him to run for city commission. Hayter won the election and has served on the commission for 3½ years.

"I just decided 'Why not run for an office?' It was more of a hobby I guess than anything," Hayter said.

Four commissioners are elected for a four-year term and one commissioner is elected for a two-year term. The commissioners, serving four-year terms, spend one of their years as the mayor. After a year, the position is passed on to the next commissioner. It is a non-partisan race.

Unlike some elections, candidates for the city commission do not represent a certain geographical area of the city and do not have specific responsibilities.

Hayter said the purpose of the city commission is to create policy that is carried out by its staff. The mayor's main responsibility is to represent different governmental bodies. "It has been a very interesting four years," Hayter said. "It's a lot of fun, I enjoy it. You get to meet a lot of interesting people that way."

Kent Glasscock, city commissioner, had high praise for Hayter's work.

"As a commissioner, I've always found him to be highly intelligent and very thoughtful. As a mayor, I think he's done an outstanding job. I can't speak highly enough about him," Glasscock said.

Hayter said he enjoys working on a project and seeing it completed.

"Not to say there isn't some trauma in that whole process," Hayter said.

Despite the occasional trauma, however, he agreed that seeing the completion of a project is worth it.

Hayter said that although he may consider being a board member in the future, he won't run for city commission again.

"I do enjoy being on the city commission, I just don't have a desire to

■ See HAYTER, Page 7

Strong Leadership. Shared Values.

Kent Glasscock will give us both

Strong leadership and shared values. It's not just a slogan for Kent Glasscock. It's a way of life. Strong leadership. Shared values. Kent Glasscock has given us both.

At a time when we're facing an over-reliance on property taxes and a lack of funding for Kansas State's Margin of Excellence, we need a representative who has the strength, who will do the right thing. With strong leadership and shared values. Like Kent Glasscock.

The truth is, our district hasn't been heard in Topeka. A legislator needs to build a consensus to get things done.

Kent Glasscock knows how.

His commitment to the district is evident in what he has already done for us — from the Quality of Life Bond Issue to the upcoming improvement of Seth Childs Road.

We need strong leadership and shared values. We need Kent Glasscock. Vote for Kent Glasscock November 6.

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative, Bill Varney, Treasurer.

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

ELECT EXPERIENCE HEITSCHMIDT VOTE TOMORROW!

Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt

McCall's Shoes

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Sale

LOWEST SHOE PRICES ANYWHERE!

3400 + PAIRS STILL TO BE LIQUIDATED!

PRICES WILL BE CUT UNTIL ALL ARE GONE!

313 POYNTZ

McCall's Shoes

DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT EXPERIENCE FOR EDUCATORS

November 13, 1990

Personal Interviews & Resume Building Workshop conducted by top administrators

Sign-up in Bluemont 013, Before Noon, Nov. 7

Completed DATA SHEETS must accompany signup
(Pick these up in Bluemont 103 or Holtz Hall)

Interviews open to Juniors & Seniors
Resume Building Workshop open to all Education Majors

SPONSORED BY: Ed Council & KS-NEA

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

College life shouldn't be taken too seriously

"I was good! I could talk a mile a minute on a caffeine rush! We were really hummin'! We would talk every day for hours! We belonged to the Deadbeat Club..." — The B-52's, "Deadbeat Club"

I don't know about you, but that's a perfect description of my high school career. It seems like we were on a caffeine high every day, and as for talking, well, I was one of those teenagers who had to have the phone surgically removed from my ear every night before I went to bed.

I ran into some buddies from the old high school the other day. I'm not talking close friends, or mere acquaintances, but something in between — you know, people whose last names you can actually remember, but you probably wouldn't actually call them and ask them out for a beer if you were feeling nostalgic.

Anyway, within two or three sentences I'd turned back into the hyperactive flake I was four years ago. My "significant other" looked at me as though I'd turned into some kind of loon right in front of his eyes. I'm not sure he was far from wrong. If I've changed that much since then, what will I be like four or five years from now? Scary thought.

Remember when life was that intense? When you had a locker instead of a backpack, and skipping class was a major high? I'm trying to decide if we were right in desperately trying to escape our little worlds, or if we just didn't know when we had it so good.

Picture yourself there now. It's the end of a long, hard day — remember having five or six hours of class in one day? Actual homework that had to be turned in and might actually be graded... sports practices, meetings, clubs, rehearsals, endless things to do. I can't remember any details, but what I do remember is how much it all mattered, how terribly important it seemed. I can't for the life of me remember what we actually did in club meetings, but then, I'm not sure I know what we do in club meetings now.

Remember dating? Everybody now is either seriously involved in having "Coke dates" or "Study dates" or "Party dates" instead of something nice and normal. Most people I know don't want to fork out the money for a movie until they know it's serious. Remember thinking you might actually marry the person who took you to your junior or senior prom? Better yet, remember parking? Everybody stop and think about their funniest parking experience. Just having a cop tap on the window is dull. I knew a couple who got rear-ended. Can you imagine explaining that one to Mom and Dad? "Uh, Dad, I was, uh, out of gas with a flat tire and I, uh, forgot to turn on the lights." I can remember when getting to stay out past curfew made life worthwhile, and my mom thought that nice girls didn't call boys.

Karin Dell'Antonia

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

So while we all sit here in the middle of phase two of our lives, almost real life but not quite, reminiscing about free laundry and home-cooked meals and a world where responsibility meant taking out the trash the first time you were asked, I wonder what we'll look back at when this is all over? Is anyone really having the wild college career they'd planned on, or will we all be making up stories about taking apart a Volkswagen and putting it back together in the dean's office when we have grandchildren we need to impress. Will we miss the professor who cared whether or not baseball hats were worn to his class? Will we miss living in a town where you can go from one end to the other in ten minutes and stop for a coke on the way? Will we miss the gardeners that water the sidewalks on days when you didn't dress to get wet and flowers that disappear and reappear like some huge magic trick?

I think we'll miss living in a world where everybody is connected with everybody somehow — we had a class together, I know your brother, I knew your roommate's brother, Oh, you're from such and such? Do you know so and so?

This is a place where you can hang out in bars and chat with people and be relatively safe, because most of our lunatics aren't dangerous. I think we'll miss knowing that even if you really, really screw up, the University can hardly fire you, even when your professor spots you at the movies the day you didn't show up for class. No matter how badly you blow everything off, you've got a semester of probation to get back in gear, which is at least five months longer than most bosses will give you.

Most of all, at least for the traditional student, I think we'll miss being responsible only to ourselves; not to family, co-workers or some society standard that says that at our age we should be richer, more accomplished and more successful. At this point, as long as you don't look too closely at our transcripts, we're all doing what we can.

So in the middle of that week we all have at some point in our college careers, when you have four tests, a paper and a quiz and you have to run the mile-and-a-half in P.E., stop a minute and try to think of a few things about this place that you're going to miss a lot. And then think of all the things that really seemed to matter a few years ago and ask yourself if any of this will really matter a few years hence. Oh, sure, grades matter, but try not to take it all too seriously. I guarantee that in ten years you'll look back at yourself laughing — and probably wishing for just one more week of the days when you had it this good.

EDITORIALS

In tight race, Hayden at least experienced

The Soviet Union has a great election ballot. Voters there are able to cross out all the names of the candidates they don't want in office.

If only Kansans were so lucky.

Joan Finney and Mike Hayden have given us little to like. The candidates have not shown us their true colors.

Neither candidate has what appears to be a sound tax plan. The mess left over from the early 1980s during John Carlin's governorship and Hayden's House speaker days will remain just that: a mess.

Neither candidate is clear on abortion. Hayden says he is pro-choice. Finney says she will not initiate abortion legislation from her anti-abortion soapbox. We question both candidates' sincerity.

Neither candidate seems to have the leadership to forge ahead and lead the state. Finney appears to be incapable of the task, and Hayden has done nothing to prove himself otherwise.

Neither candidate has what it takes to help secure the future of K-State, let alone the entire education field. Hayden made across-the-board cuts in the state budget, hurting higher education. Finney has done little to set at ease our suspicions that she would not prove to be a supporter of education.

Neither candidate has a clear-cut vision of the future of Kansas. Hayden proposed and initiated a highway bill that could cripple the state's hobbling economy. Though Hayden is thinking too big, Finney's vision is too small.

And so we come to a fork in the yellow brick road, and we have no one to help guide us along the path.

Our choice for governor has not been an easy one, and no one has argued vehemently towards one candidate or the other. But, as the saying goes, we must choose the lesser of two evils.

Mike Hayden has the experience to lead a state government. Joan Finney has shown she cannot run a campaign without stumbling.

And until the people of Kansas rise up to return the state government to the people for the people, Hayden is all we have. But we're watching.

LETTERS

Strike called for

Editor,

After sitting through an hour of the farcical meeting between President Jon Wefald and the faculty on Monday, I found I could no longer tolerate the patronizing and condescending tone of Wefald's responses to the legitimate and heartfelt concerns voiced. To contain my disgust, I walked out.

I am now convinced that the only meaningful, satisfactory response to such administrative insensitivity, ignorance and incompetence is to demand the immediate resignation of Wefald, Provost James Coffman and any other officer of this University who shares complicity with the development and promulgation of the outrageous reorganization plan.

In light of the administration's refusal to yield to the dictates of democratic process and reason, it would be entirely appropriate at this juncture to call for a campuswide strike as a demonstration of a vote of no confidence in the administration and its autocratic philosophy of University.

Rocky Sehnert
graduate student and instructor in landscape architecture

Get facts straight

Editor,

"From the errors of others, a wise man corrects his own."

Isn't this getting a bit ridiculous? Everybody makes a few mistakes now and then, but the numerous errors that continually appear in the Collegian are ridiculous. I realize that editing a newspaper is not an easy thing, but with more than 130 people serving on the production of the Collegian, you would think that these errors could easily be eliminated.

Who is going to hire a journalist that can't get his or her facts straight the first time and maybe not even the second time? You can expect errors in a high school paper but not in a paper that represents a great school like K-State. Thousands of people read the Collegian every day, but they are having to turn in the next day to find out the truth. Maybe they should change the name of the Collegian to "As the Truth Unrolls" and print it on rolls of toilet paper to save money since you are all so worried about getting paid. At least you will still have a college to come back to, not like those in Human Ecology and Architecture and Design who need to know the truth now. Otherwise, they may not be here tomorrow. Let's get the facts straight now.

Annette K. Spreer sophomore in journalism and mass communications

Back administration

Editor,

I am a senior in accounting, seemingly one of the least affected students, at this point, by the University reorganization. Yet, I want to voice my support for the Colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology.

Since none of the reorganization proposals are final at this point, every college in our University is a candidate for the firing squad of complete budget cuts. We must stand together to support each other and let the administration know why we feel each of our colleges deserves to be kept intact. I feel, however, we are shooting ourselves in the foot if we continue to crucify the very people who hold our colleges' future in their hands. Don't forget that our financial situation was brought about by the Legislature that failed to keep its promises, not our administration. Now, our administration is left with the unpleasant task of allocating the insufficient resources that remain. They need to know, and I believe they want to know, what we the students feel about this situation, as evidenced by their willingness to take all of our abuse at the rally. We have already made a difference.

So fight for the cause of your college if it comes to the chopping block, but realize that cuts are going to be made and the administration needs our support, not our slander, to make the best decision possible for the long run, best interest of our University.

Matt Hampton
senior in accounting

Smaller colleges next

Editor,

If I were in a position of power here at K-State, I doubt I could have thought of a more ingenious plan for the reorganization of the University than has been implemented by the current administration.

First the administration attacked the College of Human Ecology, which has several large and successful departments. Knowing that the faculty and student body would mobilize against such a move, they will now undoubtedly attack many of the smaller departments on campus. Most of the student body will not oppose such a move, thinking that since the administration spared their department, they may as well compromise and not oppose the dismantling of the smaller departments.

If the administration had attacked the smaller departments first, they would have received much the same reaction from the student body that they did when they went after the College of Human Ecology. Now I fear that the administration has the rubber stamp that they were hoping for. My question to the student body is, after the smaller departments are gone, which department is next?

Steve D. Berndsen
junior in nuclear engineering

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Vespa
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Freese, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hatjithimothedea, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwick
COLUMNISTS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
REVIEWERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clark, Brian Kretzer
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Cloris Frelund
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Puntney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Connie Pullerson
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Carla Jones
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Hayle
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
OFFICE STAFF	Shantia Bailey, Matt Placere, Christa South
CARRIERS	Joe Cook, Minnda Dowdy, John Pullerson, Norm LeComte, James Seymour

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

To charge by VISA or MasterCard, call (913) 532-6555

Send orders and address changes to Student Publications, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

K-State grad producing movies

Rose works 7 years on making 'Quigley — Down Under'

By Tammy Rose
Collegian Reporter

K-State graduate Megan Rose is on her way to making it big in Hollywood.

Rose, who graduated in 1968 with an English literature degree from K-State, now owns her own production company in Studio City, Calif. Her latest project is the movie "Quigley — Down Under" starring Tom Selleck.

While at K-State, Rose took "Introduction to Theatre" and a theatrical make-up class, which connected her with the K-State Players and was her first real exposure to theater.

After college, Rose moved to Kansas City, where she became an advertising executive. After a few years, she moved to Phoenix where she was a writer/producer for Motorola, a large manufacturing corporation of electronics. It was there that she received her first exposure to the film industry.

"I decided I liked it a lot, so I moved to California," Rose said.

Since 1975, Rose has worked on a number of films and with a number of stars.

Her list of credits include "Clara's Heart," "High Road to China," "Lassiter" and "Her Alibi." She worked as a production executive on "Clara's Heart," which starred Whoopi Goldberg. She worked on the scripts for "High Road to China" and "Lassiter." Rose also worked on the development of "No Way Out" before Warner Brothers turned it over to Orion Pictures.

She has worked with Selleck and Clint Eastwood, among others. Rose helped Eastwood with the script to "City Heat" and combined two versions of the script for "Heartbreak Ridge" into one script.

When she was visiting her brother, Jerry Dye of Junction City, over Christmas, Selleck called her. Dye said he teases his wife about not cleaning the phone after a star has called on it.

"Quigley — Down Under" is the first movie she has received credit for. She is listed as the co-producer of the movie, although she has been the one trying to get it together for the past seven years.

"Quigley — Down Under" had to travel a long and difficult road to development.

In 1983, Rose found the project and presented it to Selleck with a glowing report. Selleck fell in love with it. CBS Theatrical Films optioned it before she could, but in 1985 it was free again.

She wanted to present it to Warner Brothers, but before she could, she had to put an element, a well-known star or producer, with the script. She packaged the script with Selleck. The project was set up at Warner Brothers and partnered with an Australian film company with an independent producer, Marty Elfand.

Finding a director was difficult because of a troublesome script, so Rose edited it. Eastwood was a possible choice for director initially, but he did not have the time. Eventually, Lewis Gilbert was hired to direct.

Gilbert and Elfand reworked the script, de-westernizing it. This prompted Selleck to quit the film. Rose wrote another draft of the script, including the western aspects Selleck wanted, assuring him he would like the new version.

Selleck came back to the project, and Gilbert left due to creative differences. Rose said it had nothing to do with the rewrite.

The project ran into other obstacles. First, the movie was put on hold by Warner Brothers because Selleck was filming "Her Alibi." Then Elfand and Selleck had creative differences.

"I knew 'Quigley' would never get made at Warner Brothers as long as Marty was attached," Rose said.

Elfand gave the project back to Rose, and Warner Brothers dropped the script. Alan Ladd Jr., head of Pathe Studios, had been wanting to do a western movie, so the studio picked up the project. Alexandra Rose came on board as the producer, and Rebecca Pollack became vice president in charge of the picture.

"Laddie was sentimentally attached to westerns, and the timing was right," Rose said.

Ladd brought Simon Wincer, Emmy-winning director of "Lonesome Dove," to the team.

Laura San Giacomo, of "Sex, Lies and Videotape," and Alan Rickman, the villain in "Die Hard," were casted along with Selleck to star in the movie.

The filming started in September, 1989 and finished in December, 1989.

Rose said she was disappointed she did not get to go to Australia during filming.

"I read everything on Australia and really wanted to go, but I had to stay here as a liaison and backup," she said.

There were problems on the set just like in any other film, the biggest of which was the gun Selleck had to use throughout the movie.

Ladd wanted to rent a gun and Rose wanted to buy one. The Shiloh Rifle Manufacturing Company in Big Timber, Mont., made three guns by hand for the movie. Each gun had a shooting power of 1,000 yards. The guns, which normally take 22 months to make, were made in three weeks.

During the filming, Selleck had to carry the 13-pound gun 12 to 16 hours a day. This aggravated a wrist injury he had sustained the summer before. To alleviate the problem, the guns were remade with aluminum barrels.

Though the movie took seven years to develop — and she didn't get to go to Australia — Rose said she loves what she does and wouldn't want to do anything else.

■ See ROSE, Page 7

Winners announced in '90 Homecoming

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

Winners of the Homecoming spirit competition were announced Saturday during halftime at the Iowa State football game. Homecoming was sponsored by Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity.

"I think it was very successful, and we got a lot of the campus and community involved, which was our main goal," said Gail Edson, senior in lifespan human development and president of Blue Key.

The team consisting of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Upsilon and Theta Xi placed first in the Greek division, said Kate Perkins, second-year student in veterinary medicine and chairwoman of the Homecoming halftime committee.

The group consisting of Goodnow Hall, Putnam Hall and Moore Hall tied with Ford Hall for first place in the residence hall division, Perkins said.

Clovio won first place in the campus organizations division,

she said.

Winners were determined by accumulation of points throughout Homecoming Week, said Shannan Seely, senior in animal sciences and industry and publicity chairwoman for Homecoming Week.

The pant-the-chant contest was part of the bonfire Friday night, she said.

The yell-like-hell preliminary competition took place Thursday at Weber Hall Arena. The top five went on to the final competition Friday afternoon, she said.

"They put on skits to exhibit the theme, 'I Like the State in U,'" Seely said.

Bodybuilders competed in the preliminary contest Thursday. Finalists competed Friday in the Union, she said.

In the banner competition, groups displayed banners in the K-State Union courtyard Thursday, Seely said.

The last event was the parade competition Saturday morning.

JONATHAN

MORRIS MORRIS MORRIS MORRIS

"I will work to make student government and its leaders more accessible to the student body."

MORRIS MORRIS MORRIS MORRIS

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by Students for Morris

Collegian Auto Directory

PARTS REPAIR
PRE-OWNED HARLEYS
CLOTHING AND ACCESSORIES

WHEATLAND
MOTOR CYCLE
CO.

521 N. 3 • 539-8500

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR FALL
LUBE, OIL (UP TO 5 QTS.), FILTER
MOST POPULAR BRANDS

$15.95
by appointment only

537-1201
1026 Poyntz

Parkside CONOCO & U-Haul

Budget Car Care
Winter Coat Special

Wash, wax,
interior cleaning,
deodorizing, and
buffing.
just $30.00!
Offer expires Nov. 23, 1990
Call 537-1496 or 537-3981

AMOCO Oppy's

Since 1953 776-9940

"Your Friendly Neighborhood Amoco"

3rd & Ft. Riley Blvd., Manhattan, Ks.
Hours: Mon.-Sat 5:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Sun. 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

- Allen Computer Diagnostic Tune-ups
- Domestic & Foreign Car Repair
- Complete Brake Service
- Auto Air Conditioning
- Tire Repair
- Electronic Spin Balancing
- Interstate Battery Dealer
- Pick up and delivery service

We Accept:

Free heating & cooling system check

WINTER TUNE-UP Special!

Let our diagnostic computer help get your car ready for cold weather.

The best way to get your car ready for the cold months ahead is to have it tested on our Allen Smart Engine Analyzer... Advanced computer technology enables it to pinpoint problems in the engine systems... even indicate which parts need replacement or repair. You'll receive, free of charge, an easy-to-understand computer printout on the condition of your car.

Make an appointment for your "get ready for cold weather tune-up."

Total Diagnosis Special $27.50 Parkside Conoco and U-Haul
1026 Poyntz
Manhattan, KS (913) 537-1201
with this ad, Exp. 12/31/90

Lose 25-30 pounds
before Christmas Break!

Guaranteed "Complete"
Nutritional Program
w/ earning potential
Call Cathy 776-0629
after 6:30 & weekends

WE'RE MOVING

We will be closed this Saturday while we move to the Old Town Mall near the corner of 17th and Fort Riley Blvd.

We will continue to provide free pregnancy tests and our many other
services.

Birthright
537-9180
1-800-848-LOVE

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. 776-5577
First Bank Center

PIZZA SHUTTLE
"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday
Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS:
1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

15 words
5 days
$5.50 COLLEGIAN
ClassADS

GOODSON
AUTO TRIM

Headlining
Tonneau Covers
Boat Covers
Window Tinting
Convertible Tops
Vinyl Tops
Complete Auto, Truck
& Boat Upholstery
201 Sarber Lane
(behind Wal-Mart)
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

TOYOTA TRIUMPH VOLVO AUDI

COMPLETE LINE OF FOREIGN PARTS

IMPORT CAR PARTS & SERVICE

EXPERT MECHANICS ON DUTY

BECK/ARNLEY WORLDWIDE

Call 539-0577
315 S. 3rd
8-5:30 Mon.-Fri., Sat. 9-1

PORSCHE MAZDA TOYOTA MG

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Redshirt freshman emerges for harriers

Staats' strong performance at Big 8 meet boosts team

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

When a varsity collegiate athletic program loses three seniors from one of its best squads, there is usually a period of unrest.

That was the situation the K-State women's cross country team faced as it returned for the beginning of the season, although the team did have All-American Janet Haskin and Janet Treiber to attempt to fill the large voids left by three scorers.

Leave it up to a freshman to step up — well, actually a redshirt freshman from last year's squad. Paulette Staats spent her first season watching the K-State team run and waiting to prove herself because of a season-ending injury.

This season she has wasted no time establishing herself among the top runners in the Big Eight in her first cross country campaign. She has dramatically improved her course times and is moving her way up to challenge top returnees Haskin and Treiber.

"I was really excited about getting to run cross country. I wasn't really sure how I could do because I had never really run cross country for three miles," Staats said. "I just went into it not knowing what to expect."

Staats, however, is no rookie in competition. She recovered from her injury to produce a very successful track season highlighted by a third-place finish in the mile at the Big Eight Indoor Championships. She was also the runner-up in the Class 6A Kansas Cross Country Championships her senior year in high school.

"I think it is a whole different race, not only because it is longer, but also competition-wise," Staats said. "In college, I think differently than I did when I was in high school. In high school, I didn't prepare as much mentally, and once I got into a race I was kind of scared. But now, you just know that you have to go out and do what you can do."

And that is exactly what Staats did on Oct. 27 at the Big Eight Cross Country Championships. Staats led K-State to a second-place conference finish by being the only Wildcat to place in the top 10.

Although Staats maintains a humble, and somewhat surprised, attitude about her successful season, Coach John Capriotti knew she had the talent to run with the likes of Haskin and Treiber.

"I saw a time in practice where she was running very easy, and she might have been able to pass the Janets. I told her that just because those girls have been successful in the past, doesn't mean that you can't beat them," Capriotti said. "What happens if you go into a meet and

See STAATS, Page 7

Wildcat women's cross country runner Paulette Staats was the team leader at the Big Eight Cross Country Championships in Lincoln, Neb. Staats, a redshirt freshman, has become a solid third runner behind Janet Haskin and Janet Treiber.

Mike Welch/Staff

Failure of Rec Complex plan will not change intramurals

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

For the almost students that use the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex on a daily basis, a note of caution: do not expect relief from overcrowding.

The proposal to enlarge the Rec Complex by doubling its present size failed on the Oct. 30-31 referendum ballot. Although the proposal received more votes in favor of it than against, it did not receive the two-thirds majority of votes needed.

"We are disappointed that it didn't pass for lots of reasons, not just the intramural side of the coin," said Steve Martini, director of intramurals. "We were looking forward to the possibility of the space, programming enhancements and more choices for the students."

The possibility of increasing K-State's intramural program to encompass more activities is gone, and the waiting lines for a basketball or racquetball court and weights still remain.

The intramural program and Martini do not see any changes affecting the current program, and the Rec Complex's commitment to the students will remain at the top of their list.

"We are going to try to provide our best for the students like we always have done," Martini said. "As stats have shown, we are getting busier and busier, and just because the referendum didn't pass, I know that it's not going to change that fact. We are still going to have the overcrowding problem."

The passing of the proposal would have provided for night games, more activities such as sand volleyball or a spring flag football league and would have saved time for students not involved in intramurals to use the facilities.

"We certainly are not going to limit the number of students we get in here, or I am not going to say that we will only take 300 basketball teams instead of whatever we get," Martini said. "That's not right, and the students have a right to this building. Our job is to provide programs and activities for them, and we will continue to do that as best as we can."

Martini said he believes that the referendum's failure will not affect the intramural scene. Instead, the problem will be largely noticeable in the weight and fitness rooms and the walking track. These are the most-used areas of the Rec Complex, and polls show increased activity from students in the future.

Expansion is left in the air after the failed proposal. Martini said the staff is in the process of regrouping while remaining committed to the students and their needs.

"As far as what our plans are for the future for expanding this building, I really can't say. I don't know which direction we are going to go," Martini said. "The problem will continue to exist that we are overcrowded, and eventually, something will have to be done about it."

Centers share moment

Webster, Grunhard help each other through tough time

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Less than a week before his son would play the biggest game of his promising NFL career, Charles Grunhard, a former Chicago policeman, died.

Rookie center Tim Grunhard did not return to practice in Kansas City until Thursday. So the call went out to Mike Webster, his 38-year-old backup, teacher and friend.

In a cold, driving rain, the grizzled Webster played almost the entire way Sunday against the Los Angeles Raiders, reliving, he said, his days as a nine-time Pro Bowler with the four-time Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

But the moment the game ended with the Chiefs clinging to a crucial 9-7 victory, Webster snatched the football off the wet turf and headed straight for Grunhard.

He handed him the ball. Then the young man and the older man embraced, exchanging a few words that forever will stay with them alone.

"It was personal. It was between him and me," said Webster, who has taken the rookie from Notre Dame as his protegee in his 18th and surely final NFL campaign.

It's hard enough even in the best of times for a rookie to keep his wits about him in the NFL, particularly a rookie center. Chiefs' coaches decided early in the week to let Grunhard take the day off and resume his starting duties the next week against Seattle.

Webster concurred. "I think it was good for him to just step back," he said. "He's been doing a great job. But it would have been asking quite a bit of him to have to concentrate on a game we really needed. I'm sure he could have done it. I'm sure if he had to, he could have played. It was up to me to play up to his standards now."

Webster's gesture was not lost on his teammates, who have marveled all year at how gracefully the aging all-pro has stepped aside for Grunhard.

Webster's big-game experience was a priceless commodity as the Chiefs met the front-runners in the AFC West in a game that everyone but the coaches agreed was critical.

It could have been even more so for Grunhard, if not for his friend Webster. As Grunhard left the Chiefs' locker room he walked up to Webster and put his arm around him.

"This man," he said with a smile, "is God."

SPORTS BRIEFLY

Lady Cats tabbed for 2nd

With four starters returning, the K-State women's basketball team has been chosen to finish second in a preseason poll of the Big Eight Conference coaches released Monday.

Colorado, which tied K-State for second in the Big Eight's regular-season race last year, got the top nod, with K-State and Oklahoma State tied for second.

K-State had two players on the preseason all-conference team, the most of any school.

Diana Miller and Nadira Hazim earned the distinction for the second-consecutive year. Joining the K-State duo on the team were Oklahoma State's Liz Brown, Colorado's Debbie Johnson and Missouri's Lisa Sandbothe.

Brown got the preseason Player-of-the-Year nod over Miller, with Hazim also getting a vote.

K-State's Lynn Holzman, a 5-11 freshman forward, was a co-winner of the Big Eight's Newcomer-of-the-Year award.

Browns' Carson 1st casualty

By The Associated Press

BEREA, Ohio — The Cleveland Browns, off to their worst start since 1984, fired coach Bud Carson the day after their worst home loss ever.

Owner Art Modell, who promised last year that Carson would be his last head coach, changed his mind following Sunday's 42-0 loss to the Buffalo Bills.

"It was an embarrassment for all of us," Modell said Monday. "If I ever do leave the game, I'm going to go out on top. I'm not going to go out as a loser."

Carson, the first coaching casualty of the season, was replaced by first-year offensive coordinator Jim Shofner.

The Browns, who have made the playoffs the five past years, are 2-7 and off to their worst start since 1984, when their 1-7 record cost Sam Rutigliano his job.

"I was hoping and praying that Bud would turn it around," Modell said. "I can't coach, but I have some instincts for the game. We had to stop the hemorrhaging. I'm looking for a demonstrable turnaround in performance."

Carson's three-year contract, which runs through 1991, will be honored, Modell said.

Carson had indicated Sunday night that he might resign, but he did not leave voluntarily, Modell said. Carson said Monday he had thought the Browns were back on track when they lost to the San Francisco 49ers 20-17 on a last-minute field goal a week ago.

"We expected to play well last night, and we did not do it," Carson said. "Not only did we not do it, we played as badly as we can play. The whole football team fell apart."

"The bottom line in this business is, you've got to win, or what have you done for me lately?"

FAN FORUM

Thanks, fans

Sports Editor,

To the K-State students: With the home football season behind us, I'd like to express my thanks and that of our department for the support you displayed in 1990.

The team showed much improvement of the course of the season, and many of you played a key role in that success through your attendance.

Rest assured, it was appreciated.

Steve Miller
director of athletics

Parity in football good for Big 8 — or is it, really?

Scott Paske

SPORTS REPORTER

Isn't it nice to go to a Big Eight Conference football game these days and not know exactly what's going to happen?

Parity is a wonderful thing, unless you think in terms of bank account balances.

Even though the cream rose to the top with Colorado's 27-12 win over Nebraska in Lincoln on Saturday, it seems the rest of the league has an identity crisis. The "you-beat-them, we'll-beat-you, they'll-beat-us" attitude that is associated with Big Eight basketball has made its way to the gridiron.

The trickling effect that has dominated Big Eight football for so many years has been put on hold. Perennial cellar-dwellers are getting their licks in against those above them, and middle-of-the-road teams have served notice to the league's penthouse occupants that they better stay alert.

All this is great, but chances are, the Big Eight will only send two teams to postseason bowl games as a result. In a game that carries plenty of clout off the field with revenue sharing among conference teams, that's not good news.

If the picture still isn't clear, consider the following equations: a bowl game equals big money. Lots of bowl games equal lots of big money. Lots of big money equals happy athletic directors and nice, fat athletic department budgets. Think about it.

By winning Saturday, Colorado is heavily favored to repeat as conference champion and make a return trip to the Orange Bowl. Remaining games with Oklahoma State and K-State predict that Nebraska, with an 8-1 record, will go somewhere, although its bid for a national title will have to wait another year.

After that, there isn't much left to generate excitement among bowl scouts. A rundown of the current league standings behind the Buffaloes and Cornhuskers paints a pretty bleak picture.

Oklahoma, thanks to NCAA probation, will spend the holidays watching its basketball team take on the latest Division I-AA whipping boys. In another season, the Sooners would still be in the bowl picture with a 6-3 record. There wouldn't have been any guarantees, however, as evidenced by Iowa State's 33-31 upset over OU in Norman two weeks ago.

Kansas, which enters next weekend's matchup with Nebraska among the league's upper-half, will check in the pads in two weeks because of a murderous non-conference schedule. The Jayhawks' 3-5-1 overall record, no matter who it came against, will even keep the minor bowls away.

K-State, currently fifth in the conference at 2-3, would have to pull off back-to-back miracles for bowl consideration. At 5-4, the Wildcats join Colorado, Nebraska and Oklahoma as teams with winning records, but they will be underdogs on the road in remaining games with the Buffs and Sooners.

Iowa State, which entered Saturday's game with K-State at 3-4-1, appeared to have the inside track on a third bowl bid for the Big Eight. The Cyclones were through with the league's top three and had the bottom three in front of them. Iowa State also had what bowl scouts call "a quality win" at Oklahoma to put a big notch in its belt.

Enter parity, and a 28-14 loss to the "Cats. Goodbye, bowl hopes.

Missouri and Oklahoma State, embedded in the cellar at 3-6 overall and 1-4 in Big Eight play, were cropped from the bowl scene some time ago. The Cowboys, like Oklahoma, are serving NCAA probation.

Needless to say, the Big Eight has seen bigger paydays than it will this coming New Year's Day. But Colorado and Nebraska will both get invitations to bowl games run by people with fat wallets, so the conference won't starve.

To most Big Eight fans, however, none of that matters. Iowa State's win at Oklahoma, Colorado's road win over Nebraska and K-State's first conference victory since 1986 will be the things they talk about. They couldn't give a hoot about multi-million dollar payoffs.

Most forecasters stuck with the norm, and said this year's final Big Eight standings would reflect the past. In fact, it still might come close. But most would agree that the odd occurrences of 1990 have been welcome.

Hooray for parity.

Faculty

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
of architecture, said it would undermine the credibility of any new attempt at reorganization. Coates had said earlier in the day that he believed Wefald would make the withdrawal.

"I sense the president has a sincere desire to do whatever is necessary to regain the trust and confidence of the University," he said.

Wefald said the proposal's goals are still valid. He said those goals include improving faculty salaries, reallocating resources for the expansion of Farrell Library, increasing computer-support services, enhancing the College of Arts and Sciences and funding strategic planning.

Proposal

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
judgement, he has a done an excellent job in many areas," he said. "He got some poor advice here. He realizes it was a mistake, and now he is trying to rectify that."

The University must still cut costs and find more money, Coffman said. The options of across-the-board cuts and individual-item cuts must be discussed.

"I do hope that out of this, once the trauma wears off to some extent, people have increased interest to work across department and college lines to find ways to gain the most productivity with the most efficiency," Coffman said.

Coffman said he had not expected to have to withdraw the reorganization proposal.

"I knew we would take considerable heat, but I always believed we would be able to turn it into a rational debate," he said.

Race

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
cutoff time from 20 days before the election to 15 and of registration efforts by a variety of groups.

That brought the total state registration for this election to 1,204,574, the highest since 1982 when 1,238,032 were registered for the general election.

Changes in state law which permit purging of voter registration rolls to eliminate the names of people who have died, moved or not voted led to a slump to 1,158,738 registered in 1986.

Of the new registrants and the unaffiliated voters who chose to register with one party or the other during the primary, 43,567 are Republicans and 25,845 are Democrats. The number of independent voters declined by 30,876, he said.

Republicans now have 44 percent of the registered voters in Kansas, Democrats 30 percent and unaffiliated 26 percent.

Hayter

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
continue in that capacity.

"I would imagine I'm best suited for my University position," Hayter said.

Kristi Caughron, office specialist, said despite Hayter's extremely busy schedule, he always seems to have at least a little bit of time for everyone.

"He is a super boss. He treats everybody equally," she said.

Holding the position of director of engineering extension requires Hayter to be involved in balancing programs with a staff that is available and providing a service unit to the college of engineering. Hayter is also responsible for making sure that funding continues for the extension.

"I thoroughly enjoy coming to work everyday," Hayter said. "They are both challenging, and they're both very satisfying."

Garden

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
the plots to be filled last year," Campbell said.

She said 47 percent of the garden's tenants were of low-income families. K-State students rented 23 of the plots. Some of these students were international students, and others were from Jardine Terrace Apartments.

Some gardeners donated most of their produce to charitable causes. Families who had more produce than they could eat also donated some food, she said.

"Some do donate produce to bread baskets or church pantries, and some produce goes to international students who need it," Campbell said.

Manhattan children are also given a plot to tend. The children's garden has been a fairly successful activity, Campbell said.

Rose

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

"It's a very addictive business," she said. "Despite the heartaches and headaches, it's basically fun and an out-of-the-ordinary job, not like a 9-to-5 job at all."

She said the feelings that come over her when she sees her finished product on the screen are overwhelming, perhaps like a mother at the birth of her child.

The position is a 24-hour-a-day job, and it is not unusual for her to work 60 to 80 hours a week.

"It is the toughest business anyone could ever imagine, because you face rejection everyday," she said. "You have to learn not to take it personally."

"It's a fun business for people who want to do something out of the ordinary, if they don't mind starving and fighting," she said.

We Take Tips!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

532-6556

Proudly Announces

"WEEK OF GIVING"

Lollipop Sales Campaign 1990

Sigma Kappas will be in the K-State Union Monday thru Thursday selling lollipops for $1.

All proceeds go to Alzheimer's Disease Research

Thanks to the following "Week of Giving" sponsors.

Kitchens Plus

Manhattan's "Christmas Headquarters"

Christmas Open '90 House

Bundle Up And Bring A Friend For Some Old-Fashioned Holiday Cheer!!

Prizes, Demonstrations, Refreshments, & Fun!!

Sunday
November—11th
Noon-8:00 p.m.

Many Specials!
Good During The Day Of Our Christmas
Open House Only...

Including:
Dickens Houses
Toys and Puzzles
Christmas Bags and Giftwrap
Cushionaire Bakeware
Carousel Horses
and
Much, Much More!!

We Have One Of The Finest Selections Of Artificial Trees, Lights, Ornaments, And Holiday Decorating Accessories In The State Of Kansas. And Of Course...Gifts For Everyone On Your Christmas List!!
Gift Wrapping And UPS Shipping Available.

COUPON
CHRISTMAS LIGHTS AND ORNAMENTS
20% OFF
EXPIRES 11/16/90

COUPON
BOXED CHRISTMAS CARDS
25% OFF
SUPPLIES LIMITED

COUPON
WOODEN SANTA ROCKER
REG. $35.00
ONLY $25.00
SUPPLIES LIMITED

COUPON
COFFEE BEANS
20% OFF
EXPIRES 11/16/90

COUPON
KRUPS TOUCHTOP COFFEE GRINDER
ONLY $13.95
SUPPLIES LIMITED

COUPON
FREE $56.00 CALPHALON WINDSOR PAN WITH $150.00 CALPHALON PURCHASE
SUPPLIES LIMITED

1110 WESTLOOP SHOPPING CENTER

537-4046

Treat Yourself To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

Tacoburgers 2 for $1.30

(reg. $2.35)

Burrito Dinner $2.77

(reg. $3.60)

Good through 11-10-90

TACO HUT

Sun-Thurs 11 a.m.-10 p.m.
Fri-Sat 11 a.m.-Midnight
where good friends get together
Overlooking Westloop
2809 Clallin 539-2091

SCHLIEBE WORKOUT CENTERS

PRESENT

THE ULTIMATE CHALLENGE

COME AND WATCH OR PARTICIPATE IN A ONE HOUR WORKOUT AT BUSHWACKER'S LED BY A SCHLIEBE INSTRUCTOR

PRELIMINARIES:

THURSDAY, NOV 1 8:00
FRIDAY, NOV 2 8:00
THURSDAY, NOV 8 8:00
FRIDAY, NOV 9 8:00

FINALS: NOVEMBER 15, 8:00

1ST PLACE:

$300 CASH AND ONE YEAR MEMBERSHIP TO SCHLIEBE, PLUS A TRIP TO LAS VEGAS FOR TWO.

2ND PLACE:

$200 CASH AND 6 MONTHS MEMBERSHIP TO SCHLIEBE

3RD PLACE:

$100 CASH AND 3 MONTHS MEMBERSHIP TO SCHLIEBE

OTHER AWARDS WILL BE PRESENTED PLUS DRAWING FOR FREE MERCHANDISE FOR THE AUDIENCE.

$6 ENTRY FEE

(Includes a one month membership to Schliebe and a T-Shirt!)

CALL TODAY!!! 776-1750

STUDIO32

BUD LIGHT

POWER 94.5

BUSHWACKER'S

AGGIE SKI & SPORT

OUR SPECIALTY CHEESES ARE BACK IN STOCK!

Medium Aged Yellow Cheddar
by the full or half block
$2.47/lb.—N.D.

And...

Swedish Fontina—$4.65/lb.
14 oz. mini Brie w/herbs—$5.60
Costwold—$5.06/lb.
English Cheshire—$4.33/lb.
Cracked Pepper Brie—$8.72/lb. or $15.44/ 2 lb. wheel
English Derby Sage—$7.19/lb.

And check out our many other varieties in stock

811 Colorado

People's Grocery Co-Op

539-4811

M

O

R

R

I

S

"I WILL SUPPORT AND REPRESENT STUDENT INTERESTS TO THE ADMINISTRATION IN THE UNIVERSITY REORGANIZATION PROCESS"

Paid for by Students for Morris

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

532-6555

Kedzie 103

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

BEST FUNDRAISER on campus! Looking for a fraternity, sorority or student organization that would like to earn $500 to $1,000 dollars for a one week on-campus marketing project. Must be organized and hard working. Call Jeanie or Ashley, 1-800-592-2121.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7455.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

COMPLETE VIDEO of Homecoming bodybuilding team competition. Union Courtyard, Nov. 2. $22 includes tax, postage, handling. Living Image Video, 539-0168.

FED UP with health insurance premiums that continually increase? If so, I have a policy for you. If you're interested call... Billie Galtner, 539-5676.

I LOST 18 lbs. in three weeks. You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call Vanessa at 776-4764.

LITTLE APPLE Gymnastics is offering tumbling and partner stunt classes for those interested in trying out for cheerleading at KSU. Call 539-3613.

TUESDAY
COUNTRY
MUSIC NIGHT

$1.99

Mason Jars
(keep the jar)

99¢ Refills

Free music on our
CD jukebox.
Dance music
in the back.

Starts at 9 p.m.

619 N. 12th • Aggieville

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

TONIGHT
25¢
DRAWS
ONLY AT
BAYSTREET

LAST CHANCE!
STEAMBOAT
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $177
BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $184
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $247
9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

GREAT PARENT
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR THIS WEEKEND!

Etched, carved, stained glass and an imaginative collection of gifts.

Glass Impressions Open Sat. 10 - 4

1128 Laramie • Aggieville
Mon. - Fri. 11-6 Sat. 10-4
539-4610

NFL Quarterback
Ken Karcher
"Running to Win"
Tues., Nov. 6 9 p.m.
KAΘ Sorority 1517 McCain Ln.
Late Night
Campus Crusade

2 Apartments—Furnished

UPSTAIRS APARTMENT for one person. 539-5778.

UNITED ARTISTS
Theatres
*3.50 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6:00 P.M.
SETH CHILDS 6 776-9886
Seth Childs at Farm Bureau Rd.
Tuesday Bargain Day
All Seats All Day $3.00
All Movies Admission
Jacob's Ladder (R)
Daily 7:05 & 9:30
Sibling Rivalry (PG-13)
Daily 7:15 & 9:20
Quigley Down Under (PG-13)
Daily 7 & 9:30
Marked For Death (R)
Daily 7:15 & 9:25
Ghost (PG-13)
Daily 6:50 & 9:25
Memphis Belle (PG-13)
Daily 7:10 & 9:20

DRIVE A BARGAIN
WITHOUT SKIPPING
A BEAT.

FACTORY AUTHORIZED CD
SALE $399⁰⁰

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Blumont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

STUDIO AVAILABLE Now. Sunset/ College Heights location. $195. Water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus. water and trash paid. $260. 776-7320.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/ dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. Available November. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

VERY NICE one-bedroom apartment, attractive location, no pets. $275 plus electricity. 776-0406.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY. One-bedroom apartment located on west side. $320 per month, no pets. Call 776-1340, 8a.m.—6p.m.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

LEASE FOR Spring—Now! One-bedroom one block from campus/ Aggieville. Rent $295 plus deposit and electric. Available December. 537-3342.

Brittnay Ridge Townhomes

—More Than Your Basic Apartment—

- 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, study room
- Wired for cable, phone, computer
- Hot tubs & volleyball court
- Bus service to campus
- Monthly rent as low as $195

Dan Weir Co.

2601 Anderson Ave.

776-5599

(Continued on page 9)

ELECT EXPERIENCE TODD HEITSCHMIDT

- Lobbying EXPERIENCE on both National & State Level
 - Student Assistant under Bob Dole
 - Associated Students of Kansas Campus Director
- Student Government EXPERIENCE
 - Two term Student Senator
 - Academic Affairs & University Relations Committee Chair

Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt

ALPINE
Car Audio Systems

Alpine 7904

FM/AM Compact Disc Player with 16 Bit, 8x Oversampling Digital Filter, Dual Digital/Analog Converters, Alpine's proprietary T-10 II Tuner with 18 Station Presets, Digital Clock and other technical and convenience features for sonic excellence and exceptional performance.

AUDIO
JUNCTION, INC.

630 Grant Ave.

HI FI-Car Stereo-Video

Car Stereo Installation
Stereo and Video Repair

1-762-4447

Mon.-Fri. 10-7, Sat. 10-5

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

Deliverance
November 7 & 8

There's spine-chilling suspense when four businessmen spend a weekend canoeing down a primitive river with awkward inexperience. The peaceful trip takes an abrupt turn resulting in rape, murder and death. The survivors begin to comprehend the brutal horror and must think of a convincing explanation to conceal the deaths in John Boorman's classic. Stars Jon Voight and Burt Reynolds. Rated R. WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY, 7 p.m., Forum Hall, $1.75 with KSU ID.

Devil's Ice Box Cave Columbia, Mo.

Trip includes: camping & caving permits, use of canoes, caving instructor & meals.

Sign-up: NOW in UPC office, 3rd floor, K-State Union
Driver's meeting: Tuesday, Nov. 6th, Union room 205, 7 p.m.

KANSAS CITY
CHRISTMAS SHOPPING
Come and join us for a fun-filled day Christmas shopping in beautiful Kansas City. We will begin by stopping off at the Oak Park Mall in Overland Park, and then travel downtown to the Country Club Plaza.
Information Meeting: sign up begins:
Tuesday, November 6 7pm Union 204 Wednesday, November 7 8am—UPC Office

October 29-
November 9

"Wildlife Paintings and Drawings"
by
Jonny Bill Wilkens

November 5-16
Artwork
by
E.C. Cunningham

(Continued from page 8)

5 Automobile for Sale

1986 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original, $800 or best offer. 1-485-2760.

1978 SUNBIRD—Excellent body, upholstery, 57,000 actual. Good gas mileage. Steal it for $1,995. 776-7568.

1981 OLDS Cutlass, new tires, nice interior, good condition. Call 776-4122.

1981 PLYMOUTH Horizon, mileage 55,400, good condition, $1,650 negotiable. Melville 532-7212 after 10:30a.m. or 537-4420.

1986 CAMARO, hot rod with T-top, only 47K, Mini 1-485-2576 after 6p.m.

1987 CHEVY Custom van, loaded, 50,000 miles, 350CID, auto, power windows, power steering, air, cruise, lift, like new. 1-468-3689, keep trying.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies, Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

8 Employment

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT income for home assembly work. 504-646-1700. Dept. P6438.

CLEAN, COOK, childcare, few hours every other day. Apply in person, 2024 Browning.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$30-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

GYMNASTICS INSTRUCTORS needed. Boys and girls coaches. Can train interested applicants. $4.50/hour. Little Apple Gymnastics. 539-3613.

HOME TYPISTS. PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

4-H YOUTH Extension Assistant (Temporary and Part-time) to support 4-H Club organization and 4-H parents committees, plant and mechanical science projects. Available Dec. 1. Required: Master's Degree in Curriculum Design, Counseling/ Guidance, Education, Physical Education, Human Development/ Family Studies, or related. Salary commensurate. Resume, transcripts, and three reference letters by Nov. 15 to CR Salmon, Umberger Hall, KSU, 913-532-5800. KSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS: CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

PART-TIME WEEKEND staff for Manhattan Emergency Shelter, Inc. Ability to work with low income and/or disadvantaged individuals. Apply at 531 Leavenworth. 537-3113.

PART-TIME OFFICE manager, some computer experience, some accounting, need very good telephone skills, 12 hours/week, flexible. 776-9544.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kallispell, MT 59901.

TELEMARKETING POSITION open with major insurance company. Insurance license helpful but not required. Serious inquiries only. Call 776-3882 or 537-4661 between 3-5p.m. M-F.

TIERED OF school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Templeton Nanny Agency. (913)642-4443.

WANTED: STUDENT to clean apartment. Approximately 4-5 hours/week. Call 537-7843. Ask for Kim.

WE NEED a chimney sweep who is hardworking, very mechanically inclined, has no fear of heights and relates well with people. Must be able to work Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. 776-9544.

Tuesday Special

RIB-IT NIGHT

All the BBQ Ribs, Fries and Salad Bar you can eat!

$4.95

Every Tuesday 5-8 p.m.

The CHEF Cafe

111 S. 4th Downtown

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment. 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Clafin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

25 Roommate Wanted

CHRISTIAN FEMALE at KSU is looking for female to share apartment spring semester. One and one-half blocks from campus. Rent $155 plus one-half utilities. Call 537-0772 for more information.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Tri-level furnished apartment, one-half block from campus. $157.50/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Take over lease now. December or January. 537-9568.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, available immediately. Own room, good size apartment. Washer and dryer, $150 a month plus one-fifth utilities. Two blocks from campus. 776-4022 ask for Suzanne.

FEMALE ROOMMATE immediately, first month's rent free. Phone, bedroom and bath. Call 539-4377.

FEMALE TO share two-bedroom across from campus. Available immediately. 539-7494.

MALE ROOMMATE for spring, January rent free, close to campus. Call 537-4165 after 8p.m.

NEEDED—ROOMMATE for spring semester to fill large main floor of house. One and one-half blocks from campus, own bedroom, $150 month plus one-fourth of house bills. Call 537-3696.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Sunset and Anderson, rent $190. If no answer leave message. 776-2032.

ROOMMATE NEEDED immediately: female, Christian, non-smoking. $175. 539-3459.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE NEEDED to share apartment next to campus. Spring semester, $145/ month, utilities included. 539-1720.

TWO MALE Christians to share live-bedroom, three-bath townhouse. Each room wired for cable, phone, computer. Washer and dryer. 537-0472. $195 plus utilities.

28 Sublease

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath, fireplace, washer and dryer, dishwasher, pool, beautiful view. $405/ month. 776-2422.

ONE—THREE female roommates, furnished house, spring semester (or up to two now). Private bath, living, entrance, backyard. Washer/dryer. $162.50/ month, negotiable. Lease ends in May. Amy 539-3896.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

AC/DC TICKET, 4th row floor. 537-2288.

MUST SELL three tickets to Billy Joel's concert in KC on Nov. 21. Call 539-1651 after 6p.m. Good price.

32 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FISHER MONTARE mountain bike. Shimano Deore components. $450. 776-1638 leave message.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 6p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhart Workwear. Open Monday-Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Mary's Curious Sales. 1-437-2734.

PROTECT YOURSELF against an unwanted attacker, purchase mace. Easy to use, small enough for your pocket, attach to your key chain. Security for $5. Call 539-7349, leave message.

34 Tutoring

TUTORING IN Modern Greek. Open to anyone, call Ali Barnash. Phone 776-6128, after 5p.m.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits.

15-80K+.

Free Information

Call

Corporate Careers

(913) 539-1144

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

SPORTS • SPORTS

99¢ Margaritas

50¢ Tacos

BoWinkle's A Sports Bar

776-1022

3043 Anderson

SPORTS • SPORTS

Bobby's

Tuesdays:

TACO NACHO NIGHT

39¢ Tacos with drink

Homemade flour chicken or beef tacos

$1.25 margaritas

539-1571

23 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

24 Resume/ Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383. 7—10p.m.

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/ 539-6027.

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS	1 Watch pockets	5 Lodge brother	8 Polio scientist	12 Seine sights	13 Water tester?	14 Privy to	15 Circus offering	17 Rx amount	18 Farm tool	19 Finger-counting limit	20 Flat paper?	21 Polite title	22 Male swan	23 Hindu ascetic	26 Low footstool	30 All agog	31 Conifer	32 —de-camp	33 Revival	35 Disease of rye	36 "Ich—ein Berliner"	37 Demented	38 Initial appear-	ance	41 Footlike organ	42 Dad's retreat	45 Moslem prince	46 Moon-lighting job	48 Swiss canton	49 High note	50 Acknowledg-	51 Froth or foam	52 Slippery one	53 Fail to bid	DOWN	1 Word before stick or story	2 Hodge-	Solution time: 27 mins.	26 Low footstool	30 All agog	31 Conifer	32 —de-camp	33 Revival	35 Disease of rye	36 "Ich—ein Berliner"	37 Demented	38 Initial appear-	ance	41 Footlike organ	42 Dad's retreat	45 Moslem prince	46 Moon-lighting job	48 Swiss canton	49 High note	50 Acknowledg-	51 Froth or foam	52 Slippery one	53 Fail to bid	DOWN	1 Word before stick or story	2 Hodge-	Solution time: 27 mins.
--------	-----------------	-----------------	-------------------	-----------------	------------------	-------------	--------------------	--------------	--------------	--------------------------	----------------	-----------------	--------------	------------------	------------------	-------------	------------	-------------	------------	-------------------	-----------------------	-------------	--------------------	------	-------------------	------------------	------------------	----------------------	-----------------	--------------	----------------	------------------	-----------------	----------------	------	------------------------------	----------	-------------------------	------------------	-------------	------------	-------------	------------	-------------------	-----------------------	-------------	--------------------	------	-------------------	------------------	------------------	----------------------	-----------------	--------------	----------------	------------------	-----------------	----------------	------	------------------------------	----------	-------------------------

CRYPTOQUIP

11-6

XR IQRYRQQRW WK BK WK

WXR CTNRCTSS BTPR. NK

XR PTMR T IDWFX YKQ DW.

Yesterday's Cryptquip: BECAUSE HE GOT PAID BY THE PAGE, COMPULSIVE NOVELIST MADE A SHORT STORY LONG.

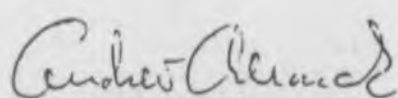

Today's Cryptquip clue: C equals B

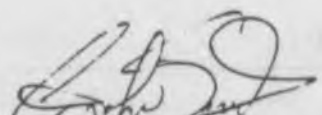

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

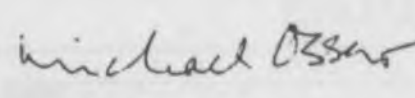

We encourage all members of the Univ. comm. to attend the Faculty Senate meeting open to the Univ. on Wednesday, November 7, 1990, 1:30 p.m. in the K-State Union Forum Hall to discuss whether full and satisfactory responses to the following concerns have been given by the Central Administration:

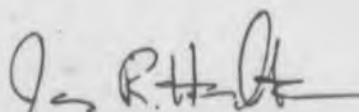

- A number of colleges and programs are suffering immediate damage to enrollment, faculty and reputation because of proposed threats to their existence.
- Faculty and student morale have been damaged throughout the University to the point that our regular work of teaching and scholarship is jeopardized.
- Certain programs have been asked for a rapid response to proposals which are very threatening but vague, incomplete, and frequently revised.
- Proposed cuts of colleges and programs would have a vastly disproportionate effect on the number of women faculty and students at the University.
- Various proposals and the need for reorganization itself were released in a piecemeal fashion and to the press before a proper disclosure to the faculty and university community.
- The process of developing a reorganization plan has been designed to take place under conditions of secrecy inappropriate to a university and without faculty or student input at critical early stages of the development.
- The programs identified for elimination or reduction do not fit the criteria originally put forward for reorganization.
- The timetable for developing a plan is too rapid to allow calm and thoughtful reflection and discussion.
- Three colleges currently are headed by acting deans and are therefore concerned about their ability to respond to reorganization.
- The financial need for reorganization is not universally accepted, especially in view of the increase of $1 million (or 97%) in expenditures for central administration since 1987.
- Considerable skepticism exists about whether the state legislature and governor will indeed permit the university to keep monies freed by reorganization.
- KSU has in the past achieved reductions and reorganizations without our current level of anxiety, stress, fear, and anger.
- Other universities have achieved reductions and reorganization without this stress, anxiety, and threat.

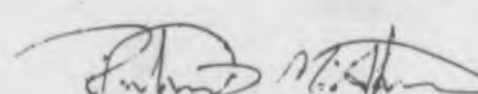

Respectfully,

Andrew Chermak
Mathematics

Carolyn Smith
Library

Michael Ossar
Modern Languages

James Hamilton
Philosophy

Richard McGhee
English

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wednesday, November 7, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 52

Incumbents face defeat across state

Democrats gain on Republicans in legislature

CAMPAIGN 1990

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — At least 11 incumbent legislators lost their seats in Tuesday's election, and Democrats appeared to cut slightly into the Republican majority in the state House of Representatives.

Six Republican legislators and five Democrats were unseated as results from across the state came in. Democrats also picked up four open seats held by retiring Republicans. Republicans picked up four open seats, including one held by a retiring Democrat.

Republicans were hoping to strengthen their control over the state House of Representatives, while Democrats hoped to win a majority for the first time in 14 years. Voters went to the polls to fill all 125 House seats. The Republicans began with 69 seats to the Democrats' 56.

House Minority Leader Marvin Barkis, D-Louisburg, doubted that Democrats would win the majority, but said they would come close to doing so. Members of his party had predicted that they might win 60 seats or more.

"A big factor floating through this election was the anti-incumbency bias," he said. "We're going to look back and see that we lost some incumbents. That's what we couldn't afford to do."

In the 42nd District, Rep. Martha Jenkins, R-Leavenworth, lost her seat to Democrat Stevi Stephens of Tonganoxie, a longtime anti-nuclear activist. Jenkins survived a divisive primary and held an early lead over Stephens, but then lost it.

In the 11th District, Democrat Jim Garner of Coffeyville defeated Rep. Jim Russell, R-Coffeyville. Russell switched parties last year, a move that made him a target for Democrats.

Republican Reps. Hank Turnbaugh of Kansas City and Frank Buehler of Claflin also lost their seats.

Turnbaugh lost to Democrat Dick Edlund in the 33rd District, while Democrat Jack Wempe of Little River won the 113th race against Buehler. Turnbaugh had represented a predominately Democratic district, but Buehler's loss was unexpected.

Republican Kent Glasscock, Manhattan, unseated Democratic Rep. Katha Hurt, also of Manhattan, by running an aggressive campaign in the 62nd District.

In the 10th District, Democratic Rep. Bettie Sue Shumway, Ottawa, lost to Republican Walker Hendrix, Ottawa.

In the 60th District, Rep. Jeff Freeman, R-Burlington, trailed Democrat Ruth Boden of Lebo in early returns. With 10 percent of the vote in, Boden had 63 percent of the vote.

The race took an unexpected turn last week when an Emporia woman accused Freeman of fathering her 3-year-old son. Freeman denied the allegation and called it last-minute dirty politics.

Election Results '90

Governor

Joan Finney (D)

U.S. Senate

Nancy Landon Kassebaum (R)

U.S. House

1st Dist.—Pat Roberts (R)

2nd Dist.—Jim Slattery (D)

3rd Dist.—Jan Meyers (R)

4th Dist.—Dan Glickman (D)

5th Dist.—Dick Nichols (R)

Secretary of State

Bill Graves (R)

Attorney General

Results Not In

State Treasurer

Sally Thompson (D)

Insurance Commissioner

Results Not In

State Rep. 62nd Dist.

Kent Glasscock (R)

State Rep. 66th Dist.

Sheila Hochhauser (D)

County Commissioner

Wilton Thomas (R)

Education Amendment

Not Approved

Source: Staff and Wire Reports

Democratic challenger wins despite predictions of failure

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Joan Finney has made a career of confounding pollsters and pundits, and no more so than during her bid to become the first woman governor in Kansas.

The 65-year-old Democrat upset incumbent Gov. Mike Hayden despite her controversial anti-abortion stance and confusion over her tax proposals.

Finney was supposed to lose the gubernatorial primary in August to former Gov. John Carlin by as much as 20 percentage points. She won a narrow victory.

She defeated Hayden even though he spent about $2 million in his reelection campaign this year — six times as much as Finney, the most ever for a Kansas candidate. The president, the vice president and the first lady have campaigned for Hayden, as did other prominent Republicans.

"This is a game of hard ball," Finney said in an interview before the election. "I know I'll have all of the big guns coming out after me, but I'm used to it."

Finney has spent the last 16 years as state treasurer, winning five elections. In 1985, she created a program of making idle state funds available for low-interest loans for farmers, and she has made a crusade out of her office's efforts to find the owners of unclaimed property.

However, she also has come under fire for her administration, and state audits have repeatedly criticized her management of the office. Hayden pointed to a 1976 incident in which a Topeka boy found a $2 million state check in an alley — something she blamed on a careless bank runner.

Former Gov. Robert Bennett, a Republican who clashed with her, ■ See FINNEY, Page 10

Finney

Candidates meet today in election

Heitschmidt, Morris vie for presidency

STUDENT SENATE '90 ELECTIONS

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

Students will vote for presidential candidates Todd Heitschmidt, graduate student in agricultural economics, and Jonathan Morris, junior in mathematics, in today's run-off election.

The Student Governing Association elections committee is expecting about 2,500 voters to turn out, said Doug McIver, freshman in electrical engineering and chairman of the committee.

Polls will be open 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. in the K-State Union and 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Veterinary Medicine Building.

In the past, about 1,000 less students have voted in run-off elections than in the general elections of the same year, McIver said.

This year, since a referendum to expand the Chester E. Peter's Recreation Complex was on the ballot, the number of voters increased to 4,775 from 3,143 last year.

A run-off election is required because no candidate received 50 percent of the vote in the first election. Morris said he has been actively campaigning since the general election results were released last Thursday.

"Hopefully, we can get back everyone who voted in the general election," he said, "but we've also spent the past week making new contacts and networking in areas that we didn't reach before."

"I expect support from groups that haven't been represented in the past, such as our multi-cultural and non-traditional students," Morris said. "I have made a lot of visitations, because I work best with people one-on-one, and I wanted to get out and meet people."

Heitschmidt said he has also been busy campaigning.

"I have been maintaining contacts as I've done throughout the campaign. I've made group visits and phone calls to supporters reminding people to vote," Heitschmidt said.

He said he is trying to appeal to a more general audience than his opponent.

"I'm trying to hit a broad base, not any specific group," Heitschmidt said.

He said he wants to encourage students to vote.

"Voters can make a difference. It's the only way you're going to change anything," Heitschmidt said.

Soviet rivals to meet after economic feud

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Boris Yeltsin said Tuesday he and Mikhail Gorbachev have agreed to discuss their differences. The move toward peace came on the eve of the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Yeltsin, the Russian president, declined to say who proposed the meeting scheduled for Sunday, but it was the Soviet president who approached Yeltsin to shake his hand after a holiday ceremony in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses.

"We just agreed with Gorbachev to meet on the 11th one-on-one," Yeltsin said. "There will be very many issues and it will be an important meeting," he said, declining to elaborate.

The meeting will be the first between the rival politicians since their attempt at reconciliation over economic reform broke down in late summer. The rift put Yeltsin's Russian Federation, the Soviet Union's largest republic, on a collision course with the central government.

Russia adopted its own plan for converting to a free market economy, conflicting with a more cautious plan endorsed by Gorbachev and adopted by the national legislature.

Gorbachev appeared to have been motivated to suggest the peacemaking session by a speech at the Revolution Day gala in the congress hall. Leonid Y. Bliznov, a Soviet legislator, noted Gorbachev and Yeltsin had tried to work together but very little is left of the alliance.

"It's incomprehensible who or what stands in the way of the two leaders, who know the people's needs and whom the people recognize. Both of them must realize that future opposition makes them both less popular," Bliznov told the audience of more than 3,000 Communist Party officials and politicians.

As applause erupted in the huge, wood-paneled hall, Gorbachev turned to look at Yeltsin, seated six people to his left on a long podium in front of a huge portrait of Soviet founder Vladimir Lenin. Yeltsin did not turn to make eye contact.

Yeltsin told reporters later that he would make a speech in a few weeks explaining his differences with Gorbachev.

The Kremlin ceremony amounted to a pep rally for Communists, who are expected to face criticism from dozens of groups on Wednesday.

Both parties win locally in races for House seats

By Elvyn Jones
and
Paul Noel
Staff Reporters

Republicans were able to unseat one of two first-term Democrats in local races for the Kansas House of Representatives.

In the race for the 62nd House of Representatives seat, Republican challenger Kent Glasscock unseated Rep. Katha Hurt, D-Manhattan. Meanwhile, in the 66th district Rep. Sheila Hochhauser, D-Manhattan, easily defeated her Republican challenger, Stanley Hoerman.

Glasscock maintained 54 percent of the total votes throughout the election. He said he expected it to be difficult to unseat the incumbent.

"From the day I announced my candidacy, I knew it would be a close race," Glasscock said.

Glasscock said he is anxious to begin working with Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, in representing his district.

"Together we will get the job done for all the 62nd district," he said.

Glasscock said Hurt was an outstanding candidate and ran a well-organized campaign.

"She has been very gracious and has been very nice during the campaign," he said.

Hurt conceded at about 9:30 p.m. when updates from the Riley County Clerk's Office continued to show Glasscock maintaining a nine percentage point lead.

"I'm very proud I had 3,489 people that think the way I do," Hurt said. "I am very proud of the campaign and the people that supported me. I still think my ideas are the right ones."

In the campaign, Glasscock criticized Hurt's record of providing funding for higher education and K-State. Hurt said the other election contest on Tuesday might help him secure funding for the university. "With a Democratic governor and a Democratic House he might be able to (secure funding for higher education)," she said.

Mike Venso/Staff

Kent Glasscock, Manhattan City Commissioner and newly elected 62nd District State Representative, delivers his acceptance speech to the crowd gathered at Riley County Republican headquarters Tuesday night after defeating Democratic incumbent Katha Hurt.

Brian W. Kratzer/Staff

66th District State Representative Sheila Hochhauser receives congratulations from Rod Olsen and her neighbor Lila Wrigley after winning the election over Republican challenger Stanley Hoerman Tuesday night at Harry's Uptown in Manhattan.

Hurt's loss was a disappointment to Hochhauser.

"I feel wonderful about winning," she said. "But it's going to be a harder job without Katha."

Hochhauser said she was proud of her nearly 2-to-1 margin of victory over Hoerman.

"This campaign overall left a bad taste in my mouth," Hochhauser said. "Our campaign I am very proud of; it proves an issues-oriented campaign can do it again. People are tired of all that negative campaigning."

Hoerman conceded at 10:15 p.m.

■ See LOCAL, Page 10

BRIEFLY

World

Gas tank explosion kills 20

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — An explosion caused by a leaking valve in a petrochemical plant near Bombay killed 20 people, including five firemen sent to put out the blaze, United News of India reported Tuesday.

At least 16 people were injured in the accident Monday night, the news agency said.

The valve of a gas tank at a plant operated by the state-owned Indian Petrochemical Corp. sprang a leak, it said. The tank exploded, setting nearby buildings on fire.

The plant is Nagothane, 75 miles southeast of Bombay.

French students protest

PARIS (AP) — Tens of thousands of high school students around France poured into the streets Tuesday, a day after 130,000 youths joined nationwide marches to demand better education and improved security on campus.

The largest protests Tuesday involved 8,000 students in Besancon, 6,000 in Toulouse, and 4,000 each in Reims and Vanves, police reported. There were smaller marches in Marseille, Nancy, Metz, Belfort, Dijon, Nevers and Mulhouse.

No violence or arrests were reported, although a police officer directing traffic away from the march in Marseille suffered minor injuries when accidentally struck by a car.

Protests have spread nationwide since starting three weeks ago in the low-income suburbs north of Paris, where a student was raped in a school lavatory and several teachers and students were assaulted.

The students are demanding more teachers, repairs to crumbling high schools and more security guards on crime-ridden campuses in ghetto neighborhoods.

Nation

12 charged in hazing death

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — Twelve members of a university lacrosse team were charged with misdemeanors in the death of a teammate who overdosed on alcohol during an alleged initiation, school officials said.

The 12 were arrested Monday and charged by the McDonough County state's attorney's office with hazing and unlawful delivery of alcohol to a minor.

Nicholas Haben, 18, of Oswego, was found dead Oct. 19 in a Western Illinois University dormitory room. Officials said he was forced to drink a large quantity of alcohol. Authorities refused to say how much alcohol was involved.

Haben died after he and other first-year players were led to a wooded area, swatted and encouraged to consume "rookie juice," a concoction that included beer, schnapps, coffee, tuna, eggs and hot dogs, authorities said.

Brian Donchez, who is among those charged, said the students did nothing wrong.

House buyers find beehive

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Allen and Annette Clausen never thought about another interpretation of the phrase Home Sweet Home until they found a 300-pound beehive oozing with honey in a wall of their new house.

"It's a nightmare, this honey," Clausen said Monday, surveying the two-story house that had been vacant for two years before he bought it from the U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs.

Honey was dripping down the walls and spilling onto floors. Hundreds of bees killed by fumigators last month were under the kitchen stove and behind fireplace tile.

Millitant rabbi assassinated

NEW YORK (AP) — The assassination of militant Rabbi Meir Kahane by a gunman reportedly of Arab ancestry drew thousands of mourners to his funeral Tuesday against a backdrop of cries for vengeance and of "Never Again."

"There will be revenge. We believe in revenge," said Sol Margolis, president of Kach International, the U.S. arm of Kahane's extremist party, which advocates the ouster of Arabs from Israeli-held territory.

Kahane was gunned down Monday night while addressing a Zionist group at a Manhattan hotel. Police said Kahane was taking questions from the crowd when the gunman stopped four feet from him and fired a .357-caliber weapon.

The Israeli government appealed for peace as police and army reinforcements spread out in Israel and the occupied territories to head off revenge attacks. The deaths two Arabs on Tuesday were linked to Kahane's slaying.

Tens of thousands of people jammed a synagogue in Brooklyn and spilled onto a highway for the funeral of the 58-year-old Kahane. His body is scheduled to be flown to Israel for burial today.

Inspection of pipeline begins

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Excavation has begun on nine buried sections of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline for corrosion rechecks after charges the original inspectors were poorly trained or worked under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

In all, 19 sections of the approximately 800-mile line are to be re-inspected for rust or cracks. A federal criminal investigation, meanwhile, is underway into accusations by a former corrosion inspector that his employer ignored drinking and drug use on and off the job.

"The quality of information related to the corrosion repair work along the pipeline is in question," said Mike Mengle, federal pipeline officer for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

The 48-inch-diameter line carries a quarter of the nation's domestic crude oil production from wellhead at Prudhoe Bay to a marine terminal at the ice-free port of Valdez.

The renewed concern comes at a time when President Bush has ordered domestic oil production increased because of the Persian Gulf crisis.

Region

Man arraigned in son's death

HUTCHINSON (AP) — A 33-year-old man was arraigned on a felony murder charge in connection with the death of his 4-month-old son.

Ronald Gartner of Hutchinson was freed after relatives posted $200,000 bail following his Reno County District Court appearance Monday. His preliminary hearing was scheduled for Dec. 19.

A coroner's jury ruled last week Brandon Gartner died in late October because of child abuse.

Fighter jets clip each other

WICHITA (AP) — Two Kansas Air National Guard F-16 fighter jets clipped each other during a training mission last week, an official disclosed Tuesday.

Col. Ed Sykes, commanding officer of the 184th Tactical Fighter Group based at McConnell Air Force Base in Wichita, said an instructor and student were simulating an attack on a third plane.

He said the student pilot, who was supposed to know where his instructor was at all times, lost sight of him during the engagement and their planes made brief contact.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

7 Wednesday

■ German Table will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ KSU Rock Climbing Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

■ Small Business Development Center and Division of Continuing Education will present "Personal Service: A Requirement for Success in the '90s" from 11:30 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

■ Student Body President Elections Run-off will be all day in the Union.

■ Parachute Club Packing Class will meet from 5 to 7 p.m. at the second floor lobby of the Union.

■ K-State Fencing Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Ahearn Field House.

8 Thursday

■ ICTHUS Christian Fellowship will join other groups for a Christian rally from 8 to 10 p.m. in All Faiths Chapel.

■ PRIMO will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 202.

■ Women and Men Against Rape will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 203.

■ Engineering Ambassador Executives will meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 173. All engineering ambassadors will meet at 7 p.m. in Durland 173.

■ KSU Sailing Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

■ K-State Table Tennis Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Ecumenical Campus Ministries building on Denison Avenue.

■ K-State Players will present Amadeus at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

■ Talking Hands will meet at 4 p.m. in Union Staterooms 1 and 2. Anyone interested in sign language interpretation is welcome to attend.

■ Minority Assembly of Students in Health will meet at 5:30 p.m. at the International Student Center.

■ Golden Key National Honor Society will have an officer information meeting at 6:30 p.m. in Union 209.

■ SADD will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Parachute Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 204. The parachute club packing class will meet from 5 to 7 p.m. at the second floor lobby of the Union.

■ Mechanical Engineering Freshman/Sophomore Council will meet at 8 p.m. in Durland 141.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, mostly cloudy and cold. A slight chance for light snow or flurries early. High in the upper 30s. North winds 10 to 15 mph. Chance for snow, 20 percent. Tonight, partly cloudy and cold with the low in the lower 20s. Thursday, partly cloudy and warmer with the high in the upper 40s.

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00Everyday
Two-Fers2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

BUSHWACKERS
- THE FUNDRINKERYComedy Invasion
Mon., Tues. & Wednesday
9 p.m.

Gary DeLena

along with Tim Rowlands

18 to enter, 21 to drink

Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727TENANTS AND LANDLORDS
DO HAVE RIGHTS
IN MANHATTAN!

As a tenant, you do have a right to safe housing. However, you also have a responsibility to yourself and to your landlord to maintain a clean sanitary rental unit. If you have questions regarding your rights and responsibilities as a tenant or as a landlord, contact the City of Manhattan at 537-0056. If you have a landlord/tenant dispute, contact the Department of Human Resources. If the concern is with the physical condition of the unit, contact the Department of Community Development, Code Inspection Division.

If you're serious about fun we have the glasses

Drs. Price, Young, & Odle, P.A.
and Associates, Optometrists3012 Anderson,
Manhattan, KS
913-537-1118

★ ★ ★

In honor of the American Military,
the K-State
Union Bookstore
offers a discount of 25% off all military history titles through
November 11.

★ K-State Union
Bookstore ★

Green Township votes the old way

By Margaret Clarkin
Collegian Staff

When your town doesn't have a public building like a school or a church where you can vote, the next best place is someone's home.

Lester Gilliford and his sister, Ethel, have opened their 122-year-old house as a voting place for Green township in Pottawatomie County for about 24 years.

"We ran out of voting places to go," Ethel said. "Lester was on the township board, and we had a room that we didn't use that much. Now, I am just used to the voting going on here."

Voting takes place in two small booths in a corner of the room. Thin, linen cloth provides a privacy wall and the voters make their choices under a bulb hanging from the top of the booth. This year the judges were short a bulb, so they had to use one of Lester's yellow bug bulbs in one of the booths.

Since the booths do not have machines for the voting, they will run the tally sheets to Westmoreland at 7 p.m. where they will be counted through a machine.

"At one time we hand counted them, but we never had more than 100 people vote," said Eileen Jackson, voting clerk.

There are 89 registered voters now in the township. That is more than they have had in years, she said.

"I think we will get 80 percent out here to vote," said Viola Dodge, judge supervisor. "I think that is real good."

The Gilliford's house is located on Camahan Road, eight miles from Highway 13. A small flag stands on the front gate informing voters where the polls are.

"One time, we only had 17 come in and vote," Jackson said. "That was a long day with 17 faces and no babies to play with."

See VOTERS, Page 10

Eileen Jackson, voting clerk, takes her turn to vote while Lester Gilliford and Viola Dodge, voting judges, take care of the registration table. Green residents have come to Gilliford's home for about 24 years to cast their ballots since there is no public building to vote in.

Teen to stand trial in Crowder murder

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Shawnee County District Judge Adrian Allen has ordered Peter Edward Spencer, 18, to stand trial in the Sept. 7 bludgeoning death of Wamego school teacher Sherry Crowder.

The trial is scheduled for sometime during the two weeks beginning Jan. 7. Charles Andrews, who will be sworn in as the county's 13th judge next month, will preside at the jury trial. Allen set the trial at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing Monday.

Crowder, 38, lived in Manhattan. She was last seen alive at Sneakers, a nightclub on Topeka's College Hill.

Topeka police testified Crowder's body was found in the trunk of her car, which was backed into a weeded lot and abandoned with its keys near 22nd Street and Western Avenue, about 8:30 a.m. Sept. 9.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation, in reports presented at the hearing, said four of Spencer's fingerprints were found with the body; two on the outside of the car, one on the steering wheel and one on a bank slip from Crowder's purse.

County Coroner Wike Scamman testified at the hearing that Crowder died of brain hemorrhaging after she was struck hard twice on the head. He said the weapon must have been blunt and perhaps rounded like a baseball bat.

Speech team members qualify

Competition wins lead to national tournament participation

By Eric Robison
Collegian Reporter

As the K-State forensics team competes in weekly tournaments, the number of team members qualifying for the national tournament continues to increase.

Three team members have already qualified for the national tournament in April.

"There are two ways that you can qualify for nationals. First you can compete at the district tournament in March, and if you place in the top three, you automatically qualify. But if the number of people entered in the event is large, then they will usually take the top 10 percent," said Craig Brown, speech instructor and head coach of the forensics team.

Another way to get into the national tournament is the at-large method, where the student must place first, second or third three times in an event.

"This shows that the student is consistent in their event," Craig Brown said. "They have done well, and it demonstrates their excellence."

Three people have already qualified for nationals. The forensics finalists are Jason Brown, senior in speech; Stacie Schrock, sophomore in marketing and public relations; and Laura Pelletier, senior in speech and political science.

"By K-State's standards, we're doing pretty good right now. If we had any more people qualifying I would be really excited because we have only been to five tournaments and not all of the team has went to them all," Brown said. "I predict that we will have a total of 15 to 18 students qualify for nationals, the way the squad is going."

Students can use their same speech throughout the year, or they can revise it to improve their chances.

"As nationals roll around, we start working more on attitude and try to get the student more relaxed when giving their presentation, rather than the content," Brown said.

The team has several events in which it can compete. Categories include informative speaking, a 10-minute memorized speech; persuasive speaking, a 10-minute speech that tries to persuade the audience on a certain topic; after-dinner speaking, a 10 minute speech that tries to persuade the audience with the use of humor; extemporaneous speaking, a limited preparation event where the team member draws three questions and has 30 minutes to prepare a 7-minute speech; impromptu speaking, where the student has a total of 7 minutes to prepare and present a speech. Students can also act out events in the prose, poetry, drama and duo categories.

"I qualified in prose. I addressed old age and how we all will someday reach it," Jason Brown said. "I think the tournaments are a lot of fun, but it is worth it."

Pelletier qualified in persuasion. Her topic is the environment.

"I think a lot of the students are happy just to qualify for nationals, but I try to encourage them that it's more fun to win," Craig Brown said.

Are you lacking Time?
Are you lacking Money?
Are you lacking Love?
Did you know that:

Divine Truth Frees You From Limitation

A Christian Science Lecture to be given by

Jack Hubbel, C.S.B.

A Member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship from Palo Alto, California

Wednesday, November 7, 1990

at 5 p.m.

in

Danforth Chapel

on the Kansas State University Campus

ALL ARE WELCOME

to come and learn out more about Christian Science, and how it is universally applicable in daily life.

This event is sponsored by the Christian Science Organization at Kansas State University.

KSU STUDENT SPECIAL! $1 OFF COUPON

World's Greatest Haircut
Reg. $7 BUT WITH COUPON

ONLY $6

Also on SALE HIS or HER PERM $23

snip n' clip
MIDWEST'S FAVORITE HAIRCUTTERS

OPEN NIGHTS & SUNDAYS, JUST DROP IN

3035 ANDERSON
V.P. - 539-4043
431 POYNTEZ - BY K-MART
776-6410
Expires 12-31-90

COUNTRY SWING DANCE LESSONS

START TOMORROW NIGHT

6 WKS. THURS., NOV. 8 8 PM $20 PER COUPLE

TWO-STEP WALTZ

TEN-STEP POLKA

COTTON-EYED JOE

AND ALL THE SWING MOVES

THE RANCH SALOON

3 MI. EAST HWY. 24

539-4989

OPEN 1 P.M.

CLASS B PRIVATE CLUB

The K-State Players and the Dept. of Speech present

AMADEUS

by Peter Shaffer

OPENS TOMORROW

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10

Tickets: McCain
Box Office
532-6428

PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET

WARNS YOU....
IF YOU ARE PAYING MORE THAN

$2495* COMPLETE SINGLE VISION - OR - $3495 COMPLETE BIFOCAL

FOR YOUR EYEGLASSES, INCLUDING FRAME - YOU ARE OVERPAYING!

- AT PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET YOU GET....
- UNLIMITED SELECTION - YOUR CHOICE OF OVER 1,000 FRAMES ON DISPLAY!
- NO CHARGE FOR SUN OR FASHION TINTED LENSES!
- NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR OVERSIZED OR PLASTIC LENSES!
- HIGHEST QUALITY FRAMES AND LENSES!
- HIGHEST PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS!
- SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

* All normal prescriptions - distance, reading, or flat to 25 and 28mm, round or executive bifocals, in Rx's no higher than (+) or (-) 8.00 diopter sphere, with up to -2.00 cylinder. Adds no higher than (+) $3.00.
Photogrey Extra, Scratch and Ultra-Violet Coat - each $10 additional.

1210 MORO
MANHATTAN, KANSAS
537-1574

NEVER A SALE, ALWAYS THE LOWEST PRICE!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

U.S. government should respect citizens' will

For a short while it seemed as though diplomacy might prevail in the "Crisis in the Middle East" and that war might be averted. But once again the war drums are beating. It sounds ominous when French president Francois Mitterand, who seemed to be steering a course towards a negotiated settlement, talks about war preparations. Perhaps it is a bluff. Perhaps this talk is designed merely to force Saddam Hussein into withdrawing from Kuwait. Perhaps, though, it is for real. If so, we cannot continue to be silent and passive observers.

The mainstream media, the international military command, professional politicians and "experts" of all sorts are now busy calculating the number of American casualties, while conceding the number of non-American deaths will be massive. One must wonder what these people figure the bottom line is. Is it alright to start a war if only 15,000 Americans will die, or are we willing to accept a figure of 20,000? Does it really not matter how many others die? Is their life so cheap for us? Is this the way defenders of civilization must act in order to control the populations in these uncivilized countries? Is it really true that war is the only solution?

In response to the last question, I am confident that outside of the United States there are very few leaders and citizens calling for a war. On the contrary, there are organized efforts to push for a negotiated settlement. For instance, according to National Public Radio, in mid-October 15,000 people took to the streets in Paris, demanding that their leaders pursue diplomacy and not war in the Gulf crisis.

The question that remains is, are the people of the United States willing to commit themselves to war? I believe the answer, for the majority, is in the negative. But it is also true that most people in this country have not given the matter much searching thought. The war would not be fought on American soil, and only a small segment of the American society is likely to be directly affected by the deaths of American men and women in combat. Of course, matters might take quite a different turn if the draft were reinstated. (And that is one reason it is unlikely to be reinstated.)

A central problem facing the peace activist, therefore, is how to convince the American people that they will be substantially harmed by such a war. But an even more central problem is convincing them that, in the democracy they are so proud to think of themselves as willing to defend, they are not impotent to do anything to affect the impending events.

To address the first of these issues, we have to ask ourselves where did this course of events begin and why are we faced with this talk of war? A quick answer is that it began on Aug. 2, when Iraq invaded and later annexed Kuwait. But this is hardly adequate because, as wrong as Hussein's act was, it was not undertaken in a vacuum. The present boundary between Iraq and Kuwait, imposed by the British in 1922, has never been accepted by Iraq — a position that long pre-dates Hussein. Recently the tension between the two countries had been exacerbated by Kuwait's insistence, despite its monumental prosperity, on pumping oil from disputed territory and selling it at a price lower than that to which it had formerly agreed, seriously undermining Iraq's war-drained economy.

Talat S. Rahman

GUEST COLUMNIST

In short, it was an inter-Arab affair, muddled in the legacy of the colonial era. When Hussein invaded Kuwait, there was instant condemnation from all quarters, including every Arab state. But before the Arab governments had time to try to resolve the issue, Big Brother had to jump in. On Aug. 7, U.S. troops were already on their way to add to the pre-existing concentration of U.S. naval power in the Persian Gulf. This is when the situation evolved from an Arab affair into a world affair.

The obvious question is, why is the United States there? It is certainly not to protect democracy. It is quite the reverse. The governments the United States has undertaken to protect and restore are explicitly and determinedly hostile to democratic and progressive ideas. It is no accident the few countries in the Arab world — like Jordan, Yemen and Algeria — where democracy is emerging are adamantly opposed to the U.S. intervention.

In Syria, too, there was a massive demonstration — quickly crushed by the ruthless regime of Hafiz Asad, now an ally of the United States, which had previously declared him to be a central sponsor of international terrorism.

Nor was the U.S. intervention undertaken because the administration is, in principle, opposed to the invasion of one sovereign country by another. Witness the invasions of Grenada and Panama, and the administration's reaction to the invasion of Lebanon by Israel and Syria, to cite the most recent examples. In fact, when Israel marched into Lebanon in 1982, it was only the U.S. veto that blocked the U.N. Security Council from applying sanctions against the invader.

So why the instantaneous and massive U.S. intervention? An important part of the answer is very short: oil. Or, if you prefer the euphemism: "to protect the U.S. way of life." Or if you have an appetite for sophism: for the sake of that conveniently vague and all-excusing idol, National Security. What does this really mean? Would an ordinary American's way of life have been threatened if George Bush had not committed more than 300,000 troops to the Middle East? On the contrary, the vast majority of the people here are losers as long as scarce resources on the order of $32 million per day are being diverted from pressing needs at home. The loss to America will be even greater if there is a war. Prudent people will insist on asking whether such cost to themselves is outweighed by the dividends that this outcome will pay to a certain faction of the American elite who constitute a part of the military-industrial complex.

Is there a way out? There has always been one and continues to be one. Hussein has made several offers. The one that makes the most sense is one in which all invading countries in the region withdraw from the territories they occupy. This offer, of course, links the withdrawal from Kuwait to the Palestinian quest for a homeland and to the recovery of sovereignty for Lebanon. Is this not something worth struggling for? We hear it said that a fatal objection to this proposal is that Hussein would derive a benefit from his invasion, even if he were to withdraw without military intervention. Is that, then, what 15,000 American servicemen are to be sacrificed to, along with a chance to remedy a pair of evils at least as great — and far more longstanding — as that committed by Hussein since August? Put another way: why shouldn't Hussein, villain though he may be, enjoy this benefit if his invasion is what it has taken in order to force the United States to acknowledge the considerable evils it permits its own allies to perpetrate with impunity in the region?

Of course, the burden for carrying this struggle forward will lie not on the U.S. soldiery, but on its citizenry. And this brings us back to the second question raised above. Do Americans have the power to make their government respect their will? Or do they really, deep down, consider themselves to be just as powerless and bereft of responsibility for what happens in the world as they regard people from less democratic countries to be?

EDITORIALS

Morris able to lead with innovative ideas

Apathy and negativism toward candidates and their campaigns threw a cloud over the race for governor, and voters had voiced concerns over both Finney and Hayden.

Here on campus, the two candidates for student body president have given us an equally puzzling choice — but for the exact opposite reason. Todd Heitschmidt and Jonathan Morris both have competent platforms and ideas on issues important to students.

Heitschmidt and Morris agree that student input is critical to reorganization plans. Although the plan has been put on hold to be analyzed, any further plans should reflect students' concerns.

Morris wants to take this a step further and include students in the planning and services on campus by using their resources and knowledge in their majors. This could give students a supplement to the learning process and at the same time help understaffed departments.

Experience in student government would seem to give Heitschmidt the edge. He has been a senator and has lobbied in Topeka in his position on the Associated Students for Kansas. He said he plans to keep lobbying with legislators, keeping students in mind.

A total concentration on Topeka might prove to be fruitless, however. Past attempts have not shown a marked improvement in K-State's financial outlook, and some legislators were dismayed at students who traveled to the capitol last semester on behalf of the University. Some of them felt they were hounded by the students, which may have left a bad impression for future student lobbying.

Lack of experience in student government has fueled Morris detractors' arguments. It is true that he has never been a senator, and his opponents are afraid he may be alienated by the student government and vice-versa.

Hopefully, this will not scare voters away. Student government is a complex organization, but Morris has the ability to bring Senate issues to the students. He has shown his willingness during campaigning to explain Senate issues to diverse groups often ignored by other candidates.

Morris has also been a staunch advocate of environmental awareness. Recycling and conservation has moved to the forefront of national issues recently, and he has helped bring these concerns to campus. One of his internal money-saving plans would cut energy costs on campus by implementing a University energy audit.

If these measures can save K-State money without first going to the Legislature — and make students more energy cautious at the same time — it would show the politicians in Topeka that the University is capable of internally working to cut costs.

Because Morris is innovative in his thinking, the Collegian has chosen to endorse him for student body president. He is not afraid to tackle issues other candidates have shunned in their campaigning and has taken the initiative to introduce different alternatives to solving issues.

LETTERS

Get flu vaccinations

Editor,

K-Staters, influenza, "flu," season usually hits in late December through March. November is the time to get vaccinated to hopefully prevent influenza and its complications, such as pneumonia.

High-risk individuals should get vaccinated during November. Visit our Allergy-Immunization Clinic in Lafene Health Center if you have any of the following:

- Asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis;
- Diabetes;
- Chronic kidney disease;
- Chronic anemia;
- Long-term aspirin therapy;
- Any type of heart disease;
- Any known problem with your immune system such as problems due to cancer, cancer treatment, no spleen, HIV infection, recent organ transplant;

■ If you are a roommate or spend a lot of time with a person with the above problems;

■ If you are more than 65 years old. Last year's "flu shot" will not protect you this year. Tell us if you are allergic to eggs.

Supply is limited. If you are not in one of the high-risk groups but want a vaccination, please check with us later in November to see if any vaccine is left. If you are in a high-risk group, take care of yourself and see us soon.

Larry B. Moeller
chief of staff, Lafene Health Center

War not God's fault

Editor,

On Oct. 14, the Rev. Billy Graham addressed a crowd of about 25,000 of the faithful down in Abilene. Keeping company with Graham on the platform was Gen. Colin Powell, who, as the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, represented President Bush. What makes this noteworthy is the response of local conservatives. The very same persons who decried Graham's mixing of religion and politics during his visit to the Soviet Union made absolutely no mention of his snuggling in the spotlight with President Bush's representative. The difference evidently is that it is okay to mix religion and politics if we like the politics.

The very same day, 500 Kansans from the Kansas Citizens' Network marched three-fourths of a mile from the Roman Catholic to the United Methodist Church in Abilene to voice their strong opposition to any possible expansion of Fort Riley and the escalation of tensions in the Persian Gulf. Not a single local media outlet carried the story. Kansas City and Wichita newspapers carried the story, but not a single word from the local press.

When providing a cover for conservative, Republican warhawks, religion and politics seem to mix quite nicely. If war breaks out in the Middle East and the United States finally finds some provocations for attacking Iraq rather than negotiating a settlement, please don't dignify the resultant human suffering, violence and death by saying "It's God's will."

David W. Knight
resident of Green

Flag-burners radical

Editor,

Around Election Day, the general public envisions the American way. What happened to the respect for America and the freedoms it provides? Desecration of the American flag is an unacceptable act that some people think is their right. What happened to the real Americans, legitimately using their rights, unlike the radicals, who abuse our rights?

"The American flag is just a piece of cloth," said Jonathan Morris at a presidential candidates' forum, in the defense of flag burners. Should we endorse a president who believes in the radical policy of burning the flag? Can we trust that he will not torch the flag on the Statehouse steps, leaving a sour taste in the mouths of our legislators toward K-State?

Because our University is having a hard enough time receiving legislative funding and support, can we afford to elect someone with such outlandish views?

Besides, aren't there enough anti-Americans burning the flag in the Middle East? Do we need that on our own campus?

Kip Dunn
sophomore in criminal justice
Andy Vrana
freshman undecided

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR: Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR: Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR: Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN: Brad Camp

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Student studying stock trailers

Findings will assist manufacturer in improving goosenecks

By Dana Thomson
Collegian Reporter

While some college students hope to make global improvements in the world of tomorrow, one K-State student is making a small change in the way we live today.

Jeff Kysar, graduate student in mechanical engineering, is working to increase the design quality of livestock trailers.

Daniel Swenson, associate professor in mechanical engineering and Kysar's adviser, approached a trailer company he had worked for previously and submitted the idea of a K-State student doing follow-up work on trailer designs, Kysar said.

Swenson then asked Kysar if he would be interested in making design suggestions. The suggestions will help the company increase product quality, while allowing Kysar practical experience. This project will be part of Kysar's graduate thesis paper. "I thought it would be an interesting project," Kysar said.

A 20-foot gooseneck trailer was loaned to Kysar to do the studies in return for his feedback, he said.

There are two main steps in improving the trailer's design, Kysar said.

First Kysar graphically built a model trailer on an engineering computer. The computer then predicts where the major stress points will occur and how much stress will be applied at each point.

These computer projections and test runs are hypothetical predictions and must be verified, Kysar said.

To verify the computer estimates, Kysar puts the actual stock trailer through a series of stress tests.

"These tests are run to verify that the tool's (computer's) estimations are correct," Kysar said.

Adjustments are then made on the computer. The adjustments are made according to the difference between the computer's results and the actual test results.

The second step is to put the trailer through acceleration tests, Kysar said. This process allows Kysar to put the trailer through the actual usage encounters. This includes speeding up, slowing down, going over bumps and railroad tracks.

"We make it so that it can withstand the worst scenario," he said.

The trailer was then loaded with cement blocks equivalent to the actual weight of a normal load; 12,000 pounds in this case. The road tests are then performed to measure acceleration. All tests are being done on campus.

"Industrial engineering let us use a lab for the summer, and agricultural engineering allowed storage of the trailer," he said.

Data acquisition equipment, provided by the civil engineering and agricultural engineering departments, was used to measure the amount of stress and relay the information to the computer.

After the tests are completed, the information will help Kysar decide final design criteria. The information will then be put into the computer to be applied to the model trailer.

"Then the computer analysis will provide us with an approximate solution," he said.

Kysar is also looking for ways to reduce corrosion in stock trailers.

"I'm looking for ways to reduce the area where corrosion can start," Kysar said.

The Center of Excellence has provided the needed funding for the project.

Kysar received the trailer last December and has been working steadily since summer.

Chemists meeting to review research

7 symposiums will be offered

By Rob Batchman
Collegian Reporter

Nearly 600 chemists from across the Midwest will meet in the K-State Union tonight for the 25th anniversary of the Midwest Regional American Chemical Society Conference.

The two-day conference is expected to attract faculty, researchers and students from a five-state area and will feature seven symposiums, 300 papers and 20 technical sessions.

"The thrust of the whole conference is to present new research results," said Kenneth Klabunde, professor of chemistry. "The American Chemical Society is the biggest scientific organization in the world dedicated to one discipline, which is chemistry.

"Each year the ACS holds regional meetings across the nation and this year the midwest regional meeting is hosted by K-State," he said.

Awards for the Outstanding Midwest High School Chemistry Teacher and Midwest Regional Chemistry Researcher will also be presented at the conference.

"We are having a banquet on Thursday night where the two awards will be presented," Klabunde said. "Both persons will receive plaques and a monetary award."

The highlight of the conference ■ See CHEMISTS, Page 10

Westloop Shopping Center's
HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE
Sun., Nov. 11, Noon-5 p.m.
Register To Win A $500 Shopping Spree At Participating Merchants, Sunday Only

SPORTS • SPORTS
Wednesday
$2.25
Pitchers

Bo Winkle's Sports Bar
776-1022
3043 Anderson

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??

I Can't Believe It's
Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

KSU Faculty and Staff

are invited to attend one of two

Planned Gift/Estate Planning Seminars

2 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 13
and repeated at
2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 14
K-State Union Little Theater

Through the fascinating use of planned gifts, individuals are able to minimize taxes, increase their estates and, in some circumstances, actually increase their current income.

This seminar will describe the many financial instruments available for gifts to K-State such as charitable lead trusts, unitrusts, and gift annuities.

Presented by Robert Sandberg, Gift Planning Consultant and former Vice President for the University of Nebraska Foundation and Mark Moore, Vice President for Capital Campaigns/Planned Gifts at the KSU Foundation

 All KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend. Admission is free.
Sponsored by the KSU Foundation and KSU Student Foundation

ELECT EXPERIENCE

HEITSCHMIDT

VOTE TODAY!

Paid for by Students for Heitschmidt

WANT PIZZA P.D.Q.? SOUND THE CALL!

Call: 539-5303
1118 Laramie

We have a platoon of cars on alert to deliver your choice of our rich, luscious pies P.D.Q.. WE'LL MARCH RIGHT OVER.

USE THE MONEY-SAVING COUPONS BELOW FOR YOUR NEXT MESS.

2 Medium Family Pack One Combo and One Single-Topping $10.99	Medium All Meat Combo Beef • Sausage • Pepperoni • Ham • Bacon $7.99	2 Medium One-Toppers Cheese plus one topping on each $8.99 or 2 Large $11.99	$4 OFF Any Large Pizza OR $3 OFF Any Medium
---	---	---	---

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU

Graduates

Fall Bachelor Candidates Commencement Exercises:

Your graduation apparel is for sale NOW thru December 14, 1990.

Total price with tax is $19.69, includes cap, gown & tassel

Mail Orders for Bachelor's apparel should include height, weight, hat size, degree information and $1.50 extra for postage and handling.

Masters, Doctorate and Faculty

Master, Doctorate, and Faculty rentals will be taken at the Supply Department Gift Counter. After November 1, a $7.50 late fee will be added. After November 15, a $20.00 late fee will be added.

Rental Prices	Masters	Doctorate
Cap/Gown/ Tassel Hood	$28.02	$30.33
Cap/Gown/Tassel only	$16.15	$17.02
Hood only	$16.58	$18.85

Announcements

Non-personalized white paper pkg. of 10 for $6.01 includes sales tax
Personalized Ivory paper pkg. of 25 for $34.95 includes sales tax
See the gift counter clerk for further details.

Monday-Thursday 7:45 a.m.-8 p.m.
Friday 7:45 a.m.-5 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sunday 12 noon-5 p.m.

 K-State Union Bookstore

Support the K-State Union, dollars spent in the Union help the Union sponsor student programs, activities and services.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Sooner coach lauds 'Cats at weekly media event

By The Associated Press

NORMAN, Okla. — Gary Gibbs had been in good humor at each of his past three weekly news conferences, despite the fact his team had been losing. This week, he had a real reason to smile.

The Sooners were coming off a 55-10 victory over Missouri that saw them roll up season highs in rushing (461 yards), total offense (590 yards) and points. And the defense, which had been struggling, came up with six sacks and held Missouri to 25 yards rushing.

"There's no question we needed a win," Gibbs said Tuesday. "Our football players were tired of losing. We wanted to be a happy group on the bus and the plane home. It's an understatement to say it wasn't important."

Gibbs

The victory left the Sooners 6-3 overall, 3-2 in the Big Eight heading into this week's game against K-State. The Wildcats are 5-4 and 2-3 and are coming off a 28-14 victory at Iowa State.

K-State opened the year by winning three of its first four games. Although the Wildcats have benefited from a weak non-conference schedule — the victories came against Western Illinois, New Mexico State and New Mexico — Gibbs said they are much better than they were a year ago.

"I think he's really done an excellent job," Gibbs said, referring to K-State coach Bill Snyder. "He's got a really good staff ... they're playing very well from the standpoint of fundamentals and technique."

He said the Wildcats do a particularly good job of getting the football to their skill position players such as receivers Frank Hernandez and Michael Smith.

"A concern we have is how we match up against those people and the sets they give us," Gibbs said. "Bill's done an outstanding job, and you can see major improvement in their football team on both sides of the ball."

He noted that even in games K-State has lost, the Wildcats have been impressive. An outstanding first half against Nebraska and a close loss to Kansas are the best examples.

"They feel good about themselves, and they've gained some confidence," Gibbs said. "I'm sure Bill's recruiting classes the last couple years he feels good about, but the skill people primarily are the biggest difference I see."

Spikers to play Kansas

Team hopes to keep slim tourney hopes alive with win

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

The K-State volleyball squad needs to steal back a conference win against Kansas tonight in Lawrence in the same manner as it did against Oklahoma — on the road and under pressure.

With a 1-5 start in the Big Eight, K-State, 10-11, put itself in a position to have to go on the road and avenge some of its home losses. The 'Cats were able to do just that when they beat the Sooners, 3-1, for the first time in Norman.

"Kansas is a tough place to play, but we've won there before," Coach Scott Nelson said. "We're going to need to play outstanding defense, and our offense will need to be clicking."

The Jayhawks, 14-12 overall and 4-5 in the conference, notched a win in the previous match in Ahearn Field House, 3-1. KU has done most of its damage with its defense, which is ranked sixth in the country in digs with 20.84 per game. Nelson will be counting on his hitters, collectively third in the Big Eight, to open up KU's defense.

"When you play a real good digging team, you have to go with power," Nelson said. "Kansas is a team that if you just use finesse — roll shots, tip shots and off-speed things — you'll be feeding into their strengths. So we want to go with power, and that means we'll need good execution in our first-ball offense and try to establish our power game which will open up some other options later in the match."

"It's worked against Nebraska. It won a match on the road down in Oklahoma. When our offense is running fairly smoothly, we have pretty good success against anybody. The battle is between our execution on offense and our ability to keep their defense off guard."

In facing arch-rival Kansas, Nelson hopes to shrug off Friday night's loss to Iowa State, as well as some minor injuries, as the 'Cats look to post their first win in Allen Field House since 1988.

"It's Kansas, and there's always extra incentive, much like our first match here in Manhattan. In our first match we outplayed them on defense, and we are going to need that again," Nelson said. "We are coming off a tough loss to Iowa State, as well as having different nagging injuries, which have interfered with our ability to have good, quality practices. But all that seems to be diminishing."

The Jayhawks are closing in on a berth in the Big Eight tournament with four conference wins, Nelson said, but he hasn't counted out his own squad.

"I think the Kansas match is, potentially, a good shot in the arm for us to get us back to a competitive focus state of mind that we have been in for most of the past month," Nelson said. "Of course this is a very crucial match for both teams. Very likely, five wins will get into the post-season tournament. Kansas sits at four, and we sit at two, so it's a big match for them, as well as for us."

Bietau says netters making improvement

By Todd Fertig
Sports Reporter

Finished with competition until next semester, the tennis team moves into a phase of physical conditioning that is as crucial to the team's future as the matches played in the fall, Coach Steve Bietau said.

"We still have a long way yet to go, but I felt we made some good progress this fall," Bietau said. "We had several players who played their best tennis ever this fall."

The team focused on developing competitive toughness and concentration and on eliminating mental er-

"We had several players who played their best tennis ever this fall."

—Steve Bietau tennis coach

rors during the fall. Bietau said competition made the players aware of just how necessary improvement is in these areas.

"I think our team has improved in this area, but each of our players need to learn to beat themselves less often," Bietau said. "I think it's just where they are in their development. It's the next hurdle they have to get over to become better players."

The team paid the consequences for such mental lapses at the Rolex Regional All-American meet at Salt Lake City last weekend. The four players representing K-State were ousted early in the tournament, losing several matches they felt they should have won.

"I think if you asked any of our girls, they would say that at the regionals we didn't play as well as we could have," Bietau said.

Luck was not in the team's favor from the start at the regional tournament. K-State's No. 1 singles player Michele Riniker, unseeded in the field, drew the top-seeded player in the first round of play, losing to nationally ranked Monika Waniek 6-3, 6-4.

Bietau said although Riniker lost, she played very well against Waniek and attracted attention from opposing players and coaches.

After winning her first match in the consolation bracket decisively, however, Riniker was upset by Abby Woods of Kansas, dropping two sets that ended in tie-breakers.

"She was very disappointed, as I would expect," Bietau said. "It was an example of a match where she wasn't beaten by the other player. She clearly beat herself."

"She felt bad about the loss, but I sort of challenged her through it. I said it's one thing to feel bad about losing a match like that, but it's another thing to do something to keep it from happening again."

While the rest of the team will see no more competition until the spring, Riniker will receive an opportunity to redeem herself next week in the pre-qualifying round of the DuPont National Clay Court Championships, in Panama City, Fla.

"Michele's good enough that if her attitude is good and she works hard, the big wins will come eventually," Bietau said. "She's played the two best players in the region, and though she lost to both of them, I think she's been more than competitive with them. Her three best matches this year were against the toughest players she's faced. She's been in a position to win those types of matches but just hasn't."

Success in match play was sacrificed at times during the season for the sake of developing the mental consistency and the skills necessary to compete during the spring. Although the team suffered some disappointing losses, the players think the development seen during the fall will be apparent down the road.

"Though we didn't have the kind of records we'd like to have, we Tennis coach Steve Bietau has seen the players on his team make great strides on the court during the fall portion of the 1990-91 schedule. Bietau points to the need for greater consistency and the elimination of matches in which players beat themselves as keys to further gains.

realize that we worked on some things that will be important later on," said Theresa Burcham, the team's only senior. "The Rolex tournament was disappointing to all of us, but I don't think it really put a damper on things. I'm excited about working at getting stronger and in better shape for the spring."

Without the demands of travel and the physical drain of competition, the months of November and December are the primary period for the team to improve its strength and stamina. Bietau will lead the team through a regimen of running and weight training to prepare for the upcoming season.

"In terms of work and progress, our players have done a good job this fall," Bietau said. "Our biggest weakness this fall has been numbers. We don't have the depth of top players to compete with some of the tough teams."

One key Bietau noted for the upcoming season was the health of Angie Gover. Gover entered the Rolex tournament with a 4-0 record, but was slowed all season by injuries and was forced to withdraw from competition in the second round.

"I think we're going to have some real challenges for the spring," Bietau said, pointing out meets with several top 20 teams on the schedule. "But if you look at the direction of the program as a whole, I feel very good about it."

Seniors lead football team to heights rarely seen

Dan Wicker

SPORTS REPORTER

The year was 1921. A total of 69 seasons and 685 K-State football games have passed since the Wildcats posted a 5-1 home football record.

Only one lonely season ago, there was the spark that might ignite a slow but gradual turn from losses to wins. K-State won its first football game in 30 attempts. The fans celebrated, the goalposts came down, but the press still ridiculed the team.

This year K-State is getting the last laugh. The Wildcats have posted their best record since 1982 and have been voted the fourth most-improved team in the nation.

Games are met with excitement instead of humor, and there is a twinkle in the fans' eyes that has been absent for too many seasons.

The home season ended last weekend with a memorable 28-14 Homecoming victory over Iowa State, the first Homecoming win since 1982. With only two away games remaining in the season, it is time to pay our respects to the players that have seen their final game at KSU Stadium.

Quarterback Carl Straw has written his way to the K-State and Big Eight all-time record books with a star-studded senior year. His 1990 passing season ranks as the best completion percentage in K-State history, and Straw only needs 256 yards to become the second K-State quarterback to pass for over 2,000 yards. Lynn Dickey accomplished the feat in 1969 and 1970.

In his career at K-State, Straw owns the highest completion percentage and is second only to Dickey in passing yards and total offense. These two stats also boost him among the top 10 on the Big Eight charts.

Pat Jackson, Mr. All-Purpose — or Mr. Triple Threat, as the No. 3 on his jersey suggests — has provided a much-needed punch out of the backfield. Simply put, the season would not have been the same without Jackson. He is dangerous as a runner out of the backfield and on a short reception.

Throw in the other two amigos — juniors Michael Smith and Frank Hernandez — and you have more than half of K-State's offense. Jackson is averaging 85.4 yards per game with 67.7 coming off of the rush. Jackson is also the leading scorer for the 'Cats with 54 points on the season.

Strong safety Danny Needham returned as the most experienced player in the K-State secondary, and presently is leading this sea-

■ See WICKER, Page 10

Senior tailback Pat Jackson is just one of several players who has contributed to K-State's reversal in fortunes on the football field in 1990. Jackson ranks among the Big Eight leaders in rushing, and is a capable pass receiver as well.

Latest Iraqi hostage release seen as ploy to divide allies

By The Associated Press

Iraq on Tuesday promised to free 108 hostages, none of them American, and insisted anew its foreign guests are well-treated. Secretary of State James A. Baker III pressed U.S. allies about their willingness to go to war.

The Baghdad government was keeping an eye on Tuesday's mid-term elections in the United States. It claimed any slippage in Republican support would reflect a lack of public support for President Bush's Persian Gulf policies.

"The American people will ... ask him why he is sending their sons to be killed in the Arab desert and he will reap the fruits of his mistake," said Iraqi Information Minister Latif Jassim.

In the latest hostage releases, Iraq's official news agency said 77 Japanese nationals would be freed in response to an appeal from former Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone. It also said 20 Italians, five Swedes, two Germans, two Portuguese and two Australians would be allowed to leave.

It did not say when the captives would be freed, but some had already begun to assemble at a Baghdad hotel.

They were among thousands of foreigners trapped when Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2. Some had been held at strategic sites as human shields against attack.

Iraq has since freed hundreds of captives, but Western governments have expressed growing fears that Iraq's Saddam Hussein is successfully using the hostages to divide the alliance facing him.

Baker, meanwhile, was seeking to strengthen the anti-Iraq coalition. He is in the Mideast to assess support for stronger steps against Iraq, including a possible military strike.

He met Tuesday in Cairo with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, but there was no immediate word on the outcome. Egypt has sent thousands of troops to join the multinational force assembled in the gulf.

U.S. troops make up the bulk of the force, which numbers about 300,000. The Pentagon said Tuesday that the U.S. troop deployment in the region had reached 230,000 and was still growing.

In a sign of escalating U.S. military commitment, the Marine Corps said it was calling up more than 600 reservists from eight states for combat roles. Up until now, the more than 34,000 reservists called to active duty have served in support roles.

While in Egypt, Baker also met with China's foreign minister, Qian Qichen. China is a permanent member of the U.N. Security Council, and its support would be needed for a U.N.-sanctioned military strike against Saddam.

Asked about such a military move, Qian expressed hopes that a peaceful settlement could still be found.

PLO chairman Yasser Arafat, who has tried to act as a mediator in the gulf crisis, said prospects for peace are improving as the world considers the consequences of an all-out conflict.

"War will be disastrous and catastrophic. This is the world's oil center. Just imagine what a disaster and a catastrophe it will be," Arafat told reporters in Baghdad.

Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, however, reminded Iraq on Tuesday that the United Nations has not restricted the use of military force to liberate Kuwait.

"We would like a peaceful settlement, but that option is in the hands of the Iraqis," said the foreign minister, Prince Saud.

Iraq's freeing of its Japanese hostages comes as Japanese lawmakers are considering a plan to send troops to the gulf in non-combat roles. However, the measure has prompted strong protests in Japan and its prospects for approval look dim. Japan said it had not altered its gulf policy in order to win the hostages' freedom.

Iraq has been expressing fears that the United States will use the hostages as a reason for a military strike. On Tuesday, it offered its latest assurances that the guests, as it calls the captives, are being well treated.

Saxophone inventor honored

Faculty, students to perform in recital for Sax's birthday

By Shannon Helm
Collegian Reporter

Patented in Paris in 1846, it's been likened to an oversized tobacco pipe.

It is a saxophone. And when the doors of All Faiths Chapel close for a concert to honor its inventor at 8 tonight, its smooth sound will fill the air.

A concert honoring the inventor of the saxophone, Adolphe Sax, has been a K-State tradition for several years. This year's concert, honoring Sax's 176th birthday, offers a variety of works from the baroque period up to the 20th century.

Frank Sidorfsky, associate professor, said the tradition was started by Alfred Cochran, an assistant professor of music. Because Cochran is on sabbatical in England, Sidorfsky is supervising the concert. He will also play an alto sax solo.

Faculty members from Washburn University and the University of Kansas are also scheduled to perform.

"Such a mixture of students and faculty from different places is uncommon for this type of recital," Sidorfsky said.

"I've come every year because I enjoy the comradery of being part of the tradition," said Ken Ticknor, assistant professor at Washburn.

Ticknor will play a modern
■ See SAX, Page 10

Chicago City Limits creates comedy with improvisation

By Liz Anne McElhaney
Collegian Reporter

"Improvise."

That's the rule the Chicago City Limits National Touring Company will use when they perform at 8 p.m. Friday in McCain Auditorium.

Chicago City Limits, New York's longest running comedy show, consists of nine performers using audience members to assist them in magically creating a form of entertainment instantly. The audience supplies the ideas for improvised numbers — the comedy troupe and their imagination does the rest.

The group has toured the nation performing for diverse audiences ranging from college students to senior citizens and nuns, and in locations ranging from corporate headquarters to rock concerts.

The group itself is diverse — the performers have day jobs ranging from acting to practicing law and hawking condoms.

Wayne Barker is a freelance graphic artist and has performed with "10 Percent Revue" and Frank Massey's shows. Actress Carole Bugge's film work includes "Wise Guys" and "The Pickup Artist." Wendy Chatman toured with Susan Anton in "They're Playing Our Song." Jeff Clinkensbeard, performs standup comedy in various clubs and teaches improvisation techniques for the group.

Other members of the troupe have interesting day jobs as well. Actor/musician Josh Jedwab works as a Wall Street attorney. Suzanne Hevner has appeared in many T.V. commercials and has a degree in musical theater from Syracuse University. Carl Kissin was a comedy writer for MTV's talk show "Mouth to Mouth" and has done voiceovers for ABC-TV's Olympic coverage and "As the
■ See CHICAGO, Page 10

JONATHAN MORRIS

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Paid for by the Students For Morris

- Presenting new ideas for a changing KSU.
- Dedicated to a fair representation of all students
- Lobbying for enhanced funding at KSU.

$ave-$ave-$ave
We Have An Eye for Saving
15% Off
Prescription and Frame
Courteous, Competent, Competitive
Offer good thru Nov. 21, 1990
410 Poyntz • Downtown, Manhattan • 776-6255

8 BALL TOURNAMENT

NOVEMBER 14, 6:30 p.m.
DOUBLE ELIMINATION
ENTRY FEE $ 3

Mens and Womens Divisions
Participants Must be K-State Students
Winners to Represent K-State in Regional Competition
Sign Up Deadline Nov. 12

Ben Franklin
Better quality for less

Crafts

OPEN HOUSE
12-6 Sunday, Nov. 11

• Refreshments
• Craft Demonstrations
20% off All In-Stock Christmas Items
And going on now our Bustin' Basics
$1 Sale!

Westloop Shopping Center
Manhattan 776-4910
Mon.-Fri. 9-9, Sat. 9-7, Sun 1-6

FLOUR SALES

SPONSORED BY

KSU GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB

Flour Sales Every Wednesday
Noon until 4 p.m.
SHELLENBERGER HALL 220 KSU

KSU Bakery Science Club

BAKE SALE TODAY!!

Shellenberger 105
3 p.m. till sold out

Live Tonight:

Dr. Zeus

&

Crystal Cobra

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, USA

Our 20th Anniversary Sale
November 7-11

2 1/2¢ Copies
99¢ Oversize Copies
99¢ Color Copies

kinko's
the copy center

2 1/2¢ price is for black & white, 8 1/2 x 11, unrotated copies on 20# bond.
99¢ copies are 8 1/2 x 11, Canon laser copies. 99¢ Oversize copies up to 24" x 36".

MCCAIN

Chicago City Limits

Friday, November 9, 8 p.m.

These over-the-top comedians won't subject you to squirting daisies, Groucho glasses, or hand buzzers. Instead they'll gather your suggestions and weave them into hilarious skits. "Are they good?" you ask. Well, they've extended Chicago's city limits to New York, where they're the longest-running improv group in town.

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

Presented in part by the Friends of McCain with additional support from the Fine Arts Fee.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also on sale (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

Hiring of lobbyists approved by commission

By Dan Scott
Collegian Reporter

The Manhattan City Commission approved a $12,000 contract Tuesday night to use the services of Washington, D.C. lobbyists.

The Commission voted 4-1 to approve the contract with the Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce. The venture is designed to preserve the First Division at Fort Riley with the cooperation of Junction City, the Junction City Chamber of Commerce and Geary County.

"I feel this is an appropriate thing to do," said Commissioner Rich Seidler. "The $12,000 we allot tonight will hopefully ensure keeping 18,000 jobs at Fort Riley."

The lobbyists' job will be to keep abreast of any developments in the military that might affect Fort Riley, said Commissioner Michael Conduff.

"The lobbyists are to advise us how to take advantage of those developments," Conduff said.

One of the terms of the contract includes having the City of Manhattan pay the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce $1,000 of public funds a month for one year. The lobbyists are to submit written reports quarterly on the developments in Washington, D.C.

Commissioner Gene Klinger was the only dissenter. He said he was against using public funds when the commission does not have much control over the lobbyists.

"We're only one-sixth of the players," Klinger said. "I don't feel it's in the best interest of the taxpayers of Manhattan."

Randy Martin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said keeping track of the lobbyists would not be a problem. If a time comes when the parties involved are not able to get the necessary feedback, they could deal with it at that time, he said.

In other business, the Commission approved the second reading of the parking lot time restrictions with some minor modifications by a 4-0 vote.

The original proposal, approved Oct. 16, established three rows of limited parking and three rows of unlimited parking for each of the lots at Third and Houston streets and Third and Humboldt streets.

The second reading sets the two rows of parking closest to the downtown businesses for two-hour parking time limits in the Third and Humboldt parking lot.

The two northern-most rows of the Third and Houston parking lot will have the two-hour restriction, leaving four rows of unlimited parking.

The restrictions will be in use from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The only exception will be holidays.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs—skincare—glamor—nails—gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103 $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

CAPTURE CHRISTMAS at Blooming Dale's Garden Center at their Grand Opening Nov. 10 and 11, 1105 Waters. 539-4751.

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-679-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

TONIGHT
$1
LONGNECKS
25¢ KAMIS
BAYSTREET

COMPLETE VIDEO of Homecoming bodybuilding team competition. Union Courtyard, Nov. 2. $22 includes tax, postage, handling. Living Image Video, 539-0168.

FED UP with health insurance premiums that continually increase? If so, I have a policy for you. If you're interested call... Billie Gallaher, 539-5676.

LOST 18 lbs. in three weeks. You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call Vanessa at 776-4764.

ON COLD winter days like these, enjoy delicious cuisine by a cozy fireplace. The Osage House, 2605 Staggy Hill Road, 776-1234.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

2 Apartments—Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3904.

UPSTAIRS APARTMENT for one person. 539-5778.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share spacious three-bedroom apartment for spring semester. Non-smoker. Call 776-3234 after 3p.m.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid, $260. 776-7320.

ONE-BEDROOM in Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid, $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE available mid-November. One and one-half baths. Eighth and Bluemont. No pets. $400. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

VERY NICE one-bedroom apartment, attractive location, no pets. $275 plus electricity. 776-0406.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY: One-bedroom apartment located on west side. $320 per month, no pets. Call 776-1340, 8a.m.—6p.m.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

LEASE FOR Spring—Now! One-bedroom one block from campus/ Aggieville. Rent $295 plus deposit and electric. Available December, 537-3342.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

Brittnay Ridge Townhomes —More Than Your Basic Apartment—

•4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, study room
•Wired for cable, phone, computer
•Hot tubs & volleyball court
•Bus service to campus
•Monthly rent as low as $195

DWC
Dan Weir Co.
2601 Anderson Ave. 776-5599

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 PLYMOUTH Belvedere two-door hardtop 318, new dual exhausts, all original, $600 or best offer. 1-485-2760.

1978 SUNBIRD—Excellent body, upholstery, 57,000 actual. Good gas mileage. Steal it for $1,995. 776-7588.

1981 OLDS Cutlass, new tires, nice interior, good condition. Call 776-4122.

1981 PLYMOUTH Horizon, mileage 55,400, good condition, $1,650 negotiable. Melville 532-7212 after 10:30a.m. or 537-4420.

1986 CAMARO, hot red with T-top, only 47K, Mint! 1-485-2576 after 6p.m.

1987 CHEVY Custom van, loaded, 50,000 miles, 350CID, auto, power windows, power steering, air, cruise, tilt, like new. 1-485-3689, keep trying.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies, Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE: IBM PS/2 model 50Z. 1MB RAM, 80286, one 3.5" floppy, 30MB hard drive, Micro Channel architecture. IBM mouse, 8513 color VGA monitor, enhanced keyboard, cloth covers, DOS 4.01 and lots of software. One year old. $3,000. 1-823-9739, Salina.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such "employment opportunity" with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

4-H YOUTH Extension Assistant (Temporary and Part-time) to support 4-H Club organization and 4-H parents committees, plant and mechanical science projects. Available Dec. 1. Required: Master's Degree in Curriculum Design, Counseling/ Guidance, Education, Physical Education, Human Development/ Family Studies, or related. Salary commensurate. Resume, transcripts, and three reference letters by Nov. 15 to CR Salmon, Umberger Hall, KSU, 913-532-5600. KSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT income for home assembly work. 504-646-1700. Dept. P6438.

CLEAN, COOK, childcare, few hours every other day. Apply in person, 2024 Browning.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

HOME TYPISTS. PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

MANAGER TO run rental business, flexible hours. Ten hours plus. Call 402-477-5323 between 10p.m. and midnight, ask for Carl. Interviews Saturday and Sunday or by appointment.

PART-TIME WEEKEND staff for Manhattan Emergency Shelter, Inc. Ability to work with low income and/or disadvantaged individuals. Apply at 831 Leavenworth. 537-3113.

PART-TIME OFFICE manager, some computer experience, some accounting, need very good telephone skills, 12 hours/ week, flexible. 776-9544.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

TELEMARKETING POSITION open with major insurance company. Insurance license helpful but not required. Serious inquiries only. Call 776-3882 or 537-4661 between 3-5p.m. M-F.

TIRED Of school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Temptation Nanny Agency. (913)842-4443.

WANTED LIVE-IN college student to supervise 15-year-old twins. Evening meal preparation and a few other miscellaneous duties. Call 776-5351. Call on Saturday and Sunday only.

WANTED: STUDENT to clean apartment. Approximately 4-5 hours/week. Call 537-7843. Ask for Kim.

WE NEED a chimney sweep who is hardworking, very mechanically inclined, has no fear of heights and relates well with people. Must be able to work Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. 776-9544.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits.

15-80K+.

Free Information Call

Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

9 Food Specials

Bobby D's
WEDNESDAYS: STEAK NIGHT

$3.99 Filet Mignon
$4.99 K.C. Strip
$5.49 T-Bone
with drink, baked potato and salad

539-1571

10 Furniture to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Sofa—$50, tables (2) $10 each, floor lamp—$5. Call 1-784-3031.

WOHLER'S USED furniture, 615 N. Third, 539-3119. Hours 1 to 5p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 6 to 9p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, antique furniture, modern furniture, appliances, bicycles, misc.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: IN Durland Hall, men's nugget ring. Call Patty, 532-5592 to identify.

(Continued on page 9)

LAFENE WOMEN'S CLINIC

- *Birth Control Information / Prescriptions
- *Pregnancy Testing / Counseling / Referrals
- *Routine Gynecological Exams
- *Sexually Transmitted Disease Testing / Information

532-6554

Lafene Health Center
Kansas State University

QBE ZOB

it's a
FORMAL AFFAIR
union ball room advance tickets
nov. 17 8pm-1am 6-person
10-couple door-10 person

for more info call
Charlotte Moore
537-7524

Need money for college?

ASK ABOUT STUDENT LOANS

CITIZENS BANK & TRUST CO.
Sixth & Humboldt
Manhattan, KS 66502
776-9400

Lender Code #804581
EMPIRE BANK Originator

Member FDIC

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1983

A QUIZ:

Q: WHEN DOES YOUR WEEKEND START?

A.) WHEN MOM SAYS SO.
B.) FRIDAY, 5:00 P.M., NO SOONER.
C.) WEDNESDAY
D.) WHEN I'VE GOT ALL MY HOMEWORK DONE.
E.) I'M A LOSER, I DON'T GO OUT.

A: IF YOU ANSWERED ANYTHING BUT C.) ABOVE, YOUR SCORE IS ZERO, 'CAUSE YOU'RE A NERD.

DON'T BE A NERD!
DRINK BEER
BE COOL, IMPROVE YOUR SOCIAL STATUS ALL YOUR FRIENDS DO.

$ DOLLAR PITCHER$ AT
CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
BEER PRESSURE

FirstBank Center 776-4111

FOR STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

JONATHAN MORRIS

Placing The Student First

Paid for by Students for Morris

Burke's

50th ANNIVERSARY SALE

DEXTER SHOES
Proudly congratulates Burke's Shoes for 50 years of business in Kansas!

Dexter DAYS
WE ARE CELEBRATING WITH SAVINGS THROUGHOUT THE STORE!

Register to Win FREE Dexter Shoes

SAVE UP TO 30%

BURKE'S FIFTY YEARS
MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER
the shoe center

(Continued from page 8)

FOUND: KEYS found on Spirit March from Homecoming with an Army National Guard key chain. Claim in Kedzie 103.

LOST: BROWN billfold, lost at Kite's or vicinity Saturday night. Name and address, Mike Beck, on voters registration card in billfold. Please call 539-3067. Reward.

LOST: CLASS ring on hill at KU/K-State game. If found call 539-6932.

LOST: FEMALE black Lab, Red collar, gray on chin and paws. Answers to Keely. Please call 539-2192.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

FISHER MONTARE mountain bike, Shimano Deore components. $450. 776-1636 leave message.

19 Music/Musicians

FOR SALE: Two guitars: one acoustic, one classical. $150 each or $250 for both. 539-3587 evenings.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

A BIG Thank you to all the Sigma Kappas for your record setting amount of ads placed in the Collegian today! We appreciate your business. The Classified Ad Staff (and especially Matt).

ALPHA XI Actives, They call us Alpha Xis. We spend our lives as sisters and we'll walk an endless mile. We are the Xis gone wild!

BRITT O. and Brian B.: Congratulations on your engagement! We are very happy for you and wish you the best of luck. Love—The Sublette bunch and one Hutch girl.

JAMIE R.—Self suckers to support your sorority! Have a great week! Love, Michele W. (Sigma Kappa)

JIM N: Will I ever get more than a smile? Girl in Colorful Jacket on Monday.

LADY CAT Pauline—We like you best, 'cuz we know you well. And those that think you have a problem, well they can just go to hell!

PI KAPPA Phi Jack—We met last spring break, an unforgettable week. We went separate ways, then at Bushwacker's we met. I had a good time. I thought you did too. I would really like to hear from you!—Your Padre Pat.

ROB—HAPPY 22nd. Make the best of it! (When's dinner?)—Nov. 13th.

ROSEY N.—Thanks for Everything—You're the absolute greatest! Have a fantastic day! I love you, Beth.

SAE BRIAN P., Too bad you can't call me because I'm free of Tony.—Michelle.

SIG KAP Beth 2: Isn't it great to be a founder! Enjoy Founder's Week. Love, your secret sis.

SIG KAP Mari H.—I hope you have a great day, babe! I Love Ya. Your Secret Sis Suzanne P.

SIG KAP Steph B., It's hump day and the week is almost over, so I hope the rest of the week goes well Secret Sig, Beth L.

SIGMA KAPPA Amy H.—Violets and Sigma Love from your Secret Sigma—Jodi.

SIGMA KAPPA Courtney, Have a great week! Lots of Love, Sigma Kappa, Shana B.

SIGMA KAPPA Heather W.—Happy Founder's Week! We are almost done with pledgeship!—Your Secret Sigma.

SIGMA KAPPA Heather W., Hope your week is super-terrific! Secret Sigma Tomra.

SIGMA KAPPA Jane B.—Hope you are having a terrific week! Secret Sigma Heather M.

SIGMA KAPPA Kirsten O., I'm so glad we're sisters, You're the greatest! Sigma Love, Nicole S.

SIGMA KAPPA—Kristin S., Good Luck with lollipop sales, you're awesome, Secret Sigma Courtney.

SIGMA KAPPA Melanie N., Hope your week goes great. Let's go out this weekend! Sigma Kappa Love, Lisa V.

SIGMA KAPPA Myra—Have a great Week of Giving!—Love, your Secret Sigma.

SIGMA KAPPA Nicole F.: Hope you have the best week ever. Your Secret Sigma, Cynthia.

SIGMA KAPPA—Rachel S., Hola!—Love, your secret Sigma, Susie.

SIGMA KAPPA Sandi T., Have a wonderful week of giving. Love, your Secret Sigma, Kristi.

SIGMA KAPPA—Shana B., Get excited for a great week! Love, Laurie L.

SIGMA KAPPA Summer—Have a wonderful Week of Giving!—Love, your Secret Sigma.

SIGMA KAPPA Susanne—If life hands you lemons—make lemonade! Your Secret Sig Sis!

SIGMA KAPPA—To my secret Sigma Jennifer W., I hope you have a great week. Love your Secret Sigma.

SIGMA KAPPA Erika R., Roses are red, Violets are blue. I love the Sigma love in you. Boo.

SIGMA KAPPA Jodi K.—This ad is just a sealer of Sigma love for you, sister.—Tamara.

SIGMA KAPPA Michele S.—Roses are Red, Violets are Blue, U R my secret Sigma, And this is for you, With love—Susan R.

SIGMA KAPPA Michele W., Wishing you a day full of Sigma Love, Your Secret Sigma, Erin H.

SIGMA KAPPA Wendy B., We are one as together we stand, Sigma Kappa Love is truly grand. Love, Rimi.

SIGMA KAPPA Barbra J.—Have a terrific week—Remember one heart, one way! Sigma love, Beth.

SIGMA KAPPA Laura W.—You're the greatest heart sister I could have ever asked for! Have a super day! Love, Beth.

SIGMA KAPPA Nicole L.—Hope you're having a brilliant week! Sigma love, Laura W.

SIGMA KAPPA Lynn—Roses are red, violets are blue, Sigma's love is ever true! SK Love, your secret Sigma Kirsten F.

SIGMA KAPPA Missy B.—A note to say hello. Hope your week goes well. Love your Secret Sigma, Pam B.

SIGMA KAPPA Tomara—Hope you have a great week of giving! Secret Sigma Love, Sharon.

SIGMA KAPPA—Amy S.—Have a great week of giving. Sigma Love—Looney Tunes.

SIGMA KAPPA Beth J., I'd just like to say I hope you have a nice day! You're a mega great heart sis! Love, Laura.

SIGMA KAPPA Cricket T.—You are the best that there can be! Sigma love, Paula T.

SIGMA KAPPA—Deanna P.—I have got your name again you sexy babe. Have a wonderful week of giving. Sigma love—Looney Tunes.

SIGMA KAPPA Jennifer R., Hope you're having a great week. Your Secret Sigma, Summer G.

SIGMA KAPPA Jodi L.—Hope you're having a great week. See you tonight, Your Secret Sigma Shilo.

SIGMA KAPPA Jill G., Here's wishing you a day filled with happiness. Sigma Love, Niki T.

SIGMA KAPPA Michelle F., Welcome to Sigma Kappa. We are all thrilled to have you! Sigma Kay Love—Chris R.

SIGMA KAPPA Shannon M.—Hope everything is going great for you this week. Secret Sigma.

SIGMA KAPPA Sharon: Help! I've contracted scurvy. Any suggestions? Contact me A.S.A.P. Love your S.S.

SIGMA KAPPA Shilo, even though we're new, There isn't a more awesome SK than you! Sigma Love, Brooke.

SIGMA KAPPA Alice, Let's make our first our best Founder's Day yet! Denise.

SIGMA KAPPA Audra M., Hope you are having a great week of giving. Love, your Secret Sis.

SIGMA KAPPA Dawn S., Your secret Sigma this week I be. Friday night a party we will see. No men or beer allowed, but we'll party hardy and be real loud. Secret Sigma Love, Lisa E.

SIGMA KAPPA Heather B.—Here's a rap from your secret Sigma, Kap. We're new, but we're strong. We'll soon be charter members before too long. Sigmas are here to stay—Yo sis have a good day! Sigma love—Jackie.

SIGMA KAPPA Ashley F.—Just a note to wish you a happy day! Keep on smiling! Sigma love—Amy F.

SIGMA KAPPA—Cathy J., Have a great week of giving! Get excited about Friday night. Love, Secret Sigma Marcie.

SIGMA KAPPA—Chard, Happy week of giving. Sigma Kappa Love—Secret Sigma Audrey.

SIGMA KAPPA Danielle—We are new, but we are great. Sigma Kappa's really nice! Sigma Love—Marta.

SIGMA KAPPA Dari—As pledges we are half through, with no more test, what will we do? Much Sigma Luck—Joyce.

SIGMA KAPPA Jenn B.—Haven't met you yet, but I know who you are—your cheer and smile can be seen from afar. Tonight we'll meet with all the rest—Sigma Sisters are the best. Sigma Love, SS.

SIGMA KAPPA Jenni O., Hope you have a great week! Sigma Love—Your Secret Sis.

SIGMA KAPPA Jennifer P.—"Happiness is a perfume you can't pour on others without getting a few drops on yourself." Have a happy week. Sigma Love, Dari B.

SIGMA KAPPA Jessica F., Happy Week of Giving to you! Secret Sigma, Karen.

SIGMA KAPPA Julie A.—I'm so glad you're my sister! Have a Great Week! Sigma Love, Andrea B.

SIGMA KAPPA—Karlene S., Happy week of giving! Your Secret Sigma, Ashley F.

SIGMA KAPPA Kim, You're doing a great job being a Pan. Rep. Keep it up! Your secret sis, Ginger.

SIGMA KAPPA Kirsten F., Hope you're having a great day. Hang in there and remember to stay cool. Secret Sigma Karlene.

SIGMA KAPPA Kirsten F.—Thanks for all your help in Bio. Dari B.

SIGMA KAPPA Kristi H.: Hope you're having a wonderful week. Keep your chin up! Marianne.

SIGMA KAPPA Kristy K.: Your secret Sigma, Missy B. sends you many wishes for a great day!

SIGMA KAPPA Lisa E., Surprise, secret Sigma! So far so fun—Have a great day. Joy M.

SIGMA KAPPA Pres. Karen—You are my secret Sigma. And this message that I send, is to wish you a week, That is great until the end. Sigma love, Michelle N.

SIGMA KAPPA Shannon C.—Have a super week! You're a great Sigma Kay sis! Love ya—Tammy L.

SIGMA KAPPA—Shelli J., Good luck with everything you do this week! Secret Sigma Michele F.

SIGMA KAPPA—Tricia, Have a great rest of the week. See ya tonight. Love, Secret Sigma.

TAMMARA R.—Hope you have a great Day! Smile, you're on Candid Camera! Sec. Sig Leslie F.

TAM—WALK Softly on this Heart of Mine because You Look So Good in Love, and Right or Wrong, I'll always Love You Forever and Ever, Amen. Happy 21st Birthday, C.

WESLEY—BABY, Surprised, Sweet Pea? I Love You! Deb.

23 Resume/Typing Service

AAA—RESUMES Plus. Personalized, laser-printed desktop publishing of almost anything. Rush service available. Resume only $19.50—you're satisfied or you don't pay! 776-2383, 7—10 p.m.

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Clafin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/letters/resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

TYPING USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Call Judy at 539-7100.

WORDPROCESSING/ TYPING—Data sheets, reports, theses, dissertations, letters, resumes, applications, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204.

24 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE immediately, first month's rent free. Phone, bedroom and bath. Call 539-0437.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, available immediately. Own room, good size apartment. Washer and dryer, $150 a month plus one-fifth utilities. Two blocks from campus. 776-4022 ask for Suzanne.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Tri-level furnished apartment, one-half block from campus. $157.50/month plus one-fourth utilities. Take over lease now, December or January. 537-9568.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—$135/month. This includes utilities, own room and it is furnished. Available spring semester. Call 539-4518.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Must be tidy. $167.50 plus one-half utilities. November rent paid. 776-0774.

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share new tri-level furnished apartment. Spring semester. $157.50 plus one-fourth utilities. 1825 College Heights. 776-7297.

FEMALE WANTED to share very nice two-bedroom, across from campus. Available immediately, sublease. 539-7494.

ROOMMATE NEEDED to share apartment next to campus. Spring semester, $145/month, utilities included. 539-1720.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5 p.m.

ROOMMATE NEEDED immediately, female, Christian, non-smoking. $175. 539-3459.

ROOMMATE WANTED for spacious apartment, own room, two and one-half blocks from campus. $120/month plus one-third gas and phone. 539-1161.

25 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9 a.m.—5 p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Gmml, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

27 Sports/Recreation Equipment

SHOTGUN—H&R 12 gauge, over and under, full/modified, 3" chamber, $300 firm. 537-9690.

28 Sublease

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath, fireplace, washer and dryer, dishwasher, pool, beautiful view. $405/month. 776-2422.

ONE—THREE female roommates, furnished house, spring semester (or up to two rows). Private bath, living, entrance, backyard. Washer/dryer. $162.50/month, negotiable. Lease ends in May. May 539-3886.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed to fill four-bedroom house in spring semester. Own bedrooms. One block from campus. Washer/dryer. $125 per month plus one-fourth utilities. 537-9094.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

MUST SELL three tickets to Billy Joel's concert in KC on Nov. 21. Call 539-1651 after 6 p.m. Good price.

PLANE TICKET, round-trip to Chicago Nov. 9-11, $88 or best offer. Call Michele 539-6299.

31 Tutor

TUTORING in Modern Greek. Open to anyone, call Aki Barmashi. Phone 776-6128, after 5 p.m.

30 Travel

Traveler's Limousine Service
Call 539-2284

OK! LAST CHANCE! IN BREAK
STEAMBOAT BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-9 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

33 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/year plus $4,600/year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8 p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9 a.m.—5 p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4 p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

PROTECT YOURSELF against an unwanted attacker, purchase mace. Easy to use, small enough for your pocket, attach to your key chain. Security for $5. Call 539-7349, leave message.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels. $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 8 p.m. if no answer, leave message.

WANTED: A used washer in working condition. Call 537-9208 after 5 p.m.

Vanity
13-HOUR SALE
Thurs., Nov. 8
8:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
20% OFF EVERYTHING
(excludes leathers)
1 DAY ONLY
Vanity•Manhattan Town Center

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Glernt Glurr's 5 senses are in perfect condition, except that his taste and sight senses got switched around.

©1990 Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Brilliant star
5 Health resort
8 Highest point
12 Desert garments
13 Good sense
14 Silent actress
15 Revolving fireworks device
17 Granny, for one
18 Assault
19 Friend of Athos
21 Court divider
22 Choir plum
23 Young seal
26 Stitch
28 Shrink in pain
31 Tag on sale item
33 Actor Taylor
35 Prophet
36 Slow, in music
38 Suburb of London
40 Strong urge
41 S.A.

DOWN

43 Enemy
45 Fern leaves
47 Main course at dinner
51 Sudden invasion
52 Ducks or grouse
54 Teen problem
55 Stammering sounds
56 U.S. cartoonist
57 Glut
58 Maiden name
59 Wings
60 DOWN
1 California valley
2 Kimono
3 Johnson and Cilburn
4 Egyptian city
5 Oppressive heat
6 Plant or bald lead-in
7 One of the Titans
8 Soluble mineral salts
9 Cash for incidentals
10 Word in Mark
11 Totem poles
16 Hastens
20 "Kings" (movie)
Solution time: 21 mins.

23 Youth org
24 Put into service
25 Show the exact location
27 Chinese cooking pan
29 Passing grade
30 Sea bird
32 Uncomfortable commuter?
34 Means of protection
37 California fort
39 "I—Dance" (old song)
42 Poplar tree
44 Babylonian hero
45 Titles for monks
46 Biblical word of reproach
48 Iranian money
49 Lohen-grin's bride
50 Italian noble family
53 Wrath

CRYPTOQUIP

11-7

X I P Q J N P F D D Q F W Q R
N P Y J O N Z J C W A X P C I J D
X W Z J R P S Y A W N F W D X
X O Z P Y O P Q P D

Yesterday's answer 11-7

Today's Cryptoquip clue: N equals R

Voters

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Dodge said since Green township doesn't have a public building, they had to vote in a house. Jackson said Camahan township had a public building but since it didn't have heating, bathrooms or access to the handicapped, they couldn't vote there.

"If someone is on the registration list we know who they are," Dodge said. "If they moved, died or whatever, we'll know if they will be here."

Dodge said birth dates used to be included on registration lists which made it fun to figure out people's ages as time went by.

Dodge and Jackson said they even know when people will come in if they haven't already since there are only 89 voters.

Debra McClain Williams, entomology lab technician, said when she told someone she voted in a house, they asked if there were voting machines.

"I said, 'What do you mean, pencils?' They thought it was neat to vote in someone's house," she said.

McClain Williams said she has voted in the Gilliford's house five or six times.

"How many other places could you go to vote and shoot the shit with the judges?" she said. "It's the only place where you can give the judge hell."

Jackson said it was a good chance to talk to neighbors.

"We have to find out about everybody," she said. "Who's cows got out, who's got in. You can only do this at voting time."

"We are unique," Jackson said. "Different, difficult, proud and peculiar."

Chicago

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

World Turns."

Harry Prichett does various commercial voiceovers and is the National Radio Spokesman for Trojan Condoms. Michael Sansonia plays 14 instruments and was musical director for "National Lampoon's Class of '86."

Their entertainment experiences vary so much the team can keep a constant conversation with themselves and each other throughout the show. Improvisation on a wide range of topics alternates with prepared skits nightly.

The group was founded in 1977 from actors who participated in workshops at The Second City in Chicago. Since then, the touring company has opened a theater in New York. The group teaches improvisation classes for all skill levels and is responsible for many improvisational theater mainstays in the country.

We Take Tips Day or Night
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
532-6556

Finney

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

once described her as inordinately defensive. Others contend she is just tough.

Hayden and other Republicans questioned whether she could handle the governor's job, pointing to what they said were confusing statements on several issues. One Democrat privately described her as "a little bit off the beam" — an eccentric grandmother.

She responded, "I am an administrator. I hire capable people, and then I support them in doing the job."

Finney began her political career in 1953, when she joined the staff of U.S. Sen. Frank Carlson, a Republican who was the only Kansan to serve as a governor and senator and in the U.S. House. Finney worked for the senator, a revered figure for the GOP, until Carlson retired in January 1969.

"I didn't want to go on, but after a few months, I was back into it," she said. "It gets into your blood."

In 1972, Finney began receiving encouragement to run for the 2nd District seat in the U.S. House. She said prominent Republicans urged her not to run. She did and lost the primary.

Two years later, Bob Brock, the Topeka hotel magnate and prominent Democrat, urged her to change parties to run against the incumbent state treasurer.

Local

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

with votes not yet in from Pottawatomie County. He earlier predicted the votes from Pottawatomie would narrow Hochhauser's lead but later conceded when the gap reached 1,400 votes.

"It's always tough when you're running against the incumbent," Hoerman said. "The incumbent was a very tough opponent and she proved herself."

Hoerman said the great thing about a democratic society is the people have the choice of how they want to be represented.

"Obviously the public spoke and chose the person they wanted to represent them in the 66th district," he said.

Hoerman said he does not have plans to run again in the future.

Complete vote totals from Riley and Pottawatomie counties showed Hochhauser with 3,634 votes for 63.55 percent and Hoerman with 2,084 votes for 36.45 percent.

In a race that was close all night, Republican incumbent Wilton Thomas held off the challenge of Democrat Roger Seymour by 80 votes in the 1st District County Commission race. The final vote count released by the Riley County Clerk's office showed Thomas with 1,094 votes for 51.7 percent and Seymour with 1,014 votes for 47.9 percent.

Seymour said the election came down to the final precinct.

Chemists

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

will be the seven symposiums featuring speakers from across the nation. Topics range from environmental chemistry to protein engineering.

"Each symposium will introduce different topics. There may be up to four invited speakers at each symposium," Klabunde said.

Three hundred research papers are scheduled to be presented at the conference.

"We have made a call for scientific papers throughout the region and we got a response of 300," Klabunde said. "These will be presented both orally and in poster sessions."

The conference will also include an employment clearing house.

"This will be a place where ACS members and student affiliates can try to match up with the type of company they may be interested in being employed with in the future," Klabunde said.

Vendors representing 16 companies will be exhibiting their products at the conference.

"The conference will mean recognition to the college and to the individual departments. It will make many good contacts with people in surrounding universities, which then leads to many cooperative ventures for K-State," said William Fateley, professor in chemistry. "It gives students contacts with people who are on the cutting edge of science. It will give young people the opportunity to meet professionals in the field of chemistry."

Wicker

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

on's secondary's march to school history. K-State has recorded 18 interceptions, and two more interceptions would make it the most ever by a K-State team. Needham is the active K-State tackle leader with 191, and leads the K-State secondary with 67 tackles this season.

Chris Cobb, who was bumped from the quarterback slot, locked up the punting position for the second straight season. Cobb, who has been a disappointment in some games, has still provided boots to benefit the defense. Out of Cobb's 50 punts, 10 have forced opponents to start from inside their 20, and seven have pinned them inside the 10 yard line.

James Enin-Okut, although he may have been overshadowed by Brooks Barta, is the other standout linebacker on the 'Cats defense. Enin-Okut is the last of the K-State senior starters. He is the third-leading tackler among linebackers this season and is fifth on the list of active career tackle leaders.

These five seniors have helped bring the fire back into K-State football — a fire that will hopefully be around for the future teams at K-State.

Good luck, guys, in your last two season- and college-ending games. You will be missed.

Sax

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

classical piece accompanied on piano by Cathy Hughes, of Topeka.

In addition to performances by faculty members, a number of K-State students will play saxophone solos, duets and ensembles.

"The recital offers lots of different levels of playing and levels of accomplishment," Ticknor said.

The students take private lessons, and many are members of different musical groups on campus, Sidorfsky said.

"In Retrospect," a piece composed by K-State alumna Janell Thome, will be performed by Chris Goins, junior in music education.

Although the concert is primarily dedicated to the invention of the saxophone, Adolphe Sax's contributed to the music industry are other ways as well.

Sax made improvements on the bass clarinet, which was a new instrument in his time and made a series of brass instruments known as saxhorns. His family was well-known in Europe for making musical instruments, and he eventually began his own company. He died in Paris on Feb. 4, 1894.

The concert is open to the public. Admission is free.

WE'VE MOVED

We are now open in our new location in the Old Town mall near the corner of 17th and Fort Riley Blvd.

We understand the pressures you are under and are available to help you with an unplanned pregnancy.

Birthingright
FREE Pregnancy Tests
523 S. 17th St. 537-9180
1-800-848-LOVE

Domestic Violence Help for hidden problems

November 14
Pawnee
Mental Health Services
The Crisis Center, Inc.

4 CEU's
Social workers, nurses, others. Valuable for all helping professionals.

12:45 to 4:45 p.m. at 2001 Claflin.
$28. To register call 539-5337.
PAWNEE
Mental Health Services

ATTENTION

Ideal Cleaners
1206½ Moro
539-2521
Leather cleaning & dry cleaning specialists
All services done on our premises

Pizza Hut
DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION NEAREST YOU.

- AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
- WESTLOOP 539-7447
- 3RD & MORO 776-4234

Build your resume and your income. Be a leader on a winning team.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING

EDITOR IN CHIEF: Supervises all areas of Collegian news planning, training, personnel and production. Has significant reporting and editorial responsibilities. Delegates duties in the best interest of the publication. Assists with staff recruitment, training and retention programs. Serves as liaison between newspaper and its readership, the K-State community.

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Supervises all areas of advertising planning, training, personnel and production. Is responsible for conducting weekly staff meetings, planning special sections and supplements, logging and laying out ads. Should work well with people and be well organized. Previous staff experience preferred. Experience or coursework in advertising is expected.

Obtain application forms in Kedzie 103.

DEADLINE: 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7

INTERVIEWS:

1:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in Union 209.

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

Saturday, December 1

KANSAS CITY

sign up begins:

Wednesday, November 7 8am—UPC Office

NOVEMBER 10 & 11

$10.00

Come and join us for a fun-filled day Christmas shopping in beautiful Kansas City. We will begin by stopping off at the Oak Park Mall in Overland Park, and then travel downtown to the Country Club Plaza.

NOVEMBER 9, 10, & 11

Unforgetably Undenably
Disney

JOURNEY
Natty Gann

A courageous young girl attempts to overcome extraordinary odds and rely upon love, hope and courage as she travels over 2000 miles of danger in search of her father. Set in the mid-1930s, this real-life American fable follows Natty Gann as she rides the rails with hobos, forms a close bond with a young drifter and struggles to survive in the north western wilderness. Rated PG. SATURDAY and SUNDAY, 2 p.m., Forum Hall.

ARTS
KANSAS STATE

ARTS AND CRAFT SALE
VENDOR SIGN-UP BEGINS
NOVEMBER 12 IN THE UPC OFFICE.
9 a.m.-4 p.m.

"ENORMOUSLY FUNNY... A DELIGHTFUL COMEDY!"
IT DESERVES TO BE THE SURPRISE HIT OF THE SUMMER!

THE FRESHMAN

Marlon Brando makes Matthew Broderick an offer he can't refuse in The Freshman, an outrageously offbeat comedy that shoots straight for the funny bone and never misses. See it—if you know what's good for you! Rated PG. FRIDAY and SATURDAY, 7 & 9:30 p.m. & SUNDAY, 7 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75 with KSU ID.

$1.50

November 7 & 8

Deliverance

November 7 & 8

There's spine-chilling suspense when four businessmen spend a weekend canoeing down a primitive river with awkward inexperience. The peaceful trip takes an abrupt turn resulting in rape, murder and death. The survivors begin to comprehend the brutal horror and must think of a convincing explanation to conceal the deaths in John Boorman's classic. Stars Jon Voight and Burt Reynolds. Rated R. WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY, 7 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75 with KSU ID.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thursday, November 8, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 53

5/15/91
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
120 W 10th
Topeka KS 66612

With the waiting over, Todd Heitschmidt, graduate student in agricultural economics, learns he is the new student body president Wednesday night at his apartment. Heitschmidt won the run-off election against Jonathan Morris, junior in mathematics, by 174 votes.

Heitschmidt narrowly tops Morris in run-off election for president

Student body presidential candidate Jonathan Morris and some campaign supporters receive word that he has been defeated by Todd Heitschmidt in the run-off election Wednesday night at Morris' home.

By Charlie Gatschet
Collegian Reporter
and

By Alan Wilds
Staff Reporter

Todd Heitschmidt, graduate student in agricultural economics, became student body president Wednesday by 174 votes.

Heitschmidt won the run-off election against Jonathan Morris, junior in mathematics, despite coming in second to Morris in last week's general election.

A small gathering of friends and supporters gathered at Heitschmidt's apartment Wednesday night waiting for the phone to ring. After hearing the results from Student Governing Association at 7:40 p.m., Heitschmidt was elated.

"I feel damn good, surprised and overjoyed," Heitschmidt said. "I knew it would be close, I just wasn't sure which way it would go. I'm definitely pleased."

Heitschmidt, who made up a general-election deficit of nearly 300 votes, said he was lucky to escape a well-organized Morris campaign.

"I think Jonathan ran one of the best campaigns I've seen in a long time," Heitschmidt said. "He's a good guy, and I'm sure he's going to be around and help us out."

Darin Batchman, junior in finance and economics and Heitschmidt campaign supporter, said Heitschmidt's victory may have surprised a few people.

"Not bad for a guy who didn't have a chance," Batchman said. Morris was at his home with about 20 supporters when he received the phone call from the election committee.

Excitement and anticipation
■ See PRESIDENT, Page 8

Both parties see optimistic results in Tuesday's vote

By The Associated Press

Democrats boasted Wednesday of a Sun Belt election breakthrough that could buoy their presidential prospects in 1992. Republicans gained two late upsets to go with a win in California and claimed, "we didn't do too bad" despite mid-term setbacks.

"George Bush is in a slide. There's absolutely no question about it," said Ron Brown, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The White House saw it differently, as a midterm election with something for everyone, and said it could not be interpreted as a referendum on Bush's popularity anyway.

For winners everywhere, the day after brought exultation. "An overpowering moment," said John Engler, elected governor of Michigan in a long, late count over Democratic incumbent James Blanchard.

Democratic Rep. Jim Bates said, trailing narrowly in California, "If the voters decide to make a change, that's what democracy is all about."

About 96 percent of incumbents won re-election.

Senate Democratic Leader George Mitchell and House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, their majorities strengthened in the 102nd Congress, went to work on an agenda for the next two years.

Foley said it would include tax fairness, as well as legislative initiatives for health care and education.

"The debate over the budget was the best thing that happened," said Democratic Party Chairman Ron Brown of the October political free-for-all in which Bush abandoned his no-new-taxes campaign pledge.

Arizona's gubernatorial contest appeared headed for a runoff after neither Democrat Terry Goddard nor Republican Fife Symington amassed 50 percent of the vote in a three-way race.

Two California House races were too close to call, both involving Democratic incumbents. In a third race that was decided during the day, Republicans held onto a GOP seat.

Democrats emerged from the elections with a 56-44 majority in the Senate, a gain of one seat. They were adding nine seats to their House majority for a likely edge of 268-167.

Their major congressional disappointment: GOP Sen. Jesse Helms' bigger-than-expected re-election in North Carolina.

Democrats took seven governorships away from Republicans, including Bush's home state of Texas, where Ann Richards vanquished Clayton Williams, and Florida, where Lawton Chiles ousted Gov. Bob Martinez.

Pete Wilson defeated Dianne Feinstein to keep California in Republican hands. And the GOP took away five statehouses from the Democrats, including Ohio and Michael Dukakis' Massachusetts. Engler's win was an upset, and Arne Carlson won Minnesota in a race so close it wasn't called until well after dawn.

With independents Lowell Weicker and Wally Hickel winning in Connecticut and Alaska, Democrats held 28 governorships for sure and the Republicans 19. If the GOP wins Arizona, where its candidate was leading narrowly but heading for the runoff, that would mean a loss of one for each party.

Both sides claimed gains in the race to control the redistricting of House seats before 1992. Democrats emerged with complete control over reapportionment in Texas and Florida, which together will gain seven seats, and in 15 other states. Republicans have outright control in three states, and Wilson's victory gave them a share of the power with the Democratic legislature in California, which gains seven seats.

"You win some and you lose some," shrugged Bush spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, and he and party spokesman Charles Black said Republicans beat the historical averages for midterm losses by the party in the White House.

Bush "campaigned hard in Texas and lost, campaigned hard in California and won," Fitzwater added, speaking of two key gubernatorial races.

But Brown chortled that Bush campaigned heavily for 18 candidates and 14 of them lost. Asked why the Democrats lost California, he replied, "George Bush didn't stay long enough."

Outgoing Ohio Gov. Richard Celeste tried to blame Democratic gubernatorial losses in New England and the industrial Midwest on Republican economic policies. "Democrats may be paying a price for the weakening of the national economy," he said. "It would be ironic if those Democrats who have been carrying the burden of Republican parties for the last decade" would pay the price for a recession.

Fitzwater said Bush was looking forward to working with the new, Democratic majorities in Congress, but also predicted the election results would not affect the president's ability to sustain any vetoes.

"It means the veto will continue to be a legislative strategy tool. The president's been very successful in that regard, upholding some 16 vetoes in his first two years," he said.

Gunman fires on Soviet march Gorbachev unharmed as Revolution Day leads to protests

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Mikhail Gorbachev sought political harmony by joining a Revolution Day march Wednesday, but the mood was broken when a man brandishing a hunting rifle fired two shots in Red Square before he was hauled off.

A group of plainclothesmen wrestled with the gunman, who shot in the air and into the ground before he was carried away. No one was reported hurt, and the chairman of the KGB security police indicated the man was deranged.

Besides the traditional military parade in Red Square, hard-line Communists and radical reformers marched in Moscow and other Soviet cities shouting slogans and carrying banners critical of Gorbachev's moderate reforms.

Gorbachev, struggling to forge a mainstream consensus in an increasingly polarized society, said his reforms were understood and accepted by the people.

"We all now stand a real chance to transform our society into a normal, healthy, just and ultimately prosperous society through the second great revolution," Gorbachev proclaimed from atop Lenin's Mausoleum on the 73rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Gray skies and snow flurries cast a somber mood as the Soviet armed forces sent 8,500 and 250 armored vehicles thundering across the cobblestones of Red Square.

For the first time, the Soviets showed off a mobile SS-25 intercontinental ballistic missile capable of hurling a nuclear warhead 6,300 miles. The system has been deployed since 1985.

The theme was peace, however, and Gorbachev joined his political foes, Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin and Moscow Mayor Gavril Popov, in leaving the mausoleum and joining a civilian march that began after the military parade.

It was the first time Soviet leaders actually walked in the march, the state news agency Tass reported.

The three men, along with Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov, Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov and others laid red flowers at Lenin's tomb.

The mood was broken by the markedly conservative tone of the subsequent civilian marchers consisting of an estimated 100,000 people organized by Moscow Communist Party chief Yuri Prokofiev.

Some carried portraits of dictator Josef V. Stalin, whom Gorbachev scorned in his remarks. Two others carried photographs of naked women, suggesting variously that current leaders had ravished or neglected the country.

About four minutes after Gorbachev went back on top of the Lenin mausoleum, two shots were heard above the marching music.

Plainclothes police, hundreds of whom line Red Square during such public events, apparently grabbed the man as he leveled a sawed-off hunting rifle toward the mausoleum about 80 yards away, according to Tass.

“We all now stand a real chance to transform our society into a normal, healthy, just and ultimately prosperous society through the second great revolution.”

—Mikhail Gorbachev

One officer shoved the man's arms up as one shot went off, then others swarmed around and forced the barrel toward the ground as the second shot was fired, said Rafik Nishanov, a parliamentary leader who was on the mausoleum.

More than a dozen plainclothesmen surrounded the 38-year-old Leningrad resident and carried him into the adjacent GUM Department store, as seen in a tape released by the Tass video unit.

KGB Chairman Vladimir Kryuchkov, asked at a Kremlin reception whether the man was sane, replied: "Not in our opinion ... but we are investigating."

The national evening television newscast "Vremya" broadcast videotape of the man being taken off by plainclothes security.

After the official demonstration, Yeltsin addressed about 10,000 protesters who gathered near Communist Party headquarters, marched past the KGB and ended up near the home of the late physicist Andrei Sakharov, the Nobel Peace laureate.

Yeltsin and Popov also joined another more radical counterdemonstration that entered Red Square two hours after Gorbachev and other leaders left.

Those demonstrators demanded Gorbachev resign.

"The country is on the verge of a civil war," said one of the organizers, Telman Gdlyan. He also compared the government with a fascist regime. Tass said his remarks insulted the Soviet president.

Students use games to understand math

By Candace Plett
Collegian Reporter

Games for elementary students may change negative views of mathematics into enthusiasm.

The Hubbard Mathematics Project, designed and implemented by the College of Education, is an effort to interest elementary and junior high school students in math through board games and computer software, said John Dalida, assistant professor of secondary education.

The games approach math problems in a unique way, said Dalida, director of the project.

"In these games, you start out with an answer. We call it a goal," he said. "Then you are given numbers and arithmetic symbols as resources. You have to use those in forming an equation that will arrive at the goal. And you can use parentheses."

He said the games involve reasoning and thought rather than memorization.

"We want to show that not every problem has a solution," Dalida said. "That's something we don't teach kids in school."

He said the games also encourage students to think innovatively and creatively.

"This kind of activity is least likely to be replaced by technology," he said.

Dalida said he hopes the math games will become as popular as athletics. He said that math competition may be even more popular because everyone gets involved.

"Everybody can participate. There are no benchwarmers. Even teachers, principals and bus drivers at these contests have to know how to play the games," Dalida said.

"High school athletics, nationally, draw millions of participants and enthusiasm is plentiful," said Michael Holen, dean of education, in a University press release. "Our objective is to create a parallel academic competition which will generate similar enthusiasm and participation."

State regional contests at selected centers encourage schools to bring as many participants as they can. So far, competitions have involved as many as 54 students.

"This is not a contest for the student who is already turned on

■ See MATH, Page 8

BRIEFLY

World

Riots break out in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Hundreds of supporters of slain Rabbi Meir Kahane rampaged through Jerusalem on Wednesday, shouting "Death to Arabs" as the anti-Arab crusader was buried.

Kahane, 58, was shot to death Monday by an Arab-American in New York.

The rioters attacked Arabs, smashed shop windows and clashed with police after breaking away from a funeral procession of thousands of Israelis, some of whom toled assault weapons.

Police reported four Palestinians and two policemen were injured, and hospital officials said two of the Arab victims were stabbed. Israel radio said many more Arabs were injured in beatings. Jerusalem police said they arrested 13 rioters.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir appealed for restraint, saying in a statement on Israel radio that those harming security and public order harm Israel and assist the country's enemies.

Deadline set for leaving Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Elias Hrawi's government on Wednesday set a 10-day deadline for Christian and Moslem militias to withdraw from Beirut so that the city can be reunited as a demilitarized zone.

Unifying the war-battered capital, divided into Christian and Moslem sectors since April 1975, is a key element in an Arab League-brokered peace plan to end Lebanon's protracted civil war.

A statement issued after a two-hour Cabinet meeting said the final stage of creating a demilitarized Greater Beirut will begin on Saturday and is scheduled for completion Nov. 19.

Baker seeks Soviet support

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State James Baker III turned to the Soviet Union on Wednesday to support sterner measures against Iraq as the Bush administration acknowledged a worldwide economic boycott was inadequate to force Saddam Hussein's troops out of Kuwait.

At the top of Baker's agenda is determining if President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who has strongly urged that a diplomatic solution to the crisis be sought, would support a U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force.

Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen told Baker on Tuesday in Cairo that Beijing would not block such a resolution. However, the Chinese minister stressed his government's preference for a political settlement.

Nation

More teen women having sex

NEW YORK (AP) — The proportion of teen-age women who are sexually active rose significantly in the 1980s, with the biggest increase among whites and in higher income families, a study released Wednesday showed.

The study by the Alan Guttmacher Institute, a New York-based group that specializes in reproductive issues, also found that the overall pregnancy rate among teen-age women, aged 15 to 19, changed little because those who were having sex used contraceptives more effectively.

Nevertheless, one in every five teen-agers exposed to the possibility of pregnancy in 1988 did not use any form of birth control; among poor teen-agers, one in four did not, the study said.

One-third of all young women are still unprotected from pregnancy the first time they have sex, it added.

Miami cult leader arrested

MIAMI (AP) — The powerful leader of a black sect was arrested Wednesday and charged with directing the slayings of 14 people, including "white devils" who were slain in initiation rites and whose ears were cut off.

A federal grand jury here indicted Yahweh ben Yahweh — "God, son of God" in Hebrew — and 16 followers of his secretive Miami-based Yahweh cult for allegedly using murder, fire bombings and extortion to build a business empire and keep followers in line.

"Any dissenter was subject to extreme violence, including murder, to maintain control of the organization," said U.S. Attorney Dexter Lehtinen. The cult also used random violence as a ritual membership initiation rite, he said.

Yahweh, 55, born Hulon Mitchell Jr., regulated all aspects of his white-robed followers' lives, including when and how they had sex, sometimes ordering women followers to his own bed, Lehtinen said.

FDA bans 223 ingredients

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has banned 223 ingredients in over-the-counter drugs, saying manufacturers had offered no proof they were effective for problems they were supposed to treat.

The ingredients ranged from pine tar in dandruff fighters through dehydrated garlic in digestive aids to aspirin in medications for external use, it was announced Wednesday.

The FDA did not ban the ingredients entirely, just in certain uses. For example, aspirin may still be used in products for pain relief taken internally, because it has been shown to be effective pain reliever.

Photos show Venus' lava past

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Magellan spacecraft's pictures of Venus suggest immense volcanic eruptions once spewed gargantuan floods of lava that may have deluged more than half the planet, a NASA scientist said Wednesday.

It seems to have happened all at once in the past, maybe 400 million years ago as molten rock erupted from numerous cracks, called vents, on the Venusian surface, said geologist Steve Saunders, Magellan's chief scientist at Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The other possibility is that a series of somewhat smaller lava floods — each covering hundreds of thousands of square miles — inundated various parts of Venus during different times, he added.

Region

K.C. fire kills 2, injures 4

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A blaze broke out in the kitchen of a home Wednesday, killing an elderly woman and her great-granddaughter and injuring four others, including a fireman.

The fire, which started at 6:50 a.m., left $20,000 in damage at the two-story house on Quindaro Boulevard. Firefighters had to close off the street to battle the blaze.

Inez Burks, 80, and her great-granddaughter, Tiffany Shana Green, 4, died of smoke inhalation and burns, said Wyandotte County Coroner Dr. Allen Hancock.

Officials said the fire apparently started in the kitchen, and two burners on the stove were found in the "on" position. Jennette Green, who rented the house, told authorities there were no smoke detectors in the building.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Announcements

■ Center for Basic Cancer Research deadline for research award applications is Dec. 10. Applications are available in Ackert 234.

8 Thursday

■ PRIMO will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 202.

■ Women and Men Against Rape will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 203.

■ Engineering Ambassador Executives will meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 173. All engineering ambassadors will meet at 7 p.m. in Durland 173.

■ KSU Sailing Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

■ K-State Table Tennis Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Ecumenical Campus Ministries building on Denison Avenue.

■ K-State Players will present Amadeus at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

■ Talking Hands will meet at 4 p.m. in Union StatEROOMS 1 and 2. Anyone interested in sign language interpretation is welcome to attend.

■ Minority Assembly of Students in Health will meet at 5:30 p.m. at the International Student Center.

■ SADD will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Parachute Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 204. The parachute club packing class will meet from 5 to 7 p.m. at the second-floor lobby of the Union.

■ Mechanical Engineering Freshman/Sophomore Council will meet at 8 p.m. in Durland 141.

■ Mechanical Engineering Open House meeting will be at 8:30 p.m. in Durland 141.

■ Combined Campus Christian Student Organizations will have a rally at 8 p.m. in Danforth and All Faiths chapels. The groups will meet at 10:30 p.m. in the Manhattan Christian College Chapel for a service.

■ Golden Key National Honor Society will have an officer-information meeting at 6:30 p.m. in Union 209.

■ Multicultural Student Council will meet from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. in Union 203.

■ KSU Wildlife Society will meet to discuss careers in biology at 7 p.m. in Ackert 221.

■ KSU Rodeo Club Meeting will be at 7 p.m. in Weber 146.

■ Alpha Kappa Psi will have nominations for elections at a meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, partly cloudy and warmer. High near 50. Southwest wind 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, mostly clear with the low around 30. Friday, mostly sunny with the high in the lower 50s.

Our 20th Anniversary Sale
November 7-11

2 1/2¢
Copies

99¢ Oversize Copies
99¢ Color Copies

kinko's
the copy center

2 1/2¢ price is for black & white, 8 1/2 x 11, autographed copies on 20# bond.
99¢ copies are 8 1/2 x 11, Canon laser copies. 99¢ Oversize copies up to 24" x 36".

OUR SPECIALTY CHEESES ARE BACK IN STOCK!

Medium Aged Yellow Cheddar
by the full or half block
$2.47/lb.—N.D.

And ...

Swedish Fontina—$4.65/lb.	English Cheshire—$4.33/lb.
14 oz. mini Brie w/herbs—$5.60	Cracked Pepper Brie—$8.72/lb. or $15.44/ 2 lb. wheel
Costswald—$5.06/lb.	English Derby Sage—$7.19/lb.

And check out our many other varieties in stock

811 Colorado People's Grocery Co-Op 539-4811

Campbell's

Timeless Gifts For All Seasons

China • Crystal • Silver • Collectibles • Picture Frames
Jewelry • Music Boxes • Linens

BRIDAL GIFT REGISTRY
Downtown • Fifth and Poyntz Avenue • (913) 776-9067
Sun. 1-5 • Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30 • Thurs. till 8

BLUE RIVER PUB
THURS.
Elite Ladies Strippers
$2 Pitchers
FRI.
FAST 4WARD
SAT.
RIF-RAF
DRINK SPECIALS!

Tonight Live:
The Wild
Ones

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, USA

MEN'S SILK BOXERS
SOLIDS & PRINTS

GIFTS WRAPPED FREE

Patricia's

UNDERCOVER

Lingerie

1224 Moro

AGGIEVILLE

MC, Visa, Layaway

ONE HOUR
MOTOPHOTO

Photo Processing At Its Best
40% off
Processing
(35 mm, 110, 126, Disc, C-41)
Expires Dec. 15, 1990
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Not valid with any other promotion

1134 Garden Way
Across from Westloop

C-29
776-9030

November
PORTRAIT Special

Sitting and 8 Original Proofs
Only! $14.95

Proofs are available for viewing in just One Hour!
Appointments are appreciated.

ONE HOUR
MOTOPHOTO PORTRAIT STUDIO
1134 Gardenway Manhattan 913 776-9030

College of Education gets grant

Project to train elementary school teachers for 21st century

By Mary Skinner
Collegian Reporter

The National Science Foundation recently approved funding for a five-year, $1.67 million grant for an experimental program involving the K-State College of Education and the Manhattan-Ogden public schools.

The grant will fund development, field testing and implementation of concept teaching, teaching without relying on textbooks, in elementary education courses at K-State, said Carol Borchers, staff assistant for secondary education.

"This project is a focused, interdisciplinary effort to prepare elementary school instructional leaders for the 21st century," said Emmett Wright, associate dean of the College of Education and project director.

"As a thorough understanding of science, mathematics, and technology becomes increasingly valuable for all citizens, there is a critical need for educators that possess the insights and skills for program leadership in these areas. Hopefully, our project will contribute significantly to this pool of outstanding elementary teachers," he said.

Gail Shroyer, associate director of the Center for Science Education and project coordinator, said the understanding of mathematics, science and technology comes from using it to find out more about our world.

Preparation of future teachers will come from the combined effort of the faculty in the College of Education, College of Arts and Sciences and the local school district, Borchers said.

"The science departments in the College of Arts and Sciences have always been committed to improving the understanding of science and increasing the interest in science," said Dean Zollman, professor of physics and co-director of the project.

"Our involvement in this project provides an opportunity to increase the level of understanding for future teachers and, in the long run, improve the scientific literacy of elementary school children," Zollman said.

This year is the planning year of the project, Shroyer said. This year the courses will be developed.

"The first cycle of students entering the program will be next year," she said.

About 25 students will be selected to enter the first year of the program. Students, preferably freshmen and sophomores, will go through an application process to determine their interest in math and science and their ability to complete the program, Borchers said.

The program is designed to follow the students through their years of college and into their first year of teaching to see if the experimental concepts better prepare the teachers for elementary classrooms.

The proposed program will include 27 credits of science, mathematics and technology that are specially designed for elementary teachers. It will also include eight credits of educational methodology to be combined and taught with the content courses.

"We are trying to devise courses that will meet the needs of the education students," Shroyer said. "The more courses we offer, the better preparation of teachers we will have."

Additional field experience in local classrooms for elementary education students will enable them to experiment hands-on with the new concepts they are learning before they have to do their student teaching.

Twenty-five master teachers and three clinical instructors will be selected from Amanda Arnold, Lee and Woodrow Wilson schools this fall. These teachers will help supervise the field experiences while serving on planning teams to help develop the new courses.

The College of Education received the grant after a year of revisions to the original proposal. The money came from special funds of the National Science Foundation. Only three or four of these grants are approved each year, Shroyer said.

Site on Mississippi once thriving city

By Dana Thomson
Collegian Reporter

Across from the Mississippi River, far from the hustle and crowded streets of modern St. Louis, stands an archeological site where more than 500 years ago lived a thriving American Indian community.

Patricia O'Brien, professor in anthropology and one of this year's Distinguished Graduate Faculty Member Award recipients, said she believes this site was once the capital of an ancient American Indian state.

O'Brien spoke Wednesday in the K-State Union Little Theatre about the Cahokia archeological site and its significance to American Indian culture.

The Cahokia archeological site is an important part of today's anthropology because large areas can be dug in it at one time, she said. The site is about 5.2 square miles with evidence of a farming community extending for 100 kilometers.

"An advantage of the Cahokia site is we can expose large tracts of the site because the depth is only three meters," O'Brien said.

She stressed that the American Indians that lived on the Cahokia site were not the stereotypical American Indians known today.

"We have an image of the American Indian riding around on horses, chasing buffalo and living in tepees," O'Brien said.

She estimated the population at the site was at least 20,000 and possibly 40,000. She said she believes this proves it was a state.

Another factor in proving the site to be a state was the discovery of weapons made of flint and bone and pottery of excellent quality, she said.

The material for these items was brought from as far away as 100 kilometers, O'Brien said.

The society was structured in a hierarchy, she said. A political elite controlled all aspects of the government, including the life and death of the citizens.

Within one of the mounds were found 260 bodies. One of these rested on a gown sown of shells and appeared to be the body of royalty. Eleven other bodies were preserved with salt and then buried with the honored person. O'Brien said these 11 were probably relatives of the honored person.

The other 249 bodies were sacrificed for the honored, O'Brien said.

"We are pretty sure that the Middle Mississippian traditions are carried by the Cherokee," O'Brien said.

Before beginning study on the Plains Indians, O'Brien traced the migration of the sweet potato. She is currently editor of the "Plains Anthropologist" and is also the Sigma Xi Research Award recipient.

O'Brien said she used the $1,500 from the Distinguished Faculty Award to travel in Missouri, Illinois and Iowa.

Debate team expects top ranking in national poll after strong month

By The Collegian Staff

Those competing against K-State's debate team are up against a national powerhouse.

The Cross Examination Debate Association ranked K-State 36th nationally last month.

Every month the association provides a ranking system that lists the top 50 schools out of 300 colleges and universities that belong to the organization.

"When the new rankings come out next week, I'm pretty sure we will be ranked first," said Michael Korcok, assistant coach.

Korcok said the debate squad has a good chance for the top ranking after their performance at the prestigious Emory University tournament on Sept. 29 through Oct. 2.

At the tournament, K-State entered three teams. By the end of the tournament, the team of Richard McCollum, junior in speech, and David Fillippi, senior in speech, and the team of Martin Horn, junior in speech, and Dan Molden, senior in speech, had tied for first in the open division.

"To have both teams in the finals is extremely rare in collegiate debate," Korcok said. "That has never happened at the Emory University tournament."

In the junior varsity division, the team of K.J. Wall, freshman in speech, and Jason Klein, sophomore in history, won first place to complete the sweep for K-State. Wall and Klein have won all three tournaments they have competed at in the junior varsity division.

K-State almost duplicated their performance at the Emory University tournament when they placed two teams in the semifinals Oct. 20-22 at the Virginia Craig Invitational at Southwest Missouri State University.

In the open division, the team of McCollum and Fillippi placed second and Horn and Molden finished third.

The junior varsity division was won by the K-State team of Steve Harris, sophomore in pre-professional business administration, and Shawn Riffel, freshman in political science. Riffel won second-place speaker honors last year at the High School National Championships.

K-State has already defeated UCLA, last year's national champion, and has had success against four-time national champion Southern Illinois University and other powerhouses including Macalester (Minn.) College and Central State University (Edmond, Okla.), Korcok said.

Because of this success, Korcok said Gonzaga University has invited two teams to compete against the top 10 individual teams to compete in its tournament.

"Richard and David are the most successful team right now, but Martin and Dan, by anyone's account in the debate world, are among the top five teams in the nation," Korcok said.

The debate squad's success has been able to overshadow the structural changes that have taken place in the past year.

First-year coach Susan Stanfield said she is optimistic about her team's chances of improving on last year's number two national ranking.

With the groundwork laid by Ed Schiappa, former coach in four years brought the squad from 40th nationally to second, the transition should be smooth for Stanfield and her staff.

"The progression has been fairly recent," said Korcok, who is the only returning staff member. "We hope it continues so we can take first this year."

The debate squad will travel to Edmond, Okla., to compete in the Central State University tournament Nov. 9-11. K-State will take seven teams.

"I expect to do quite well," Stanfield said. "Some of the best competition of this semester will be there, and it's the largest tournament of this semester."

Westloop Shopping Center's HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE
Sun., Nov. 11, Noon-5 p.m.
Register To Win A $500 Shopping Spree At Participating Merchants, Sunday Only

Treat Yourself To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

776-5577 1800 Claffin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE
"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Joyce's Hair Tamers
WARM & GENTLE PERM....$43
regular $48
QUANTUM PERM.....$35
regular $38
BIO-LAGE.....$40
regular $50
MEN'S PERMS.....$30
All perms include cut & style
Haircuts
Gals $12 Guys $8.50 Kids $6.50
All cuts include shampoo & style
2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Call: 539-TAME

JUNGLE TALK
A new look for evening? Consider a clip-on ponytail or other options in hair add-ons.
Red's the favorite color for nail polish—but have you tried the new metallics paired with color?
Our expert manicurists know how to make your hands look terrific.

Manhattan Civic Theatre presents

Nunsense
by Dan Goggin
Directed by Edith Ramech

An award-winning Off-Broadway smash hit.

November 9 - 8 p.m.
November 10 - 8 p.m.
November 11 - 2 p.m.
and
November 16 - 8 p.m.
November 17 - 8 p.m.
November 18 - 2 p.m.

Wareham Opera House ~ 410 Poyntz
537-8646

Need money for college?

ASK ABOUT STUDENT LOANS

CITIZENS BANK & TRUST CO.
Sixth & Humboldt
Manhattan, KS 66502
776-9400

Lender Code #804581
EMPRISE BANK Originator
Member FDIC

TONIGHT!

.99 PITCHERS
.75 LONGNECKS
.50 WELLS
.25 KAMIS

BAY STREET AND THE PIT

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HUNAM EXPRESS
1116 MORO
537-0886

This coupon good for
Kung Pae Chicken $2.50
not good with any other special, promo, delivery.
Free Delivery with min. $9 order
Open 11 a.m.-1 a.m.
Expires 11/14/90

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND

THRIFTY THURSDAY

PYRAMID PIZZA rolls back the prices
Only $3.49 for a small pizza (one topping)
(additional toppings are 75¢ each)

COUPON
"THRIFTY THURSDAY"
$3.49 for a Small One-topping Pizza
Good Every Thursday
"We Pile It On!"

Carryout/Dine In Only
539-4888
12th & Moro
Aggieville, USA

PYRAMID PIZZA

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

S&L scandal proves enough is enough

"They will steal the very teeth out of your mouth as you walk through the streets. I know it from experience." William Arabin (1773-1841) British judge referring to the people of Uxbridge.

One of my favorite movies is the Frank Capra classic "It's a Wonderful Life," starring Jimmy Stewart, Donna Reed, Lionel Barrymore and a host of great actors from the Golden Age of movies. Each year, this movie is shown so many times during the Christmas season that I find it hard to believe there is anyone who has not seen it.

You will recall it is about a man, George Bailey, who, after an unfortunate series of events leads to the misplacement of $8,000 from his business, the Bailey Bros. Building and Loan Assoc., decides to commit suicide by jumping off a bridge into the icy waters of a river so his wife can collect his life insurance and pay the debt. Yea, verily, lo and behold, George's guardian angel, Clarence, appears and jumps into the river, forcing kind-hearted George to save Clarence's life.

While drying out in the bridge watchman's cabin, George mumbles under his breath that it would have been better if he had never been born, to which Clarence responds by granting George his wish. The rest of the movie then deals with the thought-provoking scenario of what the little town of Bedford Falls and the world would have been like without one George Bailey having ever existed.

It is an absolutely delightful movie despite the religious blarney of Christmas and guardian angels.

However, the largest scandal in U.S. history, the still unraveling, ongoing Savings and Loan Crisis, which came before the Gulf Crisis and the Budget Crisis but after the Drug Crisis, which came after the AIDS Crisis, which came after the Hostage Crisis: Part II, which came after the Hostage Crisis: Part I, which came after the Watergate Crisis, which came after a botched breast implant operation that resulted in Dolly Parton losing sight (of her feet that is) has significantly altered the complexion of the movie "It's a Wonderful Life," for me.

I will never be able to watch this movie again without being reminded of the S & L bollix bequeathed to this country in the form of increased deposit insurance and thrift deregulation by former President Jimmy Carter and his predecessor Ronald Reagan, one of the biggest boons ever elected to the U.S. presidency. Thanks to legislation signed by these two, we will be paying for this bureaucratic bungle for the rest of this century and nearly half the next to the tune of $2,000 for every man, woman and child in the U.S. — and the cost is still climbing.

By comparison, the Watergate crisis special prosecution budget was a mere $8 million. Even when you add in the cost of imprisoning the 50 or so Watergate figures who were convicted, it appears Watergate still did not cost more than $1 per American. And even when you factor in inflation, the prosecution tab seems rather paltry next to the $2.5 billion ($10 per American) cost of the collapse of a single thrift, Lincoln Savings and Loan, or the $1 billion taxpayer tab for the collapse of the Silverado savings and loan.

Brad Seabourn

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

The stigma of gross negligence, scandal and outright theft simply are not what they used to be — nor are the penalties. Sen. Joseph Biden, D-DeL., cited FBI statistics last summer showing that the average S & L offender in 1989 received a sentence of 1.9 years, while the average bank robber was sentenced to 9.4 years.

With the cost of the S & L debacle approaching $500 billion, there should be a lot of people jumping off bridges. There should be a lot of people demanding a lot of people jump off bridges. In any other country, irate citizens would be throwing these thieving bums off bridges.

This mess is not entirely Carter and Reagan's fault. There is enough blame to go around for everybody, and most of them are of the same worthless tribe that voted themselves a pay raise while bemoaning the fact they had to raise taxes and cut spending to pay for it.

The biggest standouts are four legislators who, according to an eyewitness, met during a temporary congressional adjournment in 1980 and decided to up the ceiling on deposit insurance from $40,000 to $100,000. Not long after, Carter signed it into law. The notables are three Democrats, Sens. William Proxmire, Alan Cranston, and House Banking Committee Chairman Rep. Fernand St. Germain; and one Republican, Sen. Jake Garn.

Funny thing, though. Would you believe that the two people pushing the hardest for raising the ceiling, Cranston and St. Germain, were also two of the largest recipients of S & L campaign donations? A recent Common Cause report says Cranston and St. Germain received $144,000 each in the 1980's from S & L interests. It doesn't take a pocket calculator to figure these yahoos were in cahoots with a few thrifts.

The net result of increased deposit insurance and deregulation was, of course, that it encouraged Wall Street money brokers, unscrupulous speculators and swindlers (is that a redundancy reiterated?) to slap down $100,000 chunks of loose change with whatever thrift in town was offering the highest interest rate. What was there to lose, when Joe Taxpayer agreed to guarantee the safety of the deposit?

And of course, the S & L offering the highest interest was the S & L in the deepest doo-doo, the S & L that needed cash to pay off the bad investments in junk bonds, fast-food restaurants and amusement parks they had previously been denied under the old banking regulations.

In 1989 alone there were $14.4 billion in bad loan losses, compared with $3.7 billion in 1982. Insurance costs totaled $67.2 billion in 1989, almost all of that to cover losses at more than 400 failed savings and loans and banks.

On August 9, 1989, President Bush signed a law creating the Resolution Trust Corporation, giving it $50 billion to handle the S & L bailout. So far, the corporation has closed or sold 211 insolvent thrifts and plans to deal with 126 more this year. That would leave it still running 115 collapsed thrifts. Moreover, over the next two years, 230 to 550 of the remaining 2,430 privately-run S & L's are expected to fail. William Seidman, chairman of the RTC, has asked for $100 billion for bailouts of S & L's next year.

I say enough is enough. No more bailouts. Use whatever money is necessary, for however long it takes, to track down every last thieving miscreant involved with the S & L scandal and see that justice is served — which would probably involve sending half of Congress, as well as George, Neil and Jeb Bush to jail. Put a bounty on these bums — give accountants and bank examiners a percentage of the money recovered. Maybe even throw one or two off a bridge.

You know, it really would have been better if Bedford Falls were Pottersville and the Bailey Bros. Building and Loan Assoc. had never existed.

Clarence? Where's a guardian angel when you need one?

EDITORIALS

Administration needs student, faculty input

The University administration submitted to the rage of the student body and faculty Tuesday and shelved its reorganization proposal. President Jon Wefald said the proposal to cut the colleges of Human Ecology and Architecture and Design was dumb.

While the plan to cut two colleges from the University was questioned by thousands of students through protests and rallies, the dumbest action by the administration was the manner in which the reorganization proposal was developed.

Through the secrecy of high-level, closed-door conferences, Wefald and Provost James Coffman created an atmosphere of anxiety and apprehension on campus. Students in the two colleges feared their diplomas could be made worthless, and they wondered if they should transfer to another university.

Human ecology and architecture faculty members feared they wouldn't be reassigned to another college, and they wondered if their next paycheck might be the last.

Students and faculty members in other colleges feared they could be the next to fall under the administration's microscope. Rumors flew, becoming uglier each time told.

And everyone questioned the future of the University.

The reorganization proposal has been the first bungling error of the Wefald administration. It has cost Wefald respect and trust in his role as the University leader.

As the administration prepares to pick up the pieces and launch another reorganization effort, it should concentrate on conducting discussions with faculty members and college deans in an open forum.

The students and faculty members of the University have shown they will not allow a reorganization plan to be established without their input. It is that input upon which the next proposal should be based.

LETTERS

Value freedoms

Editor,

In response to the letter to the editor in the Nov. 7 Collegian: Kip Dunn and Andy Vrana, be grateful that you live in a land so free that you can even burn the flag.

Oh, and Dunn, since you claim your major is criminal justice, you need to take a class on Constitutional law so you too can understand freedom.

Alicia L. Potat
junior in political science, women's studies and prelaw

Diversity addressed

Editor,

The K-State administration has staked leadership claims on campus issues relating to diversity. We can view diversity at the University on two levels: diversity in principle and diversity in practice.

Diversity in principle can be addressed by achieving appropriate numbers in demographic reports and by ensuring an appropriate mix of faces in public forums and media events. Diversity in principle is only marginally acceptable and is often offensive.

Diversity in practice requires that those numbers and faces be regarded as living, thinking and indispensable family members. Diversity in practice would make it inconceivable that a University reorganization proposal could be considered or drafted in the absence of vital family members.

The secrecy surrounding the proposal has obscured the identities of the various architects of the reorganization proposal. Logic, however, and the rumor mill both strongly indicate that no women or members of minority groups served influential roles during the formulation of the reorganization proposal.

Is this a case of "Do as I say, not as I do"? Even diversity in principle is not apparent, let alone diversity in practice.

Mary Wade instructor of speech

Collegian biased

Editor,

Once again, it is time for a non-journalism major to take issue with the ethics of the editorial board. I believe that publishing an unsigned editorial endorsing a candidate for the office of student body president violates the trust placed in the Collegian by the student body.

When a newspaper such as the Wichita Eagle or Topeka Capital-Journal endorses a candidate, they do so at the behest of the publisher — a person who is at least a part-owner of the paper. At issue, then, is the ownership of the Collegian. A significant amount of operating funding comes from student fees, according to information given to the Student Government Association by Student Publications. Personally, I feel that the paper is most likely student-owned. Thus, unless a majority of the student body went to the editorial board and asked them to endorse a candidate, the board overstepped its bounds.

Also, given that the Collegian is the only source of news, aside from TV coverage of national and state events, for many students, when they read the undeniably biased coverage given to the race, they are not allowed the opportunity to decide for themselves how to vote based on facts. This makes the purveyors of that information responsible for the subversion of the democratic process, a charge which will no doubt be deemed as false and malicious.

At best, the coverage of this year's elections was tainted with bias. At worst, it was incredibly one-sided and unethical. It would behoove future Collegian staffers to keep this campaign in mind as an example of what not to do.

Beth Schwindt
sophomore in social sciences and prelaw

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR.....Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR.....Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR.....Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN.....Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS.....Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR.....Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR.....Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR.....Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR.....Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR.....David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS.....Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR.....Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR.....Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF.....Mark Schmeiner
COPY EDITORS.....Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER.....Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS.....Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hatjithimothedias, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack, Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer, Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt, Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER.....Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER.....Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER.....Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR-SHEET MANAGER.....Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES.....Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allison Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

GRAPHIC ARTIST.....
GRAPHIC ARTIST/PHOTOGRAPHER.....

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring).....$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring).....$54
Summer Session.....$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer).....$60

To charge by VISA or MasterCard, call (913) 532-6555.

Send orders and address changes to Student Publications, Kedzie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Spikers drop match to KU

Loss in 4 games to Jayhawks on road tough one to swallow for Wildcats

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

LAWRENCE — The K-State volleyball squad ran into trouble with the Kansas defense Wednesday night, as the 'Cats dropped the match 3-1 in Allen Field House.

The Jayhawks all but wrapped up a bid to the Big Eight postseason tournament with the win, while closing the door on the Wildcats, 15-5, 13-15, 15-7, 15-7.

Kansas improved to 5-5 in the conference and K-State fell to 2-7.

The 'Cats couldn't escape the KU dig in the first game of the match, as they hit .030 to Kansas' .367.

"I thought their defense was the dominant feature," said K-State coach Scott Nelson. "I don't want to put all the blame on our team, in fairness to our players. They brought up balls that we had put away and created those opportunities. That's why KU is one of the top teams in the country (on defense)."

"In the first game, I thought we were really out of sync. We knew coming in that we had to go with power, but immediately we were tipping the ball and they were transitioning them for points."

The 'Cats fought off an early lead by the 'Hawks, as well as a late surge, to get themselves back into the match with a win in the second game.

"I thought we got back to more of our basics — first-ball offense and tougher serving — which created some opportunities for us," Nelson said. "We made some defensive adjustments in the backcourt, which limited some of their success that they were having in the first game."

Kansas overcame those adjustments to win the next two games, and 66 They brought up balls that we had put away and created those opportunities.

—Scott Nelson
volleyball coach

99 sweep the series with the Wildcats for the second-straight year.

"In the fourth game, we started to do some things which were uncharacteristic for our system," Nelson said. "We had several opportunities, and that's what you work for in your offense, and we didn't take advantage of them."

The 'Cats only hit .120 for the match, led by middle hitter Valery Roberts' 14 kills and .258 hitting percentage. Outside hitter Rhonda Hughes led the defensive attack with 18 digs.

Outside hitter Kris Kleinschmidt paced the Jayhawks' offense with a .321 hitting percentage, while outside hitter Adrian Powell hit .290 with 15 kills.

K-State will host the top conference team, Nebraska, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Ahearn Field House.

Mike Welchans/File

Todd Trask has emerged in the season's last several meets as a leader for the men's cross country team. Trask has become known around the country for his innovative hairstyles, used to pump up teammates before big meets. He'll unveil a new one at District V competition.

Hair used as motivator

Trask's hairstyles designed to pump up fellow harriers

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

As Andre Agassi says in a recently released camera commercial, "Image is everything."

Ditto that thought for Todd Trask, a newcomer to K-State's men's cross country program.

Trask's emphasis on image is through the style of his hair, which Friday will be undergoing its third change before K-State competes in the district championships this weekend. Embedded in the stubble, circling from left to right around his head, will be the letters KSU.

"Last year, I did it at the state jumo meet in California. I put 'SR' in my head, and everybody on the team ran better than they had," Trask said. "I figured it would get the guys riled up, and everybody seemed pretty excited about it. They wanted me to do it for conference, but I told them I would do it for districts because I thought districts was a little more important than conference — it gives us our berth to nationals."

The shaving ritual began at K-State at the beginning of the cross country season when Trask shaved the sides of his head. It carried through until the Big Eight Championships, and the need arose to have a small trim that would force the hair on top of his head to stand straight up.

"It psyches me up a little. It is just a different attitude," Trask said. "It lets people know where I am from, and it feels like I have more pride in the school. When people look at me, they see 'KSU.'"

Trask is a native of Healdsburg, Calif. He spent three years at Santa Rosa Junior College, where he was third in the California State Junior College meet as a freshman, and the junior college state cross country champion in 1988.

Trask is now being reactivated in cross country after having to sit out a year at Santa Rosa. Trask took no time returning to form in cross country and has moved into the No. 1 position for K-State the past two meets, including a fifth-place Big Eight finish.

"It was weird at first, hard to get used to mentally, but I am feeling real good, mentally as well as physically," Trask said. "I feel at the Big Eight meet I finally broke through mentally more than I had all year."

His coach said Trask's mental game plays a key role in his competitiveness.

"Mentally, he is a very good competitor. He likes to compete. He wants to work hard, and he wants to be good," said Coach John Capriotti. "He has all the things you look for in a runner as far as I am concerned."

Capriotti first heard of Trask from a roommate and ex-teammate from Capriotti's alma mater, Cal Poly. Capriotti began the recruitment process during Trask's final season at Santa Rosa. Trask, however, kept his eyes open to several California and Pac-10 schools until he visited the Little Apple.

"When I came here and talked to coach and saw the town, I was pretty much convinced," Trask said. "With the program and the team I saw coming together here, I saw the makings of a real good cross country team along with Coach Capriotti, who I think is one of the best coaches in the nation right now for distances."

Some people might shudder about the weather and the life in California that Trask left behind. Although it was hard to leave, Trask shrugs off the thoughts, and he said he thinks of the wonderfully predictable Kansas weather as breeding tough runners.

Trask and the men's cross country team will be putting his superstitious haircut to the test this weekend in Springfield, Mo. Both Capriotti and Trask believe he will thrive in the spirit of rising competition and the importance of the meet.

"I basically thrive on people that other people say are too good and you can't beat them. I thrive on that because I want to show those people that I can beat the good people," Trask said.

SPORTS BRIEFLY

Runners get academic honors

A total of seven K-State runners, including four first-team selections, have been named to the 1990 Phillips 66 Academic All-Big Eight Cross Country Honor Roll.

Standout David Warders, who finished seventh at the Big Eight Championships to help lead K-State to a second-place finish, was one of two athletes on the men's side to be named to the first team for the third-consecutive year.

Warders earned that honor with a 3.39 GPA in park-resources management.

Joining Warders on the men's team was Jason Goertzen, who was named to the first team with a 3.47 GPA in business administration. Goertzen placed 15th at the Big Eight Championships and earned a spot on the honor roll for the second-straight year.

Pat Goebel, with a 3.52 in business administration, was also named to the honor roll.

On the women's honor roll, six athletes earned repeat selections, including two from K-State.

Three-time All-American Janet Haskin and teammate Janet Treiber were both named to the first team for the second-consecutive year. Haskin has a 3.82 GPA in prepharmacy, while Treiber has a 3.84 GPA in art.

Those two were joined on the honor roll by teammates Laura Ostmeier and Renee Russell. Ostmeier owns a 3.15 GPA in fine arts, while Russell posted a 3.68 in elementary education.

Jayhawks face rebuilding year

Editor's Note: This is the first of a seven-part series on the Big Eight men's basketball race.

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

It can be argued that there were several college basketball teams with more talent than the Kansas Jayhawks in 1989-90.

What's difficult is finding a group that played together better than Coach Roy Williams' team. "I've been around basketball for many years, and I can't ever remember a team that played to its potential the way last year's team did," Williams said. "It was a fun group to watch. You had to admire how unselfish they were."

Precision passing, selective shooting, swarming defense and textbook execution — the Jayhawks didn't lack many ingredients. The results were a 30-5 record, a brief stint as the nation's No.

1 team, and a top seed in the NCAA Southeast Regional.

But Williams, in his third season at Kansas, must perform a near full-scale rebuilding chore. The Jayhawks lost four starters, led by all-Big Eight guard Kevin Pritchard.

Still, KU has been picked no lower than third in most national publications' preseason polls.

"Everybody says we're going to be good this year, but I'm the only one who has seen us in practice," Williams said. "I guarantee you we've got a long way to go."

Injuries and misfortune have helped Williams restore his low-key approach. The Jayhawks have gone through early-season work-outs without one of their top returnees, forward Mike Maddox, and without newcomer Steve Woodberry, a 6-foot-4 freshman guard from Wichita.

Maddox has been sidelined by a back injury, and Woodberry underwent surgery for a hyperextended knee. It is unknown when either will be available.

"For us to be where we want, we have to have Mike Maddox healthy," Williams said. "I wasn't very happy with him because he reported 15 pounds overweight, and most of that was in his gut."

Kansas also lost three players that Williams planned on using to anchor his front line. Cortez Barnes, a 6-8 forward from Wichita, did not meet NCAA academic qualifications. He was a Class 6A all-state performer the last two seasons.

The Jayhawks will be without Chris Lindley, a 6-9 center from Raytown, Mo. Lindley, injured in a freak accident last year involving a train, had part of his leg amputated. He and Missouri signee Jevon Crudup led Raytown South High to a national ranking and state title last season.

The other pivot player not returning, 6-10 center Pekka Markkanen, returned to his native Finland after starting 33 games for the Jayhawks a year ago.

"A lot of people thought we'd have those guys around, and that might be why we were picked as high as we were," Williams said. "Having them around would have made Roy Williams look like a pretty good coach."

Williams will not enter battle without experienced soldiers. Senior forward Mark Randall, who averaged 13.3 points per game last year, is back. Randall played with Missouri's Doug Smith on the U.S.

■ See KANSAS, Page 8

Illini hoop program hit with sanctions for rules violations

By The Associated Press

URBANA, Ill. — The Illinois basketball team was banned from postseason play in 1991, placed on three years probation and limited to two new scholarships each of the next two years on Wednesday. And that's after being cleared by the NCAA of the worst charges: offering cash and cars to top recruits.

"If the most serious violations had been found, then I think from reading the report the so-called death penalty ... would have been imposed," said David Berst, the NCAA's assistant executive director for enforcement.

Such a penalty can be imposed after a school is sanctioned twice within a five-year period for major NCAA infractions. This is Illinois' third penalty since 1984.

"We disagree with several of the committee's findings, and some of the sanctions are harsher than we expected," Illinois chancellor Morton Weir said.

Illinois will be banned from off-campus basketball recruiting and from paying for visits by recruits to its campus the first year. It will also be limited to awarding just two basketball scholarships in each of the first two seasons of the probation. Television coverage, however, will not be restricted.

The scholarship sanctions were especially strict.

Coach Lou Henson said he was disappointed that he could not award all five scholarships he had promised to high school recruits, but said he expected his current players would stay.

"We're not in shambles," said Henson, now in his 16th season. "When we take the floor this year, our players will be more motivated and more inspired that perhaps ever before."

Weir said that the university's own investigation turned up most of the violations, and that the school was determined to abide by NCAA rules. "We were disappointed with the fact that we found a number of minor violations," athletic director John Mackovic said.

Weir said there were no plans for an appeal.

The university's recruitment in 1989 of prep star Deon Thomas touched off the NCAA's 16-month investigation.

It initially charged the university with violations that included offering Thomas $80,000 and a Chevrolet Blazer, and offering LaPhonso Ellis of East St. Louis $5,000 to sign and $5,000 a year to play, as well as a car.

The NCAA did cite Illinois for improper recruiting contacts; improper use of complimentary game tickets by players; preferential treatment of three players in loan applications for cars from a Decatur dealer; small loans to two players by a coach; helping high school coaches buy NCAA tournament tickets; and helping a recruit and his father get a hotel room in Seattle during the Final Four.

Missouri to learn of NCAA's decision

By The Associated Press

OVERLAND PARK — More than 21 months after it began, Missouri's ordeal with the NCAA enforcement department is about to end.

An NCAA spokesman said Wednesday that the decision by the five-member Infractions Committee in the Missouri basketball case would be announced at 9 a.m. Thursday. That is exactly 24 hours after the Illinois basketball program received a stiff probation, including a one-year tournament ban and severe recruiting restrictions.

Missouri officials, including coach Norm Stewart, athletic director Dick Tamburo and chancellor Haskell Monroe Jr., met for more than eight hours with the Infractions Committee in late September answering a still-unspecified list of allegations.

The allegations included a number of so-called "housekeeping" things the university admitted to, plus a major violation that assistant coach Bob Sundvold purchased a plane ticket for a player.

Monroe termed the meeting "fair and proper" and said he believed the committee approached its work without hostility.

Missouri was hoping to be treated better than Illinois because, unlike the Illini, the Tigers have never before been before the committee.

Monroe said after the September hearing that he expected the school to be penalized but refused to elaborate. According to published reports, the NCAA dropped several charges of unethical conduct against Stewart and Sundvold. Also believed to be involved in some allegations is the other full-time assistant, Rich Daly.

Sundvold was suspended with pay for three months in February 1989 after a tape recording was made public of his conversation with the mother of a former Missouri player, P.J. Mays. In the recording, Sundvold offered to purchase a plane ticket, a violation of NCAA rules.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID); $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

CAPTURE CHRISTMAS at Blooming Dale's Garden Center at their Grand Opening Nov. 10 and 11. 1105 Waters. 539-4751.

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Krupp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

COMPLETE VIDEO of Homecoming bodybuilding team competition. Union Courtyard, Nov. 2. $22 includes tax, postage, handling. Living Image Video, 539-0168.

FED UP with health insurance premiums that continually increase? If so, I have a policy for you. If you're interested call... Billie Gallaher, 539-5676.

Thursdays
Booga Booga Night
Any Burger and Fries Only
$1.99 + drink specials for the ladies
16 oz. Mason Jar of draft $1.25
539-1571

HEY, GREEKS: Remember Friday at 3:00 is the last day to donate to project Potluck. Cash Prize!! Sigma Kappa.

LOST 18 lbs. in three weeks. You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call Vanessa at 776-4764.

KSU BAND Drumline will hold a Chili Supper Sunday, Nov. 11th from 5-8p.m. at the Campus Ecumenical Center. All you can eat. $4.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

50¢ Tacos
99¢ Margaritas
105 N. 3rd • 776-9879

2 Apartments—Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

UPSTAIRS APARTMENT for one person. 539-5776.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid, $260. 776-7320.

ONE-BEDROOM in Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid, $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE available mid-November. One and one-half baths. Eighth and Bluemont. No pets. $400. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

VERY NICE one-bedroom apartment, attractive location, no pets. $275 plus electricity. 776-0406.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY. One-bedroom apartment located on west side. $320 per month, no pets. Call 776-1340, 8a.m.—6p.m.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

LEASE FOR Spring—Now! One-bedroom one block from campus, Aggieville. Rent $295 plus deposit and electric. Available December. 537-3342.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1976 MERCURY Capri II, V-6, new tires. $200 as is. Call 776-4993.

1980 OLDS Toronado, full power, great shape, low mileage, $2,500 or best offer. 537-2687 after 5:30p.m.

1981 OLDS Cutlass, new tires, nice interior, good condition. Call 776-4122.

1981 PLYMOUTH Horizon, mileage 55,400, good condition, $1,650 negotiable. Melville 532-7212 after 10:30a.m. or 537-4420.

1984 VW Rabbit convertible. Very good condition, low mileage, asking $6,500. Call 776-5668 after 6p.m.

1985 CALAIS: Gunsmoke gray, $320. 539-9173.

1985 NISSAN 4x4. New paint, air conditioning, fiberglass top, AM/FM cassette, high miles. $4,000 or best offer. 537-0313.

1987 CHEVY Custom van, loaded, 50,000 miles, 350CID, auto, power windows, power steering, air, cruise, tilt, like new. 1-468-3689, keep trying.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies. Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE: IBM PS/2 model 50Z, 1MB RAM, 80286, one 3.5" floppy, 30MB hard drive, Micro Channel architecture, IBM mouse, 6513 color VGA monitor, enhanced keyboard, cloth covers, DOS 4.01 and lots of software. One year old. $3,000. 1-823-9739, Salina.

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac IIx, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below bookstore. Call 539-0801 or come by 1115 Westloop.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such 'employment opportunity' with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

GENERAL SUPPLIES MANAGER, Varney's Book Store, Manhattan, Kansas.

We are seeking an energetic, knowledgeable individual committed to giving excellent customer service.

Responsibilities include purchase, merchandising and sale of general school supplies, office supplies and soft goods. Experience with purchasing and inventory control systems and demonstrated supervisory experience preferred. Prefer individual with knowledge of products in area of responsibility. Prefer bachelor degree. Competitive salary, bonus and fringe benefits are offered. Deadline to apply: November 30, 1990. Submit letter of application, resume and references to: Jon Levin, Varney's Book Store, 623 N. Manhattan Ave., Manhattan, Kansas 66502.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits. 15-80K+.

Free Information
Call
Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

4-H YOUTH Extension Assistant (Temporary and Part-time) to support 4-H Club organization and 4-H parents committees, plant and mechanical science projects. Available Dec. 1. Required: Master's Degree in Curriculum Design, Counseling/ Guidance, Education, Physical Education, Human Development/ Family Studies, or related. Salary commensurate. Resume, transcripts, and three reference letters by Nov. 15 to CR Salmon, Umberger Hall, KSU, 913-532-5800. KSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT income for home assembly work. 504-646-1700. Dept. P6438.

ATTENTION: ACCOUNTANT: We have an immediate opening for an individual with a bachelor's or master's degree in business, accounting or finance. Experience in hospital reimbursement, audits, cost accounting, development of department and hospital-wide budgeting, cash flow, investments and integrated computer systems is required. Competitive salary and benefits. Please send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: LABORATORY Personnel. Immediate openings for a MT(ASCP) or equivalent and Medical Laboratory Technologist MLT(ASCP) or equivalent. Full-time and part-time openings. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: PHYSICIAN and Allied Recruiters: We have an immediate opening for a mature, self-motivated individual who presents a positive image. Must have a bachelor's or master's degree and experience in position relations. Sales and marketing experience is preferred. Will develop and track computer driven physician and allied health care professional database. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

CLEAN, COOK, childcare, few hours every other day. Apply in person, 2024 Browning.
EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

(Continued on page 7)

WANT PIZZA P.D.Q.? SOUND THE CALL!

Call: 539-5303
1118 Laramie

We have a platoon of cars on alert to deliver your choice of our rich, luscious pies P.D.Q.. WE'LL MARCH RIGHT OVER.

USE THE MONEY-SAVING COUPONS BELOW FOR YOUR NEXT MESS.

2 Medium Family Pack One Combo and One Single-Topping $10.99 <small>Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU</small>	Medium All Meat Combo Beef • Sausage • Pepperoni • Ham • Bacon $7.99 <small>Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU</small>	2 Medium One-Toppers Cheese plus one topping on each $8.99 or 2 Large $11.99 <small>Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU</small>	$4 OFF Any Large Pizza OR $3 OFF Any Medium <small>Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU</small>
---	---	---	---

ALPHA XI PLEDGE/ACTIVE '90 NOV. 17

I look and see it's not only me, we're standing tall without a doubt it's the Xi's, XI'S GONE WILD

Capture Christmas at

Garland

10" Canadian Pine
Reg. 1.29 ft.
Now 99¢ ft.
(Nov 10-18)
While Supplies Last

Elegant Ribbon

Tapestry, Foil, Silk, Metallic, Velvet & More
(The most beautiful selection this side of KC—available by yard, roll or custom-made bows!)

Tree, Tree, Trees!!

6"-10 ft.

Wreaths

Mini-loft 6"-36"

Garland—pine & tinsel
Christmas Tree Lights
Replacement Bulbs
Gorgeous Ornaments
Dazzling Metallic,
Dickens Christmas, Santas,
Angels, Birds, Music,
Old World & More!

Sign up for Design Classes

Limited space
Wreaths, Bird Cages, Bow Making & Mini Tree Classes

Mini-Ornaments

Inexpensive & Stylish Collection

$1.99 to $3.49

Special Price Sat. & Sun. Only

Door Buster

7 1/2' Tree (#6947)

14 only

Reg. $235 Special $141.00

Everlasting Trees

Looks so natural you need to feel them to know the difference

Mini—10 ft. Tall

ALL 20% off

(2 Days Only)

Register for FREE $50.00 Shopping Spree

1105 Waters

Sat. 9-5:30 Sun Noon-5 PM

539-4751

TRADE-IN SALE

Now Your Old Clothes Are Worth Something . . .

Trade Any Clothes, Get . . .

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S

Suits$50 to $75 off

Sport Coats $30 to $50 off

Sweaters$5 to $40 off

Ties & Scarves $2 to $7 off

Coats$10 to $60 off

Dresses$15 to $60 off

Shoes$15 to $30 off

COMPLETE LIST OF TRADE-IN VALUES POSTED IN STORE

All Clothing Trade-Ins will be donated to the S.H.A.R.E. center, affiliated with the Flint Hills Breadbasket and the Flint Hills Junior Service League.

700 N. Manhattan Ave

Hours: M-Sat. 10-6, Thurs. 10-8, Sun. 1-5

539-1414

The Saint Mary Hospital is concerned about the safety of you and your baby. That's why The Saint Mary Hospital offers maternity fairs dealing with safety, individualized care concerning safety and now we're giving our new mothers a Century® 560 car seat-carrier.

We're committed to your baby's safety both before it's born and after you leave our safe environment. A Century® 560 car seat-carrier. . . Just The Saint Mary Hospital's way of saying thank you.

Call 776-2822
for further information.

the saint mary hospital

Member CSJ Health Systems of Wichita

1823 College Avenue • Manhattan, KS 66502 • (913) 776-3322

President

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
turned to sadness and disappointment in a matter of seconds as Morris informed them he had lost the run-off to Heitschmidt.

Morris, who had received 1,335 votes in the primary to Heitschmidt's 1,041 votes, said voters who supported him in the primary may not have returned to vote on Wednesday.

"I was told by a lot of people I talked to in the last week that I had it (the election) in the bag," he said. "A lot of those people may have voted in the primary and not gotten out to vote in the run-off."

Looking back on his campaign, Morris said he should have announced his candidacy and began aggressive campaigning sooner than he did. Nonetheless, he congratulated members of his campaign staff for their help.

"I'm lucky I got to work with a lot of wonderful people," he said.

Morris said his loss was not the end of the world and wished Heitschmidt luck as student body president. "Todd really ran a good campaign," he said. "I trust he will do a good job as president in the best interest of the students."

Sally Routson, coordinator of student activities, said she was pleased with the total voter turnout of 2,712, which is a bit higher than in past years.

Routson said she agreed with Morris and said both candidates were worried about getting people to vote in the run-off election after such a good turnout in the primary.

"We typically drop about 1,000 voters from the primary to the run-off," she said in reference to last year's drop from 3,144 primary votes to 2,557 run-off votes cast. "This year we dropped about 2,000."

Routson said the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex referendum prompted more voters to vote in the primary election than in the run-off.

The margin of 174 votes separating Heitschmidt and Morris is about average. Routson said it varies from year to year depending on the candidates and the issues.

Last year's run-off between Clint Riley and Todd Johnson was decided by only 52 votes.

"It's hard sometimes on the candidates when the election is decided by a small margin," Routson said. "On the other hand, it also helps when it is close because no candidate would want someone to totally run away with it."

Kansas

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5
National Team in last summer's Goodwill Games and World Championships.

Also returning is a solid backcourt in sophomore point guard Adonis Jordan and 3-point specialist Terry Brown. Jordan handed out 109 assists while making only 47 turnovers, and Brown averaged 11 points per game as a reserve last year.

Brown provided KU with an explosive scoring punch, which was highlighted by his 31-point performance in 19 minutes in a 150-95 rout of Kentucky.

"Terry's the only guy I give the green light to once we get inside of half court," Williams said. "Most of the others may not even make it past the caution sign."

WOW — FOR $3, you can run 15 words for one day in the COLLEGIAN ClassAds.

Math

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
to mathematics. Students can actually control the level of difficulty," Dalida said.

Currently, the games are being promoted in sixth, seventh and eighth grades as a part of the regular classroom instruction.

He said the games help prepare students for algebra. Also, the activities are designed to eliminate discrimination against minorities, he said.

Dalida said the biggest challenges of the project are determining game rules and teaching people how to play.

"Generally, the idea has been well received. It's an attractive concept," he said.

Dalida received degrees in mathematics and mathematics education, and he taught high school math for 12 years. He said his interest in math started with games.

Hussein may free 120 more hostages

By The Associated Press

Iraq on Wednesday promised to free 120 hostages, including a few Americans, but U.S. officials blasted Saddam Hussein for his "cynical" use of the captives and the foreign envoys who have been seeking to free them.

At the United Nations, diplomats said the United States is sounding out member countries on a Security Council resolution that would authorize the use of U.N. military force against Iraq. If such a measure is adopted, it would be an unprecedented step in the history of the United Nations.

But the text of the resolution has not yet been circulated to other Security Council members because Secretary of State James A. Baker III is overseas trying to line up support for it, said the diplomats, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Baker, off on a weeklong tour that has already taken him to the Mideast, is now in Moscow.

In Washington, a Pentagon source said late Wednesday that the Bush administration has decided to send additional armored divisions soon to beef up the 230,000 U.S. and 70,000 other multinational forces in Saudi Arabia. The source said most of the troops and tanks would come from Europe.

1991 Royal Purple

may be purchased for $13 in Kedzie 103

Domestic Violence

Help for hidden problems

November 14

Pawnee
Mental Health Services
The Crisis Center, Inc.

4 CEU's

Social workers, nurses, others. Valuable for all helping professionals.

12:45 to 4:45 p.m. at 2001 Claflin.
$28. To register call 539-5337.

PAWNEE
Mental Health Services

BUSHWACKERS

Thursday

$2.50 Pitchers

$1.50 Wells

Body by Schliebe
"Survival of the Fittest"

Contest

8 p.m.

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams • Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

Providing quality health care to women since 1974. Insurance, VISA & Mastercard accepted.

Comprehensive Health for Women

4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)
Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400
Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

CPI photo finish
one hour photo

Save 50%
on color processing & 4x6 prints

Each picture is the best it can be or we reprint it free... now!

4x6 Color Prints

50% off
regular one-hour price

No limit on number of rolls discounted with this coupon. Print length varies with film size. C41 in lab process only, not combinable with other processing and print offers. Coupon good through Dec. 8, 1990.

CPI photo finish

11x14 Color Enlargements

$9.95 each
(reg. $13.49)

Free Custom Cropping: 11x14 enlargements from 15mm and 1/8" negatives only. No limit on number of enlargements. Not combinable with other enlargement offers. Coupon good through Dec. 8, 1990.

CPI photo finish

also available: wallet photos • instant color passport photos • video transfer • copies from prints • cameras and accessories • film

Manhattan Town Center
main entrance by food court

Snookies

Tonight

25¢ Draws

75¢ Wells

This Sunday, Nov. 11

Live Rock 'n' Roll

Doors Open at 7

776-7726 • 1122 MORO • Upstairs

Cool Savings!

TACOBURGERS 2 for $1.30 (reg. $2.35)

BURRITO DINNER $2.77 (reg. $3.60)

Good through 11/10/90

TACO HUT

"Where Good Friends Get Together"

2809 Claflin

On the hill overlooking Westloop. 539 2091

Open Sun - Thur
11 am 10 pm
Fri & Sat
11 am 12 midnight

IMPRESSIONS
Hair Design & Body Toning

Early Bird Special

$9 Haircut

9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Mon.-Fri.

1129 Moro Aggieville

Expires: Nov. 30, 1990

537-1332

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

Deliverance
November 7 & 8

There's spine-chilling suspense when four businessmen spend a weekend canoeing down a primitive river with awkward inexperience. The peaceful trip takes an abrupt turn resulting in rape, murder and death. The survivors begin to comprehend the brutal horror and must think of a convincing explanation to conceal the deaths in John Boorman's classic. Stars Jon Voight and Burt Reynolds. Rated R. Tonight at 7 p.m., Forum Hall $1.75 with KSU ID.

E. C. Cunningham
November 5-16
Kansas State Union Gallery
Monday-Friday, 8am-5pm

"ENORMOUSLY FUNNY...A DELIGHTFUL COMEDY!"
IT DESERVES TO BE THE SURPRISE HIT OF THE SUMMER.

THE FRESHMAN

Marlon Brando makes Matthew Broderick an offer he can't refuse in The Freshman, an outrageously offbeat comedy that shoots straight for the funny bone and never misses. See it-if you know what's good for you! Rated PG. FRIDAY and SATURDAY, 7 & 9:30 p.m. & SUNDAY, 7 p.m. Forum Hall. $1.75 with KSU ID.

MISSOURI
CAVING--THIS WEEKEND COST: $33

Imagine paddling several hundred meters into a cave, getting out of your canoe and discovering that the adventure is just beginning. Join Outdoor Recreation Committee in traveling to Devil's Ice Box Cave at Rock Bridge Memorial State Park in Columbia, Missouri. At over 6 miles of mapped passage, this cave is the 6th largest cave in Missouri. Trip includes camping and caving permits, use of canoes, caving instructor, and meals. Sign-up today on the 3rd floor of the K-State Union in the UPC Office between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

ARTS AND CRAFT SALE

Vendor Sign-Up begins November 12th for the Arts and Craft Sale on November 29th and 30th. The sale will be in the K-State Union Main Ballroom. Sign-up in the UPC office between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday-Friday.

Unforgettably Undeniably
Disney

JOURNEY
Natty Gann

A courageous young girl attempts to overcome extraordinary odds and rely upon love, hope and courage as she travels over 2000 miles of danger in search of her father. Set in the mid-1930's, this real-life American tale follows Natty Gann as she rides the rails with hobos, forms a close bond with a young drifter and struggles to survive in the northwestern wilderness. Rated PG. SATURDAY and SUNDAY, 2 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.50 with KSU ID.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, November 9, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 54

William Richter, head of the political science department, was part of a International Observer Team that monitored Pakistani elections last month. Richter and 20 other Americans and members from 17 other countries were present in Pakistan for the general and provincial election.

Professor helps monitor voting Americans work to ensure fairness in Pakistani elections

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

A K-State faculty member was one of 20 Americans who monitored the Pakistani elections last month.

William Richter, head of the political science department, was in Pakistan Oct. 19 to 29. He was part of the International Observer Team, sponsored by the National Democratic Institute. The group's responsibility was to ensure the fairness of the elections.

Some problems the group tried to deter were the stuffing of the ballot boxes and the registration of illegal voters.

"There are all sorts of ways to screw up the election process," Richter said. "There probably would have been a greater degree of violence, fear of malpractice and temptation to steal votes."

Richter said he had seen press reports of violence and murders during the election, but didn't observe any first-hand.

Richter's schedule included monitoring both the general election Oct. 24 and the provincial election Oct. 27.

"Our group met with election officials in Islamabad. Then we dispersed to eight or nine cities throughout the country, which we then used as bases to visit several different polling stations.

"We visited with government officials and the press and observed the opening of polling stations and the voting. We also observed the ballot counting," he said.

Team members reassembled in Karachi, Pakistan's largest city, on Oct. 25 to make a public statement, which was issued the next day throughout Pakistan, he said.

After that, most of the members left for their home countries, but Richter said, he and a few others stayed for the provincial elections, which are comparable to state elections in the United States.

Members from about 17 other countries, such as England, Japan and Namibia, helped to monitor the elections, Richter said.

Mian Nawaz Sharif has been named prime minister of Pakistan. He was the leader of the Islamic Jamhoori Ittehad, or Islamic Democratic Alliance, party, which won the majority of the votes in the national parliament, Richter said.

Pakistan was previously part of the British-Indian Empire before it was divided into India and East and West Pakistan in 1947, said Kenneth Jones, professor of history.

■ See PAKISTAN, Page 7

1st Division gets marching orders for Desert Shield

CRISIS IN THE MIDDLE EAST

By David Freese
Staff Reporter

Fort Riley's 1st Infantry Division received orders Thursday afternoon to deploy to Saudi Arabia in support of Operation Desert Shield.

An undisclosed number of troops, including the entire 1st Division, will be added to those already in Saudi Arabia, said Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney at a press conference Thursday in Washington, D.C.

This new deployment begins immediately and will occur over the next few weeks.

"The time frame for the deployment isn't known at this time," said Capt. Bill McCormick, Fort Riley Public Affairs Officer. "It's been the Department of Defense's long-standing policy not to discuss future operations or plans."

"We really don't have any details as to what's going to occur," he said. "The division is a heavy mechanized division, and these typically do not deploy overnight. It will be a number of weeks probably before any soldiers actually leave."

McCormick said the division has been taking steps towards deployment since the beginning of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait. Tanks and vehicles have been painted sand colored, and some desert camouflage uniforms have been issued to soldiers.

"The division has been taking measures since the crisis began, preparing and doing things that we would do just in case we were ever called up," he said.

Troops and armor will be shipped out by sea and air, with soldiers departing from Forbes Field in Topeka, McCormick said. He said he could not comment where the armor would depart from.

Another unknown is how long troops will be stationed overseas for this operation. Officials said it could be a few days or a matter of years.

"We don't know how long it will be," said Mark Meseke, public affairs spokesperson. "What we know is that it will be an indefinite amount of time. I know our reserve units recently went up from 180 to 360 days, but as to how long the 1st Division will be over there — we have no idea."

That's not exactly good news for business owners in the Junction City-Manhattan area. Divisional troop strength stands at around 11,500 for a typical heavy mechanized division like the 1st, McCormick said. And a population reduction of that magnitude could have devastating repercussions for the economy.

"Economic impact on the communities will be definitely felt," he said.

Despite losing such a large number of soldiers, McCormick said the families of deployed soldiers, along with the remaining 3,200 non-divisional troops plus civil service personnel, will remain at Fort Riley.

"There are a good number of soldiers here at Fort Riley that are not assigned to the 1st Division," he said. "These soldiers are assigned to what we call the U.S. Army Garrison. The U.S. Army Garrison troops would not deploy. They would be left here and continue to staff the installation activities as they do now."

"Civil service employees will continue to report to work," he said.

"I want it to be made very clear — the installation is still a viable, active post even if the division is not here," McCormick said. "The 1st Infantry Division makes up the majority of the soldiers, but not all of them."

McCormick

New Troop Deployments for Saudi Arabia

U.S. Army Active Forces

- VII Corps Headquarters, Stuttgart, Germany
- 1st Armored Division, Ansbach, Germany
- 2nd Armored Division (Forward) Garlstedt, Germany
- 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment, Nuernberg, Germany
- 3rd Armored Division, Frankfurt, Germany
- 2nd Corps Support Command, Stuttgart, Germany
- 1st Infantry Division (Mechanized) Fort Riley, Kansas
- Other combat support and combat service support units from the United States and Europe

U.S. Army National Guard

- 48th Infantry Brigade (Mechanized), Georgia
- 155th Armored Brigade, Mississippi
- 256th Infantry Brigade (Mechanized), Louisiana

U.S. Navy

- Three aircraft carriers with appropriate escorts
- One battleship, USS Missouri, and appropriate escorts
- Amphibious Group Three, San Diego, California

U.S. Marine Corps

- 1st Marine Expeditionary Force, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina
- 5th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, Camp Pendleton, California
- Maritime Prepositioning Ship Squadron, Norfolk, Virginia

Source: Office of Assistant Secretary of Defense
Greg Branson/Staff

Bill that opposes restrictive fees passes Senate, based on KU draft

STUDENT SENATE

By Charlie Gatschet
Collegian Reporter

A bill, almost identical to one passed by the University of Kansas student senate, stating Student Senate's opposition to restrictive fees was approved Thursday night.

The bill was introduced by Joel Gruenke, graduate senator, as a substitute to one drafted by the academic affairs and university relations standing committee.

Gruenke said it is important for students at all regents schools to speak together against restrictive fees.

"The unity of students is what scares administrators," Gruenke said. "If we pass a bill with the same wording as KU, it shows a unified voice. I think we should pass it with the same wording because it speaks stronger."

Barry Beck, business senator, said he agreed.

"This not only says we oppose restrictive fees, it tells why," Beck said. "If we don't pass this, it opens the floodgates. We'll have so many restrictive fees, we won't know what we're paying for."

"This is a powerful statement," he said. "It is the most powerful I've seen since I've been here."

Some senators questioned the ethics of using the same wording in the bill as KU, but Mike Steidle, graduate student in business administration said it is common practice.

"State legislatures borrow legislation from other legislatures all the time," Steidle said. "It doesn't show disrespect. If anything, KU should be honored that we're using their legislation."

In other Senate action, a bill that called for an increase in the student activity fee of 50 cents for full-time students and 14 cents for part-time students was defeated. College councils have not had an increase in funding since 1972.

Beck cited the growing number of groups seeking money from college councils as a reason to increase their funding.

"The unity of students is what scares administrators. If we pass a bill with the same wording as KU, it shows a unified voice. I think we should pass it with the same wording because it speaks stronger."

—Joel Gruenke
graduate senator

Senate funded 22 groups this year, while college councils supported more than 130 academic organizations, Beck said.

"I have never recommended an increase in student fees before, but I am now," he said.

Opponents to the bill agreed that college councils need more money, but said measures already taken to improve their financial situation have not had time to be evaluated.

Earlier this year, Senate passed a bill allowing leftover funds from college council allocations to remain in each colleges respective account. Previously, remaining funds were returned to Senate.

In final action, Senate voted down a proposal that would have changed the requirements to pass a student referendum.

Currently, to pass a referendum, one-third of the student population must approve it by a simple majority, or, if less one-third of the students vote, a two-thirds majority is required.

The bill, after several amendments, would have required only a 58 percent vote in favor to pass an issue, no matter how many students vote.

EPA considers second-hand smoke

Members of panel maintain ties to tobacco industry research organization

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Six of the 16 members of a newly appointed Environmental Protection Agency panel considering the health risks of second-hand cigarette smoke have ties to a tobacco industry research organization, documents show.

A seventh member of the panel was appointed upon the recommendation of the Philip Morris tobacco company, EPA officials said.

"They've stacked the deck with people who have close ties to the tobacco industry," said Dr. Alan Blum, a founder of the anti-smoking group Doctors Ought to Care. "It's pathetic."

"We were concerned about the appearance of conflict of interest," said Donald Barnes, staff director of the EPA's scientific advisory board. But he said the link between the panel members and the tobacco organization does not cause any question to be raised about their technical capabilities.

The panel was created to review the scientific accuracy and objectivity of two forthcoming EPA reports on the health effects of passive smoking.

Six members are connected with the Center for Indoor Air Research of Linthicum, Md., according to the center's publications.

The center is financed by Philip Morris, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and Lorillard Corp., three of the nation's largest tobacco companies. Its board of directors is made up of employees of those companies, said

Pamela Phillips, an administrator at the center.

The chairman of the EPA passive-smoking panel, Morton Lippmann of New York University, is on the science advisory board of the tobacco industry center.

Lippmann and another member of the EPA panel, Dr. Jonathan Samet of the University of New Mexico, helped devise the center's research agenda.

Samet and three other members of the EPA panel are listed as "peer reviewers" for the center. They help determine which research projects the center supports.

Yet another member of the EPA panel, Delbert Eatough of Brigham Young University, receives research funds from the center.

A seventh member of the panel, Geoffrey Kabat of the American Health Foundation, had been recommended by Philip Morris, EPA officials said.

Kabat said, "I have no direct contact with the tobacco industry at all, and I certainly don't see myself as being an agent of theirs in any respect."

The makeup of the EPA panel aroused controversy when it was reported last month that the agency had dismissed Dr. David Burns from the panel after the tobacco industry lobbied to get rid of him.

Burns, of the University of California, San Diego, was the author of the U.S. Surgeon General's report on passive smoking and is regarded by

■ See SMOKING, Page 7

Support for action against Iraq grows

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush on Thursday ordered massive additions to the U.S. military force in the Persian Gulf, transferring troops and tanks from Europe, sending in new warships and calling up combat-ready National Guard units to give an adequate offensive option if needed to drive Iraq from Kuwait.

Bush, asked directly whether he was going to war, said: "I would like to see a peaceful solution to this question. I think Saddam Hussein should fully withdraw his troops from Kuwait."

"If this movement of force is what convinces him, so much the better," Bush said. He added later, "When he surveys the force that's there ... he will recognize that he is up against just a foe that he can't possibly manage militarily."

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, giving details of the new buildup, said three armored divisions from Germany and one from the United States, the famous "Big Red One" 1st Infantry Division based in Fort Riley, would be sent to the gulf region.

Neither he nor Bush would say how many troops would be joining the 230,000 U.S. forces already in the gulf area.

However, full deployment of the units listed by Cheney would add about 120,000 troops to the U.S. forces there. Even without sending all of their support units, the additional combat and essential support forces total about 100,000.

There are more than 400,000 troops in Iraq.

Cheney said the Navy would send three additional aircraft carrier battle groups and their escorts, one additional battleship and amphibious craft.

■ See GULF, Page 7

BRIEFLY

World

Gunman charged as terrorist

MOSCOW (AP) — A man who opened fire on Red Square during the Revolution Day parade has been charged with committing a terrorist act, a spokesman for the KGB secret police said Thursday.

Alexander Shmonov, of Leningrad, will undergo psychiatric tests to determine whether he was sane at the time of the shooting Wednesday, said Alexei Kandaurov, deputy director of the KGB public relations office. He gave no other details on the case.

No one was hurt in the incident, in which the man pulled out the hunting rifle in the heavily guarded square about 80 yards from President Mikhail Gorbachev. The shooting came during a Communist Party march that followed the military parade.

A plainclothes officer knocked the weapon away as the man fired once into the air and again into the ground, newspapers said. He then was subdued by about 20 plainclothes officers and carried into the GUM department store across the square from Gorbachev.

Israelis torn by tradition

JERUSALEM (AP) — The assassination of Rabbi Meir Kahane has brought out the ambivalence many Israelis feel toward the man who gave political shape to anti-Arab racism.

It was best reflected by the Knesset, Israel's Parliament, which banished Kahane for his extremist views, but honored his memory with a customary minute of silence.

Kahane, 58, was shot in the neck Monday following a speech in New York. El Sayyid Nosair was captured after a shootout with a U.S. Postal Service police officer. He was arraigned on murder charges at his hospital bed on Wednesday.

Part of the mixed response to Kahane stems from the tradition of not speaking ill of the dead. Thus Kahane's eulogists, most of whom shunned and despised his politics, are choosing to dwell on less controversial qualities, such as his charity work, his Jewish Defense League's efforts to protect American Jews and his campaigns on behalf of Soviet Jewry.

But few can ignore his blatant anti-Arab preachings and their strong overtones of violence.

Most Israelis blanched at his calls for the expulsion of Arabs under Israeli rule.

Nation

13 states lose house seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Reps. Chuck Schumer and Stephen Solarz won re-election with 80 percent of the vote, but they might already be thinking about their next jobs.

Redistricting could put them out of work in 1992.

The once-a-decade debate now begins to get personal: 19 House districts need to be erased in 13 states that lost population in the 1980s.

In the big-ego, ambition-filled world of politics, that won't be easy.

The decisions will be made next year, in most cases by state legislatures. If history is any guide, members of Congress who could be affected by the plans will have considerable input, in person and through contributions to state lawmakers who draft the plans.

In most states losing seats, including all losing more than one, power of redistricting is shared between Democrats and Republicans. That generally means the losses, or at least the risk of losses, will be shared, too.

Drug-policy director resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — William Bennett bade farewell as drug-policy director with characteristic bluster Thursday, boasting Americans have turned against drugs and dismissing a congressional critic as a "gasbag."

He allowed that his efforts to rid the nation's capital of drugs didn't work, but said it did not help that Mayor Marion Barry, who has been convicted of cocaine possession, was part of the problem.

Bennett, at a White House send-off with President Bush, denied reports that he had run out of gas or feared for his family's safety as the first director of drug policy.

"I'm not the stampeded-out-of-town type," said Bennett, who will actually relinquish his post at the end of the month. Bush said he has not yet settled on a successor.

The president showered Bennett with praise, saying he had done an outstanding job for his country and his hard work has paid off.

"We're on the road to victory," said Bush, who promised to stay on the front lines until this scourge is stopped.

Region

Accident puts out electricity

A one-vehicle accident knocked out electricity and street lights at the intersection of Claflin Road and Jarvis Drive early today.

Witnesses said the driver of the late-model red Nissan 200sx failed to negotiate the curve before the intersection, swerved into the left lane, jumped the curb and careened head-on with a traffic light on the side of the road shortly after midnight.

Power lines fell and set a small fire to the wrecked automobile. A witness extinguished the fire.

Other witnesses said they heard a loud crash and saw several bright flashes of light before the street lamps went out, darkening the neighborhood.

Police said the driver and the passengers of the car were not injured.

KU to get condom machines

LAWRENCE — University of Kansas students soon will be able to buy condoms from residence hall vending machines.

For several years, students have urged the KU administration to permit the sale of condoms in campus vending machines but were opposed by Judith Ramaley, former executive vice chancellor, who is now president of Portland State University in Oregon.

At a campus meeting Wednesday, David Ambler, vice chancellor for student affairs, and Mike Schreiner, student body president, announced that students had won the long-fought battle.

The university will begin stocking condoms in existing snack machines in January. Ambler said the decision came after serious consideration by the administration.

Copeland trial continues

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — The prosecution rested its case Thursday against an elderly farm woman charged in the shooting deaths of five transient farmhands in northwest Missouri.

The state called two witnesses Thursday, bringing to 53 the number of people called by the prosecution since the start of the trial Nov. 1 on five counts of first-degree murder against Faye Copeland, 69.

Faye Copeland and her husband, Ray, 75, are charged in the slaying of five drifters allegedly hired to help the Copelands run a cattle-buying swindle.

Ray Copeland's trial was delayed earlier to allow him time to undergo a mental competency examination. His trial is now scheduled for January.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

9 Friday

■ Touchstone Magazine will sponsor a poetry reading at 4 p.m. in Union 207.

■ Campus Faith Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 202.

■ Combined Campus Christian Student Organizations will sponsor Billy Sprague in concert at 8 p.m. in Danforth and All-Faiths chapels.

■ Intersity Christian Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 212.

■ Arnold Air Society/Silver Wings Society will meet for a candlelight remembrance ceremony at 7:45 p.m. at the Union Courtyard.

10 Saturday

■ K-State Players will present "Amadeus" at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

11 Sunday

■ Collegiate 4-H will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 206.

■ Playwright's Stage will present "The Lottery" at 2 p.m. in the Purple Masque Theatre.

12 Monday

■ French Table will meet from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ Students Helping Students will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Lafene Conference Room.

■ Kappa Delta Pi will meet at 3 p.m. in Bluemont 217 and 225.

■ Pi Sigma Epsilon will have an executive at 5:30 p.m. and an all-member meeting at 6:30 p.m. at Bowinkle's.

13 Tuesday

■ Finance Club/FMA will meet at 7 p.m. in Calvin 209.

■ SAVE will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 209.

■ FENIX Adult and Student Program/OWLS will have an informal lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ Pre-Law Club will meet at 7 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

■ Mortar Board will meet at 9:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, mostly sunny. Warmer. High in the mid-50s. Northwest winds 10 to 15 mph. Tonight and Saturday, mostly clear. Warmer. Low tonight in the lower to mid-30s. High Saturday around 60.

AMADEUS
by Peter Shaffer

Don't Miss It!

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17

Tickets: McCain Box Office
532-6428

Our 20th Anniversary Sale
November 7-11

2 1/2¢
Copies

99¢ Oversize Copies
99¢ Color Copies

kinko's
the copy center

2 1/2¢ price is for black & white, 8 1/2 x 11, autographed copies on 20# bond.
99¢ copies are 8 1/2 x 11, Canon laser copies. 99¢ Oversize copies up to 24" x 36".

Smokey J's BBQ RESTAURANT

* Beef * Pork * Ham * Turkey *
* Chicken * Corned Beef * Deli Trays *

Relaxed affordable dining. Private Room for Parties available
This holiday try a Smoked Turkey! Place your order now
Dine in/Carry Out/Catering

2615 Anderson 776-9222 Open 11-9 Daily

SCHWARZENEGGER

Get ready for the ride of your life

TOTAL RECALL

GUARANTEED IN STOCK

or you can rent it

FREE

John's ICE CREAM & VIDEO

Details At Store
1123 Westloop Pl.
Manhattan
537-0089

1009 W. 6th St.
Junction City
762-4270

BAYSTREET AND THE PIT

TONIGHT!!

LADIES FREE

SAT.

NO COVER WITH STUDENT I.D.

.10 KAMIS ALL WEEKEND!

WED., NOV. 14

GIRL'S RUGBY BENEFIT

BARNBURNER'S LIVE!

AUCTION/PRIZES

McCain

Chicago City Limits

Friday, November 9, 8 p.m.

These over-the-top comedians won't subject you to squinting daisies, Groucho glasses, or hand buzzers. Instead they'll gather your suggestions and weave them into hilarious skits. "Are they good?" you ask. Well, they've extended Chicago's city limits to New York, where they're the longest-running improv group in town.

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

Presented in part by the Friends of McCain with additional support from the Fine Arts Fee.

TONIGHT!

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m., weekdays. Tickets also on sale (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

'Touchstone' to feature work of student writers

By Shannon Heim
Collegian Reporter

"Doing the Lunch Thing With Death" and "Mirror Absurdity" are only two of the works included in this year's edition of K-State's literary magazine.

The magazine, "Touchstone 1990," will be introduced at a poetry reading 4 p.m. today in Union 207.

Jonathan Holden, distinguished professor of English, said he thinks most writers are lonely and reach out to others through the written word. The reading will allow these writers to share their work with the public directly.

"It's a place where poets can strut their stuff," Holden said.

Students featured in "Touchstone" and other authors will read their works. The public is invited to attend.

Holden said that there is a difference between hearing a poem and reading one.

"If a poem is read well, a person may suddenly see that poetry is a very human art — not just something a professor hands down to students in a class," he said.

Holden said he thinks it is important for students to share their works with others and create a network among writers.

The magazine takes submissions from amateur artists and writers from K-State and elsewhere. Anita Leverich and Laurie McKinnon, graduate students in creative writing and literature, are the editors of this year's magazine.

"It's a new experience to hear a poem rather than read it, and it's good experience for the authors," Leverich said.

Leverich and McKinnon said they realized editing the magazine was a huge responsibility, but they think it provides an important outlet for amateur writers.

"We think poetry is fun, and we want to dispel the myth that poetry is only something written in the 18th century," McKinnon said.

"There are tons of closet poets out there and this gives people a chance to see it's something that they can be a part of," she said.

McKinnon said undergraduate students can gain experience not only through publishing their works but also through helping to organize the magazine.

"A degree in English is not always real marketable, so this gives students invaluable experience," McKinnon said.

The magazine is primarily funded through patrons, including individuals and local businesses. Leverich said it has been published for more than 30 years.

She said the magazine has endured because a large number of students are interested and want the learning experience of being involved with "Touchstone."

Ed Skoog, sophomore in English, is one student who has taken advantage of the opportunity to publish his works. Skoog has six poems included in "Touchstone." The topics of his poems range from "The Dying McCaw Queen of Wal-Mart" to "Turtlebite."

"The authors are mostly K-State students, but once in a while someone submits something from other places," Leverich said.

One example is "Fresh-Picked Berries" by Amy Huddleston, a student at the University of Kansas. She is scheduled to read the poem Friday.

Program helps Manhattan needy; food goal set at 100,000 pounds

By Dan Scott
Collegian Reporter

Manhattan mayor Richard Hayter announced the goals for the Annual Mayor's Holiday Tree program at a Thursday morning press conference.

"We want to try to hit 100,000 pounds of food," Hayter said. "We also want to expand the number of individuals and businesses participating."

The program, which assists needy Manhattan area families, collected 87,972 pounds of food last year and collected more than $1,000 to help needy families with heating bills.

"I think there are many people who are surprised to find hunger existing in Manhattan," said Ruth Ann Wefald, president of the Flint Hills Breadbasket and co-chairperson of the program. "We are there to help those kinds of needs. Hunger is growing, unfortunately."

Wefald said the increased use of food stamps and the fact that more area school children are qualifying for school lunch aid support this argument.

To reach the goal, Hayter said he encouraged Manhattan businesses to meet the goal set by Pacesetters, a group of area businesses dedicated to ending hunger in Manhattan. That goal is to contribute 100 pounds of food or $100 per business.

"Both food and money are important at this time," Wefald said. "The funds help with the basic operation of the program and help to buy fresh produce."

A part of the money is set aside to buy fuel for needy area families, Hayter said.

Families can apply for assistance by contacting the Flint Hills Breadbasket, a non-profit community food network at 905 Yuma St., and filling out an application form. The deadline to complete the application is Nov. 14.

Eligibility is based on the monthly income of a family, living in Riley County, in respect to the number of people in the household. No eligible persons will be denied assistance if the application is filled out by the deadline, Hayter said.

Wefald said the program needs volunteers to prepare and distribute holiday food baskets, which can be donated for $22. The food baskets will be distributed on Nov. 16 and Dec. 21.

"We would really like to see the community rally behind this," Wefald said. "One of the definitions of community is fellowship."

The kinds of food needed are high protein foods such as canned soups with meat, peanut butter, canned meat and stew, she said. Individuals can leave donated food at any area grocery store. The stores have collection points for the canned food, Wefald said.

"Food will be collected at all home K-State basketball games in December," she said. "In return, the donors will receive an autographed picture of the basketball team."

Food can also be left at the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

Another activity includes about 900 students at Manhattan Middle School forming a human chain today from the middle school to the Breadbasket building, a distance of several blocks.

The students will pass more than 1,000 cans of donated food hand-to-hand from the school to the Breadbasket building. They will start forming the chain at 8:15 a.m.

On Nov. 22, Thanksgiving Day, the Breadbasket will sponsor the third annual Manhattan Community Thanksgiving Dinner from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Manhattan Middle School cafeteria.

The Mayor's Holiday Tree lighting ceremony will be on Nov. 26 at 7 p.m. in Triangle Park in Aggieville.

The tree, and the program itself, represents a togetherness in the community, Hayter said.

"The effort is symbolic of the caring and sharing in our community," Hayter said.

The program was started in 1986 by then Mayor Rick Mann with the help of the Aggieville Business Association.

'Amadeus' enticing for all

Actors portray lead characters with energy, drive

By Rebecca Sack
Collegian Reviewer

"Amadeus" begins and ends with the same unnerving pitiful old man, Antonio Salieri. Michael Solomonson played Salieri with magnificence and credibility at Thursday's opening of Peter Shaffer's play. He is a credit to Shaffer's work. His performance is nearly without a pause and so is his energy and drive. He contains the passion of his acting, funneling it into the essential patrician of his character.

He is the same self-centered and fame seeking performer that we all can sense within ourselves. He has allowed his desires to be turned over into a completely meaningless pursuit, driven by a nauseating jealousy.

Fred Darkow plays Mozart with an incredible show of the development of his character from flighty and silly, to poverty stricken, sick, insane and, finally, dead. Throughout his performance, Darkow never loses the intangible aura of the genius of Mozart.

Shaffer's play is intriguingly wrought with themes of God, music and fame. And throughout them is Salieri, an ever present reminder of the feebleness of human desire.

The energy of a play about Mozart would seem to be derived from the biography of him. Instead, Shaffer has reversed the emphasis of the history, and perhaps entered Salieri's own pitiful mind, to create a play centered on the jealous desire of the main character.

"Amadeus" is an incredibly enticing play for many different sorts of people. Mozart's humor is unexpectedly funny, his marriage strangely personal and his genius childlike. Salieri allows us an understanding of his struggle with God and with music, which he sees as the "art of God." Mozart shows us Salieri's struggle with fame, never initiating his own except with the "voice of God," which Salieri hears in Mozart's composition.

Not a moment within the play was suspended from its temporary reality. Director Charlotte MacFarland maintained such a focus within the character of Salieri that even the title "Amadeus" seemed out of place. But such a direct focus lead the audience easily to a theme and the end question. We are still left wondering if Salieri really did poison Mozart to death with jealous hatred or if he fabricated this story in a final effort at securing some sort of sordid fame. At least in "Amadeus," he has.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT COLLEGIAN

UNITED ARTISTS
Theatres

SETH CHILDS 6 776-9886
Seth Childs at Farm Bureau Rd.

Quigley Down Under (PG-13)
Daily 7 & 9:30

Marked for Death (R)
Sat. & Sun. 2:15, 4:25

Sneak Preview: Home Alone (PG)
6:30 & 8:30

Ghost (PG-13)
Daily 6:50 & 9:25

Jacob's Ladder (R)
Daily 7:05 & 9:30

Memphis Belle (PG-13)
Daily 7:10 & 9:20

Sibling Rivalry (PG-13)
Daily 7:15 & 9:20

Amigos

Friday 8 p.m.-Midnight

Fraternity
Eating
Contest

Live Band!

"Be Here Now"

Drafts 50¢

Margaritas $1

Check out our new menu specials!
Located in Aggieville

Mom and

CHARLES
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1983

presents ...
K.C. Premiere
Rock and Roll
Band

The Back
Sliders

Friday
$1.50 Coolers
Saturday
$1 Pitchers

Mom says: Be Here or Be Square
Party Here Now!

FirstBank Center

776-4111

Plum Tree

Homestyle Buffet

All you can eat $5.75, Sunday 5-9 p.m.
Includes soup & salad bar

- Chili
- Lasagna w/ parmesan cheese
- Chicken fried steak with cream gravy (on the side)
- Mashed potatoes and brown gravy
- Corn on the cob
- Chocolate hot fudge brownie

Holiday Inn

530 Richards Drive Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 539-5311

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special
3-10 in. Pizzas
1-Topping
4-Cokes
$10.00

Everyday
Two-Fers
2-10 in. Pizzas
2-Toppings
2-Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Cheers' Near-Nu
Fashions

The near-nu store has expanded! More room, bigger selection for the career person and student.

Check it out!

Mon.-Sat.

10:30 a.m.- 6 p.m.

515 N. 3rd St.

JOIN THE EXCITEMENT
KSU CREW TEAM
Class Day Races

Beginning 9 a.m. this Saturday

- Student teams race all day
- KMKF will be present and will have a boat.

What Can Make ACUVUE®
Disposable Contact Lenses
Even Better?

A Free Trial Pair!

We want to open your eyes to the convenience and comfort of ACUVUE® Disposable Contact Lenses.

Come in for an eye exam.

If ACUVUE is right for you, we'll give you a free trial pair.*

ACUVUE® The First Disposable Contact Lens Johnson & Johnson

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Optometrist

*See your eye care professional

New Location: 555 Poyntz Suite 151 Colony Square

776-9461 Toll Free 1-800-432-0035

Financing Available

*Examination and other professional service fees are not included in this free trial pair offer.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Recent elections prove failure of system

Columnist's note: Because of a number of articles Dwayne Lively has recently published involving his roommate, Bart Bryce, Bryce has demanded equal time and a chance to clear his good name. The Collegian editors believe this is just the kind of journalism they are looking for, unless there's an accident somewhere that you know about.

I was sitting in the lab late one night when my eyes beheld a disgusting sight. It was my pinko columnist roommate D.L., and he was acting disgusted. I leaned back in my chair, the only one he lets me sit in — he thinks it's his apartment because he was there first — and I said, "Okay, D.L., tell me what's wrong."

He shook his head. "Oh it's terrible, Bart" he whined. "It looks like Bob Stephan is going to be attorney general again and Jesse Helms will be re-elected."

"What's wrong with that?" I asked. "I think it says some pretty bad things about our country and state that those two could be re-elected, even narrowly."

I, of course, was taken aback by his comments. "Why, D.L., that's so typical of you. The people have spoken. Are you saying the people are wrong?"

"I don't know what I'm saying." This is typical of D.L. "It just seems strange to me to re-elect a man who's not only been in court while he was in office, but who is going to court again soon."

"D.L., D.L., D.L., D.L." I said. "The people have spoken. The Republican is in office. The world is as it should be."

"Oh, yeah, what about the governor's race?" D.L. said. "That's what I said. The Republican is in office. The real Republican anyway. Look at her stands on the issues." D.L. is fond of childish comebacks such as the above.

"Well, what about Jesse Helms?" "Jesse Helms is God," I said. The look on D.L.'s face was worth any eternal price I will have to pay for the blasphemy. Although it really isn't blasphemy, is it? Jesse fights blasphemy. Jesse equals God? I'll think on this.

D.L. responded in his usual childish, whiny manner. His voice is really irritating. "Sometimes I worry about you, Bart."

"Nay, D.L.," I said, jumping in forcefully. "'Tis you who art that I am worried about." I really dig that Shakespeare kind of talk when I'm in an argument. "Your kind would not have the people speaking out, or wouldst not abide by the speaking of the people, were they to speak."

"That's my point," D.L. whined. "Not that many people spoke."

"Why, we don't want everybody speaking out," I said. "We only want the educated, the informed, preferably the Republican, speaking out. The rest of the riff-raff can stay at home."

"But Bart, the Constitution doesn't say we have to be smart to have the right to vote, it only says that we have the right."

Leave it to D.L. to throw back the Constitution. "So, the people who cared enough to speak have spoken. Imagine what this country would be like if everybody got educated and voted. Why, you might have incumbents serving only one or two terms. They might even pass a two-term limit. More than a few non-millionaires might have a chance to get elected. Imagine the instability that would create. Our government cannot run without stability."

"Then why did the Founding Fathers frame the Constitution to hinder that sort of stability?"

I shook my head. He knows so little. "My theory is that the Founding Fathers didn't expect the country to last that long. I mean I'm sure they fully expected the British Empire to come back over and kick our butts."

"So what happened?" D.L. asked. "Why did the system fail, or work, I mean?"

"I think because we won the War of 1812. I'm sure the Founding Fathers didn't expect to win."

"So our system is messed up because we won?"

"Exactly," I said. "Because we won the war, our leaders have had to play around with the system a little, giving women and 18-year-olds the right to vote, that sort of thing. I figure that experiment's doomed though. I don't think women will be able to vote in the next century."

"What about 18-year-olds?" D.L. asked. "They don't vote anyway, so it won't be that big of a loss."

D.L. was quiet for a few blessed moments. Then he spoke, "I don't know, it still seems weird. I mean, in Paris more than 130,000 high school students took to the streets to protest the safety problems of their schools. I doubt that many college students in Kansas even bothered to vote. It just seems weird."

"Oh, D.L.," I said. "We're in college to get an education, not to know anything. You're getting your priorities mixed up. Besides, those French students should have been rounded up and hauled back to class where they belonged. That's what I think." I crossed my arms triumphantly.

D.L. shook his head and turned his attention back to the television set. "I just don't know about you, Bart. I just don't know." I therefore won the argument and have won many such before. Anything D.L. tells you about me is a lie. I'm even better looking than he is. Just check out that picture. Am I hot or what?

Bart Bryce is a sixth-year senior in business administration.

Bart Bryce

GUEST COLUMNIST

EDITORIALS

Grissom found guilty, brings sigh of relief

Richard Grissom Jr. has been found guilty of killing three Kansas City women.

Now we can breathe a sigh of relief.

The jury of nine women and three men followed the Kansas precedent and convicted the man of first-degree murder without the bodies of the young women as evidence. The very fact that there were no bodies gave reason for anxiety concerning the outcome of the trial.

In fact, Grissom's lawyer's pointed out that most of the evidence should be considered circumstantial. Luckily, the jury didn't see it that way.

Questions remain as to where the bodies of these young women are. Grissom is maintaining his innocence and refuses to give to authorities clues as to where he might have put the bodies.

He says he didn't kill the women. He says he couldn't do something like that. But when they asked him if the women were dead, he answered that they probably were by now.

What kind of images does that comment conjure up? What does it mean? Did he bury them alive or simply leave them bleeding on an unbeaten path somewhere?

He has certainly earned his nickname of "Grisly Grissom." We can find satisfaction, at the very least, in his conviction, but nothing can bring back the lives he took.

At the end of the trial, people rejoiced upon hearing the verdict. But the joy of winning will never be fully realized for the women's family members.

"There is a hollowness to this victory that will go on forever," said Dave Rusch, father of one of the murdered women.

HOW THE 1990 ELECTION WORKED

SAW IT COMING

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR: Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR: Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR: Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN: Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS: Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR: Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR: Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR: Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR: Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR: David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS: Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR: Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF: Mark Schmeier
COPY EDITORS: Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER: Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS: Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimis Hatjimotoheadis, Elvyn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seabourn, Kevin Zwick
REVIEWERS: Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Krutier
STRIP CARTOONISTS: Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchham, J. Kyle Wyatt
EDITORIAL BOARD: Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Frese, Eric Henry, Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venso

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER: Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER: Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR SHEET MANAGER: Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES: Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayme Wall, Allyson Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER: Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR: Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR: Linda Puntney
BUSINESS MANAGER: Jackie Harmon
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE: Linda Weatherly
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER: Pat Hudgins
OFFICE MANAGER: Connie Fulkerson
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT: Carla Jones
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR: Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR: Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS: Britt Owen, Deanna Adams, Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christi South, Joe Cook, Minida Dowdy, John Fulkerson, Norm LeComte, James Seymore

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Keadie Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Keadie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring) $30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring) $54
Summer Session $10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer) $60

The perennial "message": Throwing the bums back in

WE GET IT!

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN IN FOCUS

Kim Howell, manager of the horticulture greenhouses located between Throckmorton Hall and the Dairy Barn, sprays roses with a pesticide to rid them of bugs.

K-State Greenhouse Effect

Campus greenhouses are home to student and professor research

Strawberries in the middle of winter sounds like a dream. But a horticulture student is trying to make that dream a reality.

Peggy Williams, graduate student in horticulture, is currently conducting an experiment in the horticulture greenhouse to grow strawberries without soil.

The experiment involves having a variety of different types of strawberry plants growing, without soil, in bags full of a mixture of peat and mineral products.

"Our goal now is to increase the yield per plant," said William Lamont, assistant professor of horticulture and adviser for the experiment. "We have to increase the yield in order to make this a feasible way to grow strawberries. We want to maximize our use of space."

Lamont said he did the preliminary work for the experiment, but now Williams is conducting the experiment under his supervision.

"Peggy will be working on it for two years," Lamont said. "This is the first of her two years."

A member of the horticulture department has been working on the experiment for the past four or five years consecutively, Lamont said. Last year Joe Schwin, former student in horticulture, worked on the experiment.

He said they have included tomato plants in the experiment in the past and it was pretty successful.

"Things went really well," Lamont said. "We just had a few problems with the spacing of the plants being too close together."

Lamont said the ultimate goal of the experiment is to establish planting times and to maximize yield. Eventually, Lamont said, they will report the findings of the experiment in horticulture magazines.

But the strawberry plants aren't the only experiment in the greenhouse.

One of the rooms of the greenhouse is filled with poinsettia plants. The plants are part of an experiment in conjunction with Big Lakes Developmental Center.

Mentally handicapped people from the center work with horticulture therapy students. The idea behind the program is that growing and working with plants is therapeutic.

Kim Howell, greenhouse manager for the horticulture department, said students also experiment with growth regulation. The growers regulate the growth of the plant by applying chemicals when it is young to keep it small. This increases the desirability of the plant as a house plant.

Another experiment is conducted with grapes.

"They cut off a piece of the leaf and put it in a completely sterile environment — a test tube — and roots will grow right out of the tissue," Howell said.

Howell said one of the horticulture professors is doing another experiment with melon plants.

"He is trying to create the perfect melon," she said.

The floriculture classes experiment with different varieties of mums, Howell said, by controlling the number and location of the flower buds on the stems.

Students who are working toward the two-year associate degree in floriculture also learn how to arrange and pick the best flowers for arrangements.

As manager of the horticulture greenhouse, Howell said she is responsible for watering and fertilizing the plants and moving them from room to room when necessary.

The horticulture department is just one of four departments that have experiments in the complex of greenhouses located between Throckmorton Hall and the Dairy Barn. Agronomy, plant pathology and entomology experiments are also housed in the complex.

Recent additions have been built onto the greenhouse, Howell said, so some of the plants have been moved around and are in temporary positions. Eventually, she said, she will move the plants to permanent locations.

ABOVE: Jim Cox, an employee of Youngs Inc. Construction, tightens a fitting on a greenhouse steam generator. The generator provides the optimum environment for growing plants. LEFT: Concha Walker, junior in horticulture, washes pots that housed plants used in researching viruses so they can be reused for future research.

RIGHT: Scot Hulbert, assistant professor of plant pathology, scores the number of corn plants that show the presence of rust fungus. The research project is one of several currently being conducted in the horticulture greenhouses.

Photos by Mike Welchans

Story by Kelly Berg

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Tigers get 3-year NCAA probation

Pair of top assistants resign

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Two Missouri assistant coaches resigned after the NCAA on Thursday penalized the Tigers' basketball program with scholarship restrictions for the first time in the school's history.

It was the second consecutive day a high-powered basketball program was penalized. Illinois drew three years' probation Wednesday with severe recruiting restrictions.

Missouri coach Norm Stewart defended his 23-year administration against NCAA allegations that a lack of university control allowed him to insulate his program from direct control.

Missouri Chancellor Haskell Monroe Jr. said he accepted the resignations of coaches Rich Daly and Bob Sundvold after lengthy meetings Wednesday night. The chancellor said he was confident that they have the right coach in place.

Stewart, red-eyed and emotional during a news conference, said he thought the resignations of Daly and Sundvold were the most disastrous aspects of the drawn-out investigation because of his close ties to the two men.

The resignations are effective March 31. Monroe said the coaches would be allowed to keep their jobs this year because the program has had enough disruptions.

Big Eight commissioner Carl James said Missouri will still play in the conference tournament at the end of the regular season. However, if Missouri should win the tournament, the conference would forfeit its automatic invitation to the NCAA tournament.

"We would hope the selection committee would find our runner-up an attractive enough team for an invitation," James said.

Sundvold triggered the NCAA investigation into Missouri when he reported he had bought a plane ticket for P.J. Mays, the player who received a semester's worth of scholarship money even though Missouri knew he was ineligible, the NCAA said.

Sundvold sent Mays home to Cincinnati so Mays could see if changes could be made in his high school transcript so he could become eligible.

Monroe said the university would not appeal. Stewart, who has threatened legal action against the NCAA, said any action he might take personally was "deferred."

Daly was found guilty of acting unethically. The Infractions Committee said Daly "would not remember anything connected with most of his recruiting contacts ... in the Detroit area," a memory loss the committee said it found "implausible."

Sundvold was cited for buying the plane ticket for Mays.

Neither Daly nor Sundvold could be immediately reached for comment.

Monroe said operations of the university would be tightened to put more control on the Athletic Department.

Missouri Basketball Probation

WHAT THE NCAA FOUND

- Giving scholarship aid to a partial qualifier whom the school failed to discern was ineligible.
- Improper recruiting contacts.
- Lack of institutional control.
- Having an unmonitored recruiting expense fund approved by the school used in violation of university, state and NCAA rules for payments to recruits during their campus visits.
- Having a casino party for recruits that provided prizes to a recruit and his mother.
- Bringing prospects to campus in the summer prior to their enrollment, "which triggered a variety of violations."

PENALTIES

- Two-year probation.
- Banned from the NCAA Tournament in March.
- No expense-paid recruiting visits during the 1991 calendar year.
- Only one coach can recruit and evaluate off campus during 1991.
- The university can give only one basketball scholarship during the 1991-92 academic year.
- The university can give only two basketball scholarships during the 1992-93 academic year.
- The university can have no contact during the probationary period with an unnamed person who refused to cooperate with the school and the NCAA in the investigation.

Source: Associated Press

Coach Norm Stewart and the Missouri basketball program received a three-year probation from the NCAA, it was announced Thursday.

Tough time at Mizzou

Scott Paske

SPORTS REPORTER

For the second time in 24 hours, the NCAA dropped its probationary hammer Thursday, adding the Missouri Tigers to its list of college basketball's bad guys.

Coach Norm Stewart's program joined Illinois, which was given three years probation Wednesday, as schools that will pay significant penalties for wrongdoing. The Tigers were cited for several major violations between 1985 and 1989 involving recruiting procedures, benefits for athletes and academic irregularities.

The defending Big Eight champions were placed on probation for two years, receiving sanctions similar to what the Kansas Jayhawks were given after winning the NCAA Tournament in 1988.

K-State coach Dana Altman said he believed this week's actions by the NCAA were an attempt to establish comparable sentences for rules violators.

"I'm sure the NCAA is trying to take a strong stand against these types of infractions," Altman said. "I believe they're trying to keep all of the penalties consistent."

Although judgment day didn't come until Thursday, dark clouds hovered over the Missouri program for almost two years. Nobody knew that more than Stewart, his players and coaching staff.

"That has taken up most of my time," Stewart told reporters at Big Eight Basketball Media Day in Kansas City, Mo., two weeks ago. "There were times I spent several hours a day working on the situation."

The big headline grabber during the troubled times came in February 1989 when a tape recorded conversation between Tiger assistant Bob Sundvold and the mother of former Missouri player P.J. Mays was released. Sundvold reportedly offered to purchase a plane ticket for Mays, an NCAA no-no.

Mays also received scholarship money for a semester, despite being academically ineligible.

After the incident was made public, Sundvold was suspended by MU with pay for three months.

What's difficult to understand is why Missouri allowed Sundvold and other full-time assistant Rich Daly — both reported to be involved with various allegations — to stay with the program as long as it did. Their long-time relationship with Stewart is probably the answer.

But fortunately, the pair resigned after meeting with university officials Wednesday night.

A release issued by the NCAA Thursday said that Stewart "delegated many of his responsibilities to his assistants, and neither the assistants nor the head coach maintained records, checks and balances or identifiable processes for institutional control, which could have been used to reconstruct their actions."

With a coaching ledger as impenetrable as Stewart's, one can only wonder how Missouri's destructive snowball became so big.

In defense of Stewart, Altman said the procedure of keeping a program on the straight and narrow is a difficult one. The Wildcat coach said his situation at K-State has lessened the difficulty of that task.

"There are an awful lot of things that you try to get done in a short period of time," Altman said. "A lot of paperwork goes with that, and it's a difficult chore."

"I think the system here at K-State is in place, and that makes it easier to follow."

Unfortunately for Mizzou, it appears things aren't as easy. All-Big Eight performer Anthony Peeler will miss the first half of the year with academic problems, and the wave of controversy cost the Tigers a big-time shooter in Travis Ford, who transferred to Kentucky during the off-season.

Stewart's ace in the hole will be Big Eight player of the year Doug Smith, who decided to stay at Missouri despite the problems. And with a solid recruiting class, led by forward Jevon Crudup, the Tigers should be able to keep Mizzou fans happy with what happens on the court.

It's too bad that what's happened away from it isn't as pleasant.

Harriers to districts

Spots at national meet up for grabs for both squads

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

Competition for spots in the NCAA national championship field lies ahead for the K-State cross country squads this weekend as they compete in the District V Championships on Saturday at the Grandview Golf Course in Springfield, Mo.

The women's race is slated for 10 a.m., with the men's competition following at 10:45 a.m.

The men are riding high after a strong showing two weeks ago at Big Eight Championships that boosted them to a 17th-ranking in national polls. The women are hoping to rebound from a shaky showing at the Big Eight meet even though they captured a second-place conference finish.

The District V meet poses an equally important challenge to the K-State harriers. Along with the Big Eight field, the Missouri Valley Conference, the women's Gateway Conference and some independent teams will stiffen the competition.

"It is going to be real competitive because they don't qualify many people. With Iowa State in the conference, they are probably the one team that has a lock on getting one of each position, both men and women," Capriotti said.

"It is not one of the largest meets. But it is the importance of the meet that is the key because it is the meet that qualifies for nationals."

The men will again have to hit on all five cylinders in the race to continue their season another two weeks. Only three schools out of the field will qualify for the national meet.

The strongest competition for the men will come from the Big Eight with Kansas and Nebraska, but Illinois State will also be a challenge. Illinois State won the Missouri Valley and was honorable mention in the Top 20 poll.

"If the men race like they did last week, then I think they should be in real good shape," Capriotti said.

One of the large keys to K-State success at the Big Eight meet was in their No. 5 runner, Jason Goertzen. Goertzen produced his best race of the season to place in the top 15 and was the No. 4 runner for K-State.

"He just does his own thing. He competes well," Capriotti said. "I don't worry about him too much, and we don't need to put any pressure on him in the big meets. He is a big meet performer."

The women's side of the district competition only qualifies the top two teams for nationals.

The women may receive an at-large bid to the national meet if they do not qualify. Capriotti said, however, he believes expecting an at-large bid from this district may not be very reasonable.

"I'm not too optimistic about getting an at-large bid," Capriotti said. "I think they could. But if a women's team is going into the meet just hoping to get an at-large bid, then they shouldn't hold their breath."

The challenge for the women will also come mainly from the Big Eight schools. They will have to improve at almost every slot, Capriotti said, if they want to qualify.

Last week, K-State's No. 1 and No. 2 runners, Janet Haskin and Janet Treiber, dropped out of the pack and did not finish in the top 10.

"They went into the Big Eight meet a little better rested, and we are starting to rest a little bit more now," Capriotti said. "We are going to have to have Treiber and Haskin run better if we want to go. (Janet) Wagner is also going to have to move up. She didn't have a very good race at conference."

'Cat volleyball team to close home season

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

K-State faces an ominous task Saturday night when it closes out its home volleyball schedule against Nebraska in Ahearn Field House.

The Cornhuskers roll into Manhattan tops in the Big Eight at 9-0, and No. 2 in the nation with a 25-2 overall record.

The Wildcats, 10-12 overall and 2-7 in the conference, had their hopes of postseason play extinguished Wednesday night in Lawrence, which, according to Coach Scott Nelson, may make it easier for his team to have a shot at an upset.

"(Nebraska) is a team that, as I said before, I don't feel puts a whole lot of pressure on us," Nelson said. "This is a team that presents nothing but an opportunity to us. It's also a team that is so offensively potent that if you don't come to play, it's going to be a 40-minute match."

The Husker offense leads the Big Eight in four categories: hitting efficiency, kills, blocking and assists.

After hitting .440 with 50 kills last week, junior Janet Kruse joined teammates Val Novak and Kris Hall with Big Eight player-of-the-week honors.

Middle blocker Stephanie Thater leads the conference in hitting with a .355 percentage, while Kruse and Linda Barsness are second and third, respectively.

"Nebraska is going to be a big challenge. Besides the quality of their team, it's that potentially they can come in and breeze through us. But then again, if we show up ready to play, then I think we'll be competitive and we'll have opportunities to win a game," Nelson said. "If you have opportunities to win a game, then you have opportunities to win a match."

"You need to execute your first-ball offense at a high level, otherwise they'll run points. Nebraska knows how to side out, and they've done it against the best in the country."

Like Kansas, Nebraska will try to stop K-State's offense with a strong defense. The Huskers top the conference in blocking with 3.10 per game, led by Thater's 1.63 a game. "Where Kansas is such a strong defensive team in the backcourt, Nebraska is one of the outstanding blocking teams," Nelson said. "They create a lot of opportunities for points."

Even though missing the tournament hurts, Nelson said he doesn't feel his team will give up the remainder of the season, despite facing three nationally-prominent teams in its next four matches — Nebraska, Colorado and Colorado State.

"I think we need, as a team, to have enough pride in ourselves. Even if our Big Eight chances look real dim," Nelson said. "We have to have enough pride as athletes and come out and compete."

Sooners, Wildcats to meet

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

The Oklahoma football team K-State will face Saturday in Norman may not be the dominant force most Sooners teams have been in the past decade.

Granted, this crew suffered three straight defeats at mid-season, and only recently got back on track with a lopsided 55-10 spanking of Missouri on the slick turf at Faurot Field in Columbia, Mo., last Saturday.

But don't expect K-State coach Bill Snyder to say anything but flattering things about OU, 6-3 overall and 3-2 in the Big Eight. Snyder contends Coach Gary Gibbs and crew are still potent.

"Oklahoma is Oklahoma," Snyder said. "They can play. They've got fine athletes, and Gary and his staff have been around the game for a long time."

Gibbs took over as Sooners head coach before the start of the 1989 season. He's 13-7 overall with an 8-4 mark in the league. Included in those wins was a 42-19 downing of K-State last season in Norman.

In that contest, K-State broke on top early, 3-0, before OU ran off 28 unanswered points to close the first half and effectively bury the Wildcats.

K-State refused to die, however, outbattling the Sooners in the second half and pulling to within 16 midway through the fourth quarter.

"When you go back and recap the entire ballgame, we go in and score and then give way to four drives for 28 unanswered points," Snyder said. "Some teams would have had a problem coming back from that, but we did a fairly good job of it."

Snyder said the biggest problem facing his 1990 unit, 5-4 overall and 2-3 in the Big Eight, will be handling the Sooners team's speed.

"This will be the fastest, quickest football team we'll play during the course of the year, I believe," Snyder said. "That's a great tribute to them, because they recruit so well, and they recruit kids that can run — and I'm not talking about just offensive backs."

Those speedy Oklahoma offensive backs are led by Dewell Brewer, who has 696 yards rushing on 5.8 yards a carry. The Sooners have eight different offensive players who average more than 5 yards per rush, though some have only limited playing time.

The Sooners were tough at home in the non-conference portion of their season, but have split a pair of Big Eight home games — defeating Kansas in a game in which the Jayhawks dominated the second half, and losing to Iowa State 33-31.

"Iowa State was able to keep the ball with their offense a substantial portion of the ballgame, and that would be a key for us as well," Snyder said.

The Iowa State loss was a low point for OU, but the team rebounded with a tough loss at Colorado before the big win at Mizzou.

"Against Missouri, we wanted to get out of our slump and win," said Sooners defensive end Reggie Barnes. "That was motivation enough. That win should be a confidence builder for us heading into this game. We must play well and take care of business with K-State, though, before we start thinking about Nebraska."

SPORTS BRIEFLY

Crew team to sponsor regatta

The K-State crew's Class Day Races will start at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Tuttle Creek Dam.

KMKF-FM will sponsor the event and will have a team competing in the event. All other teams will be from K-State, consisting of the 100-plus members of the K-State team.

Soccer tourney this weekend

The annual Big Eight soccer tournament in memory of a former K-State soccer player will be at Lake Jacomo near Kansas City this weekend.

Fourteen games, beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday, will narrow the eight-team field to four for the semifinals scheduled for Sunday at 10:30 a.m. The finals of the tournament will be played at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. No admission is charged for the games, which are played on the Franke Fields west of Lake Jacomo.

The 12th Annual Edward E. Chartrand Memorial tournament was organized to honor the former K-State student by his brothers David and Art Chartrand.

Purple team wins game

SALINA — The Purple squad defeated the White 98-68 in a men's basketball intrasquad scrimmage game at the Bicentennial Center Thursday night.

Double-figure scorers in the contest included Jean Derouillere and Keith Amerson, who had 21 points each; John Rettiger with 19; Patrick Sams with 13; Jeff Wires and Deryl Cunningham with 12; Marcus Zeigler with 11 and Hamilton Strickland with 10.

Amerson was 9-of-14 from the field and 2-of-3 from three-point range.

Gulf

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

And, the defense secretary said, combat-ready National Guard units — the 48th in Georgia, the 155th in Mississippi and the 256th in Louisiana — would be called up for the first time, for possible reassignment to the Middle East.

They total about 10,000 people. Cheney said fresh Army, Navy and Marine forces would be sent to the gulf, along with hundreds of battle tanks.

Bush spoke as Secretary of State James A. Baker III was in Moscow consulting senior Soviet officials over Persian Gulf strategy.

Soviet officials said they could not rule out the use of force. Bush called this statement "very helpful," and said, "We're on the same wavelength" with President Mikhail S. Gorbachev on goals in the Middle East.

Bush said he hopes international economic sanctions force Saddam to withdraw, but his declaration concerning offensive forces dramatically altered his three-month policy in the Persian Gulf, which has been to be able to withstand further aggression by Iraq.

The president said he also had consulted with Saudi King Fahd, whose nation has provided the main staging area for the U.S. and multinational deployment.

Smoking

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

his colleagues as a leading authority on passive smoking. He was reinstated to the EPA panel after his dismissal was disclosed.

Lippmann said he didn't see any problem working with the EPA and with the tobacco research center.

"It can always raise questions," he said. "I don't view it as any conflict." Lippmann said three of his colleagues at New York University's Institute of Environmental Medicine have received grants from the tobacco industry group. The largest grant was for $250,000, he said.

Eatough, who has received research funds from R.J. Reynolds as well as the Center for Indoor Air Research, said the receipt of such money does not compromise his objectivity.

"I'm sure that it does raise questions in many people's minds," he said.

The scientists serving as peer reviewers for the Center for Indoor Air Research are Michael Lebowitz of the University of Arizona, Jan A.J. Stolwijk of Yale University and James E. Woods of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Stolwijk said, "I review grant applications they send me. I don't have anything else to do with them."

Pakistan

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

East Pakistan became the independent country of Bangladesh following an election dispute in 1971, Jones said.

Pakistan was then independent until 1958, when it came under military rule, Richter said.

Since then, Pakistan has more often been under a military regime than democratic rule, he said.

Richter said that for religious and cultural reasons, men and women vote separately in Pakistan.

"For some time now, they have had separate polling stations for women," Richter said. "Besides police, we were the only men allowed in the polling station."

This was not his first visit to Pakistan, Richter said. He has been there several times. His last trip was in September.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

532-6555

Kedzie 103

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs — skincare — glamor — nails — gifts for all seasons. Florio Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID), $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

CAPTURE CHRISTMAS at Blooming Dale's Garden Center at their Grand Opening Nov. 10 and 11. 1105 Waters. 539-4751.

COLLEGE MONEY, Private Scholarships! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locators, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

PILOT CLUB of Manhattan, Inc.

Annual
Antique Show & Sale

November 10-11, 1990
10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday
11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday

Pottorf Hall
CiCo Park
Manhattan, Kansas

GRAND OPENING

Sat. & Sun.
Nov.
10 & 11

Christmas at DALE'S
GARDEN CENTER

1105 Waters-539-4751

ENGINEERING &
COMPUTER SCIENCE MAJORS
AT&T BELL LABORATORIES

SYSTEMS ENGINEERING
PRESENTATION

Tuesday, November 13, 1990
7:00 p.m. - Durland 152

Bobby T's

Weekends at Bobby T's
Fridays Enjoy Shrimp and Beer
2 doz shrim & pitcher of beer $4.99
DJ 8-12

Saturday Enjoy Live Entertainment
John Woofler
The Singing Stockbroker

(Continued on page 8)

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

KSU GOSPEL SERVICE

"Alienated but Reconciled"

All Faiths Chapel
KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

This Sunday, November 11, 11:15 a.m.

MAKE HOLIDAY TRAVEL PLANS EARLY

KANSAS CITY INTERNATIONAL

AIRPORT SHUTTLE
SERVICE

FOR RESERVATIONS CALL:
Manhattan 537-2086
or others: 1-800-826-8294
Junction City/Fort Riley 238-6161

SIX SCHEDULED ROUND TRIPS DAILY

	RUN	University Inn		ARRIVAL
		Manhattan	KCI
AM	101	4:10 a.m.	6:20 a.m.
	102	5:45 a.m.	8:00 a.m.
	103	7:30 a.m.	9:45 a.m.
	104	10:15 a.m.	12:30 p.m.
PM	105	12:55 p.m.	3:00 p.m.
	106	2:45 p.m.	5:00 p.m.
	107	6:15 p.m.	8:30 p.m.

	DEPART	KCI		Manhattan
		Manhattan	KCI
AM	201	7:30 a.m.	9:30 a.m.
	202	9:15 a.m.	11:15 a.m.
	203	11:15 a.m.	1:15 p.m.
	204	2:30 p.m.	4:30 p.m.
PM	205	5:00 p.m.	7:00 p.m.
	206	8:30 p.m.	10:30 p.m.
	207	11:00 p.m.	1:00 a.m.

	One Way	Round Trip
ADULTS	12.00	14.00
SENIORS & MILITARY	24.00	44.00
KSU STUDENT	24.00	44.00
CHILDREN 2-12*	12.00	22.00
INFANTS 2 yrs*	FREE	FREE

THANK YOU!

For your continuous support during the past week.

The Department of Interior Design & The College of Human Ecology

Sponsored by The American Society of Interior Designers

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR KSU COLLEAGUES, STUDENTS AND FRIENDS—

FOR THE PAST TWO WEEKS THE COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN HAS BEEN FLOODED WITH LETTERS, PHONE CALLS, VISITS AND FAX COMMUNIQUE FROM ALUMNI, PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS AND PARENTS AND FRIENDS. TO THESE WERE ADDED THE STATEMENTS OF SUPPORT, ANGER, CONCERN AND ENCOURAGEMENT FROM PRACTICING PROFESSIONALS, SOCIETIES, AND ACCREDITING BOARDS REPRESENTING THE VAST AND VITAL AREAS CONSTITUTING THE ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN PROFESSIONS. THEY OFFERED ASSISTANCE, FUNDS OR WHATEVER WAS NEEDED TO REVERSE THE REORGANIZATION PROPOSAL. WE EXPECTED THIS RESPONSE FROM THOSE WHO KNOW US BEST— BUT ABOVE ALL, THE EXPRESSED AND DEMONSTRATED SUPPORT FROM OUR FELLOW STUDENTS, COLLEAGUES, ADMINISTRATION AND FRIENDS ON THE CAMPUS WHO HAVE SHOWN BY THESE EFFORTS AND OUTPOURINGS, THEIR COMMITMENT TO THE FUTURE OF THIS COLLEGE AS AN INTEGRAL PART OF A FULL LAND GRANT UNIVERSITY. TO YOU WE PLEDGE OUR SUPPORT TO WORK TOWARD THE MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT OF THE COLLEGES AND THE GROWTH OF THIS UNIVERSITY. TO YOU WE SAY THANKS.

THE STUDENTS, FACULTY, AND STAFF OF THE COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

(Continued from page 7)

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

COMPLETE VIDEO of Homecoming bodybuilding team competition. Union Courtyard, Nov. 2. $22 includes tax, postage, handling. Living Image Video, 539-0168.

FED UP with health insurance premiums that continually increase? If so, I have a policy for you. If you're interested call... Billie Gallaher, 539-5676.

LOST 18 lbs. in three weeks. You too can lose weight, guaranteed! Call Vanessa at 776-4764.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

THANKS, POW-MIAS. Join in remembering our brothers, sons, fathers and husbands tonight at the KSU Vietnam Veterans' Memorial at 8p.m. Freedom is not free.

Don't Forget
FRIDAY
LADIES
IN FREE
SATURDAY
No Cover
with Student ID
Only At
BAYSTREET

KSU BAND Drumline will hold a Chili Supper Sunday, Nov. 11th from 5-8p.m. at the Campus Ecumenical Center. All you can eat, $4.

THE OSAGE House has Indian carryout for $4, 2605 Stagg Hill Road, 776-1234.

2 Apartments—Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

UPSTAIRS APARTMENT for one person. 539-5778.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM IN Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid, $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid, $260. 776-7320.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE available mid-November. One and one-half baths. Eighth and Bluemont. No pets. $400. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/ dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

VERY NICE one-bedroom apartment, attractive location, no pets. $275 plus electricity. 776-0406.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY: One-bedroom apartment located on west side. $320 per month, no pets. Call 776-1340, 8a.m.—6p.m.

AVAILABLE JAN. 1. Private bedrooms for three neat and tidy females sharing very nice, large, four-bedroom, two-bath home with KSU student owner. 539-1288.

LEASE FOR Spring—Now! One-bedroom one block from campus/ Aggieville. Rent $295 plus deposit and electric. Available December. 537-3342.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month. lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1976 MERCURY Capri II, V-6, new tires. $200 as is. Call 776-4993.

1980 OLDS Toronado, full power, great shape, low mileage, $2,500 or best offer. 537-2687 after 5:30p.m.

1981 OLDS Cutlas, new tires, nice interior, good condition. Call 776-4122.

1981 PLYMOUTH Horizon, mileage 55,400, good condition. $1,650 negotiable. Melville 532-7212 after 10:30a.m. or 537-4420.

1984 VW Rabbit convertible. Very good condition, low mileage, asking $6,500. Call 776-5668 after 6p.m.

1985 CALAIS: Gunsmoke gray. $320. 539-9173.

1985 NISSAN 4x4. New paint, air conditioning, fiberglass top, AM/FM cassette, high miles. $4,000 or best offer. 537-0313.

1987 CHEVY Custom van, loaded, 50,000 miles, 350CID, auto, power windows, power steering, air, cruise, tilt, like new. 1-468-3689, keep trying.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies, Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE: IBM PS/2 model 50Z. 1MB RAM, 80286, one 3.5" floppy, 30MB hard drive, Micro Channel architecture. IBM mouse, 8513 color VGA monitor, enhanced keyboard, cloth covers, DOS 4.01 and lots of software. One year old. $3,000. 1-823-9739, Salina.

(Continued on page 9)

KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend one of two Planned Gift/Estate Planning Seminars 2 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 13 and repeated at 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 14 K-State Union Little Theater

Through the fascinating use of planned gifts, individuals are able to minimize taxes, increase their estates and, in some circumstances, actually increase their current income.

This seminar will describe the many financial instruments available for gifts to K-State such as charitable lead trusts, unitrusts, and gift annuities.

Presented by Robert Sandberg, Gift Planning Consultant and former Vice President for the University of Nebraska Foundation and Mark Moore, Vice President for Capital Campaigns/Planned Gifts at the KSU Foundation

All KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend. Admission is free.

Sponsored by the KSU Foundation and KSU Student Foundation

Religious Directory

COLLEGE HEIGHTS BAPTIST CHURCH

9:15 a.m. Sunday School
10:30 a.m. Worship Service
6 p.m. Training Hour
7 p.m. Worship Service
2221 College Heights Rd. 537-7744

Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan

MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson
Steve Ratliff, Pastor
Worship 9:30 a.m.
Sunday School 11 a.m.
776-2086
Nursery Provided

UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST FELLOWSHIP OF MANHATTAN

10:45 a.m. Service & Sunday School
Nursery provided, everyone welcome
481 Zeandale Rd.
On K-18, 1/2 mile east of K-177

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Worship at 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School 9:45 a.m. (for all ages)
10th & Poyntz 537-8532

St. Isidore's University Chapel

Catholic Student Center
Sunday Masses 9:30, 11 a.m., 5 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Daily Mass-M, Tu, Th, F 4:30 p.m.
Wed. 11 a.m. at St. Mary Hospital
Wed. 10 p.m. evening prayer

Confessions—1/2 hr. before daily mass.
Rev. Norbert Diabai, Chaplain
Sister Rose Walters, C.S.A.

711 Denison 539-7496

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

Worship 8 and 10:30 a.m.
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m.
1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays
CARE CELLS (Small Groups)
6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays
3001 Fl. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

CRESTVIEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Worship 10:30 a.m. & 6:30 p.m.
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
4761 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-3798
(2 miles north of Mariatt and Tuttle Creek Blvd.)

Christian Science Church

511 Westview Drive 539-5605
10 a.m. morning service—10 a.m. Sunday School
Wednesday Testimony Meeting 7:30 p.m.
Reading room—428 Houston

Peace Lutheran Church

2500 Kimball Ave.
Worship at 8:30 a.m. & 10:45 a.m.

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

Worship Saturday 6 p.m.
Sunday 8 and 10:45 a.m.
—Bible Class—
Sun. 9:30 a.m.—Thurs. 7-8:30 p.m.

539-2604 330 N. Sunset

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Church School—9:45 a.m.
Worship—8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.
Disciples of Christ
5th and Humboldt 776-8790

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

8:45 a.m. Communion (first Sunday of the month)
9:45 College Church School
8:45 & 11 a.m. Worship
Nursery provided for all services
John D. Stoneking, Pastor
512 Poyntz 776-8821

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Christian Campus Ministry
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
College Class—Money, Sex & Power: A Biblical Perspective
Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m. & 6 p.m.
2510 Dickens Ave. 539-6581

FIRST CHURCH of the NAZARENE

College Class 9:30 a.m.
Worship Services 10:50 a.m. & 6 p.m.
Sunday School 9:45 a.m.
1000 Fremont *Nursery Available 539-2851

GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH

2901 Dickens Ave.
Don Pahl, Pastor
Mike Tuley, Pastor
776-0424

Worship 8:30 & 10:45 a.m.
Collegiate & International Bible Studies Sun. 9:30 a.m.
Fellowship Hour Sun. 6 p.m.
Family Night Wed. 7 p.m.
STUDENTS WELCOME

Valleyview Community Church

Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m.
Ramada Inn, lower level 17th and Anderson
For more information call Dan Walter 776-0112

Let's Share

During November and December 1990, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a COLLEGIAN Classified Ad. (Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

1 can	50 cents
2 cans	$1.00
3 cans	$1.50
4 cans	$2.00
5 cans	$2.50
6 cans	$3.00

Student Publications Inc. will donate all items to the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

Offer expires 12/13/90

HEY ALPHA CHI'S! This weekend the rest of you we'll pity . . .

ROBIN
CINDY
JILL
ANNE
MELANIE
MEGGAN

NIKKI
DARLA
MICHELLE
GAY
DENISE
LISA
CLARISSA

'cause your SENIORS went off to play in the Windy City!

(Continued from page 8)

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac Ili, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below book-store. Call 539-0801 or come by 1115 Westloop.

IBM COMPATIBLE XT dual floppy, monochrome monitor, printer. Software and manuals, $900. Call 537-8664.

MS DOS Microsoft Windows ver. 3.0, $55. Call 532-5282.

8 Employment

ATTENTION: LABORATORY Personnel. Immediate opening for a MT(ASCP) or equivalent and Medical Laboratory Technologist MLT(ASCP) or equivalent. Full-time and part-time openings. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

4-H YOUTH Extension Assistant (Temporary and Part-time) to support 4-H Club organization and 4-H parents committees, plant and mechanical science projects. Available Dec. 1. Required: Master's Degree in Curriculum Design, Counseling, Guidance, Education, Physical Education, Human Development/ Family Studies, or related. Salary commensurate. Resume, transcripts, and three reference letters by Nov. 15 to CR Salmon, Unberger Hall, KSU, 913-532-5900. KSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

ATTENTION: ACCOUNTANT: We have an immediate opening for an individual with a bachelor's or master's degree in business, accounting or finance. Experience in hospital reimbursement, audits, cost accounting, development of department and hospital-wide budgeting, cash flow, investments and integrated computer systems is required. Competitive salary and benefits. Please send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: PHYSICIAN AND Allied Recruiters: We have an immediate opening for a mature, self-motivated individual who presents a positive image. Must have a bachelor's or master's degree and experience in position relations. Sales and marketing experience is preferred. Will develop and track computer driven physician and allied health care professional database. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (408)756-5134.

CHILD CARE PROVIDER: Experienced, reliable individual with familiarity of life saving techniques Friday, Nov. 16th, 9:45—11:45a.m. $4.75 hourly. Contact 1-485-2729 or 539-3197.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

FREE SPRING Break trips to students or student organizations promoting our Spring Break Packages. Good Pay and Fun. Call CMI 1-800-423-5264.

ATTENTION: EXCELLENT income for home assembly work. 504-646-1700, Dept. P6438.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST needed to fill full-time position in progressive clinical reference laboratory. Excellent benefits, competitive salary and no call. Call Carol at 539-5363, EOE.

PART-TIME OFFICE manager, some computer experience, some accounting, need very good telephone skills, 12 hours/week, flexible. 776-9544.

PART-TIME CASHIER/ Hostess wanted 10a.m.—2p.m., Monday—Friday and all day Saturday. Apply in person at the Personnel Department, Kansas Lumber Homestore, 111 South Seth Childs Road. EOE.

STUDENT WITH good clerical skills to work 20 hours per week in the insurance/ cashier's office. Computer experience desired. Apply in room 111, Lafene. Contact Doris Beck.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalspell, MT 59901.

TIERED OF school? Need a change of pace? Be a nanny. Go to interesting places, earn good money for a year. Temptation Nanny Agency, (913)842-4443.

WANTED LIVE-IN college student to supervise 16-year-old twins. Evening meal preparation and a few other miscellaneous duties. Call 776-5351. Call on Saturday and Sunday only.

WE NEED a chimney sweep who is hardworking, very mechanically inclined, has no fear of heights and relates well with people. Must be able to work Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. 776-9544.

GENERAL SUPPLIES MANAGER, Varney's Book Store, Manhattan, Kansas.

We are seeking an energetic, knowledgeable individual committed to giving excellent customer service. Responsibilities include purchase, merchandising and sale of general school supplies, office supplies and soft goods. Experience with purchasing and inventory control systems and demonstrated supervisory experience preferred. Prefer individual with knowledge of products in area of responsibility. Prefer bachelor degree. Competitive salary, bonus and fringe benefits are offered. Deadline to apply: November 30, 1990. Submit letter of application, resume and references to: Jon Levin, Varney's Book Store, 623 N. Manhattan Ave., Manhattan, Kansas 66502.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits.

15-80K+.
Free Information
Call
Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

9 Food Specials

Every Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!

- Spaghetti & meat sauce
- Salad Bar
- Texas Toast

$4.95
The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th
Fridays 5-8 p.m.

SUNDAY LUNCH
Pan Fried Chicken and other daily specials.
Specials include free dessert.
ONLY $4.25
Serving Breakfast till 1 p.m.
Open Every Sunday 7 a.m.-2:30 p.m.
The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th
10% off with this ad

10 Furniture to Buy or Sell

FOR SALE: Sofa—$50, tables (2) $10 each, floor lamp—$5. Call 1-784-3031.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: KSU champion sweatshirt. We switched sweatshirts Monday night at Rec. Call 539-5993 to exchange.

LOST: BLACK and white female Boston Terrier with red collar. Please call 539-5295 or 776-1195.

LOST: CHALLIS print shirt somewhere in or between Akert and Willard, Monday 11/5. Call 532-6092.

LOST: CLASS ring on hill at KU/ K-State game. If found call 539-6932.

15 Meetings/ Events

FRUSTRATED?? TAKE out your anxiety by bashing a car—for $1 you get one smash with a sledgehammer. Help the KSU Drumline go to competition! Friday, Nov. 9, 9a.m.—5p.m., Union Island.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

1971 12x50 Mobile Home. Extra clean, low lot rent, $5,200. Call Allen 537-3909, leave message.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

FISHER MONTAIRE mountain bike. Shimano Deore components. $450. 776-1638 leave message.

19 Music/ Musicians

FOR SALE: Two guitars: One acoustic, one classical. $150 each or $250 for both. 539-3587 evenings.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

BLONDE BLIND Mouse Michelle—What was that # again? Try again? 9:25 around Section 115 or let me know better —Parlez-vous? You had me going.

ΣK
Kansas State Colony, you're the best!
I wish you all my best on this 116th anniversary of Sigma Kappa Sorority.
With One Heart and One Way
Michelle

DAN THE Ad Man—Have a great time in Dallas, it'll be a blast.

FRIENDS OF Leanne and Julie—The night is here, so let's drink some beer. 30 after 9, is the party time. Apt. #3 will be a sight! Because all our rowdy friends are coming over tonight!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, Ann-Jennifer. From your other Colorado friend.

HAYMAKER ESCORT—Was that you or some other pervert that followed me across campus late last Tuesday night? If I bothered to arrange and wait for an escort, you could have bothered to, at least, show up. Thanks for nothing —Cyndi.

MARCI—WITH the 7th check sent you are broke, Billy Sprague will arrive Friday we hope. Sit back and relax, all the work is done. Now it's time to have fun.

MY DEAREST D., You are Smokey, I am Zeke, My love'll show, in three weeks.

RLW—SHE'S so loud! I love and miss you. Your favorite red-head from KU.

SIGMA KAPPA Keri R: Sorry it's late, hope you have a Happy Week of Giving—Secret Sis Sandi.

SIGMA KAPPA Beth, Fabulous Baker Boys, 10th and Moro, skiing in Co. and Christmas in D.C. So many memories and even more to come. New Orleans next weekend? Love, Rosey.

SIGMA K—Brandi K., Hope you had a great week! Lots of Sigma Love from your Secret Sigma. —Jodi K.

TRI SIGMA Pledges—We knew your secret from the start. You can't fool us active, we're much too smart. Have fun in Chicago and drink some beers. But don't forget our souvenirs. And say goodbye before you depart.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

FREE SHIH-TZU cross female, 7-week-old puppies. Please call 539-0183 and leave message if not at home.

23 Resume/Typing Service

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT Services—More than just typing—we create the resume with you, to reflect your best. Computer typeset and laserprint. Appointment, 776-1229. Owner has nine years experience in university career center.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851, Clatin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Rosa Secretarial Service, 614 N 12th, 539-5147. Across from Kile's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Argosy next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

TYPING USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Call Judy at 539-7100.

WORDPROCESSING/ TYPING—Data sheets, reports, theses, dissertations, letters, resumes, applications, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204.

24 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE, available immediately. Own room, good size apartment. Washer and dryer, $150 a month plus one-fifth utilities. Two blocks from campus. 776-4022 ask for Suzanne.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share nice apartment spring semester. $133.33/ month plus one-third utilities. 776-2180.

FEMALE ROOMMATE—Must be tidy. $167.50 plus one-half utilities. November rent paid. 776-0774.

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share new tri-level furnished apartment. Spring semester, $157.50 plus one-fourth utilities. 1825 College Heights. 776-7297.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share spacious three-bedroom apartment for spring semester. Non-smoker. Call 776-3234 after 3p.m.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: Own bedroom, pets allowed. Call after 7p.m., ask for Wendy 539-8882. Available immediately.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, spring semester, own room, washer and dryer, $175 month. 537-8473.

FEMALE WANTED to share very nice two-bedroom: across from campus. Available immediately, sublease. 539-7494.

NEEDED—MALE roommate for spring semester. Close to campus. $140/ month, one-sixth utilities. Own room. Ask for Matt or Larry. 776-9443.

NON-SMOKER FEMALE. Neat and clean. Own bedroom. Woodway Apartments. $175 monthly plus one-third utilities. Call 537-3233.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate $150 plus one-half utilities. Own room. 776-4937.

ONE OR two female roommates to share nice two-bedroom apartment two blocks from campus. Spring semester. 776-4782 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE WANTED—Male roommate wanted to share three-bedroom apartment, one-half block from campus. $180/ month, one-third utilities, own room. Call Richard 532-6709 or 537-4076 after 5p.m.

ROOMMATE NEEDED immediately: female, Christian, non-smoking. $175. 539-3459.

ROOMMATE WANTED for spacious apartment, own room, two and one-half blocks from campus. $120/ month plus one-third gas and phone. 539-1161.

ROOMMATES NEEDED to share apartment next to campus. Spring semester, $145/ month, utilities included. 539-1720.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted: four-bedroom house, own room, two blocks from campus. $135/ month. 776-1252.

25 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

New Sunbed Tanning 10 for $15

Laramie Plaza Basement 539-7095

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

27 Sports/Recreation Equipment

SHOTGUN—H&R 12 gauge, over and under, full modified, 3" chamber, $300 firm. 537-9690.

28 Sublease

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath, fireplace, washer and dryer, dishwasher, pool, beautiful view. $405/ month. 776-2422.

ONE—THREE female roommates, furnished house, spring semester (or up to two now). Private bath, living, entrance, backyard. Washer/dryer. $162.50/ month, negotiable. Lease ends in May. Amy 539-3886.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for sublease second semester, unfurnished, brand new. Call 776-6191.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed to fill four-bedroom house in spring semester. Own bedrooms. One block from campus. Washer/dryer. $125 per month plus one-fourth utilities. 537-9094.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

MUST SELL three tickets to Billy Joel's concert in KC on Nov. 21. Call 539-1651 after 6p.m. Good price.

ONE SET of Cat's Season B-ball tickets, $55. 539-3594, ask for Lance.

30 Travel

OK! LAST CHANCE! IN BREAK
STEAMBOAT BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $177
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $184
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $247
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
JANUARY 2-12 • 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $247
9th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

31 Tutor

TUTORING IN Modern Greek. Open to anyone, call Ali Barmashi. Phone 776-6128, after 5p.m.

33 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID), $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 60% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies between 8a.m.—5p.m. 776-1223, after 5p.m. 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Baseball cards, mainly new cards. Call 537-1705 after 7p.m.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Mary's Sales. 1-437-2734.

PROTECT YOURSELF against an unwanted attacker, purchase mace. Easy to use, small enough for your pocket, attach to your key chain. Security for $5. Call 539-7349, leave message.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels. $75, portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m. If no answer, leave message.

WANTED: A used washer in working condition. Call 537-9208 after 5p.m.

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS	1 "Cheers" role	4 Author Kingsley	8 Mop	12 Bud's buddy	13 Open break	14 Fib	15 It keeps you up nights	17 Wheel-base terminus	18 Re grams, etc.	19 Kvetch	21 "Wow!"	22 Night sights	26 A touchy fellow?	29 "Treasure Island" boy	30 Misfortune	31 Mashie or niblick	32 Invasion advice?	33 Peregrinate	34 Blue	35 Joke or choke	36 Turned white	37 Said, "Zzzzz"	39 Part of a
DOWN	2 Topnotch	3 Essential: colloq.	4 Wartime factions	5 Chop finely	6 "—Had a Hammer"	7 Stunt-person, e.g.	8 Phase	9 Polish, in a way	10 The whole thing	11 Spelldown	16 E. Power Biggs played it	20 Something up your sleeve	23 Off base?	24 PQN6ch is one	25 Pip	26 Realize it's not there	27 Middle East nation	28 Extinct bird	29 Moon-shine container	32 Cool, in modern slang	33 Moroccan capital	35 Respond to pectin	36 Procession	38 "Sweeney Todd" prop	39 Emulates Clyde Beatty	42 "Dr. Strange-love" topik	43 Phrase of understanding	44 Small change	45 Chore	46 Cousin of 53	47 Last chapter ii. Webster's?	49 Have bills

CRYPTOQUIP

11-9 Q Z M B G E V M R Q M E V E F W
43 Phrase of U I M I Z M K U Y Y S F Q Z M understanding H F L L D Q U H D I Q B G R ' Q
44 Small R G U Y Z U W S F K R change Yesterday's Cryptoquip: FAMOUS CHEF WHO'S 45 Chore IRRITATED AT HIS ASSISTANT DOESN'T MINCE of 53 WORDS.
47 Last Across chapter ii. Today's Cryptoquip clue: B equals C
Webster's? 49 Have bills

College of Human Ecology faculty and staff
sincerely thank you for your tremendous support

F.H. Aramo
Barbara Cannon
Linda May
Margaret Brochetti
Carol Gizzi
Rebecca O'Young Daniels
Cathy McNamee
Tom Jurek
Gon Mac Laurin
Camille Kerey
Virginia Foster
Ann Murray
Dana
Janice J. Jones
Mary Margaret
Janice J. Jones
Neridich Stark
Mimi Stark
Dana
Candy Russell
Carol Palmiter
Liquid Rock
David Wright
Judy Jensen
Barbara Rogers
Robert Jensen
Deanna Hanson
Joyce A. Cantrell
Faith Roach
Mary Don Peterson
Ellen Skene

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Monday, November 12, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 55

Artist and poet Sue Hu creates the background of a garden scene using spilled ink while working a basement studio in her home. The artistic talent runs in the family as Hu's husband, Kuo-Kuang Hu, professor of civil engineering, works with calligraphy.

INK on paper

Manhattan artist practices traditional art

By The Collegian Staff

Her art is at once modern and ancient. Her philosophy of art and life is a blend of East and West. Her name is Sue Hu, and she signs her paintings HuSue.

Hu is Chinese American, an artist, poet, mother and teacher. She has lived in Manhattan since 1965 when she came with her husband Kuo-Kuang Hu, professor in civil engineering, to K-State.

"On the land of my choice to root and thus my children's roots are destined" is a line from one of Hu's poems. This poem and several others in her and her husband's first book "OURS — Poetry in Words and Brush Strokes" are about life experiences and the problems people face.

The poems in her first book were collected from ideas jotted down in the past 20 years, Hu said. Many times they relate to her children.

"Artists are weirdos and nerds to begin with/Her son said, with self-composed cool, as a scientist-mathematician should. For to him beauty is the truth of precision," wrote Hu in the form of a dialogue.

"The poem about a friend who is a snob is quintessential Sue Hu," said Donald Stewart, professor of English. "(It is) dry wit and a gentle reprimand."

In the poem, Hu asks if the friend will step down, or if she too must stand on a pedestal so they may have eye contact.

While her poems and paintings are personal, the themes transcend to the universal.

Sue Hu, a painter since high school, uses a wide selection of Chinese brushes to apply various colors of ink to rice paper.

"Reality is one of the hardest things to understand," Hu said. The concepts of humanity, infinity, nature, and reality are infused in all of Hu's work. For her, these abstract concepts are all part of a whole.

Hu said she visualized an unbroken light and created a two-panel ink design she named "landscape of civilization" after studying Taoism for four years.

"In this painting, I try to redefine the classic yin and yang symbol, where opposites form a whole with no beginning and no end," she said.

Hu uses a traditional Chinese technique of white space — unpainted areas — with dramatic results. Ninety percent of the painting is black. The unpainted area appears as a thin line that runs horizontally from one side to the other — unbroken but varying in thickness almost randomly.

Hu said she hopes eventually to translate this design into a 3-by-14 foot oil painting.

"When you stand by it, you will see an unbroken string of light and get the sense of not one person really, but all of civilization — humanity as a whole," Hu said.

In her poem "en route to understanding our physical world," Hu writes "finite is assumed for security, classification for clarity, infinity is the reality."

The poem and the painting complement each other. Painting and writing are related, Hu said. At the core of art is sensibility — that is

■ See HU, Page 10

ROTC ceremony honors veterans at KSU Memorial

By Angie Schrock
Collegian Reporter

The sun sank in the sky and the American flag hung motionless as the Army and Air Force ROTC cadets began the annual retreat ceremony Friday at the KSU Vietnam Memorial.

A color guard composed of Army and Air Force ROTC cadets marched to the flagpole in the center of the memorial and lowered the flag while "Taps" was played.

"The retreat ceremony is the taking down of the flag to be put away for the night. We do this to honor the past heroes who fought and died to make this country free, the way it is today," said Staff Sgt. Kevin Adkins, instructor of military science.

Adkins said the ceremony is on the Friday before Veteran's Day and that this is the second year the ceremony was held at the KSU Vietnam Memorial.

The memorial was dedicated at the Veteran's Day retreat ceremony last November.

Cadet Maj. Catherine Barnes, senior in political science, said the memorial has made the ceremony easier to conduct and even more important.

"Before we had the flag at the memorial, several members of the color guard would go on top of Anderson Hall and take down that flag. Now that we have the memorial, everything seems a little closer and not so far away," Barnes said.

A wreath with red and white flowers was placed at the memorial by the ROTC and there were numerous bouquets lying on the concrete below the names.

"Flags and flowers just show up here. We have been amazed at the response we have gotten. People leave things here just like at the wall in Washington, D.C., and we didn't expect that at all," Barnes said.

To many veterans and their families, the memorial means more than just a remembrance of the war, said Lou Guillen, Vietnam veteran from Manhattan.

"This is a sign of acceptance of what we did or tried to do. We did the best we could, and it took a long time to be able to say I was a part of this," he said.

"I watched this memorial being built from the ground up. This is only the second Veteran's Day I felt like getting out and saying, 'Yes, I was there,'" Guillen said.

Guillen said the retreat ceremony is a special time to remember not just the names on the wall but also all veterans of all wars. It is a sign of respect and thankfulness that there are people who will risk and give up their lives for their country, he said.

Barnes said the memorial is not just a place to remember around Veteran's Day but somewhere people can go at any time of the year.

"I sometimes come here and just sit on the bench and think. It is usually so calm and quiet," she said.

Doubling of forces warning to Iraq

Bush's decision based on evaluation

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush decided to nearly double U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf as a signal to Iraq — and the rest of the world — that the United States has more than enough firepower to force Saddam Hussein out of Kuwait if necessary, U.S. officials said.

"We had to show the international community we were serious," said one official.

The decision also was prompted by Bush's determination to match Hussein's own military buildup, the officials said.

The officials, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said Bush's decision to send in more troops and equipment was not made overnight, but evolved over a period of weeks.

"The situation has been evaluated and re-evaluated as time went on," said one official.

The administration on Thursday announced massive ground, sea and air reinforcements to the combat power already in the gulf region. That could mean as many as 200,000 new forces will be added to the some 230,000 U.S. military personnel already there. Bush said they were needed for an adequate offensive military option — words chosen carefully as a signal to Hussein.

U.S. forces now in place in Saudi Arabia and on ships in the gulf already had a limited offensive capability, officials said. But they said the president wanted to send a forceful new message to Hussein by emphasizing the word offensive.

Bush's decision to bolster U.S. forces was motivated, in part, by Hussein's own buildup in sending nearly half of his million-strong army to face the United States across the Saudi border.

Hussein's dogged refusal to yield to world condemnation, or to four months of international economic sanctions, was also a factor in Bush's decision to up the stakes.

It wasn't that Bush decided at some point that the economic sanctions weren't having an impact, aides said.

"We've always placed an emphasis on the sanctions," one official said. But, he added, "we want to maintain our credibility."

"The sanctions are not changing his (Hussein's) mind, even though they are having an effect on his society," the official said. "The degree of seriousness with which Saddam takes international efforts is questionable."

Monarch enthroned as symbol, not living god

Radicals make bomb threats on Japanese ceremony

By The Associated Press

TOKYO — In a solemn, centuries-old rite at Tokyo's Imperial Palace, Emperor Akihito formally accedes to the Chrysanthemum Throne today to become the first Japanese monarch enthroned as a symbol and not a living god.

Clad in ancient court costume and seated atop an elaborate lacquered platform under a curtained canopy encrusted with gold phoenixes and circular mirrors, Akihito will face a courtyard lined with ceremonial banners.

Next to him on a smaller platform will be Empress Michiko. Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu will lead the 2,500 guests in three cheers of "Banzai! — May you live ten thousand years!"

Critics say the 30-minute ceremony and a series of accompanying rites to be held in coming weeks are based too closely on the traditional religious rituals used for Akihito's father and grandfather, who were enthroned as living gods.

Under Japan's postwar constitution, the emperor is simply a national symbol.

Leftist radicals have vowed to disrupt the ceremonies and have claimed responsibility for a series of bombings and arson attacks in recent weeks.

On Sunday, two bombs exploded at the house of U.S. Consul General Gregory L. Johnson in Nishinomiya, in western Japan. Police said they caused little damage and no injuries. It was not immediately clear whether the explosions were connected with the enthronement.

The government is reportedly spending $95 million on the rites, much of it for security. Opponents say state funding of the ceremonies, linked to Japan's indigenous Shinto religion, violates the constitutional separation of religion and state.

In one controversial element of the rite, Akihito's raised dais is said to be patterned after one used by the sun goddess, from whom tradition says the Japanese imperial line is descended. Critics say that is an implied symbol of divinity.

A record 37,000 police, including reinforcements from a majority of Japan's 47 prefectures, have been mobilized for security surrounding the rite.

Dignitaries from 158 countries expected to attend the ceremony include Vice President Dan Quayle, United Nations Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, Supreme Soviet Chairman Anatoly Lukyanov and Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Diana.

The government has not released the names of Japanese dignitaries invited to the ceremony because of fear of radical attacks on their homes or businesses.

On Sunday, police vehicles lined the entrances to the palace, hotels and other key areas, and officers checked the bags of passers-by.

Manholes were sealed near the palace, and police used a low-flying blimp to search for signs of terrorist activity. Frogmen searched the moats surrounding the palace.

Riot police buses and trucks with water cannons stood guard. Officers stopped passing cars, checking licenses and using mirrors to look underneath some vehicles.

Traffic was sharply restricted or halted along highways and in areas around the palace. Few tie-ups were reported, in part because enthronement day was declared a national holiday and many Tokyo residents took advantage of the three-day weekend to leave town.

Airlines reported many flights were booked close to capacity.

Akihito became emperor immediately upon the death of his father, Emperor Hirohito, in January 1989, but a period of mourning was observed before his formal enthronement.

Akihito, 56, was tutored after World War II by an American pacifist and is the first emperor in modern Japanese history to marry a commoner.

BRIEFLY

World

Israel bans more Palestinians

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel announced Sunday it would ban 2,400 more Palestinians from entering the Jewish state starting this week as a step to increase security for Israel's citizens.

The move would bring to 10,800 the number of Arabs from the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip who are blocked from visiting or working in Israel.

At the same time, Education Minister Zevulun Hammer urged enlarging the Civil Guard, an armed neighborhood patrol, by recruiting Israelis who do little or no military reserve duty.

The Civil Guard, which is run by the national police, has 35,000 volunteers supervised by 485 policemen. About 3,000 have joined since the October violence, police said.

Both moves come amid increasing violence between Israelis and Arabs following the Oct. 8 riots on the Temple Mount that led to the deaths of 20 Palestinians in police gunfire.

Suspicious bag just underwear

TOKYO (AP) — Trains were delayed for several hours before dawn Sunday as a bomb squad disposed of a suspicious-looking paper bag that turned out to be filled with women's underwear.

The bomb scare came as police were on top alert against terrorist activity before Emperor Akihito's coronation, which begins today.

A police spokesman in Urawa, a Tokyo suburb, said a railway employee spotted the bag beneath a bridge on the Takasaki Line just before 2 a.m.

The bomb squad soon arrived at the scene, froze the bag with liquid nitrogen and transported it to a nearby river bank for further investigation. Police found a few dozen pieces of women's underwear.

"I suppose if you would have looked closely enough you might have been able to tell that it was harmless, but you never know," the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity. "These are tense times."

The investigation led to delays or cancellations of nearly 30 passenger and freight trains, the official said.

Test may predict miscarriages

LONDON (AP) — A simple blood test conducted before pregnancy might be a new way of identifying women at high risk of miscarrying, according to research published in a British medical journal.

Writing in the Nov. 10 edition of The Lancet, researchers said it was the first time that measuring hormone levels before a woman conceives has been found to predict whether a pregnancy will be successfully carried to term.

The doctors tested for the luteinizing hormone (LH), which controls ovulation.

Nation

Death penalty sought in trial

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — A prosecutor said Sunday he will seek the death penalty against a 69-year-old woman convicted of first-degree murder in the slayings of five transients.

Faye Copeland was convicted of killing the men to cover up a cattle-theft scheme with her 75-year-old husband.

Copeland's defense attorney, David Miller, said he would file a motion asking for a new trial. Miller called it a major issue that the court would not allow a psychologist to testify about battered-wife syndrome.

Heart, liver recipient dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Stormie Jones, the world's first heart-liver transplant recipient, died Sunday at age 13, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The Texas teen-ager was flown to Pittsburgh from Dallas late Saturday after she complained of flu-like symptoms.

She was taken to Children's Hospital, where she deteriorated throughout the morning and died about 9:50 a.m., said hospital spokeswoman Lynn McMahon.

"Things happened with incredible speed," McMahon said. It had not appeared to be an emergency when she entered the hospital, she said.

Stormie received a heart and liver in a historic transplant operation Feb. 20, 1984, because she was born with a condition that put her cholesterol levels at 10 times normal.

TWA may purchase Pan Am

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines has proposed buying Pan Am Corp. for $150 million in cash and $300 million in securities, Pan Am said Sunday.

The proposal is contingent on Pan Am calling off its agreement to sell important U.S.-London routes to United Airlines' parent, said Pamela Hanlon, Pan Am spokeswoman. TWA also stipulated that Pan Am and TWA would have to sell overlapping international routes at the same time the buyout would be completed, she said.

Food poisoning strikes CU

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — An unknown disease sickened 300 University of Colorado students over the weekend, and state health officials said Sunday they suspected food poisoning but could find no common cause.

The illness, which broke out Friday night and continued to plague students Sunday at the on-campus Wardenburg Health Center, was characterized by vomiting, low-grade fever and diarrhea.

Officials said those symptoms suggest food poisoning, but the outbreak perplexed health officials because they had been unable to find a common food linking the cases. The students ate in several dormitory cafeterias, as well as off campus.

The majority of students were treated at Wardenburg for dehydration and sent home. Two were hospitalized Saturday night, but health center officials would not comment about them Sunday.

Campus

Forensic team takes 3rd place

The K-State forensic team won third place at Midland Lutheran College in Fremont, Nebraska last weekend.

In informative speaking, Crystal Harding, sophomore in speech, won first place, and Tom Burns, sophomore in arts and sciences undecided, took fourth place.

In extemporaneous speaking, Tim Schultz, freshman in radio/television, placed first. In persuasive speaking, Tanya Williams, sophomore in chemistry, won first place and Mark Esfeld, sophomore in milling science and management, took sixth place.

Terry Lindeman, senior in speech education, and Danna Lay, sophomore in pre-professional elementary education, won fifth in duo competition, and Esfeld also placed third in impromptu speaking.

At Bradley University in Peoria, Ill., Laura Pelletier, senior in speech, won fifth place in informative speaking and Stacie Schrock, sophomore in arts and sciences undecided, won sixth place.

Mark Ray, freshman in political science, won first place in novice impromptu.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Campus organizations are encouraged to use the Campus Bulletin. All announcements must be submitted by 11 a.m. one day prior to publication. Announcements for Monday's bulletin must be submitted by 11 a.m. Friday. However, publication is determined by the amount of space available on a first-come, first-served basis and is not guaranteed. Information forms are available on the shelf outside Kedzie 118A. You must have a picture ID to submit a bulletin form. During business hours, IDs will be checked in Kedzie 116 or 118A. Forms should be left in the box outside 118A after being filled out. Questions should be directed to the Collegian's news editor in Kedzie 116.

12 Monday

- French Table will meet from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.
- Students Helping Students will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Lafene Conference Room.
- Kappa Delta Pi will meet at 3 p.m. in Bluemont 217 and 225.
- Voices For Choice will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 207.
- Alpha Zeta will meet at 7 p.m. in Call 205.
- Human Ecology Council will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Justin 254.
- HDFS Interest Group will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Justin Hall Lobby to car-pool to Meadowlark.
- Public Relations Student Society of America will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Kedzie Library.
- Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers will meet at 9 p.m. in Durland 129.
- Engineering Student Council will meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 152.
- Pi Sigma Epsilon will have an executive meeting at 5:30 p.m. and a general meeting at 6:30 p.m. at Bowinkle's.
- Electrical and Computer Engineering will have an open house information meeting at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 163.

13 Tuesday

- Finance Club/FMA will meet at 7 p.m. in Calvin 209.
- SAVE will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 209.
- FENIX Adult and Student Program/OWLS will have an informal lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.
- Pre-Law Club will meet at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.
- Mortar Board will meet at 9:30 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.
- Department of Geology will present a speech by John Schumacher at 4 p.m. in Thompson 101.
- Bisexual, Gay and Lesbian Student Organization will meet today. For more information, call 539-6137.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, sunny. Mild. High 65 to 70. Variable winds under 10 mph. Tonight and Tuesday, mostly clear. Low tonight around 40. Warm on Tuesday. High 70 to 75.

Last Day of
Veteran's Day Sale
20% Off
Storewide.

BRENTWOOD

ENGINEERING &
COMPUTER SCIENCE MAJORS
AT&T BELL LABORATORIES
SYSTEMS ENGINEERING
PRESENTATION

Tuesday, November 13, 1990
7:00 p.m. - Durland 152

CHICAGO '90

Roses are Red,
Violets are Blue,
We Knew You Knew,
and Went Without You!

TRI-SIGMA PLEDGE SNEAK!

THANKS TO:

ΔΥ FH ΣΧ ΣΑΕ ΔΣΦ

ΔΤΔ ΔΧΑ ΦΙΛ ΚΣ ΑΓΡ ΦΚΘ

And anyone else who bought M&M's

Sanchos & Burritos 98¢ each

(reg. $1.50)

Taco Dinners $1.77

(reg. $2.50)

Good through 11-17-90

TACO HUT

Sun-Thurs

11 a.m.-10 p.m.

Fri.-Sat.

11 a.m.-Midnight

where nood friends get together

Overlooking Westloop

2809 Clafin 539-2091

FREE PIZZA!
BUY ONE & GET ONE FREE
Specify Original "Golden Braided" or new "Thin Style" Crust

SPECIAL COUPON

PYRAMID PIZZA

MONDAY MANIA

Buy Any PYRAMID PIZZA & Get
The Second Pizza (of equal value)

FREE!

Good Mondays Only

Delivery—
Fast, Friendly & Free!
539-4888

12th & Moro
Aggieville, USA

We Pile It On!

© 1987 Pyramid Pizza, Inc.

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams •

Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.
Providing quality health care
to women since 1974.

Insurance, VISA &
Mastercard accepted.

Comprehensive
Health for Women

4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)
Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

FOR YOUR GOOD HEALTH

REGULAR CLINIC HOURS

Monday-Friday

8-11:30 a.m.

1-4:30 p.m.

AFTER HOURS SERVICE

Monday-Friday

4:30 p.m. - 12 midnight

Sat., Sun., Holidays

8:00 a.m. - 12 midnight

FOR APPOINTMENT CALL

532-6544

Lafene Health Center

Kansas State University

Need money for college?

ASK
ABOUT STUDENT LOANS

CITIZENS BANK
& TRUST CO.

Sixth & Humboldt
Manhattan, KS 66502
776-9400

Lender Code
#804581
EMPIRE BANK
Originator

Member FDIC

New male duets' sound familiar

'The Rembrandts' write, produce mellow, home-grown album

COLLEGIAN Report Card "THE REMBRANDTS"

B

By Rebecca Sack
Collegian Reviewer

There have been a lot of great male duets throughout the rock era — Simon and Garfunkel, the Everly Brothers and Hall and Oates, to name a few. A new duet, the Rembrandts, seems to have been influenced by them all — and they look just like the Hardy Boys.

Phil Solem and Danny Wilde are the Rembrandts. They produced, recorded, mixed, and engineered their entire album themselves. They also wrote all the songs. The pair also played every instrument on the album except drums and percussion and an occasional Hammond organ.

All this hard work by just two people gives this album a home-grown sound. The sound is like Squeeze without any of the techno-pop. There's nothing fancy, just a couple of guys playing guitars in the garage.

Most of the album is mellow. It is unobtrusive and relaxing. The songs about love and loneliness on side one include a tune called "Someone." The lyrics address a subject as old as subjects themselves: "Someone who needs me/The way I need you/Someone to love me/The way that I love you."

The rest of the songs on both sides contain lyrics that are equally cliché. Phrases and words like "Looks could kill," "Baby," "I can see it in your eyes," and "Tonight will last forever," characterize this album as nothing new. But then again, Solomon told us a long time ago in Ecclesiastes that "there is nothing new under the sun."

At first, I thought the songs were remakes because they all sounded so familiar both lyrically and musically. They aren't. But they are just familiar enough to trick you into thinking you're listening to all your favorite old groups at once. With the Rembrandts, you don't even have to worry about listening. Their entire album is like a memory of every song you've ever heard.

I couldn't decide if that idea of "same old" was good or bad, but since I like listening to the Rembrandts for whatever reason, it doesn't seem to matter.

I don't think they are talented, creative, or innovative, and I still enjoyed this album. Maybe the Rembrandts understand that trying to create something completely new would be impossible — so they don't even try to say something old in a different way. Maybe they don't — but at least now you and I take that into consideration.

It is the same old stuff, but more of a comforting memory than a dusty box of junk.

Soviets caught with illegal weapons; disobey Gorbachev's firearm recall

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Law enforcement authorities estimate that Soviets have 3.6 million illegal guns in their hands, leaving the increasingly restive population armed to the teeth, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The article in Komsomolskaya Pravda was the latest in a series of reports about rising lawlessness in the country. It appeared less than a week after a gunman opened fire in Red Square while President Mikhail Gorbachev and other leaders were reviewing Revolution Day festivities.

Four months ago, Gorbachev ordered illegal firearms to be turned in, but the newspaper reported widespread disobedience of the decree, with the Interior Ministry saying that individuals surrendered only 20,100 guns, 700,000 rounds of ammunition and 3 tons of explosives.

Of the 3.6 million illegal firearms in circulation, 25,000 are rifles, the Interior Ministry said.

The article was a follow-up to a report in Komsomolskaya Pravda last week in which the newspaper offered to buy firearms from black marketeers while keeping their names confidential.

Since the Communist Youth League newspaper began its offer in late October, it reported it has been offered whole arsenals of various types of modern weapons, including heavy machine guns, hand grenades, grenade launchers, portable anti-tank launchers and a railway car full of weapons.

"Our impression is the country is armed to the teeth," correspondent D. Muratov wrote.

The newspaper said it had turned its investigation over to Gorbachev, who has deemed it "very important," and forwarded it to Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov, Interior Minister Vadim Bakatin and other officials.

Weapons are stolen not only from arsenals, but also from armament factories, assembled or in pieces, the newspaper reported. In addition, weapons that are deemed obsolete or irreparable are intercepted by black marketeers before they can be destroyed, it said.

In a separate report Sunday, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said police captured three servicemen who had deserted from an Interior Ministry unit in Omsk with three submachine guns, five revolvers and a large amount of ammunition that may have been headed for the black market.

“Our impression is the country is armed to the teeth.”

—D. Muratov
Komsomolskaya Pravda correspondent

Gorbachev's order on surrendering illegal weapons appeared to be aimed at armed volunteers in such ethnic trouble spots as Armenia and Azerbaijan, where nearly 500 people have been killed and weapons such as automatic rifles and rocket-propelled grenades are common.

During last month's election campaign in Georgia, politician Gia Chanturia was wounded by gunmen who fired four shots from a speeding car.

In the most visible sign of the increasing gun culture, two shots were fired on Red Square about 80 yards from Gorbachev during Wednesday's holiday celebrating the 73rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Soviet newspapers and TV showed plainclothes officers subduing a man identified as Alexander A. Shmonov, 38, of Leningrad, who was charged with attempting a terrorist act and is reportedly undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Guns also are increasingly being used in ordinary crimes as the Soviet economy deteriorates.

Nationwide, there were more than 5,000 crimes committed with the use of firearms this year, a 4 percent increase over 1989, the newspaper said. That includes a 20 percent increase in the number of murders, although the newspaper did not report how many people had been killed.

Study uses sensors in shoulder pad test for shock absorption

By Jenifer Scheibler
Collegian Reporter

Research on the way baseball and softball bats vibrate has led Larry Noble, professor of biomechanics and chairman of the Department of Physical Education and Leisure Studies, and Hugh Walker, professor of mechanical engineering, to a consulting contract with Easton Sports.

Noble said the contract requires them to provide product-testing evaluation and to advise the company regarding their products.

"Currently, we are just doing product evaluation, but we may eventually get into research and development," Noble said.

The project he and Walker recently completed for Easton involved testing and evaluating a new line of shoulder pads for football players.

Easton wanted tests to compare how well their shoulder pads protected players compared with other product lines, Noble said.

"They wanted us to test their new air-management system for relative effectiveness in absorbing shock, so they could make some decisions on where to put their production and marketing efforts," Noble said.

The air-management system is considered an innovation in shoulder pads because of the way air is released on impact, Noble said.

Easton was interested in finding out if a two-layer system was as effective in protecting the player as a three-layer system because the three-layer system would be more expensive to market, he said.

Noble and Walker, with the help of Robert Dorgan, graduate student in mechanical engineering, developed the instrumentation system needed to properly test the shoulder pads. The equipment available for this kind of research was expensive and too elaborate for what was needed, so they developed their own, Walker said.

"We developed a very good measurement system for determining the force distribution on the shoulder area without any undue discomfort for the subject," he said.

The system consisted of small sensors placed on areas recorded by subjects as being contact pressure points. Pressure measurements were then taken by the system on these points during drills, Noble said.

Walker said it is necessary that the information from the subjects agree with that from the instruments.

"The instruments must back up what the subjects' experience," Walker said.

Noble said the agreement of these results is necessary in order to complete this type of research.

"It's important what the subjects feel, but then when you measure something and it correlates well with what they feel, then you know you have something that's valid," Noble said. "This project came out exceeding my expectations in how accurate our results were."

When the testing was completed, the information was given to Easton for evaluation.

"The results gave them the information that enables them to make the appropriate decisions about the product," Noble said.

He said the instrumentation system and procedures that were identified are beneficial to research dealing with load-sensing on specific sites on the body.

"We want to provide this information to other people so they don't have to start at ground zero," Noble said.

Safe schools demanded by students in France

By The Associated Press

PARIS — Through a long history of revolt and protest, France has seen nothing like it.

Day after day, students in the tens of thousands march arm-in-arm through French cities, praised by teachers and parents, demanding the government make their schools safer and better.

In 1968, brigades of leftist university students fought with riot police in Paris, displaying contempt for all aspects of authority.

This fall, teen-agers campaign peacefully for a fair chance to join the establishment. Their leaders confer with police commanders to negate the impact of troublemakers exploiting the protests.

Marches and rallies began more than three weeks ago and intensified in the past week with daily protests across France.

The biggest show is expected today. For the first time in the campaign, students have been urged to converge on Paris from throughout the country.

Their goals seem so reasonable that even pillars of the establishment are helping out. Officials of the national railroad, persuaded in part by student blockades of railway tracks, have offered 60 percent fare discounts on special trains to Paris for today's protest.

At least two local politicians — in the distant cities of Grenoble, on the edge of the Alps, and Pau, near the Spanish border — are arranging travel for protesters from their cities.

The students plan to assemble at the Place de la Bastille, where revolutionaries stormed the Bastille prison 201 years ago, and march toward the Champs Elysees. Delegations are to branch out to Parliament, the presidential palace and the Education Ministry.

Minimal violence has accompanied the protests. Youths described by student leaders as provocateurs have hurled stones at police and smashed store windows on a few occasions.

Pierre Verbrugghe, the Paris police chief, has ordered his officers to avoid confrontation today, prompting allegations from police unions that he was turning the force into mere bystanders.

A merchants' association, afraid there would be looting, advised stores along the march route to close this afternoon.

Several major associations of teachers and parents have endorsed the students' goals. Teachers' unions plan to send representatives to the march.

"We've accepted an invitation from the students," said Yannick Simbron, secretary-general of the Federation of National Education, one of the unions. "The problems they are raising are those we've been raising for a long time."

Surprising unity has developed between the two main student factions, one led by hard-line leftists and the other aligned with an anti-racism group.

Last Day of
Veteran's Day Sale
20% Off
Storewide.

BRENTWOOD

TUESDAY
7:00-9:00 PM.
Mars
Approach
KSU's
ASTRONOMY
CLUB
'STAR PARTY'
COME SEE MARS
ON ITS 1990 CLOSE
APPROACH TO EARTH
INSIDE OUTSIDE
TELESCOPES 407

"BEST DAMN PIZZA"

Also:
Pool
Room
&
Sports Bar

16" Extra Large Pizza
ONLY $6.25
Dine In or Carry Out.
"premium pizza for a cardboard pizza price"

Pool Room 523 S. 17th 537-1484

Claflin Books & Copies

FirstBank Center 1814 Claflin

- 5¢ copies
- 3 self-service copy machines
- Resume & Typing Service Available

Open: M-F 8 a.m.-9 p.m.
Sat. 9-6 Sun 12-9

776-3771

Show your support!
Join KSU Friends of the Libraries
Membership week November 12-16

Memberships begin at $5 students, $25 others
More information at Farrell Library Lobby
or David Margolies, 532-6154

HOMESTYLE DOUBLE BURGER NOW 99¢

Reg. $1.65

HERE'S A HEFTY
HUNK OF A DEAL.

Nov. Mon. 5th to Fri. 16th

1015 N. 3rd, Manhattan

Dairy
Queen
brazier.

WE TREAT YOU RIGHT™

776-4117

$ave-$ave-$ave
We Have An Eye for Saving
15% Off
Prescription and Frame

Courteous, Competent, Competitive

Offer good thru Nov. 21, 1990

410 Poyntz • Downtown, Manhattan • 776-6255

BUSHWACKER'S
THE FUNDRINKERY
Comedy Invasion
Mon., Tues. & Wednesday
9 p.m.
Ross Bennett

18 to enter, 21 to drink

Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

Think Christmas with QUALITY FRAMING

ACID FREE MATS
UV FILTER GLASS
MUSEUM MOUNTING
EXCELLENT CRAFTSMANSHIP

Quality Framing, Fine Arts,
Gifts, Posters

332 Poyntz 539-2139
10-5 Tuesday through Saturday

STRECKER GALLERY

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special

3-10 in. Pizzas
1-Topping
4-Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers

2-10 in. Pizzas
2-Toppings
2-Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

Cats and dogs make sense from nonsense

Strange things happen when you wake up. Today has been the strangest. I talked to six people today. I talked to a girl, a boy, a man, a woman, an old man and an old woman. I fall in somewhere between the boy and the man.

At the end of the day, while brushing my teeth, I asked myself, what it is I've learned? I have learned that cats are for girls and dogs are for boys. The new woman is for everyone, and men haven't changed. Old is for women and old is for men. Most importantly, I've learned that I'm just not really sure.

I woke up this morning feeling like a man so I burped, farted, picked my nose, coughed, sang "Roadhouse Blues" in the shower, slipped on jeans and a T-shirt, smoked three cigarettes and ate a peanut butter and bologna sandwich. I decided not to brush my teeth this morning because, well, I just decided not to. I left my apartment with a taste of manliness in my mouth and the smell of manhood all around. My flatulence precedes me.

Walking to school, I met this little girl who was also going to school. She said she was in the first grade. She started chasing two cats around in my front yard. I told her I didn't know whose they were. She said that the white one was called Melissa and that the black one was called Bob. I thought to myself, "Those are peculiar names for cats." Then a dog ran through the yard and chased the cats away. I thought the girl was going to get upset, but instead she started playing with the dog. She said that the dog was named Needsu and that it was hers. I said, "What?" She said, "He needs you to pet him." She started laughing, and she ran away.

I turned around and there was this boy in front of me. He had on jeans and a T-shirt. He burped. We laughed. He farted. He laughed. We both cleared our throats and spit. I asked him if that was his dog. He said, "Nope, belongs to the stupid girl down the street." He said he was looking for his two cats, Melissa and Bob. I wondered why he didn't have a dog. He acted male. I asked him why he named his cats Melissa and Bob. He said because one was a boy and one was a girl. I asked him if he knew the dog's name. He said

Kevin Zwick

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

"Yeah, the dog's name is Needsu. He needs you to give him some food." He laughed as he ran away.

I went to grab a cup of coffee at the coffee shop and met the man and the woman. They introduced themselves as Melissa and Bob and asked me if I would settle a dispute for them. I told them I would but first they had to answer a question for me. I asked them if girls like cats and men dogs. Melissa said that actually she preferred parakeets, but her aunt had a cat so she supposed yes, girls like cats. Bob said he liked gerbils, but that he had an uncle who liked dogs, so he supposed yes, boys like dogs.

Then the dispute that I had to settle. They were trying to figure out who should pay for the coffee. She had strong convictions concerning the new woman and thought she should pay. He said he understood her convictions, but he still thought it was OK to pay for the coffee. I said "Melissa, Bob. It's all pretty black and white. You each pay for your own coffee." Bob was offended, and Melissa paid for the coffee. "No one needs you to be a wise-ass."

On my way home from school, I stopped by the store. I bumped my cart into an old man and an old woman's cart. The old lady told me not to worry about it because my eyesight might get better when I got older. The old man laughed and told me not to mind her. He told me he was sure my eyesight wouldn't get any better. I asked him if he had a dog. He said no, he had a cat but his wife had a dog. I asked him why he had a cat. He said that cats did what they wanted and never listened to him and he liked that. I asked his wife why she liked dogs and she said because they seemed to appreciate food more. Then they both confessed to me. They said the reason he had a cat and she had a dog is because dogs were like men and cats were like women, and they said that what they wanted wasn't something they knew about, but rather something different that they could learn about.

As you can imagine, I went to bed with a crystal-clear vision of what everything that had occurred to me meant. Something like this: Guys like dogs unless they like cats. Girls like cats unless they like dogs. The new woman and the never-changing man still agree sometimes. The new woman likes parakeets and the never-changing man likes gerbils. Old men and old ladies know I'm young and know I think they are old. They don't really care though because they know I will get to enjoy the experience. Most importantly though, sometimes certain things look like nonsense, yet underneath it is all the tragic perception we call "cats and dogs."

EDITORIALS

Peaceful settlement needed in Gulf Crisis

War!

What is it good for?

Absolutely nothing!

No statement could be more accurate, and at a time when war seems forthcoming, more vital.

In the last few days, President George Bush has started a military buildup of 150,000 additional U.S. troops to join the 230,000 already stationed in the Middle East, including 11,500 soldiers from Fort Riley.

The buildup is the first action in the Persian Gulf in several weeks. It's about time someone finally took steps to force Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to act.

The situation in both Iraq and Kuwait has been stagnant long enough, and a resolution needs to be found as quickly as possible.

That resolution should not come in the form of war.

The Soviets, the Chinese and the French have all expressed opposition to any offensive moves by military forces in the gulf.

Those nations see the increase in military forces as a form of intimidation for a peace settlement more than as preparation for a war.

A peaceful settlement would be wonderful, but it is continuing to look unrealistic.

A peaceful settlement looks so unrealistic it sparked British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to say in a House of Commons debate Wednesday, "Either he gets out of Kuwait soon, or we and our allies will remove him by force, and he will go down to defeat with all its consequences."

With our allies divided on the issue of offensive action, it appears domestic views will be the determining factor.

Many members of Congress have publicly opposed such bold action, especially at this time of year, and expect their voices to be heard before the signal goes out to the troops.

The voice of the American people also needs to be heard.

Write your U.S. senators and representatives, as well as President Bush, and remind them of the foolish mistakes made in the late 1960s in a similar situation, also across the globe.

Take time to participate or stop by the anti-war demonstration from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday at the K-State Union Plaza.

A war will not be stopped by sitting on the couch and talking back to the TV news. But active involvement by the American people could force the Bush administration to keep the troops at bay and force Hussein to a peaceful retreat.

LETTERS

Charade on-going

Editor,

Rather than the momentous show of highly-conscious, long-range concern that many people seem to think they are, let me submit that the recent protests by students and faculty members in the colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology are a well-intentioned but shallow charade. The Nov. 1 Collegian carried plenty of material on the overall charade going on in this country, of which the protests are merely an inconsequential part.

Was the Collegian correct in giving the impression that protesting architecture and human ecology students gave Secretary of Labor Elizabeth Dole a standing ovation after her Landon Lecture? If so, these students are cheering on the forces that are largely responsible for their current crisis: the wealthy elite which control most of the political and economic power in our society.

In another article, chairman of the Landon Lecture Series Charles Reagan was quoted as saying that the series "sells itself because of the caliber of people who have spoken at it." This is the establishment's way of saying that a number of mass murderers and white-collar criminals are naturally drawn to the self-aggrandizing "soap box for state terrorists series," as I lovingly refer to it. Were he not threatening "our" oil fields, Saddam Hussein would be a likely candidate for invitation, as was the former president of El Salvador, Jose Napoleon Duarte, who presided over a U.S.-backed terror regime that kidnapped, tortured, and murdered tens of thousands of innocent people.

But the march of capital must go on, as we are informed that the College of Business Administration will neither be forced to make cuts in spending nor undergo any reorganization. It is also instructive that aside from the College of Veterinary Medicine with its piddly 31 votes, the business college had the highest percentage of votes within a college in favor of the expanding of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. On the other hand, two-thirds of the architecture students who voted deserve credit for sensing the direction the wind is blowing and rejecting twisted priorities.

Meanwhile the Collegian's editorial board cautions that "students should learn facts of reorganization" before getting into too great a frenzy. Two economics students suggest in a letter that "the cure for the disease is found through solving the causes." And Provost James Coffman urges protesting students, "Don't just come up with 'no,' come up with alternatives that get at the problem, which is not enough money."

Well, the facts as I see them are that our University administrators have little power over decisions of whether or not to slash funds and reorganize programs since the bigger fish who control the purse strings are biting at their butts as warnings about being swallowed whole. We might begin talking about a "cure" for the "disease" of rampant capitalism by seriously considering the "problem" not in the sense of "not enough money," but with respect to who has dangerously large amounts of it.

I will be the first one to say that leftist political and economic critiques are not the be-all and end-all of solving our mounting social problems. At the same time, if we continue to cringe at the spooky lies we're told of how our only options are barely restrained capitalism or totalitarianism, I suspect that we will someday have something much worse to deal with than the loss of a few educational programs.

Kale Baldock
special student in psychology

Smoking privilege

Editor,

As some students may notice, today the Union Programming Council is once again sponsoring a print sale that is set up on the ground floor of the K-State Union. The area that is reserved for the print sale is normally occupied by a number of Union patrons who smoke.

The smoking patrons moved to this area after a non-smoking policy was placed into effect in the Union Stateroom. Union administrators never intended for this area to become a smoking section. When the new policy was introduced, however, smokers were forced to search for a new space and consequently they staked their claim in the first-floor alcove.

The Union Governing Board has listened to the views of smokers and equally to the concerns of nonsmokers. After deliberation, the board has decided that at the present time the alcove area will remain reservable. This means that from time to time the alcove will not be accessible to smoking or nonsmoking patrons.

The Union Governing Board has been working with smoking policies for some time and is aware of the situation at hand. Smoking in the Union is a privilege to the individual and there has been a continual increase in the number of patrons who feel the privilege has seen its time. UGB will continue to explore the smoking issue and its affect on the Union and its patrons.

Dennis O'Keefe
Union Governing Board Chairman

Back Student Pub

Editor,

Soon, the newly elected Student Senate will be addressed with the issue of funding Student Publications. The fact is, Student Publications is a vital asset to this University that should not and must not be lost. Although this crisis could not have come at a worse time, we cannot use this as an excuse to ignore the problem. The problem is simple — Student Publications is underfunded. As full-time students, we pay only $4.80 per semester to offset expenses. This averages out to 6 cents per issue of the Collegian. In a recent survey by the Student Senate, 46 percent of the students polled said that the Collegian is their primary news source.

I urge students to call their newly elected senators or even to come to Senate on Thursday night and voice their opinions on this issue. Student Senate has the power to allocate the necessary funding to save the Collegian, or Student Senate has the power to do nothing and let the Collegian die.

According to Student Publications, if nothing is done by the student body or the Student Senate soon, there will be no other choice but to publish the paper only four days a week. Please, act now before we lose a vital asset to this University.

David Duntz
junior in business

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimi Hatjimeheadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel
COLUMNISTS	Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwick
REVIEWERS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchham, J. Kyle Wyatt
EDITORIAL BOARD	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Frese, Eric Henry
	Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer
	Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venso

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEARSHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little
	Mark Neely, Jayme Wall, Alyson Schaff
	Amy Salt, Karen Lind
	Angie Humphrey
	Scott Boyd

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, K-State Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Plants therapeutic for many disabled

Green environment needed for daily life

By Scott Berg
Science Reporter

A healthy, green environment, or what is called horticultural therapy, aids people with relaxation and helps the mentally and physically disabled gain self-esteem and independence.

There are two levels of horticultural therapy: large-scale, which improves the environment for all people and one-on-one, which works with individuals to help them help themselves, said Gus van der Hoeven, professor of horticulture.

Everyone needs a healthy environment rich in plants and nature, van der Hoeven said. If the environment is all pavement, it disorients people and affects them negatively.

"I believe in good landscape design in the urban home and the work place," he said. "People benefit by a good landscape."

"My own definition of horticultural therapy is the arrangement of plant material by form, texture and color in such a way and such a scale that one can walk through it and is given the feeling of privacy and of being somewhere," van der Hoeven said.

Working with plants and gardening also helps provide exercise for people with arthritis or deformed hands, he said.

"People's self-esteem is helped by working with plants," said Richard Mattson, professor of horticulture. "Plants are an extension of one's personality. Things touched are affected by their personality."

People who work with plants develop important skills that help them throughout life, Mattson said. Clients of horticultural therapy learn job skills and how to care for themselves by nurturing and caring for the plants. "A horticultural enclave was started at K-State in 1971 as a cooperative with the Menninger Foundation," Mattson said. "It is a sheltered employment opportunity where adults from the Big Lakes Development Center Inc. work in the greenhouses on campus."

They are educated in planting procedures and learn the components of the soil, Mattson said.

"We use plants and nature to improve the social and physical improvement in people and especially to help those who are mentally handicapped and mentally disabled," Mattson said.

Plants are also essential for people in office buildings, Mattson said. Stress indicators show stress levels are lower in a greenhouse-type work place and that the more plants, the better.

It shouldn't be a jungle, but there should be enough plants to absorb sound, smoke and dust out of the air, Mattson said.

"I want to create a good environment that is pleasant for people," van der Hoeven said. "Rest homes, hospitals and retirement communities need grounds with walks, shade and benches so the elderly and sick can see nature."

Older people need to be able to see and feel nature and the changes of seasons, he said.

Landscape architects design parks, gardens and many other things connected with plants, van der Hoeven said.

"Everybody needs the positive effects of good landscape," he said. "It is important for people to have a place to meet, talk and get away from the noise of daily life."

Cans passed down human chain

Manhattan middle schoolers, faculty help out Flint Hills Breadbasket charity

By Dan Scott
Collegian Reporter

About 1,000 students and faculty of Manhattan Middle School formed a human chain Friday morning to pass cans of food to the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

The activity, sponsored by the middle school's student council and the Kayettes, was part of the school's second canned food drive. Beginning Oct. 22, the students collected 1,679 pounds of food, up from last year's 1,016 pounds.

The food will be part of the food baskets distributed Nov. 16 and Dec. 21 through the Mayor's Holiday Tree program.

"It's just wonderful," said Ruth Ann Wefald, president of the Flint Hills Breadbasket and co-chairwoman of the Mayor's Holiday Tree program. "It looks as if we are getting the types of foods we need."

Many of the cans contained vegetables, soup and canned meats, Wefald said.

The chain formed just outside of the school, proceeded along Poyntz Avenue, then went down Ninth Street for several blocks to the Breadbasket building.

A canned food drive has been done for the last four or five years at the junior high, said Walt Pesaresi, eighth grade history teacher and student council sponsor.

Jenny Lansdowne, last year's Kayettes president, came up with the idea of forming a human chain to the Breadbasket a year ago, he said. The Kayettes is a girls' service organization.

"It's a contest," Pesaresi said. "The school is divided up into six tribes, with eight homerooms in

See CHAIN, Page 10

Atlantis prepared for launch

Space shuttle to deploy spy satellite to eavesdrop on Iraq

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — NASA on Sunday prepared for the launch of the space shuttle Atlantis, which is to carry a spy satellite that may be used to spy on Iraq.

The countdown was to begin at 10:30 p.m. EST.

After being grounded for some months by fuel leaks, Atlantis is scheduled to lift off sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Thursday. The precise time will not be announced until nine minutes before launch because of the classified nature of the military mission.

Atlantis' five astronauts will deploy the satellite, which published reports say will spy on Iraq. It is believed to be a photographic imaging or an eavesdropping spacecraft.

The mission originally was planned for July, but was put on hold in June when Atlantis was found to have hydrogen leaks. Columbia also was crippled by hydrogen leaks, and NASA temporarily grounded the entire three-shuttle fleet.

NASA replaced Atlantis' external fuel tank, hydrogen lines between the orbiter and tank, and valve seals. A fueling test last month found the shuttle to be free of dangerous leaks.

During the interim, the Air Force is reported to have modified the satellite so it could spy on Iraq.

Atlantis has not flown since March, when it conducted another secret Pentagon mission. Its upcoming trip will be the 37th shuttle flight and the seventh mission dedicated entirely to the Defense Department.

The flight is expected to last four days. No information about the flight will be released to the public during the mission.

NASA plans to launch Columbia about two weeks after Atlantis' mission, if all goes well.

REMINDER

Student Season Ticket Holders

1. Redeem 3 Voided Tickets
2. Show Proof of Fee Card

AND

You will receive

1. $5 rebate
- OR
2. A ticket to one of the vacation games

Redeem Nov. 12-20
Tickets Available:
532-6920

McCain

Turtle Island String Quartet

Darol Anger, David Balakrishnan,
Mark Summer, Katrina Wreede
Windham Hill Jazz Recording Artists

Saturday, November 17, 8 p.m.
A ground-breaking ensemble that packs more kick than your average ninja. This fearless foursome pumps bluegrass, Texas fiddle, rock, African rhythms, and Eastern melodies into a jazz setting. If Kronos set the table, these Windham Hill Jazz artists make radical additions to the menu.

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

Presented with the support of the Fine Arts Fee.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

The LOWEST PRICES
on the BEST BRANDS
with GREAT SERVICE

OPEN til 8 p.m.
weeknights

90 Days
same as
Cash

Free Delivery & Installation
of home stereo

FREE DELIVERY • FREE INSTALLATION

Everything is on Sale!

FREE AC/DC TICKETS!

Come in and register to win 2 13th row concert tickets. No purchase necessary.

Trade up to revolutionary
Bose AM-5 speaker technology
and get

$100 OFF
for your old speakers
regardless of their condition

Read what the experts have to say:

One of "America's Ten Best Designs" among all products produced in the U.S.A. in 1988!

Fortune Magazine

"Superb sound and virtual invisibility."

"Side by side with speakers costing three to five times as much, the AM-5 consistently produced the more exciting and listenable sound..."

Stereo Review
Julian Hirsch

$399

RCA Hi-Fi Stereo VCR
with 4-Head Video System

RCA Model VR671HF

VHS Hi-Fi stereo sound with built-in TV broadcast stereo tuner and SAP (Second Audio Program)
•Double-azimuth 4-head video system
•Field still special effects: slow motion, stop action, frame advance, picture search
•8-program 1-year timer with on-screen display and remote programming
•Remote also operates many RCA TVs
•155-channel cable-compatible quartz tuner with Auto Programming

Sony 5 Disc
CD Changer

$199 without remote
$229 with remote

•Shuffle play
•Programmable

SONY CDPC200

KENWOOD LSK304
2-Way Speakers

$48
each

RCA VR250 or GE VG7500
$227

RCA Video Cassette Recorder
•Infrared remote control
•14-day/4-event programming
•110 channel broadcast/cable FS quartz tuning

MITSUBISHI CS2015R

20" Stereo Monitor/Receiver with Remote

•Black matrix picture tube for high contrast
•181-channel cable ready
•Off-timer
•Full function remote control with on-screen display of volume, bass, treble, balance, stereo/SAP select, color, tints, brightness, contrast and sharpness.

See Store for all Sale Merchandise

CONDES
QUALITY PLUGGED IN...

AUDIO • VIDEO • STEREO

Quantities Limited to Store Stock

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

Mon-Fri 10 a.m. 8 p.m. Sat 10 a.m. 5:30 p.m. Sun 1-5 p.m.

407 Poyntz

776-4704

Downtown Manhattan

•Citywide Delivery
•537-2526
•Hours: 7 a.m.-1 a.m.
This Week:
Bacon Cheeseburger- $1.19
606 N. Manhattan

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS MONDAY

Cross country teams have differing days

Women 2nd, men 4th at districts

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Paulette Staats recorded a seventh-place finish to lead the K-State women's cross country team to second place, and the men's team saw its season end at the District V Cross Country Championships here Saturday.

The women, although they had a disappointing race according to Coach John Capriotti, will be returning to the NCAA Championships for the second year in a row. The men placed a frustrating fourth, being edged out by three points by Kansas.

"I think the women should be happy they are going to nationals. There is a long way to go, and they need to realize we still have one big important meet to run," Capriotti said. "I am disappointed for the men, but you have to give credit to KU and Illinois State."

The overall individual winners and the team champions were the same as in the Big Eight Championships. Iowa State ran away with the men's title, placing all five runners in the top ten and taking the top three spots. Jonah Koech captured the overall crown, covering the 10,000-meter course in 29:25.

Iowa State claimed the women's trophy with a two-three finish from Madeleine Alsgren and Karen Glerum. Susan Bliss of Missouri was the women's champion with a time of 16:34 on the 5,000-meter course.

The K-State women placed 14 points behind Iowa State, gaining the automatic berth in the NCAA meet by edging out third-place Nebraska by four points. Staats was joined by Janet Haskin, who placed ninth, in the top 10.

Janet Treiber was 13th, Jennifer Hillier 17th and Janet Magner 32nd to round out the K-State scoring.

J. Kyle Wyatt/Staff

Isabel Byrne helps Phil Byrne through the finish-line chute at the NCAA District V cross country meet Saturday. The men's team finished fourth.

"The women aren't running well. Paulette did a good job and Hillier still ran pretty good, but I don't feel they are running as well as they still can," Capriotti said. "The difference is Haskin and Treiber. We need them up there, and that is the bottom line."

The women have been left searching for answers about their last two performances, but they are still finding ways to compete with the leaders. They have one week to nail down the problem before they travel to Knoxville, Tenn., for the NCAA meet.

"I don't really know what is going on right now. We need to get it together mentally and believe in ourselves," Staats said. "I know everybody has the potential, we just need to believe."

High hopes, dreams and Todd Trask's haircut were not enough for the men's team. The 17th-ranked Wildcats were upset by Illinois State and Kansas by a combined six points. Two weeks before at the Big Eight Championships, K-State beat Kansas by more than 50 points.

"It is a pretty big let-down. I really wanted the whole team to make it," David Warders said. "We really had aspirations that we were going. Not that we were overconfident, but we were confident we would go."

Warders and Trask led the way for K-State with sixth- and eighth-place finishes respectively. Their top-10 finishes qualify them to run in the NCAA meet individually. The rest of the team faded at the five-mile mark. Ron Smith developed a cramp, and Jason Goertzen dropped 17 spots from his Big Eight finish.

"I still thought we were in there at the five-mile mark, but we just didn't close well enough," Capriotti said. "We were only three points out of it. We just weren't good enough today."

A large difference may have been the length of the race, which increased from 8,000 meters at the Big Eight meet to 10,000 meters. The pace set by Iowa State made many runners suffer towards the finish.

"It might of had to do with a little different race. We went out controlled at the Big Eight meet, and this race we went out really fast," Warders said. "It makes quite a bit of difference if you are not controlled at the beginning of the race."

J. Kyle Wyatt/Staff

Paulette Staats secures a seventh-place finish after the four-kilometer mark at the NCAA District V Cross Country meet Saturday in Springfield, Mo. Staats led the K-State women's team to a second-place finish.

'Cat mistakes, injuries pile up in loss

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

NORMAN, Okla. — It was a case of too many mistakes early and too few bodies late Saturday in Oklahoma's 34-7 win over K-State.

The Wildcats entered the game in a somewhat overzealous emotional state, several players and coaches said, and that led to many assignment breakdowns that resulted in 27 Sooner points in the first half.

And in the second stanza, Oklahoma's physical toughness sent K-State's training staff onto the field so many times that its members had to feel like they were in a M*A*S*H unit.

"Emotionally, we were fired up — maybe too fired up — and we were blowing assignments," said Wildcat strong safety Danny Needham.

K-State coach Bill Snyder agreed. "We were not a very good football team (Saturday)," he said. "We made so many mistakes. We made all the mistakes you can make."

The first-half mistakes overshadowed a fine second-half performance by the defense, which limited Oklahoma to seven points in the final 30 minutes.

In fact, the Sooners were five possessions and nearly 24 minutes of the second half without a first down and were outgained 132-44.

"Defensively in the second half," Snyder said, "the statistics probably speak for themselves."

But add to the early mistakes an injury total that rivaled the hamburger count at a local fast-food restaurant, and it was a tough, tough day.

K-State used four quarterbacks, had several offensive linemen playing out of position after injuries to two starters, and had potential All-

Big Eight linebacker Brooks Barta looking on from the sidelines on crutches after sustaining a knee injury in the opening half.

"We ran out of gas and ran out of people," Snyder said. "And, to top it all, which we haven't mentioned, we ran into a pretty good football team in the University of Oklahoma."

Oh, yeah, there was a reason for all the Wildcat problems.

Oklahoma freshman quarterback Cale Gundy threw for 138 yards and sophomore tailback Dewell Brewer ran for 91 more to pace the Sooner offensive attack.

Granted, those numbers weren't as high those the Sooner leaders had posted in previous victories over K-State, but the efforts were sufficient on this day.

Oklahoma started the contest in great field position after a 52-yard kickoff return by Brewer to the K-State 48. Eleven plays later, Gundy plunged in from the one and OU was on top to stay 7-0.

K-State went three-and-out offensively both times it had possession in the first period, and OU held the ball for 12:21.

It got worse in the second quarter.

With OU up 10-0 after a 22-yard drive culminated in a 42-yard field goal by R.D. Lashar, Gundy took the Sooners on their lone long drive of the half, an 80-yard march on which he completed three passes for 56 yards.

The resulting one-yard plunge by Kenyon Rasheed gave OU a 17-0 lead and left K-State shellshocked.

The biggest pass play of the drive — a 24-yard strike from Gundy to tight end Adrian Cooper — was yet another example of a breakdown by the Wildcat defense, Needham said.

"It's funny that you'd mention that play, because I was the one who blew the assignment," Needham said. "I had been running the blitz inside, and I was faking on that play and didn't get back. We just were not playing smart."

And while the Wildcat defense groped for answers, the K-State offense sputtered from the opening kick.

Quarterback Carl Straw, who ended up throwing for 267 yards and a touchdown before leaving with a shoulder injury, misfired on all but one of his eight initial tosses. And the one pass he did complete was a tipped ball caught by on the rebound by Andre Coleman.

"I'm pretty disappointed about our offensive effort," Straw said. "We came in thinking we could do some things against them."

Oklahoma increased its lead to 20-0 before Straw got the Wildcats on the board. The five-play, 80-yard touchdown drive was highlighted by Russ Campbell's 69-yard romp with a Straw pass after the tight end had freed himself from three would-be Sooner tacklers.

The second-to-last play of the drive was a six-yard gain on a fumble-rookie (planned fumble) to defensive end Jody Kilian, who had entered the offensive huddle for a single play.

Oklahoma ended the half with another short-field drive for a score, this one a 6-play, 55-yard effort that ended in Brewer's 14-yard scamper for a touchdown.

Whew.

"Obviously, it's a lot easier to keep them from going 80 yards than it is to keep them from going 30," Needham said of the OU scoring drives in the first half. "Field position was big."

■ See GAME, Page 7

David Mayes/Staff

Quarterback Paul Watson is helped off the field at Oklahoma Saturday by trainers after he injured his leg during the fourth quarter of Saturday's loss to OU. Watson was one of four quarterbacks used in the game by the Wildcats, who also saw starter Carl Straw leave with an injury.

STATISTICS

WILDCAT FOOTBALL

GAME IN FIGURES

STATISTIC	KSU	OU
First Downs	12	18
Rushing Yards	31	195
Passing Yards	291	138
Total Offense	322	333
Return Yards	31	30
Att.-Comp.-Int.	38-15-1	21-9-0
Fumbles-Lost	2-0	3-1
Penalties	7-60	4-25

K-State	0	7	0	0	7
Oklahoma	7	20	0	7	34
OU — Gundy 1-yard run (Lashar kick)
OU — Lashar 42-yard FG
OU — Rasheed 1-yard run (Lashar kick)
OU — Lashar 27-yard FG
KS — Smith 4-yard pass from Straw (Wright kick)
OU — Brewer 14-yard run (Lashar kick)
OU — Williams 9-yard run (Lashar kick)

RUSHING — K-State: Jackson 12-30, Sanft 3-14, Kilian 1-6, Boyd 2-5, Schiller 1-2, Watson 2-(-3), Smargliasso 8-(-3), Straw 5-(-19). Oklahoma: Brewer 18-91, McKinley 11-63, Rasheed 7-33, Williams 9-22, Gundy 7-(-14).

PASSING — K-State: Straw 27-13-1-267, Watson 3-2-0-24, Smargliasso 4-0-0-0, Garber 3-0-0-0, Smith 1-0-0-0, Oklahoma: Gundy 20-9-0-138, S. Collins 1-0-0-0.

RECEIVING — K-State: Coleman 4-109, Campbell 2-87, Hernandez 3-39, Smith 2-31, Schiller 2-10, Jones 1-10, Sanft 1-5. Oklahoma: Warren 3-48, Cooper 2-39, Ervin 1-29, Brewer 1-12, Taylor 2-10.

PUNTING — K-State: Cobb 8-37.0, Oklahoma: Reddell 7-46.1.
A — 89,106.

'Huskers beat spikers in 3-game match

Home season ends for volleyball team

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

There were too many holes for K-State to fill Saturday night, as the Wildcats tried to contain the No. 2 Nebraska Cornhuskers in Ahearn Field House.

With a roster full of all-Big Eight players, the 25-2 Huskers moved one step closer to notching their sec-

Typically, in the K-State-Nebraska matches the last year or two, once we play them close, we don't come close the next game. This was a different match, and that has to be credited to the players.

—Scott Nelson
volleyball coach

ond perfect conference season by outdistancing the 10-13 Cats, 15-11, 15-9, 15-10.

"I felt that we had opportunities to win in each of the games. We just came up on a team that was more physical and technically a superior team to us," Coach Scott Nelson said. "Typically, in the K-State-Nebraska matches the last year or two, once we play them close, we don't come close the next game. This was a different match, and that has to be credited to the players."

The Cats were down 14-4 in the second game and 14-7 in the third, before piecing together late runs in an attempt to upset the Huskers. "Twice in the match we were basically down-and-out, but we fought to come back and Nebraska backed out to allow us to run points late," Nelson said. "Against a team like that, it's easy to back down because they can dominate you so quickly. They dominated us for short periods of time, but never dominated an entire game or the rest of the match."

"I thought we did a fairly good job after they used that strength of theirs by limiting their runs by siding out, making a good defensive play on our side, and transitioning for a kill."

The match also gave Nelson reason to be pleased with how his squad performed, considering their loss to Kansas to end hopes of a postseason.

"We didn't back down, and I think that goes back to our character, because we had every reason not to just finish the year," Nelson said. "Coming off a loss which eliminated us from the Big Eight postseason tournament, effort and execution were two areas of concern. Our execution was, perhaps, a little above average, but our effort was real high, and we made up for a lot of unforced errors."

Nebraska offense ran efficiently, hitting .378 as a team, with 43 kills and only nine errors. Outside hitters Janet Kruse and Linda Barsness led the Huskers in hitting with a .500 percentage, while Kruse and middle blocker Stephanie Thater both tallied 11 kills.

Middle hitter Valery Roberts also hit .500, with 10 kills in her final home match to pace K-State, as the K-State's Kathy Saxton prepares to pound a ball into a Nebraska block during the Wildcats' loss to the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday in Ahearn Field House. Saxton finished the match with nine kills, second only to Valery Roberts, who had 10 for the match.

'Cats regained some of its former offensive punch by hitting .227 with 40 kills. Outside hitter Kathy Saxton added nine kills.

"Val's done that a lot this year — she's hit over .500 numerous times," Nelson said. "She started out a little slow, doing some things that we didn't want to do offensively, but focused in as the match went on and got stronger and stronger."

K-State troubled Nebraska with its serve, trying to keep the Huskers' offense off-stride. Setter Alison Murphy, third in the conference in service aces, hit two in a row, and four in all, to keep the Cats' offense moving in the first game.

"I thought we strategically served Nebraska to slow down their offense," Nelson said. "However, at certain points we had several service errors in a row, but against a team like this, if you just serve easy, they'll build momentum on offense. We had to go with some tough short serves and some tough deep serves and accept some errors."

Basketball season's arrival brings return of Hoop Fever

David Svoboda

SPORTS EDITOR

With the fall sports campaigns winding down or already having closed, it's once again time for that dreaded, yearly disease to begin infecting large numbers of folks in these parts.

It's time for Hoop Fever.

You know the symptoms. First, there's an insatiable need to read the sports page every morning the two or three weeks before the first exhibition game.

Second, there's the desire to talk about each and every new player like you've had a long, personal conversation and know the player's innermost secrets for success.

Finally, there's an uncontrollable twitching that commences early in the morning on the day of the first exhibition game and only ends when the first slam dunk of the new year has been thundered home.

I've got to admit that as I sat next to Oklahoma basketball coach Billy Tubbs during K-State's football loss to the Sooners Saturday in Norman, Okla., I wanted to strangle the guy.

Oh, yeah, that's another symptom of hoop fever that's confined to these parts: an intense hatred for anyone associated with any other team in the Big Eight Conference.

I have the Sooner-Jayhawk strain, which makes me very, very nauseated when I see anyone in either program or have to listen to them spout all their drivel about how good they are or will be.

Let us root, root, root for the Wildcats — or the Lady Cats.

Both K-State teams enter their 1990-91 seasons with new coaches and plenty of questions, although the women appear to have far fewer questions and far more reasons for optimism than do the men.

Here's a brief overview of what you might expect to see Wednesday when the men get started or Saturday when the women get underway.

The Lady Cats enter the season with new coach Susan Yow guiding a team that returns last year's Big Eight Co-Player-of-the-Year Diana Miller. Miller joins Nadira Hazim and Kristie Bahner in giving the Lady Cats three potent scoring threats.

When you toss in point guard Mary Jo Miller and fellow returnee Sheila Cherry, this team is at least five-deep with respect to experienced players who can be expected to provide strong performances this season from the outset.

In addition, the Lady Cats have the Big Eight's preseason choice for newcomer of the year in forward Lynn Holzman, a 5-11 product of North Royalton (Ohio) High School who was an honorable-mention prep All-American choice by USA Today.

If the players Yow has at her disposal can learn her system quickly enough, there is no reason this team shouldn't contend for the Big Eight title they all but gave away down the stretch last season.

Yow provides — or should provide — a steadying influence that was lacking under a non-proven head coach in Gaye Griffin late last year, and that alone should make this team a title contender.

I like the Lady Cats to hold off Oklahoma State and Colorado to win the league crown and to make Yow look like a genius in her first year in Manhattan.

Holzman will make a big impact and could be the missing piece of the inside puzzle, but one shouldn't forget the work the staff of former coach Matilda Mossman did in getting the nucleus here in the first place.

Yow will take this team to the crown, but Mossman brought the players to K-State. That shouldn't be forgotten.

On the men's side, new coach Dana Altman inherits a cupboard that looked a little on the empty side when old what'shisname left for the head coaching job at Florida.

The loss of the current backup point guard of the Milwaukee Bucks is a major one (you know the name, so I won't use it), but returnee Jean Derouillere should pick up the slack.

Derouillere was one of my five All-Big Eight choices on a preseason ballot, and there's no reason to believe he won't be filling up baskets around the country this year.

But there are a ton of questions that Altman and crew must answer in a hurry if K-State is to return to the

See SVOBODA, Page 10

K-State soccer player Karl Krewenka (right) battles for possession during soccer action this weekend in Kansas City, Mo.

KU wins tourney

By The Collegian Staff

The University of Kansas soccer team captured first-place honors at one of the most prestigious men's soccer tournaments for Big Eight clubs at Lake Jacomo outside of Kansas City, Mo., Sunday.

At the 12th Annual Edward E. Chartrand Memorial soccer tournament, sponsored in part by K-State, the club from KU defeated the University of Missouri soccer team 2-1 for first place in the eight-team field.

The tournament was organized by K-State and David and Art Chartrand to honor their brother, Ed Chartrand, who played soccer for the KSU Soccer Club and died in 1979.

"It was spectacular," David Chartrand said following the tournament, which he said was blessed with perfect soccer weather.

The K-State club lost to late-entry Cloud County 2-0 and to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln 1-0 before beating Oklahoma 2-1.

At halftime of the championship, a $500 scholarship was given to Thomas Carson, freshman starter on the K-State team.

David Chartrand said he is pleased the tournament is growing in recognition and that the level of play is improving each year.

"It's been going on long enough that it's beginning to develop a sort of tradition, and it now has a reputation for being one of the top tournaments in the Midwest," Chartrand said.

David Mayes/Staff

K-State wide receiver Frank Hernandez is pulled down by Oklahoma defenders during the Cats 34-7 loss at Norman on Saturday.

Game

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

With a 20-point cushion, OU could afford to lay its ears back and come after K-State quarterbacks in the second half, and it did so, registering five sacks for 45 yards in losses.

In addition to Straw's injury, backup Paul Watson's leg injury, the misfortune of third-stringer

Jason Smargiasso and the inexperience of fourth-stringer Matt Garber made it difficult for the patient to appear as if it had life.

All in all, though, Snyder wanted his team to leave the game having learned a lesson.

"I want our kids to understand it wouldn't have taken that much more to make this a different ballgame," Snyder said.

Riniker to compete in clay court event

By Todd Fertig
Sports Reporter

Challenging some of the top collegiate tennis players in the nation, freshman Michele Riniker enters the first round of play today in the DuPont National Clay Court Championships in Panama City, Fla.

Having been defeated by two nationally ranked players in the fall season, Riniker continues her battle for recognition in the 32-player tournament this week. Coach Steve Bietau said that Riniker played her best tennis of the season against top-rated opponents and that he thinks it is only a matter of time until she pulls a big upset.

"We're just going to keep letting her play people of this caliber, and one of these days she's going to hit and beat some pretty good people," Bietau said before leaving for the tournament. "Michele's good enough that if her attitude is good and she works hard, the big wins will come eventually."

Bietau said that Riniker has had to make many difficult adjustments since coming to K-State from Switzerland, and that these may have kept her from playing her best tennis this fall. Riniker, a freshman, has played No. 1 singles and has a 6-6 record entering the DuPont Championships. Having suffered a disappointing loss in the consolation round of the Rolex Regional All-American meet last week, Riniker is anxious to extend the season.

"I know what I have to do this time," Riniker said. "My feelings have to be under control, and my mental game must be more consistent."

"I'm really excited about playing this tournament because it is on clay, which is what I always played on before I came here."

In the Rolex tournament, Riniker was knocked out early by the tournament's top seed, Monika Waniek, the 37th-rated player in the nation. Riniker was defeated 6-3, 6-4 and received praise from coaches and players for her play in the match, Bietau said.

Earlier in the season, Riniker lost 7-5, 6-2 to Eveline Hamers of Kansas, the nation's 9th-rated player. Riniker also played in the Riviera Women's All-American Championships, losing after taking the first set from Julie Willett of Northwestern.

"Her best matches this year were against the toughest players she's faced," Bietau said. "She's been in a position to win those types of matches but just hasn't."

SPORTS BRIEFLY

Seahawks beat Chiefs late

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Paul Skansi caught Dave Krieg's 25-yard touchdown pass as time expired Sunday and Norm Johnson kicked the extra point to give the Seattle Seahawks a 17-16 victory over the stunned Kansas City Chiefs.

Kansas City linebacker Derrick Thomas, who set an NFL record with seven quarterback sacks, appeared to have Krieg trapped on the final play.

But Krieg wriggled free and heaved the ball toward Skansi, who was surrounded by defenders but jumped high and pulled down the pass in the middle of the end zone.

Johnson added the extra point to give Seattle (4-5) its first victory in Kansas City since 1980 and to hand the Chiefs' their first loss in five home games this season.

After forcing the Chiefs to punt, the Seahawks went 66 yards in four plays, with Krieg hitting Tommy Kane for 25 yards to set up the winning TD pass.

Nick Lowery kicked three field goals for the Chiefs (5-4) and Dan Saleaumua recovered a fumble in the end zone for Kansas City's only touchdown in three weeks.

Thomas, the AFC's defensive rookie of the year last season, broke the NFL sack record of six set by San Francisco's Fred Dean against New Orleans in 1983.

Fiesta Bowl may move

PHOENIX (AP) — The Fiesta Bowl will be moved out of Arizona if No. 11 Virginia or other high-ranking teams refuse to play in the state, the chairman of the bowl's selection committee said Saturday.

Don Meyers said Fiesta officials have lined up stadiums in other Sun Belt states as a precaution. He did not identify those other locations.

Arizona has been stung by national criticism since Tuesday, when voters rejected by a 51-49 margin a referendum which would have created a paid state holiday honoring the late Martin Luther King Jr. As a result, NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue has recommended that the league's owners move the 1993 Super Bowl out of Sun Devil Stadium in the Phoenix suburb of Tempe.

Leadership center formed on campus

By Tammy Rose
Collegian Reporter

To keep up with changing times, K-State has established a Center for Leadership available for students, faculty and staff.

The center, established in the spring of 1990, is in the Department of Management within the College of Business. The center will encourage an interdisciplinary approach to leadership issues and create communication and collaboration among those interested in leadership.

Brian Niehoff, assistant professor in management and director of the center, said, "We want to serve as a focal point for the different activities and resources on campus."

The KSUCL proposes six activities, but is not limited to those six. The activities include sponsoring and providing educational programs for state and local businesses, offering courses to K-State students to prepare them for the realities of leadership positions in their careers, sponsoring seminars for invited speakers to address the issues and concerns of leaders in present and future organizations, and offering the expertise of faculty members from various departments as a resource for consulting with state and local business organizations.

The leadership seminars will offer speakers, panel discussions and workshops on leadership. Elsea said that some seminars will last a couple of days and that costs could be around $200.

The money received from the seminars and workshops, combined with a small amount of money received through the Essential Edge Campaign, will aid in research pertaining to leadership.

"It basically has two goals: a fund-raising effort for research, and a tool for people to learn more about leadership," Niehoff said.

A goal of the center is to identify and encourage faculty and staff members who have an interest in leadership to become involved in the organization. To do so, applications for Fellowship status are available.

Elsea said the advantages of becoming a Fellow include advance notice of center-sponsored programs, invitations to submit program proposals to the center, subscription to the center's newsletter and copies of names of faculty and staff interested in leadership with descriptions of specific interest areas within the field.

Elsea said he hopes that through the center new and innovative ideas concerning leadership will be created to allow students, both K-Staters and others from around the country, to keep up with the changing times.

"We hope to learn some things about leadership we didn't know before and to help people become more effective leaders," he said.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

CLASSIFIED RATES
One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive dates: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY: Private Scholarships! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

New Sunbed
Tanning 10 for $15

Laramie Plaza Basement 539-7095

Wed., Nov. 14
Girl's Rugby Benefit
Barnburners Live!
Auction/Prizes
only at
BAYSTREET

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Kripp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

2 Apartments—Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM IN Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid, $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid, $260. 776-7320.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE available mid-November. One and one-half baths. Eighth and Bluemont. No pets. $400. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

PARK PLACE APARTMENTS

1408 Cambridge Place • 539-2951

- 1, 2 and 3 bedroom
- 2 swimming pools and a heated spa
- Some utilities paid
- Across the street from Westloop Shopping Center
- Campus shuttle leaving every hour

Pre-leasing for Jan.-May

Brittnay Ridge Townhomes

—More Than Your Basic Apartment—

- 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, study room
- Wired for cable, phone, computer
- Hot tubs & volleyball court
- Bus service to campus
- Monthly rent as low as $195

Dan Weir Co.

2601 Anderson Ave. 776-5599

5 Automobile for Sale

1984 VW Rabbit convertible. Very good condition, low mileage, asking $6,500. Call 776-5668 after 5p.m.

1985 CALAIS: Gunsmoke gray, $320. 539-9173.

1985 NISSAN 4x4. New paint, air conditioning, fiberglass top, AM/FM cassette, high miles. $4,000 or best offer. 537-0313.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies. Hull Business Supplies. Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE: IBM PS/2 model 502. 1MB RAM, 80286, one 3.5" floppy, 30MB hard drive, Micro Channel architecture. IBM mouse, 8513 color VGA monitor, enhanced keyboard, cloth covers, DOS 4.01 and lots of software. One year old. $3,000. 1-823-9739, Salina.

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac Ili, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below bookstore. Call 539-0801 or come by 1115 Westloop.

IBM COMPATIBLE XT dual floppy, monochrome monitor, printer. Software and manuals, $800. Call 537-8664.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such 'employment opportunity' with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

(Continued on page 9)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thanksgiving break display advertising deadlines.

Publication date:

Monday, November 19
Monday, November 26
Tuesday, November 27

Deadline:

Thursday, November 15
Friday, November 16
Monday, November 19

There will be no Collegian on Tuesday, November 20.
Questions? Call your advertising representative at 532-6560.

HERE'S WHY THE SMART MONEY AT KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY IS GOING WITH TIAA-CREF AS IF THE FUTURE DEPENDED ON IT.

Because it does. Smart investors know that your future depends on how well your retirement system performs. TIAA-CREF has been the premier retirement system for people in education and research for over 70 years. We have enabled over 200,000 people like you to enjoy a comfortable retirement. And over 1,000,000 more are now planning for the future with TIAA-CREF.

SMART MONEY LOOKS FOR SECURITY, GROWTH AND DIVERSITY FOR RETIREMENT SAVINGS.

Security—so the resources are there when it is time to retire. Growth—so you'll have enough income for the kind of retirement you want. And diversity—to help protect you against market volatility and to let you benefit from several types of investments.

THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT YOU GET WITH TIAA-CREF.

TIAA offers you the safety of a traditional annuity that guarantees your principal plus a specified rate of interest, and provides for additional growth through dividends. CREF's variable annuity offers opportunities for growth through four different investment accounts, each managed with the long-term perspective essential to sound retirement planning:

- The CREF Stock Account
- The CREF Money Market Account
- The CREF Bond Market Account
- The CREF Social Choice Account

CALL 1-800-842-2776
TO FIND OUT MORE

Our experienced retirement counselors will be happy to answer your questions and tell you more about retirement annuities from TIAA-CREF.

Experience. Performance. Strength. Your future is protected by the largest private retirement system in the world. We have done so well, for so many, for so long, that we currently manage some $85 billion in assets.

Ensuring the future
for those who shape it.™

For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1 800 842-2733, ext 5509 for a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

KSU Faculty and Staff

are invited to attend one of two

Planned Gift/Estate Planning Seminars

2 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 13

and repeated at

2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 14

K-State Union Little Theater

Through the fascinating use of planned gifts, individuals are able to minimize taxes, increase their estates and, in some circumstances, actually increase their current income.

This seminar will describe the many financial instruments available for gifts to K-State such as charitable lead trusts, unitrusts, and gift annuities.

Presented by Robert Sandberg, Gift Planning Consultant and former Vice President for the University of Nebraska Foundation and Mark Moore, Vice President for Capital Campaigns/Planned Gifts at the KSU Foundation

All KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend.
Admission is free.

Sponsored by the KSU Foundation and KSU Student Foundation

YOUR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Sheila
HOCHHAUSER

THANK YOU
KANSAS STATE

FOR ELECTING ME TO REPRESENT YOU!

I will continue to make sure our concerns are heard in Topeka.

Please call or visit whenever you have questions or concerns. Contact me if you want to receive my legislative letter.

1636 Leavenworth, Manhattan (539-6177)

SHEILA HOCHHAUSER
WORKING FOR YOU, 66th DISTRICT

Hu

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
the beginning — then there is tension that builds until it must be expressed some way, she said.

"The last part is creation," Hu said. Writing, painting and music are only some of the means for expressing these feelings, she said. Some people express it just by the way they live, she said.

"Artists have a need in them — it is painful. The form doesn't matter, it is the why that matters," Hu said.

The various forms that Hu uses to express herself convey different whys to each person.

"Her contemporary pieces are fresh and spontaneous, but have depth and perspective in the manner of oriental art," said Larry Griffiths, director of the Sandzen Gallery in Lindsborg.

An exhibit of Hu's work and her husband's calligraphy were on display at the gallery for two months this summer. Another exhibit is planned for the three branches of the Kansas City, Kan. Public Library beginning in November.

"I am not sure what paintings I will send there," Hu said. "I have been very busy writing a second book, and I have been experimenting with color."

Part of the second book will focus on using color abstract painting as a means of opening up the mind.

The biggest fear for an artist is when the inspiration dries up, she said. Artists are used to an inspired mind. Having experienced this, it is depressing when it is gone.

"So life is a rollercoaster, because you can't have inspiration all the time, and not when you are balancing the family budget," she said, laughing.

Lawyers call ruling against CNN in Noreiga tapes case 'censorship'

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA — A federal appeals court ruling barring Cable News Network from televising tapes of Manuel Noriega's telephone conversations with his lawyers was a shocking show of censorship, constitutional law experts said Sunday.

The Atlanta-based network, which has pledged to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, said it stopped televising the tapes on Saturday morning.

Noriega's attorneys, arguing that the broadcasts would endanger Noriega's right to a fair trial on drug-trafficking charges, asked a judge Saturday to fine CNN $300,000 for each time it aired the tapes.

George Rahdert, a lawyer at the Poynter Institute of Media Studies, characterized Saturday's appeals court ruling as "absolutely an astonishing illustration of censorship."

Rahdert, who represents several newspapers, said CNN was "playing with blasting caps" by defying a Miami judge's order against airing the tapes.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Saturday upheld an injunction barring CNN from broadcasting the tapes between Panama's fallen leader and his lawyers.

Noriega is accused of accepting $4.6 million in bribes from Colombia's Medellin cocaine cartel in exchange for letting drugs move safely through Panama to the United States.

Svoboda

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7
NCAA tournament for the fifth-straight year.

■ Can Askia Jones come back from the leg injury he suffered this summer and avoid the sophomore jinx?

■ Will Keith Amerson and Jeff Wires take the flashes of brilliance they've shown at times since they've been here and develop into consistent threats?

■ Can John Rettiger avoid continued back problems, make continued strides, and battle night after night against the Doug Smiths, Mark Randalls, Victor Alexanders and Byron Houstons of the Big Eight world?

■ Can newcomer Maurice Brittan stay healthy enough (he's already missed a great deal of practice time) and slim enough to make an impact in the middle?

■ Can Pat Sams, Marlon Shadd and Wylie Howard finally bring to the program the kind of play the previous staff brought them to Manhattan to display?

■ Can Darryl King and Marcus Zeigler join Brittan in giving the 'Cats solid play from newcomers?

■ Will Altman's proposed up-tempo system work this year, or does he need more horses?

Take a breath, then consider a few facts. The conference is loaded with quality returnees on solid teams. Altman is a great recruiter, but he's playing with a deck that's less than stacked at this point.

And, finally, this much radical change — in faces and in system — takes time to adapt to.

That's why, when all is said and done, this is a third- or fourth-place team at best in the conference.

Oklahoma and Oklahoma State have too many horses, and Kansas and Missouri continue to hang around. It could be a long year for the K-State men.

But then, I've been wrong before, and I could be a bit cloudy in my thinking with this Hoop Fever I've come down with yet again.

Chain

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5
each tribe. The tribe that collected the most cans, in terms of pounds, wins."

The winner was the Kickapoo tribe, which collected 324 pounds, Pesaresi said. Each member who donated a can received a candy bar.

"The rest just get the fun of doing it, and they get out of class for an hour," Pesaresi said.

Ben Stamey, eighth-grader and student council president, said forming the chain helped get the entire school involved and put the project into perspective.

"I know some people in the line will be getting food," Stamey said. "If it's a school project, they have a better idea of who gets the food."

Following the human food chain, the students and faculty were presented certificates of appreciation by Mayor Richard Hayter and Wefald.

Exhibit portrays monotony of I-70

Artist knows, paints western Kansas

By Heather Anderson
Collegian Reviewer

It soon will be Thanksgiving, and, like many other K-State students, I am not looking forward to the drive back to western Kansas.

After looking at E.C. Cunningham's current exhibit "Road Work" in the K-State Union Gallery, however, the drive may not be so bad after all. Cunningham has taken a long-deserved whimsical look at the monotonous drive on I-70 between Kansas City and Denver.

Using a combination of pastels and monotypes, he creates the same kind of overwhelming color combinations featured in the Wizard of Oz. Bright fuschas, greens and blues describe landscape that is anything but colorful, especially this time of year.

As the artist explains in his press release, however, "I am trying to travel the edge between fact and fantasy, presenting this 500-mile trip between Denver and Manhattan with humor, fondness and a sense of irony."

Cunningham is well qualified to translate the emotions of the area — he was born and raised in various towns along I-70. He attended graduate school at the University of Colorado, returning often to Manhattan to visit his family.

If you are from western Kansas, or you just have driven through it on your way to a ski trip or home to Colorado, this exhibit is a must-see.

Maps, photos and drawings are a few of the materials used to create the compositions.

"Hit the Trail" and "Way Out There" are good examples of this collage technique. "Trail" features maps, pictures and a tacky brochure used to promote western Kansas.

The next time you travel past Salina on the interstate, you can pass the time by looking for the gigantic structures that inspired "Out in the Middle," a monotype featuring the Holy Cross church in Pfeifer. Although you can't see this particular sprawling metropolis from the highway, you can get a feel for the work by observing similar set-ups in the towns of Victoria, Walker and Park.

Although Victoria is a large enough town to have a school, the others are simply huge Catholic churches out in the middle of nowhere.

Another piece with a rich theme of local culture is "Post Rock," which explores the abundance of limestone fence posts around Russell and Hays. In case you've never noticed before, most of the posts in the area are solid rock, weighing 500 pounds or more.

Two works focus on the town of Quinter, where Cunningham once lived. One bears the tongue-in-cheek title of "Boyhood Home of a Famous Artist," and the other is an equally humorous "Jesus, How Can Anyone Live Out Here?"

Used in the compositions are such famous landmarks as the Quinter interstate exit sign, the local grain elevator and Castle Rock. For those of you who aren't locals, Castle Rock is the parapet-shaped figure used in the compositions. It's a big rock formation outside of Quinter.

Judging by some of the reactions in the gallery guest book, some people found the exhibit tacky and elementary. But Cunningham's treatment of a subject that includes an off-road exhibit of a two-headed calf and the largest prairie dog in the world hits the nail square on the head.

TAKE IT OFF

Choke. Call Deb.
555-5555

FURNITURE STRIPPING: I will strip and refinish your old furniture. Call Dave for an estimate. 555-5555

FOR SALE: Pit bull trainer puppies.

In the Collegian classifieds

532-6555

Last Day of Veteran's Day Sale
20% Off
Storewide.

BRENTWOOD

PREGNANT?
NEED HELP?
For confidential
help call

Birthright
FREE Pregnancy Tests

523 S. 17th Old Town Mall
537-9180 1-800-848-LOVE

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
539-3338

- Free Pregnancy Testing
- Totally Confidential Services
- Same Day Results
- Call For Appointment
- Walk-ins Welcome
- Located across from Campus in Anderson Village

Summer Hours
Monday-Friday
10 a.m.-3 p.m.
or by appointment

Arts

Lectures

Movies

Outdoors

Performances

Travel

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

MY LEFT FOOT

K-State Union
UPC Kaleidoscope

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 14, 15 & 16
MY LEFT FOOT (IRELAND) (KAL)

This is a story of Christy Brown, born into a large, poor, loving family in a Dublin slum and considered for the first 10 years of his life to be hopelessly retarded. Born with cerebral palsy, his entire body was in revolt against him—all except his left foot. Rated R.

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY, 7 p.m., Forum Hall,
THURSDAY, 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre & FRIDAY, 7 p.m., Little Theatre.

EXCLUSIVE ART PRINT SALE

November 12-16, 1990, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

K-State Union, 1st floor concourse

UPC Arts and Crafts Sale: VENDOR SIGN-UP

Starting today, November 12th, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., UPC Office, 3rd floor, K-State Union.

The sale is November 29 and 30, there is a $20 table fee.

For more info. call 532-6571.

November 12-23

Bob Condia's Fourth
Year Student Work

K-state union
UPC arts

THE VARSITY SPORT OF
THE MIND

NOVEMBER 17-18, 1990
K-State Union, Little Theatre

COLLEGE BOWL (kol ij bol) n. 1. an academic competition for teams of university students which is identical to the High-Q competition for high-school students. College Bowl pits two teams of 4 plus 1 alternate against each other in answering questions ranging from current events to math, and from literature to natural sciences.

K-state union
UPC issues & ideas

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tuesday, November 13, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 56

5/15/91
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
120 W 10th
Topeka KS 66612

World leaders, Congress hoping to avoid war

Bush's moves cause concern

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress expressed increasing worry Monday over President Bush's latest moves in the Persian Gulf, warning that he is stepping out ahead of his carefully created international consensus and that Americans as well as allies may balk at going to war.

"If George Bush wants his presidency to die in the Arabian desert, he's going to get his wish," Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview.

Bush's spokesman quickly retorted, "Not a shot's been fired. What are these guys talking about?"

The spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, said Bush has no intention of leaving Congress out of his decisionmaking. "They know what we're doing," Fitzwater said. "They've been kept informed every step of the way. It's appropriate that they be cautious, that they express these concerns. There's nothing wrong with that."

Following Bush's announcement last week that the United States will begin a huge new deployment to gain an offensive capability in the region, the tone on Capitol Hill has shifted from cautious support to apprehension.

Speaking in Albany, Ga. on Monday, Democratic Sen. Wyche Fowler said Congress should come back into session after Thanksgiving to debate the issue and to better define America's goals: "What will constitute victory, how long it might take and, more importantly, to pursue every economic and diplomatic strategy, so that hopefully we can eliminate the military option."

Rep. William Broomfield, R-

Mich., the senior GOP member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, has voiced concern over the president's failure to consult broadly with Congress on the latest deployment.

But Fitzwater said public support for Bush "has been very strong" and added: "We don't want to go to war. President Bush will say the same things these congressmen are saying — be cautious, follow the policy, support the U.N. resolutions, consult with Congress."

Bush has said he still hopes economic sanctions backed by U.N. resolutions and supported by most foreign nations will persuade Iraq to leave Kuwait without fighting.

One senior congressional aide, speaking on condition of anonymity, said lawmakers who have spent time among the voters in recent weeks are reflecting public unease with the gulf situation. The aide predicted that Bush would come under heavier fire from the Democratic-controlled Congress in the coming weeks.

Senior administration officials, including Secretary of Defense Dick

■ See GULF, Page 8

Arab nations working for Mid-East summit

By The Associated Press

World leaders on Monday urged diplomacy rather than military force to solve the Persian Gulf crisis, and Arab nations discussed holding an Arab summit that Saddam Hussein has said he might attend.

Oil prices were down more than $2 a barrel — to $31.80 — Monday afternoon, in part because traders decided that war was not imminent in the gulf.

President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt reinforced that sentiment, saying Egyptian soldiers would not enter Iraq, even if U.S. and other troops attacked. He said, however, that his troops would enter Kuwait as a peacekeeping force.

In Washington, lawmakers also urged the administration to back away from its war rhetoric.

"If George Bush wants his presidency to die in the Arabian desert, he's going at it very steadily and as if it were a plan," said Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y.

White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said later that President Bush would work closely with Congress on the crisis, but might be forced to order military action on his own in case of "unforeseen kinds of provocations."

King Hassan II of Morocco on Sunday proposed he host an Arab summit within the next week as a "last chance" for peace. Some nations endorsed that call, and Hussein said he might attend if consulted on the timing and agenda.

Hussein said the summit should discuss linking the Arab-Israeli dispute to any decision over Kuwait, which Iraq invaded and occupied on Aug. 2 in a dispute over land, oil and money.

Meeting in Baghdad, Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat and Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen on Monday backed the call for an Arab summit.

Qian said China "will support any Arab effort to resolve the conflict ... If Arab leaders agree to meet in a summit, China will certainly support that." But there was still no response from several Arab leaders and prospects for an early summit seemed dim.

In addition, Hussein's insistence on tying his withdrawal from Kuwait to withdrawal of Israel from the West Bank and Gaza Strip was controversial. The United States and its allies have said Iraq must withdraw unconditionally from Kuwait and the issues must be dealt with separately.

In Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, the secretary-general of the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council said Morocco's call for an emergency Arab summit had come too late and war was inevitable.

The council's secretary-general, Abdullah Bishara, a Kuwaiti national, told a news conference that war was inescapable because "diplomacy alone will never achieve its objectives."

"What will make the Iraqis withdraw is the realization that war is im-

■ See ARAB, Page 8

Dropouts coming from at-risk families

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

Kansas ranks ninth in the nation in the percentage of students that graduate from its high schools, but in spite of the relatively low drop-out rate, educators continue to fight to keep students in Kansas schools.

Dick Hamby, assistant director of the National Drop-out Prevention Center at Clemson University, spoke on Monday in Blue-mont Hall about at-risk students, students who live with characteristics that indicate they are likely to drop out of school.

Hamby said 28.8 percent of students who entered the ninth grade in 1984 did not graduate in 1988.

"Annually, we have a drop-out rate of 4.5 percent from grades 10-12," Hamby said. "That 4.5 percent equals 429,000 students. Of the 429,000, only 40 percent return to school in some way."

As a nation, Hamby said 26 percent of our population over the age of 18 did not graduate from high school.

"Not everybody believes we have a problem, and (some believe) that educationalists must have blown the drop-out numbers out of proportion to protect themselves," Hamby said. "We are facing two wars. How do we turn around the kids dropping out now, and how do we prevent kids from dropping out?"

Hamby said that teachers need to watch out for their kids individually and watch for signs that may indicate a student is considering dropping out of school. This individual attention can be hard when teachers have large classes.

Questionnaires provide an efficient way to detect possible at-risk students. Students are asked about 13 questions ranging from how many hours they spend on homework each week to at what ages they plan to marry and have children.

■ See DROP-OUT, Page 8

Brad Camp/Staff

Smoldering straw

Riley County Rural Fire Department firefighters Mike Beffa, junior in animal science, and David Howland, senior in secondary education, work to put out the smoldering remains of a grass fire that burned several acres of land on the farm of Al Blubaugh north of Manhattan Monday. The flames were extinguished about an hour after the fire began.

Minority enrollment increases

3.6 percent jump attributed to programs, scholarships, grants

By Eric Robison
Collegian Reporter

Minority student enrollment was up by 3.6 percent for fall 1990, according to the University Registrar's office.

The total number of minority students for fall is 1,100 compared to 1,062 students last fall.

On campus enrollment figures by ethnic group are: Black 519; Hispanic, 214; Asian, 210; Mexican American, 94; Native American, 63. "This is the largest minority student enrollment in K-State's history," said President Jon Wefald in a press release. "We will persist in our efforts to recruit minority students and to create a campus environment that encourages them to continue their studies and to look ahead to graduate and professional training."

Robert Krause, vice president of institutional advancement, said K-State has a variety of recruitment programs that encourages on-campus visitations, a wide variety of special groups and scholarships.

K-State participates in two national minority scholarship programs: the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students, administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation; and the National Hispanic Student Achievement program. The University offers Presidential Scholarships of $2,500 to minority students who are National Merit semifinalists or $5,500 to finalists.

Suzan Kowalczewski, freshman in arts and sciences undecided, and James Chacon, freshman in physics, received presidential scholarships from the KSU Foundation.

At the recommendation of the KSU Task Force on Minority Retention, high-need minority students now are offered grants and college work-study, whereas the amount of loan aid offered has been decreased.

In a press release, Larry Viterna, director of Student Financial Assistance, said, "Our office estimates that this year it will cost a resident undergraduate dependent student $6,950 for nine months of schooling here. We are trying to assist the high-need minority students by offering grants and work-study rather than loans."

Minority Student Representation At K-State

Ethnic Group	Fr	Soph	Jr	Sr	5th Year	Vet. Med.	Other	Graduate Students	Total
Asian American	68	43	29	35	1	1	14	23	214
Black	205	94	66	94	3	0	2	55	519
Hispanic	57	35	41	47	3	9	3	19	214
Mexican American	33	25	14	17	2	0	0	3	94
Native American	19	14	10	15	0	0	0	5	63

Source: Registrar's Office

Free band concert to be given in honor of military veterans

By Dan Scott
Collegian Reporter

The 11th annual Veterans' Day concert will be performed at 8 p.m. today in McCain Auditorium.

The concert will be a joint effort between the First Infantry Division Band of Fort Riley and the K-State Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

The Fort Riley band will perform first, said Stan Finck, assistant professor of music and director of the ensemble. The band will feature three solo concertos.

The three solos will include "Carnival of Venice," played on clarinet, "Morceau Symphonique," played on euphonium and the "Mozart Oboe Concerto." A euphonium is similar to the tuba.

The K-State Symphonic Wind Ensemble will perform three songs: "George Washington Bridge," "Eternal Father" and "Carmen Dragon." "Carmen Dragon" is a rendition of "America, the Beautiful," Finck said.

The concert will last about one hour and is free, he said.

Sgt. Ronald Polewski said the recent announcement of the deployment of Fort Riley's First Infantry Division to Saudi Arabia may affect future band performances.

"We haven't had to cancel any performances so far," Polewski said. "As time goes on, I imagine there will be some commitments that we won't be able to make."

The announcement will have no effect on tonight's concert, he said.

No special music or activities are planned concerning the crisis in the Middle East, Finck said.

The program for the concert was

■ See CONCERT, Page 8

BRIEFLY

World

Akihito becomes monarch

TOKYO (AP) — With cries of "Banzai!" and solemn prayers to the sun goddess, Emperor Akihito formally became Japan's new monarch on Monday.

The all-day enthronement ceremonies were marred by dozens of terrorist attacks, but only one injury was reported, and none of the imperial proceedings was disrupted or delayed.

The rites marked the beginning of nearly a month of festivities surrounding Japan's first coronation in 62 years.

The enthronement celebrations, featuring rituals dating back to ancient times, have drawn criticism from groups that believe government funding for them is unconstitutional.

French protests turn violent

PARIS (AP) — Masked vandals stoned police and set cars afire Monday during a demonstration by 100,000 students seeking better school conditions. It was the first serious outbreak of violence in four weeks of protests.

President Francois Mitterrand promised steps would be taken to address the students' demands. They want more government spending to improve security, upgrade substandard facilities, modernize curriculums and hire more teachers.

The main throng of protesters in Paris was orderly. But several hundred youths on the fringes looted a clothing store, hurled rocks at police, beat journalists, smashed bus stops and torched at least three parked vehicles.

Police in Paris made at least 20 arrests, using tear gas and water cannons to disperse troublemakers. Many of the rioters wore masks and armed themselves with clubs. At least 40 policemen were injured, as well as unknown number of protesters.

Thatcher's grip loosening

LONDON (AP) — Michael Heseltine, a flamboyant former defense secretary, has two days left to decide whether to attempt the once-unthinkable: ousting Margaret Thatcher as Conservative Party leader and thus prime minister.

The crisis has thrown the party's normally well-disciplined legislators into turmoil.

With a mixture of behind-the-scenes threats, promises and cajoling, Thatcher loyalists and Heseltine supporters are taking soundings, adding up pledges and consulting crystal balls.

Some Heseltine supporters claim they are within sight of the 159 votes needed to force a second ballot among the 372 Conservative legislators in the House of Commons who elect the party leader.

Nation

Lab tests conducted in death

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Doctors conducted lab tests Monday to determine what caused the sudden death of 13-year-old Stormie Jones, the world's first heart-liver transplant recipient.

It will take one to two weeks to complete the tests, including organ tissue cultures to search for viruses or bacteria, said Lynn McMahon, a spokeswoman at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh.

Stormie went into cardiac arrest and died Sunday morning at the hospital after rapidly declining during the night.

"We've been able to provide better quality of life and longer life for many people" because of Stormie's ordeal, Dr. Jorge Reyes, staff physician at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, said after she died.

Preliminary autopsy results were inconclusive, but Reyes said that if Stormie had a flu virus, her death could have been caused by a rapid or irregular heartbeat.

Titan lifts off after 2 months

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Titan 4 rocket, the nation's most powerful unmanned launcher, blasted into space with a secret military cargo Monday after a delay of nearly two months.

The 20-stories-tall rocket ignited the sky as it thundered toward orbit at 7:37 p.m. EST. The Air Force tried in September to launch the unmanned Titan, but had to delay the flight because of undisclosed technical problems.

NASA's two shuttle launch pads were illuminated a few miles away as the Titan roared into a starry sky and headed out over the Atlantic Ocean. Atlantis is awaiting a Thursday liftoff, also with a classified Department of Defense satellite.

Air Force officials refused to discuss, or even acknowledge, the launch prior to liftoff from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station. The Air Force would not divulge the nature of the payload, but civilian experts said they believed the rocket was carrying a $180 million advanced-missile warning satellite.

Court to rule on CNN tapes

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega and Cable News Network declared a cease-fire Monday, agreeing to postpone their constitutional showdown over taped conversations until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on the issue.

Under the deal worked out in federal court, CNN must refrain from playing any tapes between the imprisoned former Panamanian leader and his attorneys.

In return, Noriega's defense delayed a request for contempt penalties of up to $300,000 per broadcast against the network. U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler also delayed his order demanding that CNN hand over seven disputed tapes to the court.

"Our concern is to keep General Noriega from being denied a fair trial," defense attorney Jon May said. "I'm not here to squeeze blood out of CNN."

Son tells of Copeland's abuse

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — The son of a 69-year-old woman facing a possible death sentence for killing five transients testified Monday his father treated his mother worse than trash.

A defense attorney asked a jury to spare the woman's life because of the abuse. But a prosecutor said Faye Copeland deserved to die for the killings, which were part of a cattle swindle.

The same jury that convicted Faye Copeland of five counts of first-degree murder Saturday is expected to decide Tuesday between the death penalty and life in prison. The jury heard testimony from 17 witnesses Monday.

Also on Tuesday, a psychologist is expected to testify about battered-wife syndrome. That testimony was not allowed during the trial.

Region

3 hurt in Fort Riley explosion

FORT RILEY (AP) — Two soldiers and a civilian were injured when an explosive device detonated at Fort Riley.

The Army said they were hurt Sunday afternoon by a dud round, and that ordnance disposal experts were trying to determine its type. The blast occurred about 4 p.m. in the northeast section of the post, but officials did not release other details of what happened.

The two soldiers were being treated at Irwin Army Community Hospital. Pfc. Rachel Zabacky of the post's public affairs office said that Spc. Frank Kaminski was in good condition, and Pfc. Richard Richardson was in stable condition.

She said that Sonja Kaminski was in serious but stable condition at Stormont Vail Regional Medical Center in Topeka.

CAMPUS BULLETIN
Announcements

■ Center for Basic Cancer Research deadline for research award applications is Dec. 10. Applications are available in Ackert 234.

13 Tuesday

■ Finance Club/FMA will meet at 7 p.m. in Calvin 209.

■ SAVE will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 209.

■ FENIX Adult and Student Program/OWLS will have an informal lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ Pre-Law Club will meet at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

■ Mortar Board will meet at 9:30 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

■ Department of Geology will present a speech by John Schumacher at 4 p.m. in Thompson 101.

■ Bisexual, Gay and Lesbian Student Organization will meet today. For more information, call 539-6137.

■ Wheat State Agronomy Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 201.

■ Golden Key National Honor Society will have officer elections at 6:30 p.m. in the Union Forum Hall.

■ Astronomy Club will meet at the Cardwell Hall Annex from 7 to 9 p.m. to observe Mars. This is the closest Earth will be to Mars until the year 2000. An alternate viewing will be Thursday.

■ K-State Student Chapter American College of Health Care Administrators will meet at 2:45 p.m. for rides to the Meadowlark Hills Retirement Community to visit with residents and administrators.

■ Dairy Science Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Call 140.

■ Society of Automotive Engineers will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Seaton Hall workshop.

■ KSU United Nations Council will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 202.

■ Students For Life will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 208.

■ Society of Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

■ Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 205.

■ Illuminating Engineering Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. in the Union Forum Hall for a dedication of the lighting and building electrical systems lab. The society will have a dinner meeting at 6 p.m. in the Union Flint Hills Room.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, unseasonably warm with near-record high around 75. Sunny. South winds 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, clear and mild. Low 45 to 50. Wednesday, sunny with record high in the upper 70s.

No Middle East War
for Cheap Oil!

Share your wish for a peaceful settlement to the gulf conflict.

Join our demonstration north of the Union.

Wed., Nov. 14
11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.

Sponsored by
Students for Educational Awareness
Men & Women Against Rape
Political Reactions to Issues of the Modern Order
Ecumenical Campus Ministries
Manhattan Alliance on Central America

No exchanging necessary.

When you buy that special someone a pair of Isotoner Gloves, no exchanging is necessary because Isotoner Gloves fit practically everyone on your holiday list. They'll love Isotoner's custom fit and sleek styling. So, select the style that suits her best. Beautifully boxed and easy to wrap.

WOMEN'S ISOTONER
GLOVES

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
776-1193 • 401 Humboldt
Open Weekdays 8-5:30
Thurs. til 8 P.M. Sat 8-4:30
Closed Sunday & Monday
Drive up convenience

What Can Make ACUVUE®
Disposable Contact Lenses
Even Better?

A Free Trial Pair!

We want to open your eyes to the convenience and comfort of ACUVUE® Disposable Contact Lenses.

Come in for an eye exam.

If ACUVUE is right for you, we'll give you a free trial pair.*

ACUVUE® The First Disposable Contact Lens

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Optometrist

See your eyecare professional annually

New Location: 555 Poyntz Suite 151 Colony Square

776-9461 Toll Free 1-800-432-0035

*Examination and other professional service fees are not included in this free trial pair offer.

VS.

CZECHOSLAVAKIAN NATIONALS

November 14

Tipoff: 7:35 p.m.

Bramlage Coliseum

Tickets: 532-6920

Sponsored By:

Tonight

Nuthin But

LED ZEPPELIN
ALL Night Long
All Michelob Family Bottles
$1

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, USA

MEN'S SILK BOXERS
SOLIDS & PRINTS

GIFTS WRAPPED FREE

Patricia's

UNDERCOVER

1224 Moro

Lingerie
AGGIEVILLE

MC, Visa, Layaway

Damages trash campout legacy

By Tammy Rose
Collegian Reporter

The annual basketball campout produced minor damage and lots of trash this year.

A few thousand dollars worth of damage was done to the Ahearn Field House area during the campout this fall, most of which will be drawn from the Intercollegiate Athletics fund, said Steve Miller, director of intercollegiate athletics.

"We have paid for most of the damages in the past. We're looking to the future to see about sharing the costs," Miller said.

The walk lights, emergency phone lights and a couple of the doors on Ahearn were damaged or destroyed. Some of the costs for these damages may come out of the campus safety budget.

Campus Police Investigator Richard Herrman said the perpetrators were not apprehended and there were no witnesses.

As for next year, Herrman said he is unsure on how to handle the problems associated with the campout.

"I don't know what we can do. We just don't have enough manpower," he said.

There were no accidents or tickets given for possession of alcohol, but Herrman said ticketing for alcohol is difficult because the police do not have the right to enter a person's tent.

Miller said he has been meeting with the Athletic Ticket Sales Committee to discuss the validity and necessity of the campout.

"We are working on plans for the future of the campout — looking at options to see what is the most acceptable and suitable way for students to obtain tickets," Miller said.

Miller said hearing about damages from the campout is disappointing and that rules and laws must be enforced.

"There must be some way for the laws to be upheld, whether it's the campout or any other activity," Miller said.

Ticket sales slump, no reason known

By Eric Robison
Collegian Reporter

Season ticket sales for K-State's men's basketball team are down by 1,691 from this time last year.

"As of Nov. 2, we had sold 9,011 season tickets, whereas last year, we sold a total of 10,702 tickets," said Steve Miller, director of intercollegiate athletics.

"I don't know why ticket sales are down. The ticket price is the same, the seating arrangements are the same, the basketball team has been in the NCAA tournament the last couple of years. I don't know what the problem is," Miller said.

The nation's economy may be affecting campus life, said Carol Adolph, administrative assistant of intercollegiate athletics.

"It's hard to say why ticket sales are down, but economics probably have a lot to do with it," she said.

Bramlage Coliseum seats 13,500 people for basketball games, Miller said, but only 12,500 are for the general public. 1,000 seats are complimentary seats for the media, athletes and other people visiting the University.

"The students are allowed 6,000 seats all along the court starting from the first row and going all the way to the top," he said. "They're the best seats in the house."

Miller said he didn't think it would help if ticket prices were lowered as they have been the same price for the last couple of years and K-State still has the lowest ticket price in the Big Eight.

"I don't really think ticket price has anything to do with it. It all has to do with how well the team does and how the public reacts to winning and losing," he said.

With slumping ticket sales, Miller fears that students will lose interest in the tradition of camping out for season tickets.

"I'm all for camping out for season tickets — the students request it. I'm afraid it will lose some of its values because you used to camp out to get a ticket, but now with tickets left over, you really don't have to," he said.

The cost of season tickets last year was $65. This year, the original price was $70, but students can return their three tickets marked void for a $5 refund.

Grades may lead to probation

Students searching for ways to avoid academic dismissal

By Jerry Sapp
Collegian Reporter

Academic probation alerts students not meeting K-State's academic standards of the danger of possible dismissal.

"Probation is a warning to students who let their grade point average drop below average," said Mike Lynch, assistant vice president for institutional advancement. "If their GPA does not improve, students could be academically dismissed."

"As you accumulate more hours, you should maintain a 2.5 or better in accordance with hours attempted at K-State," he said.

The majority of programs on campus require a 2.0 to graduate, said Judy Lynch, associate director of the Academic Assistance Center. She said some colleges, however, require a 2.5 to get into their professional programs.

"Architecture, business and education come to mind where you have to have higher than 2.0 — business requires you to maintain a 2.25 and education a 2.5," she said.

Probation does not mean dismissal, Mike Lynch said.

"You can be on probation multiple semesters," he said. "If your GPA improves a little more than the semester before, but is not quite up to standards, you can be put on probation again."

Academic probation is covered in detail on page 23 of the Kansas State University catalog, Mike Lynch said.

"At the end of the spring 1990 semester, 644 students were academically dismissed and 2,215 were on academic probation," he said. "Thirty percent were freshmen, 23 percent sophomores, 22 percent juniors, 19 percent seniors and the remaining categories accounted for 6 percent."

Once students are put on academic probation, they are contacted by their colleges, said William Feyerharm, assistant dean for the College of Arts and Sciences.

"We try to help them get their GPA back up by offering various counseling," he said. "First, we ask them to see an adviser. We go over their schedule and make sure they don't get overloaded with hours trying to make up for the previous semester. We also help them pinpoint academic weaknesses."

Feyerharm said the biggest problem is reaching out to students to talk about remedies on how to improve on a poor semester.

There are a lot of services on campus that can help students on probation, Feyerharm said.

"There are help services on campus such as math and chemistry, just to name a few, who have set aside rooms to help students," he said. "There are also writing labs for students in English composition. The Academic Assistance Center can really help students improve with counseling services and the Education Support Service can provide tutoring as well."

The level of academic dismissal is relatively stable and might even be improving slightly, Mike Lynch said.

"The process of being dismissed starts once GPAs are computed at the Registrar," he said. "The deans of various colleges will send out letters informing students that they have been dismissed. Once dismissed, students cannot return until they have stayed out one semester."

There are exceptions due to certain circumstances such as family crisis or illness, Mike Lynch said.

"Dismissals can be appealed to the Reinstatement Committee. They are the ones who decide," he said. "If there are special circumstances involved, students might be allowed re-entry at the committee's discretion."

Art exhibit shows problems of illiteracy

By Shannon Heim
Collegian Reporter

Reading the label on a can of soup can be as difficult as understanding a foreign language for more than 20 million people in the United States who cannot read.

After researching the worldwide illiteracy problem, the International Typeface Company chose the issue as the theme for their annual student design competition. The winning artists' works are on display in Seaton Hall's Chang Gallery.

A panel of K-State faculty members from various academic disciplines throughout the University will discuss the exhibit's theme at 2:30 p.m. today in K-State Union 212.

ITC researcher Laurie Burns estimates that about one billion people around the world are illiterate.

Eugene Kremer, architecture professor, said the College of Architecture and Design brought the exhibit to K-State because of the extent of the problem throughout society.

"We brought the exhibit because the content is important to every individual — campus and community-wide," Kremer said.

Kremer said he hoped the exhibit would attract the entire community to the Chang Gallery.

"I think it's difficult for someone who can read to relate to someone who cannot," said panel member Nancy McFarlin, assistant professor in library sciences. "If people would take the opportunity to see the exhibit, I think it would help them understand the problem."

"I just can't imagine what it would be like not to be able to read," she said. "Some of the pieces were very moving. It made me very sad."

McFarlin said the panel members will talk about pieces that impressed them and share their various perspectives on the issue of illiteracy.

Although each piece is unique, they are all visual interpretations of "Illiteracy — The Price," by Edward Gottschall, former editor of "Upper & Lower Case," a magazine published by ITC.

"Edward wrote it specifically for use in the competition because we needed something on the subject that was unbiased and general enough to be used by student artists from all countries," said Sharon Fuller, an ITC spokesperson.

"The contest opens up an opportunity for students' work to be seen worldwide," Fuller said.

Senate Republicans reflect on election

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — State senators, who watched the Democratic takeover of the House and the election of Democrat Joan Finney as governor, are wondering what the changes mean for their sometimes stodgy chamber.

The Republicans, still smarting from Tuesday's election, still control the Senate, but GOP lawmakers are now in a more uncomfortable position. Gov. Mike Hayden was defeated in his re-election bid, and the Democrats gained eight seats, placing them in control of the lower chamber for the first time since 1976.

The Senate has 22 Republicans and 18 Democrats. They come up for re-election in two years.

Senate Minority Leader Mike Johnston, D-Parsons, said he expects GOP senators to be more partisan and contentious when the Legislature convenes in January.

"I think it's a proper role," he said Monday. "It's going to be a bumpy road."

Sen. Gus Bogina, R-Shawnee and chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is adamant about the problems he thinks the Senate's GOP leadership will have with the Democratic control of the House.

"We're going to have conflicts all over the place," he said.

House Democratic Leader Marvin Barkis of Louisburg is likely to become the new House speaker. Republicans have accused him of being a free-spending liberal, and his expected rise to power makes Bogina nervous.

"Barkis in my opinion is an ultra-liberal, an ultra-ultra-liberal," Bogina said.

Senate Majority Leader Fred Kerr, R-Pratt, said a lot of what happens in the Senate will hinge on how the House operates.

"It puts us in quite a different situation," Kerr said. "It's going to take a while to analyze our role."

Kerr said Finney can expect the Republican-dominated Senate to seriously consider her proposals, such as one to eliminate or partially repeal exemptions to the

■ See SENATE, Page 8

FLOUR SALES

SPONSORED BY

KSU GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB

Flour Sales Every Wednesday

Noon until 4 p.m.

SHELLENBERGER HALL 220 KSU

Joyce's Hair Tamers

WARM & GENTLE PERM....$43

regular $48

QUANTUM PERM.....$35

regular $38

BIO-LAGE.....$40

regular $50

MEN'S PERMS.....$30

All perms include cut & style

Haircuts

Gals $12 Guys $8.50 Kids $6.50

All cuts include shampoo & style

2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Call: 539-TAME

JUNGLE TALK

A new look for evening? Consider a clip-on ponytail or other options in hair add-ons.

Red's the favorite color for nail polish—but have you tried the new metallics paired with color?

Our expert manicurists know how to make your hands look terrific.

MAKE HOLIDAY TRAVEL PLANS EARLY

KANSAS CITY INTERNATIONAL

AIRPORT SHUTTLE SERVICE

FOR RESERVATIONS CALL:

Manhattan 537-2086

or others: 1-800-826-8294

Junction City/Fort Riley 238-6161

SIX SCHEDULED ROUND TRIPS DAILY

RUN		ARRIVAL
	University	KCI
AM	101 4:30 a.m.	6:20 a.m.
	102 5:45 a.m.	8:00 a.m.
PM	103 7:30 a.m.	9:45 a.m.
	104 10:15 a.m.	12:30 p.m.
	105 12:50 p.m.	3:00 p.m.
	106 2:45 p.m.	5:00 p.m.
	107 5:15 p.m.	8:30 p.m.
DEPART		KCI	Man. Home
AM	201 7:30 a.m.	9:30 a.m.
	202 9:15 a.m.	11:15 a.m.
PM	203 11:15 a.m.	1:15 p.m.
	204 2:30 p.m.	4:30 p.m.
	205 5:00 p.m.	7:00 p.m.
	206 8:30 p.m.	10:30 p.m.
	207 11:00 p.m.	1:00 a.m.

	One Way	Round Trip
ADULTS	$28.00	$48.00
SENIORS & MILITARY	24.00	44.00
KSU STUDENT	24.00	44.00
YOUTH	12.00	22.00
CHILDREN 2-12*	12.00	22.00
INFANTS 2 YRS*	FREE	FREE

Need money for college?

ASK ABOUT STUDENT LOANS

CITIZENS BANK & TRUST CO.

Sixth & Humboldt

Manhattan, KS 66502

Lender Code

*804581

EMPIRE BANK

Originator

Member FDIC

REMINDER

Student Season Ticket Holders

1. Redeem 3 Voided Tickets
2. Show Proof of Fee Card

AND

You will receive

1. $5 rebate

OR

2. A ticket to one of the vacation games

Redeem Nov. 12-20

Tickets Available:

532-6920

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

Ingenious plan behind reorganization

Call me cynical, but I'm suspicious. Very suspicious. Like everyone else, I got caught up in all the hype at the time, but now I'm doubtful. Would anyone really be as stupid as the administration appeared to be two weeks ago?

After all, President Jon Wefald may not be your personal favorite, but he is the man behind the hiring of a K-State football coach who could actually create a winning team. He's the voice behind the scenes calling for the Margin of Excellence. He's also the man who got so angry when we lost our increased enrollment funding last year that he wrote a letter to all the alumni who had anything to do with it and told them that they could, essentially, send their kids somewhere else because we just didn't have room. Of course, that's just a rumor, but one with a very good source.

So does this really sound like someone who would let some reorganization board come in and cut two whole colleges out of the University that he's been trying to make so strong? I think not. Here's my reconstruction of what really happened.

Scene: President Wefald's office, Monday, 22 October. Wefald is sitting at his desk.

Coffman is sitting facing him.

Wefald: (sounding a lot like Dr. McCoy) Jim, we've got to do something! The University is losing power fast. We're in debt to the tune of $3 million, and we've been ordered to make massive cuts in the budget. Cuts that big will leave us wounded and bleeding at the mercy of the Board of Regents and their evil cohorts, the KU Klingsons.

Coffman: I know, Bones (I don't know why he calls him Bones. He just does.) I've got a plan, a plan that will leave them reeling in the dust of their silly budget cuts. A plan that will have alumni reaching for their checkbooks at warp speed.

Wefald: Great! What is it? We'll implement it immediately.

Coffman: We'll make some cuts so ridiculous that the entire University will rise up in protest! Instead of making little cuts everywhere that might pass without comment, we'll make huge ones that no one could possibly miss, in top departments with lots of people.

Wefald: Couldn't we just tell everybody what's going on and ask them to help us protest, or find ways to help?

Coffman: Nope. We've gotta make them

Karin Dell'Antonia

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

mad. Really mad. They can't know they're being manipulated. If we don't look like we mean it, it'll never fly.

Wefald: I see what you mean. We've got to get past student and alumni apathy and hit them where it hurts. We'll need to do something that's feasible, but just barely. Something they'll buy, but so drastic that it shouldn't happen. It will have to be a program so strong that even people who aren't majoring in it will support it. I've got it! Architecture! We'll tell them they'll have to go to school somewhere else.

Coffman: No, they'll never buy that. Tell them we're moving them into the, uh, art department. No, the College of Engineering.

Wefald: Cool. We'll do it. Let me just check that out on my trusty Zenith computer.

(tap tap tap) It isn't enough.

Coffman: What?

Wefald: Not enough. We need to cut more money.

Coffman: Yeah, OK. We ought to get more people, too. We need to cut a bigger college. One that would really react and believe we might cut its programs completely. One with people who get fired up easily.

Wefald: We are not cutting the football team.

Coffman: No, no, that's not what I meant. It has to be a college, one that thinks we don't appreciate it enough anyway.

Wefald: Human ecology! They're relatively new, anyway. We could tell them we're cutting them on the basis of seniority. Now a quick note to the Reorganization Board:

Dear Reorganization Board, OK, you can make some cuts. Only please, please, don't do anything to the Colleges of Architecture or Human Ecology. We're so very fond of them, and they are worth $3 million exactly. Please don't, say, cut them or anything. Love, Jon and Jim.

Dear Jon and Jim, Cut the Colleges of Architecture and Human Ecology. Love, the Reorganization Board.

Friday, 26 October. Wefald is on the phone to Coffman.

Wefald: Jim, I've got it! I've leaked it to the Manhattan Mercury so the Collegian will be sure to pick it up by Monday. The timing is better than we ever could have dreamed. Not only is it the week before elections, it's also Homecoming. Alumni galore and all, hopefully, very irritated. Irritated enough to call their legislators. Mad enough to write their newspapers. Desperate enough to give us money. What with the election and all, maybe Topeka will even listen. Or better yet, maybe they'll all get voted right out of office. I love this. But no one can know we're behind it all. We won't talk again until we see what happens.

Well, that's my theory. Judging from the president's face on Wednesday during the demonstrations, he didn't realize the size of the lightning flash he had by the tail. I think it was all a well planned plot. I think they got exactly what they wanted. We made ourselves heard for once.

But maybe I'm giving them too much credit. After all, they didn't have Mr. Spock.

EDITORIALS

Costly war on drugs still not beneficial

As one war appears to be beginning, another one is nearing victory.

At least that is what George Bush wants us to think about the nation's drug war.

On Thursday, Bush claimed that the nation "is on the road to victory in the war on drugs," as he praised the efforts of out-going "drug czar" William Bennett.

Bennett, claiming he accomplished his goals, became the second Cabinet-level official to step down in less than one month, the other being Elizabeth Dole, former Secretary of Labor.

How can our president claim victory on a drug war when it has only just begun?

One year ago, Bush appointed Bennett as the nation's first "drug czar." Both men knew that a long and tough battle was staring at them, but they agreed to stare it down and vowed to stop drug abuse in America.

One year later, the drug problem is omnipresent.

The former mayor of the District of Columbia, Marion Barry, was found guilty of drug possession, and more children and young adults are addicted to drugs than ever before.

It appears that the boys leading the charge on drug control have had a change of direction.

Hey, sounds like we've got trouble right here in River City, better quit and claim victory before we fall flat on our faces.

The Bush administration needs to look at the facts straight and see that casual drug use has been declining for several years, but the flow of drugs into the country has not been stopped and drug abuse is still growing in metropolitan cities.

The drug busts that are titled "small victories" are not victories at all.

A large drug bust typically doesn't even result in the apprehension of anyone. It merely results in the apprehension of some huge amount of drugs, which drives up the street price, that in turn causes more crime because the addicts can't afford their habit.

Even more disheartening is the cost of the drug war. According to a recent article in The Atlantic, "The drug war will cost government at all levels $30 billion a year." Billions of dollars are needed to increase law enforcement and surveillance to halt the influx of drugs into the country and to uphold the drug laws already in place.

Once this new army of drug enforcers starts capturing drug bandits, where will we put them?

Billions more dollars will be needed to build prisons to hold captive these prisoners of war.

Finding a replacement for Bennett will be a difficult task, especially if the administration is not honest about the situation and the cost of fighting such a difficult enemy. The praise and cries of victory need to cease and a new "drug czar" needs to be crowned immediately.

Say, isn't Mike Hayden looking for a job?

Speak out against war

Picture the consequences of our impending war in the Persian Gulf: as many as 30,000 American casualties, say some in the Pentagon, whole cities destroyed, civilians slaughtered by the multitudes and chaos in our already tottering domestic economy.

For what purpose? Let's not linger on presidential declarations about resisting aggression and preserving the sanctity of international law. These cannot be the goals of the same nation that invaded Grenada in 1983, which defied a 1986 World Court order to stop its proxy war against Nicaragua, which invaded Panama in 1989, and which for several decades has financed Israel's occupation of the West Bank and its invasion of southern Lebanon in 1982.

It makes hardly more sense to suppose that we are seeking to guarantee a reliable supply of inexpensive oil for the national economy. Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait intending to raise the price of oil to a rather modest $25 per barrel, a rate western nations can easily afford. The threat of a U.S.-initiated war is lifting oil prices far higher than Hussein could have engineered on his own, had he wanted to.

President Bush's real objective is to maintain the United States' imperial grip over the gulf oil fields. This has been the overriding purpose of U.S. policy in the Middle East since World War II. It is why we overthrew a constitutional government in Iran in 1954 and installed the brutal dictatorship of the Shah. It is why we have so steadfastly supported the state of Israel, whose function it is to project U.S. military power in the region. It is why Jimmy Carter pledged to defend the various gulf royalty against uprisings from their own populations, should the people they rule seek to rid themselves of feudalism and take control of their resources for their own benefit. President Bush wants the enormous profits from gulf oil to continue flowing serenely into western banks, as they have for the last forty years. To guarantee this result, we have to stand by our friendly monarchs in the face of instability.

John Exdell

GUEST COLUMNIST

Whether intended or not, U.S. military intervention in the Persian Gulf serves to maintain those structures that keep the world permanently divided between the rich and the needy, both at home and abroad. In the United States, it has stifled growing popular demands for a peace dividend devoted to domestic needs. For the president's most important constituency — the truly rich — nothing could be worse than using the vast resources of the federal government for additional child care, health care, education, housing and the environmental protection. They need not worry now. As one member of the House Armed Services committee cheerily put it, although the cold war is over, military spending will have to remain at roughly current levels in order to protect the nation against "Saddam Hussein-type threats around the world."

The costs to working and middle-class

Americans will be painfully steep. For years to come we will be taxed nearly $300 billion a year to maintain military forces whose primary mission is not national defense, but control over resources and populations in other countries. We will risk the lives of young people so that profits gained from oil, extravagant weapons, and cheap Third World labor keep flowing into the accounts of the wealthiest ranks of our society. We will see growing inequality between rich and poor in America, the human potential of our society wasted, and our economy steadily overtaken by European and Japanese competition.

None of this is inevitable. There are reasons why the president may yet draw back from the precipice — among them, let us hope, growing citizen opposition. But time is short. The American people need to speak out now against the bloodbath Bush is planning in the gulf, and the general direction in which this war will push U.S. society.

This Wednesday noon, in front of the K-State Union, several campus and community organizations have organized a rally to protest the rush to war. Organizers of the demonstration believe that war is not an acceptable means of getting Iraq out of Kuwait, and that the administration must seek a negotiated settlement of the gulf crisis, backed by the force of the successful international embargo.

Please join in — if you can't carry a sign, then listen to the speakers. Your presence there will help communicate this urgent message to the media, the campus, and the Manhattan public.

John Exdell is an associate professor in the Department of Philosophy.

LETTERS

Merger unfair

Editor,

Many students and faculty were happy to hear the recent reorganization proposal had been dropped. As students in the engineering technology department, we feel this statement should be rephrased to "partially dropped." The merger of the Department of Engineering Technology with the Kansas College of Technology in Salina was discussed long before the recent proposal that excited everyone. This merger, however, was included in this proposal. Will this merger still take place even though the proposal has been "dropped?" At the rally on Nov. 1, Provost James Coffman made reference to how space occupied by the engineering technology department will be used by the College of Architecture and Design after the move to Salina is made.

If cutting costs is the concern of President Jon Wefald, is it justifiable for the University to own a Cessna 421? Maybe the costs of this airplane, maintenance and a pilot should be brought up for review.

We would like to close this letter with two final points and a request. To the students and faculty:

■ Of course our merger with the Kansas College of Technology was met with opposition in our department, but one department is not enough to stop the price-chopping axe of our incompetent president. When the proposal included cutting entire colleges, the opposition was too great to ignore. In the future, any plans to merge or eliminate even one department should be discouraged by the whole University, or the administration may demolish a college one department at a time.

To President Wefald:

■ If you are still looking to "trim some fat" in the years ahead, you can start by saving the cost of postage and handling on any requests for alumni donations addressed to us.

Finally, Dean Rathbone is speaking on the move to Salina at a Kansas State Engineering Technologists meeting at 6 p.m. on Nov. 15 in Seaton 161. We would encourage anyone who is concerned about the University's reorganization to attend.

Keith Droge
senior in electronic engineering technology
Craig Jones
senior in electronic engineering technology

Join war protest

Editor,

The secret is out. People can speak out at K-State. Within the past two weeks, voices have been heard on this campus. Voices of students and faculty have been raised in anger, frustration, and determination — and they have been heard. I attended the two large rallies of two weeks ago and was very moved by the energy that was created when people were willing to express themselves about something important to them. I was very excited to see such unity, many of us standing in solidarity with the directly affected students and faculty. We stood in sympathy because we felt that the proposals were just not right.

Now that I know there are people with voices on this campus, I am asking all of you to raise them again. It is imperative that we communicate to the government in Washington that there are people in Kansas who do not support U.S. military intervention in the Persian Gulf. We are planning a demonstration on Wednesday on the island between the K-State Union and Seaton Hall. With the announcement last Thursday of the deployment of Fort Riley personnel to the Middle East, it is especially critical now that we speak out. We cannot sit back silently while the U.S. government involves us in a war so that we can maintain control of energy resources that are not even ours in the first place.

I realize that the events around the reorganization proposal were, and still are, very important to many of us. When compared to the prospect of war, however, the problems at K-State pale in their urgency. The Bush administration seems determined to have a war, as if that is the only possible solution to the current situation. U.S. military forces have no business intervening in the Persian Gulf, except as part of an international peacekeeping force. It is not our land. It is not our oil. It is not our right to threaten death and destruction to protect our ethnocentric claims to resources.

Please join us with your voices and your presence on Wednesday. Come anytime you can that day. There will be speakers from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Come and stand with us against U.S. military intervention in the Persian Gulf. Come and stand with us against even one death in a war for oil. I know there are voices to be heard. We need them now, to tell Washington that human life is too high a price for cheap oil. We cannot be heard unless we speak.

Cia Verschelden
assistant professor of sociology, anthropology, and social work

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Vener
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Rod Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Prese, Amy Hadlock, Kimis Hatjimotoheadia, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

CLASSIFIED RATES
One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates
 One day: $5.20 per inch; Three consecutive days: $5.00 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.80 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.60 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)
 Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex or ancestry.

We Take Tips!
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
 532-6556

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs—skincare—glamor—nails—gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

BEST FUNDRAISER on campus! Looking for a fraternity, sorority or student organization that would like to earn $500 to $1,000 dollars for a one week on-campus marketing project. Must be organized and hard working. Call Jeanie or Ashley, 1-800-592-2121.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locators, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

Hardee's DELIVERS
 537-2526

UNIVERSITY PHOTOGRAPHY
 "The Party Pic Place"

REORDER WEEK

You can order any party pic from any party from the past 2 semesters; Monday, November 12 through Thursday, November 15.

1212 Moro
 ACROSS FROM LAST CHANCE!
 HOURS: 10-12/2-5

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

2 Apartments—Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

SUNNY, SPACIOUS one-bedroom. Recently carpeted. Close to campus and downtown. Available Jan. 1, 1991. Non-smoker. No pets. $275 per month plus utilities. Please have references available. Call Gloria, 539-4915, after 5:30p.m.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM IN Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid. $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus. water and trash paid. $260. 776-7320.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE available mid-November. One and one-half baths. Eighth and Bluemont. No pets. $400. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5882 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1985 CALAIS: Gunsmoke gray, $320. 539-9173.

1984 VW Rabbit convertible. Very good condition, low mileage, asking $6,500. Call 776-5668 after 6p.m.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies, Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac IIxi, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below bookstore. Call 539-0801 or come by 1115 Westloop.

IBM COMPATIBLE XT dual floppy, monochrome monitor, printer. Software and manuals, $800. Call 537-8664.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such 'employment opportunity' with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ATTENTION: ACCOUNTANT: We have an immediate opening for an individual with a bachelor's or master's degree in business, accounting or finance. Experience in hospital reimbursement, audits, cost accounting, development of department and hospital-wide budgeting, cash flow, investments and integrated computer systems is required. Competitive salary and benefits. Please send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: PHYSICIAN and Allied Recruiters: We have an immediate opening for a mature, self-motivated individual who presents a positive image. Must have a bachelor's or master's degree and experience in position relations. Sales and marketing experience is preferred. Will develop and track computer driven physician and allied health care professional database. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: LABORATORY Personnel. Immediate openings for a MT(ASCP) or equivalent and Medical Laboratory Technologist MLT(ASCP) or equivalent. Full-time and part-time openings. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

CHILDCARE PROVIDER: Experienced, reliable individual with familiarity of life saving techniques Friday, Nov. 16th, 9a-5p—11:45a.m. $4.75 hourly. Contact 1-485-2729 or 539-3197.

GENERAL SUPPLIES MANAGER, Varney's Book Store, Manhattan, Kansas.

We are seeking an energetic, knowledgeable individual committed to giving excellent customer service.

Responsibilities include purchase, merchandising and sale of general school supplies, office supplies and soft goods. Experience with purchasing and inventory control systems and demonstrated supervisory experience preferred. Prefer individual with knowledge of products in area of responsibility. Prefer bachelor degree. Competitive salary, bonus and fringe benefits are offered. Deadline to apply: November 30, 1990. Submit letter of application, resume and references to: Jon Levin, Varney's Book Store, 623 N. Manhattan Ave., Manhattan, Kansas 66502.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS. CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS—All branches. U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits.

15-80K+.

Free Information

Call

Corporate Careers
 (913) 539-1144

(Continued on page 7)

BUSHWACKER'S
 • THE FUNDRINKERY •
Comedy Invasion
 Mon., Tues. & Wednesday
 9 p.m.
Ross Bennett
 18 to enter, 21 to drink
 Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
 539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577
PIZZA SHUTTLE
 "NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
 3 - 10 in. Pizzas
 1 - Topping
 4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers
 2 - 10 in. Pizzas
 2 - Toppings
 2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Show your support!
Join KSU Friends of the Libraries
 Membership week November 12-16

Memberships begin at $5 students, $25 others
 More information at Farrell Library Lobby
 or David Margolies, 532-6154

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
 Thanksgiving break display advertising deadlines.

Publication date:	Deadline:
Monday, November 19	Thursday, November 15
Monday, November 26	Friday, November 16
Tuesday, November 27	Monday, November 19

There will be no Collegian on Tuesday, November 20.
 Questions? Call your advertising representative at 532-6560.

Save UP TO $100

There's nothing like Legend and Lady Legend! The most unique college rings ever designed—only available from ArtCarved. This popular professional look offers more ways to personalize your college ring. Don't delay—visit your ArtCarved representative during this special sales event to see Legend and the many other styles available.

ARTCARVED
 COLLEGE JEWELRY

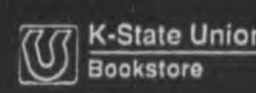

Wednesday, November 14 thru Friday, November 16 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.
 Lower Level of the K-State Union Bookstore

K-State Union Bookstore Special Payment Plans Available

National Children's Book Week

25% Off
 All Children's & Juvenile Books
 Nov. 12 thru Nov. 18
 at the K-State Union Bookstore

A reading from children's books will be held on the lower level of the Bookstore each weekday of Children's Book Week at 10 a.m.

Support the K-State Union. Your dollars help the Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

(Continued from page 6)

MANHATTAN COUNTRY Club is now accepting applications for waiters/waitresses. Applicants must be at least 20 years of age, have two years experience and be available every evening. Apply in person, 1531 N. 10th, ask for Dan.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST needed to fill full-time position in progressive clinical reference laboratory. Excellent benefits, competitive salary and no call. Call Carol at 539-5363. EOE.

NANNIES LIVE-IN positions—East Coast. Airfare, great salaries. Fun social activities. Carefully screened families. Individualized attention. Princeton Nanny, 301 N. Harrison, Princeton, N.J. 08540. (609)497-1195.

PART-TIME CASHIER/Hostess wanted 10a.m.—2p.m., Monday—Friday and all day Saturday. Apply in person at the Personnel Department, Kansas Lumber Homestore, 111 South Seth Childs Road. EOE.

STUDENT WITH work-study available to work 15-25 hours per week in the Enrollment Center. Computer experience required. Apply in Willard Hall, Room 210.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

WE HAVE the ideal college job for fraternity/sorority members. Set own hours with extremely high monetary return. Job includes marketing imprinted sportswear and party favors within Greek community. Call Prairie Graphics (Lawrence, KS) at (913)841-1166 ask for Jon.

9 Food Specials

Tuesdays:
TACO NACHO NIGHT
39¢ Tacos
with drink
Homemade flour
chicken or beef tacos
$1.25 margaritas
539-1571

K-STATE UNION
HOLIDAY BUFFET
SUNDAY
DECEMBER 9, 1990
TICKETS ON SALE
NOW!
K-STATE UNION
DIRECTOR'S OFFICE
$10 PER PERSON
K-State Union
Host to the Campus

Tuesday Special
RIB-IT NIGHT
All the BBQ
Ribs,
Fries and Salad Bar
you can eat!
$4.95
Every Tuesday 5-8 p.m.
The CHEF Cafe
111 S. 4th
Downtown

14 Lost and Found
FOUND: COMPUTER diskette, 3.5 inch found Nov. 6 at Dickens Hall. 539-4062.

FOUND: PORTFOLIO in east stadium near room 109. Pick up in room 109 between 8a.m. and 5p.m.
FOUND: TEN-SPEED bicycle. To claim, call 532-6448 and identify.
FOUND: WHITE short-hair cat about 6 months old, blue eyes. Found around Marlett Hall. Call Brian 532-3925.
LOST: CHALLIS print scarf somewhere in or between Ackert and Willard, Monday 11/5. Call 532-6092.
LOST: CLASS ring on hill at KU/K-State game. If found call 539-6932.
LOST: SHARP calculator Tuesday 11/6/90 in CW. Call 537-7809 after 5p.m.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

12x65 MOBILE Home, two-bedroom, shower, new carpet, wallpaper and linoleum, washer, dryer, big yard, excellent condition. Take possession over Christmas. $7,500. 539-8894.
1971 12x50 Mobile Home. Extra clean, low lot rent, $5,200. Call Allen 537-3909, leave message.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

1986 SUZUKI Intruder. Excellent condition. Call Sean or leave message at 539-7960. $1,800 or best offer.
1989 CR125—Better than new, modified, must see. 539-6363. Joel.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.
BOB, HERE'S to popcorn, hangers, styrofoam and bridges. You're going to make it, bud. Have a good one. T.
CYNDI—NO, as a matter of fact, that wasn't me who followed you last Tuesday. The guy you talked to on the phone failed to tell me that I was to meet you. My sincere apologies, Haymaker Escort.
HAYMAKER ESCORT—Was that you or some other perv that followed me across campus late last Tuesday night? If I bothered to arrange and wait for an escort, you could have bothered to, at least, show up. Thanks for nothing—Cyndi.
PIKE PLEDGES (aka Delts): OU was fun, but when the night was done, we'd have to admit Shooters was #1. Love, Staci, Beth, Kim, Amy, Jennifer.
SUNSHINE: HAPPY 22nd, dear. Hope this brightens your B-day like a long distance phone call. Have a great time at your party, but don't wander too far. Just Me.

23 Resume/Typing Service

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Claire.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

TYPING USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Call Judy at 539-7100.

RESUMES
Writing a resume may be easy, but writing the best possible resume is not easy. CDS knows how to develop resumes for different employment settings. Kathleen Lowman has worked directly with employers for nine years and also has conducted employer surveys on resume writing.
We offer professional advising on the content of your resume, as well as computer type-setting and laser printing.
CAREER DEVELOPMENT SERVICES
776-1229

WORDPROCESSING/ TYPING—Data sheets, reports, theses, dissertations, letters, resumes, applications, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204.

24 Roommate Wanted

BE MY roommate: Clean, modern apartment. Female, Christian, non-smoker. $175, 539-3459. Available now.

CHRISTIAN FEMALE at KSU is looking for female to share apartment spring semester. One and one-half blocks from campus. Rent $155 plus one-half utilities. Call Carina (913)537-0772.

FEMALE, MUST love pets. $122.50 a month plus utilities. Shuttle service. Call Karen, 776-1286.

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share new tri-level furnished apartment. Spring semester. $157.50 plus one-fourth utilities. 1825 College Heights, 776-7297.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share spacious three-bedroom apartment for spring semester. Non-smoker. Call 776-3234 after 3p.m.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, spring semester, own room, washer and dryer, $175/ month. 537-8473.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, one and one-half block from campus, Aggieville, $200, water, trash paid. One-third other utilities. Jan. 1, Lauri 776-5492, leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed, $135 a month plus utilities. Own room. Call 539-4611.

FEMALE WANTED to share very nice two-bedroom, across from campus. Available immediately, sublease. 539-7494.

MALE NON-SMOKER to share three-bedroom. $120 plus utilities. 539-3690.

NON-SMOKER FEMALE, neat and clean. Own bedroom. Woodway Apartments. $175 monthly plus one-third utilities. Call 537-3233.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate. $150 plus one-half utilities. Own room. 776-4937.

ONE, NON-SMOKING female for January. $147.50 month plus one-fourth utilities. One-half block from Ahearn. Nice. No deposit. 776-9026.

ONE OR TWO female roommates to share nice two-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from campus. Spring semester. 776-7482 after 5p.m.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted: four-bedroom house, own room, two blocks from campus. $135/ month. 776-1252.

25 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

26 Stereo Equipment

SONY CDX-7580 car stereo CD player pulout, Sony XE-8 equalizer. Both like new for $550 or best offer. 537-3229.

28 Sublease

NICE THREE-BEDROOM apartment for sublease! One block from campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. 539-7228.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM furnished apartment. Very close to campus. One and one-half baths. Dishwasher. $380/ month. January—May. 539-5861.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Efficient, water and heat paid, appliances. Deck and near Aggieville. 537-2424.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for sublease second semester, unfurnished, brand new. Call 776-6191.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed to fill four-bedroom house in spring semester. Own bedrooms. One block from campus. Washer/dryer. $125 per month plus one-fourth utilities. 537-9094.

31 Tutor

TUTORING in Modern and Classic Greek, emphasizes the more formal language (Katharevousa) used in official documents and in the conservative press. Open to anyone, call Aki Barmashli, phone 776-6128.

33 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY— Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,800/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies between 8a.m.—5p.m. 776-1223, after 5p.m. 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS— Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhart Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

TYPEWRITER— BROTHER AX is $90, as new. 776-7885 leave message.

New Sunbed
Tanning 10 for $15
HARDBOOIES GYM
Laramie Plaza Basement 539-7095

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels, $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m. If no answer, leave message.

34 Photo Equipment

SPOTMETERS— AS new: Pentax V $125; Gossen Ultra Spot F $350; Also Nikkor lenses: 50 1.4 $185; 85 1.2 $225; 300 1.4 $1,450. 776-7885 weekdays. Leave message.

Entertainment

TONIGHT
25¢
DRAWS
ONLY AT
BAYSTREET

SPORTS • SPORTS
99¢ Margaritas
50¢ Tacos
BoWinkle's
A Sports Bar
776-1022
3043 Anderson
• SPORTS • SPORTS •

KITE'S BAR AND GRILLE
TUESDAY
COUNTRY
MUSIC NIGHT
$1.99
Mason Jars
(keep the jar)
99¢ Refills
Free music on our
CD jukebox.
Dance music
in the back.
Starts at 9 p.m.
619 N. 12th • Aggieville

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Dance's partner
5 — Walks in Beauty
8 Celt of Scotland
12 Arab prince
13 Corrode
14 Italian wine center
15 Zola novel
16 Kind of table
18 Non-graduate?
20 Gladden
21 Shade tree
22 GI's address
23 Run after
26 Decrease in sales
30 Dutch uncle
31 Sailor's grog
32 Like or lock lead-in 33 Visits casually
36 Nursery boss
38 Joplin creation
39 He lost to DDE

DOWN
40 Accepted phrase
43 Small quantity of liquid
47 Glass medicine dispensers
49 Jot
50 Rural path
51 Classic car
52 Decays
53 Catchall phrase
54 Beard on barley
55 Supplements
1 — for (summon)
2 Gen. Bradley
3 Spanish
Solution time: 24 mins.

boy
4 They might be sour
5 Flowering ground cover
6 Male red deer
7 DDE's command
8 Horse's gait
9 Confused state
10 French state
11 Like or line lead-in 17 Gourd fruit
19 Matador's cheer
22 The law's is long
23 New

England
24 Biblical mountain
25 Word in Latin I
26 Press for payment
27 "A Room of One's —"
28 Zealous follower
29 Young fish
31 Equip
34 Drive forward
35 Coarse hominy
36 Classic starter
37 Be
39 Firebug's crime
40 Vain
41 Minced oath
42 Argyle island
43 Sketched
44 Appearance
45 Kitchen follower
46 Soviet news agency
48 Mound stat.

CRYPTOQUIP
11-13
"FLUQ ZVOK LO WVVC
WPCO?" UKCOZ ORO. "P'E
UBMUPZ P ZVS'Q CSVF
LPE BMVE UZUE."
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: CHEF CONFESSED, "ABOUT COOKING GENUINE CHILI, I DON'T KNOW BEANS."
Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals M

Senate

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
state sales tax to raise money for property tax relief.

"The new administration deserves to be heard," he said. "That doesn't mean we're going to rubber-stamp her proposals."

Kerr said Republicans should not expect GOP senators to block every bill that is supported by the new Democratic governor.

"We as Republican senators need to accurately find out the message voters sent us in 1990," Kerr said.

"I don't think I'll be at the parapet any more than in the past," said Senate President Bud Burke of Leawood, who will be the Legislature's most powerful Republican.

"I really don't see that the process is going to be much different," he said. "I haven't heard from any Republican senators who have said we ought to come up there and change the way we do business."

Arab

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
minent. They will withdraw when they realize there is a sword of Damocles at their necks. If they don't comply, this sword is going to hit," Bishara said.

The council groups Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Bahrain, the United Arab Emirates and Oman.

The United Nations imposed trade sanctions on Iraq to force its withdrawal from Kuwait.

The United States has deployed 230,000 troops in Saudi Arabia as part of a more than 300,000-strong multinational force arrayed against Iraq, and Bush last week announced plans to send 200,000 more soldiers.

When Secretary of State James A. Baker III visited Cairo last week, a senior U.S. official said the United States was confident Egypt would fight alongside U.S. forces if war broke out.

Drop-out

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
"It's a quick, easy way for school districts to assess the needs of their students," Hamby said.

Some of the factors Hamby cited that correlate well with dropping out of school include low socioeconomic level, minority status, parents or siblings who dropped out, unstable home environment, low I.Q., physical and emotional problems and limited English proficiency.

"Kids cannot control any of these things," Hamby said. "These are conditions that are put upon the kids and place them at risk. It's important for educators to know what conditions students are under so they can be understanding and supportive."

Other factors include low self-esteem, few extracurricular activities, severe reading problems, low achievement scores, low grades and being retained in a grade one year or more.

"If there's one predictor that will predict a kid will drop out, I'd place my money on retaining a student in a grade," Hamby said. "It's not that we need more remediation. We need better mediation in the first place."

This better mediation needs to begin at the elementary level, Hamby said.

"Kids don't drop out of school at the elementary level, so some argue we don't need to do anything at that level, but that's precisely where we need to begin preventing the problem," Hamby said. "We need long-term programs."

Wendy Dover, learning disability teacher at Manhattan High School, arranged for Hamby to speak at K-State because many people had been asking her about at-risk students.

"There's a curiosity in Kansas," Dover said. "We have such a high graduating rate in Kansas that there's not the urgency you see in some places, but there's lots of concern. Teachers are asking what they can do to help all students graduate."

Gulf

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
Cheney and Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Colin Powell, are to brief lawmakers on Tuesday for the first time since Congress adjourned Oct. 28. And members of the bipartisan leadership were scheduled to meet with Bush at the White House on Wednesday.

Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said he was not consulted about the latest troop buildup and received a call only Friday, the day after Bush announced it publicly.

"I haven't been told reasons why we have to rush this thing," Nunn said in a weekend television interview. "Why not let the embargo work? ... War should be the last option."

Nunn said Bush has failed to explain, either to Congress or the American people, why the liberation of Kuwait is "an interest so important we're willing to spend thousands of American lives, if necessary."

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said he believed Bush's actions are less ominous, that the White House is simply seeking to use a heightened threat of war to force Iraq to capitulate without shots being fired.

But he also cautioned that the Constitution gives Congress alone the power to commit U.S. troops to war. He noted that Congress could be called back into session to debate that question if an act of war occurs or if the president decides war is necessary.

Concert

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
developed before the latest events in the Middle East.

The joint-concert effort began in 1980 by then-band director Alfred Cochran, assistant professor of music. By adding the local military base's band, Cochran had hoped to make the Veterans' Day concert more meaningful, Finck said.

"Since the concert falls in the vicinity of Veterans' Day, it was obvious to add the local military facility to the concert," he said. "I think it's a good tradition, so I've just continued it."

Finck said a K-State fall concert had been performed long before the band joined efforts with the Fort Riley band.

"I would guess there has been one as long as there has been a music department at K-State," he said.

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Outdoor education

Sarah Merrill, professor of philosophy, conducts her Introduction to Ethics class on the lawn in front of Anderson Hall Monday afternoon. Professor Merrill's class was enjoying the November weather while discussing ethical issues and dilemmas in small groups.

Announcements-Apartments-Automobiles-Child Care
Computers-Electronics-Real Estate-Resumes-Student Jobs-Travel-Volunteers-Needed-Wanted to Buy or Sell

COLLEGIAN
ClassADS
Let them work for you.

ENGINEERING &
COMPUTER SCIENCE MAJORS
AT&T BELL LABORATORIES

SYSTEMS ENGINEERING
PRESENTATION

Tuesday, November 13, 1990
7:00 p.m.- Durland 152

UNITED ARTISTS
Theatres

*3.50 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6:00 P.M.

SETH CHILDS 6 776-9886
Seth Childs at Farm Bureau Rd.

Tuesday Bargain Day
All Seats All Day
All Movies $3.00
Admission

Quigley Down Under (PG-13)
Daily 7 & 9:30

Marked For Death (R)
Sat. & Sun. 2:15, 4:25

Home Alone (PG)
Sneak Preview: 6:30 & 8:30

Ghost (PG-13)
Daily 6:50 & 9:25

Jacob's Ladder (R)
Daily 7:05 & 9:30

Memphis Belle (PG-13)
Daily 7:10 & 9:20

Sibling Rivalry (PG-13)
Daily 7:15 & 9:20

Mars
TUESDAY
7:00-9:00 PM.
Approach
KSU's "90"
ASTRONOMY
CLUB
'STAR PARTY'
COME SEE MARS
ON ITS 1990 CLOSE
APPROACH TO EARTH
INSIDE OUTSIDE CALDWELL
TELESCOPES 407

Holiday Formal?
Come browse among the finest in "Deja
New" fashions. Enjoy stunning styles at spectacular prices.
Exactly Right!
A CONSIGNMENT SHOP
M-F 10-6 • Th 10-8 • Sat 9-5 • Sun 11-5
(913) 537-6009 • 1122 Laramie • Manhattan

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Let's Share

During November and December 1990, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a COLLEGIAN Classified Ad. (Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

1 can	50 cents
2 cans	$1.00
3 cans	$1.50
4 cans	$2.00
5 cans	$2.50
6 cans	$3.00

Student Publications Inc. will donate all items to the Flint
Hills Breadbasket.

Offer expires 12/13/90

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??
I Can't Believe It's
Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

K-State
Anderson Avenue
Solve and Sach
Stats
Yr Duds
Dr. Wicken's
Office
Pregnancy
Testing Center
PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
539-3338
•Free Pregnancy Testing
•Totally Confidential Services
•Same Day Results
•Call For Appointment
Walk-ins Welcome
•Located across from Campus
in Anderson Village
Summer Hours
Monday-Friday
10 a.m.-3 p.m.
or by appointment

PREGNANT?
NEED HELP?
For confidential
help call
Birthright
FREE Pregnancy Tests
523 S. 17th Old Town Mall
537-9180 1-800-848-LOVE

Cheers' Near-Nu
Fashions
The near-nu store has expanded! More room, bigger selection for the career person and student.
Check it out!
Mon.-Sat.
10:30 a.m.- 6 p.m.
515 N. 3rd St.

AIM HIGH
MOVE UP WITH AIR FORCE ROTC.
Air Force ROTC
cadets can begin training toward a career that goes higher and faster.
In fact, if you'd like to begin a life in the sky, your best first step is
Air Force ROTC.
To reach higher tomorrow, reach for the phone now. Call
DEPT OF AEROSPACE STUDIES
913-532-6600
AIR FORCE
ROTC
Leadership Excellence Starts Here

FINANCE CLUB
NOVEMBER 13, 7 p.m.
Calvin 209
-Officer Elections
-Phillips Petroleum
-Rex Holsapple, Manager Foreign Exchange and Investments

KSU Faculty and Staff

are invited to attend one of two
Planned Gift/Estate Planning Seminars
2 to 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 13
and repeated at
2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 14
K-State Union Little Theater

Through the fascinating use of planned gifts, individuals are able to minimize taxes, increase their estates and, in some circumstances, actually increase their current income.

This seminar will describe the many financial instruments available for gifts to K-State such as charitable lead trusts, unitrusts, and gift annuities.

Presented by Robert Sandberg, Gift Planning Consultant and former Vice President for the University of Nebraska Foundation and Mark Moore, Vice President for Capital Campaigns/Planned Gifts at the KSU Foundation

KSU Student
Foundation
All KSU Faculty and Staff are invited to attend.
Admission is free.
Sponsored by the KSU Foundation and KSU Student Foundation

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wednesday, November 14, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 57

PRACTICE ON THE PLAINS

A 5th Battalion 1st Infantry Division soldier at Fort Riley watches his company complete their Bradley Fighting Vehicle training at the South Gunnery Complex Tuesday afternoon at Fort Riley. The troops have increased their training efforts for deployment to the Persian Gulf in December.

Big Red 1 prepares for duty in Operation Desert Shield

By Alan Wilds
Staff Reporter

FT. RILEY — 25 mm gunfire echoed from the South gunnery complex at Ft. Riley Tuesday, while the odor of fresh sand camouflage paint filled the maintenance complex. Both are symbols of an army division on the move as the Big Red One gears up for deployment to Operation Desert Shield.

Just five days after the U.S. Department of Defense's announcement of its intent to add the 1st Infantry Division to the growing number of troops in the gulf, more than 3,100 vehicles have been repainted, hundreds of families have received consultation and the 11,000 troops said to be participating in the deployment are completing final maneuvers before the journey overseas.

Fort Riley officers boast of high morale among the troops as they prepare to say goodbye to their families and friends.

Lt. Col. Sidney Baker, commander of the 5th Battalion, 16th Infantry, said it is much easier on everyone involved now that the division knows they will be moving out. "I really think after talking to the wives and families that everyone is a lot more at ease," he said. "I think morale was worse before we knew we were going. Now, we can plan. We are dealing with fact and not speculation or rumour."

Baker explained how his company, who will be in the field for the remainder of the week, and the rest of the division are preparing for a possible combat situation in the Persian Gulf.

He described the soldiers as confident, but he admitted some of that confidence is to hide anxiety and nervousness.

"They would be crazy if they were not nervous, but when a situation like this comes up, they have reassurance," Baker said. "We try to bring in high ranking officials who have served in combat as far back as World War I, and the soldiers can see their concerns are not so different from those soldiers when they were called to duty."

Mike Augustine, painter with Contract Services Inc. of Junction City, paints a camouflaged cargo carrier khaki at the DOL Maintenance Complex Tuesday preparing for Operation Desert Shield deployment.

Specialist Jeral Fritz, Company C, 5th Battalion, 16th Infantry, said he is ready for the challenge ahead.

"I'm a little tense, but I am willing to do it," he said.

Fritz, a Council Grove native, said he will always hope for a peaceful resolution, but he will be ready for combat if necessary.

"My job is to go over there and fight if I have to," he said.

Baker, who served for two one-half years in Vietnam, said there is no way to tell soldiers what war is like until they have been there, but he is confident their training and equipment will pull them through.

When asked about people's comparisons to the Vietnam War, Baker said it should have no effect on the troops' mission or ability to carry it

■ See ARMY, Page 6A

Persian Gulf crisis topic of experts' debate at Union

By Elvyn Jones
Staff Reporter

A spokesman for the Kuwaiti government-in-exile and a former K-State professor discussed possible options open to the United States to end the occupation of Kuwait, Tuesday evening.

The open forum at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday evening in K-State's Union Forum Hall was titled "Kuwait Crisis: Forgotten Viewpoints" and was sponsored by numerous student organizations including Southwind and the Kuwaiti Student Association.

Ahmad Khajah, a spokesman for Citizens for a Free Kuwait, and Sarah Shields, former visiting professor of history at K-State, addressed a forum on the gulf crisis. Khajah is a spokesman from Washington, D.C., for Citizens for a Free Kuwait, which is an organization established by the Kuwaiti government-in-exile to gain public support for the liberation of Kuwait.

Khajah said that before the invasion, Kuwait was a progressive country in economics, education, constitutional law and in foreign aid. However, he said the country's non-alignment represented a failure in foreign policy.

"Kuwait had no safety net of military alliance, namely Britain or the United States," he said.

Such an alliance prevented Hussein from invading Saudi Arabia when the United States deployed over 200,000 troops in that country as a direct result of the Iraqi troops massed on its border, he said.

Khajah said the real reason for the invasion was not Hussein's stated objections to Kuwait's overproduction of oil or Iraq's need for a seaport on the Persian Gulf, but rather the failure of Iraq to become a viable nation-state.

Iraq is a fractured country of diverse ethnic peoples and different religions, he said. Instead of trying to build a multi-cultural based country, successive Iraqi rulers have supported Arab supremacy and Pan-Arabism, he said.

■ See DEBATE, Page 6A

Russian government shared with Soviets

Gorbachev, Yeltsin agree on terms

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — In a major step toward ending the paralysis of power in the Soviet Union, Boris Yeltsin said Tuesday he and Mikhail Gorbachev have agreed to divide authority between the central government and his Russian federation.

The two agreed to appoint commissions of their Cabinet ministers to allocate the authority and property of the national government and the Russian parliament. The parliament emerged as a rival for power after Yeltsin was elected to the newly created post of Russian president in June.

"Russia has chosen its path and is on its way," Yeltsin told Russia's parliament in the most detailed account yet of his watershed, four-hour meeting with the Soviet president on Sunday.

During the meeting, as recounted by Yeltsin, Gorbachev made major concessions to arrest the disintegration of the Soviet Union, made up of 15 republics, most of them restive as they yearn for more independence.

"We are starting the process that should have started after we passed our declaration" of Russian sovereignty in June, Yeltsin said.

Gorbachev has issued no detailed public comments on the meeting Sunday, although he did tell senior military officers Tuesday that after what he called a substantive exchange with Yeltsin, "I am confident that both the center and the Russian leadership will act in a spirit meeting the interests of our multinational state and all its peoples," the state news agency Tass reported.

Gorbachev did not comment on the strongest claim by Yeltsin, that the Soviet president had agreed to a new system of state power: the formation of a coalition government of national unity in which the candidates for several posts would be proposed by the Russian parliament.

In the Russian legislature, Yeltsin was greeted with laughter and applause when he said he did not ask for many posts, just three — prime minister, defense and finances, jobs that form the crux of Soviet power.

Gorbachev's spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko said he did not believe Yeltsin's comments on a coalition government signalled the end for the government of Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov, who has advocated a go-slow policy toward economic reform.

"These commissions must clearly define the functions of the governments, division of property, the use of the natural wealth, (use of) foreign currency, debts, financial resources, tax policies, the banking system, on the role of the banks, and the independence of foreign economic trade by the Russia, preparation and implementation of convertibility of the ruble, the budget of 1991," Yeltsin said.

He said Gorbachev agreed to cede to Russia some elements of the KGB security police, to give the Russian government a voice in military reforms, and to share millions of dollars the German government is paying Moscow to aid the repatriation of Soviet troops.

Yeltsin said he and Gorbachev agreed the commissions would work in parallel with negotiations on a new union treaty, which Gorbachev is pushing to replace a 1924 document that formed republics into the Soviet Union.

Yeltsin said that in their meeting, Gorbachev insisted on rushing quickly through completion of a union treaty, and that Russia should play a great consolidating role in the process of signing a new union treaty.

But Yeltsin said he insisted that Gorbachev respect the sovereignty of the Russian republic and sign such a treaty only after the central government and republics had carefully defined their powers.

He said he told the Soviet president the crisis arose because he is conducting a policy of diktat (inflexibility) from the center, in violation of the old Soviet constitution and of their previous agreement.

"You did not officially recognize the division of functions between the center and Russia," Yeltsin said.

Committee leaves tax exemptions untouched

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A legislative committee, bowing to the realities of last week's election, made no recommendation Tuesday on a proposal to repeal exemptions from the state's sales tax.

The Special Committee on Assessment and Taxation, which had earlier held hearings on a proposal to impose a sales tax on services, offered the Legislature a clean slate by declining to take any position on the issue.

Repealing a number of the exemptions from the state's 4.25 percent sales tax was a major plank in the platform of governor-elect Joan Finney.

She said the exemptions should be repealed to expand the state's sales tax base and to provide property tax relief, although she had no specific list of the exemptions she would repeal.

She has also suggested that a 1 percent sales tax be imposed on other items that are presently exempt.

At the same time, Democrats took control of the House, giving Republicans a majority only in the Senate, which means any recommendation the committee had made would have been meaningless.

The hearing room was crowded with lobbyists. Many testified against a proposal to impose a sales tax on services.

Sen. Dan Thiessen, R-Independence, the committee chairman, said the new governor has a right to make her own proposal to lawmakers in January.

"I believe we should allow the governor to make her recommendations to the Legislature," Thiessen said.

His comments at the outset of the brief hearing, however, showed that the battle could be a long one.

"During the last legislative session, we heard all about sales tax exemptions," Thiessen said. "We need to realize these exemptions were purposely passed into law by a bipartisan Legislature. These exemptions have been repeatedly reviewed by the Legislature."

Sen. Phil Martin, D-Pittsburg, said more extensive hearings were needed before any action could be taken. In the last session Martin sponsored a bill that would have imposed a sales tax on services and repealed many of the exemptions now in place.

He said the hearings on that bill, held in the waning days of the session, were too brief.

"We need to have a more in-depth review of these exemptions," Martin said. "If we're going to do anything in this area, I highly recommend we hear more from people who are exempt."

Martin reiterated a warning that Democrats had made during the campaign — that the state is in financial trouble.

"It's no big secret we've got a major budget problem," he said. "Our backs are really up against the wall."

He said he hoped the Senate Assessment and Taxation Committee holds lengthy hearings on any proposal to repeal exemptions.

"I will work in every way to expedite the property tax legislation that comes before the Senate committee," Thiessen said.

BRIEFLY

World

Australia widens sea zone

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The federal government said Tuesday it will extend its territorial sea limit from three nautical miles to 12 in an effort to better control its marine environment and resources.

The decision, which takes effect Nov. 20, was announced jointly by Foreign Affairs Minister Gareth Evans and Attorney General Michael Duffy.

They said the right to such an extension was established internationally and that other countries, including the United States, had recently extended their territorial sea boundaries to 12 nautical miles. They gave no other reason for the extension.

Union creates stock exchange

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has created a Moscow Stock Exchange, the first in the country since the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The official Tass news agency said the exchange was founded Monday by 187 Soviet enterprises and banks. It did not say when trading would begin.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev issued an order Oct. 26 permitting Soviet citizens to buy stocks, bonds and other securities as part of his plan to switch from central planning to a market economy.

Tass said the Moscow Stock Exchange would be represented overseas by an international brokerage company that has asked not to be identified. The exchange plans to open offices in the world's major stock exchanges in New York, Frankfurt, Tokyo and Singapore, the news agency said.

Arms stockpiles revealed

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Stockpiles of weapons and explosives for hundreds of resistance fighters trained to counter a Soviet invasion have been hidden in Western European countries since the start of Cold War, officials said Tuesday.

A former Belgian army intelligence official said at least six arms caches were spread over the countryside in his nation until two months ago.

In the Netherlands, a former Dutch defense minister said large weapons dumps also existed there, and some were discovered over the last decade. The government refused to comment on whether such caches still exist.

The respected German newspaper Die Welt said pistols, grenade launchers, explosives and radios were stored in secret caches for German resistance fighters.

Nation

Tainted beverages recalled

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Koala Springs International, maker of juice-flavored bottled water products, today recalled all of its beverages from retail shelves and warehouses in the United States.

Company president John Chatham said in a news release that tests revealed minute traces of contaminants in some products at levels between 11 and 18 parts per billion. He did not identify the contaminants.

The tests were conducted last weekend and today in Tallahassee, Fla., the company said. The levels of contaminants pose no significant health risk to the general public, the company said, adding that it decided to withdraw its product so as to avoid any possible concern by retailers or consumers.

Regulators played favorites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulators gave preferential treatment as far back as the mid-1980s to some troubled savings and loans whose executives sat on regional regulatory boards, a document released Tuesday indicates.

Such favoritism discouraged bank examiners and slowed recognition of the magnitude of the financial troubles of S&Ls, Rep. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y., said at a congressional hearing.

"Sirens were sounding in the basement of the (Federal Home Loan Bank Board) throughout 1988, but the regulators just plugged their ears," he told the House Budget Committee's Task Force on Urgent Fiscal Issues, of which he is chairman.

The task force released a summary of a 1988 government review of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas, which was responsible for regulating S&Ls in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and New Mexico.

Bodies found, more expected

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Police have found two bodies and are looking for at least one and possibly three more in a northeast Kansas cornfield.

The site is near the boyhood home of a man charged with killing a missing Missouri woman.

"There seems to be the feeling that we may find an additional body or bodies," Sgt. Jim Connors of the St. Joseph Police Department said at a news conference Tuesday afternoon.

He said authorities had not yet established identities on the remains of two adults unearthed from separate shallow graves near Highland, Kan.

A skeleton was found Monday morning in a corn field, and a body was dug up more than 100 yards away on a brushy hillside that evening.

Region

Panelists for trial selected

FORT LEAVENWORTH (AP) — The Army began screening panelists Tuesday for the court-martial of an officer accused of attempting to kill his wife with a toilet tank lid.

The military charge involves an alleged incident in October of 1989, in which Maj. David P. Schneider is accused of hitting Deborah Schneider with a toilet tank lid while she slept.

A month later, Schneider was injured in a fall from an eighth-floor balcony at a hotel near Kansas City International Airport. A civilian court in Platte County in May acquitted Schneider of first-degree assault. Schneider maintained he tripped while carrying his wife, causing her to fall over the railing.

Man charged in shooting

RUSSELL (AP) — A man accused of shooting his brother-in-law at the factory where they worked was charged Tuesday with first-degree murder.

Russell M. Hernandez, 26, of Russell, also was charged with carrying a concealed weapon. He was being held in the Russell County Jail on $250,000 bond.

Randall Meis, 33, also of Russell, died after being shot four times in the chest last Friday morning at the King of the Road, a recreational vehicle plant where he and Hernandez worked.

The shooting occurred during a break from work on the plant's production line. Witnesses said the first shot was fired when the two workers were outside the plant.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

14 Wednesday

- German Table will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.
- K-State Players will present Amadeus at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.
- Off-Campus Association will have new officer nominations at 7 p.m. in Holton 16.
- SADD will sell tuck-ins from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Union.
- Amnesty International will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 203.
- Northern Flint Hills Audubon Society will sponsor a speech by John Zimmerman on local birds at 7:30 p.m. in Ackert 221.

15 Thursday

- K-State Table Tennis Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Ecumenical Campus Ministries building on Denison Avenue.
- PRIMO will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204.
- Society of Women Engineers will meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 152.
- K-State Players will present "Amadeus" at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.
- Women in Communications, Inc. will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 202.
- Collegiate International Trade Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Calvin 201 to discuss the International Student Exchange Program.
- ICTHUS Christian Fellowship will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 212.
- Campus Crusade for Christ will meet at 8 p.m. in Throckmorton 131.
- K-State Ice Hockey Club will meet at 8 p.m. in the second floor lobby of the Union.
- Christian Science Organization will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.
- AICHE will meet at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.
- Tau Beta Pi will have a meeting for current members at 7 p.m. in Durland 152.
- Horticultural Therapy Club will meet at 5:30 in Waters 18A.
- KSU Horticulture Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Waters 244. Toga bowling will follow the meeting.
- Student Senate will meet at 8 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

* Today, windy, sunny and unseasonably warm. High in the mid 70s. South to southwest winds 15 to 30 mph and gusty. Tonight, mostly clear. Low 45 to 50. Thursday, mostly sunny and unseasonably warm. High in the low to mid 70s.

ATTENTION!

THE STUDENT FOUNDATION
LIBRARY CAMPAIGN

NOVEMBER 26-29, 1990

- WHAT: The Books & Bricks campaign is sponsored by the KSU Student Foundation to help raise money for Farrell Library. You as a donor choose how your pledge will be spent.
- BOOKS: Funds given to "Books" will be used to purchase new volumes. More volumes are necessary to reach Big Eight standards.
- BRICKS: Funds given to "Bricks" will supplement the library building fund. When enough money is raised Farrell Library will be expanded.
- WHO: Graduating seniors, YOU have the opportunity to improve the quality of our library.
- WHEN: Members of Student Foundation and Student Governing Association will call graduating seniors the week of November 26th. We will ask you to begin a financial commitment to K-State after graduation.
- HOW MUCH: $25-$50 per year for 4 years.

Currently, Farrell Library ranks eighth among Big Eight Libraries.
FUTURE K-STATERS ARE COUNTING ON YOU!

JOBS

Apply now for spring semester COLLEGIAN
news and advertising positions.
Students in any major are welcome to apply.

News Staff

*These are anticipated openings. Editor will make final list after Nov. 15.

Arts/Entertainment Editor	Sports Editor
Campus Editors	Copy Editors
City/Government Editor	Staff Writers
Editorial Page Editor	Columnists
Features Editor	Cartoonists
Government Editor	Illustrator
Managing Editor	Reviewers
News Editor	Sports Writers
Photo/Graphics Editor	Sports Columnists

Advertising Staff

*These are anticipated openings. Advertising manager will make final list after Nov. 15.

Assistant Ad Manager	Campus/Tearsheet Rep.
Graphic Artist	Photographer
Sales Representatives	Creative Director

Obtain an application and job descriptions in Kedzie 103.

Application Deadline:

5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 28, in Kedzie 103

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Room alteration provides new lab for lighting study

By Scott Levendofsky
Collegian Reporter

Much to the surprise of all those who enter or pass by, 223A Seaton Hall is not a typical classroom.

Room 223A now doubles as a classroom and the Architectural Engineering and Construction Science Lighting and Building Electrical Systems Laboratory. The facility will be used for research, teaching and seminars for lighting and industry-related projects.

Clarence Waters, assistant professor of architectural engineering and construction science, was the main instigator of the laboratory. He designed the allocation of space and the construction of the project. With state-of-the-art equipment, Waters said he expects the classroom/lab to be used for future research and lighting studies.

"By seeing actual applications and exposing the student to current lighting and lighting control techniques, the students comprehend the material better," Waters said.

Donald Rathbone, dean of engineering, said Waters conceived the idea for the project out of a genuine concern for the students.

"The students are the ultimate winners," Rathbone said. "The department seems to get better every year. K-State now has the premier lighting research studio in the Midwest.

"Besides being an excellent lab and classroom, it is a comfortable and quality environment," he said.

The eight-foot fluorescent strip-lights found in an ordinary classroom, have been replaced by 200 light fixtures. The 20-by-30-foot ceiling has a total of 13 separate lighting systems, including 280 feet of track for a flexible track lighting system. The original 12-by-12-inch ceiling tiles have been replaced by a two foot by two foot adjustable ceiling tile. The new tile allows for changes of the light fixtures and adjustment of the entire lighting system.

Three full-height sliding blackboards conceal the electrical power distribution equipment, located at the front of the room.

Although the plans and designs for the facility had been in the works for almost two years, construction began at the end of spring semester classes and ended a week before the start of fall classes.

The project received gifts and contributions from more than 40 donors, including the National Electrical Contractors Association chapters of Wichita and Topeka.

J. Matthew Rhea/Collegian

Clarence Waters, assistant professor of architectural engineering and construction science, gives a demonstration of various light fixtures installed in the Light and Building Electrical Systems Laboratory in Seaton Hall during the dedication Tuesday afternoon.

Recital prepares student musicians for solos

Comments from other music students helpful

By Carl Richert
Collegian Reporter

The General Student Recital, at 11:30 a.m. Thursday in All Faiths Chapel, is just one of many opportunities for music and non-music majors to perform vocal or instrumental selections.

The recital lets students perform before a group and receive critique feedback from professors and peers before they give their solo recitals later this year, said Terry Braymeyer, secretary and coordinator for the recitals.

Thursday's recital features a diverse program. Bassoonist Nancy Calhoun, non-degree seeking student, will be performing "Prelude et Divertissement" by Eugene Bozza. Amy Kickhafer, senior in music education, will be singing "Lullaby" by Seymour Barab. Pianist Aleisha Bailey, senior in music education, will be performing "Rhapsody in G Minor, Op. 79, No. 2." Scott Sands, senior in biology, will be playing a Vaclav Nelhybel horn selection titled

"Scherzo Concertante."

Other students featured on the program include Nanette Pelletier, junior in music education, who will sing "Steal Me Sweet Thief" from "The Old Maid and the Thief" by Gian Carlo Menotti and organist Susan Outlaw Stallings, graduate in music, who will play "O Mensch, bewein dein Sunde gross" by J.S. Bach.

The KSU Horn Ensemble will round out the program with a performance of "Motet: Hic vir despicens mundum" by Tomas Luis de Victoria and "Hunter's Delight" by Reid Poole.

"Everytime you play music for an audience, you will improve your overall performance."

—Craig Parker
associate professor of music

The ensemble members include Milford Anthony, Jackie Hyland, Lisa Leuthold, Kara McMahon, Paul Moncrieff, Scott Sands, Jeff Schwartzkopf, Dennis Wright and Conductor Craig Parker.

The Horn Ensemble rehearses once a week to prepare for their recital on Dec. 2, said Parker, associate professor of music.

"Everytime you play music for an audience, you will improve your overall performance," he said.

Sands, who will perform both as a soloist and as a member of the ensemble, is using the recital in preparation for this weekend's audition with the Kansas Music Teachers Association.

"It scares the stagefright out of you," he said.

Kickhafer has performed in piano and vocal recitals since she began her musical career. Her perspective on the recitals is unique — she loves to hear her music peers perform because she doesn't get the opportunity to hear them very often. She also likes to hear the new music.

Most performing students use their most prepared piece or one they will be taking to a competition. Students must have their teacher sign certification that the piece is ready to perform.

Many teachers encourage performance, but it is not critical to grades, Kickhafer said.

National Children's Book Week

25% Off

All Children's & Juvenile Books

Nov. 12 thru Nov. 18
at the K-State Union
Bookstore

A reading from children's books will be held on the lower level of the Bookstore each weekday of Children's Book Week at 10 a.m.

K-State Union
Bookstore

Support the K-State Union. Your dollars help the Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

PICTURE & POSTER SALE

Thousands to choose from:

- ☞ Photographs
- ☞ Posters
- ☞ Fine Art Reproductions
- ☞ Southwestern Art
- ☞ Wildlife Photos

Most
Posters and Pictures
$7 and under
(prices range from 50¢ to $40)

November 12 - 16
9 am - 5 pm

K-State Union
First Floor Concourse

sponsored by: k-state union
upc arts

PICASSO
MONET
M.C. ERICER
DALI
RENOIR
VAN GOGH
SEURAT
O'KEEFE
GORMAN
PENIA
NAGEL

ANSEL ADAMS
TRAVEL
WILDLIFE
CARS
ANIMALS
PERSONALITIES
SPORTS
FANTASY
MILITARY
SPACE
SCENERY

INDIAN ART
SOUTHWESTERN ART
EUROPEAN ART
AFRICAN/AMERICAN ART
ORIENTAL ART
FOOLS
B & W IMAGES
POSTERS FRAMES
and MUCH, MUCH MORE!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Calling for war in Middle East irrational

"An empire founded by war has to maintain itself by war." Baron de Montesquieu (1688-1755), French writer.

In the Persian Gulf crisis, we are witnessing, literally, the breakdown of the rational mind. What rational mind desirous of peace and respect for human life would pursue the reckless, disjointed foreign policy expressed these last few months by the Bush Administration with regard to this juncture?

What rational mind would ignore every opportunity for a peaceful, diplomatic resolution to the current crisis by issuing threats and ultimatums to a ruthless despot widely known to be unperturbed by such rhetoric, all the while ordering the largest troop deployment since Vietnam, and plunging this country toward the brink of war with the narrow-minded intellect of a rutting moose?

What rational mind would equate even a single drop of American blood with as much as a hundred tankers full of cheap Arab oil, or trade the life of one American son or daughter for the preservation of a single Arab monarchy?

No, this is not rational thought.

For a Hitler or a Ceausescu, perhaps. Maybe the Hitlerian analogy President Bush so fervently applies to Saddam Hussein should likewise be applied to Bush for his determination to preserve America's waning superpower (imperialistic) status in the global politics of a post cold-war environment. Hitler's goal was to establish a German Empire, was it not? And we are supposed to believe Bush's self-invoked role for America as global policeman is not?

With the recent announcement of the addition of 150,000 to 200,000 troops to the region, and the predicted loss of up to 30,000 American lives if war breaks out, what justifications have our great leaders in Washington given the American public for placing so many brave, young Americans in harm's way? We have yet to hear.

The most important questions, however, have yet to be asked.

For instance, if we are going to war, why has there not been intense public debate concerning such a drastic measure? Doesn't the Constitution provide that only Congress has the power to make war? If Bush has strong domestic support, a mandate from the American people for his foreign policy actions in the Gulf that he claims he has, why doesn't he simply go to Congress and get a declaration of war?

The fact is, the president does not have the legal authority to make war on anyone. More importantly, the president knows he does not even have enough support from the American people to make spillovers, much less a war in which Americans will die by the thousands.

Brad Seabourn
COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

Recently, I attempted to contact Bush to get some specific answers to these questions and pin down our government's justifications for the certain sacrifice of so many of America's sons and daughters. As expected, no answers were forthcoming.

I therefore contacted several Saudi officials, who were more than willing to elaborate on the unstated foreign policy intentions of our wise and wonderful leaders. They were: Sheik Sheik-Yur-Boodi, Saudi Minister of Artificial Dissemination; Sheik Ngrab-Yur-Boodi, Saudi Minister of Trade and Highway Robbery; and Sheik Up-Yur-Boodi, Saudi Minister of War and Mercenary Acquisition. The following is a synopsis of our conversation as it occurred yesterday morning.

Mr. Sheik Sheik, could you define for me in no uncertain terms why the United States is in the Persian Gulf?

"In the name of Allah, the Compassionate, the Merciful ..."

"Aaaaaa ... yeah, sure

"This is something Muslims must say, you see, for Allah is not always compassionate and merciful. Sometimes he really gets ticked."

"I'll buy that. But back to the Persian Gulf question, please."

"Yes, of course. As we see it, the United States is simply protecting its interests in the Gulf region."

And what might those interests be?

"Control of Third World countries for the benefit of America's rich and powerful; direct and unhindered access to cheap oil, as well as the United States's desire to control the accumulation, price, and distribution of foreign oil through the manipulation of those governments directly involved."

I guess that means you don't agree with the Bush Administration's line about stopping Iraqi aggression and human rights violations?

"No, no. This is only so much camel dung, as we say. We have no false illusions about the presence of American troops in our country."

And you, Sheik Ngrab, do you agree with this analysis?

"Oh yes. Most definitely. However, you must understand we are as concerned about protecting these interests as the United States. We stand to gain as much or more from this arrangement as your government.

And do not doubt Saudi resolve in these matters. We will defend our monarchy, our oil, and our extravagant way of life to the very last drop of American blood!"

I see. Most reassuring. And how about you, Sheik Up, do you believe there will be a war to extricate Kuwait from the Iraqis and re-establish American dominance and imperialistic doctrine in the Middle East?

"Yes, yes. Certainly. The number of U.S. troops in the region, which will soon approach 500,000, are what we call 'use them or lose them' troops. A force this large must be used because it can not be sustained for an indefinite period of time."

Given your knowledge of the Iraqi army, what would you estimate U.S. troop casualties to be as a direct result of fighting, should war occur?

"I cannot, of course, accurately cite an exact number, but let me say this — many American men now in the Saudi desert, many of whom are fathers, will return home in your body bags. A war with Hussein will give new meaning to the name 'Baghdad.'"

I think we should reconsider the war option.

"Just between you and me, if I were you, I probably would too. But don't tell anyone I said that, the price of oil might go back down."

EDITORIALS

Countless war deaths not worth cheap oil

The next time you pass a soldier on the street, ask yourself if you want him to die so you can drive to campus.

The next time you see photos from Iraq, ask yourself if you want your government to blow those people up so you can heat your house at 76 degrees in winter.

President Bush is preparing to do those things in your name.

While lip service is being paid in Washington to the desire for a peaceful settlement of the Kuwait Crisis, Bush's chief diplomat, Secretary of State James Baker, has been flying around the globe trying to obtain support from the permanent members of the U.N. Security Council for a resolution authorizing the use of force against Iraq.

And Bush, who turns warmonger when his positive ratings sag in the popularity polls, has decided the United States needs an "offensive" capability in the Gulf. That's why the 11,500 soldiers of the 1st Infantry Division at Fort Riley are preparing to deploy in Saudi Arabia along with about 140,000 other soldiers.

Ask yourself, now, right now, as you sit in class, as you walk to work, do you want Bush to start a war in your name?

If you are silent, you are saying yes. Even if your answer is no.

And if your answer is no, go to the K-State Union Plaza at 11:30 a.m. today and join with others so your voice may be heard.

Tell Bush you don't want his war.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR: Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR: Tom Quinn
NEWS EDITOR: Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN: Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS: Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR: Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR: Mike Vesso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR: Mark Schreiner
GOVERNMENT EDITOR: Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR: David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS: Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR: Tom Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF: Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Walz
COPY EDITORS: Scott Berg
SCIENCE REPORTER: Kelly Berg, David Press, Amy Hadlock, Kimia Hatjithimothadia, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel
REVIEWERS: Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seabourn, Kevin Zwick
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
STRIP CARTOONISTS: Brad Camp, Margaret Clark, Brian Kratzner
EDITORIAL BOARD: Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt, Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind, David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Press, Eric Henry, Tom Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Vesso

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER: Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER: Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER: Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR SHEET MANAGER: Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES: Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allyson Schiff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER: Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR: Linda Pustney
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR: Ann Foster
BUSINESS MANAGER: Jackie Harmon
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE: Linda Weatherly
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER: Pat Hudgins
OFFICE MANAGER: Connie Pullen
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT: Carla Jones
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR: Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR: Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS: Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christa South, Joe Cook, Minnie Dowdy, John Pullen, Norm LeComte, James Seymore

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.
POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, K-State Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Protest opposed

Editor,

I'd like to tell you why I, for one, will not and cannot support the demonstration against our government's involvement in the Persian Gulf. While I acknowledge the freedom of such "learned" citizens as John Exdell and Cia Verschelden to make an appeal for student support of their rally, I do not acknowledge the sacrosanctity of their position. Obviously they are attempting to ride the current tide of student opposition, hoping to manipulate that energy into lending credibility to their own endeavors. Exdell has rehearsed the mainline ultra-liberal view of past and present American foreign policy that portrays our nation as capitalists-imperialists-swine whose only interest is always self-interest and the love of money.

Now, let me point out what his platform of righteous moralism fails to recall. First, the military presence in the Persian Gulf region is a multilateral force sanctioned by the resolutions of the United Nations. Second, when Iraq sent 435,000 troops into Kuwait last August, the only thing stopping Saddam Hussein from invading Saudi Arabia was American determination to prevent it. After several acts of international terrorism and a successful attempt to annex part of Iran, was there any reason to believe that he would stop with Kuwait?

Alright, let's play the role of the omniscient and omnipotent philosophy professor for a second and say that the United States is out to stop Hussein just because of oil. Should we set back on our holier-than-thou haunches and watch as the unanswerable, barbaric aggression of a despotic ruler brings the economies of many of the world's nations to depression through an oil monopoly? I have news for you. If that happens, more lives will be lost due to starvation than will be lost in a war that occurs because the nations of the world rise against Hussein's insanity in armed conflict.

Ultimately, this argument rests on why you believe we have some 350,000 troops in the desert halfway around the world, and you know what they say about opinions. But the most troubling aspect about a demonstration at K-State against the war that hasn't happened is not the message that's being sent to Washington. Chances are they will never hear of it. I tell you who will hear about it — 15,000 troops at Fort Riley who are about to be sent to that area and who need to know that we, as Americans, know that their lives may be jeopardized in the name of our country and that we support them.

We elected our leaders to make these kinds of difficult and controversial decisions. And now the oh-so-intellectual community wants us to throw our voices behind theirs to pretend we know more about what's going on than the president.

Until the day that the facts support otherwise, I will not be responsible for the soldiers going overseas, or those coming home, feeling anything less than genuine appreciation and respect for their loyalty, courage and profound self-sacrifice for this nation.

William Nathan Wright
senior in political science

Don't back Collegian

Editor,

Recently there has been a lot of talk about how Student Publications is desperately underfunded. As students of a modern university, we need a paper that accurately expresses our views and allows us to speak out for what we believe. Unfortunately, we don't have one.

Every day I pick up a copy of the Collegian, and every day I find myself enraged by what is fast becoming the most biased piece of yellow journalism I have ever seen. We're all adults, aren't we? So when are we going to grow up? Learning involves viewing both sides of an issue objectively and drawing a reasonable opinion. Never the less, the Collegian refuses to print anything other than the one-sided opinions of a small minority of K-State students.

Perhaps there is something wrong with me because I don't want to see my hard-earned money spent on a paper that doesn't even represent me as a student. Truly it would be a great loss to lose our paper. But if you want my money and support, there had better be some changes.

Andy Vrana
freshman in criminal justice

Cuts still needed

Editor,

The proposal to eliminate the colleges of Human Ecology and Architecture and Design has been dropped. This may seem a victory for students, but it is instead a failure of the University decision-making process. On Oct. 31, the evening news showed K-State students beating their fists on the walls of Anderson Hall and shouting obscenities before they chased down President Jon Wefald armed with T-squares. On Nov. 6, the Collegian reported that Provost James Coffman pulled the reorganization proposal because the talks with the faculty had become irrational and emotional.

This is not a good atmosphere in which to make a decision. Our Legislature has forced us into a situation where we must cut some departments lest every department at K-State be cut even further below our peers. These very important decisions should not be based on fear. Who will be the most emotional and irrational? Who will stage the most violent protest? Do we want funding cuts that must be made based on those criteria?

As students and faculty, instead of just saying, "not me," we need to be rational and logical finding areas that can be cut, because whether or not reorganization is applied, there will be funding cuts.

Barry Beck
senior in economics and management

Quartet brings new sound

Non-traditional string group offers 'real jazz,' rock 'n' roll'

By Rob Batchman
Collegian Reporter

Jazz, rock'n'roll and blues on a violin?

It's possible. Turtle Island String Quartet brings a new sound to stringed instruments. No longer are the sounds of the violin, cello and the viola limited to the music of an earlier era — TISQ has given them new meaning.

The group will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday in McCain Auditorium.

"Turtle Island String Quartet is a string quartet that functions more like a band than a regular string quartet," said TISQ violinist Katrina Wreede. "We play real jazz and real rock'n'roll. There is nothing stuffy about what we do."

Other members of TISQ are violinists Darol Anger and David Balakrishnan and cellist Mark Summer.

"We do a lot of our original stuff that is influenced by the things we grew up hearing," Wreede said.

"We're very influenced by jazz, and we play a lot of jazz standards as well as a lot of our own original music."

"In composing a lot of our own music, we are very groove-oriented, more so than a regular string quartet," she said. "Because of that we have developed many techniques that enable us to create a groove the way a regular jazz band would."

"We're all improvisers as well as composers and arrangers."

The quartet has been touring since mid-September and has been featured in such magazines as Newsweek, People, and Strings Magazine. The group was voted Best Jazz String Quartet of 1990 by JazzTimes Magazine.

"We have gotten critical acclaim throughout the world," Wreede said. Wreede said the quartet attracts a variety of listeners.

"Our audience is determined by what kind of event we're playing," she said. "The people who come to hear us range anywhere from regular classical music listeners to dedicated blues fans. We get a lot of respect from the jazz community."

Wreede explained that individuality is a strength of the quartet.

"A string quartet is kind of like a family even though we are so diverse in our backgrounds," she said. "We have similar ideas and very similar goals, but we have enough difference as individuals that we keep each other fresh all the time."

Wreede said the performance differs from the traditional image of the string quartet.

"We take our composing and arranging very seriously, but the show's a lot of fun," she said.

Tickets for the performance are $12 for the general public, $10 for senior citizens and $6 for students and children and are on sale at the McCain box office weekdays from noon to 5 p.m.

Ensemble concert represents several different musical eras

By Stacy Lentz
Collegian Reviewer

The K-State Brass and Trumpet ensembles will be performing a variety of brass compositions in their upcoming fall concert. The concert, which is free of charge, will be at 8 p.m. Thursday in All Faiths Chapel.

Under the direction of Gary Mortenson, assistant professor in music, the ensembles will present a varied program of brass literature compositions written for eight to 25 musicians.

The program begins with a fanfare from "La Peri" by Paul Dukas, followed by "Brass Square" by Earl Zindars and "Canzon in Double Echo" by Giovanni Gabrieli. "Canzon in Double Echo" will feature organist Mary Ellen Sutton, professor of music, and will be conducted by Scott Freeby, graduate student in music.

Jason Bond, a sophomore in music education, will showcase his talents on the trombone in "Londonderry Air," a piece arranged by John Iveson. The first half of the program will conclude with Roy Jesson's "Variations and Scherzo." The latter is a captivating 20th century work containing many odd meters.

The second part of the program will open with the Trumpet Ensemble performing Gregory Danner's "Music for Eight." This composition uses extended techniques where the musicians alter the acoustical sound of their instruments. The second movement of the piece is designed so that it sounds different virtually every time it is performed.

"Music for Eight" premiered at the 1988 International Trumpet Guild Conference, played by the University of Southwestern Louisiana Trumpet Ensemble, under the direction of Mortenson. Danner is chairman of the music theory department at the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

The recital will also include "Theme and Variations for Brass Ensemble" by Verne Reynolds, and "Bess, You is My Woman Now" from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." The concert will conclude with a powerful arrangement by Rimsky-Korsakov, "Procession of the Nobles."

"The concert features virtually something from every music historical area," Mortenson said. "The members of the ensemble are very dedicated and are very enjoyable to listen to as well as instruct."

The K-State Brass Ensemble is preparing for its performance early next year before the Kansas Music Educators conference in Wichita.

Noriega trial faces more delays

By The Associated Press

MIAMI — A judge Tuesday said he will declare Manuel Noriega indigent and appoint government-paid attorneys to defend him if the deposed Panamanian leader's money is not unfrozen by Friday.

U.S. District Judge William Hoeweler, also citing the ongoing dispute with Cable News Network over Noriega's tape-recorded conversations, complained that side issues were threatening to engulf the drug case.

"It has never been made more clear than in the last few days that as long as this case lingers, we face the prospect of new issues causing more delays," Hoeweler said.

If foreign governments fail to release bank accounts frozen in those countries, or if some agreement is not reached on $5.8 million in cash confiscated from Noriega's quarters during the U.S. invasion of Panama, the judge said he would appoint new counsel by Monday. The fee issue has simmered since the spring when lead defense attorney Frank Rubino threatened to withdraw his lawyers because the government had frozen 27 Noriega accounts worth about $20 million.

In June, Hoeweler ordered prosecutors to unfreeze about $6 million. But on Tuesday, Justice Department attorney Drew Arena said the governments of France, Austria and Switzerland had stepped in with their own confiscation efforts based on initial U.S. claims that the money was drug-related.

SPORTS • SPORTS

Wednesday

$2.25

Pitchers

Bo Winkle's
A Sports Bar
776-1022
3043 Anderson

SPORTS • SPORTS

BUSHWACKER'S
THE FUNDRIKERY

Comedy Invasion
Mon., Tues. & Wednesday
9 p.m.
Ross Bennett

18 to enter, 21 to drink

Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

WOW — FOR $3, you can run 15 words for one day in the COLLEGIAN ClassAds.

Treat Yourself To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

GREAT TASTE — NATURALLY.
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

WE PROVIDE SERVICES TO KEEP YOU WELL —

YOU ARE WELL WORTH IT.

Lafene Health Center

Open 24 Hours

•Citywide Delivery
•537-2526
•Hours: 7 a.m.-1 a.m.
This Week:

Bacon Cheeseburger- $1.19
606 N. Manhattan

Fast for a World Harvest
that others may eat . . .
On Thursday, November 15th

Skip one, two or three meals, (or that day's junk food) and donate the money to Oxfam, America. Tables will be set up near the Union Cafeteria and in Danforth Chapel.

GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB FLOUR SALES
LAST SALE BEFORE THANKSGIVING
NOVEMBER 14, 1990
Noon-4 p.m.
Shellenberger 220

We will be selling Christmas packs at this flour sale. Christmas packs contain:

- 5 lbs. of White Flour
- 5 lbs. of Whole Wheat Flour
- 2 lbs. of Whole White Wheat Flour
- 2 lbs. of Pancake Mix
- 2 lbs. of Bran
- 2 lbs. of Bulgur

Cost is $6

Packs will also be available Nov. 28, Dec. 5 and 12, 1990.

Show your support!
Join KSU Friends of the Libraries
Membership week November 12-16

Memberships begin at $5 students, $25 others
More information at Farrell Library Lobby
or David Margolies, 532-6154

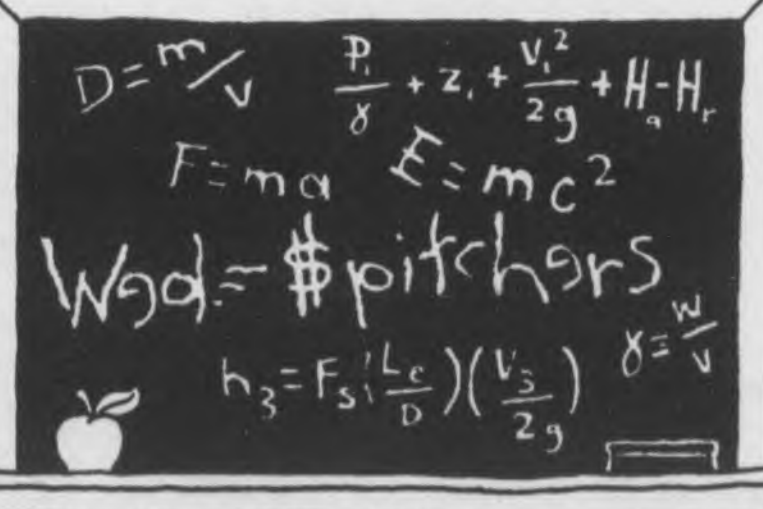

Applications are now being accepted for the 1991-1992 academic year in some very interesting places. Study for a year or a semester for the same fees as at K-State. Over 100 universities are now available in Africa, Asia, Canada, Latin America and Europe with programs for almost every discipline. For more information contact The Office of Study Abroad, 23 Eisenhower Hall, MWF, 1:30-3:30.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1983

TIRED OF CLASSES?

THE LAWS OF PHYSICS...
CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
COME STUDY WITH US.
FirstBank Center 776-4111

Live Tonight

Mantis

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, USA

CZECHOSLOVAKIAN NATIONALS

November 14

Tipoff: 7:35 p.m.

Bramlage Coliseum

Tickets: 532-6920

Sponsored By:

Debate

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Khajah said this unstable power base explains Iraq's past history of aggression.

"It is their nature to attack and conquer their neighbors," he said.

Khajah said he favors a peaceful solution to the conflict, but not negotiations with Hussein.

"Any kind of negotiations with this person would be as if you negotiated with Hitler," he said.

Khajah said an Iraqi withdrawal is the only peaceful solution.

"Nobody wants war," he said.

"Saddam Hussein can ask for a peaceful solution and pull out of Kuwait, or he can fight a war."

Any war Hussein would wage against the forces allied against him would be suicidal, Khajah said.

Shields, who taught at K-State from 1986 through 1989, said with over a million troops facing each other over a country the size of New Jersey, such a war would also destroy Kuwait.

"War would put the very survival of Kuwait in jeopardy," she said.

"The military option, if an option at all, should not be pursued until all other avenues have been explored."

The Bush administration has rejected all attempts for negotiations, she said.

Army

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

out.

"We took an oath to defend this country and it was without conditions or regulations," Baker said. "It is always better if the majority of the country is behind them. But even if it is an unpopular action, it cannot have a substantial affect on our mission."

Capt. Joseph Thompson; Company C, 5th Battalion, 16th Infantry, said his job is to try to keep soldiers' minds off of their apprehensions and concentrate on deployment, which is an extremely difficult process.

Thompson explained the amount of vehicles, trucks and personnel that must be transported as a Bradley Fighting Vehicle rumbled over a hill and fired at an artificial target during a training exercise.

Thompson said the Bradleys will see a lot of action in the desert if war breaks out. They have the ability to fire both armor-piercing and high-explosive ammunition and travel at speeds as fast as 60 miles per hour.

Before tanks and other vehicles can be moved to Saudi Arabia, they must take on the look of the middle eastern desert. A job which Walter Clark, installation maintenance officer, said is "quite a hectic operation."

A team of 27 civilian painters working around the clock at three locations has been turning out about 300 painted items per day, working their way to an estimated 7,200 divisional and non-divisional units that will need to be painted.

Clark said normal operations call for two people working eight-hour days. The operation expansion began long before the division was informed it would be deployed.

"We expanded quite rapidly in mid- to late-October," said production coordinator Bob Custer. "What happened last Thursday did not cause the increase in operations to take place."

Clark said there is a Dec. 15 self-imposed deadline for painting, but it is in no way associated with any military action timetables in the middle East.

"You can make no assumptions that Dec. 15 is when something is going to happen," Clark said. "You just have to have a goal when you start a project like this."

Baker said the desert environment will be different and require adjustments in equipment handling, but he said soldiers will adapt to the environment as they have in past military actions.

And, he said, they will have each other to rely on.

"Whatever happens we will all go through it and be in it together," he said.

Ad It Up!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

Pizza Hut®
DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION
NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4234

K-State Fans!! You "Win" When The Wildcats Win!

When K-State Beats Czech Nationals on Wednesday
The Point Spread
Is Your Discount
At Our Post-Game

Victory Party!!

If the Wildcats win by 15 points, you'll receive a 15 percent discount, if they win by 30, it'll be 30 percent, etc.

SEE YOU AFTER THE GAME!

OPEN
11 A.M. - 11 P.M.
Daily; Noon to 11 P.M. Sundays

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.

Neutilus Towers
in Aggieville
MANHATTAN
Phone 537-1616

Save UP TO $100

There's nothing like Legend and Lady Legend! The most unique college rings ever designed—only available from ArtCarved. This popular professional look offers more ways to personalize your college ring.

Don't delay—visit your ArtCarved representative during this special sales event to see Legend and the many other styles available.

ARTCARVED

COLLEGE JEWELRY

Wednesday, November 14 thru Friday, November 16 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Lower Level of the K-State Union Bookstore

K-State Union
Bookstore

Special Payment Plans Available

© 1990 ArtCarved

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE FALL SEMESTER 1990

Examination Day	Hour	7:30am to 9:20am	9:40am to 11:30am	11:50am to 1:40pm	2:00pm to 3:50pm	4:10pm to 6:00pm	7:00pm to 8:50pm
D	Monday December 17	Family Rel Eng Comp 1-2 Mech Material	T-2:05 2:30	W-10:05 10:30	T-9:05 9:30	W-4:05 4:30	Engr Graph 1-2 Bus Finance Gen Physics 1-2 Fin Accounting Thermo I
E	Tuesday December 18	Pub Spky I-IA Dynamics Statics	T-12:05 12:30	W-11:05 11:30	T-1:05 1:30	W-7:30	Chemistry 1-2 General Chem El Org Chem Gen Org Chem
X	Wednesday December 19	Economics 1-2	T-11:05 11:30	W-1:05 1:30	T-4:05 4:30	W-3:05 3:30	Math El Sch Math 100, 201, 205, 220, 221
A	Thursday December 20	Fun Comp Prog Prin Biology El Survey Eng	T-3:05 3:30	W-9:05 9:30	T-8:05 8:30	W-12:05 12:30	Des Phys Comp 110
M	Friday December 21	Intro Hum Dev Engg Phys 1-2	T-10:05 10:30	W-8:05 8:30	T-7:30	W-2:05 2:30

I. Students enrolled in classes that meet Wednesday (MTWTF, MTWF, MW, TWTF, WF, W, MWF) and all classes at the various hours on MT, MU, and MF will be examined during the period designated by W and the hour of the regular class session. (See the chart above for special examination periods for certain courses.) For example, a class that regularly meets MWF at 11:30 will be examined on Tuesday, December 18, 11:50 a.m. to 1:40 p.m.

II. Students enrolled in classes that meet on a schedule which includes Tuesday, but does not include Wednesday (T,TU,TUF,MTU) and classes meeting at the various hours of TF and UF, will be examined during the period designated by T and the hour of the regular class session.

III. Day classes meeting only once a week on Monday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday will be examined as follows:

Monday, December 10
Thursday, December 13
Friday, December 14

Examination time is the hour of the regular class session.

IV. No classes shall meet after Friday, December 14, and all examinations shall be given as scheduled.

V. Students who have more than two examinations scheduled in a 24-hour period (a 24-hour period starting at any time) may petition the instructor(s) of the highest numbered course(s) to schedule an alternate time to take the final examination(s) during the final examination period. If the necessary rescheduling cannot be done through the instructor(s) involved, the academic dean will resolve the overload problem for scheduled exams within the same college. If the exams are within the jurisdiction of different colleges, decisions regarding rescheduling shall be made by the University Provost.

VI. Students scheduled to take two or more group examinations at the same time should take the one occurring first in the list at the scheduled time and arrange through the instructor, department head, or dean to take the others at other times.

VII. Evening classes that meet after 5:00 p.m. will be examined during final exam week at 7:00 p.m. on the night the class would regularly meet. Classes with multiple meeting nights including Wednesday will be examined on Wednesday, December 19, at 7:00 p.m. Classes with multiple meeting nights including Tuesday will be examined on Tuesday, December 18, at 7:00 p.m. Students scheduled to take a special group exam at the time of the evening class will take the evening class exam at a time to be arranged in consultation with the evening class instructor.

VIII. Departmental representatives should schedule general use of classroom space for final examinations for evening classes and group examinations by contacting University Facilities Management Room Scheduling and completing a "Request for Use of University Buildings and Grounds" form.

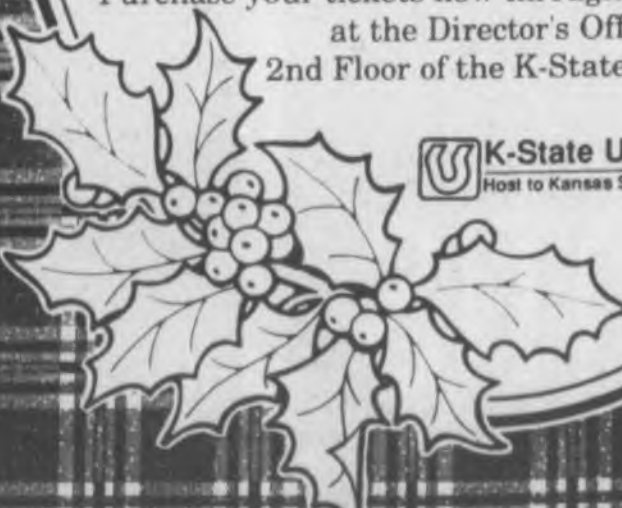

K-State Union

Holiday Buffet

Sunday, December 9, 1990
11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
and
5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.
K-State Union Main Ballroom

Tickets are $10 per person,
$5 for children 10 years and younger

Tickets are by reservation only Purchase your tickets now through December 7, 1990 at the Director's Office
2nd Floor of the K-State Union

K-State Union
Host to Kansas State University

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN SPORTS

PROBABLE STARTERS

vs.
Czechoslovakian
Nationals

Keith
Amerson
6-3 Sr. F

Wylie
Howard
6-8 Jr. F

John Rettiger
6-10 Jr. C

Jeff Wires
6-0 Sr. G

Jean
Derouillere
6-5 Sr. G

'Cats to play Czechs tonight

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

It's time to face a team in jerseys of a different color.

That's the feeling Coach Dana Altman's men's basketball team carries into tonight's exhibition opener, set for a 7:35 p.m. tipoff in Bramlage Coliseum.

Don't think for a moment that the contest with the Czechoslovakian Nationals — the first of two exhibition tilts — is not important to Altman and crew.

With a new coach and just one full-time returning starter taking the floor tonight, this contest and the one next Monday against the Michigan AAU team are very important, Altman said.

"Because of the nature of our team — we've got a lot of untested people — exhibition games are probably a little more important to us," he said. "We're going to play the nine players we have healthy and ready to go."

"We'll give all nine of them a shot and see what they can do in game-like conditions. We're going to play it a little different than we would a regular basketball game because I want to make sure all nine guys get some time and get an opportunity to show what they can do when the lights go on."

K-State's numbers situation is one that has Altman admittedly a bit worried right now. A knee injury to Maurice Brittain and an irritated ankle for Askia Jones make pickings a bit slim.

"Our practices have been affected somewhat by injuries and illness, but the players who have practiced I've been very pleased with," Altman said.

Brittain's latest injury was initially diagnosed as a knee sprain. Altman said the prognosis for his return has become worse — not better — because of the discovery of a slight tear in a ligament in the area.

As for Jones, the bone break in the ankle is fully healed, but swelling and irritation — possibly caused by screws holding the bones together — have made the comeback slower than was hoped.

That leaves Altman with his starting five and just four reserves.

The numbers situation wasn't the only thing that concerned Altman early. A lack of competitiveness was also bothersome.

Coach Dana Altman gives his players instructions during a workout Tuesday afternoon in Bramlage Coliseum. The team was preparing for its exhibition season-opener against the Czechoslovakian National team at 7:35 p.m. tonight in Bramlage. The game will mark Altman's debut.

"In the last week or so, we finally got the competitiveness up, and that's something we were worried about," he said. "They have competed a little harder and have gone to the boards a little harder. But we're not where we need to be by any means."

To get there, Altman pointed to the need for leadership and scoring from two of his starters — Jeff Wires and Keith Amerson — who are returning seniors who didn't fill up the basket too many times a year ago.

"We've been getting some very good effort from Keith and Jeff," Altman said.

Altman said the other thing the team currently needs is time. That's time to polish the rough edges, and time together as a full unit on the floor.

"We'd like to go out and show you a polished basketball team, but I don't think we will," he said of the game against Czechoslovakia, which was 4-2 going into Tuesday night's game at Nebraska. "There are a lot of rough edges we need to smooth out, and that's what this will hopefully start us doing."

AP POLL

TOP TWENTY-FIVE COLLEGE BASKETBALL

	PRESEASON
1. UNLV(50)	35-5	1,601	2	13. Syracuse	26-7 791 6
2. Arkansas(5)	30-4	1,506	7	14. LSU	23-9 726 19
3. Arizona	25-7	1,488	14	15. Oklahoma	27-5 670 1
4. Michigan St.(1)	28-6	1,302	4	16. Georgia Tech	28-7 640 9
5. North Carolina	21-13	1,282	—	17. Connecticut	31-6 630 3
6. Duke	29-9	1,162	15	18. Virginia	20-12 540 —
7. Alabama	26-9	1,110	23	19. Temple	20-11 300 —
8. Indiana	18-11	1,089	—	20. Missouri	26-6 282 —
9. Georgetown(2)	24-7	1,054	8	21. Georgia	20-9 280 11
10. Ohio St.	17-13	887	—	22. Texas	24-9 254 —
11. UCLA	22-11	874	—	23. Louisville	27-8 252 16
12. Pittsburgh	12-17	812	—	24. Southern Miss	20-12 238 —
				25. St. John's	24-10 213 —

Riniker breaks new ground

By The Collegian Staff

Michele Riniker recorded K-State's first two victories on the national level earlier this week and continues play today in the DuPont National Clay Court Championships in Panama City, Fla.

Riniker earned the first win in a national tournament in the history of the University Monday, defeating Bridget Herren of Samford (Ala.) 6-3, 6-4.

On Tuesday, Riniker bounced back after dropping the first set of her match with Tracy Bankston of Auburn 5-7 to take the next two 6-2, 6-0.

In the third round late Tuesday, however, Riniker was knocked from the bracket by Robin Cifaldi of Florida State. Cifaldi downed Riniker 6-3, 6-7 (8-6), 6-3.

Having lost in the prequalifying round of the championships, Riniker would normally have been eliminated from the field. The DuPont tournament, however, selects an alternate, called a "Lucky Loser," to continue should a qualifier drop out of competition. The Lucky Loser is chosen based on performance in the prequalifying rounds, according to coach Steve Bietau.

Riniker will face Jean St. Pierre of South Florida in the first round of the championships today. "We're very happy to continue," Bietau said. "Hopefully she can maintain the effort and continue to improve."

"This has been a great tournament. Michele has gotten three matches against tough players and has lifted her level of play each round."

Riniker, a freshman from Switzerland, brought extensive experience on clay to the tournament, which, Bietau said, has been to her advantage. Bietau, who said prior to the tournament that Riniker had the capability of upsetting nationally-ranked players, is especially pleased with Riniker's display of progress.

"Against Cifaldi, it was her best effort here so far," Bietau said. "It's a shame she lost, but she improved some of the things she's been working on."

Spikers sweep Mizzou, now 5th in conference

From Staff and Wire Reports

COLUMBIA, Mo. — The K-State volleyball team beat Missouri Tuesday night in a five-game match, sweeping the season series from the Tigers.

With the win, K-State moved to 11-13 overall and 3-8 in the Big Eight, good for fifth place in the conference. With the loss, Missouri fell to 8-19 overall and 0-11 in Big Eight play.

The Wildcats won the first game in impressive fashion, before dropping games two and three and being forced to rally from off the deck to win the match in the final two games.

The 15-4, 12-15, 10-15, 15-10, 15-9 win was made possible largely by K-State's team hitting percentage, which was .350.

Individual leaders in the win for K-State were Kathy Saxton, who had 19 kills, and Val Roberts and Betsy Berkley, who had 15 each.

Berkley led the team with a .583 hitting percentage.

Alison Murphy and Rhonda Hughes each had 16 digs, and Murphy had 57 assists and six service aces.

K-State closes the conference portion of its season with a match Friday in Boulder, Colo., against the Buffaloes, and will close the season with a match Saturday in Ft. Collins against Colorado State.

Chiefs need return of offense

Dan
Wicker

SPORTS REPORTER

The National Football League's season has gone hand-in-hand with the unpredictable Big Eight season.

Only two teams have made it through the ninth week unscathed, and predictions have become almost as dangerous as betting on a Big Eight game.

The Kansas City Chiefs have gradually fallen into this huge melting pot and are now struggling to tread water to keep postseason hopes alive. For those postseason hopes to become a reality and to keep the season from turning sour, the Chiefs had better return to type of the play they produced in the early season.

Dreams of being Super Bowl bound were dancing in the thoughts of every fan when the season began. There was a defense that would challenge any offensive attack, and the NFL's leading rusher, Christian Okoye, in the backfield.

Steve DeBerg had put to rest any criticism directed at the quarterback slot by becoming the comeback kid of the year. DeBerg's arm was virtually unstoppable as he led the Chiefs to three straight victories without an interception.

The defense that existed in those games is still as present as ever, but what has happened to the potent DeBerg offense that thrashed opposing teams in the early season?

For the last 10 quarters, they have failed to get the football in the end zone and have relied on the trusty leg of Nick Lowery and the defense to carry the team.

The philosophy proved to be successful against the Los Angeles Raiders, but was not so fruitful last Sunday with the Seattle Seahawks. It may appear that the loss should be attributed to the defense allowing the "Hail Mary" completion, but the Chiefs downfall was with the lack of offense.

How could you blame the defense that had held the Seattle offense to only 10 points, along with a record-setting defensive day for Derrick Thomas? Thomas set the all-time single sack record in one game, but partly blames himself for not recording his eighth tackle on the final play of the game, when Dave Krieg threw the killing touchdown pass.

Although Thomas almost won the game single-handedly — also causing the fumble that was recovered in the end zone for the only Chiefs touchdown — it is virtually impossible to win without the offense that ran up 35 points against the Cleveland Browns.

The only good thing behind the loss is that the Chiefs are still in the same position they were two weeks ago, since Green Bay upset the Raiders. There are seven weeks remaining and Kansas City is only one game behind the Raiders.

DeBerg has still only thrown an interception in one out of the nine games, and Okoye and Barry Word have combined for more than 1,000 yards rushing. There do not need to be any offensive changes, except to get the offense back on track scoring touchdowns.

However, it is not going to be an easy task. The Chiefs will face San Diego, which has won three straight games, this Sunday.

The Chiefs had better put the ugly Seattle loss behind them because the need for a win this Sunday is crucial. San Diego sits behind Kansas City in the standings, and a win would boost the Chargers into sole ownership of second place. A win for Kansas City would give them a two-game cushion.

Tigers hope cloud moves, season can be successful

Editor's Note: This is the fourth article in a seven-part series on the Big Eight men's basketball race.

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

The wait is over. Missouri's men's basketball team is now on a two-year NCAA probation, and a large, black cloud over the program has been lifted and replaced by a less-ominous gray one.

And now, for Coach Norm Stewart and crew, it's time to get on with the business of playing ball. But they'll be doing it minus quite a bit of talent.

Gone to graduation are Nathan Buntin, the team's best rebounder; John McIntyre, Mizzou's best long-range shooting threat; and Lee Coward, the on-again, off-again backcourt floor leader.

Also taking a hike back to his native Kentucky while the probation investigation continued was Travis Ford, a guard who made quite a contribution during his freshman season.

Add to these four losses the absence of junior Anthony Peeler until the spring semester because of academic problems, and there are still enough positives in the program for Mizzou to have attained a 20th ranking in the preseason AP poll.

"We've got a half-veteran, half-young crew, and that makes it kind of interesting," said Coach Norm Stewart. "The youngsters are really doing well. We've got guys who work very hard, and our practices have been good."

One of the hardest workers left in the program is preseason All-American Doug Smith, a senior who passed up a chance to declare for the NBA draft to finish his college eligibility.

Make no mistake, as Smith goes, so goes Mizzou.

"You don't appoint your leaders, that evolves," Stewart said of Smith. "And he's certainly in that position with us."

"By staying another year, I'm not saying he'll be completely ready to make the move (to the pros), but he'll be more ready than he is now. He has the opportunity to be the national player-of-the-year and has an opportunity to be on an outstanding team."

Smith averaged 19.8 points and 9.2 rebounds in becoming the Big Eight's Player-of-the-Year last season. He downplays the leadership role, and says the choice to pass up the NBA draft was difficult only at first.

"I think all the guys look to me for leadership at times," he said. "But they have to do the things they can do for us to be successful."

"And as for the NBA, it wasn't a question of turning down money. I wanted to come back to the University of Missouri because it's been so good to me. It was tough at first, but I just look at it as putting off the opportunity until later."

By doing just that, Smith may give Stewart a chance to win the Big Eight title in a year he won't be able to take his team to the NCAA tourney.

Peeler's eligibility will make a huge difference, conference observers agree. If he can get his academics in order and is eligible second semester, Missouri gains 16.8 points and an acrobatic player.

"Our ballclub, for two reasons, should get better as the year goes along," Stewart said. "Our young people should get better, and Anthony Peeler's return automatically makes us tougher."

Among the youngsters Stewart will look to are sophomores Jeff Warren and Chris Heller and freshman Jevon Crudup.

Warren, a 6-7 forward, is a defensive standout in the Stewart mold. Heller is an explosive inside threat who has scored 30 or more points in two of Missouri's exhibition games this fall. Crudup, a 6-8 forward from Raytown South, should also have an immediate impact.

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

Foreign students celebrate holidays

For K-State's 1,100 international students from 95 different countries, Christmas is celebrated many different ways. But for most of them, Christmas this year means staying in Manhattan.

"A lot of the foreign students come from countries very far away, and it's very expensive to travel that far," said Larry Thorpe, assistant foreign student adviser.

Thorpe said most foreign students are not from predominantly Christian countries.

"Probably less than 25 percent are from Christian countries," Thorpe said. "Most are Moslem, Hindu or Buddhist. They would like to go home, but not necessarily to celebrate Christmas."

Karim Kone, graduate student in food science, said he went home to Ivory Coast, Africa, last Christmas break, but plans to travel around Kansas this holiday season.

"It takes about 14 to 17 hours to make the trip, and it is very expensive," Kone said. "I traveled around a lot this summer, and I plan to see the special events in Kansas."

Kone said about 20 percent of Ivory Coast citizens are Christian and 20 percent are Moslem, but they all celebrate Christmas in some way.

"Christmas has become a universal holiday," he said. "A day for everyone to be happy and share with family and friends — both Moslem and Christian."

Elangannan Arunan, graduate student in chemistry, is from India. Aru-nan said Christmas is a national holiday in his country, where 80 percent of the population is Hindu and 15 percent is Moslem.

"Everyone gets the day off for the holiday so they can be with family and friends," he said. "They bake sweets and celebrate."

Arunan will be celebrating with friends in Manhattan this year rather than making the 30-hour, $1,300 plane trip to Bombay, India. He said even after he reaches Bombay, he would have to travel for days to reach his home.

"We will probably have a party on Christmas and New Year's," Arunan said. "I will probably spend a lot of time in the chemistry lab."

Not only will Arunan miss his family and friends, but he said he will also miss the Hindu festivals that take place this time of year.

"On Jan. 14, we have a holiday that is much like Thanksgiving," Arunan said. "People give thanks for the land they were given, and I'd like to be home for that."

Others will be making the journey home. Federico Escalante, sophomore in environmental design, said he is flying home to Costa Rica on Dec. 22.

"A plane ticket costs between $600 and $700," Escalante said. "It takes about 5.5 hours to get home. It's kind of expensive, but I can't imagine not being with my family."

Escalante said Christmas in Costa

Rica, which is predominantly Christian, is celebrated in much the same way as it is in the United States.

"It's more formal than it is in the United States," Escalante said. "It's a time for family."

Kone said American traditions are rubbing off on him.

"I love to see the lights at night calling God to come down," he said. "I love the good feelings you have here during Christmas. But the American people don't draw (international students) into their celebrations, and I will really miss my family."

BARNBURNERS

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15
9:30pm - 12:30am

HARRY'S UPTOWN

418 Poyntz

537-1300

$2 Cover

FLOUR SALES

SPONSORED BY

KSU GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB

Flour Sales Every Wednesday

Noon until 4 p.m.

SHELLENBERGER HALL 220 KSU

Holiday Full Meal Deal

Now $2.99

Now you can deck your halls with a collectible holiday glass and get a peaceful Homeless!™ Single Burger with lettuce and tomato, hot crisp fries, soft drink, and a delicious Home-This-Taste Sundae all at one great price. Start your collection now. Just ask for the Holiday Full Meal Deal!™
At Participating Dairy Queen® Restaurants.

Nov. 12-Dec. 14

We Treat You Right!
1015 N. 3rd, Manhattan

Dairy Queen
brazier.
776-4117

Snookies

Tonight:

Live Bands

"Moving Van Goghs"
&

"Roach Factory"

$1 Longnecks

Doors open at 7 p.m.

1122 Moro • Upstairs • 776-7726

AMADEUS
by Peter Shaffer
Don't Miss It!

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17

Tickets: McCain
Box Office
532-6428

INTRODUCING THE ADJUSTABLE SUNGLASSES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

JT THREDS

A NEW CONCEPT IN EYEWEAR

- LIGHTWEIGHT
- LIFETIME WARRANTY
- AFFORDABLE

Drs. Price, Young, & Odle, P.A.
and Associates, Optometrists
3012 Anderson,
Manhattan, KS
913-537-1118

THE BEST IN SIGHT

BAYSTREET AND THE PIT

Women's Rugby Benefit

BARNBURNERS

Live!!

Auction/Prizes

$2 Bud/Bud Light Pitchers

WE'LL GO TO GREAT LENGTHS FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS PARTY.

Holiday time is party time. With a Subway Party Sub or Party Platter. You tell us how long you want your Party Sub — and we'll make it. And we'll stuff your Party Platter with your favorite subs — sliced in tasty 4" portions. Call today. And start your holiday off on the right foot.

24 Hours notice required
620 N. Manhattan Ave.
537-8700

SUBWAY

A Velvet Holiday

Mon.-Sat.
9:30-5:30
Thurs. till 8
Sun. 1-5

Woody's
ladies

1125 Moro
Aggieville

McCain

Turtle Island String Quartet

Darol Anger, David Balakrishnan,
Mark Summer, Katrina Wreede
Windham Hill Jazz Recording Artists

Saturday, November 17, 8 p.m.

A ground-breaking ensemble that packs more kick than your average ninja. This fearless foursome pumps bluegrass, Texas fiddle, rock, African rhythms, and Eastern melodies into a jazz setting. If Kronos set the table, these Windham Hill Jazz artists make radical additions to the menu.

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

Presented with the support of the Fine Arts Fee.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

Fort Riley looks to holidays, fear families may be at war

By Cindy Jeffrey
Collegian Reporter

Christmas will be different and difficult this year for the families at Fort Riley. There will be decorated trees, lights, presents and mistletoe to be found — and the possibility of war.

"You know he might have to go, you live with it all the time, but it's way in the back of your mind," said Gaby Olinde, freshman in modern languages and wife of Richard Olinde, a member of 13 Bravo Artillery.

This Christmas that possibility is no longer so distant.

The deployment of the 1st Infantry Division means 11,500 soldiers will be leaving for the Middle East at the latest by January 1991, said Matt Rabe of the Fort Riley public affairs office. There are about 15,000 family members at Fort Riley.

"This is not like other separations — going out in the field when you know they are coming home," Olinde said.

Deployment means holiday leaves were cancelled, and many units started working six days a week in preparation.

"We had planned to visit my parents in Nuremberg, Germany, over the holidays — had the tickets and everything," Olinde said. "But leave was cancelled, and the tickets and trip were too."

No one knows when they are leaving, before Christmas or after.

"You live day by day," Olinde said. "Maybe it's better not knowing. So we're not counting the moments, instead we are trying to concentrate on using the time we have left."

Michele Goldsmith is also afraid for her husband Brian, a Bradley fighting vehicle mechanic, and about being a single parent.

"I want to be strong for him and support him, I don't want him to worry about us," said Goldsmith, mother of 2-year-old Sheree. "But I'm scared about being a parent alone."

Goldsmith said she thinks about going back home to California where she would have the support of her family.

During the Vietnam War, a soldier going to Vietnam was permanently assigned there for a year. It was a permanent change of station and meant the military would move the family, said Pearl Speer, coordinator of family support groups at Fort Riley.

The current situation is different, Speer said. It is a temporary assignment, and families remain where they are stationed or move at their own expense. For many, the expense is prohibitive.

"There is a support network in place — always has been there — but when something like this happens, it becomes more important," Speer said.

This network is made up of the family members themselves. Groups of spouses meet regularly to discuss problems and share information. Every unit in the military has a social group for spouses.

Helping others and keeping busy is Speer's advice.

Michele Goldsmith and her daughter, Sheree, will likely spend Christmas without their husband and father, Brian Goldsmith. Brian Goldsmith is one of the 11,500 Fort Riley soldiers to be deployed to the Persian Gulf in early December.

Santa Claus to make appearance at mall during holiday season

By Shannon Helm
Staff Reporter

Santa Claus is coming to town. The secret is out — jolly old St. Nick will park his sleigh and open his workshop on Saturday at Manhattan Town Center.

Kathleen Adams, Manhattan Town Center's marketing director, said Santa Claus will arrive around noon Saturday at Children's Discovery World in the mall.

Adams said children can come and watch pre-recorded video tapes tracing Santa's path through Manhattan on his way to the center.

Part of Discovery World looks like the set of a television news show, Adams said, and the tapes will feature children portraying on-the-scene news reporters following Santa as he makes his way to the mall. Adams said the videos were made to seem like live footage.

"It'll be fun — anyone can come," she said. "They can munch on cookies while they watch the videos and wait for him to arrive."

Once Santa is settled in, children of all ages can have their picture taken with him at his workshop, which is located near the mall's center, Adams said.

During the holiday season, she said, Town Center patrons can shop during the mall's extended hours and receive a free Christmas ornament after collecting $100 worth of merchandise receipts.

Another Santa, alias Willie Santa, will also be in town for pictures.

Willie the Wildcat will don a Santa suit Dec. 4 and 5.

Anyone in the Christmas spirit can be photographed with him from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the K-State Union Courtyard, said Mike Penner, Union program adviser.

If just having a picture taken with Santa isn't enough, you, too, can wear the red suit.

For $10, anyone can rent a Santa suit from the Union Program Council office on the third floor of the Union. Suits will be available Nov. 26 through Dec. 21, Penner said.

"People rent them for parties," he said. "We've even had some professors wear them to class."

But, you may ask, what is a Santa without a bagful of gifts?

UPC covers this base, too.

The UPC Travel Committee is planning a Dec. 1 Christmas shopping trip. After a visit to the Oak Park Mall in Overland Park, weary shoppers can enjoy the view of the Country Club Plaza lights.

Students who can't make the Kansas City trip can do their shopping right on campus. The Christmas arts and crafts sale will be Nov. 29 and 30 in the Union Ballroom and it might be just what busy students need.

"It doesn't just have Christmas arts and crafts, but a lot of other things that would make great Christmas gifts," Penner said.

People who want to learn more about the UPC Christmas activities can call the UPC office at 532-6571.

As for missing out on the chance to see beautiful Christmas lights, bah humbug!

The lighting of the Mayor's Holiday tree will be 7 p.m. Nov. 26 at Triangle Park in Aggieville.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

On the Wild Side
Beads from Around the World

Baja shirts available
1128 Moro
Mon.-Fri. 11-7 Sat. 11-6 Sun. 12-4

ESPRESSO
ROYALE
CAFFE

618 N. Manhattan • Aggieville
7 a.m.-Midnight

Schlobe

WORKOUT CENTERS

3236 Kimball Ave. "GOOD FOR 1" Telephone
Manhattan, KS FREE VISIT (913) 776-1750

You deserve a special Holiday gift.
You deserve the Brittnay Ridge Lifestyle!

Units are still available for second semester

- 4 Bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths
- All appliances provided
- Computer, phone, cable TV pre-wired
- Gazebos, hot tubs, volleyball court
- Bus service to campus

Come See Them Today—776-5599

DAN WEIG COMPANY DWC REAL ESTATE

2001 Andrew Winkler, KS 66502
913/776-5599 • Fax 913/776-5845

Mechanic on Duty
8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Monday - Friday

Full Service
Self Service
Gas

Frank's "66" Auto Service

17th & Poyntz
537-2480

QUICK LUBE

Free Estimates

BATTERIES

Alternators
Batteries
Starters
Winterizing

Brakes
Shocks
Tires

Exhaust Repairs
Oil Change
Tune up
Transmission

Credit Cards Accepted

Phillips 66 Visa Mastercard Discover American Express

Feast your eyes on this.

HOT LOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS. GREAT GIFT IDEAS.
THE BUCKLE'S GOT IT ALL.
NOW THROUGH SUNDAY, CHECK OUT ALL
THE HOLIDAY SPECIALS, LIKE 25% OFF
SELECTED FALL SHIRTS AND SWEATERS
AND $10 OFF SELECTED JEANS.

Instant Credit!
Free Alterations!
Easy Layaway!
Free Gift Wrap!

Store Hours:
Mon.-Sat. 10-9
Sun. 12-5:30

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

CHRISTMAS CARDS

The Far Side Calendars
It's a Far Side Christmas

704 N. MANHATTAN AVE. • IN AGGIEVILLE • 539-7654
MON.-THUR. 8:30-8:30 • FRI.-SAT. 8:30-5:30 • SUN. 12:00-5:00

Radio stations preparing Christmas formats

By Jerry Sapp
Collegian Reporter

Manhattan radio stations are preparing music formats for the upcoming Christmas holiday.

"Music is very important during the holidays," said Mike Temat, program director for KQLA-FM. "It gets people into the season of Christmas."

"After all, Christmas wouldn't seem like Christmas without songs," he said.

The majority of the stations in Manhattan will introduce Christmas music into their format after Thanksgiving, said James Phelps, program director for KJCK-FM.

"We will begin a slow rotation either the first or second week of December," Phelps said. "We will play two to three cuts an hour and then increase rotation as we get closer to Christmas."

Radio stations shy away from playing traditional Christmas songs until either Christmas Eve or Christmas Day, he said.

"We are going to keep artists as close as possible to our format," Phelps said. "We are a Top-40, dance station. The type of artists who have Christmas songs and fit our format are Jodie Watley, Hall and Oates, Billy Squier, Debbie Gibson, Bruce Springsteen and Whitney Houston, to name a few."

Jason Wright, program director for KMKF-FM and KMAN-FM, said the station is massing a library of Christmas songs to match its format.

"Artists will release their Christmas material soon," Wright said. "Last year, a great Christmas album was made with bands like U2, Stevie Nicks, Bob Seger and others. Right now, there are no new releases yet."

Even though stations want to use Christmas songs by artists they normally play, classic Christmas songs still capture the mood of the season, Wright said.

"Bing Crosby's 'White Christmas,' David Bowie and Bing Crosby doing 'Little Drummer Boy' and the Eagles 'Baby Please Come Home for Christmas' are very popular close to Christmas," he said.

"Mixing Christmas songs into our format is very hard to do because there is not a lot of music to choose from," said Jim Johnson, music director for KSDB-FM.

"Christmas music is good for the staff and for the public," he said. "It gets everybody in the Christmas spirit."

"There is a new Christmas CD out that was done by a bunch of artists on the IRS label," Johnson said. "Dread Zeppelin, Timbuk 3 and others do different traditional songs in their style."

"Request for Christmas songs go through the roof," Wright said.

KRYSTALLOS

★ JEWELRY & GIFTS
AT REASONABLE PRICES
Earrings starting at $6

1124 MORO
AGGIEVILLE
11-6 Mon.-Sat.
Thurs. 11-7:30
Sun. 1-5

$10.00 Off Perms

(Includes Cut & Style)

Ask for

Carole or Debbie

Ray's Hair Maxim

622 N. Manhattan

(Aggieville)

Expires Jan. 1, 1991

537-8620

FREE GUITAR STRINGS

With
No Strings
Attached

IT'S NOT A JOKE, IT'S TRUE

Just read this ad to see how you can get FREE from S.M. HANSON MUSIC ...

- A set of Premium Ovation Strings
- Win a $1700 Gibson Les Paul Guitar
- Mini concert with Tony Smith
- Win one of (4) $50 gift certificates

Up to a $15
Value Free

FREE STRING OFFER RULES

• Cut out this ad and bring it with your guitar to S.M. HANSON MUSIC on the following date.

Thur., Nov. 15, 1990
Time: 3 to 8 p.m.

• We will restring any 6 string guitar, acoustic, electric, or classical FREE. (installation included)

• Limit one guitar per family

• You must wait in the store while work is being done

FIRST COME, FIRST SERVED, Come Early, Avoid the Rush

FREE MINI CONCERT SAME DAY

Back by Popular Demand

Multi-guitar stylist Tony Smith is one of the most varied technical guitarists in the United States and one of the finest. Tony's repertoire includes Rock, Bach, Jazz, Bluegrass & Country.

He was recently selected as Chicagoland's hottest guitar player. Audiences are mesmerized by Tony's expert finger style guitar work. Roy Clark once exclaimed, "He knows more chords than I do." His albums include By Myself and Playing For Time.

SPECIAL NOTE Tony will be on hand from 3p.m. to 8p.m. to spend time with our customers on a one on one basis for special playing tips and hot licks.

WIN A $1700 Gibson Les Paul Guitar

- You may register once a day
- Must be 16 years or older
- Local contest (drawing Dec. 1, 1990)
- Qualifies you for a gift cert. drawing

BONUS • With every free set of strings given away, you have a chance to win a Custom painted Ovation guitar, value $3500 (National Contest)

PLUS Our Storewide Sale Continues

- Full sized guitars (5 yr. warr.) $99 and up
 - Electronic keyboards (largest selection) $24.95 and up
- Stop In Hanson Music Today And Let Us "Educate" You—Educate & Entertain.

Manhattan Store
316 Poyntz
Weekdays 9 a.m.-6 p.m.
Mon. & Thur. till 8 p.m.
Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
913-776-3000

S.M. HANSON
Music Since 1972

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Pictures & Pretties

K-State pictures:
8x10 & 16x20

Calligraphy
Furniture reproductions
Beveled glass candle holders
Dried & silk flowers
Nostalgic prints framed & unframed
Design Sweatshirts

Manhattan
Town Center
537-0858

Enjoy
a

Haircut
Hair Treatment
Style & Manicure

NOW $25

Save $9-$11 Reg.
$34-$36

Crimpers
HAIR DESIGN STUDIO
AGGIEVILLE, USA
613 N. Manhattan
539-7621

SAVE $1 on Mini Christmas tree and mini decorations.

Wonderful gift idea for grandparents, students, sheet-ins or military personal in Saudi.

With this coupon. Purchase must be $5 or more
May not be used on sale merchandise.

(Expires Dec. 1)

Christmas at

DALE'S
GARDEN CENTER
1105 Waters 539-4751

Christmas Gifts for the serious basketball player

Cons 100
reg. 49.98
$39.98

SAVE $3 on Dodger shorts!

- ★sanitary shorts
 - ★jersey shorts with pockets
 - ★5" plaited shorts
 - ★fleece shorts
- Limit 6 pair of shorts

Present this ad to obtain these savings!

SPORTS PAGE★

Manhattan Town Center

776-1919

Limited to stock on hand

Offer ends 11/18/90

776-5577

1800 Clafin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

YOU'LL STAND OUT IN THE CROWD WHEN YOU GIVE A GIFT FROM US!

- Big selection of lead crystal prisms $2 to $20
- More Exquisite handmade marbles $9.75, $12.95 & $18.40
- Beautiful glass chimes $49.00 to $58
- Fun contemporary designer clocks $21 to $25
- And much more...

GLASS IMPRESSIONS 1128 Laramie Aggieville Mon.-Fri. 11-7 Sat. 10-5

Ben Franklin
Better quality for less

Crafts

SAVE MONEY!

Make all your holiday gifts and add the ingredient money can't buy....

HANDCRAFTED WITH LOVE!

We have lots of ideas for everyone on your list.

CHRISTMAS DECOR TOO!

Westloop Shopping Center
Manhattan 776-4910
Mon.-Fri. 9-9, Sat. 9-7, Sun 1-6

THE TWELVE DAYS OF

1st Day-Buy any Footlong, get 1 bag of chips or 1 cookie free.
(Not good on Cold Cut Combo or Veggie & Cheese)

Offer good Nov. 14 & 15

Must present ad—not good in combination with any other offer or coupon.

620 N. Manhattan Ave.
537-8700

ENTER TO WIN A 6' PARTY SUB

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ St. _____ Phone # _____

Drawing to be held after Jan. 15, 1991

Classics still holiday favorites

By Lori Stauffer
Campus Editor

The day after Thanksgiving is the start of the Christmas season for many people. It doesn't matter if the first snow has fallen, they pull out the Christmas decorations and begin to sing Yuletide carols.

The season also brings a yearning to curl up in front of a fire with a good book or movie with a Christmas theme.

Thus begins the boon time for book sellers and Christmas movie rentals.

"We put out our Christmas books two weeks ago. The demand is already high," said Bonnie Williams, trade book manager for Varney's Book Store in Aggieville.

Many of the best sellers early in the season are Christmas recipe and entertaining books, Williams said.

She said "Martha Stewart's Christmas" is one of the top-selling books and covers the entire spectrum of holiday entertaining. It has decoration ideas, recipes and even includes party planners.

Other top sellers that remain perennial classics include "How the Grinch Stole Christmas," "A Christmas Carol" and "The Night Before Christmas."

Nancy Matthews, owner of the Book Shop in West Loop, said some stories have been published in the last couple of years that may grow to match the popularity of older classics.

"One book that is just now getting popular is the 'Polar Express,'" she said. "Word has gotten around this year on it, and many people have come in asking for it."

"The Cat who Came for Christmas" is another book that is so popular the distributors can't keep it in stock, Matthews said.

Janie Huenneke, manager of Waldenbooks in Manhattan Town Center, said many people buy books for Christmas gifts.

"You don't have to worry about getting the right size when you buy a book," she said.

Huenneke said people have already purchased Christmas gifts from the store.

"Some of the more organized people were buying in October," she said.

10 Most Popular Christmas Books

- Carl's Christmas
- Cat Who Came for Christmas
- A Christmas Carol
- Christmas in America
- Christmas with Norman Rockwell
- How the Grinch Stole Christmas
- The Mitten
- Polar Express
- Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer
- Wild Christmas Reindeer

Listed alphabetically
Source: The Book Shop, Varney's Book Store, Waldenbooks

Christmas movie rentals also increase in popularity right after Thanksgiving, said Trish Simpson, assistant manager of Home Cinema in Village Plaza.

10 Most Popular Christmas Movies

- A Christmas Story
- Christmas Vacation
- Frosty the Snowman
- It's a Wonderful Life
- Mickey Mouse Christmas
- Miracle on 34th Street
- Prancer
- Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer
- Scrooged
- White Christmas

Listed alphabetically
Source: Dillon's Video, Home Cinema, Cinemagic

A HOLIDAY TRADITION Spode Christmas Tree

Whether you're starting a family tradition or adding to a collection, Spode has just the gift. For the table. For the home. For holiday festivities. For every price range. This year make Spode your family's tree.

Campbell's
DOWNTOWN
USE OUR BRIDAL REGISTRY

5th & Poyntz
776-9067

Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30
Thurs. 9-8
Sun. 1-5

Business picks up during holidays

By Tammy Rose
Collegian Reporter

'Tis the season for spending money, and area businesses are more than happy to oblige.

Christmas is right around the corner, which means shopping and spending money. For area businesses, this is their prime time of the year.

Many local merchants said they have already had an increase in traffic and sales. But most agree the busiest time is yet to come.

Manhattan Town Center has had a continuous increase in business since their opening in 1987, Chris Heavey, manager of Manhattan Town Center. At this time last year, an 8 percent increase over sales in 1988 was recorded. As of August 1990, a 16 percent increase had been recorded.

Heavey said the deployment of Fort Riley troops to Saudi Arabia may affect the amount of Christmas business.

"We have no way of knowing how the troops leaving is going to affect us," Heavey said.

Heavey said even with the troops' departure, the center will be very busy starting the weekend after Thanksgiving.

Bill Lowman, owner of Lowman's Fine Clothing, said he has noticed a slight increase in business, but expects it to increase after Thanksgiving and when the weather gets cooler.

■ See BUSINESS, Page 8B

VERY MERRY SPECIALS From THE TRAVEL STORE

Money Belts
$10.95

PARK VISTA
5 Piece Set

$89.95

Just some of our Travel Accessories that are available...

Ask about our Leather Attaches

Select Group of Briefcases
$99.95

Alarm Clocks
$14.95

Converters
$27.95

SAMSONITE

"Our Strengths Are Legendary"

Carriers
$21.95

Ask About Our In-Store Specials

Ask About Other Store Specials

TRAVEL STORE and

957 Seth Child • Village Plaza Shopping Center
539-0531

See The TRAVEL STORE
Also Located in
Manhattan Town Center

IT'S OUR SALUTE TO VETERANS DAY

★★★★★

0% INTEREST!

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEBRUARY! NO DOWN PAYMENT!

On approved Radio Shack ValuePlan® Credit Account purchases of $100 or more. Payment is due by your February billing date. Finance charge computation will commence as of that date.

HURRY! OFFER
ENDS NOV. 21st

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEB.
TANDY® 1000 RL
With Color Monitor

The Family PC Compatible That's
So Easy To Use
It Guarantees
Success!

Save
$100

DeskMate and DeskMate® Home
Organizer with 24 programs.
#25-14501043

Low As $25
Per Month

79990

Save $200. System above with 20MB drive. Reg. separate items $1299.90.
#25-14511043, Sale 1099.90

Reg. Separate
Items 899.90

OPEN HOUSE

Come see our great new home computer! The Tandy 1000 RL makes computing so easy, you can be using it after one brief session. Learn how any Friday at our Open House. Call any participating Radio Shack store or dealer for times.

Plan Now to Attend!

Stay in Touch! Cellular Phones
For Convenience and Safety

Lightweight Handheld Portable

Save $100 $399*

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 499.00

Easily fits in your briefcase—1 1/2" wide, weighs just 28 ounces. #17-1050

Requires Charging Accessories

Low-Cost Mobile With Handsfree Speakerphone

Save $100 $199*

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 299.00

In an emergency, help is just an in-car call away! #17-1076

*Requires new activation and minimum service commitment with Radio Shack cellular phone carrier except where prohibited by state law. #17-1050, $499 and #17-1076, $499 without activation. Offer for 12-18 months in California, Hawaii, North Carolina, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands. See store manager for details.

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEB.

Camcorder With 12x Zoom

$100 Off $899

Low As $30 Per Month • Reg. 999.00

Be a "Hollywood" director! 12x continuous variable-speed power zoom. #16-826

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEB.

Versatile Dot-Matrix Printer

Cut $90 26995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 359.95

Prints both courier and draft fonts. Push tractor feed. #26-2848

Complete Rack System With CD Player

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEB.

Save $100

39995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 499.95

Remote, high-speed dubbing, 5-band EQ, digital tuning, turntable. #13-1238

HURRY IN FOR SUPER SAVINGS AND MORE FANTASTIC VALUES!

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEB.

VHS VCR With On-Screen Programming

Save $100 24995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 349.95

Record the shows you've been missing! 111-ch. tuner. #16-510

NO PAYMENTS 'TIL FEB.

Programmable CD Player With Wireless Remote

Cut $60 15995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 219.95

Stores 16 selections for playback in any sequence. #42-5015

Digital-Voice Answerer

17% Off 4995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 59.95

Switchable male or female voice announcement. #43-393

100-Watt AM/FM Receiver

Cut $100 29995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 399.95

Digital tuning with 24 presets. A/V dubbing. #31-3008

Compact 2-Way Speaker

HALF PRICE! 3995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 79.95

For floor or shelf. 8" woofer, 1 1/2" high. #40-4036

Portable CD Player

Cut $40 15995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 199.95

Enjoy super CD sound anywhere! Stores 16 tracks. #42-5017

Walk & Talk! Cordless Phone

Cut 25% 5995

Low As $15 Per Month • Reg. 79.95

Tone/pulse. #43-554

ELECTRONIC TOYLAND NOW OPEN!

2609 Anderson in Anderson Square 539-6151

New Holiday Hours 9-8 Mon.-Fri. Sat. 9-5, Sun. 1-5

Most Major Credit Cards Welcome

Radio Shack AMERICA'S TECHNOLOGY STORE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $3.00, 20 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 30 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.25, 35 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $5.50, 40 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publications. Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY for Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs—skincare—glamor—nails—gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY: Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed College Scholarship Locations. P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

DO YOU want to lose weight? Find out how at an open house introducing the only U.S. patented, absolutely guaranteed weight control program. Open House today 9a.m. to 4p.m., Days Inn, 1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd., Coaches Corner Room or call 776-4764 or 776-0629.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

LUNCH IN: Olsburg, on Nov. 17, Brick's and Kaffe Hus. Come to the most unusual craft show in the area. Tallgrass Prairie Art and Craft Sale, 10a.m.—4p.m. Olsburg Grade School.

Traveler's Limousine Service

Call 539-2284

Manhattan Creative Arts Guild

12th Annual Christmas Arts Festival

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1990

9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Pottorff Hall-Cico Park

TONIGHT
$1
LONGNECKS
25¢ KAMIS
BAYSTREET

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

SCHOLARSHIPS/GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

UNIVERSITY PHOTOGRAPHY
"The Party Pic Place"

REORDER WEEK

You can order any party pic from any party from the past 2 semesters; Monday, November 12 through Thursday, November 15.

1212 Moro
ACROSS FROM LAST CHANCE!
HOURS: 10-12/2-5

2 Apartments—Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

QUIET, WELL-MAINTAINED one-bedroom, furnished apartment with laundry and patio. Opening Dec. 15. Prefer employed person or graduate student. $245, year lease. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. 537-9686 for application.

SUNNY, SPACIOUS one-bedroom. Recently carpeted. Close to campus and downtown. Available Jan. 1, 1991. Non-smoker. No pets. $275 per month plus utilities. Please have references available. Call Gloria, 539-4915, after 5:30p.m.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

NICE, QUIET, spacious one-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Need to take over lease, expires July 1. Renewable with landlords approval. $285 a month plus utilities. Call 539-5173.

ONE-BEDROOM IN Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid. $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid, $260, 776-7320.

ONE-BEDROOM, SUNSET, College Heights location. $285, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

PARK PLACE APARTMENTS

1408 Cambridge Place • 539-2951

• 1, 2 and 3 bedroom

• 2 swimming pools and a heated spa

• Some utilities paid

• Across the street from Westloop Shopping Center

• Campus shuttle leaving every hour

Pre-leasing for Jan.-May

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, EFFICIENCY apartment, 1131 Vattier, one block from campus, new kitchen, $240 per month, lease required, beginning about Dec. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 MUSTANG Coupe. 289 V8, auto, $3,800. Call 776-7299.

1981 PONTIAC Gran Lemans station wagon, 109,000 miles, 3.8L V-6, good tires, reliable, $750. 539-6459.

1984 VW Rabbit convertible. Very good condition, low mileage, asking $6,500. Call 776-5668 after 6p.m.

1985 CALAIS: Gunsmoke gray, $3,200, 539-9173.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

7 Computers

COMMODORE 64 with many extras for sale. Phone 776-1964.

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies, Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac Ili, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below book-store. Call 539-0901 or come by 1115 Westloop.

IBM COMPATIBLE XT dual floppy, monochrome monitor, printer. Software and manuals, $800. Call 537-8664.

8 Employment

JOBS!
JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits. 15-80K+.

Free Information

Call

Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

(Continued on page 7B)

WANT PIZZA P.D.Q.?
SOUND THE CALL!

Call: 539-5303
1118 Laramie

We have a platoon of cars on alert to deliver your choice of our rich, luscious pies P.D.Q.. WE'LL MARCH RIGHT OVER.

USE THE MONEY-SAVING COUPONS BELOW FOR YOUR NEXT MESS.

2 Medium Family Pack
One Combo and One Single-Topping

$10.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU

Medium All Meat Combo
Beef • Sausage
Pepperoni • Ham
Bacon

$7.99

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU

2 Medium One-Toppers
Cheese plus one topping on each

$8.99

or 2 Large $11.99

$4 OFF
Any Large Pizza

or

$3 OFF
Any Medium

Not valid with Sunday FREE drinks or any other discount offers. Limited delivery area and times. Add $1 for delivery. EXPIRES: 12/9/90 KSU

PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET

WARNS YOU....
IF YOU ARE PAYING MORE THAN
$2495⁺ COMPLETE SINGLE VISION - OR - $3495⁺ COMPLETE BIFOCAL

FOR YOUR EYEGLASSES, INCLUDING FRAME — YOU ARE OVERPAYING!

AT PAYLESS OPTICAL OUTLET YOU GET....

- UNLIMITED SELECTION - YOUR CHOICE OF OVER 1,000 FRAMES ON DISPLAY!
- NO CHARGE FOR SUN OR FASHION TINTED LENSES!
- NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR OVERSIZED OR PLASTIC LENSES!
- HIGHEST QUALITY FRAMES AND LENSES!
- HIGHEST PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS!
- SATISFACTION GUARANTEED!

* All normal prescriptions - distance, reading, or flat to 25 and 28mm, round or executive bifocals, in Rx's no higher than (+) or (-) 8.00 diopter sphere, with up to -2.00 cylinder. Adds no higher than (+) $3.00.

Photogrey Extra, Scratch and Ultra-Violet Coat - each $10 additional.

1210 MORO
MANHATTAN, KANSAS
537-1574

NEVER A SALE, ALWAYS THE LOWEST PRICE!

LIFE FORCE

SCULPTURES

by

Ken Wagner

MFA Exhibition

K-STATE UNION GALLERY

November 19 - December 7

Gallery Hours

Monday - Friday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

K-State Union
UPC Arts Committee

Exhibitions made possible through the cooperation of Union Program Council Arts Committee, Department of Art and Student Fine Arts Fee at Kansas State University.

Fashion Company

EVERY SINGLE DAY

Save 35-60%

Off Department Store Prices!

SAVE 40%
DETAILS
TEXTURED SHIRTS
Junior & Misses

$12⁹⁹

Compare at $22

SAVE 50%
ONE STEP UP
COTTON LEGGINGS
Many Colors

$6⁹⁹

Compare at $14

SAVE 35%
PRINTED
KNIT PANTS
Elastic Waist

$14⁹⁹

Compare at $23

SAVE 60%
FULLY LINED
FALL SUITS
Junior & Misses

$39⁹⁹

Compare at $100-120

Junior & Misses
FALL DRESSESYou Bebes, My Michelle, Ivy,
All That Jazz, Joni Blair, S. Roberts*

25%-40% Off DEPARTMENT STORE PRICES!

$21⁹⁹ RAYON JACKETS
A Great Career Look!
(Misses 4-14) Value $100

EAST MANHATTAN
(1/4 Mile East of mall
next to K-Mart)

OPEN HOURS:
Mon.-Fri. 10 am - 9 pm
Sat. 10 am - 6:30 pm
Sun. Noon - 5:30 pm

EAST MANHATTAN
FASHION COMPANY

DESIGNER AND NAME BRAND FASHIONS FOR LESS!!

Fashion Company

(Continued from page 6B)

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ANSWER THIS question! Is what you're doing now ever going to make you 1 to 3K part-time or 8 to 10K per month working less than 40 hours per week? If the answer is No Way, we need to talk! Business information meeting tonight 7p.m. at Days Inn, 1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd., Coaches Corner Room or call 776-4764 for information appointment.

ATTENTION: ACCOUNTANT: We have an immediate opening for an individual with a bachelor's or master's degree in business, accounting or finance. Experience in hospital reimbursement, audits, cost accounting, development of department and hospital-wide budgeting, cash flow, investments and integrated computer systems is required. Competitive salary and benefits. Please send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: LABORATORY Personnel: Immediate openings for a MT(ASCP) or equivalent and Medical Laboratory Technologist MLT(ASCP) or equivalent. Full-time and part-time positions. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: PHYSICIAN and Allied Recruiters: We have an immediate opening for a mature, self-motivated individual who presents a positive image. Must have a bachelor's or master's degree and experience in position relations. Sales and marketing experience is preferred. Will develop and track computer driven physician and allied health care professional database. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

CHILDCARE PROVIDER: Experienced, reliable individual with familiarity of life saving techniques Friday, Nov. 16th, 9:45-11:45a.m. $4.75 hourly. Contact 1-485-2729 or 539-3197.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS, CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS—All branches. U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

MANHATTAN COUNTRY Club is now accepting applications for waiters/waitresses. Applicants must be at least 20 years of age, have two years experience and be available every evening. Apply in person, 1531 N. 10th, ask for Dan.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST needed to fill full-time position in progressive clinical reference laboratory. Excellent benefits, competitive salary and no call. Call Carol at 539-5363. E.O.E.

NANNIES, LIVE-IN positions—East Coast. Airfare, great salaries. Fun social activities. Carefully screened families. Individualized attention. Princeton Nanny, 301 N. Harrison, Princeton, N.J. 08540. (609)497-1195.

STUDENT WITH work-study available to work 15-25 hours per week in the Enrollment Center. Computer experience required. Apply in Willard Hall, Room 210.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

WE HAVE the ideal college job for fraternity/sorority members. Set own hours with extremely high monetary return. Job includes marketing imprinted sportswear and party favors within Greek community. Call Prairie Graphics (Lawrence, KS) at (913)841-1166 ask for Jon.

WORKING WOMAN or student to live with elderly lady. Room and board in exchange for household duties. 539-2755.

LOST: SHARP calculator Tuesday 11/6/90 in CW. Call 537-7809 after 5p.m.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

12x65 MOBILE Home, two-bedroom, shower, new carpet, wallpaper and tilework, washer, dryer, big yard, excellent condition. Take possession over Christmas, $7,500. 539-8694.

1971 12x50 Mobile Home, Extra clean, low lot rent, $5,200. Call Allen 537-3909, leave message.

SALE: TWO-BEDROOM appliances, large awning. Cute home. Payments $139.64. Set up close to campus. Countryside, 539-2325.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

1986 SUZUKI Intruder. Excellent condition. Call Sean or leave message at 539-7960. $1,800 or best offer.

1989 CR125—Better than new, modified, must see. 539-6363. Joel.

MOUNTAIN BIKE, 1989 Diamondback Ascent EX with accessories. $325. Call Dan 532-4519 or 776-7151.

MOTORCYCLE SUPPLY

Red Baron Goggles $19.95

Winter Leather Gloves $26.58

1221 Moro • 776-6177

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

CAPTAIN KENT—Happy Birthday to my best friend! Only 39 more days... I miss you! Many Swedish kisses from your favorite batti! Zooba, Becca.

CAST AND Crew Amadeus Foodbar! Don Giovanni thanks a million you guys and gals are the best. Love, Mendi.

CHARLIE BROWN—Congratulations! You finally got the little red-headed girl! Love and Marce.

DANCING FIJI Pledge Class, Thanks for a fun time Sunday. ADPI and Ronald McDonald.

EVERYONE, DANCE at the Pub Friday night, come out and Party. AZ.

HAYMAKER ESCORT—I apologize for blasting you. I should have gone after the phone guy. See it my way—it was dark, very cold and I got mad. I'm sorry I took it out on the wrong person. —Cyndi.

HEY, MOE—Hope you have a Great day! Happy Birthday! Jana.

LOSER, WELL color me happy, you got a personal! I had a great time Monday night, the stars, the cold and an imaginary cat, you gotta like it! Would you like to go to a movie and dinner with me? I'll see you later. Love, What? and Alex.

REBECCA—I would like to see The Rules in action—James, The Underworld.

TODD J.—Congratulations on your engagement to Amy Jo. I was beginning to think no one would want you. I wish you both all the happiness in the world. Love—Your little sis.

TUBAS—My first year as tuba staff is something to remember and I'll do it again next year just to make your lives a living hell. You guys gave me a lot of crap, some that I even deserved, but I love you all just the same. Since we weigh more, we are the biggest and baddest in the band, so let's kick some butt in Colorado. And, I'll take a chill pill when I'm damn well ready. Tu...ba Tu...ba Tu...ba Tubal! Aaaaahhhhh! —Bob.

23 Resume/Typing Service

RESUMES

Writing a resume may be easy, but writing the best possible resume is not easy. CDS knows how to develop resumes for different employment settings. Kathleen Lowman has worked directly with employers for nine years and also has conducted employer surveys on resume writing.

We offer professional advising on the content of your resume, as well as computer type-setting and laser printing.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT SERVICES
776-1229

25 Services

Any pain is too much pain.
Call us today for an appointment:
537-8305

Dr. Mark Hatesohl
Chiropractic Family Health Center
3252 Kimball Avenue
Candlewood Shopping Center

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center, 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

26 Stereo Equipment

SONY CDX-7580 car stereo CD player pullout, Sony XE-90 equalizer. Both like new for $550 or best offer. 537-3229.

28 Sublease

AVAILABLE: SPRING semester. Two-bedroom apartment two blocks from campus. 776-4782.

FEMALE, SPRING semester, furnished house. Lease ends in May. Washer/dryer. Rent negotiable. Amy 537-3886.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath, washer/dryer, fireplace, beautiful view. $405/month. Call 776-2422 anytime.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share spacious, furnished apartment. Two and one-half blocks from campus. $175 plus utilities. 539-5351.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM apartment for sublease! One block from campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. 539-7228.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM furnished apartment. Very close to campus. One and one-half baths. Dishwasher. $380/month. January—May. 539-5961.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Efficient, water and trash paid, appliances. Deck and near Aggieville. 537-2424.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for sublease second semester, unfurnished, brand new. Call 776-6191.

30 Travel

SKI

Winter Park
Nov. 21-25 $199
Breckenridge
Jan. 2-6 $229
Winter Park
Jan. 7-13 $249
Steamboat
Jan. 7-13 $259
All packages include lodging, transportation, and lift tickets.

Classic Travel & Tours

1212 Moro • 537-7546

31 Tutor

FORMER KSU English instructor will proofread and/or edit your term paper, thesis, or dissertation. Reasonable rates. Call 539-5637 and leave message.

TUTORING in Modern and Classic Greek, emphasizes the more formal language (Katharevousa) used in official documents and in the conservative press. Open to anyone, call Ali Barmashi, phone 776-6128.

33 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103 $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/year plus $4,600/year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies between 8a.m.—5p.m. 776-1223, after 5p.m. 776-1222.

New Sunbed Tanning 10 for $15

HARDBOODIES GYM
Laramie Plaza Basement 539-7095

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

NEED TO sell. Oceanic 30-gallon tank and custom stand, includes everything you need except fish. Very Nice. Make offer. Call 776-2422.

TV—MAGNAVOX 24" sq. screen, remote, cable ready, stereo hookup—like new. Call 776-2422.

TYPEWRITER—BROTHER AX io. $90, as new. 776-7885 leave message.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels, $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m. If no answer, leave message.

34 Photo Equipment

SPOTMETERS—AS new: Pentax V $125; Gossen Ultra Spot F $350; Also Nikon lenses: 50 1.4 $185; 85 1.2 $225; 300 1.4 $1,450. 776-7885 weekdays. Leave message.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Skarn Lact wants a job as a set of bookends. He claims he'll need a five-minute break every nine hours.

11-14 ©1990 Jeff Gabel

9 Food Specials

Bobby's
WEDNESDAYS:
STEAK NIGHT
$3.99 Filet Mignon
$4.99 K.C. Strip
$5.49 T-Bone
with drink, baked potato and salad
539-1571

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: COMPUTER diskette, 3.5 inch found Nov. 6 at Dickens Hall. 539-4062.

FOUND: PORTFOLIO in east stadium near room 109. Pick up in room 109 between 8a.m. and 5p.m.

FOUND: TEN-SPEED bicycle. To claim, call 532-6448 and identify.

FOUND: WHITE short-hair cat about 6 months old, blue eyes. Found around Marfall Hall. Call Brian 532-3925.

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Future flower
4 MD's org.
7 Comfort
8 Decorate
10 Dead holder
11 Mental image
13 June brides?
16 Stamming sounds
17 Challenges
18 Table leaving
19 Size of paper
20 Unsteady
21 Self-assurance
23 "Jude the Obscure" novelist
25 Moist
26 Slightly tainted
27 Corrida cheer
28 Israeli coin

30 Chinese pagoda
33 Special anniversary
36 Summer or winter
37 Uncanny
38 Makes neat or tidy
39 Moot sightings
40 "Chances"—
41 Narrower than hds.
DOWN
1 Musical
2 Employed
3 Makes fun of
4 Hacienda brick
5 Sparks of dust
6 Seed covering
7 Pitcher
8 "12—Men" (movie)
9 Without commission on sales
10 Be in

12 Brazen
14 Good reputation
15 Farm structure
19 Party mix
20 Twisted
21 Old Spanish port
22 Breakfast treat
23 Rabbit's cousin
24 Wolfgang—Mozart
25 Follow closely
26 Academic robes
28 Principal Norse gods
29 Dwarf's cousin
30 Novices
31 Black birds
32 Personal question?
34 Biblical name
35 Deterious

Solution time: 22 mins.
SONG SHE GAEL
EMIR EAT ASTI
NANA DROPLEAF
DROPOUT ELATE
ELM APO
CHASE DROPOFF
OOM RUM WAR
DROPSIN NANNY
RAG AES
IDIOM DROPLET
DROPPERS IOTA
LANE REO ROTS
ETAL AWA ERES
Yesterday's answer 11-14

CRYPTOQUIP

11-14
X'W AIWXC B ZIPC PXNU
G AISZ. GCZ GSTDGF
WF CIHD XH IYV NI
G TRCCXB HNGTN.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: "WHAT DOES HE LOOK LIKE?" ASKED EVE. "I'M AFRAID I DON'T KNOW HIM FROM ADAM."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: C equals N

Business

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5B

The warm weather may be deterring some people from coming out to shop for Christmas, Lowman said. Some people just don't feel like buying a sweater when it's warm out. "The weekend after Thanksgiving weekend is when the shopping really gets going," he said.

An increase in business is also noticed after Christmas, as people venture to the after-Christmas sales and to exchange items that didn't fit or weren't to their taste.

Lowman said he has noticed an increase in business into January as people get geared up for sales.

Employees at the Brass Buckle in the mall also said they have noticed an increase in sales.

"The store is definitely at an increase over last year, and the gift wrapping has really picked up over the past couple of weeks," said Christy Holcom, Brass Buckle employee.

Holcom said she expects business to stay at an increased level after Christmas as well. She attributes this to the free alterations Brass Buckle offers and people shopping for clothes to match what they received as gifts.

Generally, the weekend following Thanksgiving is when Christmas shopping begins, but, Heavey said, it's not normally that way in Manhattan.

"Manhattan is a different world than most places because students, some faculty and military go home for Thanksgiving and take off the whole weekend," Heavey said.

Turkey purchasing, cooking easy

By Carl Richert
Collegian Reporter

Purchasing the perfect turkey can be confusing. Preparing the perfect turkey can be difficult. Trying to do both without helpful advice is a mistake.

Bill Hale, Dillons' meat department manager, explained the difference between four types of Grade A turkeys available at Dillons: Butterball, Honeysuckle, Food Club and fresh turkeys.

Butterball is the highest priced self-basting turkey on the market, Hale said, at about $1.19 per pound.

"So much of the time you just pay for the name," he said.

Honeysuckle is the next highest-priced self-basting turkey at Dillons. Hale said it tends to have more white meat and is priced at around $1.79 per pound.

Food Club is "just as good a quality turkey as any of the other Grade A turkeys, but it usually is $1.49 per pound," he said.

Fresh turkeys are not self basted so many people on strict diets prefer them, Hale said. These tend to be a little more expensive at about $1.99 per pound.

The weight of the turkey determines the category it is placed in, Hale said. A hen turkey is 8-14 pounds and the tom turkey is 16-24 pounds.

The two traditional ways to cook a turkey are stuffed and unstuffed.

Judy Heikes, sorority cook, does not stuff her turkey. Her reason for not stuffing is due to the research concerning unsterilized turkey cavities and undercooked dressing.

If either happen to a turkey, it may be the cause of food poisoning, Heikes said.

WOW — FOR $3, you can run 15 words for one day in the COLLEGIAN ClassAds.

Graduates

Fall Bachelor Candidates Commencement Exercises: Your graduation apparel is for sale NOW thru December 14, 1990.

Total price with tax is $19.69, includes cap, gown & tassel

Mail Orders for Bachelor's apparel should include height, weight, hat size, degree information and $1.50 extra for postage and handling.

Masters, Doctorate and Faculty

Master, Doctorate, and Faculty rentals will be taken at the Supply Department Gift Counter. After November 1, a $7.50 late fee will be added. After November 15, a $20.00 late fee will be added.

Rental Prices	Masters	Doctorate
Cap/Gown/Tassel Hood	$28.02	$30.33
Cap/Gown/Tassel only	$16.15	$17.02
Hood only	$16.58	$18.85

Announcements

Non-personalized white paper pkg. of 10 for $6.01 includes sales tax
Personalized Ivory paper pkg. of 25 for $34.95 includes sales tax
See the gift counter clerk for further details.

Monday-Thursday 7:45 a.m.-8 p.m.
Friday 7:45 a.m.-5 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sunday 12 noon-5 p.m.

K-State Union
Bookstore

Support the K-State Union, dollars spent in the Union help the Union sponsor student programs, activities and services.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thanksgiving break display advertising deadlines.

Publication date:

Monday, November 19
Monday, November 26
Tuesday, November 27

Deadline:

Thursday, November 15
Friday, November 16
Monday, November 19

There will be no Collegian on Tuesday, November 20.
Questions? Call your advertising representative at 532-6560.

TEXTBOOK ALERT!

TEXTBOOK REPORTS WERE DUE
OCTOBER 12, 1990
DO WE HAVE YOUR TEXTBOOK
REPORTS FOR SPRING '91?

Support the K-State Union. Your dollars help the Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

K-State Union
Bookstore

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

No Pun
Intended

Folk Music With An Attitude!
Thursday, November 15, 1990
12:00 p.m. - 1:00 p.m.
K-State Union Courtyard

Thousands to choose from:

- Photographs November 12 - 16
- Posters 9 am - 5 pm
- Fine Art Reproductions
- Southwestern Art
- Wildlife Photos

PICTURE & POSTER SALE
K-State Union
First Floor Concourse

Most
Posters and Pictures
$7 and under
(prices range from 50¢ to $40)

"MURDER, SEX, SUSPENSE, SURPRISES...SENSATIONAL!"

HARRISON FORD PRESUMED INNOCENT

NOVEMBER 16, 17, & 18
FRIDAY & SATURDAY,
7:00pm & 9:30pm
SUNDAY, 7:00pm
FORUM HALL $1.75

"A GREAT, EXHILARATING MOVIE!"

Winner of 2 Academy Awards
Best Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis
Best Supporting Actress: Brenda Fricker
Nominated for 5 Academy Awards

NOVEMBER 14, 15,
& 16 Wednesday 7
p.m. Forum Hall
Thursday 3:30 p.m.
Little Theatre & 7
p.m. Forum Hall
Friday 7 p.m. Little Theatre $1.75 with
KSU I.D.

NOVEMBER
17 & 18
Saturday &
Sunday 2
p.m. Forum
Hall $1.50

COLLEGE
BOWL II
THIS AINT JEOPARDY MAN.
KANSAS STATE UNION
LITTLE THEATRE
SAT. NOV. 17 9:30 - 5:30
SUN. NOV. 18 1:00 - 5:00

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thursday, November 15, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 58

Talat Rahman, professor of physics, speaks to a crowd of about 200 students, faculty and Manhattan residents in attendance at an anti-war demonstration at K-State Union Plaza Wednesday. Protestors made speeches and used street theatrics to decry foreign policies of the U.S. government and its involvement in the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

Scott Miller, graduate student in history, listens to one of several speakers Wednesday at the anti-war demonstration at Union Plaza.

200 protest against involvement in gulf

Student demonstrators oppose Bush's policy in conflict

By Mary Skinner
Collegian Reporter

A demonstration against U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf drew about 200 people to the K-State Union plaza Wednesday afternoon.

"The actions by the president call for a response," said Talat Rahman, professor of physics. "Unless the people in the U.S. show they don't want a war, it may happen."

The demonstration consisted of short speeches and street theatrics to try to familiarize the audience about the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

One tactic used to familiarize the audience was reading articles about the situation and beginning with "Before I died I read ..." Demonstrators also ended the reading by shouting, "1-2-3-4, we won't fight in Exxon's war" and "No blood for oil."

"We're protesting the United States' administrative policy, not to tell the people over there that we're not with them," Rahman said, "but that the war may be unjustified."

She said most of those involved feel that the United States is heading towards an uncalled-for war.

"We're trying to show that there is public opposition to a war in the Persian Gulf and to sending troops such as the First Infantry Division," said Ed Elder, senior in political science. "They are sent there to fight for freedom and the American way — or is it for low oil prices from greedy sheiks?"

"The actions by the president call for a response. Unless the people in the U.S. show they don't want a war, it may happen."

— Talat Rahman
professor of physics

Kelly Swartley, sophomore in interior design, said the demonstrators were trying to show what can be done by speaking out.

"We need support in Washington," she said.

"We feel that Bush has not looked at other options," Rahman said. "We feel that he has not tried any negotiations."

Bill Bahr, freshman in arts and sciences undecided, said, "I believe that since we live in America, we have the right to have demonstrations like this."

"It could affect each and every one of us," he said. "It brought the war closer to home."

During the protest, Theta Xi fraternity members inside the Union gathered over 200 signatures and messages on a banner to let the troops know they are supported. The banner was filled within two hours and will be sent to Saudi Arabia Friday.

"My brother is over there. I didn't want him and the others that are there to just see the anti-war movement, but to also see how much we support them," Dennis Marstall, junior in political science, said.

"I think that there is a silent majority here that doesn't support the war, but continues to support them while they are there," he said.

The demonstration was organized by Men and Women Against Rape, the Manhattan Alliance on Central America, Students Acting to Save A Vulnerable Environment and the group Political Reactions to Issues of the Modern Order.

Heseltine may oust Thatcher

By The Associated Press

LONDON — Former Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine on Wednesday challenged Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in a six-day war for the leadership of the government and the Conservative Party.

Heseltine, who will stand against Thatcher in a ballot among the 372 Conservative legislators on Tuesday, accused her of splitting the party on Europe and alienating voters with an unpopular local government tax.

The challenge by Heseltine, a handsome, self-made millionaire who espouses a "caring capitalism" in contrast to Thatcher's rigorous free-market views, poses the biggest threat to her survival since she won power more than 11 years ago.

"I am persuaded that I will now have a better prospect than Mrs. Thatcher of leading the Conservatives to a fourth general election victory," Heseltine said.

Kenneth Baker, chairman of the troubled Conservative Party, said the 65-year-old prime minister will fight to the end to keep power — through a possible three ballots ending Nov. 29.

"This contest is unwanted and unnecessary," Baker said. "I am sure she will win on the first ballot."

Said Heseltine: "She would fight her corner. That is wholly admirable."

Other ministers in the 22-member Cabinet said it was wrong to challenge Thatcher now, with some 16,000 British troops in the Persian Gulf and war threatening against Iraq.

Heseltine, who needs 159 votes in the first secret ballot to force a runoff, said more than 100 legislators have pledged support. Thatcher needs 214 votes to win outright.

If a second ballot is needed it will be held Nov. 27 and may well bring in other contenders from the Cabinet, such as Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd. If no one won outright, then a third and final vote among the last three top contenders will be held Nov. 29.

Heseltine, defense secretary until he stalked out of Thatcher's Cabinet in 1986 in a Europe-related dispute, stepped forward a day after her former deputy prime minister delivered a scathing attack on her attitude toward Europe.

The onslaught by Sir Geoffrey Howe, who resigned Nov. 1, appeared to have tipped Heseltine into his long-awaited bid for the leadership.

Heseltine said that if he wins he will order an immediate review of that tax, which he said left "a lingering sense of injustice."

Thatcher is the longest-serving

■ See THATCHER, Page 10

Drug dealers to lose licenses

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — States must suspend the driver's licenses of all convicted drug offenders, or risk losing part of their federal highway funds under newly approved legislation signed by President Bush.

The measure applies to all states and all illegal drugs, including the 10 states where possession of small amounts of marijuana has been decriminalized but is still considered an infraction of the law.

The legislation, included in the transportation-appropriations bill for the current fiscal year, got little attention during the flurry of activity as Congress rushed to leave town at the end of October.

It calls for withholding 5 percent of federal highway funds starting Oct. 1, 1993 from states that fail to impose six-month suspensions on drivers convicted of a drug offense. The cut would increase to 10 percent on Oct. 1, 1995.

About half the states now allow suspension of drug offenders' licenses, but only a few, such as New Jersey, have mandated such suspensions.

Passed Oct. 27 and signed by Bush on Nov. 5, the measure accomplishes, in large part, what national drug-control policy director William J. Bennett tried to impose more than a year ago. But White House chief of staff John Sununu, a former governor of New Hampshire, blocked that effort, arguing that states should be allowed to decide such matters for themselves, free from federal government coercion, administration sources say.

The new legislation contains an out for states that don't want to impose the new rules, but still want their full share of federal highway funds: their legislatures must vote specifically against requiring the license suspensions and their governors must go on record in agreement with that position.

"This forces the states to be accountable," said an administration source, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "We're not going to force you, but if you don't want to do it, you'll have to be public about it."

There is a lot of money at stake. In the current fiscal year, the Federal Highway Administration will distribute some $12.3 billion to the states.

Senators say consultation needed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush clashed Wednesday with leaders of Congress trying to limit his war-making powers, but he assured anxious lawmakers he has not decided to use military force to push Iraqi troops out of Kuwait.

In a two-hour meeting, Democratic leaders insisted that Bush must seek congressional approval before taking military action in the Persian Gulf. He refused to give any such guarantee.

"The president did not indicate either a commitment to do that or refusal to do that," Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell said later.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Bush would follow the Constitution, but he pointedly added, "It's a question of what the Constitution requires."

While acknowledging that only Congress has authority to declare war, Baker said, "There are many, many circumstances and situations indeed where there could be action taken against American citizens or against American interests that would call for a very prompt and substantial response."

Reading from his notes of the meeting, House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., quoted Bush as saying, "We haven't crossed any particular Rubicon here" with the latest increase.

For his own part, Michel said, "I don't look for the kind of action ... some people are anticipating, real soon. We want to continue to counsel with our allies" and the United Nations.

However, Michel said he was distressed that some participants in the meeting with Bush had spoken of waiting up to 18 months for sanctions against Iraq to take full effect. He said that was "far beyond the time frame I thought appropriate."

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., said Democrats were unanimous in counseling patience.

"How long are you willing to wait it out to save lives? My answer is, a fair amount of time."

Baker said the sanctions are working, but they might not be enough to force an Iraqi withdrawal.

Hall will furnish Christmas gifts

Residents donate goods for troops

By Stacey Harbison
Collegian Reporter

Residents at West Hall will be sending care packages to troops in Saudi Arabia through a project called Operation Holiday.

The residents compiled names of friends, classmates, boyfriends and relatives to receive the care packages, said Wendy Benson, West Hall president and sophomore in agricultural journalism.

"They're all people who were originally born and raised in Kansas, but are stationed all over," Benson said.

The residents are sending 15 packages filled with such items as soap, deodorant, toothpaste, razors, cough syrup, toilet paper and mouthwash. Other items being sent are playing cards, Kool-aid, hard candy and stationery. Cigars and coffee were also included.

Cards, letters and pictures were included in the packages. Some sent snowflake cutouts or cartoons to brighten the soldiers' holidays.

Other items included yo-yo's, magazines, crossword puzzles and Christmas stockings.

Residents obtained a list of items needed of the troops from Tracey Frame, freshman in pre-physical therapy. Frame said she received the list from the mother of one of the men in Saudi Arabia.

Each wing of West Hall's five floors were in charge of one or two care packages. The residents donated the items and the hall is paying for postage.

According to the list, there were some items that couldn't be included in the packages. Nothing packaged in a can is being sent because it will explode due to the heat. Christmas cards portraying the Christian religion and chocolate cannot be sent due to Saudi Arabia's religious beliefs, and magazines showing flesh are also forbidden.

Participation in Operation Holiday was optional, Benson said, but said the ones who did donate gave a lot.

Benson and other West Hall re-

■ See CARE, Page 3

BRIEFLY

World

Soviet decree declared void

MOSCOW (AP) — The government said Wednesday it is lifting controls on the prices of luxury goods in an effort to encourage production. Hours later, Russia's parliament declared the decree void in the largest of the 15 Soviet republics.

The move by the Russian Federation set up the latest struggle in the war between the central Soviet and Russian governments. It demonstrated the fragmentation and confusion plaguing the Soviet Union as the base of power moves from the Kremlin to the republics.

The confrontation came despite an attempt Sunday by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and Russian President Boris Yeltsin to patch up their differences on economic reform. The two agreed to set up commissions to decide how to divide authority between the two governments. Yeltsin also claimed Gorbachev agreed to a coalition government.

Nation

Poll shows anti-war feelings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Americans are opposed to the United States going to war with Iraq even if the standoff in the Persian Gulf has not changed by the beginning of next year, according to a poll released Wednesday.

The poll also found that most Americans approve of President Bush's handling of Iraq's takeover of Kuwait.

The national telephone survey of 1,020 Americans found that 44 percent favor continuing the economic sanctions if the situation remains unresolved by January or February.

Fires blacken Montana timber

WOLF CREEK, Mont. (AP) — Hunters fled for their lives, and the governor Wednesday called out the National Guard as a wind-whipped wildfire blackened at least 34,000 acres of timber and grassland near the Missouri River.

After Gov. Stan Stephens issued his call, 40 guardsmen and extra equipment joined 400 firefighters battling the blaze. Other firefighters were brought in from Indian reservations and a prison.

The cause of the fire was under investigation. Authorities believed it started Tuesday night in a hunting camp in the Big Belt Mountains, about 35 miles northeast of Helena.

No injuries were reported.

By early evening, Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Chuck O'Reilly said searchers in aircraft found no sign of trapped hunters. There were no reports of anyone missing.

"Everybody we know of up there is accounted for," O'Reilly said.

Bishops adopt sex guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops on Wednesday adopted their first comprehensive guidelines on human sexuality, portraying it in exalting terms and calling for it to be taught in Catholic schools.

Against some opposition and attempts at delay, the document was approved by a strong voice vote by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

It says sexual education should be taught in schools and parishes as well as in families, a provision strongly opposed by several bishops who said many parents want such education kept in the home. One bishop said families might remove their children from Catholic schools if sex education is required.

Oregon man escapes Kuwait

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — An Oregon State University official escaped from Kuwait after spending 110 days in hiding following the Iraqi invasion, a university official said.

Ernest Briskey, the school's assistant vice president for international program development, had been a senior adviser to the Kuwaiti Institute of Scientific Research.

He went into hiding after the Aug. 2 invasion and was sheltered by friends, Bob Bruce, assistant vice president for university relations, said Tuesday.

Briskey's wife, Marge, received a telephone call Tuesday from the State Department notifying her that her husband had escaped from Kuwait to Amman, Jordan, Bruce said.

Arsenic weapon in murder

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A woman who prosecutors said spoon-fed her boyfriend home-cooked food laced with arsenic while he lay near death was convicted Wednesday of murdering him.

Blanche Taylor Moore still faces trial on charges that she poisoned her first husband and tried to poison her current husband.

Prosecutors said they would seek the death penalty for the 57-year-old woman at Thursday's sentencing hearing.

Prosecutors said during the four-week trial that Moore was driven by a need for money and killed her boyfriend, Raymond Reid, to gain part of his estate.

Moore showed no reaction when the murder verdict was read. The sons of Reid, who died in 1986, embraced and one cried.

Region

Police dig for murder clues

HIGHLAND (AP) — Police planned to dig all night Wednesday after tracking dogs led them to a spot near the former home of a man charged with killing one woman and suspected in the disappearances of two others.

Dogs led officers to a well on the property, where skeletal remains and the body of a St. Joseph, Mo. woman have been unearthed.

Officers Wednesday called for a backhoe and chain saws to begin excavating and clearing brush from around the well. The skeletal remains were found nearby.

The body of Crystal Simmons, 33, was discovered Monday by law officers searching on foot in a wooded slope about 400 yards away.

Marvin Irvin, 41, was charged last week with second-degree murder in the disappearance of Simmons, who vanished from St. Joseph on Oct. 29. Irvin is being held in the Buchanan County Jail.

Area officer to stand trial

JUNCTION CITY (AP) — A former Fort Riley officer was ordered bound over Wednesday to stand trial on charges he tried to have his wife killed.

John Joseph Bettencourt was ordered to appear for arraignment Nov. 26 on a lesser charge of criminal solicitation to commit first-degree murder. Bettencourt had been charged with conspiracy to commit first-degree murder.

The current case against Bettencourt was filed Sept. 28. He first had been charged in August 1989, but the charges were dismissed to allow Geary County attorney Chris Biggs to investigate further.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Announcements

■ Touchstone Magazine manuscripts are in Denison 206 to students who submitted them for publication.

■ Alpha Epsilon Delta, the pre-health professional honorary, will take a tour of the KU Med School Nov. 16. Cars will leave the Ackert parking lot at 7 a.m. and will return about 5 p.m. For more information, contact Alice Jewell at 537-7843.

■ Center for Basic Cancer Research deadline for research award applications is Dec. 10. Applications are available in Ackert 234.

15 Thursday

■ Pre-Vet Club will have mock interviews at 7:30 p.m. in Trotter 201.

■ Social Work Organization will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Kansas State FCA will meet at 8:30 p.m. in the football offices.

■ Agriculture Student Council will meet at 6 p.m. in Waters 137.

■ K-State Table Tennis Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Ecumenical Campus Ministries building on Denison Avenue.

■ PRIMO will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Society of Women Engineers will meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 152.

■ K-State Players will present "Amadeus" at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

■ Women in Communications, Inc. will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 202.

■ Collegiate International Trade Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Calvin 201 to discuss the International Student Exchange Program.

■ ICHUS Christian Fellowship will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 212.

■ Campus Crusade for Christ will meet at 8 p.m. in Throckmorton 131.

■ K-State Ice Hockey Club will meet at 8 p.m. in the second floor lobby of the Union.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

■ AICHE will meet at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

■ Tau Beta Pi will have a meeting for current members at 7 p.m. in Durland 152.

■ Horticultural Therapy Club will meet at 5:30 in Waters 18A.

■ KSU Horticulture Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Waters 244. Toga bowling will follow the meeting.

■ Student Senate will meet at 8 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, mild and mostly sunny. High 70 to 75. Southwest winds 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, partly cloudy. Low in the upper 30s. Friday, partly cloudy and cooler. High around 60.

Which sign are you?

59¢*

Taco
Soft Taco
Bean Burrito
Tostada
Pintos 'N Cheese
Cinnamon Twists

ORIGINAL!

79¢*

Taco Supreme™ Soft Taco Supreme® Chilito
Nachos
MexiMelt®

NEW!

99¢*

Chicken Soft Taco
Steak Soft Taco
Combo Burrito
Nachos Supreme™

NEW!

Now 3 Great New Value Menus!

VISIT TACO BELL AT:
1155 WESTPORT RD.
MANHATTAN

TACO BELL®
RUN FOR THE BORDER.™

*Tax not included

© 1990 Taco Bell Corp.

JOBS

Apply now for spring semester COLLEGIAN
news and advertising positions.
Students in any major are welcome to apply.

News Staff

*These are anticipated openings. Editor will make final list after Nov. 15.

Arts/Entertainment Editor
Campus Editors
City/Government Editor
Editorial Page Editor
Features Editor
Government Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Photo/Graphics Editor

Sports Editor
Copy Editors
Staff Writers
Columnists
Cartoonists
Illustrator
Reviewers
Sports Writers
Sports Columnists

Advertising Staff

*These are anticipated openings. Advertising manager will make final list after Nov. 15.

Assistant Ad Manager
Graphic Artist
Sales Representatives

Campus/Tearsheet Rep.
Photographer
Creative Director

Obtain an application and job descriptions in Kedzie 103.

Application Deadline:

5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 28, in Kedzie 103

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

West Hall staff and governing board members write letters and prepare special care packages from residents Wednesday afternoon in the West Hall lobby. The letters and care packages will soon be shipped to friends and relatives currently serving their country in Operation Desert Shield in the Persian Gulf.

Mike Welchans/Staff

Care

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
sidents put the care packages together Wednesday afternoon.

Paige Graves, junior in history, said her floor came up with the idea while discussing Operation Desert Shield.

The idea was then announced at a Hall Governing Board meeting, and the floor presidents told their floors.

"I think it is a good idea because they're over there helping us, and we should do all we can to help them," said Brenda Morgenstern, senior in management.

Steffany Klaus, junior in family life and human development, said she just found out that a friend of hers was sent over and is contributing to his care package.

"When I heard that he was over there, it was total shock," she said.

Klaus said she didn't know anyone over there before now and is worried that he won't be coming back.

"I'm just hoping that everyone makes it back OK and that we don't have to go to war, especially over Christmas," she said.

Klaus said she hopes her friend will be able to use the items sent to him and that he will share with others because they might not get a care package.

"I think it's a great idea, because they can't buy some of the stuff over there," she said.

Benson said they had more than 15 names, but they didn't have addresses for everyone, so they didn't make care packages for the others.

"I had thought about doing something in February if they're still over there, like a little follow-up, but it would depend on what's going on," Benson said.

Hostility may raise risk of heart attack

By The Associated Press

DALLAS — Hostile teen-agers are likely to grow up to be adults who have high cholesterol, according to a study that finds new links between anger and heart trouble.

For years, many experts assumed that hard-driving, impatient people with classic Type A personalities were at high risk of heart attacks. But many have grown skeptical of this theory, and some now believe that the truly lethal personality trait is hostility and anger.

"People with high hostility at age 19 tend to have high cholesterol levels at 40," Dr. Redford B. Williams of Duke University said Wednesday.

Redford's study was among several presented at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association to suggest that hostile people are more prone to heart trouble — both because of the effects of adrenaline and other hormones in their bodies and their tendency to have unhealthy living habits.

One report from Yale University researchers found that people who react to situations with strong emotions, particularly anger, are especially likely to die of cardiac arrest.

“People with high hostility at age 19 tend to have high cholesterol levels at 40.”

—Dr. Redford B. Williams
Duke University

Redford's study, conducted with Dr. Ilene C. Siegler, was based on a followup 20 years later of 830 people who took personality tests while students at the University of North Carolina in the mid-1960s.

They found that those who scored high on a hostility scale in college tended to have high levels of total cholesterol in their blood but relatively low amounts of HDL, the protective so-called "good cholesterol."

"One explanation for this is the effect of hormones that mobilize lipids from fat stores," said Williams.

When people get angry, their bodies pump out stress hormones, such as adrenaline, which trigger the body to release fat into the bloodstream to provide energy.

"Stress hormones give you a Her-they bar when they fire off," Williams said.

Hostility may work to raise cholesterol and harm the heart in other ways, too. Other Duke research found that alumni who were especially rebellious or hostile were more likely to smoke cigarettes. This suggests that hostile people are less health conscious.

In Williams' view, hostile people tend to be suspicious, as well as easily angered.

"They are the people who, when they stand in the 12-item line at the supermarket, always count how many items other people have," said Williams. "They always suspect that other people are trying to weasel through."

In another study at Duke, researchers set up an experiment to see how people would respond when bothered by a technician while trying to solve word puzzles. Hostile people tended to react by getting angry at the harassment, and their blood pressures rose.

"I think the effects of hostility are preventable, or even reversible" through stress management techniques, he said.

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR FALL
LUBE, OIL (UP TO 5 QTS.), FILTER
MOST POPULAR BRANDS

$15.95

by appointment only

537-1201
1026 Poyntz

Parkside CONOCO & U-Haul

Manhattan Civic Theatre
presents
Nunsense
by Dan Goggin
Directed by Edith Hovick
An award-winning Off-Broadway smash hit.

November 9 - 8 p.m.
November 10 - 8 p.m.
November 11 - 2 p.m.
and
November 16 - 8 p.m.
November 17 - 8 p.m.
November 18 - 2 p.m.
Wareham Opera House ~ 410 Poyntz
537-3646

Applications are now being accepted for the 1991-1992 academic year in some very interesting places. Study for a year or a semester for the same fees as at K-State. Over 100 universities are now available in Africa, Asia, Canada, Latin America and Europe with programs for almost every discipline. For more information contact The Office of Study Abroad, 23 Eisenhower Hall, MWF, 1:30-3:30.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Live Tonight:

The

Salty Iguanas

from Lawrence

702 N. 11th 776-0077 Aggieville, USA

ΣK

WEEK OF GIVING
winner: Alpha Tau Omega

Thanks to the following participants:

ATΩ	AKA	ΔΣΦ	ΔΤΔ
AXΩ	KAΘ	ΓΦΒ	ΠΒΦ
ΠΚΦ	ΚΣ	ΔΔΔ	ΦΓΔ
ΧΩ	ΒΣΨ	ΠΚΑ	ΑΓΡ
ΣΧ	ΣΦΕ	ΣΝ	ΦΗ
ΑΞΔ	ΑΚΑΚ	ΚΔ	ΣΣΣ
ΛΧΑ	ΦΚΤ

Honorable Mention:

AKA & AXΩ: large food donation
KAΘ: Most variety
ΠΒΦ: Winter coats
ΓΦΒ: Sea Mission giving

Distinguished Lecturer Series

College of Business Administration

Presents

Ernest M. Fleischer

Friday, November 16th 10:30 a.m.

Forum Hall

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

Hopeful students able to better world

I am depressed, have taken three showers today, saw a dog die at the wheels of a car, been mean to myself because the world is mean, found myself asleep again by 3 p.m., and now at this great hour, I am typing this column as if it were a 20th century poem, one written not by hand, in ink, on paper, but typed out mechanically like I am expected to live.

I feel like I am doing exactly what is expected — giving up. I feel like I do this daily: make concessions, turn the other cheek, grinning, to turn back around with that smile that I can hardly hold anymore.

The big picture is just too horrifying, so I am attempting to look closely at the freckles on my skin, the abrasions, the birthmarks, anything that exists which is neutral. Are we all so polarized that no glue can hold us together for the sake of peace, for the sake of our mutual humanity?

I am exhausted. I know there are others out there who are exhausted but also believe they must continue to live as we do, pushed, hurried, sleep-deprived, living half-heartedly, not wholeheartedly.

How much do we have to sacrifice to be successful? Are there perhaps other definitions of success that should be seen as legitimate? Why do we believe the establishment? Why do we believe that we must accumulate products of our worth: grades, activities; interesting qualities and experiences that make each of us unique; leadership positions; honors? Are we not unique and complete alone, without the resume?

There has to be more threads to the human fabric than these categories. Yet such qualities as empathy and compassion are intangible and cannot be calculated and placed into the computer as a score. We don't get a cookie for being someone's friend. Women don't get a cookie for being mothers, lovers, or sisters. Men don't get a cookie for being fathers, lovers, sons.

But I don't think that the establishment will ever distribute rewards for activities that don't necessarily promote establishment values like the work ethic, like economic virility, like reason instead of passion.

But I am finding little chips off the old block. Times are changing, at least it feels

Jana Leep

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

that way, and this is my hope. This is the hope that is providing the resilience that I am needing, desperately.

Friends are reading and writing and sharing their poetry with each other.

K-State students and faculty marched through Anderson pounding out their call for redirected priorities.

French high school students are demanding better education, improved security, more teachers and repairs for their crumbling high schools. As cited from the Wichita Eagle, Tuesday, "More than 100,000 French high school students, backed by parents and teachers in their demand for more governmental spending, took to the streets" of Paris.

Ireland has elected their first woman president, feminist and social reformer, Mary Robinson. Robinson has accused the Catholic church, of which she is a practicing member, of being "patriarchal, male-dominated" and of "subjugating women in Ireland."

Students at the University of Texas at Austin elected their first Black Student Association president. As described in "Z" magazine, September 1990, "Tall, dreadlocked and charismatic, Toni Luckett captured the spirit of imagination of marginalized students across race, gender and class lines. Based on the politics of inclusion, Luckett's platform galvanized students as they saw, for the first time, a way their issues could be heard." Her platform appeared with the slogan, "Students Before Profits."

Does this sound remotely familiar? Jonathan Morris, who was a run-off candidate for student body president, used the slogan, "Placing the Student First." Comparing the platforms of Morris and Luckett, it is not necessarily unusual that their issues and concerns run parallel. Students across the nation are beginning to see a deficiency within the college campus environment — a deficiency of activism, of voice, of diversity. And students are beginning to insist that this deficiency be filled. But why did K-State students not choose a fresh, creative, empathetic, passionate, ethical individual as Jonathan Morris for such a leadership position?

I don't understand, but I do understand that student leaders and their political platforms such as Morris and Luckett, chip away at the establishment, but more importantly such platforms provide the glue that we need between us.

A professor told me last week as we were talking about the prevalence of depressed young people, that depressed, hopeless individuals will never revolutionize, will never reconstruct this horrifying world. They must become hopeful and idealistic and then, they will provide the vision, the passion with which to change our sickly campus, state, country, world.

I think the depression is clearing, and with it, a hope for hopeful youth and a changed world.

EDITORIALS

Helms back in office, war on art continues

Voters across the nation were glued to their TV sets last Tuesday during the election coverage. Most were concerned about results from their respective states, but the race for a senate seat in North Carolina was watched closely by all.

When the results were tallied, long-standing Republican senator Jesse Helms retained his job, and challenger Harvey Gantt was left behind.

This left more of an impression on artists and censorship opponents than it did on Democrats. For years, Helms has tried to create a war on art he sees as obscene. Recently he has been gaining support and has sent shockwaves through the art community by demanding Congress reconsider funding certain artists and groups through the National Endowment for the Arts.

On the night of the election, the Cable News Network reported people who attended college were supporting Gantt, while Helms attracted voters who had less education. This is hardly a surprising revelation. It is hard to accept that voters would still support a candidate who favors the banning of music and artwork based on his view of what obscenity is, even after they knew what the ramifications of such censorship are.

The Robert Mapplethorpe exhibit, music by 2 Live Crew and other works have faced such censorship based on what a select few see as obscene.

Such tactics have prompted artists to fight back. Jane's Addiction printed an alternate cover featuring the First Amendment on its latest release. Ironically, the cover also features a label that states the recording contains explicit lyrics.

America is riding on a tide of resentment towards artists who choose to express themselves in ways that are seemingly out of the norm. When the tide is changed and Helms and his like have gone back to fighting more pressing issues, we can breathe a sigh of relief.

LETTERS

Conservation issue

Editor,

At the Nov. 14 protest over U.S. Gulf policies, I handed out some fliers. They stressed something that I thought both opponents and supporters of U.S. Gulf policy could rally behind: conservation.

Imagine my anger and frustration when one man told me he was completely opposed to the protest which, he said in so many words, was a slap in the face of our troops. I tried to explain that in fact, I was not against our troops. While I can't speak for all the people at the protest, I don't think anyone there was attempting to insult or demoralize the soldiers. One speaker made clear the difference between protesting policy (which we were) and people (which we weren't). That speaker was loudly applauded. I tried to explain that I have a close friend who is serving in Saudi Arabia right now.

I tried to explain to this man, who, I hope is reading this right now, that supporting conservation was neither implicitly pro-U.S. gulf policy nor anti-U.S. gulf policy. But he wouldn't listen. "Do you drive to class? Do you have heating in your home?" he asked me belligerently. He wouldn't listen to anything I tried to say and then walked away with a wave of his hand as I asked him if he was opposed to conservation. (Anyone who is opposed to conservation is, ipso facto, pro-waste, consciously or not.)

So, Mr. Open Mind, here are some answers to your questions: No, I am lucky to live close enough to campus, but if I drove, I'd carpool. Now there's a radical concept. I'm sure our troops would be offended by that idea. Oh, yes, I have heating in my apartment. But that is not the point. No one is asking Americans to give up their cars or their furnaces. What lots of people are asking is how can we better use the energy we have — how can we cut down on wasting gas, oil, electricity. If that's unpatriotic then, by God, I approve of that "unpatriotism." If moving America from fossil fuel dependence toward an energy efficient society based on cleaner energy sources is unpatriotic, then I say we need more of it.

But of course these actions are not only good for our country, they are good for the environment and our future. But they are bad for the economy, detractors argue. Sorry, but that's not true. Energy efficiency and self-sufficiency policies in place between 1973 and 1986 worked so well that our GNP grew by 35 percent with no increase in annual energy use and a 2.3 percent decline in carbon dioxide emissions, according to statistics compiled by the Natural Resources Defense Council. (Don't believe me, look it up yourself if you want.) But Ronald Reagan and George Bush (along with a shockingly compliant Congress) dismantled those policies, with the net result being a doubling of U.S. imports of OPEC oil since 1985.

Isn't it ironic that we are poised on the brink of war — primarily to fight for oil, a substance we waste in enormous quantities, a substance that, when burned, contributes to the heating of our climate? I happen to think there are other ways to stop Iraq short of a war (and Iraq must be faced down, no question). We ought to, at least give the sanctions time to work.

In the meantime, let's remember that during WWII people spoke of the "homefront." While troops are deployed for action abroad, what action are we to take on the homefront? Are we to continue wasting resources as if they are inexhaustible? Are we to waste gas because we think it is "inconvenient" to carpool? Are we to refuse to turn down our thermostats to 68 degrees and wear sweaters at home? Is that asking so much?

Our soldiers can't choose what they must do. We can.

Chris Cokinos
staff assistant in continuing education, Regents Telenet

Fliers misleading

Editor,

As a veteran of the U.S. Army, I found the propaganda sheet passed out during the anti-war rally extremely dangerous and seriously misrepresenting.

First of all, I am not a "war monger." I have a brother and a number of close friends heading to the Persian Gulf and I pray that they will not have to fight.

What scares me almost as much as war, however, was the misrepresentation of opinion as fact in the propaganda sheet. The largest misrepresentation is that we alone are responsible for sending men and women to the desert, and that we are only there to protect "our" oil.

Although oil may be part of the reason we are there, are we to forget the people of Kuwait who have been murdered, raped and robbed? What about the American "guests" that are not being allowed to leave?

I also realize that keeping our military in the gulf is expensive, but what they failed to compare is the cost to keep them at home. I also ask the hypothetical question: If the multinational force had not been deployed, where would Iraq be now?

My point is this — please study both sides of the issue from reliable sources before forming your opinion. It is just as dangerous to follow demonstrations blindly as it is to follow orders blindly.

Finally, a personal point, I was offended when they used the blanket statement "A note from veterans ..." As I said, I am a veteran and like many others I have spoken to, do not share those views. Unfortunately this small organization has decided to speak for all of us with a biased tongue.

Doug Miller
junior in business

Smoker poll needed

Editor,

This letter is a response to the letter to the editor in Monday's Collegian from the Union Governing Board chairman.

Believe it or not, the area you are talking about is not on the ground floor of the K-State Union but the first floor.

Although you stated the area was not intended to be a smoking section, there have always been ashtrays on the tables since I have been attending K-State. It only became more obvious when the cafeteria became non-smoking on May 21 of this year.

Do you realize we, the smokers, spend a tremendous amount of money in the Union? We pay fees too. Have you taken a poll to see just exactly how many students and employees do smoke? The Union makes money from the sale of cigarettes and that isn't mentioned. I used to enjoy going to school here but it is beginning to change.

I am speaking for the smokers who you say don't have a place. Is our business that important to you?

Jan Schanbeck
sophomore in radio and television

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venao
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schreiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Waltz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Prese, Amy Hatlock, Kimlin Hatlimothedie, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel, Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
COLUMNISTS	Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seabourn, Kevin Zwink
REVIEWERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welcham, J. Kyle Wyatt
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
EDITORIAL BOARD	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Prese, Eric Henry, Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venao

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR-SHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayne Wall, Allyson Schaff, Amy Sall, Karen Lind, Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Gloria Freeland
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Linda Puntney
BUSINESS MANAGER	Ann Foster
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Jackie Harmon
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Linda Weatherly
OFFICE MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Connie Fulkerson
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Carla Jones
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker, Britt Owen, Deanna Adams, Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christi South, Joe Cook, Minida Dowdy, John Fulkerson, Norm LeComte, James Seymour

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, K-State Hall 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, K-State Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6566. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Program provides study abroad

Exchange students given opportunity to enroll in universities around the world

By Kimis Timotheadis
Staff Reporter

The International Student Exchange Program provides a cheap way for students to study abroad.

Walter Kolonosky, director of K-State Study Abroad, said the University has been in the program since 1986, but in just four years has sent and received more than 100 students.

"Students who participate in ISEP are from different majors and go all over the world," he said. "Students usually want to go to Europe as a whole, Canada or Mexico."

Kolonosky said to apply for ISEP the students must be at least a junior and have a 3.0 grade point average.

He also said at least four semesters of a foreign language would be required. If, for example, the student plans to go to France, four semesters of French are necessary, Kolonosky said.

There are institutions in some countries which have programs in English such as in Belgium, Malta, the Philippines, Hungary and others, he said.

"Students should plan at least nine months ahead," he said. "Applications for the fall semester are due in January."

Kolonosky said that students are asked to choose three universities. If a large number of students apply for a specific university, it becomes more difficult to be accepted there.

"Then, students may be placed at their second or third choices or they may be asked to consider a site they didn't request," Kolonosky said.

Almost all K-State students who have participated in ISEP have been placed at their first or second choices, he said.

Milton Rosa, third-year student in architecture and design, had the opportunity to go to the Technical University of Budapest in Hungary last fall.

"I stayed there from the beginning of September until December," Rosa said.

He said he went to the offices of Study Abroad on other business, but when he saw maps and posters of other countries and universities he decided to apply.

He said the deadline had past, but Kolonosky told him to turn in the applications as fast as he could. Kolo-nosky said he may still be able to go because not many people are interested in going to Hungary.

"I had four choices: Canada, Australia, Finland and Hungary," Rosa said. "In Australia they don't accept exchange students easily. Canada was just next to home. I thought that Finland would be very cold. So, I decided to go to Hungary."

"Because it is a communist country, I thought I would find it very interesting."

Because there are many international students in the Technical University of Budapest, there is an English program offered.

He said he will not be able to transfer a studio class he took in Budapest, but he is now in the process of transferring the other classes.

Rosa said he enjoyed his stay at Budapest and only had some difficulties in the very beginning.

"The first couple days were difficult, but then I got used to the new environment," he said.

If students can afford K-State then they can also afford to study abroad through ISEP, Kolonosky said.

Rosa said he agreed.

Hall recycles cans, papers

By Christy Gritton
Collegian Reporter

Following current ecological trends, Marlatt Hall has started a large-scale recycling program.

Last spring, residents of Marlatt began a program of saving and recycling aluminum cans and newspapers. John Ryan, junior in pre-medicine and program originator, said he hopes all other living groups will follow Marlatt's example.

"Last year, I was doing the whole thing myself, and I was making about two trips a day," Ryan said.

Over the summer, the Marlatt Hall Governing Board spent about $200 on recycling receptacles for the hall which it would normally spend on social events for the hall.

"We decided that instead of spending the money on stuff for ourselves, we should do something for the environment," he said.

Aluminum can receptacles, which are about the size of laundry baskets, are located at the end of each wing and in each lobby of the hall. Although not all of the floors collect newspapers, those that do stack them beside the can receptacles.

"It's working really well," said Dave Young, senior in journalism and mass communications and residence hall assistant. "The guys are really taking an interest in it. Once it was there for them, they took advantage of it."

Each floor has a representative who is in charge of collecting the recyclables and taking them to the Can-Man recycling center.

Can-Man does not pay for newspapers, but it does pay 30 cents per pound for aluminum cans and 35 cents per pound for 100 or more pounds of cans.

Each floor decides on its own

See RECYCLE, Page 8

Have "You"
Had Your Frozen Yogurt
Today??

I Can't Believe It's
Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Towers
Aggieville

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday
Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thanksgiving break display advertising deadlines.

Publication date:

Deadline:

Monday, November 19

Thursday, November 15

Monday, November 26

Friday, November 16

Tuesday, November 27

Monday, November 19

There will be no Collegian on Tuesday, November 20.
Questions? Call your advertising representative at 532-6560.

Dear K-Staters,

Thank you very much for your support during the student body presidential campaign. It has been a pleasure getting to know so many wonderful people. We students must continually look forward and work to make K-State a better university for everyone. Thanks again!

Your friend,
Jonathan Morris

THANKSGIVING SALE

Fall And Winter Merchandise
Up To 60% Off

Sweaters.....as low as $15.00
Sleepwear.....as low as $12.50
Slacks and Skirts.....as low as $25.00
Dresses and Blazers.....as low as $25.00

Woody's
ladies

1225 Moro
Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30
Thurs. till 8:00
Sun. 1:00-5:00

Sale Starts Today

NEVER LOWER!

Reg. $349

NOW

$219

SALE PRICE
(Quantities limited)

CARVER
Powerful · Musical · Accurate

TL-3100 16-Bit/4X Oversampling Remote Control DTL Compact Disc Player · 176.4kHz 16-bit oversampling · Dual analog filters · Digital Time Lens sound enhancement circuitry · 22-track programming · Search, repeat, skip, scan functions · Full-function random access remote control

AUDIO
JUNCTION, INC.

630 Grant Ave.

HI FI-Car Stereo-Video

Car Stereo Installation

Stereo and Video Repair

1-762-4447

Mon.-Fri. 10-7, Sat. 10-5

Fashion
Company

EVERY SINGLE DAY
Save 35-60%

Off Department Store Prices!

SAVE 40%

DETAILS

TEXTURED SHIRTS

Junior & Misses

$12⁹⁹

Compare at $22

SAVE 50%

ONE STEP UP

COTTON LEGGINGS

Many Colors

$6⁹⁹

Compare at $14

SAVE 35%

PRINTED

KNIT PANTS

Elastic Waist

$14⁹⁹

Compare at $23

SAVE 60%

FULLY LINED

FALL SUITS

Junior & Misses

$39⁹⁹

Compare at $100-120

JUNIOR & MISSES
FALL DRESSES

You Babes, My Michelle, Ivy,
All That Jazz, Joni Blair, S. Roberts*

25%-40% Off DEPARTMENT STORE PRICES!

*Not all brands in all stores.

$21⁹⁹ RAYON JACKETS
A Great Career Look!
(Misses 4-14) Value $100

EAST
MANHATTAN

(1/4 Mile East of mall
next to K-Mart)

OPEN HOURS:
Mon.-Fri. 10 am - 6 pm
Sat. 10 am - 5:30 pm
Sun. Noon - 5:30 pm

EAST MANHATTAN

FASHION
COMPANY

1001 E. 11th St.
1st Fl. (East of 11th St.)

DESIGNER AND NAME BRAND FASHIONS FOR LESS!!

Fashion Company

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN SPORTS

Wildcats hold off Czechs

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

If this was a test — and Coach Dana Altman said it was — it consisted of a multiple-choice section, followed by a short-answer and essay portion.

But thank goodness, from a Wildcat standpoint, the test had a few multiple-choice questions thrown in at the end for good measure.

K-State, breaking from the blocks with a solid first-half effort, overcame poor rebounding and an admitted lack of physical conditioning to down the Czechoslovakian Nationals 89-80 Wednesday night in Bramlage Coliseum.

But the Wildcats needed those final multiple-choice questions to make up for their work in the essay portion of the test. Things in the second half, it was safe to say, were a little ugly.

"We looked like the road-weary team instead of the Czechs in the second half," said Altman, who led his team to the win in his first contest as the Wildcat head coach.

As the first half drew to a close, it looked as if Altman's troops would blow the visitors from the Eastern Bloc right out of Bramlage on the gusty wind they met as they arrived in Manhattan.

From the 6:55 mark of the first half until the horn sounded ending play for the first 20 minutes, the Wildcats rattled off 19 unanswered points to make a four-point deficit a 44-29 halftime advantage.

During that stretch, Wylie Howard, who led K-State with 26 points, had six points on a pair of jumpers and a layup. Six different Wildcats scored in the span.

K-State needed every one of those points in the second half, though it

Mike Welchans/Staff

Czechoslovakian center Josef Jelinek loses possession of the ball while being guarded by Wildcat guard Marlon Shadd during K-State's 89-80 victory Wednesday night in Bramlage Coliseum.

certainly didn't look as if it would just 2:16 into the second stanza. K-State, after John Rettiger hit a pair of free throws, increased its halftime edge to 19, 50-31, with 17:44 left.

But from there, the visitors slowly chipped away at the lead, cutting it to just two at 80-78 when Kamil Novak hit a pair of free throws with 3:26 left.

Czechoslovakia's comeback was made possible, in large part, by a stronger effort on the glass. The Czechs, after being outbounded

■ See GAME, Page 10

1-9-2-4, Vyoral 0-2-2-2, Michalko 5-11-1-3 13, Michalik 9-16-6-6 26, Bruby 0-1-2-2 2, Sibak 0-1 0-0 0, Kamenik 4-5-0-0 10. Totals 26-56 20-27 80.

Halftime — K-State 44, Czechoslovakia 29. Three-point goals — K-State 2-5 (Wires 0-1, Zeligler 0-1, Derouillere 2-3), Czechoslovakia 8-14 (Jelinek 2-2, Vyoral 0-1, Michalko 2-4, Michalik 2-3, Bruby 0-1, Kamenik 2-3). Rebounds — K-State 37 (Howard 8), Czechoslovakia 37 (Michalik 7). Assists — K-State 21 (Wires 5), Czechoslovakia 17 (Michalko 6). Total fouls — K-State 23, Czechoslovakia 19. Fouled out — None. Technicals — none. A — 7,195.

Margaret Clarkin/Staff

Junior Center John Rettiger tries to take the ball from Vaclav Bruby of the Czechoslovakian National Basketball Team.

Howard's effort key to triumph

By Dan Wicker
Sports Reporter

Hey, Big Eight schools, can you say Wylie Howard?

Well, K-State basketball fans certainly can after Howard's surprise performance in the exhibition game against the Czechoslovakia National team Wednesday night at Bramlage Coliseum.

Howard went 12-of-16 from the field and 2-of-3 from the charity stripe for a team- and career-high 26 points. Add in his career-high eight rebounds, and you have an all-Big Eight-type performance.

"I didn't even notice it. I was just looking at the scoreboard trying to win that game," Howard said. "I feel great, and I feel like some of my hard work is starting to pay off."

Coach Dana Altman agreed.

"He shot the ball awfully well and rebounded the ball well at times. I thought Wylie did some awfully good things," Altman said. "We knew that Wylie was potentially capable of doing that. He has had some fine scrimmages here early for us."

Also new this year, besides a head coach and an up-tempo offense, is the fact that the K-State big men are shooting the ball from the 15-to-17 foot range. Howard took the new offensive scheme to the bank, scoring from both inside and out.

"That's my game. Coach Altman really pushes me to take that shot at 15 to 17 feet, and get the offensive rebounds," Howard said.

But what was so surprising about Howard's performance is that he has made a complete jump from limited playing time last year, to a starting role on this year's squad. Howard was on the court for 31 minutes, compared to an average of only 7.7 last year.

"I felt a little winded, but I had to suck it up and play hard. They were a good team," Howard said. "Last year, I had a number of seniors in front of me, and this year I have Coach Altman and he really believes in me."

Howard first joined the ranks of Washburn in Topeka out of high school and then transferred to K-State following his freshman season.

After his sophomore season, Altman replaced Lon Kruger, and he sent Howard to play with the Big Eight Select Team in Spain over the summer.

"I would like to thank him for sending me to Spain and getting me some experience," Howard said. "The coaching staff and also my teammates, we are really coming together as a team. We still have some rough edges, but we will get it together."

Howard

The outing Howard produced in the first game of the season probably could not have come at a more opportune time in his career. After suffering a throat injury in practice that ended his season last year, Howard had a few doubts about Division I basketball.

"I had doubts, but Coach Altman coming back and really believing in me, and the coaching staff and also my teammates believing in me really helps a lot," Howard said. "The feeling of being needed that carries over from high school really helps a lot. It is really positive for my teammates to get me the ball and believe that I can hit it from 15 to 17."

NOTE: Steve Fritz, who played for the 'Cats in the 1988-89 season, rejoined the team Wednesday afternoon and will play this season.

Riniker wins again

By The Collegian Staff

The "Lucky Loser" was once again a winner in the DuPont National Clay Court Championships in Panama City, Fla.

Michele Riniker slipped by Melanie St. Pierre of South Florida 7-6 (7-3), 7-5 to stay alive in the tournament.

Riniker was handed a defeat Tuesday that could have ousted her from the field. The DuPont tournament, however, selected Riniker from the eliminated players to replace a qualifier who was unable to continue in competition.

The tournament's "Lucky Loser" is chosen based on performance in prequalifying rounds, said coach Steve Bietau. Having won two earlier matches in the tournament, Riniker capitalized on the second opportunity, beating St. Pierre.

"Michele played well," Bietau said. "She is getting stronger match by match. This is a great experience for her, and she appears to be gaining confidence with every win."

After taking the first set in a tie breaker, Riniker fell quickly behind in the second 4-1. Riniker struggled back to 4-5 and out-fought her opponent in a game that lasted over 20 minutes, Bietau said.

Riniker returns to the court today against an opponent that was yet to be determined. With her victory, Riniker reached the final qualifying tournament's final 16. The top four finishers of the tournament will move to the main bracket of the 32 player DuPont tournament.

Nee feels pressure

Nebraska coach pushes himself to help 'Huskers win

Editor's Note: This is the fifth article in a seven-part series on the Big Eight men's basketball race.

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

The midnight hour could be fast approaching for the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

After a disappointing 10-18 season in 1989-90, Coach Danny Nee admits there is pressure to give the 'Huskers faithful more wins.

But thanks to a roll-over contract, Nee said the heat he feels comes from himself, not administrators.

"It's definitely my pressure," Nee said. "We've got a lot of good basketball players here, and we have to start winning with them."

Job security for Nee may come in the form of eight returning lettermen, including five seniors. Despite being picked eighth in a pre-season poll of Big Eight writers, the 'Huskers have their most experienced team since finishing third in the 1987 National Invitational Tournament.

"Someone has to be eighth, I guess," Nee said. "But we feel that we have more depth than we've ever had before."

"Hopefully, we can use that as motivation."

Senior center Rich King, a 7-foot-2 honorable mention all-Big Eight pick last year, said the wealth of experience should be beneficial.

"If you look back on last year, we won a lot of first halves," King said. "Then, we'd stop doing what we were supposed to, and we lost a lot of our games in the second half. I think you'll see that happen a lot less."

Pre-game introductions will include several other familiar faces besides King's. Three-year letterman Clifford Scales, who scored 12.2 points per game last year, gives the 'Huskers an experienced backcourt leader.

Also back are junior forward Carl Hayes, who averaged 12.1 points, and senior Beau Reid, who is fully recovered after a knee injury limited him to eight games in 1989-90.

Reid led Nebraska in scoring as a sophomore.

"Beau does so many intangible things for us," Nee said. "Even though he wasn't at full strength last year, I felt if we got him back for small amounts of time, he would help us."

That sentiment was shared by Reid's teammates.

"As far as the team's mental approach, he was certainly our motivator," King said. "There were times when we really missed his leadership."

King said another factor that could make the 'Huskers' season sweeter is the absence of doubters on the team.

"There is total faith in Coach Nee's system," King said. "The seniors know we've never totally carried out what he's wanted us to do."

"When we watched films, he would stop to point out all the breakdowns, and all the things we weren't executing properly. It was easy to see why we weren't successful."

Still, Nebraska had flashes of brilliance a year ago. The 'Huskers took then-No. 1 Kansas to the wire at home before losing 98-93. A road win at Colorado kept the 'Huskers from sharing the conference cellar with the Buffaloes, and Nebraska finished strong by giving Oklahoma a battle in the opening round of the Big Eight Tournament.

"It's no big deal to us to be picked last," King said. "Based on our record last year, there's probably no reason why we shouldn't be."

"Teams like us and Colorado have almost everybody back, and I think that could make things a little different. Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas have lost a lot of people to graduation, and you don't know how that will affect them. If it does, we'll be glad to take advantage of that."

Gutty team leader ready for finale on football field

By Todd Fertig
Sports Reporter

To hear Carl Straw comment on his career at K-State, you would think he'd been grinding it out in the pits of the offensive line instead of running up impressive numbers in three seasons as the Wildcats' starting quarterback.

Though Straw ranks ninth on the all-time Big Eight charts for passing in a career and is first or second in nearly every K-State passing category, his demeanor contains none of the flash that his statistics project.

Instead of tossing about the adjectives one usually uses in describing the play of a quarterback, Straw employs those often associated to the play of a fullback. "Hard-nosed," "tough" and "rugged" are just some of Straw's self-proclaimed attributes.

"I don't look at myself as a quarterback," Straw said. "I look at myself as the guy on the field that has to project an image that can give the team somebody to follow."

Though Straw downplays his accomplishments as a quarterback, the statistics he has amassed during his career speak volumes. Straw enters the final game of his career as only the second player in K-State history to throw for more than 5,000 yards.

With a big day passing in the season finale, Straw could crack the top five in Big Eight history for career yardage, as well as move into second place in team history for yards passing in a season.

Side-by-side with Straw in nearly every passing category in Wildcat history is Lynn Dickey, who threw for more than 6,000 yards in 1968-70 and went on to a 15-year career in the NFL.

Safely out of reach is Dickey's career mark, as well as his total of 2,476 yards in one season. Straw, however, holds the top spot on the Wildcat charts for career completion percentage and passing efficiency.

The inevitable comparisons of Straw to Dickey give Straw's accomplishments some perspective, said wide receiver Michael Smith.

"That just shows that we've got a great quarterback," Smith said. "To be compared to someone like Lynn Dickey is quite an honor. It's been something like 20 years since he played here, and yet people are still talking about him. And I think Carl will be remembered in about the same way."

Straw admits that such lofty status would be nice to reflect on when his playing days are over, but said he prefers to put more emphasis on team performance than on statistics.

"Those records will give me something to look back on someday, I guess," Straw said. "I never gave them much thought, though. I always just did what I could to first win the game and figured at the end of the season I could look back and say 'Here's what I did that helped the team.'"

What Straw does for the team goes beyond the records, according to his teammates. The words they use in describing the quarterback are much the same as his own.

"He's a great leader. He's so tough and dependable," receiver Frank Hernandez said. "We watch the films of every game and see all the hits he takes, and yet he always gets back up ready to go. The things he does motivate you to be tough."

Hernandez has been on the receiving end of many of Straw's record-setting passes and said he's seen the quarterback make dramatic improvement through the years. Hernandez and Smith have teamed with Straw to form one of the most dangerous aerial attacks in Big Eight history.

"It makes a big difference when you've played with a quarterback for this long," Smith said. "I always know if I'm open just where he's going to put the ball. If you have confidence in the quarterback, it makes everyone do his job a little bit better. You always look to the quarterback to pull things together."

Straw goes into the game against Colorado Saturday with that same attitude toward personal achievements, even though the game will be his last as a Wildcat. His dream for Saturday doesn't contain any broken records or highlight film-caliber plays, just an upset victory for the team.

"It's a big game for K-State in that it's our last and is against a team that's going to play for a national title. We just want to show people what we can do against a team like that," Straw said. "It would mean more to me for K-State to win a game like that than for me to put up 400 yards or anything else."

Forbidden's latest album offers heavy speed-metal with a twist

COLLEGIAN Report Card "TWISTED INTO FORM" B-

By Alan Wilds
Collegian Reviewer

Forbidden twists new melodies into traditional heavy speed-metal form — or at least it's trying to. Forbidden's new release on Relativity records, "Twisted Into Form," is not a bad listen for heavy metal fans who like an occasional break from the three-chord hyperbeat songs being tossed out by other bands with similar ideas.

Although Forbidden is a band that believes in playing at a fast meter, it makes an effort to show its talent and explore some new ideas along the way.

The first track is a melodic and soothing acoustic-guitar instrumental called "Parting Of The Ways." This is hardly indicative of what is to follow. Without warning, the acoustic ballad erupts into "Infinite," a frenzy of crunch guitars and thunderously fast drums. From this point on, the band has defined their theme for the album.

It's a theme that Forbidden doesn't stray from. A few minor twists thrown in here and there, however, keep the album from being too boring.

The title track shows the band's willingness to try new things. It demonstrates the group's ability to play in different time signatures as well as to carry a tune on a few vocal parts, rather than just screaming hoarsely.

It may seem impossible, but even the music seems to be more melodic than other metal thrashers. This sets Forbidden apart from bands such as Anthrax and Kreator. This album, however, could have been taken a step further in the new direction Forbidden is hinting at.

On at least three songs, vocalist Russ Anderson's voice makes the statement that he can sing well when he wants to, even though Forbidden's style of music doesn't always call for it.

Let's face it — with lyrics that read, "Hate! Churning your face, consumed by fear/Unreal illusion of a perfect world/Twist into form the true abyss/Crushed in the palm of fate's hands," yelling is sometimes a better way to convey the message.

Other members of Forbidden include Craig Locicero on lead and six-string acoustic guitars, Paul Bostaph

■ See FORBIDDEN, Page 10

Police could be accredited

On-site assessment set in December

By Mary Skinner
Collegian Reporter

The Riley County Police Department could become the first Kansas police force to be internationally accredited.

International accreditation for the police department will be determined after an on-site assessment during the first week of December.

"It's the same idea as behind achieving a degree at an accredited university," said Lt. Dana Kyle, RCPD. "You want the type of program that guarantees professionalism and also lets future employers know what type of classes and training you had."

Capt. Steve French said the department can ensure the taxpayers that they are getting what they expect.

Liability is also a reason agencies look into accreditation.

"The liability cost of police departments has gone up," said French. "Some companies covering liability are giving breaks to those that are accredited."

Kyle said another advantage to accreditation is legal protection in case of a lawsuit. If an agency is involved in a suit, witnesses from the accreditation team can assist by stating that all of the policies and procedures can be upheld in court.

The Accreditation Program

Book states that the accreditation concept is a voluntary, self-motivated approach in which organizations seek to achieve, objectively verify and maintain high quality in their operations through periodic evaluations by an independent, non-governmental body that has established standards for the organization.

The 940 standards for police department accreditation were established by four major law enforcement executive membership associations: The International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives, the National Sheriffs' Association, and the Police Executive Research Forum.

Out of the 940 standards, departments meet the standards that relate to the size of their agency.

"Approximately 750 standards need to be met by our agency," Kyle said. "Most of these standards deal with the way you run an agency, not the line officers."

The accreditation commission requires the agencies to meet standards dealing with policy and procedures, administration, operations, and support services.

"Most of the work occurs in revising the policy and procedures manual since it affects the way

■ See POLICE, Page 10

Schools invited to weekend festival

By Shannon Meyers
Collegian Reporter

The fine line between education and entertainment will be blurred this weekend when the Kansas State Choir joins with six high school choirs from across the state to participate in the Flint Hills Choral Festival.

Festival director Rod Walker, professor in music, said the purpose of the festival is to create a help environment in which constructive commentary is available to choirs.

"Many times in competition the critiques are not necessarily constructive," Walker said.

There is no admission charge for the festival, which will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday in the K-State Union Ballroom.

Choirs from Manhattan, Emporia, Great Bend, Paola and Winfield high schools as well as Sumner Academy will perform two or three selections each. They will then receive basic feedback on choral skills.

The K-State Choir will sing at 5 p.m. The program will conclude with all of the schools performing "Away in the Manger" and "Daughters of Zion."

Ten high schools were invited to participate and the first six to reply were chosen. High schools invited are chosen randomly from across the state and different leagues.

"The festival is good for recruiting," Walker said. "It gets students on the campus."

It also gives instructors something to work on during the beginning of the year, before the choral season is in full swing," he said. "The idea behind this is that the individual choirs could perform these pieces in their own concert programs."

Guy Webb, professor of music and coordinator of choral studies at Southwest Missouri State University, will serve as the guest conductor-clinician at the festival.

"We select conductor-clinicians on the basis of their program's success and their ability to communicate with students," Walker said.

"This is set up to be like a clinic where students and band instructors can learn new techniques to improve their choir's performance," he said.

Each school's performance, along with constructive commentary, is videotaped. The tape is a teaching aid for instructors to use in their classrooms.

K-State students can attend the festival and receive recital credit for helping with it. There will be booths set up to promote K-State and the choir.

"By observing the groups sing and listening to the clinician students can learn a lot," Walker said.

The festival is supported by the Master Teacher Institute for the Arts, the department of music and the Fine Arts/Athletics Fee.

SANCHOS & BURRITOS 98¢ each
(reg. $1.50)
TACO DINNERS $1.77
(reg. $2.50)
Good through 11-17-90
TACO HUT
"Where Good Friends Get Together"
2809 Clafflin
On the hill overlooking Westloop, 539 2091
Open Sun. Thur 11 am-10 pm
Fri & Sat 11 am-12 midnight

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.
Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams • Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases. Providing quality health care to women since 1974.
Insurance, VISA & Mastercard accepted.
Comprehensive Health for Women
4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)
Overland Park, Kansas
For information and appointments (913) 345-1400
Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

ONE HOUR MOTOPHOTO
PHOTO PROCESSING AT ITS BEST
40% off Processing (C-41)
Expires Dec. 15, 1990
29¢ Reprint Special (35mm, 110, 126, Disc)
Expires Dec. 15, 1990

1134 Gardenway C-30
Across from Westloop 776-9030
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Saturday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
HUNAM EXPRESS
1118 MORO
537-0886
This coupon good for
Orange Beef $2.50
not good with any other special, promo, delivery
Free Delivery with min. $9 order
Open 11 a.m.-1 a.m.
Expires 11/21/90

Joyce's Hair Tamers
WARM & GENTLE PERM .. $43
regular $48
QUANTUM PERM.....$35
regular $38
MEN'S PERMS.....$30
All perms include cut & style
Haircuts
Gals $12 Guys $8.50 Kids $6.50
All cuts include shampoo and style
2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Call 539-TAME

Nantilem $79.95
Total Fitness Center
for membership
Now till end of May 1991
2 for 1 membership sale still going on until Nov. 18
1100 Moro Aggieville Serving Manhattan since 1981 776-1654

Mechanic on Duty 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday - Friday
Full Service Self Service Gas
Frank's "66" Auto Service
17th & Poyntz 537-2480
Free Estimates
Cooper Tires
Alternators Brakes Exhaust Repairs
Batteries Shocks Oil Change
Starters Tires Tune up
Winterizing Transmission
Credit Cards Accepted
Phillips 66 Visa Mastercard Discover American Express

Show your support!
Join KSU Friends of the Libraries
Membership week November 12-16
Memberships begin at $5 students, $25 others
More information at Farrell Library Lobby or David Margolies, 532-6154

BLUE RIVER PUB
SAT., NOV. 17
ANTHONY AND THE ANIMALS
PARTY WITH THE LIVE ROCK-N-ROLL AND TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR SPECTACULAR DRINK SPECIALS!!
18 TO ENTER, 21 TO DRINK

BARN DANCE
—Everyone Welcome—
Fri., Nov. 16; 9 p.m.-1 a.m.
Blue River Pub
Sponsored by Alpha Zeta
$3 single/$5 couple
18 to enter/21 to drink

Lady Cats vs. Australian Junior National Team
Friday, Nov. 16, 7 p.m.
*Students Free with K-State I.D.
*Adults $3 *Children $1
Tickets Available At the Door

Fast for a World Harvest
that others may eat . . .
On Thursday, November 15th
Skip one, two or three meals, (or that day's junk food) and donate the money to Oxfam, America. Tables will be set up near the Union Cafeteria and in Danforth Chapel.

Snookies
75¢ Wells
25¢ Draws
776-7726 • 1122 MORO • Upstairs

Recycle

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5
how to spend the money it receives from recycling. Ryan's floor has spent its money on additional large receptacles where cans are stored until there are 100 pounds, which are then recycled for 5 cents more per pound.

Young said, "Right now we're just sort of sitting on the money."

When his floor collects a considerable amount of money, his floor will vote on what to do with it, Young said.

Ryan said that the recycling process is an excellent opportunity for people to earn some money while at the same time helping a vulnerable environment.

Recycling one aluminum can saves 95 percent of the energy that would be used to make another can from iron ore. And when a four-foot stack of paper is recycled, a 40-foot pine tree can be spared.

Since the entire hall started the recycling process in September, Ryan said his floor has made $70 off of aluminum cans. He also said the floor has collected 3,000 pounds of paper over the last three weeks.

Ryan said, "We want to get to where all the floors are recycling paper and possibly plastic and glass."

We Take Tips!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

532-6556

Kedzie 103

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs—skincare—glamor—nails—gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

ATTENTION: FACULTY, staff and students, the phone number for the Contract Post Office is 532-6306.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! You receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

Interested in Study Abroad?

Collegiate International Trade Association
CITA

Presents
Dr. Walter Kolonosky

"The International Student Exchange Program"

Thursday, Nov. 15, 1990 at 7:30 p.m. in Calvin Hall, Room 201

All interested students are invited!

LUNCH IN: Olsburg, on Nov. 17, Brick's and Kaffe Hus. Come to the most unusual craft show in the area. Tallgrass Prairie Art and Craft Sale, 10a.m.—4p.m. Olsburg Grade School.

Manhattan Creative Arts Guild

12th Annual Christmas Arts Festival
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1990
9 a.m.-4 p.m.
Pottorf Hall-Cico Park

50° Tacos
99° Margaritas
105 N. 3rd • 776-9879

Don't Forget
99°
Pitchers
Tonight
only at
Baystreet

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

532-6555

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.
SCHOLARSHIPS/GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

THE OSAGE House invites you to enjoy Indian carryout tonight for under $4. Call 776-1234, 2605 Stagg Hill Road.

Hardee's DELIVERS
537-2526

2 Apartments—Furnished

CHRISTIAN FEMALE looking for female to share two-bedroom apartment two blocks west of campus. Laundry, $100 plus utilities. 539-6871.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM, $190, available Dec. 1. Water, trash paid. Ground level, wood floors, off-street parking. 539-3125.

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

QUIET WELL-MAINTAINED one-bedroom, furnished apartment with laundry and patio. Opening Dec. 15. Prefer employed person or graduate student. $245, year lease. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. 537-9666 for application.

SUNNY, SPACIOUS one-bedroom. Recently carpeted. Close to campus and downtown. Available Jan. 1, 1991. Non-smoker. No pets. $275 per month plus utilities. Please have references available. Call Gloria, 539-4915, after 5:30p.m.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JAN. 1—Spacious two-bedroom, bathroom, central air, dishwasher. Call after 6p.m. 776-0269.

NICE, QUIET, spacious one-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Need to take over lease, expires Jan. 1. Renewable with landlord's approval. $295 a month plus utilities. Call 539-5173.

ONE-BEDROOM in Wildcat Inn near campus. Water and trash paid, $325. Laundry facilities. No pets. 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January. Two blocks from campus, water and trash paid, $260. 776-7320.

ONE-BEDROOM, SUNSET, College Heights location. $285, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR Aggieville. Available December. $280 water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus for couple or family. Washer/dryer hookups. Requires own refrigerator and stove. $300. No pets. 776-3804.

4 Apts.—Furn. or Unfurn.

AVAILABLE NOW. Quiet, convenient locations, various sizes, off-street parking. Absolutely no pets. 539-4087.

QUIET, REMODELED, efficiency apartment, 1131 Vatter, one block from campus, $280 per month, lease required, beginning about Jan. 1. Call Professor McGuire 776-5682 evenings and weekends.

Brittany Ridge Townhomes

—More Than Your Basic Apartment—

- 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, study room
- Wired for cable, phone, computer
- Hot tubs & volleyball court
- Bus service to campus
- Monthly rent as low as $195

DWC

Dan Weir Co.

2601 Anderson Ave. 776-5599

5 Automobile for Sale

1966 MUSTANG Coupe. 289 V8, auto, $3,800. Call 776-7299.

1981 PONTIAC Gran Lemans station wagon, 109,000 miles, 3.8L V-6, good tires, reliable, $750. 539-8459.

1985 CALAIS: Gunsmoke gray, $3,200. 539-9173.

6 Child Care

NANNIES: COME experience life in the east while doing something you enjoy—caring for kids. Call now for application. Nannie Network Inc. 1-800-US-NANNY.

NEED COLLEGE student to do childcare in my home. One 4-year-old. Tuesday and Thursday, 11:30a.m.—6p.m. Beginning Jan. 8. 537-3380.

7 Computers

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies. Hull Business Supplies, Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac IIx, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below book store. Call 539-0801 or come by 1115 Westloop.

IBM COMPATIBLE XT dual floppy, monochrome monitor, printer. Software and manuals, $800. Call 537-8664.

8 Employment

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution.

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

ATTENTION: ACCOUNTANT: We have an immediate opening for an individual with a bachelor's or master's degree in business, accounting or finance. Experience in hospital reimbursement, audits, cost accounting, development of department and hospital-wide budgeting, cash flow, investments and integrated computer systems is required. Competitive salary and benefits. Please send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

(Continued on page 9)

BLUE KEY THANKS Homecoming 1990 Sponsors

Kwik Shop	Ballard's Sporting Goods
The Loft	Manpower Temporary Services
Lowman's	Manhattan Town Center
JC Penney's	Long John Silvers
Subway	Kites Bar & Grill
Clyde's	Kentucky Fried Chicken
The Sound Shop	Sirloin Stockade (E.Poyntz)
Pyramid Pizza

Participants are welcome to the
HOMECOMING EVALUATION MEETING
Nov. 18, 6:30 p.m. Union 209

CPI photo finish

one hour photo

Save 50%

on color processing & 4x6 prints
Each picture is the best it can be or we reprint it free... now!

Film Developing
50% off
regular one-hour price
No limit on number of rolls discounted.
Offer applies to first set of color prints only.
Print length varies with film size. Call in lab process, not combinable with other processing and print offers.
Coupon good through Feb. 2, 1991

CPI photo finish

one hour services: photo finishing • enlargements • reprints • double prints also available: wallet photos • instant color passport photos • video transfer • copies from prints • cameras and accessories • film

Christmas CPI Film Sale!
SAVE 25%
when you buy 3 or more rolls
Example Prices: (35mm • 24 exp.)
3 100 ASA...$6.95 (reg. $9.27)
3 200 ASA...$7.85 (reg. $10.47)
Rolls 400 ASA...$8.75 (reg. $11.67)
Buy 3 or more rolls of 35mm CPI color print film (24 or 36 exposures) and get 25% off the regular price. Choose from 100, 200 and 400 ASA, max or match. Not combinable with other film offers.
Sale ends Dec. 24, 1990

Manhattan Town Center
main entrance by food court

FORMAL AFFAIR
union ball room
nov. 17 8pm-1am
advance tickets
6-person
10-couple door-10 person
for more info call
Carollee Moore
537-3524

AMADEUS
by Peter Shaffer
Don't Miss It!

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17
Tickets: McCain
Box Office
532-6428

THE HASSLE FREE WAY TO KCI

SCHEDULE

Depart MKH Airport	Depart Town East	Arrive KCI	Depart KCI	Arrive Town East	Arrive MKH Airport
3:30 am	3:45 am	6:00 am	7:00 am	9:30 am	9:45 am
5:30 am	5:45 am	8:15 am	9:30 am	12:00 pm	12:15 pm
7:45 am	8:00 am	10:30 am	11:30 am	2:00 pm	2:15 pm
9:45 am	10:00 am	12:30 pm	2:00 pm	4:30 pm	4:45 pm
12:15 pm	12:30 pm	3:00 pm	4:00 pm	6:30 pm	6:45 pm
2:15 pm	2:30 pm	5:00 pm	6:00 pm	8:30 pm	8:45 pm
4:15 pm	4:30 pm	7:00 pm	7:30 pm	10:00 pm	10:15 pm
			10:30 pm	1:00 am	1:15 am

Holiday Travel?

Sit back and relax. The airport is only a nap away. Or listen to our stereo while reading a magazine. Forget the traffic. Forget the parking problems. Take Traveler's Express to KCI.

539-2284
or 1-800-383-2817
or contact your travel agent

TRAVELERS EXPRESS
Owners: John & Susan Furney
Town East Shopping Center
463 East Poyntz, Manhattan, KS 66502

TONIGHT!
.99
PITCHERS
.75
LONGNECKS
.50
WELLS
.25
KAMIS

BAYSTREET
AND
THE PIT

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND THRIFTY THURSDAY

PYRAMID PIZZA rolls back the prices
Only $3.49 for a small pizza (one topping)
(additional toppings are 75¢ each)

Coupon
"THRIFTY THURSDAY"
$3.49 for a Small
One-topping Pizza
Good Every Thursday
"We Pile It On!"
PYRAMID PIZZA

HEALTHY APPETITE? TRY A SUBWAY SALAD.

Subway salads are always light, always made with the freshest ingredients. Top them off with your favorite dressing and you've got the best of all light meals. So if you've got a healthy appetite, try a Subway salad today.

Buy a Turkey, Ham, Roast Beef or Club, Regular salad AND small (22 oz.) Drink for $3.49 plus tax
620 N. Manhattan Ave. in Aggieville
537-8700
Not good in combination with any other offer. One coupon per customer. Expires 11/30/90

SUBWAY

(Continued from page 8)

ATTENTION: LABORATORY Personnel. Immediate openings for a MT(ASCP) or equivalent and Medical Laboratory Technologist MLT(ASCP) or equivalent. Full-time and part-time openings. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

ATTENTION: PHYSICIAN and Allied Recruiters: We have an immediate opening for a mature, self-motivated individual who presents a positive image. Must have a bachelor's or master's degree and experience in position relations. Sales and marketing experience is preferred. Will develop and track computer driven physician and allied health care professional database. Competitive salary and benefits. Send resume to: Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Cathy Witt, P.O. Box 490, Junction City, KS 66441. E.O.E.

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-615-473-7440 ext. B 288.

EXPERIENCED ILLUSTRATOR wanted to freelance for local advertising agency. Airbrush preferred. Leave resume/sample work at Box 4, Collegian.

HELP WANTED: Roof truss fabricating plant, 5107 Murray Road.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details. 1-805-687-6000. Ext. B-9701.

HOUSEPARENT WANTED: Good job for student spouse. Live and work in group home caring for five or six children wards of SRS. Need parenting skills and ability to work with teenagers. Mature person required. Week on, week off. Good salary and fringe benefits. Spouse my live in free. Job site: Alma, Kansas. Call house staff 1-765-3627. E.O.E.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS: CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS: All branches. U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

MANHATTAN COUNTRY Club is now accepting applications for waiters/waitresses. Applicants must be at least 20 years of age, have two years experience and be available every evening. Apply in person, 1531 N. 10th, ask for Dan.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGIST needed to fill full-time position in progressive clinical reference laboratory. Excellent benefits, competitive salary and no call. Call Carol at 539-5363. E.O.E.

NANNIES, LIVE-IN positions: East Coast, Airfare, great salaries. Fun social activities. Carefully screened families. Individualized attention. Princeton, NJ. 609-497-1195.

NANNY OPPORTUNITIES. "San Francisco—one girl—$150/week" "Southern California—newborn—$175/week" "Connecticut—infant—$180/week" "Boston—one girl—$160/week" "Virginia—two children—$225/week" Many positions available. One-year commitment necessary. Call 1-800-937-NANI.

STUDENT WITH work-study available to work 15-25 hours per week in the Enrollment Center. Computer experience required. Apply in Willard Hall, Room 210.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalspell, MT 59901.

WORK IN beautiful Colorado mountains this summer at Cheley Colorado Camps summer program. R.N.s, drivers, office, wranglers, nanny, kitchen, song leaders, riding, hiking, backpacking, sports, crafts counselors. Campers age 9-17. Room and board, cash salary, travel allowance. Our 71st summer! Must be at least 19 to apply. Applicants will be notified of campus interview date. Apply to Cheley Colorado Camps, Box 6525, Denver, Colorado 80206, 303-377-3616.

WORKING WOMAN or student to live with elderly lady. Room and board in exchange for household duties. 539-2755.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits. 15-80K+.

Free Information
Call
Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

WORD PROCESSOR—15-20/week— Available immediately. KSU student with excellent word processing skills and motivation to use technology needed. 40-50 wpm. WordPerfect experience and computer skills a plus. Pick up application in computer systems office, 211 Umberger Hall. Application deadline 11/27/90. For more information call 532-6270.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

John Rarr carries a globe to divert people's attention from the fact that his jeans are on backwards.

11-15 ©1990 Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

9 Food Specials

Thursdays
Booga Booga Night
Any Burger and Fries Only
$1.99 + drink specials for the ladies
16 oz. Mason Jar of draft $1.25
539-1571

11 Garage and Yard Sales

SATURDAY 9a.m.—3p.m., sinktop, cabinet, jewelry, toys, household goods, clothing—sweaters, miscellaneous. 2016 Thackeray.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: TEN-SPEED bicycle. To claim, call 532-6448 and identify.

FOUND: WHITE short-hair cat about 6 months old, blue eyes. Found around Marlett Hall. Call Brian 532-3925.

LOST: SHARP calculator Tuesday 11/6/90 in CW. Call 537-7809 after 5p.m.

STILL MISSING: Gray and white tabby cat. He has circles on sides. 537-4430 leave message.

15 Meetings/Events

ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY Students, "Does Engineering Technology have a future?" Dean Rathbone will speak on the proposed merger to the department of —Engineering Technology—Date: Thursday, Nov. 15th, Time: 6p.m., Place: Seaton 161. All E.T. Students are encouraged to attend. Immediately following the Speech, KSET will hold a brief meeting to discuss—Open House Kick-Off Party Date: —Fresh/Soph Comm. Committee. Any questions, call Race Profit 539-5515.

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

12x65 MOBILE Home, two-bedroom, shower, new carpet, wallpaper and inoleum, washer, dryer, big yard, excellent condition. Take possession over Christmas, $7,500. 539-8694.

SALE, TWO-BEDROOM, appliances, large awning. Cute home. Payments $139.64. Set up close to campus. Countryside, 539-2325.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

1985 KDX 200, excellent condition, many new parts. Riding gear. 539-3945.

1986 SUZUKI Intruder. Excellent condition. Call Sean or leave message at 539-7960. $1,800 or best offer.

1989 CR125— Better than new, modified, must see. 539-6363. Joel.

CENTURION IRONMAN expert racing bike, excellent condition. For information call 776-5676.

MOUNTAIN BIKE, 1989 Diamondback Ascent EX with accessories. $325. Call Dan 532-4519 or 776-7151.

TREK 820 18-speed, $35 Cromoly construction, white with blue graphics, 16.5 inch frame, good condition. $200, accessories extra. 539-2942. Erin.

MOTORCYCLE SUPPLY

Red Baron Goggles $9.95

Winter Leather Gloves $26.58

1221 Mon • 776-6177

19 Music/Musicians

FOR SALE: Sholtz Rockman soloist portable guitar amplifier. Brand new. 776-8317.

21 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

ATO DAN— I really did have to pee. Hope your test went well. Smile—Melissa.

ATOS— DESSERT was great, your V-bell was hot. Your ADPI friends miss you a lot! Homecoming was the Best! Love, the Pis.

BECKY AKA Mouth aka Lima Bean. How about a banana split or some brownies. B.B. Shadow.

BUBBLE BUTT: I will miss you and Loretta very much over break. I love You. Scratch.

25 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

CAST AND Crew Amadeus Foodbar! Don Giovanni thanks a million you guys and gals are the best. Love, Mend.

EVERYONE, DANCE at the Pub Friday night, come out and Party. AZ.

HAYMAKER ESCORT— I apologize for blasting you. I should have gone after the phone guy. See it my way—it was dark, very cold and I got mad. I'm sorry I look it out on the wrong person. —Cyndi.

HAZEL EYES, Here's the personal you always wanted. Happy 8-Day. Love, Brown Eyes.

HEY, VERNO— You're the best! I love you! Someday soon.... Your Geritol.

JB—YOU'RE sweet, cute, 21, and you're mine! Happy Birthday! I have special gifts for you later. Love, Sweet Petunia.

KAT, HERE'S to midnight walks, the Topeka Zoo, late night talks, and you. P.S. Nice guys really do exist.

LEE-ANNA-BANANA— I hope you had a good 8-day. Only 364 days until the big one. Love, Ted.

NTAJEEP: SAY hi to James Day. Hi, James! Bec & Kris.

OGNIB MEN— Bingo for tonight has been cancelled because of lack of interest. Instead, meet us at our Aunt's place at 6p.m. Love, OGNIB women.

REBECCA— I would like to see The Rules in action—James, The Underworld.

SNOWBUNNY— AS your 24th comes, We'll be leaving soon. To bubble noses and buns, From dusk till noon! Love, Lili devil.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

55-GALLON AQUARIUM. Lionfish, eel and two Damsels in salt water, all chemicals and extras. $275. 776-2497.

55-GALLON SALT water aquarium. Complete setup includes Wet Dry drip filter. $450. 537-8252.

FERRER for sale. Five months old and very lovable. Landlord found out—Must Go Paid $130. Make offer. 776-8677.

23 Resume/Typing Service

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years.

We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters, $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Clafin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/letters/resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

TYPING USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Call Judy at 539-7100.

WORD PROCESSING/ Typing. $1.25 D/S page. 776-9636 after 3:30p.m. or leave message on answer machine.

24 Roommate Wanted

AVAILABLE SPRING semester, nice new room at Woodway Apartments. $168 plus utilities, after 5:30p.m. 537-8288.

BE MY roommate: Clean, modern apartment. Female, Christian, non-smoker. $175. 539-3459. Available now.

CHRISTIAN FEMALE at KSU is looking for female to share apartment spring semester. One and one-half blocks from campus. Rent $155 plus one-half utilities. Call Carina (913) 537-0772.

FEMALE, MUST love pets $192.50 a month plus utilities. Shuttle service. Call Karen, 776-1286.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, one and one-half block from campus, Aggieville, $200, water, trash paid. One-third other utilities. Jan. 1. Lani 776-5492, leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed, $135 a month plus utilities. Own room. Call 539-4611.

FEMALE ROOMMATES wanted for Jan. 1 to May 31. Close to campus. $138.75/ month. Call 539-2919.

FEMALE ROOMMATE immediately. First month's rent free. One block from campus. Own bedroom and bathroom. Call 539-0437.

MALE NON-SMOKER to share three-bedroom. $120 plus utilities. 539-3690.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Close to campus. $140/ month, one-half utilities, own room. Ask for Matt or Larry. 776-9443.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Next to City Park, $140/ month plus utilities. 776-1745.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share brand-new three-bedroom apartment at 1850 Clafin. Call 539-2999 for details.

MALE ROOMMATE to share three-bedroom house. Must see to appreciate. Close to campus. $186.67/ month, one-third utilities. Spring semester. 539-3563.

NEED IMMEDIATE, responsible, female roommate, spacious two-bedroom apartment, own bedroom with bath, dishwasher, washer/dryer. $187.50, one-half utilities. Leave message, 539-7029.

ONE, NON-SMOKING female for January. $147.50 month plus one-fourth utilities. One-half block from Ahearn. Nice. No deposit. 776-9026.

ONE ROOMMATE to fill luxury townhome, three fun-loving roommates. Own room. Has everything. $195. 776-2497.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate wanted: four-bedroom house, own room, two blocks from campus. $135/ month. 776-1252.

25 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Grinnell, Kansas 67338. Confidential response will follow.

26 Stereo Equipment

JVC STEREO receiver with surround and remote. Almost new! Weight bench and weights. Great price on both. Call Jeff 539-6754.

SONY CD $580 car stereo CD player pullout, Sony XE-90 equalizer. Both like new for $550 or best offer. 537-3229.

27 Sports/Recreation Equipment

SKIS— K2 Gyrators, size 175 cm. Kevlar/ Ceramic bases, colorful graphics. Brand new, never skied. Listed last year for $295. Sell for $100 or best offer. 537-1505.

28 Sublease

AVAILABLE SPRING semester. Two-bedroom apartment two blocks from campus. 776-4782.

DON'T MISS! Male/ female— Quiet, new building across from Marlett Hall— Own bedroom, half-bathroom! Two fantastic male roommates! Call Kathy today! 776-4107.

FEMALE, SPRING semester, furnished house. Lease ends in May. Washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable. Any 537-3886.

GREAT TWO-BEDROOM apartment for spring! 1212 Blumont. Rent plus utilities. Terrific location! 776-0797.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath, washer/ dryer, fireplace, beautiful view. $405/ month. Call 776-2422 anytime.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share spacious, furnished apartment. Two and one-half blocks from campus. $175 plus utilities. 539-5351.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM apartment for sublease! One block from campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. 539-7228.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM furnished apartment. Very close to campus. One and one-half baths. Dishwasher. $380/ month. January— May. 539-5961.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Efficient, water and trash paid, appliances. Deck and near Aggieville. 537-2424.

SPACIOUS ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, balcony. Next to campus. Available January. Call 537-8647 after 6p.m.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for sublease second semester, unfurnished, brand new. Call 776-6191.

31 Tutor

FORMER KSU English instructor will proofread and/or edit your term paper, thesis, or dissertation. Reasonable rates. Call 539-5637 and leave message.

TUTORING IN Modern and Classic Greek, emphasizes the more formal language (Katharevousa) used in official documents and in the conservative press. Open to anyone, call Aki Barnham, phone 776-8128.

33 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103 $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity— Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies between 8a.m.— 5p.m. 776-1223, after 5p.m. 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS— Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday— Saturday 9a.m.— 5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon— 4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

New Sunbed Tanning 10 for $15

HARDBOODIES GYM

Laramie Plaza Basement 539-7095

JIMS JOURNAL merchandise T-shirts, boxes, mugs. Send for free catalog. Ameriprint Features, P.O. Box 680, Marshall, WI 53559 or call (608) 655-4248.

NEED TO sell, Oceanic 30-gallon tank and custom stand, includes everything you need except fish. Very Nice. Make offer. Call 776-2422.

TV—MAGNAVOX, 24" sq. screen, remote, cable ready, stereo hookup— like new. Call 776-2422.

TYPEWRITER— BROTHER AX io. $90, as new. 776-7885 leave message.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels, $75; portable Phonola photograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 8p.m. If no answer, leave message.

34 Photo Equipment

SPOTMETERS— AS new: Pentax V $125; Gossen Ultra Spot F $350; Also Nikkor lenses $011.4 $185; $812.0 $225; 300 14.5 F-ED. 776-7885 weekdays. Leave message.

Crossword

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Frat-party garb
5 Glutton
8 Navigational aids
12 "No man — island"
13 St. crosser
14 Troop group
15 Ms. Fitzgerald
16 Hideaway
17 Linger
18 It ain't worth a nickel
20 Duel tool
22 Ali's words
26 Moch
29 River island
30 Semiformal attire
31 Ethereal
32 Terrycloth term
33 Where heroes are made
34 White House monogram
35 Slippery sort

36 Toulouse top
37 Bun bit
40 Webb of the NBA
41 Big people
45 Marina sight
47 Suitable
49 Like Fonzie
50 Farm fraction
51 Luau music-maker
52 Salad fish
53 Without: suffix
54 Author Deighton

55 Goblet feature DOWN
1 Requiring extra innings
2 Norway seaport
3 Chutzpah
4 Comparison
5 San Diego athlete
6 " — Got a Secret"
7 A good beginning?
8 Mythological ninesome
9 Welcome picnic
Solution time: 23 mins.

10 Lindstrom
11 Slovenly home
19 Mimic
21 Favorite
23 Hardware — purchase
24 Army mascot
25 Access to daylight
26 Scoundrelly folks
27 Helper
28 Bedroom furniture
32 Paying attention
33 Does subtraction
35 Aussie avian
36 Foundation
38 — ski
39 Devoured
42 Oaf
43 Muscle quality
44 Bridge coup
45 Chum
46 Bar supply
48 Tina's ex

CRYPTOQUIP

11-15
F X L Z Z B V Z Z L J A D A L D K ' F
J Q N A Y

Smokeout encourages snuffing of cigarettes

By Scott Berg
Science Reporter

Many smokers will be snuffing out their cigarettes today in honor of the American Cancer Society's 14th annual Great American Smokeout.

"The objective of the smokeout is to get everyone to quit smoking for 24 hours," said Mary Molt, department of housing. "It is a 24-hour moratorium."

"The Great American Smokeout is annually held every third Thursday in November," she said. "It offers support to quitters."

The smokeout is for people who have attempted to quit many times before and this event gives them the opportunity to try again, Molt said.

"Adopt-a-smoker is a part of this year's promotion of the Great American Smokeout," she said. "It provides opportunity for family and friends to encourage smokers to quit. If people hear about it long enough, it might encourage them to quit."

A table will be in the Union with students from the Association of Residence Halls. It will be located near the Stateroom and open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., said Joe Younger, manager of staff training and development in personnel services.

People can pick up information on smoking and get a certificate to adopt a smoker during the smokeout, he said.

Education about the risks related to smoking has decreased the number of smokers, Molt said.

Estimates show that smoking is related to 85 percent of the men and 75 percent of the women who have lung cancer, Molt said.

"If five students quit smoking because of their participation in the smokeout it would be a tremendous success," she said.

People Who Smoke In America

Source: American Cancer Society

Game

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6
25-17 in the opening half, out-rebounded the 'Cats 20-12 in the game's final 20 minutes.

"Our biggest concern going in was rebounding," said Rettiger, who had 15 points and five rebounds. "We did a terrible job rebounding, though, and that's how they got back into the game."

It was Rettiger who made the bucket that gave the 'Cats a bit more breathing room. Just nine seconds after Novak's pair of charity tosses, Rettiger got open underneath and scored, moving the lead to four. It was never again any closer.

K-State's ability to put the game away over the final three-plus minutes was aided by a renewed defensive intensity, Altman said.

"We really did turn it up there,"

Altman said of the stretch run. "When the pressure was intense and it got really close, we were able to find something there."

Altman said the fatigue factor was due to a variety of different factors, and included first-game jitters and increased playing time among them.

"We had a lot of guys out there for the first time tonight playing a lot more minutes than they've played before," he said.

All five K-State starters played at least 30 minutes, which was something Altman had not planned on, going in.

In addition to Howard's 26 points and team-high eight rebounds, and Rettiger's 15 points, Jean Derouillere had 18 and Keith Amerson and Darryl King each added 10 to give K-State five players in double figures.

Julius Michalik led the Czechs with 26.

Thatcher

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
head of government in the Western world, and Britain's longest-serving prime minister in this century.

On Tuesday, the 4-million circulation Sun newspaper carried stories with intimate details of the private lives of some of Heseltine's known supporters, including that one had a mistress and another had visited a gay club.

Thatcher will vote for herself by proxy Tuesday from Paris, where she will be at a 35-nation summit of leaders of East and West.

"Her leadership qualities are the greatest political assets which the Conservative Party and our nation have," said party chairman Baker.

Hurd, who could pose the biggest threat of all to Thatcher if she fails to stop Heseltine in the first ballot, said on Wednesday the challenge was a mistake. But he added he agreed with many of Howe's criticisms.

In the House of Commons on Wednesday afternoon, Thatcher sat in her usual front-bench seat, occasionally smiling thinly, as opposition legislators taunted her chancellor of the exchequer, John Major.

"Why don't you line up with Heseltine?" a legislator shouted as Major defended the government's economic record and promised better times ahead.

Heseltine left the Cabinet after Thatcher ordered him to halt a campaign for a European consortium to rescue the British helicopter-maker, Westland, instead of a U.S.-led consortium she favored.

Police

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7
that specific situations, such as accidents and how we conduct studies, are handled," Kyle said. "Most of the standards have been met by the agency for the last few years, but were not in writing."

The manual, which consisted of 150 pages, now consists of around 600, he said.

"Within the last year-and-a-half, 300 policies were rewritten to specifically meet the standards," Kyle said.

The accreditation commission will review the policy manual and make sure the policies are in line with the standards, he said.

The department should have a good idea of whether or not it will be accredited before the group leaves the agency, Kyle said.

Department officials will meet with the commission for the fine tuning of the standards of the agency, and the formal grant of the accreditation will come in March.

Forbidden

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7
on drums, Tim Calvert on lead, six- and twelve-string acoustic guitars and Matt Camacho on bass.

Another instrumental, "Spiral Depression," again returns the band to a ballad-like format. Although it is only a little under two minutes, it is entrancing.

Locicero and Calvert do a good job of splitting all the lead guitar work. Most songs on the album have more than one solo, and those that have only one are divided into two parts to give the axemen a chance to show off. Their licks are not that impressive, but the dual lead does allow for a little variety.

Forbidden, being a new band, may be not be ready to spread its wings and let the band members full potential as diverse musicians be known yet. In the meantime, "Twisted Into Form" should keep their followers headbanging until next time.

Lori Ann's Back

in Town

Announcing the return of Lori Ann to

new BEGINNINGS

HAIRSTYLING & TANNING

1107 N. 3rd

537-1003

Lori Ann is offering:

$2 off Haircuts

$5 off Perms

Good through Dec. 1, 1990

—Bring this Ad—

HIGH NOON

is the deadline for

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

ClassADS

Kedzie Hall 103 8 a.m.-5 p.m.
532-6555

THURSDAY

99¢ Pitchers

99¢ Wells

SPRING CLOSED CLASSES

00950	03830	11720	18140	26830	32640	03390	07600	15090	21230	30200	34110
01230	03940	11721	18240	26940	32650	03400	07610	15100	21240	30220	34190
01240	03950	12440	18360	26950	32660	03410	07620	15130	21280	30250	34250
01480	03960	12470	18430	27000	32710	03420	07630	15150	21330	30320	34260
02140	04340	13220	18440	27090	32780	03450	07640	15160	21420	30350	34290
02360	04660	13350	18450	27100	33360	03460	07650	15180	21460	30360	34320
02730	05580	13740	18460	27120	33460	03470	07660	15190	21520	30390	34340
03040	05670	13950	18470	27130	33530	03480	07670	15220	21580	30400	34350
03060	05680	13990	18480	27160	33550	03490	07680	15250	21590	30410	34360
03100	05720	14240	18490	27240	33590	03500	07690	15290	21600	30450	34390
03130	05750	14260	18500	27250	33610	03510	07700	15320	21610	30460	34400
03140	05760	14310	18510	27270	33640	03520	07710	15350	21620	30470	34410
03160	05770	14320	18520	27280	33670	03530	07720	15380	21630	30480	34420
03190	05780	14330	18530	27290	33680	03540	07730	15410	21640	30490	34430
03260	05810	14380	18590	27340	33800	03550	07740	15450	21650	30500	34440
03270	05820	14410	18600	27350	33810	03560	07750	15480	21660	30510	34450
03280	05950	14460	18690	27430	33820	03570	07760	15510	21670	30520	34460
03290	05970	14620	18700	27470	33830	03580	07770	15540	21680	30530	34470
03300	06020	14630	18710	27490	33840	03590	07780	15570	21690	30540	34480
03310	07520	14710	20130	27520	33860	03600	11390	17510	26460	32510	39120
03320	07530	14740	20140	27530	33870	03610	11400	17660	26470	32530
03330	07540	14750	20230	27700	33900	03620	11410	17760	26690	32540
03340	07550	14770	20240	27710	33950	03630	11420	18120	26780	32560
03350	07560	14780	20680	28020	33990
03360	07570	15010	20830	30090	34000
03370	07580	15050	21030	30130	34090
03380	07590	15070	21100	30160	34100

ALL ABOARD WITH UPC

Pitch Tournament
Sign-up Nov.
19-30, 8 a.m.-
4 p.m. in UPC office (3rd floor Union)
Fee: $4 per team

It's time once again for the 2nd Annual UPC Pitch Tournament. Tournament dates are Dec. 1 & 2 from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. each day. Teams will compete for prizes of: $80 for 1st place and $40 for 2nd place.

K-state union
upc eclectic entertainment

Thousands to choose from:

- Photographs
- Posters
- Fine Art Reproductions
- Southwestern Art
- Wildlife Photos

November 12 - 16
9 am - 5 pm
PICTURE & POSTER SALE
K-State Union
First Floor Concourse

Most
Posters and Pictures
$7 and under
(prices range from 50¢ to $40)

K-state union
upc eclectic entertainment

NOVEMBER
17 & 18
Saturday &
Sunday 2
p.m. Forum
Hall $1.50

NOVEMBER 16, 17, & 18
FRIDAY & SATURDAY,
7:00pm & 9:30pm
SUNDAY, 7:00pm
FORUM HALL $1.75

"A GREAT, EXHILARATING MOVIE!"

Winner of 2 Academy Awards
Best Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis
Best Supporting Actress: Brenda Fricker
Nominated for 5 Academy Awards

NOVEMBER 14, 15,
& 16 Wednesday 7
p.m. Forum Hall
Thursday 3:30 p.m.
Little Theatre & 7
p.m. Forum Hall
Friday 7 p.m. Little Theatre $1.75 with
KSU I.D.

COLLEGE BOWL II
THIS AINT JEOPARDY MAN.

KANSAS STATE UNION
LITTLE THEATRE

SAT. NOV. 17 9:30 - 5:30
SUN. NOV. 18 1:00 - 5:00

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, November 16, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 59

Troop activity in gulf makes families nervous

U.S. forces train near Kuwait; troops begin 6-day exercise

CRISIS IN THE MIDDLE EAST

By The Associated Press
ABOARD THE USS O'BRIEN — U.S. and Saudi Arabian forces Thursday began a six-day amphibious exercise in the Persian Gulf codenamed "Imminent Thunder." Iraq called it a provocative act because it was close to Kuwait.

The exercise involved 1,000 U.S. Marines, 1,100 aircraft and 16 ships, including the aircraft carrier USS Midway, which arrived in the region earlier this month.

The exact location of Imminent Thunder was not revealed under military policy, and a news blackout was imposed for the initial phases. Press reports have said the exercise would be 10 miles from the Iraqi-Kuwaiti border.

No live ammunition will be fired in Imminent Thunder.

The exercise was not intended to provoke the Iraqis, said U.S. Navy spokesman Cmdr. J.D. Van Sickle. "The purpose is to give participating forces training in joint and combined operations and to enhance amphibious warfare skills," he said. "Exercise Imminent Thunder is part of our Desert Shield training."

Military officials said there was no particular significance to the name of the operation and that its timing was not linked to any operational plans. But it is being held as the United States doubles the number of aircraft

66
The purpose is to give participating forces training in joint and combined operations and to enhance amphibious warfare skills. Exercise Imminent Thunder is part of our Desert Shield training.

—Cmdr. J.D. Van Sickle
U.S. Navy spokesman

99 carriers in the gulf region to six and sends in 150,000 additional military personnel to join the estimated 230,000 already deployed. The entire U.S.-led multinational force arrayed against Iraq numbers more than 300,000.

The exercise was launched one day after British Defense Secretary Tom King visited Saudi Arabia to discuss what reinforcements Britain might send.

The British have 16,000 personnel in the region, including the 9,000-man 7th "Desert Rats" Armoured Division, which became operational Wednesday.

King warned Iraqi President Saddam Hussein on Wednesday: "Time is running out. We're not going to sit around forever."

Adm. Frank Kelso, the chief of naval operations who was in the gulf visiting the destroyer USS O'Brien as part of an inspection tour, refused to answer questions about Imminent Thunder.

"We don't discuss details of future operations," Kelso said.

He flew by helicopter out to the O'Brien, operating off Bahrain to help enforce U.N. trade sanctions against Iraq to force it out of Kuwait.

Kelso said the additional three aircraft carriers on their way means fundamentally, they have doubled firepower.

The exercise included units of the Army, Navy, Air Force and 1,000 members of the 4th Marine Expeditionary Battalion. It also included the Royal Saudi Air Force, and naval and marine units.

Training will consist of an amphibious landing in eastern Saudi Arabia with air cover and close air and naval support of ground forces.

Family members plan visits with hostages

By The Associated Press

Her grandparents and the State Department are against the idea, but Jennifer Williams is determined to spend Christmas in Baghdad with her father and stepmother.

The 21-year-old college student, who has a hunch even her captive parents wouldn't approve, is among a small group of Americans accepting Saddam Hussein's invitation to visit loved ones trapped in Iraq.

"This whole hostage situation has taken a toll on everyone in this family," said Williams, a senior at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. "So I'm going over there to do whatever I can to get them out."

Stewart and Charlene Williams, who work in the banking industry, became human shields after Iraqi troops overran Kuwait on Aug. 2. Foreign women and children were subsequently freed, but Charlene, 45, stayed behind.

Now, Jennifer Williams feels it's her turn to take a stand.

"I know that Saddam doesn't care about Christmas. This is all about the media," Williams said. "Still, I have to do what I can to try and negotiate them out."

Jerry Waters, a spokesman for the State Department's Kuwaiti Task Force, said the government had prepared a flat response for families considering an expedition to Iraq:

"While our hearts go out to these families, our advice remains the same. Travel to Iraq is dangerous and we cannot guarantee the safety of those who decide to go," said Waters, who could not say how many inquiries the task force had received.

John Stevenson's siblings already have made their travel arrangements. The hostage's twin sister and two brothers don't care what the government recommends.

"We have one priority: to see our brother," Bill Stevenson, acting as family spokesman, said from Brockton, Mass. "We're not going to a zoo to view animals held in cages. We're going to get our brother and bring him home."

Relatives of the estimated 1,000 Americans held in Kuwait and Iraq can imagine heroic scenarios in which their personal pleas to Hussein secure a loved one's freedom.

But the reality, some families said, could play out very differently.

"I spoke to Guy," said Betty Seago, whose husband was among hostages allowed to telephone home recently. "And he said he didn't have good feelings about (Hussein's invitation), but he would leave it up to me."

Seago said she had no plans to visit her husband, an oil worker, even though she knows he wants to see her. She said her family in Johnson

City, Tenn., felt such a trip would be too risky.

Kim Edwards, 34, of Carson City, Nev., chose to ignore the risk and make a trip to visit her husband, Tony, in Baghdad. She arrived safely back in the United States last week and is already planning a return visit in December.

"The trips are necessary because somebody has to do something," Edwards said. "We all feel that our hands are tied."

President Bush's decision last week to deploy 150,000 more servicemen in the Persian Gulf has stirred fear among many of those with stranded loved ones who could die if war breaks out.

"I'm morally opposed to war," Jennifer Williams said Wednesday from Dallas. "And I'm opposed to my father and stepmother dying for oil. That's why I'm going over there — to try negotiations."

But Vafa Fourroohi said he doesn't see much room for negotiation, though his younger brother is already en route to visit their father in Baghdad.

"I think this is propaganda," said Fourroohi, who is managing the family business in Redmond, Wash. His father, Fred Harrington, was taken hostage while visiting Kuwait on business.

Pfc. James Beverly completes paperwork including power of attorney forms, income tax diversion forms and a will at the Family Assistance Center at Fort Riley Monday afternoon. Beverly is one of 11,500 soldiers from the 1st Infantry Division (Mechanized) preparing for deployment to the Persian Gulf.

Deployment of troops creates feeling of loss in families left behind

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

and

Paul Noel
Staff Reporter

As the First Infantry Division begins deployment to Saudi Arabia, Fort Riley families face the stark realization of adjusting to life without family members.

Tom Kite, counselor at Junction City High School, said what families are experiencing is similar to a grieving process.

"The families have to learn to live without that person," Kite said. "Even if it's not permanent, the things they're feeling are very similar to those felt when grieving a death."

The families can look to the family support center at Fort Riley for support and help in settling their financial affairs.

Betty Banner, director of Army community services, said the purpose of the center is to provide a place where families can come with any problems or concerns they might have.

The center consists of eight agencies open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., but people can reach the center 24 hours a day by calling 1-800-786-0017.

"There is always a reception person and shift leader to give information to people who call," Banner said.

As concerns are growing, so are stress levels.

Kite said the high levels of stress are causing problems in the home.

"The kids are scared to death," Kite said. "When the deployment announcement came last Thursday, a lot of kids came to my office to talk about their parents going to Saudi Arabia. Those kids are going to have the most stress because they are scared."

Much of the stress is also due to the last minute arrangements that must be made before they deploy to the Persian Gulf.

Colonel Marion Pember, post chaplain, said most questions he receives have to deal with the anxieties and uncertainties surrounding the situation.

"A lot of spouses are young with not much experience being alone or in a sole-parent position," Pember said.

Under different circumstances, families may wish to move to wherever home was originally to get additional support. But because the de-

■ See FAMILIES, Page 10

Phelps criticizes Finney's choice for administration staff position

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — An unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate denounced Gov.-elect Joan Finney, cornering reporters and legislators Thursday in the Statehouse to complain about her transition team manager.

Fred Phelps Sr., a former Topeka attorney and Baptist minister, objects to Finney putting Pat Hurley in charge of the group that will help form her administration because Hurley works for a prominent lobbying firm.

Phelps told Finney his opinion in an angry letter delivered Wednesday, then roamed the Statehouse Thursday, lecturing reporters and bystanders.

Phelps confronted a group that included two legislators and the founder of the lobbying firm for which Hurley works. He argued with a senator, then staged an impromptu news conference for reporters who had gathered to watch the ruckus.

Hurley could not be reached for immediate comment. The transition team's office is located about 15 yards from where Phelps spoke.

"You've given a pass on the biggest fraud in this government," Phelps told reporters in the wide hall of the first floor of the Capitol's south wing. "This is too dramatic. It's too bold a move on her part."

Phelps distributed a copy of his letter as well as a list of the 33 clients represented by Pete McGill and Associates, the firm for which Hurley works. McGill is a former Republican House speaker.

Ironically, Phelps endorsed Finney shortly before the Nov. 6 general election and said his family helped to raise $10,000 Wednesday night to retire her campaign debt.

Phelps confronted Sens. Dick Rock, D-Arkansas City, and Don Saltee, R-Troy, who had been speaking with McGill. McGill listened quietly to Phelps' criticism, then returned to his office near the Capitol and declined comment later.

Phelps waged a raucous campaign for governor, one that featured a bicycling and jogging tour of the state, making colorful statements. He once called Finney a dim bulb but later said Hayden's administration produced no light.

Phelps once was a prominent civil rights attorney, but the state Supreme Court disbarred him in 1979, saying he had made false statements in court documents.

"The truth is that we don't need a conflict of interest," Phelps told Rock. "The first thing she does is put the king of lobbyists in charge of the frigging budget."

Hurley has said he will help Finney with budget matters. He also will help make appointments in the new administration.

Finney said she picked Hurley because of his government experience. Hurley served in the House for four years, then as former Democratic Gov. John Carlin's secretary of administration for five years before becoming a lobbyist.

Finney defeated Carlin and Phelps in the August Democratic primary, then defeated Republican Gov. Mike Hayden. Phelps received only 7 percent of the primary vote.

"This state is full of smart people," Phelps told Rock.

Rock told Phelps: "There's another thing that's fairly important, and that's keeping faith with good government. I'm pleased he's in there."

Other Democrats also are pleased with Finney's choice.

"I've seldom been more delighted," said Rep. Betty Jo Charlton, D-Lawrence, when told of Phelps' whirlwind appearance in the Statehouse. "She needs someone with that kind of experience."

Reporters asked Phelps about his fundraising for Finney, as well as whether he wanted a job within the Finney administration. Phelps said he was not seeking a position.

"I'm disappointed in your goofy questions," he told one reporter. "You haven't been drinking again, have you?"

Class choices not luxury as courses are cut back

Long pre-enrollment lines frustrate students

By Shannon Meyers
Collegian Reporter

Pre-enrollment for the spring semester began Nov. 12, and for many students, it can be a frustrating time.

"Student attitude is improving," said Donald Foster, K-State registrar. "More students are beginning to realize that getting into the exact classes that they want is not a luxury we have at K-State. This is simply a reflection of the hard times that the University is currently experiencing."

Sharon Hauck, administration officer in the registrar's office, said, "Most students have grown up with computers, so they realize the potential problems. I think most of the student frustration is caused by the long lines which occur because students don't make it to their scheduled appointments."

Foster said verbal abuse to enrollment workers from students has decreased.

"Most of it is directed at the system, not the operators," he said.

The system currently being used has been in place for eight years. Fewer problems occur and the operators are much faster than they used to be, Foster said.

Computer operators who work pre-enrollment and drop-add are intermittent staff members from the Manhattan area that work 14 weeks throughout the year.

"We try to hire people who have some keyboard experience and they are trained by personnel in the enrollment center," Foster said.

The enrollment center was moved to Willard Hall as a result of a computing center installed in the basement of Farrell Library. Foster said the move has worked out well for the enrollment center.

"Student traffic can be controlled to a greater degree than it could be in Farrell Library, and the terminals are in a locked area, which eliminates the need to move equipment," he said.

"By controlling the traffic flow, we can keep students from lining up around the computer terminals and decrease some of the pressure on the operators," Hauck said.

BRIEFLY

World

Gorbachev confident of views

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail Gorbachev will be ready for political battle when he addresses the legislature Friday and is confident his views will prevail, said an Italian leader who met the Soviet president Thursday.

The official Tass news agency, in a commentary, said Gorbachev would face a moment of truth when he speaks to lawmakers on the crumbling economy and on campaigns by separatist-minded republics.

Gorbachev agreed to address the legislators after lawmakers, angered by the slow pace of reform, demanded a report on the state of the union.

Nation

Finney meets GOP leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a meeting that resembled a political reunion, Gov.-elect Joan Finney and Republican lawmakers pledged Thursday to work in a bipartisan manner on Kansas issues.

Finney, a Democrat, met with Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole and Rep. Pat Roberts, a Dodge City Republican.

"We have a mutual interest, of course, in the state and we have some longtime ties," said Finney, who was a Republican until 1974, when she switched parties and was elected state treasurer.

"The three of us have been together ... longer than we care to remember, I guess," Dole joked.

According to Dole, the three discussed Kansas projects that have received federal financing, such as a plant science building at Kansas State University, a technology center at Pittsburg State University and a physical sciences building at Fort Hays State University. Some of the projects also require state money.

Bush signs new clean air act

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, saying every American deserves to breathe clean air, on Thursday signed an extensive overhaul of the nation's anti-pollution law to curb acid rain, urban smog and toxic chemicals.

Susan Morrow, president of the Sierra Club, described the Clean Air Act of 1990 as a breath of fresh air after a 10-year smog alert.

Bush said the bill, which updates and tightens federal air pollution standards for the first time since 1977, was the most significant air pollution legislation in our nation's history.

Experts endorse FDA's policy

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A divided panel of experts Thursday endorsed the Food and Drug Administration's policy that recognizes a suspicion that electric blankets may cause cancer and miscarriages but stops short of warning the public of danger.

Panel members told the FDA to continue working with industry to make manufacturing changes to reduce the very low frequency radiation emitted by electric blankets and to continue to monitor scientific risk studies.

Those studies over the years have produced varying results, but newer studies have been more troubling, said F. Alan Anderson, acting director of the FDA's Office of Science and Technology in the agency's Center for Devices and Radiological Health.

Bush to tour front-line troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush leaves Friday on an eight-day trip to the Middle East and Europe, becoming the first U.S. president to visit front-line troops since Lyndon Johnson in Vietnam. Before his Thanksgiving stop in Saudi Arabia, he'll sign a historic East-West arms control agreement in Paris.

The Persian Gulf crisis will dominate the tour, even while the president is in Paris attending a 34-nation European summit.

Aides said Bush would seek to coordinate his gulf policies when he meets with leaders of the Soviet Union, Britain and France at the three-day Paris gathering.

In particular, U.S. officials said, Bush plans to sound out these and other members of the 15-member U.N. Security Council on wording of a proposed resolution to authorize force to drive Iraq from Kuwait.

Region

Pipeline rupture ends in death

COFFEYVILLE (AP) — A rupture in a corroded natural gas pipeline caused an explosion in an apartment complex that killed a boy and injured his brother, investigators said Thursday.

Investigators said they found a small hole in a 10-inch line that runs under the property of the apartment complex where the Monday explosion occurred, according to a news release from Glenn Smith, chief of pipeline safety for the Kansas Corporation Commission.

The rupture was caused by corrosion, the release said.

The line is owned by United Cities Gas Co., which purchased Union Gas System.

Man found innocent of charge

FORT SCOTT (AP) — A man who said he was too drunk to remember if he had taken indecent liberties with a child has been found innocent of the charge.

A jury deliberated about five hours Wednesday before finding Clarence LaRoche, 40, of Fort Scott innocent of taking indecent liberties with a girl who was 13 and furnishing alcoholic beverages to a minor for illicit purposes.

He was found guilty on a misdemeanor charge of furnishing alcoholic beverages to a minor.

LaRoche testified he was an alcoholic who suffered from mental blackouts and was unable to remember anything about the night in question.

Judge Gerald Hart told jurors in Bourbon County District Court in his instructions that voluntary intoxication may be a defense to the charge of indecent liberties with a child.

Pastor accused of threats

OLATHE (AP) — A Kansas City church pastor was charged with making threatening telephone calls to 18 Johnson County women last summer.

Charles Harris of Blue Springs was charged Wednesday in Johnson County District Court with 18 felony counts of making a terroristic threat. He was arrested in August on a similar charge.

Harris, 54, is suspected of making hundreds of threatening and obscene phone calls to women throughout the Kansas City area for several years, police said.

Wednesday's charges stem from calls Harris allegedly made from June 6 to Aug. 1, the day before he was arrested.

The charges involve women from Leawood, Olathe, Lenexa and Mission.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

16 Friday

■ Campus Faith Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 202.

■ K-State Players will present "Amadeus" at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

■ College of Business Administration will meet at 10:30 a.m. in the Union Forum Hall.

■ InterVarsity Christian Fellowship will show the film "Fury To Freedom" at 7:30 p.m. in the Putnam Hall lobby. Everyone is welcome.

■ African Student Union will have an African music extravaganza at the Manhattan City Auditorium at 8 p.m. It is open to the public, and tickets are available in the Union.

17 Saturday

■ K-State Players will present "Amadeus" at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

■ Zeta Phi Beta and Phi Beta Sigma will sponsor "It's a Formal Affair" from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Union Ballroom.

■ Into Africa will focus on Chinua Achebe: a tribute to an African writer and thinker at age 60. The radio program starts at 11:05 a.m. on KSDB-92.

18 Monday

■ New Currents, KSU's new age/jazz/fusion music club, will meet at 2 p.m. in Union 203.

■ Blue Key will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 209. Homecoming evaluation participants are invited to attend.

■ Playwright's Stage will present "A Light to the Nations" at 2 p.m. in the Purple Masque Theatre.

19 Tuesday

■ French Table will meet from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ Spanish Club will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ Students Helping Students will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Lafene conference room.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Wei-Daw Alfred Lin at 1 p.m. in Waters 38. The dissertation topic is "Purification of Proteolytic Enzymes and Their Effects on Rheological Changes on Cracker Sponges: A Study of Wheat Hardness Using Electrophoresis."

■ Business Council will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 206.

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, partly cloudy and cooler. High in the upper 50s. North wind 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, mostly clear. Low 25 to 30. Saturday, mostly sunny. High around 60.

PICTURE & POSTER SALE

Thousands to choose from:

- ☞ Photographs
- ☞ Posters
- ☞ Fine Art Reproductions
- ☞ Southwestern Art
- ☞ Wildlife Photos

Most
Posters and Pictures
$7 and under
(prices range from 50¢ to $40)

November 12 - 16

9 am - 5 pm

K-State Union
First Floor Concourse

sponsored by:  k-state union upc arts

PICASSO
MONET
M.C. ESCHER
DALI
RENOIR
VAN GOGH
SEURAT
O'KEEFE
GORMAN
PENNA
NAGEL

ANGEL ADAMS
TRAVEL
WILDLIFE
CARS
ANIMALS
PERSONALITIES
SPORTS
FANTASY
MILITARY
SPACE
SCENERY

INDIAN ART
SOUTHWESTERN ART
EUROPEAN ART
AFRICAN/AMERICAN ART
ORIENTAL ART
FOLK
B & W IMAGES
POSTERS
FRAMES
AND MUCH, MUCH MORE!

JOBS

Apply now for spring semester COLLEGIAN
news and advertising positions.
Students in any major are welcome to apply.

News Staff

*These are anticipated openings. Editor will make final list after Nov. 15.

Arts/Entertainment Editor	Sports Editor
Campus Editors	Copy Editors
City/Government Editor	Staff Writers
Editorial Page Editor	Columnists
Features Editor	Cartoonists
Government Editor	Illustrator
Managing Editor	Reviewers
News Editor	Sports Writers
Photo/Graphics Editor	Sports Columnists

Advertising Staff

*These are anticipated openings. Advertising manager will make final list after Nov. 15.

Assistant Ad Manager	Campus/Tearsheet Rep.
Graphic Artist	Photographer
Sales Representatives	Creative Director

Obtain an application and job descriptions in Kedzie 103.

Application Deadline:

5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 28, in Kedzie 103

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Richard Mattson, professor in horticulture, explains the benefits of plants for the increasing elderly population to his horticulture class in Waters Hall Thursday. Mattson feels that having plants around can decrease absenteeism and improve mental and physical health.

Offices with plants more relaxed, calm

By Jerry Sapp
Collegian Reporter

Having plants around can decrease absenteeism at work and can improve mental and physical health, said Richard Mattson, director of the horticultural therapy program at K-State.

"It is primal or instinctive behavior to want to be in a safe and protected environment," Mattson said. "We like to be close to trees, because if danger arrives we could climb them to get away."

Mattson said studies have been conducted on the impact of plants in an office environment. He said Charles Louis, of the Lisle Arboretum in Illinois, did a study at a large John Deere factory.

"The whole building was filled with trees and other plants until it was heavily vegetated," Mattson said. "People in that type of office environment talked in low voices. It created a very tranquil and relaxed atmosphere. The environment was totally the opposite of a normal office environment where everyone is talking and usually in a hurry."

People can relate to plants because they parallel the life cycle, said Penny Stober, graduate teaching assistant in horticultural therapy.

"As you nurture the plant, it installs a sense of responsibility," she said. "Over a period of time this can be transferred to the workplace."

Psychologists say green is a relaxing color, Mattson said, and when the mind relaxes, productivity increases.

"We found out that when people work in this atmosphere, there is a reduction in the levels of stress, high blood pressure, sweat and other stress-related symptoms," he said.

A perceptions study to evaluate the quality of the environment in a

See PLANTS, Page 10

Collegium musicum ensemble plays two obscure Baroque compositions

By Heather Anderson
Collegian Reviewer

The Collegium Musicum Baroque Ensemble will perform two important — but rather obscure — pieces from the Baroque period at 3 p.m. Sunday at All Faiths Chapel.

The two compositions, "Quartet in F Major" by Georg Telemann and "Judicium Salomonis" by Mac-Antoine Charpentier are relatively unknown, Carolyn Smith, music librarian, said. Smith is also the soprano vocalist for the group.

Smith will present a lecture before the concert to provide background on the pieces.

"They previously had not been available in modern editions, and just recently have become available in recordings," she said.

Smith said the opportunity to hear Telemann's additional works is valuable.

"Telemann is a very important composer of the Baroque period," Smith said.

Other members of the Collegium Musicum Baroque Ensemble are vocalists Diane Heerman, Manhattan, alto; Robin Smith, professor of philosophy, tenor; and James Hamilton, associate professor of philosophy, bass. The instrumentalists include violinists Cora Cooper, instructor of music, and Sarah Houk, graduate student in music; Robert Freeborn, graduate student in music, on viola; David Littrell, assistant professor of music, on cello; Michael Grier, graduate student in electrical engineering, on recorder; Georg Predota, graduate student in music, on harpsichord; and Sara Funkhouser, associate professor of music, on oboe and recorder. Funkhouser is also the group's director.

The Collegium Musicum consists of members of various backgrounds who share a common interest in music and students who participate for the experience and class credit.

Hamilton said the value he receives from the group is both academic and personal.

As a professor, he has learned about the history of the Baroque period, from the early 1600s to the mid- to late-1700s, which he in turn uses for a humanities class he teaches.

Hamilton said performing in the group is a form of being educated, as opposed to doing the educating, a change of pace he said he finds very rewarding.

He said this particular group performs works from the Baroque period, but other groups in the Collegium Musicum perform a variety of music ranging from late medieval to Baroque.

"The music is difficult, but it's interesting," he said.

Recital last for 2 K-Staters

Peterson, Watson denied in-state status, head to Louisiana

By The Collegian Staff

After their recital Monday night, vocalist Karen Peterson, junior in music education, and trumpet player Coy Watson, sophomore in music education, won't be basking in the afterglow of a job well done or preparing for their next performance.

They will be packing. The two will be presenting what was supposed to be their junior recital. However, because they were recently denied in-state tuition status, they had to drop their classes and will be moving back home to Louisiana on Tuesday.

The recital, in All Faiths Chapel, begins at 8 p.m. There will be a reception in the McCain Auditorium courtyard immediately afterward.

"We had the $750 saved up for school, but not $2,600," Peterson said.

Because it was so far into the semester, and neither musician gets financial help from parents, Peterson said the only choice was to drop out.

Peterson said she and Watson decided to present the recital anyway, as a farewell to K-State and a tribute to their instructors, Jerry Langenkamp and Gary Mortenson.

They will leave Manhattan Tuesday morning.

The students met while attending the University of Southwestern Louisiana, Watson said. At the time, he was studying under Mortenson, who took a position at K-State.

Watson wanted to follow Mortenson to K-State, and he and Peterson decided to move together.

"We couldn't be apart," Peterson said.

Peterson will open with two pieces from the Baroque period, Pergolesi's "Se tu m'ami" and Handel's "Piangerò."

Watson will then perform Brian Kelley's "Divertimento," a 20th century composition comprised of four varied movements.

Schumann's "Wibmung" will open Peterson's next set of foreign language pieces. She will continue with "Verborgheniet" by Wolf, "Jean" by Claude Debussy and "Il est doux il est bon" by Massenet.

Watson will play his last solo, "Andante and Allegretto" by Guillaume Baley, and Peterson will then perform her last set of sacred songs, consisting of "Easter Carol" by Martin Shaw, "The Lord's Prayer" by Rorem, "David Mourns Absalom" by David Diamond and "The Lord Reigns" by Eugene Butler.

The pair will complete the recital with the duet "Let the Bright Seraphim" by Handel, which Watson will perform on the piccolo trumpet.

Dot's Wonderful!
Surprise your pledge daughter with a

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Personal ClassAD

Kedzie Hall 103
8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

ID must be shown when placing a Personal ad.

Treat Yourself To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!
GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.

537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

Mechanic on Duty
8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Monday - Friday

Phillips 66

Frank's "66" Auto Service
17th & Poyntz
537-2480
Free Estimates

Cooper Tires

Alternators
Batteries
Starters
Winterizing

Brakes
Shocks
Tires

Exhaust Repairs
Oil Change
Tune up
Transmission

Credit Cards Accepted
Phillips 66 Visa Mastercard Discover American Express

AMADEUS
by Peter Shaffer

Don't Miss It!

SOLD OUT!

Nichols Theater 8 pm
November 8-10, 14-17

Tickets: McCain Box Office
532-6428

Levi's

505

Regular Fit
Straight Leg
100% Cotton

$23.88

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR

From the desk of: Bossler-Hix Temporaries
11015 Metcalf
Overland Park, KS

Temporary Employment For Christmas Break In Johnson County

Applications will be accepted
Friday, Nov. 23 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

Positions Available:
Typists, Word Processors, File Clerks,
Data Entry Clerks, and Light Industrial

NO FEES! Call Ann at 1- (913) -491-0944

Clyde's

THANKSGIVING BUFFET
For a delicious, traditional Thanksgiving dinner visit Clyde's famous Buffet.

Baron of Beef
Roast Turkey
Roast Goose
Baked Salmon
Chicken Dijon
Mongolian Beef
and much, much more!

11 a.m.-3 p.m.
$9.95
10% Senior Discount

537-8440
2304 Stagg Hill Rd. - Across from the Holidome.

SAVE $1 on Mini Christmas tree and mini decorations.
Wonderful gift idea for grandparents, students, shut-ins or military personnel in Saudi Arabia.

With this coupon. Purchase must be $5 or more.
May not be used on sale merchandise. (Expires Dec. 1).

Christmas at DALE'S
1105 Waters 538-4751

CHARLIE'S NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1983

This Weekend Fiancé

Friday and Saturday also

75¢ Coors Glasses with 50¢ Refills plus

You getta keep the glass

FirstBank Center 776-4111

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL

Protest needed at Statehouse, not Anderson

Within the last few weeks, K-State students have been involved in a level of activism I haven't seen in the many years I've been associated with this University. Students have chased President Wefald, they have held rallies of 2,000 or more persons, and they have pounded on the walls of Anderson Hall, all in the effort to prevent a potentially devastating reorganization plan from being implemented.

Yet, despite this activism, I can't help but wonder if the students' energy isn't too little too late, and if it isn't a bit misdirected.

The reorganization fiasco, outside of the specific drafts which have been offered, is not a concoction created by President Jon Wefald and Provost Jim Coffman just for the sake of having a reorganization. It is a direct result of the Legislature voting to cut K-State's enrollment adjustments, and then cutting us again across the board to every Board of Regent's school.

We may not like the results of these cuts and can protest reorganization plans we don't like, but we must admit our part in allowing this mess to happen.

Before the Legislature cut K-State's funds last year, a group of 300 students assaulted the Statehouse in a last ditch effort to get the money we had been promised. Unfortunately, the legislators were not interested in listening to the students, and some even, as the Collegian pointed out in an editorial last week, felt hounded by the students. The Collegian implied that this perhaps hurt our chances to get our money. I disagree.

I think the decision to cut us had already been made by the time the students got to Topeka and that the legislators had hoped to slink away without being noticed. The 300 students did not let them do that. Instead they brought as much media attention to them as they could.

If the legislators felt hounded by all of this, I say, "Awww poow wittle weglaswative babies." What kind of a job did you think you were getting into?

If you felt hounded ... so what? You deserved to feel hounded. In fact, you deserved to feel more than just hounded; you should have been fearing for your safety.

You should have been met by a few thousand angry students yelling "Give us what you owe us! Give us what is ours!" Then you would have known what it was like to be hounded. Then you would have had an inkling of how many people would have been impacted by your cuts. Cuts you made while you had the money, but were using it to pave highways instead.

The students should have chased Stanley Koplick from his office to the Statehouse and

Dwayne Lively
COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

back again and then chased him home until he stood up and lobbied as hard for a regents' school as he does for closed admissions, or whatever he's calling it this year.

The students should have flooded the offices of each and every legislator. They should have filled the capitol building and offered an imposing obstacle to the legislators attempting to move around in the building.

The result may have been the same, but the students would have made one hell of an imprint in the memory of the legislators if they ever decide to cut money again.

Unfortunately, a few thousand students did not show up in Topeka last year. Even fewer professors showed up, some even held quizzes to keep students in class. Apparently everyone decided to wait until the money was already gone and then try to control the fallout.

The result was the reorganization fiasco which has rocked the reputations of even the most well respected of K-State's colleges and threatened their enrollment. Still, if everyone was so concerned about their colleges, where were they last year when this entire mess could have been prevented? How did they think Wefald and Coffman were going to make up the three million dollar loss?

Where were the more than 2,000 students who rallied to preserve their colleges last year before the $3 million dollars was cut?

Where were the Architecture and Human Ecology alumni's letters last year? Where were any of the alumni last year, for that matter?

Where were the professors who let students out of class this year, but held quizzes to keep students in class last year?

Where was the small group of protesters at the rally accusing Wefald of being drunk last year? I don't remember seeing them in Topeka.

Rather than prevent this entire mess, K-State as a whole apparently decided it was easier to allow it to happen and then complain about it than it was to stop it before it started.

Please understand, I have no love for the concept of reorganization, especially when it's in the form of the panic draft that cut entire colleges. I also believe that any reorganization plan must include substantial cuts in administration. The panic draft did cut some administration, but at too heavy a price. The recently-killed discussion draft may have included such cuts, but I doubt they were enough.

Still, while we must have a say in how any reorganization plan proceeds, the sad truth is our University is $3 million in the hole and something must now be done to fix the situation. It is ridiculous and futile for us to attack our president and provost and call them stupid when we were the idiots who sat at home and let $3 million be yanked from our hands. Perhaps, in the end, we are getting exactly what we deserve.

The action and inaction of the last few weeks and the last year would seem to indicate that we are not a University, but instead a group of little turtles who only come out of our shells when it's our colleges in danger.

Sadly, it seems we only stand united during basketball season.

I did admire the fact that so many students could be motivated to speak out, and I cheered when heavy cuts to the administration were called for. However, in the end, I think that this effort is too little too late, and that the students have been banging on the walls of the wrong building.

The correct building is in Topeka.

EDITORIALS

Support Fort Riley's soldiers and families

When the elimination of the Colleges of Architecture and Design and Human Ecology was proposed, students in those colleges were not the only ones who took to the streets with protest signs. Students not "affected" by reorganization joined in support of architecture and human ecology students because they knew that when one college is affected, we all are.

When 11,500 1st Infantry Division soldiers at Fort Riley deploy to Saudi Arabia, their absence will be felt by Junction City and Manhattan area business owners. With a population reduction of that magnitude, many will have to lay off workers and survive a reduction in sales.

But business owners are not the only ones who will be affected. 3,200 non-divisional troops at Fort Riley, who make up the U.S. Army Garrison, will not deploy. They, along with civil service personnel, will work longer, harder hours to make up for the absence of the 1st Infantry Division.

Still, they are not the only ones affected.

Spouses, children, students and friends.

It seems everyone knows a soldier stationed in Saudi Arabia — a soldier whose life and presence is hard to imagine gone.

Let us once again show that we care about others than ourselves. We don't necessarily have to take to the streets and protest, but we can offer our support.

We can only hope they will come home soon. And when they do, let us be the first to welcome them back.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schmitzer
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Walz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimla Hattimotoheadis, Elynn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel
COLUMNISTS	Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seaborn, Kevin Zwick
REVIEWERS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzner
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt
EDITORIAL BOARD	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Frese, Eric Henry, Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer, Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venso

Advertising Staff

ADVERTISING MANAGER	Dan Golden
ASSISTANT MANAGER	Amy Zick
MARKETING/PROMOTIONS MANAGER	Johan Koel
CAMPUS/TEAR-SHEET MANAGER	Ronnie Metz
ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES/ACCOUNT EXECUTIVES	Elizabeth Latham, David Little, Mark Neely, Jayme Wall, Allison Schaff
GRAPHIC ARTIST	Amy Sall, Karen Lind
GRAPHIC ARTIST/PHOTOGRAPHER	Angie Humphrey, Scott Boyd

Student Publications Staff

DIRECTOR/NEWS ADVISER	Ron Johnson
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/ADVERTISING DIRECTOR	Linda Puntney
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR	Ann Foster
BUSINESS MANAGER	Jackie Harmon
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE	Linda Weatherly
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MANAGER	Pat Hudgins
OFFICE MANAGER	Connie Rutherford
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT	Carla Jones
NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Wanda Haynie
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION COORDINATOR	Tammi Landis, Dana Franklin, Chris Tucker
ADVERTISING PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS	Britt Owen, Deanna Adams
OFFICE STAFF	Shanta Bailey, Matt Fitzgerald, Christa South
CARRIERS	Joe Cook, Minida Dowdy, John Bullerson, Norm LeComte, James Seymore

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 109, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified free advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

Renovations lavish

Editor,

The Van Zile Hall renovation must be truly impressive. In fact, monumental might describe it better. To spend $6.9 million on rooms and eating facilities for 68 residents seems a bit lavish to say the least. Perhaps my elementary math is faulty, but I come up with slightly more than $100,000 spent per resident.

I wish I had even a fraction of that amount to throw around on my family. At that rate, our family of five, one of whom is a K-State senior living at home to save money, ought to be able to justify a $500,000 home. Obviously we can't and don't.

My question concerns process and approvals to arrive at substantial commitments like this.

At a time when it is widely agreed that insufficient funds exist for Farrell Library, faculty salaries, other operating monies, etc., what possible rationale can be given for this kind of investment? I know it's only bond money and will be repaid by increased fees for all residence hall occupants, but it's still an awfully large amount for the potential payback.

As a result of those already substantially increased fees this fall, numerous openings again exist. Perhaps the answer to this dilemma (killing two birds with one stone) is to offer these $100,000 rooms to struggling faculty with children in college to at least give them the feel of opulence. No doubt it would go a long way toward improving morale here.

Dave Schafer
professor of animal sciences and industry

Fliers misleading

Editor,

As a veteran of the U.S. Army, I found the propaganda sheet passed out during the anti-war rally extremely dangerous and seriously misrepresenting.

LETTERS

First of all, I am not a "war monger." I have a brother and a number of close friends heading to the Persian Gulf and I pray that they will not have to fight.

What scares me almost as much as war, however, was the misrepresentation of opinion as fact in the propaganda sheet. The largest misrepresentation is that we alone are responsible for sending men and women to the desert, and that we are only there to protect "our" oil.

Although oil may be part of the reason we are there, are we to forget the people of Kuwait who have been murdered, raped and robbed? What about the American "guests" that are not being allowed to leave?

I also realize that keeping our military in the gulf is expensive, but what they failed to compare is the cost to keep them at home. I also ask the hypothetical question: If the multinational force had not been deployed, where would Iraq be now?

My point is this — please study both sides of the issue from reliable sources before forming your opinion. It is just as dangerous to follow demonstrations blindly as it is to follow orders blindly.

Finally, a personal point, I was offended when they used the blanket statement "A note from veterans ..." As I said, I am a veteran and like many others I have spoken to, do not share those views. Unfortunately this small organization has decided to speak for all of us with a biased tongue.

Doug Miller
junior in business

Resolve without war

Editor,

As a small child I would lie in bed at night, asking God to keep our country out of war.

Fortunately, I was too young to realize that on the other side of the world, the Vietnam conflict raged on in infamy. As I have grown, I have never lost my aversion to war. I've seen the scars, physical and emotional, that it can leave. Vietnam showed us what modern warfare can do to people. It is a lesson that we must never forget, and yet, however horrible a thing war may be, there are times when it becomes a necessity.

I think we must have forgotten what we are doing in Saudi Arabia. I agree with all people that there is no justification for a war over gas prices, but that's not the issue here. We have oil reserves to last far into the future, as well as the money and technology to develop new, more efficient sources of energy. It's not even about George Bush saving face. Our men are over there because they believe human rights and human dignity are treasures worth dying for.

This is not just some insignificant ruler in a forgotten Third World country. This is the man who ordered his own people to be massacred. This is the same man who allowed women and children to bleed to death in the streets from gunshot wounds. He is the man who shot his friend for no other reason than that he disagreed with him. Every day he reigns, he spits in the face of caring men, women and children throughout the world. Worst of all, he stands back and smiles because he knows he's getting away with it, and we just look at him and shake our heads.

I pray that we may somehow resolve this conflict without war. I dream with you all that we might one day live in a world of peace, but there comes a time that we must wake up and realize that a dream is by itself nothing. That which is most precious is purchased only at a great cost. Will we content ourselves with brightly colored fantasies, or are we willing to pay the price necessary to build a reality out of them?

Bill Weatherford
sophomore in secondary education

Financial office prepares for spring

By Eric Robison
Collegian Reporter

The Student Financial Assistance Office has been busy getting students their financial aid for the fall semester.

"We were more prepared for the fall semester than we have ever been before," said Larry Viterna, director of student financial assistance.

"We encourage all students to apply by March 15. If they do, their financial aid will be here on time for them at enrollment, but if they don't get it in until the first of June, chances are they are going to have to wait a minimum of eight weeks to get their checks," Viterna said. There are a wide variety of financial aid programs available for students, including grants, Stafford Student Loans, and Supplemental Loans for Students (SLS).

"In the 89-90 school year, we had a total of 16.2 million dollars in Stafford Loans and 2.7 million dollars for the SLS loans," Viterna said.

If a student has a Perkins Loan, he has nine months after graduation to begin paying it back with an interest rate of 5 percent. The Stafford Loan starts repayment six months after graduation with an initial interest rate of 8 percent and an increase to 10 percent if the balance is not paid in four years.

"With an SLS loan, the students can defer the principal payment and pay the interest while they are in school, but is always best to pay a little of it while they are still in school," Viterna said.

"Defaulting on loans is somewhat of a problem across the nation," Viterna said. "Our default rate at K-State is 4.6 percent, which is low compared to other institutions who have default rates of 35 percent and higher."

"I think we have a very low default rate, especially if you compare it to other institutions who have rates as high as 50 percent," said Larry Moeder, associate director of student financial assistance.

"The Stafford Loan has the highest default rate right now, but the SLS's are starting to have an increasing number of defaults," Viterna said.

Viterna said students who default on loans are denied any more financial aid, their credit record is affected, the students' tax refunds can be taken and used to pay their loan and the students' wages can be garnished.

"When a student defaults on a loan, they are blocked from ever receiving federal financial assistance until the default is cleared," Moeder said.

"There will be a new law in effect January 1. Borrowers of Stafford Loans will have to wait 30 days to pick up their checks. If you have already had a loan, it won't affect you — it is just another default prevention program," Viterna said.

On Dec. 6-7, financial aid staff will be in the K-State Union to hand out the 1991-92 financial aid packet and answer questions about financial aid.

ORGANIC FRUITS & VEGETABLES for your Thanksgiving Feast
PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-Op

811 Colorado
10-6:30 Tues.-Fri.
Sat. 9-5
Closed Sun. & Mon.

Closed on Thanksgiving

Smokey J's BBQ Restaurant

Pork*Ham*Chicken*Turkey
Ribs*Cornd Beef

Relaxed, Affordable Dining
Dine in/Carry Out/Catering

776-9222

2615 Anderson Open Daily 11-9

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thanksgiving break display advertising deadlines.

Publication date:	Deadline:
Monday, November 19	Thursday, November 15
Monday, November 26	Friday, November 16
Tuesday, November 27	Monday, November 19

There will be no Collegian on Tuesday, November 20.
Questions? Call your advertising representative at 532-6560.

If Anyone Asks
"What Is Your Favorite Radio Station?"

KQLA Radio is Q-104
Manhattan—Ft. Riley—Junction City

Bring Your Fiesta to Amigos Tonight!

Live Band:
"Be Here Now"
Friday, Nov. 16
9-12 p.m.

Check out our
New Super Deals!
49¢—59¢—79¢

Amigos
In Aggieville
Open until 3 a.m.

Tacos 49¢
50¢ Draws Everyday

SUNDAY NIGHT

4-8 p.m.
All the pizza and salad you can eat—
ONLY $3.50 + tax

Also available for lunch
Monday through Friday
from 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Children 11 years and under 30¢ X age

SHOWBIZ PIZZA PLACE

519 Richards Drive
Manhattan, KS
(913) 776-1170

Showbiz is the PERFECT place for all of your group gatherings!
CALL FOR MORE INFORMATION.

Religious Directory

The End of Your Search For a Friendly Church First Congregational Church Juliette & Poyntz Sunday Worship 10:45 a.m. Sunday School 9:30 a.m. Rev. Jerry Deffenbaugh 537-7006	FIRST CHURCH of the NAZARENE College Class 9:30 a.m. Worship Services 10:50 a.m. & 6 p.m. Sunday School 9:45 a.m. 1000 Fremont *Nursery Available 539-2851	Valleyview Community Church Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m. Ramada Inn, lower level 17th and Anderson For more information call Dan Walter 776-0112
First Baptist Church Sunday Worship 11 a.m. Church School 9:45 a.m. 2121 Blue Hills Rd. 539-8691	Trinity Presbyterian Church 1110 College Ave. Sunday Worship 10:45 a.m. Young Adult Class 9:30 a.m. 539-3921	WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH Worship 8 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday School 9:30 a.m. Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m. 1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays CARE CELLS (Small Groups) 6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays 3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173
UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST FELLOWSHIP OF MANHATTAN 10:45 a.m. Service & Sunday School Nursery provided, everyone welcome 481 Zeandale Rd. On K-18, 1/2 mile east of K-177	St. Luke's Lutheran Church Worship Saturday 6 p.m. Sunday 8 and 10:45 a.m. —Bible Class— Sun. 9:30 a.m.—Thurs. 7-8:30 p.m.	Peace Lutheran Church 2500 Kimball Ave. Worship at 8:30 a.m. & 10:45 a.m.
St. Isidore's University Chapel Catholic Student Center Sunday Masses 9:30, 11 a.m., 5 p.m. Saturday 5 p.m. Daily Mass-M, Tu, Th, F 4:30 p.m. Wed. 11 a.m. at St. Mary Hospital Wed. 10 p.m. evening prayer Confessions-1/2 hr. before daily mass. Rev. Norbert Diab, Chaplain Sister Rose Walters, C.S.A.	CHURCH OF CHRIST Christian Campus Ministry Sunday School 9:30 a.m. College Class-Money, Sex & Power: A Biblical Perspective Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m. & 6 p.m. 2510 Dickens Ave. 539-6581	GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH 2901 Dickens Ave. Don Pahl, Pastor Mike Tuley, Pastor 776-0424 Worship 8:30 & 10:45 a.m. Collegiate & International Bible Studies Sun. 9:30 a.m. Fellowship Hour Sun. 6 p.m. Family Night Wed. 7 p.m. STUDENTS WELCOME
COLLEGE HEIGHTS BAPTIST CHURCH 9:15 a.m. Sunday School 10:30 a.m. Worship Service 6 p.m. Training Hour 7 p.m. Worship Service 2221 College Heights Rd. 537-7744	FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH Church School-9:45 a.m. Worship-8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Disciples of Christ 5th and Humboldt 776-8790	CRESTVIEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH Worship 10:30 a.m. & 6:30 p.m. Sunday School 9:30 a.m. 4761 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-3798 (2 miles north of Marlett and Tuttle Creek Blvd.)
Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson Steve Ratliff, Pastor Worship 9:30 a.m. Sunday School 11 a.m. 776-2086 Nursery Provided	Anglican/Episcopal Community in Manhattan St. Paul's Episcopal Church & St. Francis/Canterbury Episcopal Fellowship at KSU Sixth & Poyntz 776-9427 or 537-0593 —Sunday Services— 8 A.M. Holy Eucharist I 9:30 Christian Education Classes (for all ages) 10:30 A.M. Choral Eucharist Rite II (Nursery available at 10:30 service) Especially for KSU Students & Faculty 5 P.M. Sunday, Informal Eucharist followed by light supper and fellowship. 7:10 A.M. Tuesday & Thursday, Morning Prayer, Danforth Chapel, KSU	FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH 8:45 a.m. Communion (first Sunday of the month) 9:45 College Church School 8:45 & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking, Pastor 612 Poyntz 776-8821

EAT PIES! THANKSGIVING HOURS AT THE K-STATE UNION

General Building

Tuesday, Nov. 20 7:00a.m. - 10:00p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 21 7:00a.m. - 5:30p.m.
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed
Friday, November 23 Closed
Saturday, Nov. 24 .. 11:30a.m. - 8:00p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 25 12:00noon - 11:00p.m.
Monday, Nov. 26 7:00a.m. - 11:00p.m.

Bookstore

Tuesday, Nov. 20 7:45a.m. - 8:00p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 21 7:45a.m. - 5:00p.m.
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed
Friday, Nov. 23 Closed
Saturday, Nov. 24 .. 12:00noon - 7:30p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 25 12:00noon - 5:00p.m.
Monday, Nov. 26 7:45a.m. - 8:00p.m.

Copy Center

Tuesday, Nov. 20 8:00a.m. - 5:00p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 21 8:00a.m. - 5:00p.m.
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed
Friday, Nov. 23 Closed
Saturday, Nov. 24 .. Closed
Sunday, Nov. 25 Closed
Monday, Nov. 26 7:45a.m. - 9:00p.m.

Information Counter

Tuesday, Nov. 20 7:15a.m. - 6:30p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 21 7:45a.m. - 4:30p.m.
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed

Friday, Nov. 23 Closed
Saturday, Nov. 24 1:00p.m. - 7:30p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 25 12:00noon - 9:30p.m.
Monday, Nov. 26 7:15a.m. - 9:30p.m.

Recreation

Tuesday, Nov. 20 8:00a.m. - 10:30p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 21 8:00a.m. - 10:00p.m.
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed
Friday, Nov. 23 2:00p.m. - 11:00p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 24 .. 2:00p.m. - 11:00p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 25 12:00noon - 10:30p.m.
Monday, Nov. 26 8:00a.m. - 10:30p.m.

Stateroom

Tuesday, Nov. 20 7:00a.m. - 6:30p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 21 7:00a.m. - 4:30p.m.
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed
Friday, Nov. 23 Closed
Saturday, Nov. 24 .. 4:00p.m. - 7:30p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 25 12:00noon - 11:00p.m.
Monday, Nov. 26 7:00a.m. - 11:00p.m.

Union Station

Tuesday, Nov. 20 Closed
Wednesday, Nov. 21 Closed
Thursday, Nov. 22 Closed
Friday, Nov. 23 Closed
Saturday, Nov. 24 .. Closed
Sunday, Nov. 25 Closed
Monday, Nov. 26 11:00a.m. - 10:00p.m.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE THE BOOKSTORE, STATEROOM, RECREATION AREA & INFORMATION COUNTER WILL BE OPEN GAME DAYS OVER THE HOLIDAY BREAK !

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

Lady Cats ready to begin new season

Yow, team will face Aussies in 1st exhibition tilt tonight

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

K-State fans will get their first chance to see the second Wildcat basketball program debut when the Lady Cats take the floor against the Australian Junior National team at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

First-year head coach Susan Yow and her staff will open up the 1990-91 season after coming to K-

"We need a game, and so I'm real excited to play tonight. I think even more so than the players."

—Susan Yow
Lady Cat coach

State March 27, and according to the former Drake coach, the team is eager for the start of the new era.

"We need a game, and so I'm real excited to play tonight. I think even more so than the players," Yow said. "I'm tired of preparing for practices, and I'm sure they're tired of practicing, so it's going to be fun having a game. All this that we've been trying to put together can have some meaning to it."

The Lady Cats, playing only the second foreign exhibition game in the program's history, will face an undefeated Aussie team, which has already beaten Big Eight foes Colorado and Nebraska to go 5-0 in its U.S. tour. They come to Manhattan after a stop in Lawrence to play Kansas Thursday night.

"It's a very tough team for us," Yow said. "There are several international teams traveling the United States this year, and this just happens to be one of the better ones. They will have had six games under their belt and we will have had zero. That's a real concern."

With an abundance of veteran players returning, Yow will depend on experience to slow down the up-tempo style of the Australians.

"Our other concern is how we'll handle their full-court pressure, because we have not worked against that. We haven't even simulated it in practice," Yow said. "But one good thing for us, we have Mary Jo Miller and Nadira Hazim, who have experience in the backcourt, and I think that will help us out a lot. Instinctively, they'll be able to take care of some things that an otherwise inexperienced team could not do."

Yow will also enjoy a powerful front line with Co-Big Eight Player-of-the-Year Diana Miller and last year's rebounding leader, Kristie Bahner.

"We need to rebound well against them, and we need to do a good job of keeping them off their boards," Yow said. "I'm concerned about the transition (game), us getting back on defense. Do I think we can do that — yes, I think we can do all those things, but it's an early season game and we'll really have to be focused."

The Lady Cats return nine letter-winners, five seniors and four starters, as well as 78.1 percent of their scoring and 71.5 percent of the rebounding, giving K-State's new coaching staff tools to work with and an aid against the Aussies.

"I think one of our strong points will be depth," Yow said. "The only difference in the games that (the Australians) have won is that our team might be the best shooting team they have run up against. They say that shooting covers up a multitude of sins, so if we can hit, maybe we won't have to worry so much about the things we don't have."

David Mayes/Staff

K-State forward Diana Miller works through drills during practice Wednesday at Bramlage Coliseum. Miller and the Lady Cats will open the season against the Australian Junior National Team Friday evening at Bramlage. The game will also mark the debut of Coach Susan Yow.

Like any program under a first-year coach, the Lady Cats will be working more on the system rather than the win column.

"I think we have got a lot of teaching in, a lot of basic concepts, but we have not fine-tuned that yet. That's what we're going to do before the conference race," Yow said. "I think we're going to be a very good basketball team. I'm excited about it, and I think we inherited a strong club.

"I think it's a matter of us now gelling with the team and the team gelling with us. It's going to take this preseason period, prior to conference play in January, for that to come about. Anything that happens earlier for the good is wonderful, we'll take it, but I'm very cautiously optimistic early on."

Asked about the emotional side of unveiling her new program, Yow says she hadn't had time to think about it — yet.

"I have not even thought about it," Yow said. "I figured that tonight when I walk on the court for the first time, it will be the first time I give any thought to that. It's kind of a shame that you're so involved with the process you don't even think about it."

"It's a new era in Lady Cat basketball because of the change in staff, just like our men are going through right now. This is our team, and you thought for the seven months that you've been here, that you had a different team. I think tonight it will really hit home that that is your basketball team. It doesn't matter how many of us got here, we ended up together for the 1990-91 season."

Teams end seasons in Colorado

Gridders face No. 2 Buffs in finale

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

It would be nice if K-State coach Bill Snyder was kidding.

Then, everybody could share a joke with the Wildcat boss about how he might not be able to field enough offensive linemen for the upcoming game because of injuries. He could also bring smiles with stories of wounded quarterbacks — one who will probably play and one who will not.

But Snyder isn't joking. And for a nasty punch line, the 'Cats end the 1990 season on the road Saturday against No. 2-ranked and Orange Bowl-bound Colorado.

Kick-off is slated for 1:10 p.m. at Folsom Field in Boulder, Colo.

"The only thing worse may be that they make us play Saturday," Snyder said of K-State's injury situation. "We got pretty banged up at Nebraska last year, but I can't ever remember injuries like this all at once."

Reporting injuries has never been a trademark of Snyder's since coming to K-State. But concealing that information became difficult in last week's 34-7 loss at Oklahoma. The game was stopped several times to bring injured 'Cats off the field.

"It doesn't have anything to do with not playing hard," Snyder said. "The kids are doing that."

Reserve quarterback Paul Watson and defensive end Reggie Blackwell had season-ending injuries against the Sooners. Snyder said others who came off the field, like linebacker Brooks Barta, and linemen Doug Warren and David Gleue, were questionable for Saturday.

The shortage of linemen could cause position changes against the Buffs.

"There is a distinct possibility that that could happen," Snyder said. "If we do, then we will have to find a makeshift way."

Improvising will not be easy against Colorado, a 32-point favorite. After a sluggish start, the Buffs have won eight straight games and

■ See FOOTBALL, Page 10

Spikers battle pair of tough opponents

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State volleyball squad will close out its 1990 season on the road with two matches in Colorado this weekend.

The Wildcats will finish out their Big Eight schedule tonight in Boulder when they face the second-place Colorado Buffaloes, who stand 7-3 in the conference after losing Tuesday night to Nebraska 3-2.

The 'Cats will then travel to Fort Collins to take on the Colorado State Rams in a Saturday afternoon match.

With their 3-2 win over the Missouri Tigers Tuesday night, the 'Cats, 11-13, climbed up to fifth in the conference standings with a 3-8 record.

K-State's Val Roberts has remained consistent during the last stretch of the season, hitting .347 with 24 kills and six blocks in the 'Cats' last two matches. The senior middle hitter is fourth in the conference in hitting efficiency with a .301 percentage.

Freshman setter Alison Murphy has also shared the offensive limelight this season, with a 10.62 assists per game and .500 serving aces per game average — good for second and third in the Big Eight, respectively.

Colorado is listed second in four of the six Big Eight statistical categories — hitting efficiency, kills, assists and digs.

K-State found Colorado oppressive in the teams' first meeting, losing 15-4, 15-9, 15-2, in Ahearn Field House. The Buffaloes hit .495 as a team with 54 kills, while limiting the 'Cats to 22 kills and a .098 hitting percentage.

Colorado State has its offensive weapons as well. Senior Jill Johnson ranks sixth in the nation with 4.91 kills per game, as well as recording 41 kills against LSU — the best kill performance in the country this year.

The Rams have lost seven out of their last eight matches to stand at 12-14 overall and 3-7 in the Western Athletic Conference.

SPORTS BRIEFLY

Henson, Hill sign with 'Cats

With intrastate rival Kansas cashing in on big-name players, K-State found solace in the college basketball recruiting war by signing two potential standouts.

K-State coach Dana Altman announced the signing of Brian Henson of McPherson and George Hill of Fairhope, Ala.

Henson, a 6-foot-1 senior from McPherson High School, is the younger brother of former Wildcats star Steve Henson, who is now an NBA guard with the Milwaukee Bucks.

Henson, who chose the Wildcats over Kansas, averaged 19 points a game last year to help McPherson win the Class 5A state championship.

Henson is listed by national recruiting analyst Bob Gibbons as one of the Top 150 prospects in the country.

George Hill, a 6-8, 220-pound forward from Fairhope High School, is listed by Gibbons as one of the nation's top 100 high school players. He averaged 17 points and 10 rebounds a game as a junior.

Riniker's bid ends

Michele Riniker's bid to earn one of the 32 spots in the Dupont National Clay Court Championships fell short Thursday. Riniker lost to Alison Hill of Mississippi 6-0, 6-2 in the second round of the qualifying tournament.

Riniker, whose three victories and a special alternate bid allowed her to reach the final 16 of the tourney, fell two victories short of qualifying. With the top 28 seeds in the main tournament already determined, Riniker needed to reach the qualifying semifinals to earn a berth in the main draw.

Harrington wants team to run

Editor's Note: This is the sixth story in a seven-part series on the Big Eight men's basketball race.

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

There may only be one person in the Rocky Mountain state who likes it faster than new Colorado coach Joe Harrington.

His name is Paul Westhead, and fortunately for Big Eight Conference teams, they won't have to worry about his love for the fast break. Westhead coaches the NBA's Denver Nuggets.

But don't breathe a sigh of relief just yet. Harrington, who came to Colorado from Long Beach State during the off-season, won't settle for walking the ball up the floor, or watching the other team score at will.

"My players talk like they want to play that style, and they look good doing it against each other," Harrington said. "But it's a little different when you're trying to do it against Oklahoma and Missouri."

If there is a place in the Big Eight where change is welcome, it is Colorado. The Buffaloes have spent five consecutive years in the league cellar, and the last four cost former Coach Tom Miller his job.

Miller, who is now coaching at Army, had a bittersweet end to his tenure in Boulder, Colo. The Buffs rallied at the end of the 1989-90 season to reach the finals of the Big Eight Tournament before falling to Oklahoma.

But at season's end, Miller's 35-79 record at the school failed to earn sympathy from administrators.

"We felt sorry for Coach Miller, because it was a situation where a man lost his job," senior guard Steve Wise said. "But we didn't have a lot of say in that, and we had to keep on going."

With Harrington calling the shots, Colorado will attempt to move on in high gear. He was able to implement the up-tempo style at Long Beach State, which resulted in two NIT berths in three seasons for a previously downtrodden program.

"I'm not sure if we can get things done as quickly as we did at Long Beach," Harrington said. "But there's a lot of things in place at Colorado. I've really tried to use the success that Coach (Bill) McCartney has had in football."

With four returning starters, Harrington could have a success base right in front of him. The top returnee is senior Shaun Vandiver, who led the conference last year in scoring (22.3 ppg) and rebounds (11.2 rpg).

Vandiver admitted the new philosophy had captured his attention. "I haven't pressed since high school, so this is a big wake-up call for me," Vandiver said. "But we have some guys who played on high school teams that didn't have a guy taller than 6-4 or 6-5, so I know they're glad to see the change."

One of those guys is Wise, who was second in the league scoring race at 20 points per game.

"I've always liked that style, and my teammates have adjusted very well," Wise said. "Still, nobody knows what to expect. We definitely need some wins to boost our confidence."

Sutton returns home

Job at Oklahoma State lures coach back to alma mater

Editor's Note: This is the seventh story in a seven-part series on the Big Eight men's basketball race.

By David Svoboda
Sports Editor

Welcome home, Eddie Sutton.

That was the cry in Stillwater, Okla., last spring when former Oklahoma State head basketball coach Leonard Hamilton picked up shop and moved to Miami to become the new Hurricane boss.

Sutton, who had played for the legendary Henry Iba at Oklahoma A&M from 1955 to 1958, was a logical choice to return to his alma mater, and return he did.

And when he got back to Stillwater, his former coach had a bit of advice for him. And the advice carried right on through the opening of practices this fall.

Sutton, with Oklahoma State students in a short, day-long fall break that fell on the opening day of practices Oct. 15, took advantage of the fact his players had no classes to attend. The Cowboys practiced three times that day, but Iba still objected.

"We had three practices, and Coach said we should have been having four," Sutton said of Iba's response to the OSU practice schedule.

The players Sutton saw practice on that day are some of the most talented in the conference, most observers agree. And after a few weeks of workouts, Sutton has been fairly pleased with their progress.

"They ain't what they ought to be, ain't what they're gonna be, but they

the team in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and steals.

"I've had a lot of one-on-one sessions with him," Sutton said of Houston, who averaged 18.5 points in 1989-90. "He's a player who, in my opinion, can dominate both ends of the floor."

Sutton also likes the Cowboy backcourt combo of Corey Williams and Darwyn Alexander, both juniors. They averaged 9.4 and 10.2 points, respectively, last year.

"Corey and Darwyn are very talented players," said Sutton, who has had quite a few talented guards in stops at Creighton, Arkansas and Kentucky. "Nobody likes those guards any better than I do."

One reason Sutton is so high on his guards is that they both have quickly adopted his defensive philosophies. Those philosophies are fairly simple, and they all revolve around doing whatever it takes to win.

"You take any team sport," Sutton said, "and if a team wins consistently, they win with defense."

"We've got to get used to that style," Houston said. "He stresses defense, and has introduced a lot of techniques to make us better at that end of the floor."

sure ain't what they was," he quipped.

What were they in 1989-90? Good enough to qualify for the NIT postseason tournament for a second consecutive year. What they weren't was good enough to make the NCAA tournament into a five-team Big Eight affair rather than four.

And if the Cowboys are to join the NCAA tourney field, they'll do so with forward Byron Houston leading the way.

Last season, Houston became the first player in school history to lead

Noriega fears unfair trial

Government to spend $30 million for prosecution

By The Associated Press

MIAMI — Stripping Manuel Noriega of his fortune and forcing him to accept court-appointed lawyers would be unfair and make the U.S. judicial system look bad, some of the nation's top legal scholars say.

U.S. District Judge William Hoever has set a Friday deadline for Noriega's private attorneys to work out payment and resume working on the drug-smuggling case. Otherwise, the judge will appoint government-paid counsel for the deposed Panamanian dictator.

The Criminal Justice Act, which governs such appointments, allows for only two or three relatively low-paid lawyers and a few thousand dollars for investigating the case.

Noriega's current lawyers object, saying the government reneged on President Bush's pledge to give Noriega a fair trial.

"It's made it an unfair and unbalanced prosecution," said Harvard University law professor Alan Dershowitz. "It's extremely unfair to take a case where the United States has put incredible resources and ask someone to defend it on the basis of the CIA budget."

The defense estimates that the Justice Department is using 25 to 30 lawyers and will spend up to $30 million to prosecute Noriega.

University of Michigan law professor Yale Kamisar said the case's investigative phase is often more important than the trial in a complicated prosecution like Noriega's.

Neal Sonnett, who recently ended a term as president of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers, said the law's allowable budget makes the case a mismatch.

"In a case of this magnitude, with all the issues at stake, the United States should be bending over backward to ensure Noriega has the lawyers of his choice," said Sonnett, who once worked on the Noriega case.

William Greenhalgh, a Georgetown University law professor, said the case's prestige may allow the judge to find top-level lawyers prepared to take the case, even at a fraction of their normal rates.

"I think it would be most unfortunate if (the judge) pushes whoever he appoints to go to trial before they're ready," Greenhalgh said. "If I got appointed to it, I would be filing a huge motion for continuance."

Noriega's pauper status was created by the government. Soon after the invasion of Panama, the Justice Department asked foreign nations to freeze 27 bank accounts holding about $20 million in money allegedly controlled by Noriega.

Hoever ordered that money freed in June, but prosecutors responded that the foreign governments stepped in with their own confiscation procedures, tying up the money indefinitely.

Justice Department spokesmen refused to comment about court-appointment law because of its application to the case.

"The Sixth Amendment entitles him to adequate counsel," said the conservative Washington Legal Foundation's chief counsel, Richard Samp. "It doesn't entitle him to the best counsel he can get in the country."

"I have qualms about any pre-trial procedures in which the government takes away people's assets," Samp said. "Noriega ought to have a chance to contest that."

Architecture, Design college dedicates learning center

By Mary Skinner
Collegian Reporter

Dedication ceremonies for the College of Architecture and Design's Krider Visual Resource and Learning Center was Thursday in the K-State Union.

The Visual Resource and Learning Center, which is located in Seaton 219, was named after G. Elden Krider, former professor and director of environmental design.

"It was named to honor him because he had done so much for the college," said Carolyn Pretzer, center director. "He started the first department of environmental design and created the first slide collection for the Visual Resource and Learning Center."

Krider donated about 6,000 slides from his personal collection to the center, Pretzer said.

Krider graduated from what was then Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Sciences in 1933. He was a professor and the first director of architecture and design at K-State from 1947 until his retirement in 1977.

"Krider was part of the strong foundation of the College of Architecture and Design that we have now," said Eugene Wendt, associate professor in architecture.

Krider said he was touched to receive this honor from his colleagues and friends.

"You hear all these things they say about you, and you know what you've done. But you didn't know that it was as great as they make it sound," Krider said.

Krider said the center was important because visual images are as important to architects as words are to journalists.

The center is mainly used by the faculty in the College of Architecture and Design for teaching resources, including a categorically arranged slide catalog, said Diane Potts, administrative officer for the College of Architecture and Design.

"All of the audio and visual equipment that is used by the College of Architecture and Design is kept here," Pretzer said.

Lane Marshall, Dean of Architecture and Design, said the naming of the center was a reaffirmation of the vision for this college, and it must remain a freestanding college, not just a department.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT
COLLEGIAN
ClassADS

McCain

Turtle Island String Quartet

Darol Anger, David Balakrishnan, Mark Summer, Katrina Wreede
Windham Hill Jazz Recording Artists

Saturday, November 17, 8 p.m.

A ground-breaking ensemble that packs more kick than your average ninja. This fearless foursome pumps bluegrass, Texas fiddle, rock, African rhythms, and Eastern melodies into a jazz setting. If Kronos set the table, these Windham Hill Jazz artists make radical additions to the menu.

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

Presented with the support of the Fine Arts Fee.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University

For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

UNITED ARTISTS Theatres

*3.50 ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6:00 P.M.

SETH CHILDS 6 776-9886
Seth Childs at Farm Bureau Rd.

Rocky V (PG-13)
Daily 7:05 & 9:30
Sat. & Sun. 2:05, 4:30, 7:05 & 9:30
Rescuers Down Under (G)
Daily 7 & 9:20
Sat. & Sun. 2, 4:25, 7 & 9:20
Ghost (PG-13)
Daily 6:50 & 9:25
Sat. & Sun. 1:50, 4:25, 6:50 & 9:25
Jacob's Ladder (R)
Daily 7:05 & 9:30
Sat. & Sun. 2:05, 4:30, 7:05 & 9:30
Sibling Rivalry (PG-13)
Daily 7:15 & 9:20
Sat. & Sun. 2:15, 4:20, 7:15 & 9:20
Home Alone (PG)
Daily 7:10 & 9:25
Sat. & Sun. 2:10, 4:35, 7:10 & 9:25

BUSHWACKER'S

Friday
Body by Schliebe

"Survival of the Fittest" Contest
8 p.m.

Mon., Tues.,
& Wednesday
9 p.m.

Comedy Invasion
Richard De La Font

COLLEGE CLUBS Travel Fundraiser

This year put FUN in your FUNdraiser!!!

Sell Spring Break trips to...
• Orlando • Cancun
• Puerto Vallarta • South Padre
• Mazatlan • Island

Travel Packages Include:
• Roundtrip Transportation Via Motor
Coach or Air
• Deluxe Lodging Accommodations
• Special Student Activities
• Highest Rated Club Commissions
• FREE Advice/Office Trips
• Marketing Operation Accounting Kits

Telephone now or send coupon to:

Travel Service International
1888 Sherman St. Suite 780
Denver, CO 80203

School _____
Name _____
Group _____
Address _____
City/State/Zip _____
School Phone () _____
Home Phone () _____

Travel Service International
1-800-258-9191 EXT 103

*This program is also available to enterprising individuals or faculty interested in organizing your own separate travel group!!!

Pizza Hut® DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION
NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4234

Plum Tree Restaurant

Homestyle Buffet

All you can eat $5.75, Sunday 5-9 p.m.
Includes soup & salad bar

- Fried Chicken
- Country Green Beans
- Mashed Potatoes & Gravy
- Rolls & Butter
- Macaroni & Cheese
- Chocolate Mousse

* Holiday Inn

530 Richards Drive Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 539-5311

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER 539-3338

- Free Pregnancy Testing
- Totally Confidential Services
- Same Day Results
- Call For Appointment
- Walk-ins Welcome
- Located across from Campus
in Anderson Village

Monday-Friday
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
or by appointment

is opening Monday, November 26!

Featuring large screen tv, snacks and deli sandwiches, large dance floor, beverages, entertainment and more!

See you at
Union Station!

SPRING CLOSED CLASSES
00140	03400	05480	07640	11580	14740	18120	20240	25650	27020	30150	32540	33990
01410	03410	05510	07650	11590	14750	18140	20430	26210	27030	30160	32550	34000
01480	03420	05550	07660	11610	14770	18240	20500	26290	27040	30200	32560	34090
01770	03450	05560	08230	11620	14780	18360	20680	26310	27090	30220	32640	34100
02060	03460	05580	08390	11630	14800	18430	20830	26320	27100	30250	32650	34110
02140	03470	05640	08400	11640	15010	18440	20870	26330	27120	30300	32660	34120
02150	03480	05670	08420	11680	15050	18450	21030	26340	27150	30320	32730	34800
02360	03490	05680	08480	11720	15070	18460	21100	26350	27160	30330	32780	35120
02430	03500	05720	08650	11721	15090	18470	21230	26360	27190	30340	32790	35120
02730	03510	05750	08970	12340	15100	18480	21240	26370	27240	30340	32790	35250
02980	03520	05760	08990	12340	15130	18490	21280	26390	27250	30350	32800	35260
03040	03530	05770	09020	12440	15150	18500	21330	26400	27270	30360	32800	35290
03060	03540	05780	09060	12470	15160	18510	21420	26410	27280	30370	32810	35320
03100	03550	05810	09160	12830	15180	18680	21460	26430	27290	30380	32810	35350
03130	03560	05820	09250	13220	15190	18690	21520	26440	27340	30390	32810	35350
03140	03570	05950	09700	13350	15220	18990	23000	26460	27370	30400	32810	35360
03160	03580	05970	09720	13700	15250	19730	23440	26470	27400	30410	32810	35350
03190	03590	05980	09770	13730	15290	19740	23450	26540	27450	30420	32810	35360
03200	03600	06020	09900	13740	15320	19770	23490	26560	27460	30430	32810	35360
03260	03610	07060	11140	13821	15350	19790	23770	26610	27470	30440	32810	35360
03270	03620	07210	11310	13990	15510	19890	23830	26620	27480	30450	32810	35360
03280	03630	07520	11390	14180	15551	20020	23850	26630	27500	30460	32810	35360
03290	03670	07530	11400	14240	15580	20030	23900	26670	27520	30845	32810	35360
03300	03680	07540	11410	14240	15630	20040	23910	26690	27530	31570	32810	35360
03310	03680	07550	11420	14310	15800	20050	24000	26720	27540	31580	32810	35360
03320	03680	07560	11430	14320	15800	20050	24000	26720	27540	31580	32810	35360
03330	03690	07570	11431	14330	17270	20070	25220	26830	27710	31690	32810	35360
03340	03950	07580	11520	14380	17280	20110	25260	26940	28020	31810	32810	35360
03350	03980	07590	11530	14410	17510	20120	25300	26950	29790	31860	32810	35360
03360	04150	07600	11540	14460	17660	20130	25310	26970	29860	31990	32810	35360
03370	04660	07610	11550	14620	17760	20140	25460	26980	29900	32450	32810	35360
03380	05460	07620	11560	14630	18050	20150	25630	27000	30090	32510	32810	35360
03390	05470	07630	11570	14710	18090	20230	25640	27010	30130	32530	32810	35360

Let's Share

During November and December 1990, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a COLLEGIAN Classified Ad. (Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

1 can	50 cents
2 cans	$1.00
3 cans	$1.50
4 cans	$2.00
5 cans	$2.50
6 cans	$3.00

Student Publications Inc. will-donate all items to the Flint
Hills Breadbasket.

Offer expires 12/13/90

Edge Center provides students with ideas to help memory skills

By The Collegian Staff

Students who need to improve their memory or sharpen their communication skills have a place on campus where they can ensure they have the edge.

Located in the Student Government office, the Edge Center allows students to improve their leadership skills, and it provides them with a self-help format to improve themselves.

The center, established in 1988, is sponsored by Blue Key, a senior honorary. The funds for the center are provided by Rich Mistlar and his family. Mistlar, his brother and father were all members of Blue Key, said David Mugler, adviser for Blue Key.

The Mistlar family has supported Blue Key with several donations to scholarship funds and other projects.

"A lot of the things there, leadership development items, are there because of money the Mistlars have made available," Mugler said.

The center has a television, VCR and cassette deck with headphones, said Todd Johnson, student body president.

"It is very well furnished," Johnson said.

The center provides a variety of different motivational cassettes and video tapes, including "What They Don't Teach at Harvard Business School," "Power Memory," "You, Too Can Write," "Great Ideas That Built IBM," and "Loving Each Other." These tapes are designed to complement what is taught in classes.

"The center really has some high-quality stuff. They have some of the best information available," Johnson said. "It's really too bad that more students don't come in and use the Edge Center."

The Center is open during regular SGS office hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Shuttle lifts off

Satellite's mission not confirmed

By The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA. — Atlantis lit up the sky Thursday in a rare launch in darkness as it set off on a secret military mission that reportedly will send a satellite to spy on Iraq.

The shuttle thundered from its ocean launch pad at 6:48 p.m. EST, trailed by a 700-foot pillar of flame. On board were five astronauts who will deploy the satellite during the flight.

The 100-ton shuttle was visible for miles as it rocketed into the nighttime sky.

It was the fifth after-dark launch in 37 shuttle flights. It also was NASA's fifth launch for 1990 and the seventh, and probably last, Pentagon shuttle mission to be shrouded in secrecy.

Two minutes into the flight, Atlantis' two solid fuel rockets burned out and dropped into the Atlantic Ocean. The shuttle continued toward an undisclosed or-

See SHUTTLE, Page 10

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASS ADS

Kedzie 103

532-6555

1 Announcements

ALL YOUR Mary Kay needs —skincare —glamor —nails —gifts for all seasons. Floris Taylor, 539-2070.

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

CLASS AD deadline for Monday, Nov. 26th. Collegian will be at noon on Nov. 19th.

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships! Your receive a minimum of eight sources, or your money refunded. Guaranteed! College Scholarship Locations, P.O. Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

LUNCH IN: Olsburg, on Nov. 17. Brick's and Kaffe Hus. Come to the most unusual craft show in the area. Tailgates, Prairie Art and Craft Sale, 10a.m.—4p.m. Olsburg Grade School.

1991 ROYAL Purple yearbooks may be purchased for $13 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday in Kedzie 103.

Don't Forget
FRIDAY
LADIES
IN FREE
SATURDAY
No Cover
with Student ID
Only At
BAYSTREET

SCHOLARSHIPS/ GRANTS for college are available. Millions go unclaimed yearly. 1-800-334-3881.

THE OSAGE House invites you to enjoy Indian carryout tonight for under $4. Call 776-1234. 2605 Stagg Hill Road

2 Apartments—Furnished

CHRISTIAN FEMALE looking for female to share two-bedroom apartment two blocks west of campus. Laundry, $100 plus utilities. 539-6871.

NEED ROOMMATE, $185/month plus electricity. Cross street from campus. 539-8498.

ONE-BEDROOM SIXTH and Bluemont. Available mid-November. $260, water and trash paid. No pets. 776-3804.

QUIET WELL MAINTAINED one-bedroom, furnished apartment with laundry and patio. Opening Dec. 15. Prefer employed person or graduate student. $245, year lease. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. 537-9698 for application.

STUDIO APARTMENT—$165—plus electric. Sunny, spacious, clean. Off-street parking. Available Jan. 1. 537-3196.

SUNNY, SPACIOUS one-bedroom. Recently carpeted. Close to campus and downtown. Available Jan. 1, 1991. Non-smoker. No pets. $275 per month plus utilities. Please have references available. Call Gloria, 539-4915, after 5:30p.m.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment one block from campus. $295/month. 776-1231.

3 Apartments—Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JAN. 1—Spacious two-bedroom, bathroom, central air, dishwasher. Call after 6p.m. 776-0269.

NICE, QUIET, spacious one-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Need to take over lease, expires July 1. Renewable with landlords approval. $285 a month plus utilities. Call 539-5173.

SKI RENTALS

NOW TAKING RESERVATIONS FOR THE ULTIMATE SKI AND WINTER VACATION VEHICLES

1991 CHEVROLET SUBURBAN SILVERADO

- 4 WHEEL DRIVE
- 8 PASSENGER SEATING
- FRONT BUCKET SEATS
- FULL POWER EQUIPMENT
- ROOF SKI RACK
- TRAILER TOWING PACKAGE
- TILT WHEEL & CRUISE CONTROL
- FRONT & REAR AC & HEAT

7 DAYS, 1800 MILES FREE FOR ONLY $549

4 DAY WEEKEND PACKAGE AVAILABLE $329 WITH 1200 MILES FREE

1991 CHEVROLET ASTRO LT EXTENDED VAN

- POSTTRACTION REAR DIFFERENTIAL
- 8 PASSENGER SEATING
- FULL POWER EQUIPMENT
- ROOF SKI RACK
- TRAILER TOWING PACKAGE
- ROOF SKI RACK
- TRAILER TOWING PACKAGE
- TILT WHEEL & CRUISE CONTROL
- FRONT AND REAR AC & HEAT

7 DAYS, 1800 MILES FREE FOR ONLY $499

4 DAY WEEKEND PACKAGE AVAILABLE $329 WITH 1200 MILES FREE

CALL PAT FAGAN AT:

Jim LARK AUTO CENTER
JUNCTION CITY, KANSAS

238-3141, FROM MANHATTAN CALL 776-7851

Leapin' Lizards

Here comes Lowell Davis'
1930 Restored Mobile Home
...the Leapin' Lizard

- Tour this mini museum of Lowell Davis—America's favorite folk artist of figurines and collectibles. Meet our Schmid representative, Monique Penn, and Lowell's future son-in-law, Jason.
- See the new '91 figurines featuring Lowell's "Route 66" Series and original oil paintings.
- A special tour figurine "Leaving the Rat Race" will be available Saturday only.
- Free $32.50 value ornament for new club members joining & registering at our show.

Saturday, Nov. 17, 12 til 4 o'clock

5th and Poyntz

Campbell's
Downtown

776-9067

NEED COLLEGE student to do childcare in my home. One 4-year-old. Tuesday and Thursday. 11:30a.m.—6p.m. Beginning Jan. 8. 537-3380.

7 Computers

COMPUTER RIBBONS and supplies. Hull Business Supplies. Aggieville, 714 N. 12th. 539-1413.

FOR SALE—New Mac Classic or Mac Ili, unopened, unused with Microsoft Works. Priced below bookstore. Call 539-0801 or come by 1115 Westloop.

IBM COMPATIBLE XT dual floppy, monochrome monitor, printer. Software and manuals, $800. Call 537-8664.

8 Employment

47 WAYS to beat the high cost of college! Make $12-$20-$50 an hour! Be Your Own Boss! Amazing 24 hour recorded details (406)756-5134.

JOBS! JOBS!

Positions available nationwide and overseas. All occupations with competitive salaries and benefits. 15-80K+.

Free Information

Call
Corporate Careers
(913) 539-1144

(Continued on page 9)

BAYSTREET AND THE PIT

TONIGHT!!

LADIES FREE

SAT.

NO COVER WITH
STUDENT I.D.

.10 KAMIS ALL
WEEKEND!

TEAM CAPS
..... OUR SPECIALTY

$11.99

OFFICIALLY LICENSED

35 Different College
Team Caps

Officially Licensed College Logo
embroidered on custom baseball cap.
Available in wool serge or polyester knit.

Don Morton

P.O. Box 4780 • Sports • 2040 Tuttle Creek Blvd • Manhattan, Kansas 66520 • Fax: 913-776-6861

PRE-SEASON SKI SALE

20% OFF
BLACK BEAR * EUROPA * INSIDE EDGE
SKI WEAR

10% OFF
OBERMEYER * GERRY * HELLY-HANSEN
SKI WEAR &
ACCESSORIES

SIDEWALK SALE ON SATURDAY
WEATHER PERMITTING

Mon.-Thurs. 10-8
Fri. & Sat. 10-6
Sunday 1-5

Aggie Ski & Sport

1214 Moro, Aggieville

537-9105

(Continued from page 8)

EARN $300 to $500 per week reading books at home. Call 1-815-473-7440 ext. B 288.

EXPERIENCED ILLUSTRATOR wanted to freelance for local advertising agency. Airbrush preferred. Leave resume/sample work at Box 4, Collegian.

HELP WANTED: Roof truss fabricating plant, 5107 Murray Road.

HOME TYPISTS, PC users needed. $35,000 potential. Details: 1-805-687-6000, Ext. B-9701.

HOUSEPARENT WANTED: Good job for student spouse. Live and work in group home caring for five or six children wards of SRS. Need parenting skills and ability to work with teenagers. Mature person required. Week on, week off. Good salary and fringe benefits. Spouse may live in free job site. Alma, Kansas. Call house staff 1-765-3627, EOE.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS, CIA, U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

INTELLIGENCE JOBS—All branches. U.S. Customs, DEA, etc. Now hiring. Call 1-805-687-6000 Ext. K-9701.

MANHATTAN COUNTRY Club is now accepting applications for waiters/waitresses. Applicants must be at least 20 years of age, have two years experience and be available every evening. Apply in person, 1531 N. 10th, ask for Dan.

NANNIES, LIVE-IN positions—East Coast. Airfare, great salaries. Fun social activities. Carefully screened families. Individualized attention. Princeton Nanny, 301 N. Harrison, Princeton, N.J. 08540; (609)497-1195.

NANNY OPPORTUNITIES. "San Francisco— one girl— $150/ week." "Southern California— newborn— $175/ week." "Connecticut— infant— $180/ week." "Boston— one girl— $160/ week." "Virginia— two children— $225/ week." Many positions available. One-year commitment necessary. Call 1-800-937-NANNI.

SUMMER JOBS Outdoors, over 5,000 openings! National parks, forests, fire crews. Send stamp for free details. 133 East Wyoming, Kalispell, MT 59901.

WORD PROCESSOR— 15-20/ week— Available immediately. KSU student with excellent word processing skills and motivation to use technology needed. 40-50 wpm. WordPerfect experience and computer skills a plus. Pick up application in computer systems office, 211 Umberger Hall. Application deadline 11/27/90. For more information call 532-6270.

WORK IN beautiful Colorado mountains this summer at Cheley Colorado Camps summer program. R.N.s, drivers, office, wranglers, ranny, kitchen, song leaders, riding, hiking, backpacking, sports, crafts counselors. Campers age 9-17. Room and board, cash salary, travel allowance. Our 71st summer! Must be at least 19 to apply. Applicants will be notified of campus interview date. Apply to Cheley Colorado Camps, Box 6525, Denver, Colorado 80206. 303-377-3616.

WORKING WOMAN or student to live with elderly lady. Room and board in exchange for household duties. 539-2755.

9 Food Specials

Hardee's DELIVERY

Will be running Thanksgiving morning 6 a.m.-10:30 a.m. 537-2526 West location will also be open

SUNDAY LUNCH Pan Fried Chicken and other daily specials. Specials include free dessert. ONLY $4.25 Serving Breakfast till 1 p.m. Open Every Sunday 7 a.m.-2:30 p.m. CHEF 111 S. 4th 10% off with this ad

11 Garage and Yard Sales

SATURDAY 9a.m.—3p.m., siriktop, cabinet, jewelry, toys, household goods, clothing—sweaters, miscellaneous. 2016 Thackeray.

14 Lost and Found

FOUND: GRAY and white tabby kitten at Putnam Hall. Call 532-2249 and 537-1388.

LOST: MEN'S 18-inch silver rope chain on or near campus on Nov. 7. High sentimental value! Phone 539-8283.

LOST: PRESCRIPTION glasses around Calvin or Student Union, brand name Tura. Burgundy color. Call Catherine. 532-6799.

LOST: SHARP calculator Tuesday 11/6/90 in CW. Call 537-7809 after 5p.m.

STILL MISSING: Gray and white tabby cat. He has circles on sides. 537-4430 leave message.

15 Meetings/ Events

FILM "NOT One of the Boys," and Discussion about Women in Politics, Sunday, Nov. 18 at 8p.m. at 1834 Laramie.

Manhattan Creative Arts Guild 12th Annual Christmas Arts Festival SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1990 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Potliff Hall-Cico Park

17 Mobile Homes for Sale

12x65 MOBILE Home, two-bedroom, shower, new carpet, wallpaper and linoleum, washer, dryer, big yard, excellent condition. Take possession over Christmas. $7,500. 539-8694.

SALE, TWO-BEDROOM, appliances, large awning. Cute home. Payments $139.64. Set up close to campus. Countryside, 539-2325.

18 Motorcycles/Bicycles for Sale

1985 KDX 200, excellent condition, many new parts. Riding gear. 539-3945.

1986 SUZUKI Intruder. Excellent condition. Call Sean or leave message at 539-7960. $1,800 or best offer.

1989 CR125—Better than new, modified, must see. 539-6363. Joel.

CENTURION IRONMAN expert racing bike, excellent condition. For information call 776-5676.

MOUNTAIN BIKE, 1989 Diamondback Ascent EX with accessories. $325. Call Dan 532-4519 or 776-7151.

TREK 820 18-speed, SIS Cromoly construction, white with blue graphics, 16.5 inch frame, good condition. $200, accessories extra. 539-2942. Erin.

MOTORCYCLE SUPPLY

Red Baron Goggles 19.95
Winter Leather Gloves 26.58
1221 Moro/776-6177

19 Music/ Musicians

FOR SALE: Sholtz Rockman soloist portable guitar amplifier. Brand new. 776-8317.

21 Personals

AZD PLEDGES—We came and serenaded. We hope you were impressed. Come all to our Nuclear Waste Party. It will be the best. We'll party and dance the night away. Yes, you know it's true. We are the two best pledge classes, Alpha Xi and Delta U.

BITHER, HAPPY Legaldy, it's about time. Love, Rando & Juts.

BROOKE—YEAH you! Thanks for the company, and the sucker. I'm on sponge, I'll treat next time. Suz.

CASSIE—I'm glad I studied with Denise. Now I can't wait until Monday! Call me soon. —S.W.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to you. Happy Birthday to you. Happy Birthday, Dear Rodster. Happy Birthday to you. Love you, Sparky.

H.B. JR.—Roses are red, Violets are blue, It's been a few years, and I still love you. Happy 19th—Hope it's a good one. Love always—Tennis Shoes.

KDS—SATURDAY night we will celebrate 70 years of sisterhood, laughter, AOT, and memories to last us a lifetime. So at the Holiday we'll put on the dog and frolic with our dates, because Kappa Delta really rates!

LIZ—IT'S Friday! Are you ready? Get the keg and ice, ice (baby, let's go!) Happy Birthday! Love—D.

NUT—IT all began 12 months ago on a hill where the wind did blow. I didn't realize just how special you were. But now I do, and I am sure. Thanks for a wonderful year. Love, Your Stoner.

PRESTON—MOST kids don't get a new house for their Birthday. This calls for a Party! —Joel.

REBECCA—I would like to see The Rules in action—James, The Underwood.

ROSEY—HEY Spot—Happy Birthday to a wonderful guy—Even though I won't be with you to help celebrate the big 2-1, I'll be thinking of you. How about a little celebration Saturday? I love you—your brat.

TO MY "New" Sweetie—Here's to The Forum, sneaking around, champagne and strawberries and New Year's. No more going to our spot. Thank you for an unforgettable year. Love, Sweetie. P.S. You can have the inside.

TONIGHT'S The night, come party with us at the Pub. AZ.

TROY P., from Pascal and Chem.—Let's go for a "ride" in your Porsche. I'll shift, you "drive." Jennifer W.

WD69 & HCTB#1: Little Snakes, batteries, obvious PP missions—hope turkey day satisfies your oral orifice better. Stephanie.

22 Pets and Pet Supplies

55-GALLON AQUARIUM Lionfish, eel and two Damselfish in salt water, all chemicals and extras, $275. 776-2497.

55-GALLON SALT water aquarium. Complete setup includes Wet Dry drip filter. $450. 537-8252.

FERRER FOR sale. Five months old and very lovable. Landlord found out—Must Go! Paid $130. Make offer. 776-8677.

23 Resume/Typing Service

ARE YOU willing to trust your resume to just anyone? The Resume Service has been providing complete resume services to KSU students for over 10 years. We offer laser- and letter-quality printing and permanent computer storage. Contact the professionals at 343 Colorado Street or call 537-7294/539-6027.

COLLEGE PAPERS, resumes, letters. $1.25 double; $2.50 single. Quality work and print. Betty 539-6851. Clafin.

LETTER-QUALITY $1.25 double. Reports/ letters/ resumes. Same day available. Please call Susan Lawson, 776-0676.

PAPERS, RESUMES, letters, theses and dissertations. Stored and completed to your satisfaction. Fast turn around. Ross Secretarial Service, 614 N. 12th. 539-5147. Across from Kite's.

TYPEWRITER RENTALS and Fax. Also Sales and Service for Smith Corona, IBM, TA Royal and Silver Reed. Advanced Business Systems in Aggieville next to Chuck's Car Wash. 539-7931.

Typing USING word perfect 5.1/ laser printer. Call Judy at 539-7100.

WORD PROCESSING/ Typing $1.25 D/S page. 776-9636 after 3:30p.m., or leave message on answer machine.

24 Roommate Wanted

AVAILABLE SPRING semester, nice new room at Woodway Apartments. $168 plus utilities, after 5:30p.m. 537-8288.

BE MY roommate: Clean, modern apartment. Female, Christian, non-smoker. $175. 539-3459. Available now.

FEMALE, MUST love pets. $192.50 a month plus utilities. Shuttle service. Call Karen, 776-1286.

FEMALE ROOMMATE, one and one-half block from campus. Aggieville, $200, water, trash paid. One-third other utilities. Jan. 1. Lanni 776-5492, leave message.

FEMALE ROOMMATES wanted for Jan. 1 to May 31. Close to campus. $138.75/ month. Call 539-2919.

FEMALE ROOMMATE immediately. First month's rent free. One block from campus. Own bedroom and bathroom. Call 539-0437.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. $142.50/ month plus one-half utilities. Available immediately. Park Place Apartments. Call 539-8391.

FEMALE—SHARE two-bedroom furnished house. One block east of campus. Prefer upper-classman or graduate student, own bedroom. $150 a month. Call 537-4947 after 6p.m.

MALE NON-SMOKER to share three-bedroom. $120 plus utilities. 539-3690.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Close to campus. $140/ month, one-sixth utilities, own room. Ask for Matt or Larry. 776-9443.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Next to City Park. $140/ month plus utilities. 776-1745.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share brand-new three-bedroom apartment at 1850 Clafin. Call 539-2999 for details.

MALE ROOMMATE to share three-bedroom house. Must see to appreciate. Close to campus. $186.67/ month, one-third utilities. Spring semester. 539-3563.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom apartment. Own room. Close to campus. $182.50, one-half utilities. Ask for Matt, 539-8200.

NEED IMMEDIATE, responsible, female roommate, spacious two-bedroom apartment, own bedroom with bath, dishwasher, washer/dryer. $187.50, one-half utilities. Leave message, 539-7029.

ONE, NON-SMOKING female for January. $147.50 month plus one-fourth utilities. One-half block from Ahearn. Nice. No deposit. 776-9026.

ONE ROOMMATE to fill luxury townhome, three fun-loving roommates. Own room. Has everything. $195. 776-2497.

TWO ROOMMATES, Dec. 1st or June 1st. Washer/dryer, $125 each. 539-5727, own room, close to KSU.

WANTED: COLLEGE girl to share farm house with mother and two children. Call 776-0466.

25 Services

CONFIDENTIAL: FREE pregnancy test. Call for appointment. Hours: 9a.m.—5p.m. Pregnancy Testing Center. 539-3338.

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 South Fourth St., Suite 25.

Sports injury?
Call today for an appointment
537-8305

Dr. Mark Hatesohl
Chiropractic Family Health Center
3252 Kimball Avenue
Candlewood Shopping Center

SUFFERING FROM Abortion? Write: HeartsRestored, Box 94, Ginnell, Kansas 67738. Confidential response will follow.

26 Stereo Equipment

JVC STEREO receiver with surround and remote. Almost new! Weight bench and weights. Great price on both. Call Jeff 539-6754.

SONY CDD-7580 car stereo CD player pullout, Sony XE-90 equalizer. Both like new for $550 or best offer. 537-3229.

27 Sports/Recreation Equipment

SKIS—K2 Gyrators, size 175 cm. Kevlar/ Ceramic bases, colorful graphics. Brand new, never skied. Listed last year for $295. Sell for $100 or best offer. 537-1505.

28 Sublease

AVAILABLE SPRING semester. Two-bedroom apartment two blocks from campus. 776-4782.

DON'T MISS! Male/ female—Quiet, new building across from Marlatt Hall—Own bedroom, hall-bathroom! Two fantastic male roommates! Call Kathy today! 776-4107.

FEMALE: OWN bedroom, washer/ dryer, hot tubs, cheap bills, available anytime soon. Call Katrina Custer. 776-2378.

FEMALE, SPRING semester, furnished house. Lease ends in May. Washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable. Amy 537-3886.

GREAT TWO-BEDROOM apartment for spring! 1212 Blumont. Rent plus utilities. Terrific location! 776-0797.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath, washer/ dryer, fireplace, beautiful view. $405/ month. Call 776-2422 anytime.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share spacious, furnished apartment. Two and one-half blocks from campus. $175 plus utilities. 539-5351.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM apartment for sublease! One block from campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. 539-7228.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM furnished apartment. Very close to campus. One and one-half baths. Dishwasher. $380/ month. January—May. 539-5961.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Efficient, water and trash paid, appliances. Deck and near Aggieville. 537-2424.

SPACIOUS ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, balcony. Next to campus. Available January. Call 537-8647 after 6p.m.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for sublease second semester, unfurnished, brand new. Call 776-6191.

TWO FEMALE roommates for spring semester, two-bedroom, two-bath house. Close to campus, Aggieville. Washer/ dryer. $150 each plus one-fourth utilities. 539-7356.

29 Tickets to Buy or Sell

GA SEASON Basketball Ticket. $70. Call Neal at 537-0345.

KSU SEASON B-ball tickets for sale, free one still attached. Best reasonable offer. 539-9535.

31 Tutor

FORMER KSU English instructor will proofread and/or edit your term paper, thesis, or dissertation. Reasonable rates. Call 539-5637 and leave message.

TUTORING IN Modern and Classic Greek, emphasizes the more formal language (Katharevousa) used in official documents and in the conservative press. Open to anyone, call Aki Barnash, phone 776-6128.

33 Wanted to Buy or Sell

CAMPUS DIRECTORIES are here. Available in Kedzie Hall 103. $1.50 for students (limit two with ID). $2 for non-students. Campus offices may purchase directories from KSU Office Supplies. Check out the coupons in back!

DID YOU still want to purchase a 1991 Royal Purple yearbook? They are available for $13 in Kedzie 103 between 8a.m. and 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

EXCELLENT INVESTMENT Opportunity—Nice 16-unit apartment building, very close to growing KSU. 100% full, excellent history, very good net cash flow of $58,000/ year plus $4,600/ year management fee. 80% financing available with good borrower. This is a high quality property that the selling real estate broker has held a continuing ownership interest for the last six years. Price $550,000. Contact The Curtin Companies between 8a.m.—5p.m. 776-1223, after 5p.m. 776-1222.

FOR SALE: Stove, $75 or best offer. Call 539-1371 before 6p.m.

FOR SALE: Snow skis including poles, sizes 175 and 185; Ski boots, size 8 1/2; Pioneer 6944 6x9 car speakers. 776-0535.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS—Camouflage clothing, field jackets, overcoats, G.I. boots, wool socks and gloves, sleeping bags. Also Carhartt Workwear. Open Monday—Saturday 9a.m.—5p.m. Open Sundays until Christmas noon—4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales. 1-437-2734.

JIMS JOURNAL merchandise T-shirts, boxers, mugs. Send for free catalog. Ameriprint Features, P.O. Box 680, Marshall, WI 53559 or call (608)655-4248.

NEED TO sell. Oceanic 30-gallon tank and custom stand, including everything you need except fish. Very Nice. Make offer. Call 776-2422.

TV—MAGNAVOX, 24" sq. screen, remote, cable ready, stereo hookup—like new. Call 776-2422.

UNUSUAL ANTIQUES for sale: Baby stroller with metal frame, canvas cover, two large and two small wheels, $75; portable Phonola phonograph in wooden case, $50. Call 539-1371 before 6p.m. If no answer, leave message.

Glimpses

By Jeff Gabel

Making the Grade

By Bob Berry

Campus Blues

By J. Smith & D. Whitson-Lind

Jim's Journal

By Jim

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

Shuttle

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8
bit on the thrust of its three main liquid fuel engines.

Throughout the day, high crosswinds and low clouds threatened to delay the launch, but the weather improved. The countdown also was unaffected by a last-minute problem with a unit at the launch pad used to cool the shuttle.

A few hours before the astronauts arrived, NASA pumped more than a half-million gallons of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen into Atlantis. The fuel will have to be drained if liftoff is delayed until Friday or Saturday, when better weather is expected.

The fueling was completed despite a last-minute problem with a unit at the launch pad used to cool the shuttle, said NASA spokesman Dick Young. A back-up cooling unit was brought into service, and workers replaced the primary equipment that failed. Young said the problem should not delay the launch.

Air Force meteorologists predicted a 40 percent chance of good weather for Thursday night, down from earlier forecasts of 60 percent. The biggest threat was crosswinds that might exceed the allowable 14 mph at the launch pad and emergency landing area. Other concerns were scattered clouds and possible showers.

A news blackout has been imposed on Atlantis' four-day flight, during which the astronauts will deploy a satellite that sources said is to spy on Iraq. Experts believe it is either a photographic imaging or an eavesdropping spacecraft.

Atlantis carried a spy satellite into orbit during its last flight in March.

Families

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
ployment is considered temporary duty and not a permanent change, families are not entitled to travel benefits, said Barbara Berget, travel clerk.

"If families wish to move back home while their spouse is in Saudi Arabia, they must do so at their own expense," Berget said.

The temporary duty classification also affects housing privileges.

Military tenants in off-post housing who have signed leases for a specified length of time are obligated to pay rent for the entire time, said Pam Newman, housing management specialist.

If the occupant gives a 30-day notice and moves out before their lease expires, they still are required to pay rent until the time the landlord is able to re-rent the property.

"Some landlords will take the circumstances into consideration and waive their lease requirements," she said. "Otherwise, it must be treated as legally binding."

At this point, the busiest agency is the Staff Judge Advocate, which provides legal assistance.

Captain Leslie Napper, chief of legal assistance, said most soldiers are wanting to provide a power of attorney or a will.

A power of attorney is a document that gives someone the power to take care of another's money transactions. It is very useful to the spouse in handling personal affairs while the soldier is gone, Napper said.

Napper said he does not recommend giving power of attorney to someone who is not in the family or to someone the soldier does not completely trust.

Football

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6
returned to the form that sent them to the Orange Bowl against Notre Dame a year ago.

"I think Colorado very easily could be the best team in the nation at this time," Snyder said. "They're better than they were last year in a variety of respects. What they've done by being able to throw the ball has given them a new dimension."

Still, the Buffs place top priority in the running game. CU lost just one running back last year in J.J. Flannigan, and tailback Eric Bienenmy and quarterback Darian Hagan have kept the Buffs rolling.

In a recent poll, Snyder said if he could choose one player to start a team with, it would be Bienenmy, who is currently the nation's leading rusher.

Plants

■ CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
room was performed at the Environmental Research Institute in Seaton Hall, he said.

"We were looking at the behavior of students who were placed in different rooms with different atmospheres," Mattson said. "We found that students in a room with no plants felt uncomfortable, closed in and cold. When plants were put into the room, it became larger, warmer and more comfortable — we were amazed. It only took a very small amount of plant material to change the response, and it happened quickly."

Mattson said he believes K-State offices should have plants in them. There is too much demand on the job site, and touching or seeing a plant could reduce stress, he said.

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. First Bank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes

$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes

$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Show your support!
Join KSU Friends of the Libraries
Membership week November 12-16

Memberships begin at $5 students, $25 others
More information at Farrell Library Lobby
or David Margolies, 532-6154

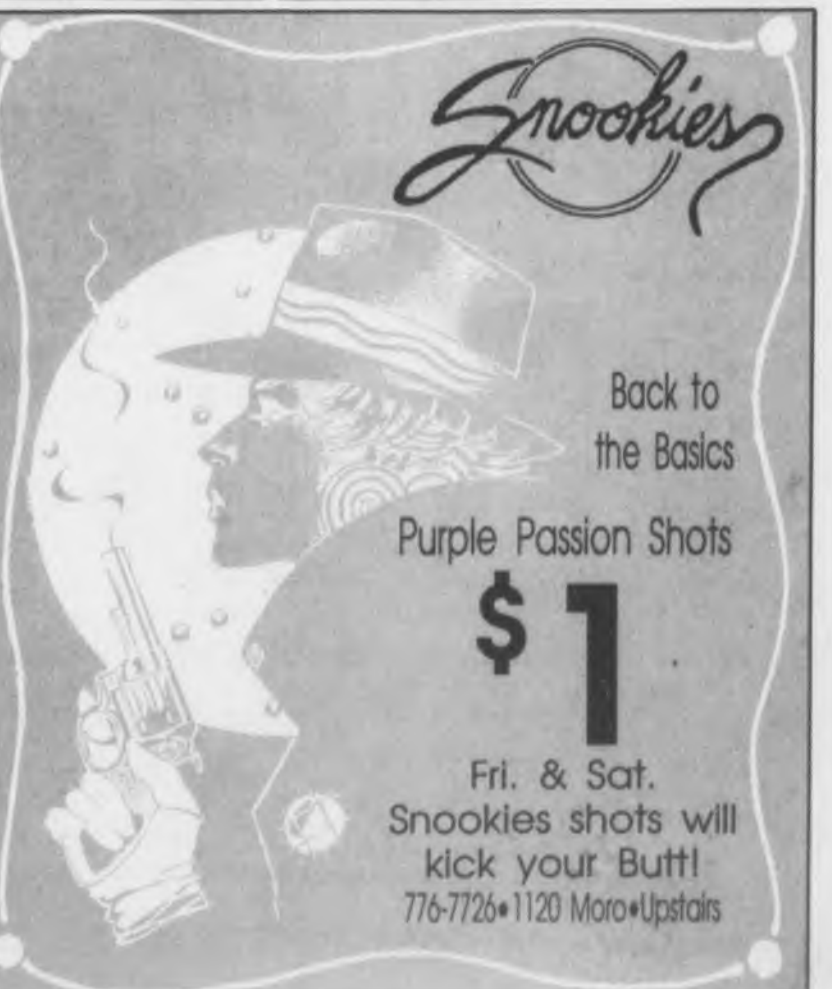

BARN DANCE

—Everyone Welcome—
Fri., Nov. 16; 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

Blue River Pub

Sponsored by Alpha Zeta
$3 single/$5 couple
18 to enter/21 to drink

Manhattan Creative Arts Guild
12th Annual CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL ART SHOW
Saturday, November 17
9 a.m.-4 p.m.
Pottorf Hall in Cico Park
Food served all day

Snookies

Back to the Basics
Purple Passion Shots
$1
Fri. & Sat.
Snookies shots will kick your Buttl
776-7726 • 1120 Moro • Upstairs

Hardee's 537-2526

DELIVERS

7 am - 1 am • 7 days a week • Citywide

Wild Card® Special This Week:
Bacon Cheeseburger $1.19

K

Δ

Sigma Gamma Chapter of Kappa Delta celebrates 70 years of sisterhood, the diamond shield, AOT, and a lifetime experience.

MEN'S HEAVY FLEECE SHORTS - WORKOUT OR CASUAL - KNEE LENGTH $7.99

OFF SHORE — Sundek — California Beach Co. — Surf Fetish
MEN'S TEES — Great Collection of California Surf and Athletic prints
TEES! TEES! TEES! NOW $5.99

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

Presents A WAREHOUSE SALE

1 DAY ONLY!

★ Men's CONVERSE SPORTS TEES $5.99

prince Men's Flia, Vuarnet & Prince ACTIVEWEAR NOW $9.99	FORENZA ALL COTTON MOCKS Oversized - Washed NOW $12.99	Champion Men's CHAMPION TURTLENECKS All Cotton Quality Special Selection $4.99
Men's BUGLE BOY LONG SLEEVE MOCK TEES $5.99	LEGGINGS Ladies Cotton Leggings Assorted Colors $5.99 Great Buy!	JIMMYVA Ladies OVERSIZED SWEATS & TEES Padded Shoulders/Big Pockets $9.99
JIMMYVA Men's HEAVYWEIGHT SWEATSHIRTS NOW $14.99	FORENZA MEN'S COTTON SWEATERS Heavyweight Shaker Stitch. Sold at 3 Times the Price in Better Stores $9.99	FORENZA COTTON CARDIGAN HEAVY CABLE SWEATERS SAVE 60% OFF REGULAR RETAIL
JANSPORT Men's Quality HEAVYWEIGHT SWEATPANTS by JANSPORT - College Logos $7.99	NIKE MEN'S OCEAN PACIFIC & NIKE TEE SHIRTS Special Selection Only! NOW $2.99
Champion Men's SUPER Heavyweight Sweatshirts Major College & University Prints by Russell Athletic & Champion Excellent Quality NOW $12.99

ONE DAY ONLY! TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20TH 10:00 A.M. - 7:00 P.M.

Master Card VISA

RAMADA INN (FORMERLY UNIVERSITY INN)
MAIN BALLROOM - DOWNSTAIRS
17TH & ANDERSON
(ACROSS FROM CAMPUS)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

5/15/91
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
120 W 10th
Topeka KS 66612

Monday, November 19, 1990

Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 97, Number 60

CASA program deals with child abuse problem

By Candace Plett
Collegian Reporter

Child abuse isn't a problem only in big cities; more than 40 cases are reported every month in Riley County.

"People think that because we live in small-town America, we don't have child abuse. But it happens everywhere," said Joanne Brooke, executive director of the Riley County Court Appointed Special Advocate program in Manhattan. "In 1989 in Riley County, more than 100 cases required court intervention."

CASA is a volunteer organization that assists the court in determining cases of child abuse, custody and truancy.

The program advocates the family unit that often is at stake, Brooke said.

"When child-abuse cases were first dealt with in the 1960s, kids were jerked out of families and put into foster care. Now, there is an increased effort to deal with these families' problems and get kids back into the home as soon as possible," she said.

Child-abuse cases often result from problems within the individual family structure, she said.

"We look at the family as a whole," Brooke said. "We're dealing with two generations of problems. Ninety-nine point nine percent of abusive parents were abused as children. Abusive parents are very real people, but they just don't know how to handle it."

"When you talk to them," she said, "you can develop a lot of sympathy."

For the kids, and often the entire family, the court experience is traumatic, Brooke said.

"It's embarrassing for parents to admit they are having problems," she said.

She said she believes part of the problem is that often parents are not prepared for rearing children.

"I'm also part of the Coalition of Parent Educators," Brooke said. "You should have parenting education before your child is born because you aren't automatically a good parent. Raising children is the most important thing an individual ever does, but there's no training for it."

The CASA program started in Seattle in 1977 and spread across the country. In 1981, it came to Kansas, and it was established in Riley County about three years ago.

Brooke said she works with more than 50 volunteers, one-third of which are K-State students. She said it is a good opportunity for students because it is independent work on a flexible schedule.

"It offers hands-on experience for social work and the satisfaction of working with a child from the beginning to the end and knowing what happens to them," she said.

Julie Minor, senior in marketing and pre-law, has been involved for two years.

"It has given me the chance to help children and experience what the court system is like," Minor said.

She said she believes her involvement has enlightened her about situations that families experience.

"It makes you realize the hardships families go through," Minor said.

Volunteers have 21 hours of training before they are assigned to a case, Brooke said. Twelve of those hours are mandated by the state, and the rest help better prepare the volunteers to handle the cases. She said the next training session begins in January.

Training covers the legal system, social services and the role of the social worker, how to recognize problems and how to conduct an investigation, she said.

"Volunteers are appointed by court order to represent the child and family," Brooke said. "This involves a complete investigation, making recommendations to the court and helping make sure the recommendations take place."

She said the reports they compile weigh heavily in the court's decision. Because attorneys are extremely busy, volunteers do much of the work attorneys usually do. "We get the information in a short period of time," she said.

Volunteers also appear in court and are sometimes asked to testify.

"Juvenile court proceedings are tense and relaxed at the same time," Brooke said. "It's an emotionally charged situation because you're dealing with things that are very private. But the court is more legally relaxed, and the rules are not as strict. The informal progression of the hearing often includes group discussion of what is best for the child."

CASA deals with a variety of cases, and Brooke tries to match each volunteer with a case they are prepared for.

"We deal with children from birth to 18. Our cases have ranged from an 8-month-old with a skull fracture to a 17½-year-old who was nearly choked to death," she said.

Cases include physical, sexual and emotional abuses and neglect.

Hussein announces schedule for release of Iraqi hostages

CRISIS IN THE MIDDLE EAST

By The Associated Press

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iraq will begin allowing foreign hostages to leave the country beginning on Christmas unless something would take place that mars the atmosphere of peace, Iraqi officials said Sunday. Baghdad's latest peace move came as the United States worked to secure international approval for a U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force to dislodge Iraqi troops from Kuwait, which Iraq invaded Aug. 2. The White House dismissed the move.

According to an official announcement on Baghdad television, the estimated 600 Westerners and others held at strategic sites since the early stages of the Persian Gulf crisis could all be freed by March.

The Iraq News Agency said the decision was made in a meeting presided by President Saddam Hussein.

INA said it was decided that foreign hostages would be allowed to travel in batches for three months starting on Dec. 25. The last batch of hostages would leave the Iraqi territories on March 25, unless something mars the atmosphere of peace.

Iraq has been encouraged to make such a gesture in an effort to clear the way for some sort of peace talks. Practically every elder statesman who has visited Iraq on peace missions — from former British Prime Minister Edward Heath to ex-German chancellor Willy Brandt — told officials in Baghdad that that would be the proper step.

The release of the foreigners may be an attempt to forestall any decision by the U.S. administration to go to war over the next few months. The Moslem holy month of Ramadan begins in March, and it also could delay action by Arab military forces that joined the U.S.-led buildup in Saudi Arabia.

■ See related story, Page 5

In Paris, a spokesman for President Bush shrugged off the announcement.

"We want all the hostages released," said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater.

Bush is in Paris to attend a gathering of European and North American leaders. Bush will visit U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia on Thanksgiving.

Mike Weichans/Staff

Paula Vale and Randy Anderson, third-year veterinary medicine students, perform exploratory hip surgery on a dog during their small-animal surgery lab in the Veterinary Medicine Complex Wednesday. Students take a regular class and the lab, which teaches them surgery techniques.

Love of animals gets junior vet students through long days

By Kelly Berg
Staff Reporter

Some students ponder class schedules for weeks before spring pre-enrollment, but they aren't third-year veterinary medicine students.

The veterinary medicine students don't have a choice between classes. Their schedules are arranged for them by the College of Veterinary Medicine through their junior year.

This year's junior class in the college has about 95 students, and they all have identical class schedules except for a surgery and diagnostic class whose lab sections meet on different days. Otherwise, the students have the same 94 classmates for each class.

"We're just a big, happy 100-person family," said Norman Seat, third-year veterinary medicine student.

"We're with each other all day, every day," Seat said. "The only thing we don't do is sleep together, and we even end up doing that sometimes when we fall asleep studying at each other's houses."

The students get little opportunity to experience daytime campus life.

"We walk into this building (the Veterinary Medicine Complex) at 7:30 a.m. and don't leave 'til after classes," said Paula Vale, third-year veterinary medicine student.

Seat said, "We go to school when it's dark and leave when it's dark." Carl Schuler, third-year veterinary medicine student, said he agreed.

"We have to make it a point to stop and look out a door or window at some point during the day, just so we can see the outside world every once and a while," Schuler said. "You know, so we don't forget what it looks like."

"The Collegian is our only touch with reality sometimes," he said. "We can read about what's going on on the rest of campus and in the world."

Not only do the students have a strict class schedule to follow, but they are also closely monitored by the administration and instructors of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

"They monitor your grades very closely so if you are having problems, they can get you help right away. They are really good about that," Vale said.

Grades are a constant source of concern for the students, and one slip can result in dismissal or probation from the college.

"It's not like the other colleges in the fact that if you screw up in one of your classes in any other college, it's really no big deal — your life is not over," Seat said. "But if you screw up in one of your classes in the vet school, it's a matter of life and death."

"There's no second chance here," he said. "If you fail, you're out."

Debby Compasso, fourth-year ■ See VETS, Page 12

Students consider transfer options

Reorganization proposal questions linger

By Erika Parker
Staff Reporter

Some students in the College of Human Ecology are considering transferring to another university.

The transfer consideration comes after the reorganization proposal that called for some of the college's programs to be eliminated or transferred to another college.

President Jon Wefald dropped the plan after student and faculty protests.

Still, many human ecology students are nervous that new proposals may harm the college's accreditation status.

"I'm still fearful that some important programs in the department will still be cut," said Julianne Lonergan, junior in family life and human development. "If it went through, I would have transferred."

Others have considered changing majors.

"This is the only college in Kansas that has this program," said Katherine Miller, freshman in apparel and textile marketing. "I didn't know what I was going to do. I really don't want to go out of state."

Miller said she believes the reorganization plan has not been totally scrapped.

"I think they're just going to blow (the proposal) off for now and then bring it up later — just in a different way," she said.

Lisa Goheen, junior in family life ■ See TRANSFER, Page 12

Marsh elected Senate chairman

STUDENT SENATE

By Dan Scott
Collegian Reporter

Student Senate chose Pete Marsh, human ecology senator, as the 1991 Senate chairman in its meeting Thursday night.

Jackie McClaskey, agriculture senator, was chosen as the vice chairwoman. Joel Gruenke, graduate senator, was selected as Faculty Senate representative.

"I really couldn't be more pleased," Student Body President

Todd Heitschmidt said of the selections. "I don't think there were any bad candidates."

Marsh's duties as chairperson will include running Senate meetings and presenting Senate views to the K-State faculty, Heitschmidt said. Marsh will also run the Senate Executive Committee.

"The vice chair is basically a back-up person for the student chair," Heitschmidt said. "If the student chair can't attend a meeting, then the vice-chair will run the Student Senate meeting."

Gruenke will be responsible for attending academic affairs of faculty senate and sitting on the Student Academic Affairs and University Relations Committee, Heitschmidt said.

Before the first meeting of the 1991 Senate, the 1990 Senate finished business for the year.

One bill involved trying to impeach David McIntyre, engineering senator, from the Athletic Ticket Sales Committee for malfeasance.

"He's accused of using his position as a member of the Athletic Ticket Sales Committee to circumvent the process to obtain basketball tickets ahead of another group," Heitschmidt said.

The bill stated enough evidence exists to make a decision on whether McIntyre is guilty or not, Heitschmidt said. After an hour in executive session, Senate approved the bill by a 43-8-3 vote. The vote sends the issue to tribunal for an open trial.

Curtis Munk, junior in business and chancellor of the tribunal, said the group will most probably hear the case during the first four days following Thanksgiving.

"We're given seven school days to act," Munk said. "I don't imagine we'll be able to get together before Thanksgiving."

Munk said the group's decisions are usually unanimous.

In other business, Senate approved a 10-member ad hoc committee to research future funding for Student Publications Inc. The committee will be formed by Dec. 6 and will report to Senate no later than Feb. 14.

Senate approved an allocation of $753 to the K-State Drumline, a part of the K-State Marching Band. The money is to help fund the percussion group's trip to Louisiana for the Band of Pride Indoor Percussion Festival.

Senate last approved a resolution to declare support of the Fort Riley troops that were deployed to Saudi Arabia. Some senators emphasized that the resolution was not supporting the mobilization itself, but rather the men and women being sent.

BRIEFLY

World

Bulgarians rally for resignation

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Some 70,000 angry protesters rallied in central Sofia on Sunday demanding the resignation of Premier Andrei Lukanov and his Socialist government.

Crowds packing the square outside Alexander Nevsky Cathedral cheered wildly as opposition leaders said the former Communist and his government must step down by Thursday or face the judgment of citizens angered by shortages and rationing.

Lukanov refused to resign Saturday despite nationwide opposition rallies and two attempted attacks on his home in Sofia. In a nationally televised interview, he said a resignation under pressure would be a betrayal of democracy.

Mass grave found in Thailand

KANCHANABURI, Thailand (AP) — A mass grave has been discovered near the site where more than 100,000 Asian slave workers and Allied prisoners died building a railroad for the Japanese during World War II.

The remains of several hundred people have been dug up since Tuesday, when the excavation began. It is being carried out by the Pothipawana Songkroh Foundation, which for religious reasons wants to provide proper burials.

Several dozen workers were digging Sunday in a sugar cane field in Kanchanaburi province, about 70 miles west of Bangkok. About half the small plot has been excavated.

The mass grave is about three miles from a bridge made famous in the 1957 Hollywood movie, "Bridge Over the River Kwai," which celebrated the heroism of the war captives.

A foundation official, Santi Assawaseeyotin, said it appeared the bones had been dumped into the ground, because they were found in some disorder.

Nation

Shuttle prepares for landing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Atlantis' five astronauts packed up and prepared for a Monday landing that will end the space shuttle's final secret military flight.

The crew worked amid a public silence Sunday, two days after releasing a spy satellite from the shuttle. The satellite will conduct photo surveys of the Persian Gulf or eavesdrop on communications there, according to sources who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Atlantis blasted into a 170-mile-high orbit Thursday night. The Pentagon mission had been planned for July but was delayed because of the shuttle's hydrogen leaks.

During the grounding, Atlantis' cargo reportedly was modified to spy on Iraq.

Missing man's body recovered

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Forensics experts solved a multimillion-dollar mystery Sunday, confirming that a body found in a submerged airplane was that of a man missing for two years and suspected of faking his death.

A state medical examiner said a comparison of dental records proved the body recovered Friday from Lake Martin was that of 47-year-old Blain Stewart, who disappeared while piloting a small aircraft on Halloween 1988.

The plane and Stewart's body were found during a private search arranged by Stewart's widow.

State and federal prosecutors had contended the insurance executive faked his death to collect some $4 million in life insurance benefits and to avoid prosecution on state charges of stealing some $590,000 from clients.

Court rejects CNN request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused by a 7-2 vote Sunday to give Cable News Network permission to broadcast tape recordings of conversations between Panama's Gen. Manuel Noriega and his lawyers.

The court rejected an emergency request by CNN that was aimed at lifting a federal judge's order forbidding the broadcasts until he could determine what the tapes disclose.

The emergency request had called the Nov. 8 order by U.S. District Judge William Hoeweler in Miami an unconstitutional prior restraint of free speech. But only two justices — Thurgood Marshall and Sandra Day O'Connor — agreed with that assessment.

Voting against CNN were Chief Justice William Rehnquist and Justices Byron White, Harry A. Blackmun, John Paul Stevens, Antonin Scalia, Anthony Kennedy and David Souter.

Gas-price falls average 2 cents

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The average price of gasoline fell almost a penny a gallon over the past two weeks — the biggest drop nationwide since the Persian Gulf crisis began — according to a survey released Sunday.

Prices dropped for all grades except leaded regular at full service pumps, the Lundberg Survey of 13,500 stations found. The survey compared prices Nov. 16 with those of Nov. 2, when the survey was last conducted.

The national average for all grades of gasoline was 145.98 cents, a drop of about .94 cent a gallon since Nov. 2.

Tribby Lundberg, who directs the survey, attributed the drop to recent declines in wholesale prices.

Test devised for yuppie flu

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A blood test has been devised to help doctors diagnose chronic fatigue syndrome, a flu-like illness some have dubbed yuppie flu, a scientist said Sunday.

Dr. Jay Levy of San Francisco announced the development at a national conference on the disease. He predicted the mysterious illness will be the disease of the 1990s as the public and the medical community become more aware of it.

"It takes about decade before the public wakes up and realizes that this is not going to go away," Levy said.

The weekend conference, titled "Unraveling the Mystery," drew 400 people including researchers and people afflicted with the ailment.

Chronic fatigue syndrome is characterized by fatigue, exhaustion, joint and muscle aches, and an array of other problems that persist for more than six months, and often for years.

Region

Officials to investigate oil leak

ROBINSON (AP) — Federal environmental officials are scheduled to travel to northeast Kansas Monday to investigate oil that leaked from two power transformers, forcing area officials to close a road.

A tractor hauling a disc pulled down several power lines Saturday afternoon. Two transformers then began leaking oil.

The Robinson fire department, Fairview fire department and members of the Fairview and Hiawatha hazardous materials team responded.

They closed the county road, which leads south out of Robinson, and removed a small area of dirt.

Hiawatha Fire Chief Gary Shear said officials do not know whether the oil is hazardous or contains PCBs, but they are treating it that way for the time being. Officials from the Environmental Protection Agency in Kansas City, Kan., are scheduled to investigate.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Campus organizations are encouraged to use the Campus Bulletin. All announcements must be submitted by 11 a.m. one day prior to publication. Announcements for Monday's bulletin must be submitted by 11 a.m. Friday. However, publication is determined by the amount of space available on a first-come, first-served basis and is not guaranteed. Information forms are available on the shelf outside Kedzie 118A. You must have a picture ID to submit a bulletin form. During business hours, IDs will be checked in Kedzie 116 or 118A. Forms should be left in the box outside 118A after being filled out. Questions should be directed to the Collegian's news editor in Kedzie 116.

19 Monday

■ French Table will meet from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 2.

■ Spanish Club will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ Students Helping Students will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Lafene conference room.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Wei-Daw Alfred Lin at 1 p.m. in Waters 38. The dissertation topic is "Purification of Proteolytic Enzymes and Their Effects on Rheological Changes on Cracker Sponges: A Study of Wheat Hardness Using Electrophoresis."

■ Business Council will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 206.

■ Engineering Student Council will meet to discuss the engineering equipment fee proposal at 5 p.m. in Durland 152.

■ Ag Communicators of Tomorrow will meet at 6 p.m. in Waters 137.

20 Tuesday

■ SAVE will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 213.

■ FENIX Adult Student Program/OWLS will meet from 11:30 to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of James F. Peters III at 9 a.m. in Nichols 236. The dissertation topic is "Constructive Specification of Communicating Processes Using Temporal Logic."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Faqir Muhammad Anjum at 9:30 a.m. in Waters 03G. The dissertation topic is "Electrophoretic Identification and Technological Characterization of Pakistani Wheats."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Bahram H. Arjmandi at 1:30 p.m. in Justin 244. The dissertation topic is "Effects of Soluble Dietary Fiber on In Vivo Hepatic and Intestinal Sterol Synthesis."

MANHATTAN WEATHER

Today, partly cloudy and mild. High in the mid- to upper 60s. South wind increasing to 15 to 25 mph by afternoon. Tonight, Fair. Low 40 to 45. Tuesday, partly cloudy and unseasonably mild. High around 70. Thanksgiving day, fair with seasonable temperatures. High 50 to 55. Low around 30.

KSU BAKERY SCIENCE CLUB

Christmas Fruitcake
& Coffecake Sale
Place orders by calling
539-9412 before Nov. 28
(please leave message on answering machine) Pickup orders on Dec. 5, 3-5 p.m., Shellenberger 105!

Poinsettias for the Holidays

Decorate your holiday home with our colorful Poinsettias and blooming potted plants.

Once again we have grown your favorite Poinsettia colors: traditional Red and the popular White, Pink, Marble and "Jingle Bells" varieties.

Select Poinsettias from a pot range of 3" to 10" and hanging baskets in two styles. In addition, we offer an assortment of decorative living arrangements. Prices start at only $3.29.

We will gladly dress your plants with foil wrap and bows. Receive a 10% discount on orders of 10 or more.

Let Horticultural Services Nursery and Garden Center make your holiday decorating and gift-giving simply beautiful!

2 mi. east of Manhattan on U.S. 24

Mon.-Sat. 9-6 Sun. 12-6

776-5764

Best Prices with Local Support

Connecting Point offers IBM® and Apple® computers at below Bookstore prices - with the support you deserve. Compare both name brands. Talk to the computer professionals.

IBM® PS/2® Model 25 PS/2 in full color with 640 by 480 dot resolution. Includes 2 720K drives, 640K memory, keyboard, mouse & DOS 4.0. $1187.	IBM® PS/2® Model 55SX For the real power user, this 16MHz PS/2 has 2Mb memory, a 30Mb hard drive, VGA color screen, Windows 3.0, SoftType, DOS 4.0, Word, and more. $2349.	Macintosh® Classic® The power to be your best at a price you can afford. The Classic has a 3.5" SuperDrive™, a SCSI port, 40Mb hard drive, and Microsoft Works. $1449.	Macintosh® IIx® Apple's newest power computer uses the fast 68030 processor, has 2Mb of memory, and comes equipped with a 40Mb drive. $2779. (monitor not included)
---	--	--	---

Connecting Point COMPUTER CENTERS

1115 Westloop • 539-0801

Authorized Dealer

IBM and PS/2 are registered trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. Apple, the Apple logo, Macintosh, Macintosh Classic, and Macintosh IIx are registered trademarks of Apple, Inc.

Prices may change. Fulltime students, faculty & staff only.

* Macintosh Classic and Macintosh IIx only

VS.

Michigan AAU

Mon., Nov. 19
7:35 p.m.

Bramlage Coliseum

Tickets: 532-6920

Sponsored by: Vista

K-State ranks high for hiring students in Manhattan area

By Rob Batchman
Collegian Reporter

K-State is one of the largest employers of students in the Manhattan area, employing 3,262 students on campus.

Celeste Tillson, assistant controller of payroll, said student workers are an important part of the campus community.

"Just about every department on campus has a student employee," she said. "I cannot think of any department that doesn't employ at least one student worker."

According to University policy, students must be enrolled in six or more hours during the semester and be at least 16 years of age to be on the hourly student payroll.

"During the academic year, domestic students are limited to 30 hours of work a week because of federal regulations," Tillson said.

She said foreign students on F-1 or J-1 visas are limited to 20 hours of work per week.

Tillson said the average salary earned on campus by student workers was $4.32 an hour. This is found by dividing the gross salary paid to all workers by the number of total hours worked.

"Our extremes run from $3.80 per hour to $13.00 per hour," she said.

There is no set wage amount for student workers on campus, Tillson said.

"We must pay federal minimum wage," she said. "Otherwise, there are no guidelines that dictate a set wage. The departments or programs decide on an individual basis how much the students employed in their areas make."

Most departments have a policy on what the student workers' beginning salaries will be, when the students receive raises, how students are evaluated for raises and what the frequency of those raises will be.

Tillson said the higher wages on campus are usually paid to students with special skills.

"A student may, for a particular job, have exactly the skills that can't be found even in a classified position," she said. "For example, you may have a student who is the only student within 500 miles who speaks both Vietnamese and Laotian. It wouldn't be fair to pay that student as an interpreter the same amount as a student with no special skills at all."

She said there is little competition between student employment and the classified employees on campus.

"Our classified positions are already budgeted out," Tillson said. "I expect if there was suddenly a lot of extra work to do, we would look to the student population to recruit first."

Tillson gave the following advice for job hunting on campus.

"Students should check the job board in the Union, the Collegian help-wanted ads and the Student Financial Aid Office," she said. "We also have students who literally beat the doors going from one office to the next looking for work."

"There are jobs available on campus if the students are willing to look for them," she said.

Marlene Kunze Dolan, K-State Union personnel manager, said no special skills are required to be considered for employment in the Union.

"We look for students who have a schedule that fits the job we are trying to fill," she said. "In many cases, experience is desirable, but it is usually not a requirement."

The Union employs 297 students. Students usually begin at the minimum wage and can advance to different levels.

"An employee starting out at an entry-level job would receive $3.80 per hour," Kunze Dolan said. "Students receive raises after they have been here six months and have worked 250 hours. After that, we require one year of employment and 500 hours for each advancement."

Kunze Dolan said students seeking employment at the Union can go directly to the department or area that interests them and complete an application for employment, go to the Union personnel office and fill out an application or check the Union job board or the financial aid office for information.

The Department of Housing has the largest student payroll on campus. The department employs 1,003 students.

"Most of our students work in food service," said Coralie Boatman, administrative officer in the housing department. "We also have students who are receptionists, mail clerks, custodial workers and maintenance people."

Union Station disc jockeys Eric "Juicy" Weber, sophomore in architecture, and Sarah "MC Teflon" Cunnick, senior in sociology, start up a compact disc at the K-State Union Station preview Friday evening. The non-alcoholic bar will officially open Jan. 16.

Union Station opens Nov. 26

Non-alcoholic bar provides food, entertainment to students

By Shannon Meyers
Collegian Reporter

Union Station in the K-State Union is a new non-alcoholic entertainment and food facility with the goal of providing a fun, relaxing atmosphere for students.

"The concept of Union Station was originally conceived in 1986 by the Non-Alcoholic Bar Committee. Although the committee was dissolved, the recommendation was never dropped," said Jack Sills, Union director.

The project was carried on by the Enhancement of the Union Task Force and completed under the direction of the Catskellar Renovation Committee.

"We wanted to better serve students at K-State. This is a new concept — there are only three to four collegiate services like this in the nation," Sills said. "This will generate 20 new student jobs."

Kelli Zuel, assistant for housing and programming, said, "The main goal of the facility is to provide an entertainment facility for students in an alcohol-free atmosphere."

Throughout the planning process, input was considered from all segments of campus, including the residence halls, off-campus and the greek system, to ensure all students' needs would be met in the best possible way, Zuel said.

Kim Johnson, senior in interior architecture, was co-chairwoman of the renovation committee and worked on the conceptual work with an architect.

"I am glad I could contribute to updating the Union. This has so much energy. This is what a student union should be like," Johnson said.

Union Station will open Nov. 26 with a capacity of 210 people. It will be open the same hours as the the Union. Non-alcoholic beverages, sandwiches and snacks will be served.

"The original plan slated Union Station to open about a year ago. However, the project suffered many setbacks," Sills said.

The official grand opening is scheduled for Jan. 16 and 17 with a gala celebration Jan. 18.

"The renovation started in June and cost $300,000," Sills said. "A large amount of the work was done by our own people, so we got more for our dollar."

"As a student service, our goal is to break even, not necessarily to generate money," he said.

Union Station features a sound system and a 46-inch screen monitor television.

Treat Yourself
To A "Triple Whammy"!!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

GREAT TASTE - NATURALLY.
537-1616
705 N. 11th
Nautilus Tower
Aggieville

PREGNANT?
NEED HELP?
For confidential
help call

Birthright

FREE Pregnancy Tests
523 S. 17th Old Town Mall
537-9180 1-800-848-LOVE

RUSHWACKERS
Mon., Tues., & Wednesday
Comedy Invasion
9 p.m.
Richard DeLaFont

Don't forget Comedy, now on Wednesdays!
Have a Happy Thanksgiving

18 to enter, 21 to drink
Before 5 p.m. Call for Reservations After 5 p.m.
539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

Radiology Department

- Provides X-Ray Services.
- X-Rays read by K-State Physicians and consulting Radiologist.
- Student Health Fee helps defray cost.

532-6544

Lafene Health Center
Kansas State University

Need money for college?

ASK ABOUT STUDENT LOANS

CITIZENS BANK & TRUST CO.

Sixth & Humboldt
Manhattan, KS 66502
776-9400

Lender Code
#804581
EMPIRE BANK
Originator

Member FDIC

VS.

MICHIGAN AAU

Mon., Nov. 19
Tipoff: 7:35 p.m.
Tickets: 532-7983

Bramlage Coliseum

Sponsored by:

Vista

RD Pottberg & Dill
Professional Association
Certified Public Accountants

We are pleased to announce the opening of our office at 1119
Westloop Shopping Center.

Monday-Friday 9-12, 1-5
Saturday by appointment.

Please call Tom Dill or Dan
Hoffman at 537-9700.

Clyde's

THANKSGIVING BUFFET

For a delicious, traditional Thanksgiving dinner visit
Clyde's famous Buffet.

Baron of Beef 11 a.m.-3 p.m.
Roast Turkey $9.95
Roast Goose 10% Senior Discount
Baked Salmon
Chicken Dijon
Mongolian Beef
and much, much more!

537-8440

2304 Stagg Hill Rd. - Across from the Holidome.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL

Undefinable friendship has most meaning

I met with a friend last night in a white room. The location of our rendezvous was my choice. I created the circumstances of our meeting. My hope was to satisfy a need of mine. My intentions were to define our friendship, to place this person, and our friendship, into some concrete form. I hid in the dark, behind the only light in the room, and tested our friendship. I had no idea our meeting would end with me realizing a shallowness in my part of the friendship, and an endless depth in my friend's part of the friendship.

I suppose it can be said that people often have more responsibility for the pain in their life than they will admit. Painful events and disturbing situations occur in our lives. After being startled and shocked, after mellowing the bone-ache and dull thud of pain by life, we curse life for being so unfair. We spread a balm on our open wounds and scream in pain as the salty balm burns our wounds. The balm is the sad realization that most of the pain we feel is of our own doing. It is almost as if life were some exclusively external force imposing a reality on us leaving us with only one purpose, to cast a shadow.

When I met with my friend, under the scrutiny of my lamp, the shadow cast by my friend frightened me. I know now that the paths of our creative interactions with other people are either sustaining or dissolving in nature. In this case, everything melted.

As I said, the room was white. There was a chair for my friend and a single lamp I used to hide behind. I had some simple questions and even expected certain answers.

My friend showed up on time, entered the room and sat down. In the dark, behind my light, while my friend was totally unaware of my presence, I waited for one minute and watched. This person looked like my friend.

Kevin
Zwink

COLLEGIAN COLUMNIST

Now the test.

"Hi, Friend."

"Hi, Kevin. What's going on here? Where you at? I can't see you. Turn that light down, please."

"Friend, I just need you to answer some questions for me. The questions: Why are you my friend? Can you define our friendship, making it completely clear and tangible? What role do I play in your life now, and what role am I going to play in your future? What would you sacrifice for the sake of our friendship? Can you rank our friendship in comparison to your other friendships?"

I look at people, and all I see are shadows. All I wanted to do was study my friend's shadow and give some life to the shadow's vague, dark outline. I just wanted it defined, completely.

"I understand, Kevin. I suppose one would call this an interrogation of friendship. I won't answer directly any of your questions, but I will talk about friendship. Friendships are mutually enhancing. There seems to be a natural energy that is exchanged between two people, and that then aids in the flowering of potential in each of these individuals. There is a sincere trust that develops and a respect for privacy. The two understand each other as human and therefore imperfect.

The human flaws of a friend don't become a basis for judgment. These flaws become areas of recognition. This recognition allows mutual enhancement to soothe and reshape these flaws. All the shadows will remain shadows. There is a vagueness in every interaction that occurs between two people. In every interaction between friends it is precisely the indefinability of the friendship that gives it the most meaning. Attempting to place a friend in a certain light, a certain concrete and completely understandable role, dissolves the foundation of that friendship. Come out here in the light where I can see you.

Hey, you got your haircut. It looks pretty good. I have to walk up to the store. I'd enjoy walking you half the way home. That is if you don't mind."

"No, I don't mind. It would be nice. Thanks."

EDITORIALS

Citizens in Arizona create racial fiesta

Every state in the Union has made a few mistakes in its time, but no state has probably been more foolish than Arizona.

In the Nov. 7 election, Arizona voters failed to approve a Martin Luther King Jr. state holiday. By doing this, Arizona not only sent a message of racial disrespect to the entire nation, but kissed away millions of dollars in revenue from the football money machine.

The National Football League was scheduled to play the 1991 Super Bowl in Tempe. Once the vote came in, and evidence of such racial feelings became evident, the NFL promptly announced it would no longer visit sunny Arizona in January. Instead, it appears the world's most-watched sporting event will be in the Rose Bowl in neighboring Southern California.

Likewise, the Sunkist Fiesta Bowl faced tough challenges in recruiting teams to play in Tempe on New Year's Day.

The Bowl had originally selected the University of Virginia, but it passed on the offer because of Arizona's refusal to honor King.

Eventually, the Fiesta Bowl offered each competing university $100,000 to endow a minority scholarship fund or a minority student affairs administrative position. This offer is in addition to the $100,000 the Bowl already gives to each university.

Additionally, a ceremony honoring the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights is scheduled before the game, and a halftime ceremony honoring King is also planned.

Honoring King at halftime seems more like a high school homecoming ritual than the international honor and respect that King deserves.

The NFL threatened to pull the Superbowl before the elections. Citizens of Arizona claimed they had been blackmailed by the NFL into voting in favor of the holiday. This is still no reason to vote against it.

After much deliberation, the Fiesta Bowl announced last week that the University of Louisville and the runner-up in the Southeastern Conference race will match-up in the plagued bowl game.

Louisville cancelled its agreement with the All-American Bowl (how ironic) and its $600,000 purse and took the $2.5 million invitation from the Fiesta Bowl.

It is quite disheartening that these teams opted for the money in their pocketbooks rather than stand up for a man who faced and overcame more challenges than anyone on a football field will probably ever face.

The players, coaches, students and fans of these universities should boycott the game until either the voters reverse their decision and honor King formally or the Fiesta Bowl is moved to a state that has enough respect and consideration for one of this country's greatest All-Americans.

Reorganization not dead

Folks, it is time we make ourselves heard. It is time we let it be known, in no uncertain terms, that we care about our University. We have been dictated to by the central administration of K-State long enough. It is time for some tough questions and some meaningful and fully candid answers.

We should have recognized the early signs, the most blatant of which was the dismissal, without explanation, of Thomas Isenhour as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. I have taught in the College of Arts and Sciences for more than 20 years. And in all that time, the college has never had a dean like Thomas Isenhour, one who:

■ Understood so well the role of the college

■ Worked so hard and effectively in supporting and promoting that role

■ Was so farsighted and committed to an educated populace

■ Was so truly aware (and acted on that awareness) that students and faculty are the heart and soul of a college and university.

I know there are those who do not share my opinion of Isenhour, but that is not the point. Even if you do not agree with me about Isenhour, you should be vitally concerned about the how, why and way of his removal and the complete lack of an explanation. If it can happen to him, it can happen to anyone or all of us.

Why did we not question this action? Did we think it did not affect us? Were we afraid that we, our department, our college or all three might suffer if we questioned the administration? Well, we, our department, our college — indeed our university — might suffer; witness the recent reorganization plan.

That plan is "dead," we are told, but is it? Will the administration now go for smaller units, like departments? Individuals in some departments, slated for removal under the recent reorganization plan, are being called in and told to "seize this window of opportunity." So how dead is the plan?

We must continue to question the actions and motives of the administration. These actions not only affect the faculty, students and alumni, but, most of all, they affect each and every citizen of Kansas.

The administration's action suggests that it is not interested in educating individuals who, with a broad, basic education, can think and critically analyze the numerous and complex issues facing our society, the fundamental role of any land-grant university. Classes are overcrowded. Teaching supplies and facilities are lacking. Buildings are falling apart. Faculty are underpaid, and good faculty are leaving. What is the administration's answer to these problems? It appears to be to reorganize by decimating colleges and eliminating programs without any input from those most knowledgeable (faculty, students, and alumni). If the administration doesn't do it college by college, then perhaps they'll do it department by department.

Isn't it interesting that in the last year or so, four deans have either left, resigned or been "reassigned" (the dean of architecture, the dean of education, the dean of business administration and the dean of arts and sciences)

Ron
West

GUEST COLUMNIST

without any faculty or student input? Did President Jon Wefald, when he appointed James Coffman as provost without full faculty input, give the provost the authority to remove deans without full faculty input, eliminate colleges and programs without full input and indeed to reorganize the University without full input? Wefald, on Nov. 5, answered yes to these questions. I ask you, is that the way to administer a university?

To illustrate some additional concerns, let me return briefly to Isenhour's removal. While you may not agree with the way Isenhour did things, I think you will agree that he was committed to providing a broad, basic education that would enrich, enlighten and provide the basis for a full, active life in a complex and changing society for our students, the future citizens of Kansas.

So why, on the eve of a reorganization that was to strengthen the College of Arts and Sciences, was the dean removed? Was it because Isenhour closed classes in the spring when the governor and Legislature failed to provide adequate funds for these classes? Did this threaten the political ambitions of some and the profit motives of others? Is the quality of higher education in Kansas, specifically at K-State, to be determined by politicians and the business community?

I suggest that Isenhour and the other deans were too good at supporting their respective colleges; that the colleges and their alumni were truly stronger than the administration and some ancillary groups wanted. It is interesting that the administration apparently misjudged the dean of human ecology and the newly-appointed dean of architecture. Considering recent events, don't you think the administration wishes it had removed them too?

But what about the need for reorganization? The main reason for reorganization, we are told, is our failure to receive adequate additional monies from the Legislature for the increased number of students recruited by the central administration. We are told the "rules were changed in the middle of the game," but were they? A report titled "Mission Role and Scope Kansas Regents Institutions 1987-1995" was prepared for the Kansas Board of Regents and dated Dec. 16, 1986. On page 8, item 2 under "General Recommendations," it states the following: "The Board of Regents recognizes that because of enrollment-driven budget procedures, current intensive recruiting efforts may prove counterproductive to program quality. As a result, the board will seek changes in existing budget procedures to insulate institutions from enrollment changes and to reduce the emphasis on student recruitment."

That was nearly four years ago. In light of this statement, why did our administration continue to spend thousands a year to recruit more and more students? In light of this statement, why was anyone, least of all our administration, surprised when we did not receive enrollment-adjustment monies last year? The administration had only been warned three years before. Is it possible that Isenhour, by closing classes in the spring, was only following the regents' recommendations while the administration was ignoring them? Is it possible Wefald was brought here to stabilize enrollment — not to increase it? By doing so, did the administration create the problem? It is time for some answers, folks.

As to how much money was actually allotted to K-State and where it was spent, I suggest you contact Holly Fryer, professor emeritus of statistics. Fryer has prepared a detailed summary of the budget for the last five or six years. Incidentally, Fryer's report was regarded as incorrect by the administration when it was brought up Nov. 5 in the general questioning. So if it is incorrect, why is it incorrect? Where are Fryer's errors? Where are the administration's figures? It is time for some answers, folks.

We, the faculty, should be truly concerned — indeed, frightened. The weakening of any part of a structure weakens the entire structure. It is time to put aside our private agendas and stop worrying about how things affect our job, our salary, our retirement, our department, our college and consider how it affects our University and our state.

We've all heard, and at one time or another each of us has probably said, thought and/or acted according to the following: "It doesn't really affect me or my department. We should get rid of so-and-so because she/he wants to change the way we do things in my department." Let's all face it, such attitudes have no place in an academic community or in today's society.

All departments are our departments, all colleges are our colleges, and it is our University. We are either in it together, or we are not in it at all. We pay lip service to a world community and then act like the worst isolationists. If we don't figuratively hang together, the University administration will literally hang us all separately.

Now is the time to join together with each other, with the students, with the alumni, with all the citizens of Kansas and raise some serious and fundamental questions about the actions and motives of the method and need for reorganizing and about the quality of basic education in our state. We must ask. We must organize and ask again, and we must continue to ask until we get some meaningful and fully candid answers. Indeed, we must become an active faculty, not of a department or a college, but of the University, and shed the nepotistic traditions of the past.

Allow me to finish by paraphrasing a quotation I am sure you all know. "They came for the colleges and I did nothing, they came for the departments and I did nothing, and then they came for me."

Ron West is a professor of geology.

LETTERS

Policy misguided

Editor,

William Nathan Wright's letter of Nov. 14 brings up at least three points that need to be expounded on and clarified.

First of all, Wright asserts that we should not "sit back on our holier-than-thou haunches" and watch as Saddam Hussein causes economic problems around the world through an "oil monopoly." The truth is that control of 20 percent of the world's known oil reserves hardly constitutes a monopoly. In fact, as reported in the Nov. 4 edition of the New York Times, Saudi Arabia and other OPEC countries have already increased production enough to make up completely for the lost oil production of Iraq and Kuwait. In view of this fact, any offensive action by U.S. forces is not justifiable on the basis of Wright's argument.

Secondly, Wright states that we "elected our leaders to make these kinds of difficult and controversial decisions." I, for one, did not elect them to make decisions without the input of the American people. Once our "leaders" are elected, it is very important that we keep our voices heard, by protest if necessary. Moreover, George Bush was not elected to the position of "sole decision-maker of the United States." Fortunately, members of Congress (which we also elected) are beginning to raise questions about Bush's Middle East policy.

Third, Wright implies that protesting this military action is to insult those women and men in the Armed Services. This is simply not so. It seems strange to me to say that by supporting the policies that will lead to the deaths of many of these individuals, we are supporting them. In fact, support for the men and women of the U.S. Armed Services may be best expressed by protesting the U.S. government's misguided policy of military machismo in the Middle East.

It is important for us all to realize that, as Americans, we must speak out against those policies we do not feel correctly represent us. It's called democracy.

Mark Delbridge
graduate student in political science
Brad Meiers
graduate student in political science

Collegian Editorial Policies

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR are always encouraged. Those which pertain to matters of campus and/or public interest are especially encouraged and are given the highest priority.

Letters should be kept as brief as possible, preferably under 300 words. All letters are subject to editing for space, style and taste.

SEND SUBMISSIONS to the Collegian in Kedzie 116. Students will be asked to show their I.D. card upon submission when done in Kedzie 116.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

News Staff

EDITOR	Eric Henry
MANAGING EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
NEWS EDITOR	Chris Koger
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/DESIGN	Brad Camp
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR/GRAPHICS	Gary Lytle
EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR	Wendy Snider
PHOTO EDITOR	Mike Venso
SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR	Ellen Dayton
GOVERNMENT EDITOR	Greg Branson
SPORTS EDITOR	David Svoboda
CAMPUS EDITORS	Steve Franzen, Lori Stauffer
FEATURES EDITOR	Tomari Quinn
ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR	Rod Gillespie
COPY CHIEF	Mark Schweiner
COPY EDITORS	Amy Cox, Ellen Dayton, Angela Walz
SCIENCE REPORTER	Scott Berg
STAFF REPORTERS	Kelly Berg, David Frese, Amy Hadlock, Kimis Hatzimothedakis, Elyn Jones, Erika Parker, Jan Puls, Alan Wilds, Paul Noel
COLUMNISTS	Karin Dell'Antonia, Jana Leep, Dwayne Lively, Brad Seabourne, Kevin Zwink
REVIEWERS	Richard Jones, Heather Anderson, Stacy Lentz, Rebecca Sack
PHOTOGRAPHERS	Brad Camp, Margaret Clarkin, Brian Kratzer
STRIP CARTOONISTS	Gary Lytle, Dave Mayes, Mike Welchans, J. Kyle Wyatt
EDITORIAL BOARD	Bob Berry, Jeff Gabel, James Smith, David Whitson-Lind
	David Svoboda, Greg Branson, Steve Franzen, David Frese, Eric Henry
	Tomari Quinn, Ellen Dayton, Chris Koger, Lori Stauffer
	Wendy Snider, Amy Cox, Mike Venso

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published Monday and Thursday during the summer session. Second class postage paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation Desk, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6560. Classified word advertising questions should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Kansas State Collegian Subscription Rates

One Semester (Fall or Spring)	$30
Two Semesters (Fall and Spring)	$54
Summer Session	$10
One Year (Fall, Spring and Summer)	$60

Soldiers face class dilemmas before deployment

By Susan Boos
Collegian Reporter

Class-taking soldiers in the 1st Infantry Division at Fort Riley may have an added worry as they prepare to deploy to Saudi Arabia.

They must arrange for their classes to be dropped and settle all financial matters before leaving for the Persian Gulf.

Registrar Don Foster said students going to Saudi Arabia need to consult with University officials to work out the best plan for them.

"Some students are getting a 100-percent refund and canceling their fall classes," Foster said. "Other students are taking incompletes and plan to finish when they get back. We are doing what is in the best interest of the student because the circumstances are always a little different."

For Steven Wood, freshman in preprofessional business administration, taking incompletes in his classes was the best alternative.

Wood has been enlisted in active duty for more than three years, and he re-enlisted for three more years last spring.

"I wanted the college option so I could go to school," Wood said. "I took an incomplete in everything. When I return, I'll be given three to four months to finish all my classes, but I don't think I'll return to K-State."

Foster said most students are taking the refunds, but this depends on the financial aid and veterans' benefits they have.

Lorene Dahm, veterans' coordinator, said, "If the students have no federal aid, then a 100-percent refund will be no problem. But if the student has federal money, and they get 100-percent refund, they will have to pay back all the financial aid they've received for that semester."

Foster said many of the regent's schools offer a similar plan.

"The Board of Regents has recommended that we have a plan, and they wanted us to provide a 100-percent refund if possible," Foster said.

Some students at Fort Riley take classes offered at the base through Continuing Education.

Ed McAleer, director of Continuing Education Academic Outreach, said these students can also work out a plan to receive incompletes or a 100-percent refund.

"Our crisis is that people are simply dropping out of classes," McAleer said. "We have 1,015 students taking classes, and 416 of those are active military. We don't know when those 416 persons will leave."

McAleer said they don't know how many people will drop classes because they are leaving on a staggered basis.

For soldiers such as Wood, deployment brings a rush of emotions.

"I'm ready to go," Wood said. "I'm not scared. The feelings I've had have been anger and not fear — anger that I couldn't finish school, anger that I won't see my daughter's first Christmas. But we know that we have to go for national security or just to defend our country's honor."

Gift Boxes for you to send . . . straight from Wildcat Land!

The perfect gift for Thanksgiving and Christmas

Cheeses Available:
Cheddar
(Mild, Medium, Sharp & X-Sharp)
New York Sharp
Smoked Cheddar
Colby Cheese

Gift 1
Three Kinds of Cheese
Approx. 1 lb. each block
$13.50

Gift 2
Six ½ lb. blocks
$15.00

Gift 3
4½ lb. blocks of cheese and 1 (1 lb.) stick of summer sausage
$16.50

Orders will be taken at Dairy Sales Counter,
Room 144, Call Hall.
For more information call 532-5654.

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
First Bank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.00

Everyday Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.00

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

The LOWEST PRICES
on the BEST BRANDS
with GREAT SERVICE

OPEN til 8 p.m.
weeknights
90 Days same as
Cash
Free Delivery & Installation
of home stereo

FREE DELIVERY • FREE INSTALLATION

Everything is on Sale!

FREE AC/DC TICKETS!
Come in and register to win 2 13th row
concert tickets. No purchase necessary.

Trade up to revolutionary
Bose AM-5 speaker technology
and get

$100 OFF
for your old speakers
regardless of their condition

Read what the experts have to say:

One of "America's Ten Best Designs" among all products produced in the U.S.A. in 1988!

Fortune Magazine

"Superb sound and virtual invisibility."

"Side by side with speakers costing three to five times as much, the AM-5 consistently produced
the more exciting and listenable sound."

Stereo Review
Julian Hirsch

$399

RCA Hi-Fi Stereo VCR
with 4-Head Video System

VHS Hi-Fi stereo sound with built-in TV
broadcast stereo tuner and SAP (Second Audio Program)
•Double-synch 4-head video system
•Field still special effects: slow motion, stop action, frame advance, picture search
•8-program 1-year timer with on-screen display
and remote programming
•Remote also operates many RCA TVs
•155-channel cable-compatible quartz tuner with
Auto Programming

Sony 5 Disc
CD Changer

$199 without remote

$229 with remote

•Shuffle play
•Programmable

SONY CDPC200

KENWOOD LSK304
2-Way Speakers

$48
each

RCA VR250
or GE VG7500 $227

RCA Video Cassette Recorder

•Infrared remote control
•14-day/4-event programming
•110 channel broadcast/cable FS quartz tuning

MITSUBISHI CS2015R
20" Stereo Monitor/Receiver with Remote

$347

•Black matrix picture tube for high contrast
•181-channel cable ready
•Off-timer
•Full function remote control with on-screen display of volume, bass, treble, balance, stereo/SAP select, color,
tints, brightness, contrast and sharpness.

See Store for all Sale Merchandise

CONDENSED
QUALITY PLUGGED IN...

AUDIO • VIDEO • STEREO

Quantities Limited to Store Stock
Mon-Fri 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Sat 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Sun 1-5 p.m.
407 Poyntz 776-4704 Downtown Manhattan

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Confidential pregnancy testing • Safe, affordable abortion
services • Birth control • Tubal ligation • Gyn exams •

Testing and Treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.
Providing quality health care
to women since 1974.
Insurance, VISA &
Mastercard accepted.

Comprehensive
Health for Women

4401 West 109th (I-435 & Roe)
Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400
Toll Free 1-800-227-1918

We at DB92 always want to know what type of music you, the Kansas State Community, would like to hear. KSDB plays specialty music programs but the majority is NEW ALBUM ROCK. Along with NEW ALBUM ROCK we have listed eight other possible formats.
Check the format that best fits your listening needs. If other give examples.

NEW ALBUM ROCK EXAMPLES—REM, RED HOT CHILI
PEPPERS, PIXIES, SMITHEREENS, SONIC YOUTH, PUBLIC IMAGE LTD (PIL), GUADALCANAL DIARY AND JAMES ADDICTION.

CLASSIC ROCK-N-ROLL EXAMPLES—AEROSMITH, BOSTON, BAD COMPANY, BEATLES, DOORS, EAGLES, JIMI HENDRIX, LED ZEPPELIN, STEPPENWOLF, ROLLING STONES, VAN HALEN AND ZZ TOP.

CLASSIC GOLD EXAMPLES—CHUCK BERRY, JERRY LEE
LEWIS, ELVIS, BEACH BOYS, SUPREMES, MARTHA AND THE VANDELLAS, FOUR TOPS, FRANKIE VALLI, BIG BOPPER, RICHIE VALENS, AND BUDDY
HOLLY.

HEAVY METAL EXAMPLES—METALLICA, GUNS-N-ROSES,
AC/DC, KISS, SLAUGHTER, DAMN YANKEES, FAITH NO MORE, THE CULT, MEGADEATH, EXTREME, MOTLEY CRUE, KIX, GREAT WHITE, WHITE
SNAKE, IRON MAIDEN, GIANT, BADLANDS, AND SCORPIONS.

UPPER CONTEMPORARY EXAMPLES—MORRIS DAY, L.L.
KOOL J, PUBLIC ENEMY, VANILLA ICE, DEF CON 4, VICIOUS BEAT POSSE, LUTHER VANDROSS, THE THROW DOWN TWINS, KOOL MOE DEE, Eazy E, SKINNY BOYS, ETTA JAMES, AND MARY DAVIS.

NEW AGE EXAMPLES—PAUL McCANDLESS, WILLIAM
ACKERMAN, SCOTT COSSU, MONTREUX, ENYA, PAUL WINTER CONSORT, MICHAEL HEDGES, NIGHTNOISE, MICHAEL MANRING, AND PHILLIP AABERG.

JAZZ EXAMPLES—WYNTON MARSALIS, MICHAEL HEDGES, MILES DAVIS, ITCHY FINGERS, HERB ALPERT, HIRAM BULLOCK, STANLEY CLARKE, THE HOLLIDAY BROTHERS, B.B. KING, BRANFORD AND JANE HARVEY

COUNTRY EXAMPLES—GEORGE STRAIT, HANK WILLIAMS
JR., ALABAMA, OAKRIDGE BOYS, STADLER BROTHERS, RANDY TRAVIS, GARTH BROOKS, CLINT BLACK, TAMMY WYNETTE, GEORGE JONES, THE JUDDS AND GLENN CAMPBELL.

TOP 40 EXAMPLES—MADONNA, PAULA ABDUL, GEORGE
MICHAEL, WILSON PHILLIPS, M.C. HAMMER, MICHAEL JACKSON, JANET
JACKSON, PHIL COLLINS, TAYLOR DAYNE, NEW KIDS AND WHITNEY HOUSTON.

OTHER

1) Do you have a favorite radio station in Manhattan?

YES NO

If yes which one? (CALL LETTERS) _____

Do you have a second favorite? _____

2) In Manhattan, how many hours a day do you listen to the radio? _____

0 1-2 2-3 3-4 5 or more

3) What hours of the day do you listen to the radio when in
Manhattan? _____

6AM-10AM 10AM-3PM 3PM-7PM 7PM-12AM

12AM-6AM

4) Do you have a favorite radio in your home town?

YES NO

If yes which one? (CALL LETTERS) _____

5) At home, how many hours a day do you listen to the radio?

0 1-2 2-3 3-4 5 or more

6) What hours of the day do you listen to the radio at home?

6AM-10AM 10AM-3PM 3PM-7PM 7PM-12AM

12AM-6AM

8) Do you listen to DB92? YES NO

If yes, what shows do you listen to?

NEW ALBUM ROCK ROCK OF AGES JAM THE BOX

METAL HEAD REGAIE EXTRAVAGANZA JAZZ

CROSS POINT DR. DEMENTO INTO AFRICA

LEFTOVERS

9) In your living group or local residence which would you rather listen to?

RADIO MTV OWN MUSIC

AGE _____

UP TO 18 19 20 21 22 23-24

25-34 35-49 50 AND UP

SEX _____

FEMALE MALE

Check your current status.

HIGH SCHOOL KSU UNDERGRAD KSU GRAD

KSU FACULTY KSU STAFF NON KSU

TO VALIDATE THIS SURVEY WE NEED YOUR PHONE NUMBER AND SIGNATURE.

Signature _____

Phone Number _____

Drop survey off at one of the six locations on campus. Just look for the DB92 Logo:

- Union
- Farrell
- Kedzie 104
- Cardwell
- Derby
- McCain

Or mail to Kedzie 104
care of DB92 survey

McCAIN

Pippi Longstocking
The Children's Theatre Company

Wednesday, November 28, 7 p.m.
Merriment, confusion, and the unexpected rule the day when Pippi moves to a quiet Swedish village to await the return of her pirate father. This rollicking whirlwind of a girl doesn't have to go to school and has no one to tell her when to go to bed. Even Bart Simpson doesn't have it as good. Take your entire family to see the show Artscape called "a delight for children and adults."

Students/Children: $6
General Public: $12
Senior Citizens: $10

For information on the party following the performance, call Jenne Andrews at 776-0749.

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

McCain Auditorium, Kansas State University
For best available seats, call (913) 532-6428 and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA, or come to the box office. Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays. Tickets also on sale (with service charge) at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State Union Bookstore, Manhattan Town Center
Customer Service Desk, and ITR (Fort Riley).

McCain Auditorium is accessible to the physically impaired. Call the box office before performance dates to secure appropriate seating or to arrange for a sign language interpreter.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SPORTS MONDAY

Aussies hold off Lady Cat comeback try

Jenny Whittle of the Australian team takes the ball away from Lady Cats forward Kristie Bahner on a shot attempt. The Lady Cats lost to the Australians Friday night in Bramlage Coliseum.

Team falls behind by 15 points in 1st half before taking lead, eventually losing 60-55

By Russ Ewy
Sports Reporter

The Lady Cats became the seventh victim in as many outings for the Australian Junior National team as K-State lost 60-55 in its opening exhibition game Friday night in Bramlage Coliseum.

Marching through their tour of the United States, the Aussies' experience has proven to be the key in their undefeated record.

"It's our first game, and it's their seventh," K-State coach Susan Yow said. "They're very comfortable in what they're doing, and we're just going out for the first time and trying to feel this thing out. We're just trying to get things adjusted. We feel that we had an opportunity to have won the ballgame and have been the first team to have beaten them."

"We could have been smarter on offense in the second half, and maybe, by being a little more patient, we may have walked out of there with a win by one or two, instead of losing by five."

K-State was able to pick the tempo and run with the Australians late in the first half, when the Lady Cats started to cut into the Aussies' 15-point lead.

Starting with forward Diana Miller's three-point basket with less than seven minutes left to play and ending with point guard Mary Jo Miller's baseline jumper at the buzzer, K-State gained momentum and cut the lead at the half to six, 33-27.

"Overall, I thought we did a good job with our defensive transition, and I thought we did a good job pushing the ball up the court offensively," Yow said. "We got some easy baskets by doing that."

"There were a few times when they were running down the court and I could tell what (Mary Jo Miller and I) could beat them down, so I just took advantage of it," guard Nadira Hazim said. "In practice, we've been working on running the ball a little more this year. Coach thinks we have the quickness for it, and it was there (Friday night)."

Despite gaining the lead for the first time in the game early in the second half, the Lady Cats couldn't maintain the offensive momentum.

"I really thought the thing that hurt us more than anything was our offensive execution in half court," Yow said. "We had worked a lot on that too, but that's the hardest to develop — chemistry, unity and working together. If anything we lacked, that was it."

"There were some times when we should've come down and made a little bit smarter play in the second half. When there was a two-point or four-point margin and we needed a basket, we might have taken a quicker shot than we needed to in that situation."

K-State's brief lead four minutes into the second half slipped to an 11-point deficit midway through the final period. Hazim led the Lady Cats

■ See LOSS, Page 7

Lady Cat Mary Jo Miller gets a little push and shove from Naraile McConnell, front, and Allison Cook of the BP Australian Junior National Team while scrambling for a loose ball. The Lady Cats lost 60-55.

Colorado routs 'Cats

Buffaloes impress Snyder even more following contest

By Scott Paske
Sports Reporter

Last week, K-State coach Bill Snyder did some public relations work for the Colorado Buffaloes.

He labeled them as the NCAA's best. Not Notre Dame, Miami, Georgia Tech or Virginia, but Colorado.

"I don't say those things tongue-in-cheek," Snyder said. "I think they are the best team in college football and might fare rather well in the NFL."

It would be difficult to argue that after the Buffs' performance Saturday.

No. 2 Colorado steamrolled the injury-plagued Wildcats 64-3, ending K-State's season at 5-6, its best since 1982. After the rout, the Buffs, 10-1-1, discovered they would likely move into the nation's top spot after Penn State upset top-ranked Notre Dame 24-21.

Colorado will get a chance to prove it belongs there on New Year's Day in an Orange Bowl rematch with the Fighting Irish. Notre Dame stopped the Buffs in their first meeting 21-6.

"A year ago, they didn't know how to be there," Snyder said. "Now, it's a different story."

Saturday's story will likely leave the 'Cats with recurring nightmares.

Colorado scored on seven of its first eight possessions and raced to a 40-3 halftime lead. Scrambles, passes, reverses, a safety — the Buffs kept the Folsom Field scoreboard rolling all day.

The dagger was driven on Colorado's final offensive play of the half, a 70-yard touchdown run by Mike Pritchard with six seconds remaining.

"I went into this with the complete understanding that this was something that could happen," Snyder said. "I wanted to believe that it would not, but it did."

"We got it all handed to us in a basket," he said.

The basket must have been filled with lead weights, as the Buffs continued the onslaught in the second half. Third-string quarterback Vance Joseph, brother of Nebraska quarterback Mickey Joseph, hit Mark Henry on a 39-yard touchdown pass. Charles Johnson made it 57-3 with 4:35 remaining on a 26-yard reverse.

Meanwhile, Snyder continued his effort to kickstart K-State's offense. On the first play after Johnson's touchdown, 'Cat quarterback Matt Garber's pass was intercepted by Paul Rose.

Colorado's O.C. Oliver completed the destruction with an 8-yard touchdown up the middle.

"Those kind of ball games for us can get out of hand," Snyder said. "Everybody may not approach it the same way, but we make every attempt to close the gap."

"If we sit back and sit on it, the score may be closer. But when we stop trying to put the ball into the end zone, then we've got some trouble."

The effort to keep the outcome respectable resulted in some eye-popping numbers from the Buffs' offense. Colorado had 634 yards of total offense, including 200 passing yards from Darian Hagan. Hagan, who left the game early in the third quarter, completed 7-of-13 attempts, including a 48-yard touchdown to Pritchard in the second quarter.

Hagan got Colorado started on its first possession by scrambling 23 yards to give the Buffs a 7-0 lead.

"He looked like (Brigham Young quarterback) Ty Detmer running around out there," Snyder said.

K-State did have two bright spots in Saturday's loss. Senior tailback Patrick Jackson, with 35 yards, became the first 'Cat ever to gain 1,000 yards in a two-year career. Defensive back Jaime Mendez tied a single-season interception mark by recording his sixth against the Buffs.

"I don't think we quit," Snyder said. "We may have been intimidated in certain areas during the ball game, but never gave up."

"People around the program understand that we've come a long way this season," he said. "But I think this puts it in perspective with regard of how far we still have to go."

Bowl picture now muddled by upsets in college ranks

By The Associated Press

The battle for the national championship may turn into a three-bowl circus on New Year's Day.

The Orange, Cotton or Citrus could produce the No. 1 team on Jan. 1, a fitting ending to one of the most confusing seasons in college football history.

The Orange Bowl's dream of a clear-cut title game between top-ranked Notre Dame and No. 2 Colorado was shattered Saturday when the Irish were upset by No. 18 Penn State 24-21. Colorado, which ended its regular season with a 64-3 rout of K-State, is expected to take over the top spot when the new Associated Press poll is released on Monday.

